SENATE COMBINE ENDED; DATE FOR VOTE NOT FIXED

Democratic and Progressive Republican Coalition Is Broken.

They Come to Parting of Ways Over Income Tax.

Upper House Is Determined to Finish Tariff Work First.

Washington, May 22.—The wood schedule was before the senate today and several addresses were made relating to the duty on lumber. No vote will be taken on any schedule, as several senators desire to be relieved from constant attendance of the sessions of the senate in order to attend to their correspondence.

Although Senator Aldrich gave notice yesterday that he would ask the senate today to fix a day for voting on the tariff bill and all amendments he will not make that request until Monday.

The senate coalition between the Democrats and progressive Republicans has been broken, at least as far as the income tax is concerned, and today it was announced that Senators Bailey and Cummins would offer differing amendments to the proposed measure.

Ability to Say No.

Again today the senate demonstrated its ability to say no and stand by it, by reiterating a determination to do

STEEL MERGER IS UNMOLESTED

Wickersham Tells House He Has Instituted No Action.

Washington May 22.—Responding to a resolution by the house of representatives Attorney General Wickersham has sent a communication to that body, saying that no steps have been taken either by him or by any official of the department of justice under his direction to annul the contract of purchase or acquisition of control of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company by the United States Steel corporation.

SUICIDE NEAR FOSSTON.

Mrs. Gangsted Sends Husband for Minister and Cuts Throat.

Crookston, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Lisa Gangsted committed suicide in a cluster of trees near her home, five miles east of Fosston, by cutting her throat. She is believed to have been temporarily insane. She leaves a husband and five grownup children. Mrs. Gangsted, who was one of the pioneer settlers of the Red River valley, was aged 54. She had sent her husband to Fosston for a minister and ended her life while he was gone.

COAST CITIES MAY SUE FOR LOWER DISTRIBUTION.

Seattle, Wash., May 22.—Unless the Interstate commerce commission modifies its decision in the Spokane rate case, reducing the transcontinental rate to Spokane to that of the seaports suits will be instituted by the chambers of commerce of Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Sacramento, San Francisco, Los Angeles and every other city of importance on the Pacific.

The redress to be asked by the coast cities will be lower distributing rates from seaport towns into the interior, in order to enable the jobbers in the coast to compete successfully with the large interior distributing centers.

BIBLE SOCIETY SEEKS TO EQUAL MRS. SAGE'S GIFT.

Savannah, Ga., May 22.—At the morning session of the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church today Dr. James Orr of Glasgow, Scotland, spoke on "Calvin's Attitude Toward the Exegesis of Scripture."

The assembly has received a communication from Rev. John Fox of the American Bible society, asking for assistance in raising $500,000 needed to insure a gift of an equal amount from Mrs. Russell Sage.

WESTMINSTER REJECTS ASHES OF MEREDITH.

London, May 22.—The Westminster authorities have declined permission to place the ashes of George Meredith in the abbey. An appeal to the dean to this end was strongly supported by the Society of Authors, representing all the leading writers; by Premier Asquith, Lord Morley, Rudyard Kipling and James M. Barrie. The action of the Westminster authorities has caused much disappointment, as it is known that the family of the late novelist had no objections to the placing of his ashes in the abbey, and the question of space was not involved by the depositing of the urn therein.

PASTORS' RELIEF WORK DISCUSSED

DR. JAMES M. BARKLEY, Who Has Been Elected Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly.

Denver, Colo., May 22.—The report of the committee on ministerial relief, as well as that of the Presbyterian Brotherhood, took the attention of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church this morning. The former report, embracing the work of relief for ministers whose salaries have not been sufficient to provide for their old age, provoked a general debate. A long report has been prepared by the committee representing the Presbyterian Brotherhood and this, too, aroused much interest.

POSTOFFICE SAFE BLOWN

Two-Story Brick Building in North St. Paul Damaged.

St. Paul, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Burglars blew the safe in the North St. Paul postoffice early this morning and secured about $200 in cash and stamps.

The safe was blown to pieces and the two-story brick building was badly damaged by the explosion. It is the second time the office has been robbed within a year.

G. W. Bradway and A. L. Hansen, who live in the same block, were awakened by the explosion and ran to the scene of the robbery just as three men disappeared a block away.

Bradway and Hansen gave chase and in the outskirts of the town opened fire upon the fleeing robbers. The shots were returned and the robbers disappeared in the woods.

C. B. Boody, postmaster, says he is unable, without checking up his accounts, to say how much the robbers got, but it is believed there was close to $200 taken. There is no trace of the robbers.

ADMITS GUILT AND IMPLICATES

Suspended County Attorney Makes Confession of Grafting.

Shawnee, Okla., May 22.—Confessing his guilt and implicating others in a charge of grafting in the protection of bootleggers, and joint keepers, Virgil Biggers, recently suspended as county attorney of this county, now testifies in a bribery case in which William Maben, district judge, is defendant.

Biggers declares that Judge Maben himself, and others met the bootleggers in conference, agreed upon terms and later accepted money brought to them by County Commissioner Robert Hagar.

MRS. STANG OF DULUTH IS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT.

Peoria, Ill., May 22.—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Switchmen's Union of North America, yesterday afternoon unanimously re-elected Mrs. Barbara Stang of Duluth, Minn., as president. Mrs. Mary Stewart of Cleveland was elected first president to succeed Mrs. Parizade Weeden, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mrs. Henrietta Clark of Kansas City, second vice president; Mrs. Bayos of Salt Lake City, third vice president; Senator T. Jackson, secretary and treasurer.

TAKE GEMS FROM MAIL

Jewelry Sent From Minneapolis Mysteriously Missing.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A package, containing jewelry, sent by the Johnson Jewelry company, Minneapolis, to R. H. Knudvig, Reynolds, N. D., was mysteriously rifled in the mails.

The stamps on the package were cancelled in the Minneapolis postoffice, but before it left the building it was noticed that one end of the package had been torn out and that it was empty.

The case has been given to detectives and a thorough investigation will be made.

APPEAL IS MADE TO GOVERNOR

Trains Are Stoned By Strikers or Their Sympathizers.

Augusta, Ga., May 22.—Following the receipt of a telegram from Assistant Grand Chief Burgess of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers early today, advising him that the trains of the Georgia railroad were being stoned either by the striking firemen or their sympathizers, and the lives of the engineers jeopardized, General Manager Scott appealed to Governor Smith to take vigorous measures to protect the engineers.

NEGRO BURGLAR STILL AT LARGE

All Efforts to Find Him in Pen Confines Fail.

Columbus, Ohio, May 22.—The hunt for Harvey Johnson, the desperate negro burglar, who escaped from his guard Wednesday night and is at large in the Ohio penitentiary, continues. Johnson was seen twice at midnight running through the yards and was shot at, but escaped in the dark. Warden Jones said today that he will purchase bloodhounds to be kept in the prison for such emergencies. Search for the man continues in every nook and corner, guards being sent even to the top of the stand pipe, 160 fet, in the hope of finding him.

GO IN RAIN TO FUNERAL

Entire Town Draped in Black—Flags at Half Mast.

Fairhaven, Mass., May 22.—Fairhaven, the birthplace of Henry H. Rogers, today paid final tribute to the memory of the financier. All day business was suspended. Drapings of black hung from the public buildings, most of which were presented to Fairhaven by Mr. Rogers, and throughout the town flags were at half mast.

The funeral party arrived on a special train from New York last night and the body of the capitalist was taken to his summer home at Fort Phoenix. This forenoon it was carried to the Unitarian Memorial church, which was built by Mr. Rogers several years ago as a tribute of affection for his mother. In this imposing Gothic edifice the casket was placed before the altar and was attended by a guard composed of members of two Masonic lodges—George H. Tabor lodge of Fair-

STABS YOUNG WOMAN TWENTY-FOUR TIMES

CORNELIUS J. SHEA.

New York, May 22.—Alice Walsh, a young woman formerly of Chicago, who was stabbed twenty-four times last night in a quarrel with Cornelius J. Shea, former president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, will probably recover. Shea, who was found in the apartments in West Thirteenth street where the quarrel took place, is under arrest, awaiting the result of the young woman's injuries.

FAR OVER PREDICTION

May Wheat Exceeds Patten's Prophecy By Seven Cents.

Option Rises Again; Only Six More Days to Deliver.

Chicago, May 22.—With only six more days in which to deliver wheat on May contracts that option early in the session on the board of trade today rose in price to $1.32¾.

This marks an advance of 1¼c since the close yesterday, and is more than 7 cents over the most sanguine prediction made by James A. Patten, the bull leader, two months ago, when the bull campaign was in full swing.

July also advanced a cent.

BLEACHED FLOUR SEEMS A LOSER

Government Likely to Win in Case Against Wilson.

Washington, May 22.—By action of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia, in the case of the Alsop Process Company of St. Louis against Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, in which the flour company seeks to have the secretary recede from his determination to prosecute manufacturers of bleached flour, a decision favorable to the government is foreshadowed.

The court apparently took the position that the Alsop Process company had not been injured by the secretary's action, which was not directed against the machinery.

One of the justices intimated to the attorney for the Alsop company that such a proceeding should have been instituted by a miller against whom the order was directed and who might come under the ban of prosecution.

INSANE WHEN HE SLEW, BUT FULLY SANE NOW.

St. Louis, Mo., May 22.—William Strothman, who shot and killed his wife Sept. 2, was freed today by a jury. His defense was insanity, which was upheld by the jury, the members deciding also that Strothman is again "fully sane."

WOMEN FORCE BRITISH PREMIER TO SIDE EXIT.

Sheffield, Eng., May 22.—A political meeting being addressed last night by Premier Asquith was stormed by suffragists. The women failed to effect an entrance to the hall and several were injured in encounters with the police. Asquith was obliged to make his exit through a side door.

CLEANING DAYS.

Mrs. Kleanyard: "You are doing fine, but don't stop because the official cleaning days are past."

NEW DOCKS WILL MAKE LAKE PORT OF KNIFE RIVER

Logging Road Extended Ten Miles Nearer Canadian Northern.

Many Improvements Are Made By Duluth & Northern Minnesota.

The Duluth & Northern Minnesota Railway company, which operates a line of road from Knife River in a northerly and easterly direction into the heart of the Minnesota pineries, has planned and is carrying on some extensive improvements in and about its southern terminus at Knife River.

These improvements, which include the erection of a large concrete dock, the building of a trestle stockpile with capacity for 30,000 tons of coal, the laying of numerous spur tracks and the locating of a cedar and pulpwood yard accessible both for steam and water shipments, are estimated to cost about $75,000, but will probably exceed that sum before the work is finished.

The dock is to be built of concrete, re-enforced with steel above the water, and supported on timber cribs below the surface. The contract for the cribs is being filled as rapidly as possible by the Barnett & Record company of this city, and this part of the construction material will be towed to Knife River when ready.

The lake bed at Knife River is of solid stone and the supporting substructure is being built with reference to the special location it will occupy beneath the water. The dock will extend 500 feet into the lake, and is to be forty-six feet in width, with concrete trestle approaches from the

PRINCE ITO.

Tokio, May 22.—While the resignation of Prince Ito as Japanese resident general in Korea has not been recorded as yet, there is no doubt that it will be placed before the emperor within a short time. The appointment of Viscount Sone, present vice resident general, to succeed Prince Ito is equally certain.

It is understood that while some changes in the method of administering Korean affairs have been agreed upon, the general policy will be that followed by Prince Ito for the last two years.

Viscount Sone will be given probably less of a free hand in Korea than was allowed his predecessor. Prince Yamagata, president of the privy council, and the premier, Marquis Katsura, will dictate to Viscount Sone the course he shall pursue.

ESCAPE IN BULLET RAIN

Minneapolis, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. M. Joy, alias Henry Jay, and Roy Bower, prisoners at the Minneapolis workhouse, made a sensational escape from their guards late yesterday.

The two men broke away from a gang of twenty prisoners and scaled the banks of a high clay pit under heavy fire. It is not known if they were hit. Fully forty shots were fired at the fleeing men.

They have not yet been captured. Both men were in the workhouse on larceny charges.

FRENCH STRIKE DIES BY DEGREES

Sailors, Stokers and the Stewards Now Leave Their Jobs.

Paris, May 22.—Notwithstanding the decision the general federation of labor reached yesterday to call off the strike, the sailors, stokers and stewards of the merchant marine have gone out at Marseilles, Toulon and Havre and the movement is likely to extend to other French ports. The grievance of these men are of long standing and have in the past resulted in a number of partial strikes. They include the non-application to them of the weekly day of rest law; equalization of salaries on passenger and freight boats and objection to being paid off when a ship has been out of commission less than a month.

PROCLAMATION OPENS MANY ACRES OF LAND.

Washington, May 22.—President Taft today issued a proclamation providing for the opening up to settlement and entry of about 400,000 acres of land in the Flathead, Mont; 200,000 in the Couer d'Alene, Idaho, and between 50,000 and 100,000 in the Spokane, Wash., reservations.

ROOSEVELT'S HUNTING LUCK CONTINUES GOOD.

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 22.—The Roosevelt expedition is still hunting buffaloes on the Nairobi river and today Mr. Roosevelt and his son, Kermit, succeeded in bringing down their third animal of this kind. The bull buffalo, wounded by the hunters yesterday, fled into the marshes, where he was found and finished off.

DREW SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS

Former Bank President Must Do Time in Stillwater.

St. Paul, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. Z. Drew, former president of the defunct Bank of Hamblino, a state bank, was sentenced to a term of two years in Stillwater today. Stay of sentence was granted pending an appeal to the supreme court. Drew was released on $8,000 bail.

Mr. Drew was convicted of receiving deposits in an insolvent bank.

HALF A CENTURY FIRE SPREADING

Tamaqua, Pa., May 22.—Notwithstanding that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent to extinguish the fire burning for fifty years in the Lehigh Coal & Navigation company's mine at Summit Hill, flames today spread toward the spring tunnel workings. Thirty carpenters and masons are being sent to erect concrete walls to stop the conflagration. Great quantities of sulphur abound in the sunken shafts, and it may be necessary to fill the shafts with water.

PLAGIARISM CHARGED IN ORATORICAL CONTEST.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 22.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Appleton, Wis., says: Ignatius McNamee of Notre Dame university and J. Fergus Orr of Park college, Mo., were ruled out of the interstate oratorical contest here on the ground of plagiarism, announcement of this being made today, after a stormy session of the officers and delegates of the Interstate Oratorical association. It was through this elimination that it became possible for the representative of Beloit college to enter the contest. The association officers this morning decided to hold a pre-elimination contest hereafter to reduce the number of speakers at the final contest to three or four, instead of seven.

COMMITS SUICIDE AT THE AGE OF 99.

Dearborn, Mich., May 22.—Uncle Billy Gray, 99 years old and patriarch of this section, decided last night there was nothing left to live for. Mixing paris green in a tin dipper at his well and drinking the portion, the aged man calmly laid down to die. His 80-year-old wife discovered him and called a physician, who vainly endeavored to save Uncle Billy's life. The widow, who has no living relatives, says she does not know what will become of her now, although she is in comfortable financial circumstances.

MARINE NEWS

THE TWO SIDES OF THE TROUBLE ON THE LAKES

Livingstone Makes First Public Statement of Any Length.

Outlines Position of Members of Lake Carriers' Association.

Though President William Livingstone of the Lake Carriers' association has consistently declined to take any part in the deliberations of the interstate board of arbitration, which has been in session in Detroit since last Tuesday, he has taken occasion to write a letter in which the association side of the strike situation is set forth.

The letter, which was addressed to Secretary Doyle, is the first public utterance of any length that Mr. Livingstone has made since the strike began. The arbitration board appointed a committee to call upon Mr. Livingstone and the letter, which is in answer to a request from that committee for a statement, is as follows:

"Referring to our interview this morning with Mr. Woerner, Mr. Klump and yourself, as committee from the board of arbitration, and in compliance with your request, I briefly state the points presented by me during the interview.

"First, the sole entire question at issue at the present time so far as the Lake Carriers' association is concerned is the 'open shop' principle. That being a fundamental principle, is not subject to arbitration. If you ask a labor leader, for instance, to arbitrate the question as to whether he had a right to join a union or not, you can readily imagine what his reply would be. Might as well ask a man to arbitrate the question whether he should be a Protestant, a Catholic or an agnostic; whether he should be a Republican or Democrat, a protective tariff man or a free trader.

As to Signing Contracts.

"Second, the question raised by one of your members as to having men sign a contract not to join a union is absolutely incorrect. We do not ask our men to sign a contract not to join a union. We concede the right of any man to join a union if he so desires. On the other hand, the man who does not want to join has the same right to refuse. I furnished you with a copy of engineers' contract which explains itself, in which there is no reference to whether a man is a union man or a non-union man.

Third, the question raised about the welfare plan. This has been attacked very bitterly by the seamen's and other unions, claiming there were ulterior motives behind it, and to quote some of the language used, 'It would make serfs and slaves of the men who joined it.' In reply to this would say that it was gotten up with the very best motives, with the firm belief and conviction that it was in the interest and benefit of the men employed to join it. It does not cost a single penny to become a member of this. In this connection, the statement has been spread broadcast that men cannot get employment on association boats unless they become members. This is absolutely untrue. We invite men to join and are glad to have them. It is because we believed it to be for their personal interests to do so, but it is entirely voluntary on their part as to whether they do so or not. It is not obligatory nor compulsory—is left entirely to the employes' own volition. We have many men employed who are not members.

The Welfare Plan.

"I have furnished you with a printed copy of the welfare plan, giving all the details connected with it. The question has been raised that a man joining this plan in case of accident by which the boat might be at fault and he would be entitled to recover damages, that it would interfere with his doing so. This is another fallacy, as the provision is expressly made that this is without reference to cause or any bearing or effect on legal claim or liability concerning the same.

"Fourth, the charge has been specifically made that we were tying up the commerce of the Great Lakes. This is also incorrect. All freight offered is not only promptly taken, but more than welcome, as unfortunately the present condition of the freight market is such that it is impossible to find freight to load anywhere near the capacity of tonnage offered. As a matter of fact, if there was not a single cloud in the labor horizon it would be impossible for us, under existing freight conditions, to load over 60 per cent of our tonnage capacity, and I believe 50 per cent would be nearer the mark.

"Fifth, wages. There is no dispute over the wage question. We are paying the highest maximum wages ever paid on the lakes in most prosperous times, and as an instance of our good faith on the wage question, notwithstanding the fact that last year was conceded to be the worst business year in the history of lake navigation, and notwithstanding the fact that we suffered a large reduction in the rate of freight, and the additional fact that many of our boats lay idle at the docks the entire season for lack of freight, and many who went into commission were compelled to go in ordinary again, we did not reduce the wages of any of our employes one single penny, and there has been no reduction this year, nor will there be any. And freight conditions are no better at the present time than they were a year ago at this time. I furnished you with a wage card which gives the wages paid all employes.

"Sixth, relative to strike conditions. We have no strike. Our employes are all at work and satisfied with all their conditions. Any difficulties existing are caused by the threats, intimidations and personal violence of what I believe to be the ill-advised, hot-headed actions of those who are unwilling to work on the 'open shop' plan and try to prevent those who are willing to work on that basis from so doing.

"In conclusion allow me to say that our not meeting you in compliance with your request this morning, and our unwillingness to submit the questions involved to mediation or arbitration, was and is not due to any discourtesy to the gentlemen comprising your board, but based solely and entirely on the reason already given, that the principle of 'open shop' could not be arbitrated or mediated."

Marshalltown, Iowa, May 22.—James Montague of Belmond and an insurance man named Peckham of Des Moines were drowned while fishing in Twin lakes last night.

FREIGHTERS IN COLLISION

Troy Slightly Damaged; the Hill Proceeds on Her Way.

A collision occurred in the channel near the Capital elevator about 6 o'clock last evening between the Pittsburg Steamship company's ore freighter James J. Hill and the steamer Troy of the Western Transit line, which resulted in damages to the latter vessel, the extent of which have not yet been ascertained.

The Troy was leaving the Capital elevator intending to swing around into the Elevator H slip. The Hill was coming down channel heavily loaded, and the captain of the Troy noticed another vessel in tow coming up. In order to clear both, he steered the Troy straight across and stopped with the Troy's stern clear of the channel to permit the Hill to pass.

There was a distance of about 100 feet between the two vessels when the wheelman of the Hill suddenly made a port turning that swung the big vessel's stern in the direction of the Troy. The Hill struck amidships on the Troy's starboard side.

Another version of the accident is that the Troy after crossing the channel and coming to a stop, commenced to back before the Hill had time to pass, a collision being the result.

The heavy steel plates of the Troy were bent in, the stanchion railing torn loose, and the deck at the stern raised about four inches. The full extent of the damage will be learned after a survey, which will be made this afternoon. From the position of the vessels at the time of the accident it is considered remarkable that neither the propeller wheel nor the rudder of the Troy were injured.

No opinions are ventured by the agents of either vessel as to the causes of the accident. The Hill proceeded on her down lake trip without stopping further than to learn that the Troy was in no need of assistance. The Troy will leave with her usual consignment of package freight for Buffalo tonight. The accident will not result in delaying her sailing time, unless the damage is more serious than is at present supposed.

CHARGES AGAINST THE ENGINEER

Claimed He Was Responsible for Explosion on Hoyt.

Charges have been preferred against John Duggan, who was engineer on the Wolvin steamer James H. Hoyt when her starboard boiler exploded off Fairport last Saturday.

Duggan will have his hearing today before Capt. James Stone, supervising inspector of steamboats at Cleveland. He is charged with negligence in allowing the water to get too low in the boiler, in violation of section 4441 of the Revised Statutes.

Duggan, who was a union man until he signed on a Lake Carriers' vessel, was a salt water engineer until recently. Of the three Italian seamen who were killed on the Hoyt, one was a member of the Lake Carriers' welfare plan. It will take about two weeks to repair the Hoyt.

BONDS OF ARMOUR & CO. PURCHASED IN NEW YORK

New York, May 22.—A purchase by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the National City bank of $30,000,000 of bonds of Armour & Co., of Chicago was announced today. This is part of an issue of $50,000,000. The bonds are to run thirty years at 4½ per cent interest and are secured by a first mortgage on the real estate and plant of the Armour & Co. and subordinate plants.

It is understood the bonds will be used in paying off the company's floating debt.

ANTI-TREATING SALOON IS ADVERTISING SCHEME.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 22.—The much heralded anti-treating saloon of Des Moines, which was to open today is nothing more or less than an advertised scheme based on a well known saloon keeper's attempt at publicity, and a number of willing newspaper men. The saloon opens tonight and the anti-treating feature will not be strictly observed by the proprietor or the barKeepers.

ARE EARNING POCKET MONEY

The baseball season being near at hand, there isn't a boy in Duluth but wants pocket money in order that he may see the White Sox perform.

Yesterday prizes for letters and pictures of cows were well scattered over the city, and one boy over in Superior got into the game and won a prize.

The best letter about Borden's Peerless Evaporated Milk was won by Miss Peterson of 327 South Fifty-ninth avenue west and the prize of $3 in cash will go to her. The second prize of $2 was won by Robert Scharpe of 1514 Baxter avenue, Superior.

The two prizes for the best pictures of cows were won by boys. The best cow was drawn by Clifford Leary of 429 Sixtieth avenue west, who thereby won $2, and the second prize of $1 went to William Hoskins of 306 Sixth avenue west.

Any boy or girl may be in the contest every day if they like. For the young people between the ages of 12 and 21 years there is the letter contest. Write a letter about Borden's Peerless Milk and mail it with a label from the can of the milk and a coupon from The Herald to the Contest Editor of The Herald.

For the children under 12 years, draw a picture of a cow, and with a label from the can of milk and the coupon from The Herald mail it to the Contest Editor, and maybe the next day your name will be in the paper as one of the winners.

Care of Caged Birds.

Never let a bird cage hang in a room where gas is alight, unless it is exceptionally well ventilated. The air near the ceiling is always the most impure at night. Make a rule of always setting Dickey's cage on the floor at night, and his health will improve, and you will enjoy the society of your feathered pet for many years. You should always know that a person can obtain good health by the use of a malt tonic, such as Golden Grain Belt beer. Serve a glass with each meal. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company.

GAME WARDEN INJURED.

Cut Deep Gash in Foot While Setting Wolf Trap.

Negaunee, Mich., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Game Warden E. C. Haywood, who is widely known throughout the upper peninsula and Northern Wisconsin, met with a serious accident while setting traps near Lathrop, on the line of the North-Western road, Thursday. He was setting a wolf trap, and in cutting down a sapling for a drag, the ax slipped, cutting a deep gash in his foot. The wound bled profusely and he lost a great deal of blood, but he managed to drag himself through the woods to the track, where a passing train picked him up, bringing him to this city. He was taken to the Negaunee hospital, where he is being cared for.

City Settles Suit.

Lidgerwood, N. D., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The suit which was recently filed against the city of Lidgerwood by Henry Hurke for the sum of $2,500, has been settled out of court, the city council agreeing to pay Hurke the sum of $500 with costs. The plaintiff claimed damages on account of his land being overflowed by the city's well.

SCHREIBER AN ENIGMA

Did Not Seem Interested in the Funeral Arrangements.

When informed last night that his little baby had died, William Schreiber, convicted during the March term of district court of the murder of Frank Massapust, showed no visible emotion.

He shrugged his shoulders, nodded that he understood and continued his walk about the corridors of the county jail, where he is confined awaiting the action of the court on his appeal for a new trial, which will be made by his attorneys, Ross & McKnight, early next week.

This morning Schreiber was informed that the little one would be buried this afternoon from the undertaking rooms of Durkan and Crawford. As before, he showed no emotion. He seemed not in the least interested, and there was no quiver in his voice as he continued his walk about the hall exchanging an occasional remark with the other prisoners.

Either he is not able to understand or fully realize what all these misfortunes mean to him, or he has a most remarkable ability to conceal his feelings.

His face always bears the same expression. He greets everybody alike, whether it is his wife, child, or a stranger. He appears to be interested in nothing.

He will answer any question that is put to him, but he does not invite friends, nor does he turn them away. He seems to have no fear of anything that could befall him, and his keepers say that should he be sentenced to hang, he would undoubtedly walk to the gallows with a smile, and his step and voice would be as firm as though he were going to dinner.

He is either constantly on his guard or else he cares little about conversing. He asks no favors from the jailers, never asks for anything he knows he cannot have, and seems entirely satisfied with himself and his position.

He is, to say the least, the queerest prisoner ever confined within the walls of the county jail.

THE WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT

State Labor Commissioner Completes Organization of New Force.

State Labor Commissioner McEwen has announced the personnel of the women's department of the state department of labor, authorized by the legislature at the last session. Mrs. Perry Starkweather of Minneapolis heads the section and Mrs. L. A. Rosing will be special inspector. The factory inspectors are Miss Nan Dunnigan of St. Paul, Miss Louise Klapp of Minneapolis and Miss Jean Poirier of Duluth. Miss Mildred Barnard will be in charge of the child labor branch.

SUIT IS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Paulson Gets Nothing; His Attorney Wants His Fee.

The suit of John Paulson against M. Cook of the Union Clothing house for $15,000 has been settled out of court. Cook says that Paulson got not one cent.

It was arranged, however, without the consent of Alexander Marshall, attorney for Mr. Paulson, and he now threatens to sue Mr. Cook for an attorney's lien of $1,500.

Paulson left a good business in some country town to work for Mr. Cook with the understanding that in three years he should be given a $15,000 interest in the concern if he should have built up the business to a per cent agreed upon. In his complaint Paulson says that he filled his part of the contract, but that Cook backed out.

He then brought suit. Alexander Marshall was retained as his attorney.

He settled yesterday. Mr. Cook says he got nothing. He is still working for Mr. Cook.

Mr. Marshall wants his fee.

NEGRO AND WHITE DO NOT HAVE SAME HUMILIATION.

New York, May 22.—A negro and a white man do not suffer equal humiliation in the eyes of the law for false arrest, according to the appellate division of the supreme court, which has sustained an order of Justice Dugro of the supreme court reducing the amount of damages awarded George Griffin, a Pullman porter, from $2,500 to $300. The negro was arrested in Montreal charged with stealing a pocketbook, but the charge was not substantiated and he was released. He brought suit against Daniel H. Brady, a New York manufacturer, who caused his arrest. In his order Justice Dugro says:

"While in some senses the negro under the law is just as good a man as the president of the United States, it would be a bad argument to say that he is just as good in some respects. The damages in a case of this kind depend upon a man's standing and circumstances. If he is colored, that fact should be considered."

BAD EGGS PUT MEN IN JAIL FOR TWO MONTHS.

New York, May 22.—Two men have been sentenced to sixty days' imprisonment, one for selling bad eggs, the other for using them in making pastry.

CREDIT MAN UNDER ARREST.

A. J. Noble of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Said to Have Embezzled $2,000.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, May 22.—A. J. Noble, confidential credit man of the T. M. Sinclair company for many years, was arrested yesterday on a charge of embezzlement. He is said to be $2,000 short.

Edward J. Rogers, cashier at the Milwaukee freight office for fifteen years, voluntarily surrendered his keys yesterday and admitted that he was short. The estimates of the shortage vary from $500 to $2,000. He has not yet been arrested.

MISSOURI INSURANCE LAW IS SUSTAINED.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 22.—The Missouri supreme court today sustained the state law, which denied licenses to insurance companies, which pay any of their officers salaries in excess of $50,000 a year. The act was passed two years ago and has been the subject of extended litigation.

COUNTY SEAT FIGHT ARGUED BEFORE JUDGE.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney George A. Bangs arrived home Friday from Dickinson, N. D., where he appeared before Judge Crawford of the district court, arguing for a permanent injunction against the county commissioners of McKenzie county to restrain them from carrying out a resolution ordering the county officials to remove from Shafer to Alexander. Shafer claims to be the legally selected county seat and the people of that place resent the action of the commissioners in ordering a removal. Judge Crawford announced he reserved his decision.

Puddlers' Wages Raised.

Pottstown, Pa., May 22.—Puddlers at the Glasgow iron company's mills here will on Monday get a wage increase of 50 cents a ton. This offsets part of a cut of $1.50 which went into effect March 1.

NEGLECT OF DISEASE

Causes More Deaths Annually Than All Other Causes Combined.

Recent statistics show that more deaths are caused every year by sheer ignorance than by the failure of medical science to find a cure. There are very few diseases nowadays that some cure has not been found to overcome if applied intelligently and in time, but the trouble is that most people do not consult a doctor about their "little ailments" until they have passed far beyond the stage of being inconsequential and have become, if not hopeless, at least sufficient to impair the health of the patient permanently. Men who are suffering from any form of disease should not delay an instant in laying the case before the PROGRESSIVE MEDICAL EXPERTS. Thousands of such cases are laid before them every year and none leave their offices without experiencing relief.

They specialize in this line and have devoted their whole lives to obtaining every possible scrap of knowledge on the subject which might in any way further their cures. A cure is guaranteed if they assume the case. It will be worth your while to come up to their offices at No. 1 West Superior street, Duluth, and lay your case before them, even though other doctors have pronounced it hopeless. A large number of the cases they treated during the past year were pronounced hopeless by others before coming to them and were completely cured. If you wish to see the way in which the fame of these scientists has spread beyond the confines not only of the city in which their offices are, but of the state, you should call at the Institute and see the addresses of some of the patients who have come, in some cases, hundreds of miles to leave the PROGRESSIVE MEDICAL INSTITUTE CURED. You would find cases of men from Bergland, Mich.; Cloquet; Calumet, Mich.; Ballard, Wash.; Chicago, Bemidji and Aurelia, Iowa, with tumors and festering cancers, gallstones and ulcered legs, or crippled from rheumatism. These are people who bear the mark of pain and suffering of long standing—people who have sought a cure for years without success, to find it at last in the office on West Superior street, which has taken in so many hopeless wrecks of humanity, to turn them out virile and strong once more, able to play their part in the grim game of life and to fulfill their duties as citizens of this great Republic.

Nothing has a more depressing effect on the system than the slow insidious progress of some deadly disease. It saps the vitality from a man and robs life of all its brightness. Such are the men who are continually finding new health and brightened prospects at the hands of the Specialists. We cannot sufficiently impress upon you the need of haste in dealing with these diseases; delay even for a few weeks may increase the time required for a cure, to say nothing of the additional expense, pain and suffering.

If you detect the slightest signs of any form of disease in yourself, do not delay an instant, but come at once to the PROGRESSIVE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, NO. 1 WEST SUPERIOR STREET, DULUTH, and have your case examined. The cure will be guaranteed.

ONE IN THREE.

Every Third Person Poisoned By Coffee.

It is difficult to make people believe that coffee is an absolute poison to at least one person out of every three, but people are slowly finding it out, although thousands of them suffer terribly before they discover the fact. A New York hotel man says:

"Each time after drinking coffee I became restless, nervous and excited, so that I was unable to sit five minutes in one place, was also inclined to vomit and suffered from loss of sleep, which got worse and worse.

"A lady said that perhaps coffee was the cause of my trouble, and suggested that I try Postum. I laughed at the thought that coffee hurt me, but she insisted so hard that I finally had some Postum made. I have been using it in place of coffee ever since, for I noticed that all my former nervousness and irritation disappeared. I began to sleep perfectly, and the Postum tasted as good or better than the old coffee, so what was the use of sticking to a beverage that was ruining me?

"One day on an excursion up the country I remarked to a young lady friend on her greatly improved appearance. She explained that sometime before she had quit using coffee and taken Postum.

"She had gained a number of pounds and her former palpitation of the heart, humming in the ears, trembling of the hands and legs and other disagreeable feelings had disappeared.

"She recommended me to quit coffee and take Postum and was very much surprised to find that I had already made the change.

"She said her brother had also received great benefits from leaving off coffee and taking on Postum." "There's a Reason."

GRAPHOPHONE HITCHED TO TELEPHONE BY GRAFTERS TO FOIL FRISCO PROBERS

San Francisco, Cal., May 22.—Patrick Calhoun's trial on a bribery charge ended the most important week of its five months' session last night. Rudolph Spreckels, who financed the prosecution, and Detective John Helms alternated as witnesses yesterday, and it was evident that a crisis in the case had been reached. Interest was sustained until a late hour in the afternoon, when Assistant District Attorney Heney, ignoring two restraining orders issued by a court of similar jurisdiction, announced that he would ask Judge Lawlor's permission to open sealed packages seized in the raid upon the offices of William M. Abbott, general counsel for the United railroads, and alleged to contain documents stolen from the offices of William J. Burns, head of the prosecution's corps of special detectives.

Arguments on this issue were deferred until Monday. One of the lines of probable inquiry was indicated when Helms, after testifying that he knew Luther Brown, former partner of Earl Rogers, said:

"Abbott and Brown met me at the steamer landing on the day I left the city after quitting the services of the United railroads. Abbott asked me what I knew about the dynamiting."

"What dynamiting?"

"The dynamiting of Gallagher's home," said Helms, referring to the blowing up in Oakland last spring of the home of Former Supervisor James L. Gallagher.

Helms declared several offers had been made to prevent his appearance as a witness in the Calhoun trial. Since his arrival in this city, he declared, a plot had been laid in the office of W. H. Metzon, a prominent attorney to trap him in a conversation over the telephone. The testimony followed an outburst by Mr. Rogers, who asked the witness if he knew that a graphophone had been attached to the telephone while he was speaking from the other end of the line.

A dramatic outburst occurred when Helms charged that Abbott had once expressed to him a wish that "Some one would shoot Heney," and that Stanley Moore had congratulated him on his performance in following Burns.

Stanley Moore arose in his place at the counsel table and, in a voice trembling with anger, told Helms he was "Lying like a dog" and perjuring himself. Helms leaped to his feet and defied the attorney to make good his charge.

Charles W. Cobb, law partner of Heney, credited with receiving $10,000 from Rudolph Spreckels for services in the prosecution, was the third witness. He said he knew Heney had thrown up his representation of the government in the Hyde-Benson land fraud cases and the Binger Hermann case, and that he had refused President Roosevelt's offer to direct the prosecution of Senator Borah of Idaho. Mr. Cobb affirmed that Heney had lost his law practice since entering upon his duties as municipal prosecutor.

MIKE BUTORAC BIT ON OLD GAME

He Is Now Mourning the Loss of His Pocketbook.

Mike Butorac of 532 West First street complained to the police last night that he had been robbed by the old trick of dropping the pocketbook. This is the second theft of the kind within a few weeks.

Butorac made the acquaintance of a man at the Union depot, and walked up the street with him. A man walking in front dropped a pocketbook, and Butorac picked it up, and then slipped it in his pocket when urged to do so by the new-found friend.

At this front the man in front turned around, accused him of stealing the money, and insisted on searching his pockets, almost before the surprised Butorac had a chance to offer any objections. When the latter realized what had occurred, the two men were gone, and with them went his own pocketbook.

THE WEEK AT THE NORMAL

Students Are Busy With Examinations—Prof. Quigley Speaks.

The students listened to one of the best chapel talks of the year at the Duluth normal school, last Monday, when Prof. Quigley, head of the psychological department at the Moorhead normal, addressed them during the chapel exercises. Prof. Quigley took for the subject of his talk "The Cycle of Teaching," and all of the students, but especially the seniors, received valuable information which will be of great benefit to them and their pupils when they are teaching.

The Greysolon Literary society held the last meeting of the year yesterday afternoon in the assembly hall. This society, which, with the Thalian society, was organized at Christmas time, has made favorable progress. Although the membership has been limited, it has in a way served as a benefit, thus including only the students who felt a real interest in this work. Besides the debating, which was one of the important features of the work, much was accomplished in readings, biographical sketches of noted authors and poets, book reviews, drama and music.

This applies, too, to the Thalian society which was organized at the same time, and each society acted as a stimulus rather than a rival of the other. The work of the members of the Thalian society has been excellent in every way. The last meeting will be held next Friday afternoon.

Piano solo .....
Eva Le Morgnan.
Recitation—"Imph-in" .....
Gladys Goldsmith.
Book review—"The Servant in the House" .....
Pearl Elevitch.
Recitation—"I Want to Go Tomorrow" .....
Anne McLaughlin.

The week has been one of examinations in what may be called special studies. Dr. Kline gave his classes in writing an examination, and a large number were graduated from the class. The classes in domestic science had their final examinations this week, too.

The examination which caused the most excitement, however, was that in spelling. Every student in the school was examined on Thursday on a list of 500 words, which was published in the November bulletin of the school. The requirements were that each of the 500 words dictated from the list should be spelled correctly. Another opportunity will be given before the end of the year to all those who failed to meet the test this time.

The cotillion at which the faculty will entertain the students of the school will be given this evening. The students have been looking forward to the affair all week with pleasurable anticipation and there is no doubt but that their expectations will be fulfilled from the preparations which have been going on for the last few weeks. The party will be a rose party and the faculty members have been busy making hundreds of roses and garlands with which to decorate. Miss Quilliard and Miss Van Stone have been drilling some of the girls for special numbers for the evening.

Miss Ethel Eckert of Washburn hall was called to her home in Iowa, during the week, by the serious illness of her father.

Miss Fay Cook of Washburn hall went to her home in Cloquet last evening.

The senior class met "en masse" Tuesday evening of this week at the school for the purpose of arranging their program for class day. This meeting resulted in the best turn out the class has ever had, so many plans were discussed and the business was satisfactorily transacted.

An invitation was issued by the members of the Alumnae association of the Duluth normal school to the seniors of the school for a banquet to be given at Washburn hall, June 5. This alumnae banquet has become one of the features of graduating week at the school, as has also the reception for the seniors at Mr. Washburn's home.

SLEEPING SICKNESS WIPING OUT ENTIRE CONGO COMMUNITIES

Boston, May 22.—As the result of the report made by two English missionaries, who made a tour of inspection through the Congo region, the Congo Reform association will make representation to Secretary Knox that reforms demanded by the United States and Great Britain have not been put into operation in the Congo. The missionaries are Stephen Gilchrist and Charles P. Field of the Congo Baloio mission, an English station. The region through which they traveled is not farmed out to concessionary companies, but is controlled by the states. In their report they said:

"The nightmare which haunted these people was state-appointed chiefs. They were like little kings, and to their greed and extortion there seemed no limits.

"The Riverine populations are practically extinct from the sleeping scourge and many interior peoples are becoming infected by being brought into contact with the rivers in fishing and collecting rubber. Both the fish and the rubber tax should be stopped, and the natives should be encouraged to move away from the banks."

GARY IN LEAGUE, ANTI-TAMMANY

Joins Move to Name Independent Good Government Ticket.

New York, May 22.—The first appearance of Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, in a local political movement will be in connection with the campaign for the nomination of a non-partisan good government ticket to oppose Tammany at the approaching municipal election. The preliminaries of the movement, which was launched at a conference held in Cooper Union recently, will be in charge of a committee of nineteen, the membership of which, it is announced, includes Messrs. Gary, Timothy Healy, national president of the Electric Firemen's union; Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent; Marcus M. Marks, president of the National Association of Clothiers, and Gustave H. Schwab, manager of the North German Lloyd Steamship company.

Ten of the nineteen are Republicans, five are Democrats and four are independents.

PERISHED ALONE IN HIS LITTLE TAR PAPER SHACK

Body of Man Found in Brush Near Golf Grounds.

Probably Froze to Death in His Improvised Shelter.

The body of a man who evidently had been dead for five or six months was found this morning at Thirty-first avenue east, about 200 feet south of Superior street, by a laborer on street car track work in the vicinity.

There was nothing on the body to indicate the identity of the man. He appeared to have been about 55 years of age at the time of death, and was poorly dressed in old overalls and a mackinaw. The finder of the remains was wandering around in a thick clump of brush when he came across the dead man.

There was nothing in the clothes to show who he was. A memorandum book contained several sets of figures, but no names. There was also a clipping from The Evening Herald, containing a receipt for rheumatism. The unknown, apparently, made the spot his headquarters, for he had made a little tar paper shack against a log. It was six feet long and no more than three feet high, constructed so a man could barely lie under it and thus be in part protected from the elements. The shelter was open at the front.

There was a lower extension of tar paper, under which some old clothes were concealed. There were two pipes, a shaving outfit, some tobacco, a broken bit of mirror, a fish reel and two pocket knives under the tar paper. It looked as if the man might have slept there several nights, and it is thought likely that he froze to death. The remains were partly decomposed when discovered.

The feet were encased in pieces of gunny sack, stuffed with straw. No shoes, aside from this, were in evidence. Appearances would indicate that the individual was entirely without funds, and was too proud to appeal to the county authorities for aid. There was no money in any of the pockets.

The man had light hair, and a two-weeks growth of beard on his face. He was about 5 feet 10 inches in height. There were several tin cans around the spot.

MORE JOBS THAN MEN

Employment Agents Say There Is Work for All.

There are more jobs in the city of Duluth today than there are men to fill them. An inquiry today at some of the local employment offices brought out this statement. Less than two weeks ago men were vainly seeking jobs. Now the situation has shifted and the employment agents have orders upon their books that they cannot fill.

The opening of railroad work in the West, as well as the increase of improvement work and repair work upon the railroads in the vicinity of Duluth, accounts for the increase of work. Many of the men who were in the city two weeks ago, have gone to the West, yet the demand for men is increasing and there are not sufficient men in the local labor market to fill the demand.

The signs of the employment agencies present a decidedly different view from that presented two weeks ago. Then the bulletin boards of the Duluth offices presented but a few jobs to the gaze of the seeker after employment. Today the boards are filled with signs offering all kinds of employment at fairly good wages.

Employment men state that any man who is idle in the city of Duluth today, is idle through his own disinclination to work. They state that there is plenty of work for all laborers who care to go to work, and contractors in the West are behind in their work because they have not sufficient men to do the work with.

The opening up of farm work throughout the country has also increased the demand for men. It is believed that the demand for labor will show a steady increase all through the summer months. The advent of a good crop this fall will further increase the demand for labor and will also increase the wage scale.

COAL DOCKS ARE LEASED

Carnegie Company Will Become Active Competitor Here.

Deal Is Closed for Valuable Superior Dock Property.

A coal deal that will bring into active competition the Carnegie Coal company of Pittsburg with the Head of the Lakes companies, was closed today through the leasing by the Pittsburg company of the Great Northern dock, upon the Superior side of the bay, and also all other docks between the Northwestern Fuel company and the Philadelphia & Reading docks.

The deal was closed by R. P. Burgan, president of the company, and J. T. M. Stoneroad, secretary and treasurer of the company. These men were in Duluth the present week looking over the property, and after returning to Pittsburg, closed the deal that will give the Carnegie company one of the best waterfronts at the Head of the Lakes.

The contract giving the lease to the Carnegie company was signed yesterday in St. Paul, the last details of the business being completed in this city today through a representative of the company here. The securing of the Great Northern dock and the water front and docks, between the Northwestern Fuel company's docks and the docks of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal company, means that the intention of the officials of the Carnegie company is to enter into active competition with the fuel companies at the Head of the Lakes at the present time.

Until recently the Carnegie company has sold to other companies with docks at the Head of the Lakes. Now the Carnegie company will do a direct business here.

The Carnegie company owns and operates five mines in the soft coal district of Pennsylvania. The annual output of the company is 1,500,000 tons of coal a year. The capacity of the company is being rapidly increased. It was because of this increase in the output of the company, that docks and shipping facilities at the Head of the Lakes were sought and secured.

Mr. Burgan is president of the Carnegie National bank of Pittsburg, and Mr. Stoneroad is a director of the same institution. Mr. Stoneroad was a resident of Duluth from 1886 to 1888 and is well known to many of the business men of this city.

Some alterations and improvements will be made in the property acquired by the Carnegie company. The company will begin shipping its own coal to its new docks early in the present year.

While in Duluth Mr. Burgan and Mr. Stoneroad were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Norton, 1124 East First street.

SHOOTS WOMAN AND KILLS SELF

Chicago Man Seeks Revenge, Being Barred From Wife.

Chicago, May 22.—While Mrs. Charles A. Mace was walking with her three children near her home today, Gus Anderson, whose wife is housekeeper for Mrs. Mace, came up behind and fired a bullet into Mrs. Mace's shoulder. He then shot himself in the head and stomach, and will die. Mrs. Mace will recover.

Anderson and his wife separated some time ago. Anderson yesterday called at the Mace home and asked to see his wife, but Mrs. Mace told him Mrs. Anderson did not care to see him, and shut the door.

EX-MAYOR GREENE OF MARQUETTE VERY ILL.

Marquette, Mich., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Critically ill, Former Mayor William H. Greene of this city has been taken to St. Mary's hospital. There is much apprehension that he will not recover. The former municipal executive has the distinction of being the oldest locomotive engineer in the service of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad. He has been continuously in the employ of the company and its predecessors since July, 1867, or nearly forty-two years.

ARTIST WHO ROBBED HOME IS SENTENCED.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 22.—Henry Weidenbach, an artist who robbed a number of homes where he was employed, pleaded guilty today to an indictment charging him with the larceny of $350 worth of goods from the home of Harry Levy. The artist was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary.

CONTEST NOTICE—
Department of the Interior, United States Land Office.
Duluth, Minnesota, May 4, 1909.

A sufficient contest affidavit having been filed in this office by Rachel E. Kjostad, contestant, against homestead entry No. 23328, made November 13, 1907, for Lot 1, E½ NW¼ and NE-SW¼, Section 19, Township 65 N., Range 17 W., 4th P. M., by Stanislaw Dziadusz, contestee, in which it is alleged that said Stanislaw Dziadusz shot and killed himself some time during the latter part of May, 1908, that prior to his death he, the said claimant, never built a house upon or cleared or cultivated any portion of said land, That he never established residence thereon, but wholly abandoned all claim thereto forward from the time of making said entry. That since his death neither his widow nor his heirs or legal representatives, or any of them, have appeared and laid claim to said land, or in any way or manner built upon, cleared, improved or cultivated said land or any portion thereof. That the names and residences of the heirs of said deceased entryman are unknown to this deponent. That none of them are residents of the United States. That said deceased claimant came from Russia alone to this country, leaving all his relatives in said Empire of Russia; and that said alleged absence from said land was not due to his employment in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps of the United States during any war, said parties are hereby notified to appear, respond and offer evidence touching said allegation, at 9 o'clock a. m., on June 30, 1909, before the Register and Receiver at the United States Land Office in Duluth, Minnesota.

The said contestant having, in a proper affidavit, filed February 8, 1909, set forth facts which show that after due diligence personal service of this notice can not be made, it is hereby ordered and directed that such notice be given by due and proper publication.

HAYNES

Don't Fool Yourself Into Thinking

That You Can Buy a Really High-Grade Automobile at a Low-Grade Price!

It cannot be done.

No automobile manufacturer is putting more into his car than he is getting out of it.

Regardless of what enthusiasm may be displayed by manufacturer or dealer—

Regardless of manufacturing facilities—

You get exactly what you pay for.

Possibly some manufacturers (because of inadequate manufacturing facilities or other reasons) offer you less than they should at a given price; but we know, and you know, and they know, that no manufacturer will give you more than he can afford to.

There are plenty of low-priced cars on the market, but the bed-rock argument in favor of buying them—and practically the only argument that influences sales—is the argument of cheapness.

MODEL X—TOURING CAR.

And we submit, as a reasonable business proposition, that cheapness is a mighty poor guide in the purchase of as complicated a piece of mechanism as is an automobile.

The Haynes appeals to the buyer from an entirely different standpoint.

It is emphatically a car for the man who is ready to buy an automobile on its merits—who either knows car values himself or recognizes the protection afforded by established and unquestioned reputation—who has gotten past the "makeshift" period and wants a mechanically perfect car for both pleasure and economy's sake.

The Haynes is not only the oldest car on the market, but it has from the first, and without deviation for a single year, been a car of superb mechanical construction.

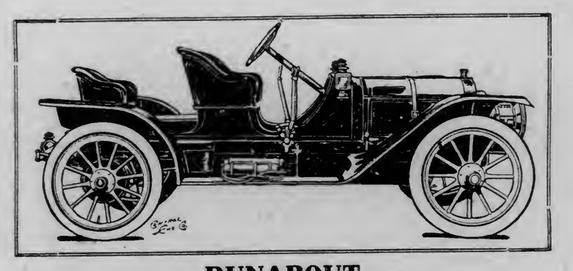
No concession whatever is made to cheapness.

No concession is made to mere beauty.

No concession is made to the man who cannot afford a thoroughly high-grade car.

The Haynes is built for the man who is through experimenting.

Elwood Haynes, widely known as builder of the first successful motor car in America, has an international reputation as a mechanical expert.



RUNABOUT.

And every Haynes car on the market has been built under Mr. Haynes' personal supervision.

He was the first manufacturer in the United States or Europe to use nickel steel.

He was the first to employ aluminum in motor cars.

He was the first to introduce Roller Bearings in automobile construction.

Roller bearings are still an exclusive Haynes feature.

The frictionless, noiseless roller pinion drive is also an exclusive Haynes feature.

The Car throughout is made to last—not merely to sell.

The Haynes principle—that every part of the car shall be as perfect as it is possible to have it, both in material and workmanship—is responsible for the famous Haynes record of 41 perfect scores, first prizes or medals in 41 contests.

And it is this principle, religiously applied to every car, that is the safest, most binding guarantee that any automobile buyer can have.

The price, $3,000, represents a degree of car excellence that is not, and cannot be, excelled in any make of automobile, American or foreign, at any price.

You are ready for a Haynes.

SETTLEMENT MADE.

Coleraine Young Man Got $5,000 for Loss of Foot.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 22.—Judge of Probate Huson has issued letters of guardianship to Christ Nelson of Coleraine for the guardianship of his son, Alfred Nelson, a minor.

Young Nelson had a foot cut off on Oct 8 last while in the employ of the Oliver Iron Mining company, and he has just accepted $5,000 in settlement from the company, hence the necessity of the appointment of a guardian.

SCHOOL WORK EXHIBIT.

Large Crowds Attend the Display of Nashwauk Schools.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—An exhibit of the school work for the year was made at the schoolhouse Monday evening. The halls and class rooms were beautifully decorated with drawings and other work by the pupils.

The doors were open from 2:30 until 9 p. m. Crowds of people thronged the halls examining the work, which was very satisfactory to all. Soft drinks and cake were served by the girls of the Sicilian chorus, while the boys of the chorus were kept busy showing the crowds through the class rooms. The school teachers and scholars were praised highly for their good work.

GLEE CLUBS POPULAR.

Boys' and Girls' Organizations of Virginia High Made Records.

Virginia, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A pleasing feature of the social life at the high school this year were the glee clubs, boys and girls. The students took a lively interest in the clubs and worked faithfully to make them successful.

Their work was rewarded, as both clubs attained a high degree of efficiency. The boys' club sang at the meeting attended by the state senators on their visit to Virginia in April, and also at the meeting of the St. Louis County club, April 20. An original football song, sung by the boys, was especially pleasing.

EIGHTH GRADE PUPILS.

Those Who Will Graduate in Eveleth If They Pass Examinations.

Eveleth, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The eighth grade pupils who will graduate this spring, if they successfully pass their final examinations, are as follows: Paul Archambault, Rylois Butler, Katie Burke, Irene Campbell, Charles Crottier, Ruth Damberg, Rose Damberg, Olympia Ellisen, Lucy Furlong, Paul Johnson, Otto Johnson, Olga Kurti, Mabelle Kiley, Jennie Mulligan, Ida Maxwell, Margaret Murphy, Beatrice Murnik, Daniel Masucci, Maud Page, Roy Patterson, Evelyn Prince, Ruth Random, Clara Rohrer, Hazel Stockstead, Louis Stein, Joe Seigel. They will be given their diplomas on June 17, at the same time the high school seniors have their commencement.

ELY IS CLEANING UP.

Oliver Iron Mining Company Joins in Campaign Against Dirt.

Ely, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city is cleaning the streets and alleys and making a very necessary improvement to the appearance of the city's thoroughfares.

The Oliver Iron Mining company has also issued orders that all tenants on company land must clean the premises at once or have the leases terminated or the rent increased. The company is requiring that the refuse be brought to the roadways in the locations and has placed teams at the disposal of the people. The result is that there is an astonishing amount of rubbish being removed from these parts of the city and the appearance of those sections greatly improved.

TO PLAY BOVEY TEAM.

Grand Rapids City Baseball Team Ready for the Season.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 22.—The baseball season for the Grand Rapids city baseball team will open Sunday with a game with the semi-professional team from Bovey. Manager M. E. Winsor has rounded up all of his men, and will put a good fast team in the field. The Grand Rapids team this year will be strictly amateur, with not one paid man on the team.

Grand Rapids has had many hard games on the schedule, among which are two games with the colored Gophers and two with the fast team from Wahpeton, N. D., which will tour this section some time in June.

DANCES AT EVELETH.

Successful Affair at Wahlon Lahde Hall—Military Ball Planned.

Eveleth, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The next to the last dance of the club season was given last night at Wahlen Lahde hall by the Eveleth Dancing club. Many people were present from out of town. Several were noticed from Virginia, Gilbert, Biwabik and McKinley. The final dance of the season will be given June 11.

The militia company has appointed a committee consisting of Sergeant C. U. Jenkins and Corporal Fred Chler, to make plans and arrange for a military ball June 4 at Vail hall. This will be the final social before the company goes to camp June 14 at Lake City.

In addition to their banquet tomorrow night at Monitor hall, the local order of Brith Abraham has decided to have a dance, to help celebrate the first anniversary of the organization of the local lodge.

NEW LODGE OF REDMEN.

Judge Prince Returns From Instituting the Koochiching Tribe.

Eveleth, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Prince returned yesterday from a day's trip to International Falls, whehe he instituted a lodge of Redmen, the Koochiching tribe. Thirty-seven members were put through, with fifteen applicants on the waiting list, who will be taken in shortly.

The local Elks, who will have a big time next week when the local lodge is instituted, have not received any set date for the affair, but they are waiting to hear from the grand lodge, when plans will be made for a grand celebration.

SUIT OVER WAGES.

Eveleth Clerk and Employer Disagree Over Their Contract.

Eveleth, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry L. Hill, formerly a clerk for M. Feldman, the clothier, has started suit against his former employer for three months' wages, at $50 per month. The case was up before Judge Prince yesterday afternoon. Feldman claims that he hired Hill at $30 per month, while Hill claims he was to get $50 per month. Feldman also has a claim against his clerk for $20, which the clerk guaranteed for a man who bought some clothes from Feldman, but which was not paid.

The clerk started working Nov. 27, and did not get any money even after he quit, April 3. Judge Prince took the case under advisement for a week.

YOUNG DOE CAPTURED.

Had Been Chased By Wolves Into Trout Lake.

Coleraine, Minn., May 22.—While Ed Ingalls of the Ingalls Motor Boat company was taking a ride in his new launch on Trout lake yesterday he was surprised to see, swimming rapidly from the shore, a young doe, which had been frightened into the water from the woods by wolves. Mr. Ingalls succeeded in capturing the doe and placed the frightened animal on board the launch, bringing her to the city and notifying the game warden, who gave him permission to keep the animal.

WILL WORK BY ELECTRIC LIGHT

Rushing Work on Cuts on Nashwauk-Grand Rapids Extension.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 22.—The work on the big cut just northeast of Grand Rapids, on the Grand Rapids-Nashwauk extension, will be pushed from now until it it completed.

Tuesday a big new dynamo was received at the scene of the work, and it will be used to light up the work while a night crew is on the job. The electric lights will extend to the cut, and from there all along the track and along to the dump. The electric light line will be over a mile and a half long.

On the same day a steam shovel and outfit from the work at Calumet, which had just been completed, were shunted in and put in readiness to start work. The cut which is to be made is some 1,600 feet long, and 22 feet deep at the deepest point, and one of the fills alone is to be over 3,500 feet. The territory through which the right-of-way passes, where the fills will be, is very swampy, and is considered an unusually hard proposition to get over.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE.

To Be Held at the M. E. Church in Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. R. C. Johnson will preach tomorrow evening at the Methodist Episcopal church on "Contrary Winds." In the morning he will speak on "The Next Step Forward." The evening services, especially of late, are being well attended, due to the excellence of the sermons. A week from tomorrow the pastor will conduct Memorial day services, and, being an ex-soldier himself, will arrange for something befitting the occasion. The local militia and most of the old soldiers will attend the services.

At St. John's church tomorrow morning Rev. Carswell will speak on "Heaven. Our Home."

BUILDING IS ACTIVE.

Jones Street at Eveleth Becoming Quite a Business Street.

Eveleth, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Campbell block is now being sided up with brick and the store fronts on the corner of Jones street and Grant avenue are being remodeled. The upstairs will be changed and may be used in the future as a hall. It is likely that the Elks will use the hall until the Bowling theater is built. Work on the latter structure will soon be started.

A store building is going up next to Friske & Mewherter's tailor shop on Fierce street, so that Jones street from Grant avenue to the Glede hotel, has become quite a business street.

PAROLE UNSATISFACTORY.

Young Mukovitch Boy of Ely to Be Sent to State School.

Ely, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Humane Officer Grae came up from Duluth on Monday evening and investigated several cases of distress here. He will also take steps to have the Mukovitch boy taken to the state school. Since his parole last Saturday in juvenile court at Duluth, the boy has been active in petty thievery and will be sent away at once.

GUST PETERSON BURIED.

Man Who Was Killed at Bovey By a Blast.

Drayton, N. D., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gust Peterson, a former resident of this place, was buried here yesterday. He was killed a few days ago at Bovey, Minn., where he was running a drift in an ore mine. It seems that a large rock had been thrown high into the air by a blast nearby and that in attempting to get out of its way he, blinded by the sun, ran directly in its path and was instantly killed.

NASHWAUK HAPPENINGS.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Logan and family of Grand Rapids spent Sunday with friends here, returning to their home Monday.

E. J. Cram has purchased a farm at Meadowland, ten miles northwest of here, and is erecting a cottage on it, where he expects to remain this summer.

Hugh Riley has been ill the past week.

haven, to which Mr. Rogers had presented a Masonic hall, and East lodge of New Bedford, of which the financier had been an active member for more than thirty years.

During the forenoon a drenching rain fell.

At 10 o'clock the doors of the church were thrown open, and for an hour there was a procession of school children passing by the casket. From 11 a. m. until 1 p. m. the residents of the town were admitted to the church and permitted to gaze upon the features of the dead.

The church was closed later and no one was admitted except upon presentation of a ticket, the distribution of which had been limited to members of the Rogers family and personal friends of the decedent.

The funeral services were private and were conducted by Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer, pastor emeritus of the Church of the Messiah, New York. Rev. Frank L. Phalen, pastor of the Memorial church, assisted.

The interment was in the Rogers family tomb at Riverside cemetery, where rest the bodies of Mr. Rogers' father, his first wife and his daughter Millicent. The tomb is a replica of a classic Greek temple, and is situated on a knoll overlooking the Acushnet river.

SENATE COMBINE ENDED

The refusal came in response to a request from Senator Burton to adopt a resolution authorizing the expenditure of unexpended balances of appropriations for river and harbor work. He brought in a report of the committee on commerce in support of his resolution, and made an earnest plea for action at this time, saying that if there was greater postponement, important public works would suffer, as contracts must necessarily be made at this season of the year. The last river and harbor bill, he said, had been passed in reliance upon the availability of thees balances, and he pleaded that the good faith of the government was involved in the matter. He, however, met a stern objection from Senator Hale of the committee on finance, and when, after a time, there seemed a possibility of Mr. Hale's yielding, Senator Clapp came to the front and said that if Mr. Hale did not stand by his objection he (Mr. Clapp) would insist upon making one of his own. Even in the face of the opposition of these two stalwarts, Mr. Burton still pleaded, although without avail.

Messrs. Hale and Clapp took the position that if the bars were once let down, there would be no end of requests for special action. As a result, the senate would be flooded with legislation. Mr. Burton was told that there would be plenty of time for the senate to act upon his resolution after the passage of the tariff bill.

Senator Squalls.

There were some squalls yesterday on the senatorial sea, but notwithstanding the tariff bill made progress. A number of paragraphs were passed upon and while in most instances they were disposed of with the understanding that the senate might still return to them, it is the general opinion that little, if any, change will be made in most of them.

The house rates were retained in the polished plate glass paragraph, but with the understanding that when the bill is taken up in the senate proper, it now being considered as in the committee of the whole, there probably will be some alterations. The Republican progressive criticised the house rate as too high, while Senator Oliver, who represents the glass producing state of Pennsylvania, contended that the rate was entirely inadequate to the proper protection of the plate glass industry.

The interests considered during the day ranged all the way from mica and feldspar to automobiles. Beginning with the earthenware schedule, a number of committee recommendations were adopted.

FIRE HALL WILL NOT BE CLOSED

Action on Lakeside Matter Is Postponed Until October.

The Lakeside fire hall will not be closed June 1, according to a decision reached last night at a meeting of the board of fire commissioners. Mayor Haven, the council committee on the fire department and several Lakeside residents were present.

Action on the closing proposition has been postponed until next October, and it is believed that by that time there will be some way of providing the funds necessary to maintain the hall during the remainder of the year.

The Lakeside delegation was headed by Theodore Hollister and L. B. Manley, who entered a strong purotest against the proposed closing of the hall. The fire department fund is said to be insufficient to pay running expenses for the year unless the Lakeside hall is closed.

company's trackage to the water's edge.

Although the road taps a country prospectively rich in iron deposits, the new dock has been planned with no reference to ore shipments from Knife River. The company uses annually about 20,000 tons of coal. The dock will provide accommodations for vessels of the coal trade, and also for boats carrying timber products to down lake ports.

Capacity of 30,000 Tons.

The new trestle stockpile will have a capacity of about 30,000 tons of coal. It is to be built close to the main track, running to the water front and but a few hundred feet from the new dock. A spur running parallel to the main line will give the needed trackage for coal cars. The Barnett & Record company have a force of about forty men now employed at Knife River, and the number will be increased as the work progresses.

The cedar and pulp wood yard is to be located south of the main track. It will be commodious and provide ample storage room for the vast quantity of timber products which accumulate at Knife River during the winter months. The land is being cleared as rapidly as possible. The trackage through the cedar yards will be ample for present and future needs.

Another improvement that is under way is the building of an interlocking system at the Iron Range crossing, which will minimize the danger to both roads in the operation of their trains. The work is all under the supervision of H. Schupp, chief engineer of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota road.

Officials Here.

Russell A. Alger, F. W. Alger and Mr. Pike of Detroit, Mich., and B. W. Arnold of Albany, N. Y., all prominent stockholders in the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railroad, arrived in the city this morning from the East. They spent the morning in a business conference at the company's office in the Lonsdale building.

A special train will convey the party accompanied by the local officials to Knife River this afternoon. They will spend the balance of today and tomorrow morning in looking over and inspecting the work being done, and acquire a better knowledge of the conditions there, on which to base the plans for the furtherance of the work and future improvements. If time permits they may make a hurried trip of general inspection over the line north, returning to Duluth over the Iron Range road tomorrow.

Is Reaching Out.

The Duluth & Northern Minnesota is gradually creeping closer to the present terminus of the Canadian Northern at Cunflint. The extension of the road between mile post 50, or the small station of Finland, and mile post 60, a distance of ten miles, has been laid out for the construction work to be done this summer. Finland is the present end of the line and the last outpost of civilization in the course the Duluth & Northern Minnesota road will take.

The survey has been made into the heart of an unbroken wilderness and about a mile and a half of the right of way has been graded. The country through which the extension will run is so rough and wild that the work is necessarily slow and it is not expected that the work will be completed and the track leveled for traffic much before the coming of cold weather. The road will cross the Manitou river.

The officials of the Duluth & Northern strenuously deny that the building of the ten-mile extension has any bearing on a possible future consolidation with the Canadian Northern. It is a well-known fact that the latter road is anxious to get into Duluth along the north shore, either by its own line, or by traffic agreement with the Iron Range or Duluth & Northern Minnesota.

If the Duluth & Northern is working north with the ultimate object of joining the Canadian Northern, the fact is being kept a profound secret officially. The new construction work on the Duluth & Northern Minnesota is of a permanent nature. The roadbed and bridges are substantial and permanent and not the kind usually associated with the building of a logging road. This lends some color to the many rumors in circulation regarding a consolidation.

FORMER PROCTOR GIRL IS DEAD

Miss Katheryn C. Goodnough Succumbs to Attack of Typhoid.

Proctor, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word was received this week of the death of Katheryn C., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Goodnough, at their home in Minneapolis, on May 18. Katheryn had been sick for several weeks with typhoid fever. The funeral took place at the Methodist Episcopal church at Cumberland, Wis., May 19, and interment was in Lakeside cemetery. Katheryn was 13 years 8 months and 2 days of age at the time of her death. Mr. and Mrs. Goodnough and children made Proctor their home for a number of years, moving to Minneapolis about a year ago.

Mrs. Philip Casey was called to Stillwater, Minn., Tuesday by the illness of her mother. She will make an extended visit.

A number of friends and neighbors surprised John Smith at his home Tuesday evening, the occasion being his seventy-eighth birthday anniversary. A purse of money was presented to Mr. Smith to show the esteem in which his friends hold him. Lunch was served at the close of a pleasant evening.

BIG DAY FOR BOAT OWNERS

Two Races Will Be Held in West Duluth Tomorrow.

Dixie and Bullet Will Race to New Duluth and Back.

Sunday will be a big day for the motor boat men at West Duluth.

The boat enthusiasts are looking forward with much interest to the morning race tomorrow when Cassius Moore will match his Bullet against Lt Sallee's Lexie. A side bet of $50 is up on the result and many wagers are being made today as to the outcome.

As a sort of curtain raiser, a preliminary event will be pulled off in which three owners have already entered. C. M. Phillips, Jean Bouchard and A. R. Armstrong today each made an entry. There are also side bets up on this affair.

The Bullet-Dixie event will start at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning from Curo's boathouse at West Duluth and the boats will speed to New Duluth and back.

SLAG USED FOR PAVEMENT

Slag from the Zenith Furnace company is being used by the board of public works for paving Raleigh street from Central avenue west. The board has at its disposal $350 with which to purchase the slag.

Yesterday a crew of laborers was put to work removing the old cedar blocks and preparing the street for the layer of slag, which is to be several inches in thickness. After the slag has been put in, a steam roller will run over the street, and the surface will be hard ened.

It is expected that about four blocks will be paved.

WANT A GAME.

West Duluth Champion Boy Team Is Out for Blood.

The West Duluth Tigers, who last year held championship honors in amateur baseball circles of all teams in the same class, are out again on the war path.

A challenge has been issued to any 12-year-old team at the Head of the Lakes, but the Tigers would like to get an opportunity to trim up the Eagles, another Duluth amateur outfit.

The Tigers' line up as follows: Herbert Cavanaugh, first base; Earl Edwards, catcher or left field; Frank Wade, shortstop; Joe McDonald, pitcher, Leo Sontalre, right field; Charlie Bealleu, catcher or left field; Peter Foucault, third base; Chestley Baker, second base; Russell Hilleu, center field. The subs are Evar Eklund, Gus Linder and Kenneth McDonald.

LOST CHILD.

Little Harold Realand Is Taken to the Police Station.

Little 6-year-old Harold Realand lost himself last evening on Central avenue, at West Duluth, and was picked up by John Gram and taken to the West Duluth police station.

The little fellow had almost forgotten his name in his bewilderment, but finally, after much maneuvering, it was secured. By this time his mother had missed him and in some way had learned that he was at the station. He was taken home by her. The family lives at 5214 Raleigh street.

LINEN SHOWER.

Party Is Given in Honor of Miss Amanda Olson.

A linen shower was given last evening at the home of Mrs. C. G. Peterson of 608 North Fifty-ninth avenue west, in honor of Miss Amanda Olson, who will on June 2 be married to Edward Peterson.

The bride-to-be was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. Games were played and the evening was pleasantly spent. Refreshments were served.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Peterson, Mrs. C. F. Peterson, Mrs. G. Nylander, Misses Anna Larson, Minnie Nelson, Ethel Johnson, Annie Olson, Esther Carlson, Signa Carlson, Selma Peterson, Hulda Peterson, Lillie Olson, Anna Peterson, Selma Daniels, Ada Daniels, Cora Bergstrom, Anna Thorsell, Hulda Soderberg, May Eklund, Christine Bergland, Clara Nicklund, Lydia Nicklund, Ester Linder, Elvira Peterson and Messrs. Gilbert Peterson, Walter Carlson, Charles Johnson, Philip Anderson and Edward Peterson.

Wedding Kept Secret.

The announcement of a January wedding of a well known West Duluth couple was made today much to the surprise of the friends of the young people and relatives.

The contracting parties were Miss Josephine Conway, 13 North Fifty-seventh avenue west and Benedict Van of Proctor. They were married about the middle of January and kept the secret from their friends and relatives until it cropped out accidentally today.

Miss Conway up to recently has been employed at the Duluth Telephone company as an operator, and the groom is in the employ of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway.

Plan Auto Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Nygren are now making plans for their annual summer auto trip to the southern part of the state. Last year a trip was made to Fergus Falls, but their intentions are to go this summer to Wilmar and Litchfield.

Commercial Club Meeting.

The Commercial club held a meeting last evening at its clubrooms, over the Western State bank. The matter of the Grassy Point bridge was laid over until next week. The question of good roads was touched upon, but no definite action was taken.

Little Girl Dies.

The 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dion, 211 North Fifty-first avenue west, died at 1 o'clock this morning at the home of her parents of diphtheria. A private funeral will be held tomorrow.

West Duluth Churches.

Rev. E. Wultberg will conduct services in the English language tomorrow evening at Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Synod, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Roosevelt street. Sunday school will be held at the usual hour in the morning.

Rev. J. G. Leitch will preach his farewell sermon before leaving on his tour of Scotland and Europe, tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Westminster Presbyterian church. The Christian Endeavor will meet at 7:45 in the evening.

"Lessons From the Ascension of Our Blessed Lord" will be the subject of the morning sermon tomorrow, at 10:45 o'clock, by Dr. Roderick J. Mooney, pastor, at the Holy Apostle Episcopal church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Ellinor street. Sunday school will follow immediately after the sermon.

At the Asbury M. E. church, Rev. Thomas Grice will conduct morning and evening service tomorrow. The morning topic, at 10:30 o'clock, is "Truth Speaking," and that of the evening service, at 8 o'clock, is "The Prizes of Life." Miss Eva McLyman will sing a solo at the morning meeting, and the choir will render a special musical program at the evening services. Sunday school will be held at 11:45 a. m., and Epworth league will meet at 7 o'clock, with W. E. Burton as leader.

SAYS MORSE IS VICTIMIZED

Wife of the Former Banker Also Charges Blackmail.

New York, May 22.—Mrs. Clementine Morse, wife of Charles W. Morse, the former banker, asserted in an interview today that long ago persons high in power vowed that they would ruin her husband and that they have kept the vow against justice and truth. Mrs. Morse declared that government officials had boasted also that they would cause Morse's downfall, but Mrs. Morse said she did not believe the courts could be used as a party to the plans of her husband's enemies.

"How many persons know my husband has paid every dollar owed to every depositor in the Bank of North America?" she asked, adding, "of an indebtedness of $7,000,000 more than $5,000,000 has been paid and if Mr. Morse had his liberty he would not owe a penny today. It is incredible to me that a court can be used to destroy a man's property and his family made to suffer."

Mrs. Morse said she sold her jewelry gladly to pay the claims against her husband, and one claim against her which was absolutely blackmail, but which was paid to avoid notoriety. Practically all of the furnishings of the handsome home at 758 Fifth avenue, Mrs. Morse said, have been sold for the benefit of the creditors, and the house is about to be sold over her head.

"When I leave I shall have no home; I don't know where I shall go," she added.

BILL PROVIDES UNIFORM WISCONSIN FISHING SEASON

Madison, Wis., May 22.—The new fish and game bill, which came into the senate today, provides for a uniform fishing season, opening June 1. The deer season remains unchanged, but each hunter is limited to one animals instead of two. The bill puts the game warden system under civil service and provides for the appointment of the chief game warden by the governor, to be confirmed by the senate, requiring a $5,000 bond by the appointee. Deputy wardens must give $250 bond.

ALWAYS SOMETHING DOING ON THE GOOD OLD STEAMER TROY

The survey of the steamer Troy this afternoon to ascertain the damage done in the collision last evening with the J. J. Hill, disclosed the fact that she is but slightly damaged and will probably be able to run through the season without dry docking. The worst damage was to stern plates, which were badly bent, forcing the deck up several inches. The vessel will go out tonight as scheduled.

Marine men are getting accustomed to the Troy as a sensation maker. It was the Troy—that three years ago made the interstate bridge look like a Duluth backyard before the spring clean-up. She got away with a few scratches.

It was the Troy that had the distinction of opening navigation this year between Chicago and Buffalo. A few days later she added to her laurels by breaking through the ice at Whitefish and being the first package freighter to reach Duluth this season.

The Troy is owned by the Western Transit company, and, in spite of her oddities, is one of the best and most reliable vessels in the freight business.

Lumber Business Better.
J. G. Ketcham, general sales manager of the Rainy Lake & Virginia Lumber company, returned yesterday from an Eastern trip. Mr. Ketcham stated that the general lumber business is improving, and that the present month should witness a big improvement in the sales of lumber throughout the country.

On the Continent.
Capt. Alex McDougall, who is sojourning for a time in the capitals of the Old World, has written Capt. Thomas H. Pressnell from Paris that he is having a fine time. He mentions Paris especially as a city that lives up to its reputation, and he also had a word to say of the beauties of Great Britain.

Firm Is Dissolved.
The contracting firm in which John Bergman, Fred Engle and Simon Johnson have been partners, was locally dissolved yesterday in the district court. The partners got into personal difficulties that eventually reached the court. The case was dismissed and the receiver ordered to turn over the firm's assets to the defendant's attorney.

Gen. Davis Here.
Gen. J. M. K. Davis, United States army, retired accompanied by Mrs. Davis, is in the city visiting their nephew, J. H. Hearding, of the Oliver Mining company. They have just come from the Pacific coast and are en route to Washington.

Returns to Spalding.
E. W. Conley has accepted, for the summer, a position as clerk at the Spalding. He was formerly connected with the hotel, but last fall went to Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been clerk at the Arlington. He says many Duluth people visited Hot Springs during the winter.

Leave for West.
H. B. Knudsen and a party of twenty people from Duluth and nearby towns left today for the Bitter Root valley, Montana. Mr. Knudsen will show members of the party farming lands which he is advising them to settle on.

Leaves for Butte.
N. F. Hugo, president of the Alex Scott Copper company, left today for Butte, Mont., where he will superintend the installing of new machinery at the property.

Annual Meeting.
A. D. Goodman of the Duluth Universal Milling company will leave early next week for Chicago, where he will attend the meeting of the National Federation of Millers.

Charles Macveagh Here.
Charles Macveagh of New York, general solicitor for the Steel corporation, was in Duluth yesterday to confer with Frank B. Kellogg, general counsel for the Oliver Iron Mining company.

Theft of Coat.
Carl Hanson, alias McKeon, believed to be a prize fighter, was arrested last night, charged with the theft of an overcoat from the office of the Duluth Posten.

Inspects Incinerator.
A. Caplan of Minneapolis, representing the Decarie Patent Incinerator company, which built the Duluth incinerator, is in the city today looking over the plant. He says better results are being obtained here, under existing conditions, than at any other point where a similar incinerator is established. He finds the expense of burning garbage in Duluth amounts to about 50 cents a ton, and says this can be further reduced with the plant running to full capacity, which is not the case at the present time.

Horse Is Killed.
One of Panton & White's delivery horses was struck by a railroad locomotive at Twenty-fifth avenue west this morning, and its leg was broken. The animal had to be shot. The boy driver did not see the approaching engine, and started to drive across the tracks in front of it.

Free Deafness Cure.
A remarkable offer by one of the leading ear specialists in this country, who will send two months' medicine free to prove his ability to cure Deafness, Head Noises and Catarrh. Address Dr. G. M. Branaman, 37 East Twelfth street, Kansas City, Mo.

SCHREIBER SEES HIS DEAD BABY

William Schreiber, the condemned murderer, who has been a prisoner at the county jail since his conviction, awaiting the sentence that may send him to the gallows, was this afternoon given a chance to look for the last time on the face of his dead child.

A stop was made at the jail as the body was being taken to the cemetery for interment. The little casket was taken into the jail office and Schreiber was permitted to leave his cell, and, under the watchful eye of the jailor, to spend a few brief moments with his wife and child.

Schreiber did not show much emotion when the casket was opened. He stood by silently for a few minutes and was then taken back to his cell. He evinced no feeling over his baby's death and made no comment when the casket was closed and he was taken back by the jailer.

LAST DAY OF THE CLEANUP

Campaign Against Dirty Yards Has Been Very Successful.

School Children Putting Finishing Touches on the Job.

This is the last of the three days named by Mayor Haven for a general municipal cleanup. Satisfactory results have been accomplished, and the three days' campaign for doing away with garbage, refuse and dirt is declared to have been a big success.

People generally entered enthusiastically into the spirit of the occasion, and everybody situated in a position to do so, pitched in and did what they could to help the movement along. The result is a much better looking city than existed earlier in the week.

This being Saturday, the school children are being pressed into service, and are finishing up work started by their elders. The younger generation is putting a good deal of energy into the work, and by tonight there will be very few untidy yards in the city. The street cleaning department has also been displaying unusual ardor in its work, and the streets are most of them clean and neat in consequence.

This is the first year that three days have been named for the campaign. Last season only one day was set aside for municipal cleaning work, and as the weather was bad not very much was accomplished. It had been rather cool ever since Thursday morning, but there has been no rain, and, in the main, conditions were right for the cleanup campaign.

EPIDEMIC OF RESIGNATIONS

An epidemic of resignations has broken out in the Y. M. C. A. and several of the best men have severed their active connection with the local organization.

W. H. Lippold, the educational secretary, has tendered his resignation to take effect Aug. 1, following the lead of the physical directors, A. J. Frey and Al Olson, who are to leave the 1st of September.

J. H. Ballou and H. G. Sydow of the Y. M. C. A. staff resigned recently and both have left the city. George Murray, one of the assistant secretaries, has also handed in his resignation, although he is still attending to his duties at the association building.

PRISONER WITH MANY ALIASES

E. R. Nelson, alias Carl Hanson, alias Charles McKeon, was sentenced to thirty days in jail or a $50 fine, in municipal court this morning, for petit larceny.

He was arrested for the theft of an overcoat from the office of the Duluth Posten. The loss of the coat was reported to the police, and Detective Terry found it in one of the Superior street pawn shops. The proprietor of the place told him that the same man had pawned a pair of field glasses at a store across the street. The detective succeeded in arresting Nelson, and after he got him to the police station a telephone call came from Superior that a pair of field glasses had been stolen from the tug Bayfield.

In court this morning Nelson admitted stealing the field glasses, but denied all knowledge of the coat.

ROGERS' CHILDREN $4,000,000 APIECE

New York, May 22.—H. H. Rogers, a short time before his death, distributed a portion of his fortune among his four children. It is understood that he gave $4,000,000 each to H. H. Rogers, Jr., and to his three daughters, Mrs. W. E. Benjamin, Mrs. Urba H. Broughton and Mrs. W. R. Coe.

The remainder of his estate, mainly in the form of stocks and bonds of railroad and industrial companies, will be disposed of by his will, which has not yet been made public. Excepting any public bequests in which Mr. Rogers' early home of Fairhaven, Mass., may share, the main part of the estate is said to be divided among Mr. Rogers' widow and his children.

SUPERIOR NEWS

NEW COAL DOCK.

Clarkson Company Will Erect New Structure in Superior.

The Clarkson Coal & Dock company of St. Paul will build a new dock in Superior in the near future, on a site owned by the Northern Pacific road on the St. Louis bay front, just west of the Great Northern elevators.

Although the report lacks official confirmation, it is understood that Worrell Clarkson at the head of the company, is authority for it. He has made several visits to Superior during the past year, and plans on building one of the most up-to-date docks at the Head of the Lakes.

The Clarkson company is operating a small dock in Ashland now.

Odd Fellows Gather.

This evening the Odd Fellows of Superior are having a joint initiation at Maryland hall, at which guests of honor from all over the state are attending. It is expected that there will be about 700 present.

The grand master, P. A. Badour of Oconto, Wis., arrived in the city yesterday. There will be a big banquet tomorrow afternoon at the Hotel Rossister at which the members of the famous North Star degree team of Minneapolis will be special guests of honor.

Saloon Man Arrested.

Charged with selling liquor without a license, Charles Lehman of 1104 Tower avenue was yesterday arrested upon a warrant. The case will come up for trial Monday, May 31.

Arrested Wrong Man.

A man held at Trego, Wis., near Spooner, supposed to have been implicated in the murder of young Rudolph Nelson at Itasca a week ago, was yesterday released. Sheriff Carlson and some of the other authorities having satisfied themselves that he was not the right man.

DOWNWARD ON LUMBER

Indications Point to Concessions to the Middle West.

Aldrich Yields to Its Demand Regarding Tariff Revision.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU

Washington, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Indications today point to a downward revision of the lumber schedules, embodying concessions to the sentiment of the Middle West by the ultra-protectionists, who are in control of the senate.

That concessions will be made to the Northwestern senators now seems assured. These senators have been for weeks hard at work in an effort to secure substantial concessions on lumber, and now it is confidently asserted that they have convinced Chairman Aldrich of the finance committee, that the lumber schedule as reported is unfair to the consumer, and may be revised, with a reduction of rates of duty, without prejudice to the interests of the lumber industry.

An informal announcement is made today that Chairman Aldrich will recommend to the finance committee that the lumber schedule be redrafted. The compromise on lumber that is now under way, it is said, contemplates reduction in the duties in finished lumber. The rates on the pending bill on such products range from $1.50 to $3.50 per 1,000 feet.

Senator Aldrich has reached no conclusion as to what would be a fair differential, but he is said to be convinced that the present rates are excessive.

There is prospect that the final agreement between those who advocate free lumber and those who insist upon protected lumber will affect both rough and finished products. The free lumber advocates would be satisfied with a flat rate of $1.50 on all grades of lumber. This involves an increase of 50 cents per 1,000 feet on rough lumber, which was taxed at the rate of $1 by the Payne bill as it passed the house.

There is no doubt that the rates on finished lumber will be reduced. All the missionary work now being done by the Northwestern senators is toward securing a flat rate of $1.50 on all grades of forest products.

COPPER STOCKS ARE STRONGER

North Butte Recovers Much of Losses of Previous Day.

The copper stock market advanced during all of the short session today. North Butte regaining much of the loss incurred during yesterday's bear raid on the stock.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Copper is decidedly stronger. Lake is 13⅜ to 13½ cents, and electrolytic is 13⅛ to 13¼ cents per pound. I learn of sales of 150,000 pounds of lake copper at 13½ cents, and other considerable sales at 13¾ cents. Electrolytic has sold as high as 13¼ cents. Copper is moving much more freely, and the surplus supplies are rapidly being exhausted. The outlook for the metal market is very much brighter than it has been at any previous time in the past two years.

"The monthly reports of the Producers' association are in a measure misleading, notwithstanding the care and efforts of the originators to make them perfectly accurate and reliable. This is due to the fact that the reports are based upon stocks of copper on hand and amounts delivered. A large percentage of the copper which was reported as surplus last month had been sold; but delay in making deliveries forced the association to report this copper surplus. There was over 8,000,000 pounds of copper on the docks at Lake Superior which had been sold, and a delay of two or three days in the opening of navigation prevented its movement. It was therefore reported as a part of the surplus supplies. This undoubtedly was true of copper at other points.

"A leading copper man, who is as good a judge of the market as I know, says: 'The surplus supplies of copper are practically things of the past. As soon as there is any further improvement in the volume of general business the little surplus remaining will vanish like snow before a June sun. I feel confident that copper will sell at 15 cents per pound in September.'

"I know of but two important producers who have sufficient surplus copper on hand to deserve special consideration. These two are holding their copper for a higher price, having believed it unwise to sell at 13 cents or lower. There is still considerable copper held by speculators, and the speculative interest in the metal is increasing. I understand that some of the leading American copper consumers have been buying copper warrants in London recently, anticipating a considerable advance in the prices immediately."

MUCH PAVING FOR WEST END

The West end is in the throes of a paving epidemic. All the property owners, apparently, are possessed with the improvement "bug," and there are likely to be big results in the line of street work this summer.

Much enthusiasm in the projected improvement of Twenty-ninth avenue west was shown at the meeting of property owners in the West end last night, and plans for other street work were discussed.

It is now proposed to pave Superior street from Twenty-fifth avenue west, to the end of the present pavement, to Thirtieth avenue west. There is also a plan on foot to pave First street for several blocks in the West end, and another plan to pave Second street.

Several of the West end streets are in bad condition, and the property owners have evidently awakened to the necessity of improving them.

Twice in the Same Place.

William Reamer was fined $30 and costs, or sixty days in jail, in municipal court this morning, on a disorderly conduct charge, and the same amount or fine for contempt of court.

With his brother he became engaged in an altercation with four Austrians in the Incline saloon, Seventh avenue west and Superior street, yesterday afternoon. He was arrested some time ago on a similar charge, and was released on his own recognizance. Failing to show up in court at the appointed time, he was charged with contempt of court, which explains the second fine this morning.

THE NEW WAY.

THE OLD WAY.

From the disgusted look on the faces of the horses in the accompanying photograph, they seem to have realized, at the time the picture was taken, that their life of usefulness on the Duluth police department had come to an end.

The two photographs show a sharp contrast between the old and the new methods of conveying prisoners to the central police station. The auto patrol wagon has been in use about two weeks and has proven itself so vastly superior over the old horses and wagon that it will be permanently installed here and, at the end of another two weeks, the horses will be disposed of.

The manufacturers agreed when given an order that they would run the auto the first thirty days free of cost to the city, supplying a chauffeur for that length of time. The old wagon is being kept in commission while the drivers are learning to operate the new. The auto patrol is in commission half the day and half the night until the drivers learn how to operate it, when it will be put in commission day and night.

The operation of the machine has proven very successful up to the present time. Much better time is made than with the old rig, and the drivers, as they learn the tricks, say it is easier to escape collisions while going at a high rate of speed than was the case with the team and wagon. The speed limit of the auto patrol is twenty miles an hour. It is driven by a powerful motor and can easily climb the steepest of Duluth's avenues, making better time up hill than can any team.

The new wagon makes a neat appearance and has been attracting a good deal of attention since it arrived in town. The loud, clear-sounding gong heralds its aproach, and every one turns to look. It is equipped with stretchers for the care of the injured, and can rush a wounded man to the hospital before a patrol wagon drawn by a team could scarcely more than get started.

Words of Praise From Trained Nurse

MISS BESSIE MILLS

Miss Bessie Mills of Atlanta, Ga., who has had ten years' experience as a trained nurse, writes of the splendid results obtained when she has given her patients Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a tonic and body builder, on the Doctors' orders.

"I am a trained nurse with ten years' experience and have given Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey on the doctors' orders to patients in many hospitals and private homes where I have been. I have found it very beneficial when used as a tonic, to restore strength and vigor. I wish to vouch for the splendid results I have had with it in the sick room during the whole of this time."—Bessie E. Mills, 381 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

Duffy's Pure Malt Hhiskey is indorsed by leading men in all professions, including clergymen, doctors, educators, nurses, lawyers as well as business men and the intelligent generally. It is invaluable in the treatment of indigestion, nervous prostration, malaria, chills, low fevers and all diseases of the throat, the bronchial tubes and lungs. It is a heart tonic, and in old age when the vital forces are yielding to the weight of years, it will bring strength and vigor to the muscular and nervous centers.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

If you wish to keep young, strong and vigorous and have on your checks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, according to directions. It tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system. It is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottle only; never in bulk. Price $1.00. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Write Medical Department, Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., for a free illustrated medical booklet and free advice.

NEWS OF THE WEEK AT THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL

The senior farewell, the event to which the school has been looking forward to for some time past, was held in the school Friday evening.

The seniors assembled in the halls of the school at about 5:30 to partake of their last spread together. Instead of the usual spread gotten up by the girls, which has been the customary thing in the school during the past, both the boys and girls got together and gave a real banquet prepared by the chef of the school. The tables were very prettily decorated in '09 pennants and colors. The full class sat down to the spread, something which was never known to happen in the past, and most of them remained for the dancing. The menus were very clever little pennants of '09, which were arranged by the members of the class.

Afterwards toasts were given by the following members of the faculty and student body: Mr. Denfeld, Mr. Custance, Miss Wells, Robert Donaldson, Stanley Lamb, John Quinn, Curtis Pillsbury and Leonard McHugh. At 7:45 the seniors joined the other classes in an informal dance. It was a great success and a fitting close for '09's social career. The committees in charge were: Decoraiing, Madeline Miller, chairman, Grace Farmer, George Ostergren, John Quinn, William Ecklund, Clarice Henderson, Elizabeth Olcott and Mary Marvin; food, Dorothy Olcott, chairman, Donald Paddock, Harvard Rockwell, Helen Hawkes and Curtis Pillsbury. Those in charge deserve a great deal of credit for their interest in the class, and for the success of the hop and spread.

The track team was the talk of the school last week. The inter-class meet which was postponed from the Saturday before on account of rain was held Monday afternoon. The field events were held on the school grounds and the track events on London road. The meet was very successful from every point of view. The juniors won the meet after a hard struggle with the sophomores, who were a very close second. The seniors and freshmen were also very close behind. The freshmen made a very strong showing, being in the lead for a long while. A large crowd was out and displayed a great deal of interest in all the events. A matter which showed the advance made in track work is the fact that four records of the school were broken. The discus, 200-yard, 440, and the half-mile records were all shattered. Allen Johnson, one of the most promising freshmen ever seen in the school, made the most individual points. Mr. Ilestand and all the enthusiasts were very much pleased at the showing made, which was fully as good as could be expected under the existing conditions.

Yesterday afternoon the first team to represent Duluth at the Interscholastic field meet in Minneapolis left for that place to make their initial appearance among the big schools of the Northwest in this sport. No matter what kind of a showing they make the school will be satisfied, for they are not expecting anything, but will be pleased with the smallest fraction of a score. Some of the men, however, ought to take places. The team that left Duluth yesterday was: Allen Johnson, Bill Stevens, Arnold Berg, Charles Mooney, Clifford Thorburn, Herbert McMeekin, Glen Goldsmith, Asher Taylor, Arthur Hellmer, Stanley McCrae and John Quinn.

On Monday afternoon the Public Speaking club held a short session. The club presented a very fine shaving set to Mr. Baker to show its appreciation for all that he has done for them. The presentation speech was made by Harlow Watkins who, in his characteristic manner, expressed the thanks of the members of the club for what Mr. Baker had done for them. Mr. Baker accepted the gift and expressed his thanks in a very neat little speech.

The freshman class held its regular meeting last Wednesday afternoon. In the absence of their president, Adelaide Miller, the vice president, presided. The attendance was not as large ag it usually is. The only business was a selection of a motto for the class. The one finally selected was "Always Loyal." They all agreed that they would live up to their motto, if that's what it is meant for, at least, as long as they were able to stay with it.

The name of the play suggests that it might be complicated enough, but after a person has read it, he is worse off than before. "All Tangled Up," the name of the farce, certainly is "some tangle," and defies all the efforts to unravel it. The actors have been working on the play two weeks, but as yet have not been able to solve the riddle and trace the characters all through the meshes of the complicated plot. It is expected that, in desperation, Mr. Custance will have to offer a reward for any one who can tell him "who's who?" and also "who owns the overcoat?"

The celebrated Pied Piper of Hamelin, of whom so much has been heard, must have passed through the school last Tuesday. On that day the girls of the senior class appeared in school with their hair hanging in cute little curls down their backs. They professed that it was just to have a little fun and act young, like freshmen, again, but the admiring boys claimed that if they knew how they looked they would wear it that way all the time. However, some of the boys doubted the assertions of the girls, and after a few Sherlocks had pulled off some professional detective work, they reported that the clue reached was that the Pied Piper had made a few calls, and, as is his custom, took all the rodents along with him. There must have been lots more where they came from, for conditions were normal the next day.

Mr. Custance has been instructing the seniors during the last week in the music that they are going to sing in the graduation exercises. The songs that Mr. Custance has made up are very catchy, and will make a great hit. There will be a vocal contest between the juniors and seniors, in which noise will count more than music. The beautiful Alma Mater, which has thrilled the graduates of the D. C. H. S. for fifteen years, will be sung as usual on commencement night, together with the valdictory song to the tune of "Loch Lomond."

VENNER AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT

Trouble-Making Stockholder of Great Northern Wins Law Point.

St. Paul, Minn., May 22.—The Ramsey county district court was overruled yesterday when the supreme court ordered a reversal of the order in the case of Clarence P. Venner against the Great Northern Railway company. Venner was the appellant and the case came up on the action of the local court in sustaining motions made by J. N. Hill and E. T. Nichols for the dismissal, after an order of service made on them. They, with the Lake Superior company, limited were included as defendants.

The case is of more than ordinary interest as it involves an action brought by Venner, in which he seeks to have the Lake Superior company, a holding concern for some $34,000,000 worth of property, declared illegal and the property returned to the Great Northern stockholders, of whom he claims to be one. The whole matter is now sent back for trial and it is expected that a big legal battle will be the result. Venner has been persistent in his attempts to dissolve the holding company, which activity at a hearing before the 1907 legislature brought from J. J. Hill, chairman of the directors of the Great Northern road, the remark that he was a professional litigant.

TRAFFIC ON RED LAKE RIVER IS QUITE HEAVY.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The traffic on the Red Lake river is assuming heavy proportions this spring. The farmers' steamboat as well as the boats owned by parties in this city all have cargoes of freight and passengers as fast as they can make the trips between this city and the points up river, including the Red Lake settlements. The shallow place on the river are to be cared for this season by the United States engineers and river navigation will be a real thing from this time on.

PETRIFIED SKELETON FOUND DEEP IN GRAVEL PIT.

Menominee, Mich., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The petrified skeleton of a man nearly seven feet tall was found at the depth of seventy-five feet in a gravel pit in Holmes township. The skeleton is in a fairly good state of preservation, and it will in all probability be shipped to some state or national museum.

According to early residents, the gravel pit and land in the vicinity was an ancient Indian burying ground, and is said to have been used for many years before the first white man set foot on Menominee county soil. The white invasion, according to the best authentic history, came in 1792.

La Crosse, Wis., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—La Crosse got four runs in the first two innings of the game with the Duluth White Sox yesterday and was rather sitting back, contented with the idea the game was just about in its grasp, when along came the eighth inning and Duluth batted out a victory, the final score being 6 to 4.

Marion allowed the home team four hits and a pass and hit a player during the first two innings, which fact, coupled with two errors by O'Brien, were responsible for the locals' four runs. After that Marion pitched a good, steady game and kept the hits well scattered.

Duluth scored first in the second inning, getting a run then and one in the fourth. A base on balls, three hits and some artistic base running gave Duluth four runs in the eighth.

It was a fast game all the way through. Score:

Will Play Iron River.

The Scott-Graff baseball team leave tomorrow morning for Iron River, where they will line up for their first game of the season against the strong team at that point. Manager Swanstrom thinks he has got a team this year that will defeat almost anything in its class, and is busy looking for engagements. They will work out three pitchers tomorrow, besides other prospective candidates for the team.

CORBETT TO SPAR WITH JEFFRIES

Old Time Fighters Will Have Some Stiff Workouts Together.

Chicago, May 22.—James J. Jeffries has received a letter from James J. Corbett, in which James J. stated that he would be in Chicago next week and would be glad to help the undefeated champion in his training. Jeff said he would accept the offer and box with Corbett every afternoon next week.

"I consider Corbett the most clever boxer in the history of the ring, and by boxing with him I can easily tell whether I am going to be as I used to be.

"I think considerable of Johnson's style of fighting, and I am sure I will learn a lot from Corbett.

"Corbett also wants me to do some sword work with him, which fits into my plans nicely."

For the benefit of those who do not believe that he is taking off weight gradually, the champion will have a photograph taken on the scales. He predicts that he will be considerably under the 240-pound mark.

Recently Jeff weighed himself in street clothing and tipped the beam at 241 pounds. He asserts he could have reduced more, but is afraid to take off weight too fast. He is relying on the baths at Carlsbad to take off most of it.

OPPOSED TO SHORTER COURSE

Columbia Coach Says Four Miles Is Not Too Much.

New York, May 22.—Jim Rice, coach of the Columbia university crews, has some decided views regarding the agitation to reduce the length of the varsity eight-oared shell races that take place between the colleges on the Thames and the Hudson every June. As for permanent physical disability following rowing four miles in a varsity shell, Rice says it is absurd.

"Rowing certainly is a tough game," said Rice, "and everybody who knows aything about the sport will admit that; but it is not as hard on the men who take part in it as a good many other athletic games. But if a man is properly trained there is no reason why he should not go through the hardest and most gruelling race without feeling any more than ordinary physically tired. It would be as absurd to say that they should collapse through physical exhaustion, as it would be to expect a locomotive to break down if it has been properly constructed.

"Oarsmen, and especially the oarsmen who are in the colleges, go through the hardest kind of training. For six months they practice regularly, observing all the laws of health that are known. At the end of that time they are in far better physical condition than professional fighters or men who go in for any other kind of sport. If they are trained properly they are able to stand almost anything in the line of rowing.

"As for their not being able to stand up under a four-mile race better than a shorter race is all foolishness. Instead of rowing a shorter distance, they could very well row two miles further, and I think that the results would be even much better than in a four-mile race. A two or three-mile race is nothing more than a sprint. From the starting gun to the finish it is nothing but row for all you are worth. A four-mile has a beginning, a middle and an end. The two or three-mile race is all end. It is one desperate sprint that fairly takes the heart out of any man. There is no chance for the men to slow down their pace after the first sprinting at the pistol. They don't get the chance to rest up by taking long, swinging strokes as they do in the middle of a four-mile race. They plug right at it all the way through. The men in the four-mile races, on the other hand, have their first sprint and then take it comparatively easy until the last half mile or so.

"As a rule I think men can row long distances better than sprints. Of course, the training has a lot to do with, it, but the average man can maintain a long, swinging pull better than a short, rapid, sprinting stroke. The fact that the Poughkeepsie and New Loudon races are always rowed with a favoring tide is another thing that should be taken into consideration, for the tide sometimes seems to cut almost a mile off the race."

Northome, Minn., May 22.—The crack Northome baseball team of 1907-1908 has been reorganized, with E. S. Shock as manager; J. B. Wilm, secretary and treasurer, and J. F. Morgan as captain of the team. During the past two years Northome has had one of the fastest amateur clubs in the North country. During the season of 1907, the locals never lost a game, and again made an enviable record last year, by winning many victories. As was the case during those two years, the local club will again be composed of strictly all home players this year, and promises to be stronger than ever before. The locals will play their first game of the season next Sunday when they go to Big Falls to meet the team of that place.

GOPHERS WIN SECOND GAME

Defeat Hibbing Nine in an Extra Inning Contest.

Hibbing, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Catcher Ratsy Johnson put a speedy end to a close and exciting contest yesterday afternoon by putting the pelloid over the fence in the extra frame of the game.

The colored players obtained a lead in the early stage of the game. In the fifth frame Hibbing tied the score. From that time until Johnson knocked the ball out of the lot, the game belonged to either team.

Yesterday's contest was the second in a series of five games. The third contest will be played this afternoon. The score:

MANY BOYS COMPETING

Grade Schools' Field Meet at Ball Park a Success.

Jackson Building Enters the Events at the Last Moment.

Today is the big day in grammar school circles, for the interscholastic field meet for the boys of the graded schools is being held this afternoon at the ball park, under the auspices of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A.

The youthful athletes are putting the shot, running and jumping in a lively, healthful competition for The Herald trophy and various other much-sought prizes.

A large crowd was on hand to watch the youngsters do their stunts, many of their school fellows of the opposite sex standing on the sidelines and cheering the representatives of their respective schools.

There was plenty of enthusiasm and some good work on the part of the participants, many of whom made excellent records for persons of their age.

In all the events it was a contest all the way through for the honors, as every school represented had competitors in nearly everything on the program.

Since yesterday the Jackson school has entered the lists, making a total of seven schools competing. They are the Washington, the Adams, the Jefferson, the Endion, the Nettleton, the Bryant and the Jackson.

Following are the entries in all the events:

KELLY, BROKEN IN SPIRIT, LIKELY TO QUIT THE RING

San Francisco, Cal., May 22.—Hugo Kelly is slightly marked from the heavy blows landed by Billy Papke in their one-round fight, but the Chicago Italian is broken in spirit and threatens to quit the ring forever. Kelly is not downcast because he feels he is a "has-been," for he denies this emphatically, but he has lost heart because ill-luck follows him in all of his encounters. He declares that in his fight with Ketchel he was caught off guard just as the battle was going his way that he broke his hand in one of his battles with Papke, and that on the last occasion the wet canvass was responsible for his slip, which offered Papke an opening to put in the fatal blow.

"I do not know just what I will do," said Kelly, "but I feel that I will retire from the ring forever. I have a tidy bit of money, a nice place at Antioch and I think I can retire.

"The canvas was wet and slimy. The cut had the ring sprinkled with rosin but it could not work out the effects of the mist and damp from the morning. I guess I must have slipped in a wet spot and then went down.

"I was not in distress when Papke was slamming punches into my guard. He was shoving me about the ring a bit, but was not hurting me. But he caught me off guard, and when he hit me on the jaw the jolt I got when my head hit the canvas knocked me out. It was exactly the same when I met Ketchel. Papke's could not put me out in Milwaukee when I broke my arm in the second. It wasn't his punches that did the trick."

Papke was the proudest man in San Francisco. Without a mark to show that she had been in tthe prize ring, he made a circuit of the various sporting headquarters, meeting old friends and outling his future plans.

"Of course, I intend to claim the middleweight title," he said. "Every one knows that Ketchel is too heavy to make the weight. He must scale 170 pounds, at least. If he can't make the scale, he's got to lose the title, and that's all there is to it. But I'll fight him again if he wants it."

Jimmy Coffroth, the owner of the Colma club, will now try to get another match between Ketchel and Papke. He says he is willing to offer a big sum for the bout or let the men box on a percentage basis, as he may arrange the go for July 5. It is practically certain Papke will have to make a big weight concession to Ketchel.

This evening the first clash of the season will occur between the junior and senior oarsmen. Last night the juniors went over the course in fairly good time, but there was a woeful lack of unity in the efforts of the members of the crew. At times the boat was driven with power but there is a raggedness that will have to be overcome before the juniors can hope to win any boat races. If the juniors hope to make a respectable showing with the seniors this evening, they will have to get more leg-drive into the stroke than they have at any time this year.

The seniors have been on the water a sufficient length of time to give Coach Murray Peyton some idea of the strength of the crew. It must be said that the seniors look like a crew that will give a very good account of itself in very fast company. The majority of the members of the crew are men who have been tried under the strain of a race.

There could be no better plan for the training of the younger carsmen than the weekly races that the officials of the club have planned. It will give the more inexperienced men just the training that they need. The races that will be held at the boat club this summer will be contested almost as earnestly as the races at the St. Paul regatta. There can be even this early date a keen rivalry between the members of the two crews. As the season advances this rivalry will naturally increase. If the crews are evenly matched as they promise to be, there will be some good sport for the members of the club.

The spirit there is present between the two crews is the best stimulant to winning crews.

The present week has witnessed a very great improvement in the spirit, and consequently the progress, of the junior eight. The men have been present every evening at practice and they have taken to heart the instructions of Coach Lynam. It is too early as yet to predict just how strong the crew will be but with an improvement in form over that shown by the junior crew of last year in the early season, there is every reason to believe that the present junior crew will be at least as fast as the crew that represented the Duluth Boat club in 1908.

With the May race in both the big leagues nearly over, there is some grounds to base a fairly accurate judgment of the playing strength of the teams of the two major organizations.

It was predicted in this column, months ago, that Chicago and New York would be the contenders in the National league. Up to the present time, Chicago has been playing a steady, consistent game. They have been winning the majority of their games upon the Eastern invasion, and the famous Cub machine has been moving at a speed that augurs well for the winning of a fourth consecutive National league pennant by Chance's team.

The hoodoo has made itself manifest at this early stage of the pennant race. In the case of the Cubs, Frank Chance, grand ball player, consistent batter, and more valuable yet, great field general, is on the bench with a broken shoulder blade. Chance may be out of the game a month—he may be out of the game for all time.

Yet with the absence of the "Peerless Leader," the Cubs have gone right along winning, taking the big end of the games with Philadelphia, a team that proved a serious stumbling block to the Cubs last year.

There is every reason to predict that the Cubs will be in the race at every stage of the game, and that they will be fighting for the pennant when the last stages of the race creep around.

As to New York and Pittsburg. New York has a grand ball team. There is no denying that fact. The column still maintains that the Giants will be in the race ere the season is many weeks older. Mathewson has returned to form and with "Big Six" in winning form, McGraw's men will have to be counted upon. If Mike Donlin should return to the Giants' outfield, it would make the garden of the Giants about the classiest bunch of outfield performers in either league, with the possible exception of the brilliant two that chase outfield swats for the Detroit Tigers.

It is quite true that the Giants are occupying the near-cellar position of the race. Yet, they are pretty sure to mount the pennant ladder, rung by rung, as the season grows older, and it is a good bet at this stage of the race that the Giants will be fighting with the leaders ere the October stage of the campaign arrives.

McGraw has had some of the hard luck that pursued Chicago through the major part of last season. But let this team, with its hard stickers, strike a winning stride and it will take great ball playing to keep it from the top.

Then there are the Pittsburg Pirates. This is too much of a three-star combination to last the season through. Wagner, Clarke and little Tommy Leach are the three stars of the Pittsburg club. None of these great players will ever be any better than they were last year. Clarke is going back, and neither Wagner nor Leach is getting better.

Pitcher Camnitz, who has held the Pirates up in the race so far, lost his first game of the present season day before yesterday. It looks as if the Pirates have been playing beyond their stride as the bumps of the present week would indicate. With Pittsburg slowing down and Chicago and New York getting better, it looks as if the two big cities of the older organization would be the great contenders for the Pittsburg flag.

Look at the race in the Ban Johnson league. It was also predicted in this column some time ago that the Tigers were traveling too fast. The present week's play would bear out that prediction.

Boston gave the Detroit Tiger his bumps right in the fair of the striped beast. And then, too, other teams have gotten to Jennings' crew. It looks as if the Jennings machine is the strongest all-around organization in the younger league, yet it doesn't look as if the pennant race was going to be a walkaway for the Tigers.

Next to the Tigers, the Boston Red Sox are playing the most consistent ball. This is a scrappy, fast aggregation of ball players. They may not play the present fast article of ball all through the long pennant chase, yet they are bound to make any team that beats them play real ball.

Cleveland has proved a disappointment in the race so far this season, as that truly great collection of ball players has proved in the past. If Nap La Joie fails to deliver this year, it would not surprise a great many followers of the game to hear that he has been deposed from his managerial duties.

The Chicago White Sox must be considered seriously in the race. Simply the fact that they have one of the greatest pitching staffs in either league should make the aggregation of the Old Roman a very hard team to beat. Think of Walsh, Smith, White, Burns and Owens upon one team. If the Sox finish close up in the race, it will be due to this great bunch of slab artists.

An early season review would lead the unprejudiced observer to believe that Chicago in the National, and Detroit in the American league, would be contenders all season, with the chances good for these two teams to repeat their feats of last year.

Battling Nelson, in one of the San Francisco papers, takes a crack at the recent Papke-Kelly battle. He charges that Kelly deliberately faked the battle. It is a rather broad assertion to make, especially by a member of the fist and duck profession. This Nelson person, while a great little fighter, is heard entirely too much through the press. If he would cut out some of his literary achievements and accept the challenges of some of the men that sincerely wish to clash with the Battler, he would command more of the respect of the people who pay for the Dane's luxurious existence.

SOCIETY PET BOXES JOHNSON

He of the White Front Set Makes an Impression.

Philadelphia, May 22.—A. J. Drexel Biddle, society man, author, poet, all-around athlete and amateur boxer, added another chapter to his experiences with professionals in the ring recently by boxing Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion pugilist of the world. "Tony" Biddle, with this encounter, achieved the distiction of having boxed every pugilist of note in the ring today excepting James J. Jeffries and Stanley Ketchel.

The bout took place at George Cole's gymnasium at Merchantville, in the presence of a large number of spectators, the majority of whom were negroes.

As soon as he arrived in Philadelphia Biddle endeavored to get an audience with him. Johnson at first did not seem anxious to meet him.

Sunday Johnson was invited to visit the home of Biddle, where he has a private gymnasium, but the champion demurred. He sent a message to Biddie that he was at Merchantville where he would be glad to meet him. Biddle, accompanied by a number of friends, jumped into the automobile and hurried to the negro's training quarters. There he found that a program of bouts had been arranged and his was not the first. He had to wait his turn to enter the ring. George Cole, Bob Kerns, Frankie Madole and others came first.

But the Biddle bout was the star number.

The bout only lasted two rounds. Johnson is accustomed to rounds of three minutes, but Biddle prefers rounds of just about two. As a result the timekeeper called a halt before the bout was fairly begun. The negroes at the ringside yelled, when it was all over:

"Biddle, you are the best ever."

Johnson himself declared that Biddle is a strong kid and a fine gentleman.

Except among the negroes there was no enthusiasm.

PAPKE MAY MEET KETCHEL AGAIN

Friends of Both Fighters Are Egging Their Favorite on.

San Francisco, Cal., May 22.—Billy Papke, by his workmanlike handling of Hugo Kelly, has placed himself full in the glare of the limelight once more, and sporting men who want the best the pugilistic market affords and are willing to pay for it are clamoring for a match with Papke on one end and Young Ketchel on the other.

Papke, who has had many proposals submitted to him, would rather sign up with Ketchel than any of the others who are seeking his scalp. Ketchel, in a way, seems willing enough to accommodate the thunderbolt, but is taking pains to let Papke and the promoters know that Young Ketchel is an exceedingly high priced ring artist.

"None of your $6,000 offers for me," Ketchel is reported as saying. "I will want from $10,000 to $15,000 for my share."

There were telegrams flying between Ketchel and interested parties in San Francisco the other day, and it was said that Ketchel's latest demand was for a side bet of $10,000. When Papke heard this he said: "I may be able to accommodate Ketchel in that little matter if other matters as to purse and weight are satisfactory. I hardly think, though, that if we get down to talking business he will insist upon a wager on that magnitude."

It may be that Papke-Ketchel outlook will look brighter a few days from now. If the match is made it will undoubtedly be handled by Coffroth, who wants it for his Mission street arena on July 5.

Of course much will depend upon the outcome of the negotiations begun by Uncle Tom McCarey of Los Angeles for a July contest between Ketchel and Langford. If this latter affair is arranged McCarey, who is an old-time matchmaker, will have his agreement worded so that Ketchel will not be at liberty to meet Papke or any one else early in July.

Battling Nelson, who is to box Dick Hyland at Coffroth's arena on May 29, took possession of the camp at Millett's the other day and engaged in light exercise. Nelson's principal henchman during his training spell will be Jack Henchell, Abdul the Turk, and Jeff Perry. The battler will work from now on on a full schedule right up to the fight.

The battler professes to be amused at the comment made in respect to the shortness of the time at his disposal.

"I'm not going to fool myself or the public either," said Bat. "Two weeks is ample for me at any time."

DULUTH HIGH SCHOOL TRACK TEAM COMPETING IN MEET AT UNIVERSITY

The Duluth Central high school track team is competing this afternoon at Northrop field, Minneapolis, against the largest high and preparatory schools of the state in a track and field meet, held under the auspices of the University of Minnesota.

This is practically the first year that the local school has paid much attention to track and field sports, and the members of the team and the coach are not very hopeful of carrying off many points in the meet. When they are against such teams as Shattuck, the local boys are under a decided handicap. In spite of this fact, however, it is hoped that the local team will score at least a few points which would greatly encourage the members of the team to make even greater efforts next year. Most of the members of this year's team will be in school again next year, and with an extra year of training, they should be in shape to make a good showing for Duluth.

SCOTTISH EVENT IS OF INTEREST

Champion Travers Will Take Part in Big Golf Tournament.

Chicago, May 22.—For several reasons the American golfer finds his attention more closely riveted upon the coming British amateur championship at Muirfield, Scotland, than even when Walter J. Travis, the American expert, was the successful contestant in that event. Champion J. D. Travis of the U. S. G. A. is over there practicing, and will be a contestant.

Muirfield suggests in a way the Myopia, Deal, Garden City or Chicago Golf club courses. It is not such a hard test links for a skillful player like Travers as some of the other British courses. A score of 79 for the 6212-yard links is about what a good player should come near averaging. But Robert Maxwell, who is responsible for the new bunkers on this Scotch course, is one of the stumbling-blocks that Travers will have to overcome.

It is the conditions governing the championship that American golfers should be much interested, as it is the first since its institution abroad, in 1889, that limits the players to those who are plus or scratch in their clubs. If the "dead timber" in the U. S. G. A. event each year were to be similarly eliminated the national championship would be a much better event.

The twenty-four clubs having a vote in the British championship are to vote unanimously in favor of giving future control of the event to the Royal and Ancient Golf club of St. Andrews. This raises the Royal and Ancient to the dignity of a national governing body like the U. S. G. A. Inasmuch as the great Scotch club has been regarded as such in other countries on account of its action in rule matters, the Britons thought it wise formally to establish the fact at home.

Travers has endeared himself to the British golfing fraternity. Especially has he won many laurels in his selection of favorite criticisms in Golf Illustrated. In his "first impressions" of the foreign courses he has praised those grounds to the skies.

Of the American courses with which he is acquainted, Myopia, near Boston, alone bears resemblance to the best Ayrshire links. Travers thus corroborates the testimony of many of the best Scotch professionals in this country.

Pages in the foreign periodicals are devoted to the big $1,000 foursome played by James Braid and J. H. Taylor against George Duncan and C. H. Mayo. The first half of the match, played at Burhill last month, gave Braid and Taylor such a commanding lead (five holes) o utheir young rivals, that no one was surprised by the continued great work of those champions. Braid and Taylor.

Duncan is a lad of slight build, taller than Freddie McLeod, the United States champion he will meet at the Chicago Golf club in June, and looks not unlike Willie Anderson as the North Berwick man looked when he came here to win the national and Western titles so many times.

AUTO NEWS OF THE WEEK

Big Event of the Season Will Be Endurance Contest.

Efforts Being Made to Reorganize the Automobile Club.

The big event of the summer season in automobile circles will be the endurance contest to be run the first part of August between the Twin Cities and Duluth.

The plan of having an endurance test had its inception in the recent visit to this city of J. J. Barclay and a party of Minneapolis friends. Mr. Barclay is an automobilist of the old school, a lover of the sport since it first came in vogue and the head, incidentally, of one of the large garages of Minneapolis.

He came up in a scout roadster and he liked Duluth. He also liked the roads that led into Duluth and before he had left, everyone he had met liked Mr. Barclay. When he sprung his ideas about an endurance contest he met with a hearty response from automobile men.

There are to be no fixed rules governing entries. Machine owners in all parts of the state are eligible to enter. There is no telling at this early date how many machines will start out from the Twin Cities when the signal is given, but there will not be less than a hundred and probably more.

A bid for good roads is to be put in early. The county commissioners of every county through which the automobilists will run, will be asked to get the roads in as good condition as possible before the first of August. Some of the roads in St. Louis county are not as well-kept as they should be. A notable example is the extension of the boulevard to West Duluth which at the present time is almost impassable. The excuse may be offered for this road, however, that it has not yet been tamed down by travel and it will no doubt be in shape for fast travel by the middle of the summer.

Informal suggestions are being made by automobile men for the entertainment in this city of those who take part in the contest. A suggestion that is likely to be carried out is to have a big downtown parade, with hundreds of decorated machines in line. This is a common thing in cities where flowers are ever plentiful, such as Portland and Los Angeles, but will be a new thing for Duluth. It is believed that a night parade on the downtown streets of flower-bedecked automobiles sparkling with hundreds of glimmering lights, will be a novelty much appreciated.

The Mutual Auto company announces that it will offer a prize of $50 for the best-decorated machine, and several prominent business men have said they will stand for a prize for the most ludicrous car. This is just a starter, and other prizes will be forthcoming as the time approaches.

The city authorities are to be asked permission to use London road for several races that will be pulled off in August. London road offers practically the only good course in the city for a race, and it is hoped the city will see its way clear to give the road over to the automobilists for a day.

Efforts to organize an automobile club in Duluth will take concrete form next week, when a general invitation will be sent out to owners of machines in the city to attend a meeting to be held some time during the week.

There is a feeling that this city should have a club, as other cities of its class have. There has been no automobile organization in Duluth for two years. There are at present nearly 500 licensed cars in the city, and no apparent reason, except a general apathy on the part of the owners, why Duluth should not have a first grade auto club.

The club that thrived briefly in Duluth two seasons ago was a comparative tame organization, yet in the brief time it lived and had its being there was more local auto enthusiasm than at any time before or since. The club was responsible for securing Barney Oldfield to come here and take part in the races, and the event is still remembered as the only one of its kind Duluth ever had.

At that time the number of machines in the city was small, but there are so many now that owners feel the time has come for a good, live club. So far there has been no concerted action and it is to work up individual interest and get the lovers of the sport together that the meeting will be held next week.

There is another reason why a club should be organized at this time. During August the big endurance contest between the Twin Cities and Duluth will be run and more than a hundred automobiles from all parts of the state will be here. Duluth men feel it their duty to be in a position to entertain the visitors during their stay and the best means to do so is to have a good, strong club in running order when they come.

W. W. Crawford of the Chicago Automobile club, is corresponding with the auto men of Duluth in regard to the Western Stock Chassis race for the Cobe cup and the Small Car race for the Indiana trophy, which will be held in the Windy City June 18 and 19. Mr. Crawford offers his assistance to all who go from this city, in the matter of obtaining accommodations and seats at the races.

Clubs from all parts of the country will send delegations to the event. The advance sale of seats has been heavy, but a large block of choice locations has been reserved for the out-of-town visitors.

The races will be over the Crown Point-Lowell course, one of the finest in the United States and from present indications the contest will be one of the hottest ever pulled off in America.

F. H. Sanders, representing the H. H. Franklin Manufacturing company has been in Duluth during the past week talking over the coming endurance contest with local men. It is his intention to enter the Franklin in the run.

The Russell Motor company has planned to make several changes in the electric charging outfit at its East Superior street garage. The company has purchased a large four-cylinder gasoline motor, which will be directly connected to an electric generator and which will charge about twelve electric vehicles at a time. Electric cars are coming in use more and more each month, and the Russell people will open a department for the exclusive care of electric vehicles. It will be located in the building adjoining their present quarters on the east.

N. H. Smith of the Minnesota Loan company has purchased of the Mutual Auto company a new Model A Maxwell runabout for city use.

W. H. Congdon, a Hibbing druggist, is in the city today to receive his new 6-cylinder Thomas Flyer. Mr. Congdon will have the distinction of taking the first car of the class and model to his home city.

T. H. Nelson has returned to Duluth, after a visit of several months in the West. Before he left he ordered a fine new Thomas Flyer. The car arrived during his absence and was given a tryout by Mr. Nelson yesterday.

J. D. Lamont has purchased a 30-horse power, five passenger Chalmers-Detroit touring car.

The new Columbia electric recently purchased by W. G. La Rue, met with an accident Friday night that caused some excitement but very little damage. At Twenty-third avenue east and Second street the car took fire from crossed wires. The smoke and smell made quite a sensation for a time.

Mr. Mollenhauer of the Virginia Brewing company, shipped his 6-cylinder Ford down from the range this week. The Russell company will install a new selective type of transmission and otherwise overhaul the machine.

Among those who have purchased Maxwell machines during the past week are the following: Dell Case, 16-horse power, standard roadster; John B. Hoar, roadster with rumble seat; Bert N. Wheeler of West end, single seat, Model A, runabout. This is one of the cheapest and most serviceable cars in the market. The price, $500, appeals to the man who wants a machine for light service.

Messrs. F. B. Myers and Lutzrof Biwabik and A. M. Russell of Duluth will drive Mr. Myers' Model 17 Buick from this city to Virginia tomorrow. The trip is made to test the staying qualities of the car. The machine arrived in Duluth last week. Several severe hill-climbing contests have been made with good results, and the effect of bad roads on the car will now be learned. The course from here to Virginia is said to be unusually bad this year.

Dr. McClaren and F. P. Nestor are having their Thomas flyers overhauled and refitted with new parts.

The demand for new automobiles continues to increase weekly, and all factories are reported behind in their orders. An example may be seen in the case of the Franklin company. Local agents have received several orders for Model "G" Franklins which it will not be possible to fill until 1910. Many manufacturers are compelled to cancel orders for this season's delivery.

INSISTS ON DATE ALREADY SET

Coffroth Wants Nelson-McFarland Fight for July 5.

Chicago, May 22.—Jimmy Coffroth is determined in his stand on the Nelson-McFarland fight, and unless the Dane accepts Packey as his opponent he will not fight for Coffroth on July 5. This information has reached here, and it came from both Nelson and Coffroth. Nelson sent a wire to Lanney Lichtenstein, manager for Cyclone Johnny Thompson, in which he informed him that Coffroth would not listen to a Thompson match for July 5. Bat says he cannot move the coast promoter.

Coffroth says he will have Nelson and McFarland on the July date, or he will pass up Nelson for all time, and put on Billy Papke and either Langford or Ketchel.

Despite the stand taken by Coffroth, Nelson seems to be determined to hold off. He tells Thompson that there are other cities in the West that will take the match, and he asks for the lowest guarantee Thompson will take to meet him. Bat will seek for a promoter who will stage the battle. It is certain now that Coffroth will not give in. Little more will be known of Bat's stand until after his Hyland fight. If he is the winner and he learns Coffroth is still firm, he will likely accept McFarland, for Bat knows that they will draw big, and he feels certain that he can trim the little Irishman with ease.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR BOXING BILL

Madison, Wis., May 22.—After an attempt to kill the Brew bill legalizing boxing failed, the measure was ordered engrossed in the assembly by a vote of 40 to 34. When the bill came up Assemblyman Ingram moved for indefinite postponement. Assemblyman Bray said it was carefully drawn to meet the objections to the original bill. He claimed that boxing is better than baseball and less brutal than football.

"The tendency of the age is to cultivate our young men to be sissies and to make them society boys and girl chasers instead of manly fellows," said Mr. Bray, in asking the assembly to foster the manly sport.

Assemblyman Ingram said that the precaution thrown about the bill was indicative that boxing was dangerous and wrong. Assemblyman Buslett thought it was as bad as cockfighting, but the assembly thought otherwise and the bill was ordered engrossed.

AT THE LYCEUM

LILLIAN RUSSELL COMING FOR TWO NIGHTS IN "WILDFIRE" AND JAY QUIGLEY PLAYERS WILL OPEN SUMMER SEASON JUNE 7. : : :

Lillian Russell will be seen at the Lyceum on May 31 and June 1, in her new racing comedy "Wildfire." The famous beauty is presented by Joseph Brooks in the play by Messrs. George Broadhurst and George V. Hobart. Broadhurst and Hobart, which has just carried her through a wonderful run in New York. The story was not written with Miss Russell in view, but it fits as perfectly as if it had been, and her work is of a sort that establishes her in an entirely new field. No longer the queen of comic opera she is more recently referred to as the princess of comediennes and her work as Mrs. Henrietta Barrington, the heroine of this story, will be in a sense a revelation to her friends. New York sat up and noticed with gasps of surprise the rapid strides forward in the histrionic art that Miss Russell has made, and it was one of the chief matters of interest in the receptions accorded her.

The character she portrays in the new comedy is that of a widow making a hard fight against impending disaster. It is intensely human, and the quick appeal of the developing situations is not because of any dramatic effectiveness but of the underlying tug that such a contest when waged with the spirit of such a pretty woman as Miss Russell makes her, is sure to give to every heart.

In straightening out her late husband's affairs, Mrs. Barrington finds that instead of the riches and luxuries she had been accustomed to, all that is left is a racing stable which he conducted surreptitiously under the nome de course of John Duffy. Its mainstay is the splendid mare "Wildfire." The widow's younger sister is engaged to marry the son of a neighbor, who is leading a reform movement against the operation of the big race tracks. To have it known that she is at all interested in the stable would mean the separation of the young lovers. Conditions make it necessary that she hold onto her horses for a time or sell them at a great sacrifice. The widow elects to carry on matters with the aid of he rhusband's old trainer, Matt Donovan, and by winning a big handicap the price of "Wildfire" will be enhanced materially.

The action shifts to the stable of a model outfit at one of the big tracks, and its early development gives a complete insight into the workings of this end of the famous sport. It also brings out that a scheming bookmaker who boasts the same name as that given to the lady's stable has a plan afoot to have Wildfire pulled in favor of the contender, which is owned by a suitor for the hand of the widow. Bud, a precocious stable boy and a real new character bears the plot and comes down out of the loft in time to warn the widow. There is but a moment to get things going, and her woman's wit is utilized to hoodwink the crooked horseman and prevent his making a signal that would insure the defeat of the mare. How this is done is the strong situation of the play, and one that has to be seen to be appreciated. It is genuinely dramatic, and in it Miss Russell is a revelation.

The third act is devoted to the extrication from, a plot in which the widow has been enmeshed by force of rapidly accumulating circumstances. The misunderstandings work themselves clear and it is carried forward to a happy ending for the ones vitally concerned.

"Wildfire" is faultlessly staged, and its second act has the novelty of aspect and the charm of realism to make it a departure. There is an exterior to introduce it and a beautiful home setting for the frame of the third act which reflects the Russell taste.

In her supporting company Miss Russell has the services of players who were gathered about her for their respective fitness to the characters to be portrayed. In the list will be found Frank Sheridan as the trainer and Will Archie as Bud. Others are Thurston Ball, Sydney Booth, Joseph Tuohy, Gilbert Douglas, Ernest Truex, John O'Hara, J. Hayes Hunter, Ellen Mortimer, Mary Elizabeth Forbes and Annie Buckley.

SUMMER STOCK COMPANY.

Jay Quigley Players Will Open in Duluth June 7.

The Jay Quigley Players who will be at the Lyceum theater this summer, will open their season on June 7 with the great romantic drama, "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

The scenes are laid in the sixteenth century when Henry VIII "Bluff King Hal" as he was popularly called by his loving subjects, and they still love him in spite of all his iniquities, occupied the throne of England. Those were the days in which chivalry was supposed to have flourished.

Mr. Quigley, who has secured the rights to the play, and has engaged a most capable young actress, who is rapidly forging to the front. Miss Nelson will be seen in the difficult role of Princess Mary Tudor, who was called "The Mad-cap Princess" of England. Rodney Ranous, who is considered one of the finest looking men on the American stage, will be seen as Charles Brandon, a captain of the King's Guard, with whom Princess Mary falls in love.

The original production which was used by Julia Marlowe, has been received in Duluth and the artists are working day and night getting it in shape. This delightful romance will be presented in Duluth exactly as seen at the Criterion theater in New York for many months.

AT THE BIJOU

The bill of vaudeville novelties that will open at the popular Bijou theater commencing Monday, will include many of the best attractions in vaudeville. On the program will be the Busch-DeVere trio, and company in a musical offering that is above the regular run of musical acts. These talented artists introduce illustrated recitations, singing and solos on French horns, cornets and violins. The act has played all the first-class theaters of the country, and has received much praise from press and public wherever it has appeared.

Other prominent acts on the bill will be Jack McDevitt and Earl Kelley in one of the best dancing acts ever seen at the Bijou. They present all styles of dances, and finish with their eccentric dances which are extraordinary.

One of the funniest sketches in vaudeville is presented by Rae and Brosche, who give the roaring one-act comedy entitled "Just Like A Woman." This act is one long laugh from start to finish, and one that is built for laughing purposes only.

A comedy act that deserves much credit is given by Jere Sanford the whistling and yodeling comedian. Mr. Sanford has the reputation as being the champion whistler of America. He has an excellent singing voice and his yodeling songs are always a big hit.

As an extra feature of the six Cornallas, American acrobats, will present their sensational and daring gymnastic feats. The act is given by three women and three men and is said to be one of the best of its kind before the public.

Harry Webb will sing his latest song success entitled "The Sweetest Thing On Earth." The moving pictures will all be new and exclusive subjects. Matinees are given daily at 2.45 and night performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either 'phone. A school children's matinee will be given Saturday at 2.30 and performances on Sunday afternoon and night.

LILLIAN RUSSELL,
Coming to the Lyceum in "Wildfire."

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

NEW YORK, May 22.—It is not often that the revival of a once popular farce gives one an impression of vital interest, for a rechauff of good jokes is like a mess of stale eggs. But William Collier gives you the impresston that you are seeing a brand-new farce when you see him in "The Man from Mexico," which has been brought out at the Garrick after lying quiescent for nearly a decade. He has supplied the piece with a battery of new quips and peppery dialogue, the old-fashioned business has been weeded out, the whole thing has been spiced with fresh snap and ginger, and the farce went over the boards with a merry din accompaniment of laughter from the audience as on its initial tour. His Benjamin Fitzhugh is the best example of pure farce on the stage, and Collier is able to do absurd things in such a way as to make a philosopher laugh as easily as the giggling maiden with the hair-trigger sense of risibility. Of course, the piece is put on with every regard for up-to-date prejudices, but even in modern farces there are few such scenes as the one on Blackwell's island, where Fitzhugh is serving a term of thirty days while he makes his wife believe that he is gone to Mexico and sends home glowing accounts of the bull fight he witnessed.

"My bull ran second," is one of the bright phrases in the letter. The older localisms have been cut out and completely new material has been substituted. If the reception given the farce by the lace audience is any criterion, "The Man from Mexico" is good for a summer run, and the comedian may postpone his announced visit to London. His principal support comes from his sister, Helena Collier Garrick, who plays Mrs. Fitzhugh as heartily as Collier does the husband. She dances a bolero in the last act that had to be repeated.

The Twelfth Night club gave the first of a series of dramatic entertainments at the Berkeley theater, which was remarkable for a performance by Fuji-Ko, the Japanese actress, dancer and singer. After singing a Japanese lullaby to music of her own composition—and very pleasing music at that—she gave a number of imitations of Anna Held, Harry Lauder, Vesta Victoria and other well-known people of the vaudeville world. She speaks English with a slight foreign accent, but this disappears in the amazing cockney dialect and Scotch burr with which she lards her speech. Her imitations were clever throughout, from the point of view, both in reproducing and dialect and the mannerism of the originals. Another striking feature of the program was a recitation of "The Raven," by David Bispham, a musical accompaniment. When the curtain goes up Bispham is discovered seated in a barren room at a table with a bottle of liquor and a glass. He wears no disguise, and interprets the poem in the spirit of half delirious imagination, which he works up into a fervid and affecting piece of realism. As a melodramatic performance it takes rank with anything we have had on the stage in recent years, and if he were not the paying proposition as a singer that he is he could make $1,000 a week reciting "The Raven" to Arthur Berg's music. Though the composition is not much in itself, it furnishes the atmospheric touch that is essential to the artist in sustaining the interest above the level of an ordinary event in forensics.

Another feature of the program was a sketch, "The Siege of Berlin," dramatized from the story of Alphonse Daudet by William J. Hurlbut, author of "The Fighting Hope" and "The Writing On the Wall." It tells the last day of one of Napoleon's old guard, Col. Jouve, who has been nursed back to life by his granddaughter with the delusion that the French have been triumphant in the war and are besieging Berlin, whereas the music he hears in the streets under his window is not the "Marsellaise," but "The Watch On the Rhine," played by the invading Germans.

"Follies of the Day" is a musical comedy, which avowedly has no plot, but a great deal of action, and its experience here has been varied and interesting. It first blossomed out on the Bowery. It was so good that the Shuberts agreed to transfer it to the Majestic. Before the date became vacant some one changed his mind, and the piece remained on the Bowery a while longer, and then went on tour for a season. Now it is back in New York, serving to inaugurate the new policy at the Lincoln Square, which ceased to be a vaudeville house when William Morris renewed his attractions to the new Plaza music hall. It passed through the ordeal with something of the success of "Wine, Woman and Song," which had a similar experience more than a year ago at the Circle theater. It is a breezy, up-to-date musical piece, with a number of pretty dancing girls, some clever comedians and several good burlesque acts. The indications are that it will hold on for some time to come.

The one player which the events of the season have added to the roster of well-known people is Leona Watson, who until she appeared one afternoon at Weber's theater in "The Climax," was unknown to fame, so far as New York was concerned. Little Rock recognized her talent four years ago, when she first went on the stage, for she told this scribe that the Little Rock critics were the first to give her an encouraging notice. "The Climax" requires that the leading actress shall be a good vocalist. The combination is not always available, and so it was that an unknown personage was selected for the role. Until she appeared in her homely, sympathetic characterization of Adelina von Hagen she was prima donna of various light opera companies, and after graduating from a Cincinnati musical academy she sang "Bohemian Girl," "The Chimes of Normandy," "Martha" and similar operas for twelve months over a route of one-night stands, in which Little Rock was the largest town. Last season she was prima donna of the White City Park Opera company in New Orleans for seventeen weeks.

Wilke was in the company. He and Edward Locke, the author of "The Climax," are friends, and he recommended Miss Watson for the leading part, assuring him that she could play the heroine, laughs, pathos and all. And so it came about that she appeared on Broadway in the first of a series of tentative performances in the afternoon at Weber's, where the scandalous "Girl from Rector's" is the regular night attraction. She came, she saw and conquered. The piece was removed to Daly's, where it is expected to last out the season and well into the summer days. Miss Watson is an exceedingly modest girl and tears gather in her eyes when she tells of the struggles she had to get a foothold in the profession after leaving Cincinnati. She was born in Frankfort, Ky., and is a fair example of Kentucky grit.

The once tremendously popular Pauline Hall, who has not been seen in New York for years, made her reappearance on Broadway last week in a character in "Nellie the Beautiful Cloak Model," a scene from which the Friars put on with a star cast for their benefit at the New York theater. Next year the still handsome comedy queen will be starred in Lillian Russell's part in "Wildfire," which is to resume the road.

"The Thief" is to go out another season, but Kyrle Bellew will not play the husband next year. Mr. Frohman has decided to put the play out with Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon in the principal roles. They have been playing with Bellew the present season, Miss Shannon as the wife and Kelcey as the father. But next year Kelcey will have Bellew's part and Bellew will go out in a new play.

James Forbes, the author of "The Chorus Lady" and "The Traveling Salesman", has written a new satirical comedy of New York life, entitled "The Commuters," which Henry B. Harris will put out next season. Commuters are people who live in the suburbs and depend on railways, street cars and ferry boats to go to and from their homes mornings and evenings, and who have grievances and experiences, sad and humorous, that have not yet been exploited in comedy or farce.

The dignified Henry E. Dixie, now playing in his big success, "Mary Jane's Pa," at the Chicago opera house, is known as an inveterate joker to his actor friends, but a Chicago paper tells this story about how the tables were turned on him the other day. The story goes that he bought a bouquet of flowers for Dave Montgomery, who had a birthday, and to make the joke good he dressed in his tramp clothes that he wears in the play, and attempted to deliver the flowers to Montgomery at the Grand opera house, where a matinee was on. But he failed to reckon with the doorkeeper. John Marlin refused to let him in and was about to handle him roughly when Montgomery heard the commotion and stopped the argument. Then Dixie made a hurried exit and got back to his theater just in time to go on.

"The Love Cure" is another comic opera of "The Merry Widow" type by Edmund Eysler, a Viennese composer. The foreign book by Leo Stein, part author of "The Merry Widow," has been adapted to the English speaking stage by Oliver Herford, whose quaint humor has made him known through his books as well as through his dramatic work.

Work on the scenic production of Bisson's thrilling French drama, "Madame X," is now under way at Henry W. Savage's New York studios and all four acts are expected to be complete by the time Mr. Savage returns from abroad in June. This play is now the only new dramatic production for next year promised by Mr. Savage, who expects to launch several new operas in the hope of duplicating the success of "The Merry Widow."

Henry B. Harris, returning on the Caronia from London, where he has been superintending the launching of Rose Stahl's engagement in that city in James Forbes' comedy, "The Chorus Lady," says that Miss Stahl has been received with greater acclaim than any American actress seen in London, not even excepting Ada Rehan, and it is a matter of fact that many of the slang phrases in "The Chorus Lady" have immediately been taken up, and are heard on the streets in London. Mr. Harris further states that Miss Stahl's engagement is such a prosperous one that every indication points to a year's stay in London. Mr. Harris immediately after the opening night of "The Chorus Lady," was in receipt of cables from managers in Berlin and Vienna, asking for the producing rights for Austria and Germany, and closed with them.

For the first time in his career as a manager he will produce this coming season a foreign play, having purchased the reigning London farce success, "The Noble Spaniard," written by W. Somerset Maugham, author of "Lady Frederick" and "Jack Straw." "The Noble Spaniard" is now being played in London with Charles Hawtrey as the star. The period of the play is laid in the early fifties, better known as the Crinoline period. This play was purchased for the use of Robert Edeson.

While in London Mr. Harris arranged for the production there this coming fall, with an English cast, of Charles Klein's latest play, "The Third Degree," now running at the Hudson theater, and also for the production in London of Martha Morton's adaptation of Leopold Kampf's sociological drama, "On the Eve," which is to have its premier also in America this coming fall.

Mr. Harris also arranged for the return to this country of Ruth St. Denis, the celebrated American dancer, whose terpsichorean achievements in the way of Oriental and Hindu dances have been the furore of London, Paris and Berlin. Miss St. Denis will be seen at the Hudson theater in October in a series of matinees in her repertoire of dances, which have been greatly enlarged since her last appearance in America.

Maclyn Arbuckle, whose tour in "The Round Up," Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks' big play of the Arizona desert ends shortly, is delighted with his new play, "The Circus Man," by Eugene Presbrey. The playwright read the play to him in Cleveland. He has given him the best opportunity of his life for the creation of a stage character of importance.

"Fighting Hime Look' is a New Englander," says Mr. Presbrey. "As a boy he was the village scapegoat, and was finally kicked out into the world in disgrace. Twenty years later he returns after having been the proprietor of a circus in Texas. He comes back with $40,000, the remnants of his menagerie and a determination to conquer the village.

"The town is still antagonistic. If resents his return. The warmth of his welcome is shown by the village constable, still in office, who holds a warrant for the arrest of Look, issued twenty years before. This warrant is promptly served, as a means of showing how the community feels toward the black sheep.

"During the year 'Fighting Hime' spends in the town he bends every effort toward subduing the community. It has been his custom to rule his beasts by forcing them to submit. By the end of the year he not only conquers the village, but himself as well. His character undergoes psychological transformation, and from the bully he is changed into a big lovable chap, to whom it is a pleasure to surrender. The character, as drawn by Mr. Day, will give Mr. Arbuckle an opportunity for a creation of a big American type of human instincts that will be loved by everybody."

Klaw & Erlanger have closed a contract with Henry Beach Needham for his play on American political life entitled "Senator West." This is the play with which President Roosevelt's name was identified last winter, so much so that some of his more ardent admirers were circulating the report that he was writing a play. The play has a real love story running through it. The announcement of unusual interest, national figures, including ex-President Roosevelt, Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock, Senators La Follette and Beveridge and Congressman Victor Murdock. William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port of New York and formerly secretary of President Roosevelt, says: "I am delighted to hear that Mr. Needham has placed his play so auspiciously, and I know that President Roosevelt will be glad to hear it, as he was intensely interested in the theme and the sincere message which Mr. Needham is sending to the country in this drama. We have had a great many Washington plays, but I know that Mr. Roosevelt believed this one to be real politics."

Senator Beveridge, who read the play some months ago, wrote to Mr. Needham: "The best thing of the kind I ever read. President Roosevelt told me that he thinks so too. I believe it will be a great 'go' and will make money and reputation for you."

Senator La Follette wrote as follows: "You have in your political theme of your play made a graphic, dramatic cosmos of many of the existing political conditions and the play will, I think, make a strong appeal to audiences in various parts of the country. It combines so many elements within the personal experience of people in both the large cities and the smaller districts. It is a play with a message for those who choose to hear it, but the strongly dramatic story would hold those who had no interest in politics.

"Bill Truetell," George H. Brennan's story of theatrical life, has become so widely popular that arrangements are already in progress for its dramatization. The production will be made in New York early next fall. A well-known star, who has achieved several comedy successes, will impersonate the title role, that of a manager constantly in the hardest kind of hard luck. The dramatization is to be made by a prominent playwright in collaboration with Mr. Brennan. Simultaneously with the American production a performance will be given in London to secure the English rights.

June 5 Grace Van Studdiford begins a return engagement in Montreal, presenting "The Golden Butterfly" for the second time in that city. A letter has this to say: "Although Miss Van Studdiford does not come to Montreal for a month, every seat in the house has been taken for her opening performance at advanced prices. During her engagement the prima donna will be extensively entertained at dinners and receptions by Montreal's most exclusive smart set. She is a very great favorite here and is certain to do a splendid business. Special trains are to be run from all the near-by cities." With this engagement Miss Van Studdiford ends her long tour. It has been a success. Manager Charles Bradley was in town last Sunday and had this to say: "Yes, Miss Van Studdiford is making a record-breaking tour in 'The Golden Butterfly' and leaving a splendid impression all along the line."

THE BREAKDOWN OF MRS. TAFT

Has Aroused Much Speculation in Washington Society Circles.

Washington, May 22.—The illness of Mrs. Taft has aroused much speculation in the society circles of Washington. This is not necessarily because the indisposition of the mistress of the White House is at all serious. On the contrary, she is expected to resume her duties as hostess in a few days. Society's main concern is whether Mrs. Taft is physically able to go through the rigorous season of social entertaining.

Strictly speaking, there has been no extensive entertaining at the White House since President Taft took office. The really heavy and tiresome duties of the first lady of the land will not begin until the winter season.

It is true there have been numerous dinner parties, and two or three delightful garden parties. The entertainments, such as they have been, are not to be compared with a busy season, and society is wondering whether the nervous breakdown of Mrs. Taft will result in curtailing the schedule of White House entertainments which have been in vogue for nearly eight years.

The fact that the wife of the president has clerical assistance does not materially lighten the burdens. Mrs. Taft has a social secretary, in addition to which a number of the clerks in the executive office are at her disposal. Unlike the other women in the official set, she is relieved from the necessity of making calls, although she frequently does call on her intimate friends.

Notwithstanding this Mrs. Taft has had a slight breakdown. A statement from the White House says that it was primarily due to the tax on her system incident to an operation on "Charlie" Taft for the removal of his tonsils.

It is not improbable that the numerous dinner parties which have been given recently will not be a part of the program of entertainments during the remainder of the summer, and Mrs. Taft may find it advisable to go to the summer capital at Beverly in advance of the president if the session of congress drags along until the latter part of July or the first part of August.

PITTSBURG MEN ARE EASY MARKS

Pittsburg, Pa., May 22.—Pittsburg clubs and stag parties are at present discussing a mysterious "woman with the white carnation," who for some weeks recently traveled on trains in and out of Pittsburg and who reaped a rich harvest from men of means.

Eight Pullman porters have been discharged for either having assisted the woman in her work of fleecing gullible male travelers or for not having gained enough knowledge of what was going on to put a stop to it.

While the railroads east and west of Pittsburg are each lustily denying that their particular lines were visited by the lady, members of the big clubs are busily discussing it, as several of the prominent men of Pittsburg were reported caught.

The woman, who was very beautiful, is reported by victims to have used the porters to have her thrown into the company of prosperous looking passengers on the night trains, whom she would rob and trust to their being afraid to tell of the occurrence.

Lillian Russell will be seen at the Lyceum on May 31 and June 1, in her new racing comedy "Wildfire." The famous beauty is presented by Joseph Brooks in the play by Messrs. George Hendrigues and George V. Hobart, which has just carried her through a wonderful run in New York. The story was not written with Miss Russell in view, but it fits so perfectly as if it had been, and the work is of a sort that established her in an entirely new field. No longer the queen of comic opera she is more recently referred to as the actress of comedy-drama and her work as Mrs. Henrietta Harbaugh, in the drama of that story, will be a revelation to her friends. New York sat up and took notice when Miss Russell appeared with scores of surprises, the rapid strides forward in the histrionic art that Miss Russell has made and it was one of the chief matters of interest in the recent season awarded her.

The character she portrays in the new comedy is that of a widow making a hard fight against impending disaster. It is tolerably human and the quick appeal of the day lopping situations is not the least of our dramatic effectiveness but of the underlying the theme that has enlisted so keen a wit the spirit of such a pretty woman as Miss Russell makes her, is sure to give to every act.

In at once bringing out her late husband's affairs, Mrs. Barrington finds that instead of the handsome income she had left to support herself in the manner to which she was accustomed there is left to her only a small sum, hardly sufficient to meet the current bills. It is necessary for her to do something. It is necessary that she build upon her business of trade. It is then that a great admirer, the widow elects to carry on matters with the aid of the chief and old friend, Matt Harbaugh, and by wagering a big handicap the prize in "Wildfire" will be entered.

The plot shifts to the stable of a model outfit at one of the big tracks, and its early development gives a complete insight into the workings of this end of the turf. Its agent, it does bring one in contact with a thoroughly picturesque character, who is sought after by the ladies of the play, who is afoot to have Wildfire pulled in favor of the contender. Much is owned by a sister (in the play of the widow Bell, sister (in the play of the widow Bell, a precocious stable boy and a real show character bears the plot and comes down out of the loft in time to carry the widow. There is but a moment to get things going and her woman's wit is utilized to floodwink the crooked

AT THE BIJOU

The [illegible] will be the popular Busche-DeVere trio, and company in a comedy offering that is above the regulation [illegible] real [illegible] Many of the best acts [illegible] in vaudeville [illegible] On the program will be the [illegible] of the Rae and Broschi artists, introducing illustrated recitations, singing and solos on French horns, cornets and violins. The act has played all the first-class theaters of the country, and has received much praise from press and public wherever it has appeared.

Other prominent acts on the bill will be Jack Melbevitt and Earl Kelley in one of the best dancing acts ever seen at the Bijou. They present all styles of dances, and finish with their eccentric dances which are extraordinary.

One of the funniest sketches in vaudeville is presented by Rae and Broschi, who give the roaring one-act comedy entitled "Just Like A Woman." This act is one long laugh from start to finish, and one that is built for laughing purposes only.

A comedy act that deserves much credit is given by Jere Sanford the whistling and yodeling comedian. Mr. Sanford has the reputation as being the champion whistler of America. He has an excellent singing voice and his yodeling songs are always a big hit.

As an extra feature of the six Cornallas, American acrobats, will present their sensational and daring gymnastic feats. The act is given by three women and three men and is said to be one of the best of its kind before the public.

Harry Webb will sing his latest song success entitled "The Sweetest Thing On Earth." The moving pictures will all be new and exclusive subjects. Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and night performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either 'phone. A school children's matinee will be given Saturday at 2:30 and performances on Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

NEW YORK, May 22.—It is not often that the revival of a once popular farce gives one an impression of vital interest, for a rechauff of good jokes is like a mess of stale eggs. But William Collier gives you the impression that you are seeing a brand-new farce when you see him in "The Man from Mexico," which has been brought out at the Garrick after lying quiescent for nearly a decade. He has supplied the piece with a battery of new quips and peppery dialogue, the old-fashioned business has been weeded out, the whole thing has been spiced with fresh snap and zinger, and the farce went over the boards with as merry an accompaniment of laughter from the audience as on its initial tour. His Benjamin Fitzhugh is the best example of pure farce on the stage, and Collier is able to do absurd things in such a way as to make a philosopher laugh as easily as the giggling maiden with the hair-trigger sense of risibility. Of course, the piece is put on with every regard for up-to-date prejudices, but even in modern farces there are now such scenes as on Blackwell's Island, where Fitzhugh is serving a term of thirty days while he makes his wife believe that he is gone to Mexico and sends home glowing accounts of the bull fight he never witnessed.

"My bull ran second," is one of the bright phrases in the letter. The older localisms have been cut out and completely new ones have been substituted, and the reception given the farce by the large audience is any criterion, "The Man from Mexico" is good for a summer run, and the comedian may be one his announced visit to London. His principal support comes from his sister, Helena Collier Garrick, who plays Mrs. Fitzhugh as heartily as Collier does the husband. She dances a bolero in the last act that had to be repeated.

James Forbes, the author of "The Chorus Lady" and "The Traveling Salesman," has written a new satirical comedy of New York life, entitled "The Commuters," which Henry B. Harris will put out next season. Commuters are people who live in the suburbs and depend on railways, street cars and ferry boats to go to and from their homes mornings and evenings, and who have grievances and experiences, sad and humorous, that have not yet been exploited in comedy or farce.

The dignified theory of Dixie, now playing in his big success, "Mary Jane's Pa," at the Chicago opera house, is known as an inveterate joker to his actor friends, but a Chicago paper tells this story about how the tables were turned on him the other day. The story goes that he bought a bouquet of flowers for Dave Montgomery, who had a birthday, and to make the joke good he dressed in his trump clothes that he wears in the play, and attempted to deliver the flowers to Montgomery at the Grand opera house, where a matinee was on. But he failed to reckon with the doorkeeper. John Marlin refused to let him in and was about to handle him roughly when Montgomery heard the commotion and stopped the argument. Then Dixie made a hurried exit and got back to his theater just in time to go on.

"The Love Cure" is another comic opera of "The Merry Widow" type by Edmund Eysler, a Viennese composer. The foreign book by Leo Stein, part author of "The Merry Widow," has been adapted to the English speaking stage by Oliver Herford, whose quaint humor has made him known through his books as well as through his dramatic work.

Work on the scenic production of Bisson's thrilling French drama, "Madame X," is now under way at Henry W Savage's New York studios and all four acts are expected to be complete by the time Mr. Savage returns from abroad in June. This play is now the only new dramatic production for next year promised by Mr. Savage, who expects to launch several new operas in the hope of duplicating the success of "The Merry Widow."

Henry B. Harris, returning on the Caronia from London, where he has been superintending the launching of Rose Stahl's engagement in that city in James Forbes' comedy, "The Chorus Lady," says that Miss Stahl has been received with greater acclaim than any American actress seen in London, not even excepting Ada Rehan, and it is a matter of fact that many of the slang phrases in "The Chorus Lady" have immediately been taken up, and are heard on the streets in London. Mr. Harris further states that Miss Stahl's engagement is such a prosperous one that every indication points to a year's stay in London. Mr. Harris immediately after the opening night of "The Chorus Lady," was in receipt of cables from managers in Berlin and Vienna, asking for the producing rights for Austria and Germany, and closed with them.

For the first time in his career as a manager he will produce this coming season a foreign play, having purchased the reigning London farce successes, "The Noble Spaniard," written by W. Somerset Maugham, author of "Lady Frederick" and "Jack Straw." "The Noble Spaniard" is now being played in London with Charles Hawtrey as the star. The period of the play is laid in the early fifties, better known as the Crinoline period. This play was purchased for the use of Robert Edeson.

While in London Mr. Harris arranged for the production there this coming fall, with an English cast, of Charles Klein's latest play, "The Third Degree," now running at the Hudson theater, and also for the production in London of Martha Morton's adaptation of Leopold Kampf's sociological drama, "On the Eve," which is to have its premier also in America this coming fall.

Mr. Harris also arranged for the return to this country of Ruth St. Denis, the celebrated American dancer, whose terpsichorean achievements in the way of Oriental and Hindu dances have been the furore of London, Paris and Berlin. Miss St. Denis will be seen at the Hudson theater in October in a series of matinees in her repertoire of dances, which have been greatly enlarged since her last appearance in America.

Next season Henry E. Dixey in "Mary Jane's Pa" will be sent by Henry W. Savage on a complete tour of the country. Dixey's Chicago engagement is proving so prosperous that it may continue until July.

Maclyn Arbuckle will go to his farm on the St. Lawrence river, near Ogdensburg, to rest up before he begins his rehearsals of "The Circus Man" in August.

Klaw & Erlanger will put out McIlvyre and Heath next season in "The Sleeplechasers," by H. A. Du Souchet. The tour will open in New York.

Lillian Russell will spend her vacation in Europe.

Maclyn Arbuckle, whose tour in "The Rounder Up," Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks' big play of the Arizona desert ends shortly, is delighted with his new play, "The Circus Man," by Eugene Presbrey. The playwright read the play to him in Cleveland. He feels that Mr. Presbrey, in dramatizing Hulman Day's book, "Squire Phin," has given him the best opportunity of his life for the creation of a stage character of importance.

"Fighting Hime Look" is a New Englander," says Mr. Presbrey. "As boy he was the village scapegrace, and was finally kicked out into the world in disgrace. Twenty years later he returns after having become the proprietor of a circus in Texas. He comes back with $40,000, the remains of his menagerie and a determination to conquer the village.

"The townspeople, antagonistic at first on his return. The warmth of his welcome is shown by the village constable, still in office, who holds a warrant for the arrest of Lord, issued against the circus. This warrant is promptly served, as a means of showing how the community feels toward the black sheep.

"During the year 'Fighting Hime' spends in the town he bends every effort toward subduing the community. It has been its custom to ride the streets by forcing them to submit. By keeps by forcing them to submit. By the end of the year he not only subdues the village, but runs it as well. His character undergoes psychological transformation, and from the bully he is changed into a big lovable chap, to whom it is a pleasure to surrender. This character, as drawn by Mr. Day, will give Mr. Arbuckle an opportunity for a creation of a big American type of human manliness that will be loved by everybody."

Klaw & Erlanger have closed a contract with Henry Beach Needham for his play on American political life entitled "Senator West." This is the play with which President Roosevelt's name was identified last winter, so much so that some of his most ardent admirers were circulating the report that he was writing a play. The play deals with political complications in Washington and the Middle West, but has a real love story running through it. The announcement is of unusual interest, national figures, including ex-President Roosevelt, Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock, Senators La Follette and Beveridge and Congressman Victor Murdock, William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port of New York and formerly secretary of President Roosevelt, says: "I am delighted to hear that Mr. Needham has placed his play so auspiciously, and I know that President Roosevelt will be glad to hear it, as he was intensely interested in the theme and the sincere message which Mr. Needham is sending to the country in this drama. We have had a great many Washington plays, but I know that Mr. Roosevelt believed this one to be real politics."

Senator Beveridge, who read the play some months ago, wrote to Mr. Needham: "This is the best thing of the kind I have read. President Roosevelt told me that he thinks so too. I believe it will be a great hit and will make money and reputation for you."

Senator La Follette wrote as follows: "You have in the political theme of your play made a graphic, dramatic cosmos of many of the existing political conditions of the day. The play will, I think, make a strong appeal to audiences in various parts of the country. It combines so many elements within its compass, such as the love affairs of both the large cities and the smaller districts. It is a play with a message for those who choose to hear it, but the strongly dramatic story would hold those who had no interest in politics.

"Bill Truebell," George H. Brennan's story of theatrical life, has become so widely popular that arrangements are already in progress for its dramatization. The production will be made in New York early next fall. A well-known actor, who has achieved several comedy successes, will impersonate the title role, that of a manager constantly in the hardest kind of hard luck. The dramatization is to be made by a prominent playwright in collaboration with Mr. Brennan. Simultaneously with the American production a performance will be given in London to secure the English rights.

June 5 Grace Van Studdiford begins a return engagement in Montreal, presenting "The Golden Butterfly" for the second time in that city. A letter just this to say: "Although Miss Van Studdiford does not come to Montreal for a month, every seat in the house has been taken for her opening performance at advanced prices. During her engagement the prima donna will be extensively entertained at dinners and receptions by Montreal's most exclusive smart set. She is a very great favorite here and is certain to do a splendid business. Special trains are to be run from all the near-by cities. With this engagement Miss Van Studdiford ends her long tour. It has been a success. Manager Charles Bradley was in town last Sunday and had this to say. "Yes, Miss Van Studdiford is making a record-breaking tour in 'The Golden Butterfly' and leaving a splendid impression all along the line."

Washington, May 22.—The illness of Mrs. Taft has aroused much speculation in the society circles of Washington. This is not necessarily because the indisposition of the mistress of the White House is at all serious. On the contrary, she is expected to resume her duties as hostess in a few days. Society's main concern is whether Mrs. Taft is physically able to go through the rigorous season of social entertaining.

Strictly speaking, there has been no extensive entertaining at the White House since President Taft took office. The really heavy and tiresome duties of the first lady of the land will not begin until the winter season.

It is true there have been numerous dinner parties and two or three delightful garden parties. The entertainments, such as they have been, are not to be compared with a busy season, and society is wondering whether this nervous breakdown of Mrs. Taft will result in curtailing the schedule of White House entertainments which has been in vogue for nearly eight years.

The fact that the wife of the president has clerical assistance does not materially lighten the burdens. Mrs. Taft has a social secretary, in addition to which a number of the duties in the executive office are at her disposal. Unlike the other women in the official set, she is relieved from the necessity of mailing calls, although she frequently does call on her intimate friends.

Notwithstanding this Mrs. Taft has had a slight breakdown. A statement from the White House says that it was primarily due to the tax on her system incident to an operation [illegible] "Charlie" Taft for the removal of his tonsils.

It is not improbable that the numerous dinner parties which have been given recently will not be a part of the program of entertainments during the remainder of the summer, and Mrs. Taft may find it advisable to go to the summer capital at Beverly in advance of the president if the session of congress drags along until the latter part of July or the first part of August.

PITTSBURG MEN ARE EASY MARKS

Pittsburg, Pa., May 22.—Pittsburg clubs and stag parties are at present discussing a mysterious "woman with the white carnation," who for some weeks recently traveled on trains in and out of Pittsburg and who reaped a rich harvest from men of means.

Eight Pittsburgh parties have been the largest for whom she has used the woman in her work of fleecing gullible male travelers or for a hoaxing caused enough excitement of what was going on to put a stop to it.

While the railroads and west of Pittsburg are much busily denying that their particular lines were victimized by the lady, managers of the big clubs are busily discussing it as several of the prominent men of Pittsburg were reported caught.

The woman, who was very beautiful, is reported by victims to have used the porters to have her chosen into the company of prosperous looking passengers on the night trains, whom she would rob and trust to their being afraid to call at the occurrence.

Everybody who attends the convention of the United Commercial Travelers in Duluth next month will have a better time here than they ever had at any convention they ever attended."

This is the claim made by local members of the U. C. T., who are flying around making arrangements for the big affair and judging by the program of entertainment that has been prepared, and the energy and enthusiasm on the part of Duluth as a whole, the claim is well founded.

"Give every outsider a good time and boost all you are worth for Duluth," will be the keynote of Duluthians, led by the commercial travelers, during the convention. A good time for a guest is in itself a boost for the one giving it, so particular stress will be laid upon this point.

"Always something doing in Duluth," is a line that will appear upon all convention badges, and the Zenith City commercial travelers will see to it that the visitors are made to believe this.

Big Crowd Coming.

Arrangements for the big gathering, which will be held here June 10, 11 and 12, are going along in fine shape. From present indications it will be one of the most successful conventions ever held there or anywhere else in the Northwest. From 1,500 to 2,000 members of the order will be in attendance, and a majority of the married men will have their wives with them, and many will be accompanied by other members of their families.

Special trains and special cars will be the order of the day. There will be at least one, and probably two, special trains run to Duluth from the Twin Cities, and one or more from the West and North. In addition to these there will be several special cars attached to the regular trains, it is expected. This jurisdiction covers Minnesota, the Dakotas, Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and from all these reports are that there will be a big attendance.

The last time the commercial travelers of this jurisdiction met in Duluth was in 1903, and they all had such a remarkably fine time that they have been looking forward ever since to when the next gathering would be held here. Also, they have been telling their friends of the good time they had here before, and how their friends are anxious to come.

Band Is Engaged.

The full Third regiment band has been engaged for the three convention days, and with the reception committee, will meet the incoming trains. The biggest party of visitors will arrive in the city at 6:30 o'clock the opening day of the convention, Thursday, June 10, and will be met by the band and committee. W. H. Wilson, B. P. Neff and G. W. Wells make up the committee on arrangements for the convention and besides these there is a big reception committee, a committee on sports and various other committees. Every member of every committee is doing everything possible to make every dollar spent in entertainment count, and results in this direction will be more than gratifying.

The delegation arriving the morning of the convention, as well as delegations arriving before and after that, will be escorted to convention headquarters, where the visitors will be supplied with badges, caps, programs, souvenir books, etc. Right here it might be said that the badges and souvenir books are something especially fine, arranged at great trouble and expense.

At 8:30 o'clock the opening day, Zenith council and the band will head a procession of commercial travelers in a march to the Armory, where, at 9 o'clock, will occur the reception and welcome of the grand council members. Rev. R. J. Mooney will give the invocation. The Masonic quartette will sing. Mayor Haven will deliver the address of welcome, and Grand Councilor C. W. Sutton will respond on behalf of the commercial travelers. T. W. Hugo, who was mayor when the last convention was held here, will act as chairman of the meeting, and will deliver an address suitable to the occasion. There will be an address by ex-Congressman J. Adam Bede, and B. P. Neff will speak on "The Business Men's View of Traveling Men, By One Who Knows." E. L. Millar, an old and very popular friend of the traveling men, known personally to nearly every one in this jurisdiction, will speak on "Duluth."

At 10:30 o'clock in the morning the visitors will be expected to report at the Knights of Pythias hall. The Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Masons, Elks and Commercial clubs all will open the doors of their buildings to the visitors every day of the convention, and give them free use of the premises. This also applies to the high school. The Commercial club in particular wishes it to be understood that visiting traveling men will be treated during their stay in the city as members of the organization, and will be allowed every privilege. The Y. W. C. A. is anxious to extend every possible courtesy to the lady visitors, and the committee on convention arrangements has not forgotten the ladies, either. Every one of the three days something special will be provided for their entertainment, and it will be seen to that time does not drag heavily on their hands.

At 2 o'clock there will be a business session in the Knights of Pythias hall which will last durig the remainder of the afternoon. While this is going on there will be a reception for ladies and a distribution of souvenirs at the Commercial club.

At 8 o'clock in the evening there will be exemplifying degree work in the K. P. hall, and entertainment for the ladies elsewhere. All details of the program are not yet complete.

At 9 a. M. Friday there will be an open-air concert by the famous Third Regiment band, in front of headquarters. At 9 o'clock there will be a business session, and while this in progress the ladies will be given a drive around the boulevard. From 2 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon there will be orchestras and other forms of entertainment in the different buildings named above. In the evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, there will be a grand ball at the Armory.

Big Street Parade.

A grand industrial and civic parade will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. All the city officials will take part in this, and there will be three platoons of police. It is also expected that the fire department will turn out in force. Twenty-six councils of the United Order of Commercial Travelers will be represented in form. There will be three divisions first, a parade, each headed by a baggrse into commercial, industrial and manufacturing interests will have floats, and altogether it is believed the parade will be one of the best of the kind ever attempted here. Automobiles and carriages will be provided for the ladies.

Following the parade, the commercial travelers and ladies will board three excursion steamers which will be waiting for them at the Fifth avenue west dock, and the boats will carry them up the St. Louis river to Fond du Lac. Dinner will be served in Chamber's grove, and there will be a long and interesting program of athletic events during the afternoon. A feature of the program will be a baseball game between the Calgary and Duluth commercial travelers' baseball teams.

The boats will start on the return trip down the river at 4 p. m., and in the evening the Ancient and Mystic Avesta Guild of the Bagmen of Bagdad, a subsidiary order of the U. C. T., will confer degrees at the K. P. hall. This will be open to all the visitors, including the ladies.

The coming convention will be the sixteenth annual reunion of the U. C. T. of this jurisdiction. Duluth was the first city to have a lodge in the present jurisdiction of Duluth. The order itself was incorporated under the laws of Ohio, Jan. 16, 1888. The Duluth lodge was started in 1893, and soon after this lodges were established in St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Grand Forks and other Northwestern cities.

The management of the order is under control of representative bodies organized along lines of national government, the subordinate councils being restricted into jurisdictions comprising one or more states or provinces, with a superior or governing body known as the grand council, which in turn is subservient to the head body, known as the supreme council.

FOR BLISTERED FEET

Suffered in Turkish Bath Establishment Carl Asks $4,500 Damages.

St. Louis, Mo., May 22.—Carl Janspecht, traveling for a New York concern, has filed suit here against the Planters' Hotel company for $4,500 damages for blistered feet. The plaintiff alleges that when he went to take a Turkish bath at the Planters' hotel, and stepped into the "very hot" room unattended, the doors slammed upon him, and, the floor being uncarpeted, his feet were badly blistered and he fainted.

Since Witnessing Murder of Her Mother By Latter's Husband.

Atlanta, Ga., May 22.—As a result of witnessing the murder of her sleeping mother, Mrs. Mary Burge, by the latter's husband, 51-year-old Sarah Britton, the woman's child by her first husband, has become a raving maniac. Burge entered his wife's room and stabbed her to death as she lay in bed asleep. Little Sarah Britton, who was sleping in the room, was awakened and saw the knife driven into her mother. The child went into convulsions, which were followed by mania, and physicians say she will never regain her senses.

CLOQUET Y. M. C. A. HAVE A MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

Cloquet, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The membership campaign of the Y. M. C. A. is making great headway. The mark has been set at 500 members and from indications the prospects are bright for reaching it. Last evening a band concert was held on the street, after which the little boat, "Membership," was placed upon the ladder to begin its upward course, each new member advancing it one notch.

Fireworks will be used every evening to report the progress of the campaign, according to a set of signals, which has been given out. The campaign for subscription members was successfully closed last Wednesday and preparations are now under way for a grand rally to mark the end of the first year of the association's existence in the city. This will take place sometime in early June.

Therefore Negaunee Suicide Could Not Finish Explanatory Letter.

Negaunee, Mich., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of John Stebbetti, who committed suicide Tuesday night, took place Friday. He left considerable money to some of his friends in this city, and he also wrote several letters before committing the deed. One was to his friend, Peter Mussato, a well-known Italian resident of Negaunee. The substance of it was that he wished to be excused for his action and that he hoped to meet him in the next world. He ended the letter saying that his eyes were full of tears and that he could not write any more.

The deceased has two brothers residing in Pennsylvania, but attempts to communicate with them have so far been futile.

FRIGHTENED BY AUTO, TEAM IN BAD RUNAWAY.

Menominee, Mich., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two prominent Menominee county Polish farmers were badly injured and Dr. Eugene Grignon of this city escaped serious, if not fatal, injuries yesterday when the farmers' horses, fear-maddened, dashed along the principal avenue of the city and, after running half a mile, struck the doctors buggy reducing it to splinters and then crashed into a telephone post.

Dr. Grignon, who weighs nearly 250 pounds, was hurled into the street, but luckily escaped serious injury. The two farmers struck the curbing heads foremost, sustaining slight fractures of the skull and other injuries. They are being cared for at the Menominee hospital and will recover. An auto frightened the horses.

Automobiles and carriages will be provided for the ladies.

Following the parade, the commercial travelers and ladies will board three excursion steamers which will be waiting for them at the Fifth avenue west dock, and the boats will carry them up the St. Louis river to Fond du Lac. Dinner will be served in Chamber's grove, and there will be a long and interesting program of athletic events during the afternoon. A feature of the program will be a baseball game between the Calgary and Duluth commercial travelers' baseball teams.

The boats will start on the return trip down the river at 4 p. m., and in the evening the Ancient and Mystic Avesta Guild of the Bagmen of Bagdad, a subsidiary order of the U. C. T., will confer degrees at the K. P. hall. This will be open to all the visitors, including the ladies.

The coming convention will be the sixteenth annual reunion of the U. C. T. of this jurisdiction. Duluth was the first city to have a lodge in the present jurisdiction of Duluth. The order itself was incorporated under the laws of Ohio, Jan. 16, 1888. The Duluth lodge was started in 1893, and soon after this lodges were established in St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Grand Forks and other Northwestern cities.

The management of the order is under control of representative bodies organized along lines of national government, the subordinate councils being restricted into jurisdictions comprising one or more states or provinces, with a superior or governing body known as the grand council, which in turn is subservient to the head body, known as the supreme council.

St. Louis, Mo., May 22.—Carl Janspecht, traveling for a New York concern, has filed suit here against the Planters' Hotel company for $4,500 damages for blistered feet. The plaintiff alleges that when he went to take a Turkish bath at the Planters' hotel, and stepped into the "very hot" room unattended, the doors slammed upon him, and, the floor being uncarpeted, his feet were badly blistered and he fainted.

CHILD IS A MANIAC

Atlanta, Ga., May 22.—As a result of witnessing the murder of her sleeping mother, Mrs. Mary Burge, by the latter's husband, 51-year-old Sarah Britton, the woman's child by her first husband, has become a raving maniac. Burge entered his wife's room and stabbed her to death as she lay in bed asleep. Little Sarah Britton, who was sleping in the room, was awakened and saw the knife driven into her mother. The child went into convulsions, which were followed by mania, and physicians say she will never regain her senses.

CLOQUET Y. M. C. A. HAVE A MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

Cloquet, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The membership campaign of the Y. M. C. A. is making great headway. The mark has been set at 500 members and from indications the prospects are bright for reaching it. Last evening a band concert was held on the street, after which the little boat, "Membership," was placed upon the ladder to begin its upward course, each new member advancing it one notch.

Fireworks will be used every evening to report the progress of the campaign, according to a set of signals, which has been given out. The campaign for subscription members was successfully closed last Wednesday and preparations are now under way for a grand rally to mark the end of the first year of the association's existence in the city. This will take place sometime in early June.

TEARS BLINDED HIS EYES.

Therefore Negaunee Suicide Could Not Finish Explanatory Letter.

Negaunee, Mich., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of John Stebbetti, who committed suicide Tuesday night, took place Friday. He left considerable money to some of his friends in this city, and he also wrote several letters before committing the deed. One was to his friend, Peter Mussato, a well-known Italian resident of Negaunee. The substance of it was that he wished to be excused for his action and that he hoped to meet him in the next world. He ended the letter saying that his eyes were full of tears and that he could not write any more.

The deceased has two brothers residing in Pennsylvania, but attempts to communicate with them have so far been futile.

FRIGHTENED BY AUTO, TEAM IN BAD RUNAWAY.

Menominee, Mich., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two prominent Menominee county Polish farmers were badly injured and Dr. Eugene Grignon of this city escaped serious, if not fatal, injuries yesterday when the farmers' horses, fear-maddened, dashed along the principal avenue of the city and, after running half a mile, struck the doctors buggy reducing it to splinters and then crashed into a telephone post.

Dr. Grignon, who weighs nearly 250 pounds, was hurled into the street, but luckily escaped serious injury. The two farmers struck the curbing heads foremost, sustaining slight fractures of the skull and other injuries. They are being cared for at the Menominee hospital and will recover. An auto frightened the horses.

MINES IN WARREN DISTRICT

Production Continues on About the Same Scale---Ore of Slightly Higher Grade Being Mined in the Bonanza Circle.

Bisbee, Ariz., May 22.—There is scarcely an incident worthy of mention in the Warren district mining field this week. All the producing companies are working about as they have been since the first of the year. The forces in the mines remain the same and the ore production has not varied materially, showing a disposition on the part of the companies here to neither decrease nor increase production at the present. The ore being mined by the Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg during the week has been of a slightly higher grade which if continued would increase the production, but to obviate this lower grades would probably be sent to the smelter later in the month.

In the shaft of the Hoatson mine low grade sulphide ores have been encountered in the drift running towards the Briggs shaft, several hundred feet beyond the large oxide ore bodies. This drift is still in ore. The future is expected to bring important results in the ground between the Junction and the Briggs and this Hoatson shaft is now entering that field.

The Oliver shaft is now nearing the 600-foot level. The new electric hoist is being installed and preparations made for cutting a station at the 600. From this level drifting will be started, probably in the direction of the Shattuck and in the opposite direction. Good things are expected on this level as the ground is very promising and important ore bodies are expected.

Considerable water has been encountered in the drift on the 1,500-foot level of the Junction and work was interfered with there temporarily while the water was being cared for. This is not new water in the mine, but is the same encountered on the upper levels. The shaft is not giving more water as a whole than for some time in the past.

The Calumet & Arizona is at present installing a new pumping plant at the April Fool shaft in the Courtland district. This plant will be able to handle the water to greater depths in the property and its provision indicates that the April Fool shaft is expected to become an important ore producer in the new district. This company is now carrying on work at the three shafts in the Courtland district—the Germania, the April Fool and the Miami.

At the Shattuck, two new upraises were begun on the 600-foot level during the present month to further show the extent of the ore bodies cut by the drifts on that level. The property has given great proof of its value by the development work on the 600-foot level during the last three months. Ore from the development work is being placed in the bins, and when these are filled another shipment will be made.

Development work is being continued on the Dean, but no special feature has been reported for the past week. The drift started north on the 1,250-foot level has proceeded ninety feet. Another drift has been started east from this level in the direction of the Junction. This drift is to test the ground at this level beneath the one encountered on the 1,000 and 1,100-foot levels.

THE WOLVERINE & ARIZONA

Believed That Ore Shipments to the Copper Queen Smelter at Douglas Will Cover Expense of Development for Some Time.

Bisbee, Ariz., May 22.—The Wolverine & Arizona has about completed its shipments to the Copper Queen smelter at Douglas. The shipments consisted of the dump accumulated during the development of the property through the Higgins tunnels.

The winze which was recently began has reached a depth of seventy feet. The formation at present is altered lime, porphyry and leached matter. The indications point towards the finding of ore at greater depth.

There is no prospect at present of there being a call made on the stock of the company, although several reports have been afloat regarding such a call. When Manager Roberts was seen by a Miner representative he stated that there will be no call made for some time, he not knowing of any being contemplated.

No returns have yet been received from the smelter of the shipments already sent, but it is believed that the returns will be sufficient to carry on development work for some time. The future of the company seems bright.

SHATTUCK'S ANNUAL REPORT

Reasons Why It Has Not Been Deemed Advisable to Build Smelter at Present---Advice of Well Known Copper Experts.

The following annual report of the Shattuck Arizona Copper company has been sent to the stockholders, under date of May 1:

"During the past year the efforts of your officers have been directed toward developing your property along substantial and permanent lines, with the object of increasing its shipping capacity. More than $70,000 was expended in this work, and the possible daily output of the mine has been increased 25 per cent over what it was a year ago. At present there are nearly four miles of drifts and crosscuts under ground on the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth levels.

"The company's plant consists of a 600-horsepower steam plant, with Allis-Chalmers double drum hoist, five boilers, Sullivan cross-compound forty-drill air compressor, Heudrix & Balthoff single drum hoist, one Ingersoll-Sargent and ten Sullivan power drills, an aerial tramway nearly three-quarters of a mile long for the purpose of transporting ore from the mine to the railroad tracks and for hauling timber used in the mine. Oil used for fuel, and there are large storage tanks, pumps and pipe lines on the property for the handling of same.

"At the present time the plant is of ample capacity to handle 500 tons of ore daily, and the efforts of the officers have been directed toward developing the property so that when desired that quantity of ore may be mined and shipped daily, it being more economical to run the plant to its full capacity.

"No ore has been mined from the property during the past year, except-ing in the progress of development work. From the first commencement of mining, in 1906, up to the present time work has been prosecuted on less than one-fortieth part of the property owned by the company. Previous to December, 1908, the total production of the Shattuck mine was 7,937,782 pounds of copper. At present over half a million tons of ore, ascertained by careful measurements, is shown up in this limited area and is ready to be mined and shipped, and the development is steadily uncovering large and rich new ore bodies in the same restricted district.

"The work that is being done on adjoining properties is of great advantage to this company. The Copper Queen company and the Calumet & Arizona company are both opening up from shafts on their properties which adjoin the Shattuck, and which, of course, will indicate the other ore bodies that are likely to be found in the Shattuck.

"It has been deemed advisable to build a smelter at present, or until development work has progressed sufficiently far to enable the plant to be operated at its full capacity and in the most economical manner, and the price of copper metal reaches a satisfactory advance. In deciding this point we have followed the advice of two well known copper experts, who are not interested in the property, but have examined it during the past year. Their reports indicate that the company has a very rich mine.

"The property is owned in fee by the company, is fully paid for, as are also the equipment and development. Being the deyest mine in the Bisbee district, the cost of pumping water when

DECREASE IN THE PROFITS

Last Year's Output of the Coeur d'Alene Mines Shows the Effect of the Low Prices Prevailing for Metals.

Spokane, Wash. May 22.—Decreases in profits ranging from 65 per cent on the Hecla to 40 per cent on the Federal properties are reported in statements by the various mining companies to the assessor of Shoshone county, Idaho. This means that in consequence of the decreased output of the mines in that part of the Coeur d'Alenes because of shutdowns last year the assessed valuation will be reduced from $10,000,000 in 1908 to about $9,000,000 in 1909. Several of the big producers were closed for from two to five months in 1908. The Hecla was shut down about five months, the Last Chance almost three months and the Tiger-Poorman and the Morning mines were closed for a longer period. The Tiger-Poorman showed a loss and was dismantled, while the Morning property was operated at a small net profit.

The list of the properties reporting is appended. The Snowstorm company has not yet submitted a statement, the others follow:

Bunker Hill & Sullivan Mining & Concentrating company reports net profits of $902,000, while the gross amount of ore taken from the mine was more than $3,000,000.

Hercules mine, Burke, reported 19,445 tons of concentrates, gross value, $1,196,878.86; cost of extraction, $215,577; cost of transportation, $128,493; cost of reduction, $150,314; betterments and repairs, $277,791; net profits, $283,751.

Hecla Mining company extracted 76,586 tons of ore of a gross value of $569,805.28; cost of extracting, $233,136.73; cost of transportation and reduction, $193,146.45; cost of betterments and repairs, $34,722.29; net profits, $108,798.

The figures for the Standard-Mammoth mines at Mace are: Tons extracted, 285,400; gross value, $2,583,961; cost of extraction, $1,053,730; cost of reduction and transportation, $813,842.94; repairs, $17,263; net profits, $693,124.

For the Last Chance mine at Wardner the report shows: Tons extracted, 153,320; gross value, $1,221,758; cost of extraction, $556,928; cost reduction and transportation, $427,368; cost of repairs, $16,751; net profits, $221,609.

The Morning mine reports it extracted 189,975 tons of ore of a gross value of $843,396; cost of extraction, $450,064; cost of reduction and transportation, $350,013; cost of repairs, $26,371; net profits, $16,855.

The Tiger-Poorman mine at Burke shows a loss. The figures are: Tons extracted, 25,226; gross value, $155,685; cost of extraction, $136,263; cost of reduction and transportation, $61,289; cost of repairs, $17,544; net loss, $41,859.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Tamarack Company's Explorations on Its Cliff Property Satisfactory—Oneco Tract to be Diamond Drilled to Locate Baltic Lode—Drifting in Tecumseh Mine of LaSalle Company.

Houghton, Mich., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The exploratory operations of the Tamarack company on its Cliff property are meeting all expectations. The company recently rigged up a diamond drill outfit in the horizon of the Kearsarge lode and has succeeded in taking a core from what presumably is that formation. The drill core was well charged with copper. An exploratory shaft will probably be put down this summer. The site of the proposed new shaft is within a few thousand feet of the Ojibway No. 1 shaft in which first-class copper ground has been opened to a depth of 800 feet.

Oneco.

Oneco is planning to diamond drill its property in an effort to locate the Baltic lode, which formation was recently disclosed by trenching upon the lands of the New Baltic company next south, and presumably strikes across the greater part of the Oneco tract. The work will be in charge of the local management of the Hancock Consolidated company. Operations are expected to begin this month.

La Salle.

Operations in the Tecumseh mine of the La Salle company continue centered in drifting, and with generally satisfactory results. The disclosures of copper ground at the eleventh, twelfth and sixteenth levels are particularly gratifying both in the uniformity of the mineralization and the high average copper content of the rock. The shaft remains bottomed at the seventeenth level awaiting the installation of heavier hoisting machinery. The company has a stock-pile of about 25,000 tons of exceptionally rich copper rock, taken from opening work entirely. The Caldwell shafts disclose nothing of value. The shafts have attained a depth of about 750 feet. The work at this end of the property is entirely in the nature of explorations.

White Pine.

Calumet & Hecla is engaged in sinking a shaft on the old White Pine property in the Porcupine mountain district in Ontonagon county. The White Pine is the property of the St. Mary's Mineral Land company and is held under option by the Calumet & Hecla, which company has been conducting exploratory operations there for the past year. Diamond drill borings are said to have shown an unusually promising copper deposit in what probably is the Nonesuch lode. This lode, first opened in the old Nonesuch mine in 1867, gave early promise of out-rivaling the famous Calumet conglomerate, and though the rock is extremely rich in copper, the flaky nature of the mineral has thus far baffled all efforts to secure a profitable extraction. The more recent work of the Calumet & Hecla on this property discloses other copper bearing lodes of apparent promise, and it is expected that the further exploration of these beds at depth will result in the opening of a copper producer in that generally discredited district.

New Baltic.

New Baltic's operations continue confined to diamond drilling and surface trenching. The diamond drill hole has attained a depth of about 200 feet and is penetrating a conglomerate bed overlying the west and main lodes of the Baltic formation. A core of mixed ophite and amygdaloid taken from a depth of between 150 and 168 feet carried a small amount of copper throughout the entire eighteen feet, the last ten feet being somewhat the richer, though apparently not commercially valuable. The drill outfit is now operating day and night in an endeavor to get down to the Baltic lode within the present month. Trenching has also resumed after several weeks' suspension, due to the flooding of the pits by the spring freshets. This work is confined to a conglomerate bed, presumably identical with the conglomerate just overlying the Baltic formation.

Isle Royale.

Isle Royale is gradually increasing its mining force, and now has between seventy and seventy-five machine drills in operation. About forty-five of these machines are engaged in stoping in the Nos. 2 and 6 workings. Operations in the Nos. 4 and 5 shafts are confined to opening work. Recent developments in the newer workings to the south show no great variation from the average ground opened in the past, occasional spots of exceptional richness being followed with due regularity by stretches of only fair average ground. The general average, however, remains fairly high and is probably better than twenty-

MYSTERY ABOUT DAVIS-DALY

Reports From Colorado Mine Not Satisfactory to Butte People—Conditions on New Levels of North Butte Gradually Improving—Butte & Superior's Find Encouraging Other Companies.

Butte, Mont., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—There seems to be much mystery about Davis-Daly Copper in Butte, even among some of the insiders, and the reports from the Colorado mine, the only property being developed by the company, are not satisfactory. From New York have issued stories about a big strike in the Colorado, but the New York office has also issued very emphatic and peremptory orders to the company's officers and employes in Butte not to give out any information about the Colorado or other property and not to talk about the reported strike. There has been considerable Butte selling of Davis-Daly stock, one of the men originally interested in the company and a close friend and associate of F. Augustus Heinze being among the sellers. This insider has just "discovered" that there was a possibility of another assessment on the stock, and that there was still duo on the stock $3 per share, which the directors had authority to levy at any time. It appears that the public generally had the notion that the $2 assessed and paid on the exchange of the old stock for the new paid off all assessments, but if the now made public that another joker, like unto the one in the old agreement will the original vendors, which permitted them to turn into the Davis-Daly treasury stock at $15 per share in lieu of cash when the stock was selling at $5, was contained in the agreement or plans or the new company, and that an additional assessment of $3 per share might be expected. At this rate the old stock had an exchange value of $5 per share, the par value of the new stock being $10.

Butte Public Uneasy.

Probably everything about the affair is all right, but the Butte public, remembering the remarkable stories that were sent out from New York about fabulous copper strikes in the Davis-Daly properties, just before the collapse of the old company, when no strikes had been made at all, are a little uneasy about the new stories from New York in view of the fact that local information about the property is strictly prohibited. It has been published in various localities, as coming from authoritative sources, that the Davis-Daly company has nearly $600,000 left in the treasury, as the result of the $2 per share assessment, and again that the treasury had something like $400,000. If the company has that much money and the Eastern stories of the strike in the Colorado mine are only half true the company will probably not have to call for any more assessments. It is a fact that the company has paid off all its indebtedness on the properties and there are no more deeds in escrow. The best information obtainable is that all claims against the property have been paid off. Another bit of information given out from the East is that the company is negotiating with the Washoe smelter for a rate and that if arrangements cannot be made with the Washoe, the old Basin Reduction company smelter at Basin, Mont., will be fitted up to treat the Colorado ore. This inference of a doubt that satisfactory arrangements can be made does not appear to bear out the beautiful stories about a reconciliation between Heinze and the Amalgamated Copper company and of a brotherly relationship that is existing between Mr. Heinze, John D. Ryan and Thomas F. Cole. One of these stories has it that John D. Ryan, managing director of the Amalgamated company, had discovered that one of his companies had been mining a lot of ore from Davis-Daly ground and that he went to Heinze and offered to pay for the trespass, but Heinze, stirred by the new brotherly feeling and friendship, positively refused to take any money from Mr. Ryan or Mr. Heinze's old enemy, the Amalgamated Copper company.

North Butte.

The reports from the North Butte mine are to the effect that the conditions on the new levels at the 2,000 and 2,200 are gradually improving and that the drifts are getting into good ore. Gradually the facts about the new levels are coming out. It appears that two distinct faults were found in the Edith May vein on the new levels west of the crosscut. One fault threw the vein north and another threw it back again, and the ore in the fault was of a very low grade. The drifts are now through the fault, and Manager Carson is authority for the statement that they are getting into good ore. About the details of the conditions in the mine or on the new levels all officers are as reticent as were Thomas F. Cole and John D. Ryan, who refused to talk at all and declined to see interviewers. The North Butte will probably always be a big mine, at least for many years to come. The ore bodies on the 1,600 and 1,800 levels are nothing short of marvelous, and the company has still 200 feet of unopened veins to the west on those levels and 200 feet to the east, while the faces of the drifts are in as good ore as any that has been taken out. The same is true of the Jessie North Butte further north on the same levels. The North Butte has a vast lot of ground yet to explore and the possibilities for opening good veins in the Berlin group of claims are good. The company is also engaged in developing new levels on the old Speculator vein south of the shaft, where some good ore was found while connections were being made from the Edith May to the workings of the High Ore mine of the

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Demand for Ore Increasing and Number of Boats in Commission Steadily Enlarging—John T. Jones Preparing to Put His Furnace for Low Grade Ores Into Commercial Operation.

As has been expected, the iron ore trade is showing improvement. Furnaces are entering the market again. A considerable demand for ore has set in and, according to advices reaching the Lake Superior mining region, sales aggregating a number of millions of tons have been made the past fortnight for delivery this year. Because of the generally depressed state of the iron and steel business, predictions were made during the winter that the mines would be forced to accept lower prices for their product this season. However, the various operating concerns which cater to the open market have stood firmly together in maintaining quotations, and it is a significant sign of the times that all transactions closed to date have been on the basis of the prices in effect last year.

The quotations are, respectively, $4.50 and $4.25 a ton for ore grading 55 per cent, with credits or demerits allowed or deducted as the metallic contents are or fall below the guaranteed standard, and with a similar graduated scale governing the transactions the quotations for non-bessemer are $3.70 and $3.50 for the old range and the Mesaba product, respectively. These prices apparently are satisfactory to the consuming interests—at least no particular pressure has been exerted in an effort to obtain concessions—and they are satisfactory also to the producers, incidentally carrying the assurance that there will be no reductions in the wage schedule at the mines.

Shipments are hampered somewhat on account of the lake marine strike, but the number of bulk freighters in commission is steadily enlarging, and there is no fear that all the ore needed will be forwarded before the close of the season of navigation. It is already assured that by the end of the present month the deliveries at lower lake ports will foot up somewhat in excess of 2,900,000 tons. This will be only about a third of the normal monthly capacity of the fleet, but it will be materially in excess of the amount that had been shipped the 1st of June last year, when the movement fell below 300,000 tons, and it will be looked upon as a happy augury, indicative of better things to come.

As is true of the quotations, the carrying charges remain unchanged from last year. These charges are 65 cents from Two Harbors, Duluth and Ashland, 60 cents from Marquette and Presque Isle and 50 cents from Escanaba and Wells. Only in two seasons in the history of the trade have the rates from the head of Lake Superior been lower, and that was in 1898 and 1899, when 60 cents was the contract figure. The Marquette rate is the lowest it has ever been, with the single exception of the season of 1897, when a few "wild" cargoes were forwarded at 55 cents. During two seasons—these two being 1897 and 1898—ore was taken out of Escanaba for 45 cents a ton, and in 1899 and 1903 the contract rate was 50 cents, but aside from these exceptions the Escanaba carrying charge has always been higher than is the case this year.

The Jones Furnace.

Satisfied as a result of the various practical tests of the process, revolutionary though it is, that his newly invented furnace has solved the problem of the profitable treatment of low grade ores, John T. Jones, metallurgist and miner, of Iron Mountain, Mich., is preparing to put the plant into commercial operation. Associated with Mr. Jones in his venture are a number of Lake Superior mining men, of whom one is George A. St. Clair of Duluth. Mr. Jones is well known on the Mesaba range. Writing of his furnace and its possibilities, Mr. Jones says:

"One of the greatest questions of today is the conserving of the elements placed on earth for the use of man. The high grade iron ores of the United States will last only a few decades. This is confirmed by statements of men who know fairly well the amount of such material in sight. Assuming that there are 2,000,000,000 tons of high grade ore, at the rate of consumption in the last prosperous year, 1907, which was about 52,000,000 tons, these ores would last, roughly speaking, between thirty-five and forty years.

"The occurrences of high grade iron ores the world over are entirely accidental. All high grade ore bodies have a lenticular shape, generally with a flat upper side and a convex shape on the under side. This is true of the Chapin deposit at Iron Mountain, and all ore deposits even on the Mesaba range of Minnesota. Now it is plain that these ore bodies are being rapidly exhausted and will have to be replaced with other ores of much lower grade. The iron ores of the world will have to come from the mother vein, which is an accompanying vein of great width and depth, that will yield in metallic iron from 37 to 45 per cent. The average iron ore shipped from the Mesaba nominee range for the last few years will not yield over 45 per cent and from the Mesaba range the yield has been reduced to 52 per cent metallic iron.

"On the Menominee range there is a large belt of this ore. On the Randville range we have developed an ore body at Randville 600 feet wide. The belt extends many miles in distance. The largest and most persistent belts of this class of ore are in Michigan and extend the full length of the known ranges. My associates and I have secured eleven leases on these ranges. These ores are all adjacent to good lake ports. In making a rough comparison of the amount of this class of ore with the high grade ores, I feel safe in saying there are 1,000 tons of this low grade ore for every ton of high grade ore, as above mentioned.

Cannot Be Shipped East.

"The practicability of conveying this low grade ore to furnaces in Pennsylvania or on the lakes is out of the question under the present method of manufacturing pig iron. This low grade ore contains from 40 to 45 per cent silica, and very small amounts of Production Not More Than Three-Fourths of Normal, Owing to Curtailment by the Old Dominion, Due to Low Price of Metal.

OUTPUT OF GLOBE DISTRICT

Globe, Ariz., May 20.—The copper production of Globe district is at present not more than three-fourths of normal, owing to the curtailment by the Old Dominion, the company deeming it inexpedient to make a large output when electrolytic copper is selling below 13 cents. The average price for April, on which settlements for the month were made, is 12.5625 cents. Old Dominion produced last month 2,845,000 pounds of copper, the smallest figure for any recent month. Development work has progressed steadily, and the already large tonnage of ore was added to materially. In fact, the physical condition of the Old Dominion mine was never better than at present, and with the early improvement in the market for copper, which seems assured, Old Dominion will be in position to increase its output to 4,000,000 pounds or more when deemed advisable.

The Old Dominion management has abandoned its early intention of placing the new pumps in C shaft, on account of bad ground at the tenth and twelfth levels, it being estimated that to make the foundation for the big pumps secure at No. 7 shaft, thirty-seven carloads of cement would have to be used, and then there might be a doubt of the stability of the station. After carefully considering the matter, the management decided to install the new pumping plant in A shaft, and work has begun on the station at the twelfth level, to cut which will require two months or longer. The great pumps, which are of the Nordberg type, will have a capacity at that depth of about 6,000,000 gallons, which is about the same as that of the present pumps, which after the new pumps go into commission will be held as an auxiliary plant, to be used only in an emergency.

The progress being made by the Arizona Commercial Copper company in the construction of its fine plant at the Eureka shaft becomes more apparent each succeeding week. Much of the material for the various buildings has been received and construction work is advancing rapidly. Also, most of the machinery for the smelter power house is on the ground and the concrete foundations have been put in, as well as the foundation for the new hoist. Supt. J. E. Pemberthy stated that all the water had been pumped out of the shaft and that the pumps were handling, without difficulty, 1,500,000 gallons per day. Drifting has been started on the 600 and 700-foot levels and interesting developments may be expected upon these levels within the next few weeks. At the Black Hawk workings the water is being lowered about five inches each day, and the management will very soon resume sinking the winze which is opening a body of fine ore, assaying 12 per cent and better in copper and six to eight ounces silver to the ton. It is certain that drifting from this winze at 600 feet will open a big body of high-grade ore.

The management of the Arizona Commercial confidently expects to have the smelter completed and blown in by Aug. 15, before which date both the 600 and 700-foot levels should be opened between the Eureka and Black Hawk shafts, placing in sight a very large tonnage of ore. General Manager Bennie says the company should produce in September 1,000,000 pounds of copper, at a cost of 9 cents per pound.

CORDOVA TO HAVE NEW SHAFT

Hovland and Smith Inspect Property and Sinking of Three-Compartment Shaft Has Been Started---Live Oak Tunnel Progressing Rapidly.

Globe, Ariz., May 22.—Preliminary work has been commenced on a new three-compartment shaft on the Eureka property of the Cordova Mining company, adjoining the Miami property. H. B. Hovland, president of the company, after a day spent in inspecting the property with Hoval A. Smith and M. E. McCarthy, decided on this step.

The new Sullivan shaft is located about 200 feet from the property line of the Eureka and Miami properties. It is possible that at the beginning a two-compartment shaft will be sunk to the ore body and this afterwards enlarged.

The Live Oak property was also inspected and found to be in a very satisfactory condition.

In inspecting the development of this property, Mr. Hovland found some twenty-five feet of 4 per cent concentrating ore and about 120 feet of ore running 2 per cent or better in copper.

The Live Oak tunnel is progressing rapidly, there remaining about 400 feet of work to be done. With this work completed, the work of sinking the shaft will be resumed.

It will probably take three months to complete the tunnel.

Hovland, Smith and McCarthy will next inspect the Globe Consolidated

RAY CENTRAL'S ORE TONNAGE

Estimates of 3,000,000 Tons in Sight Believed to be Far Below Actual Showings Now Made---Foremost Engineers at Mine.

New York, May 22.—Ray Central Copper company stock, which hung around $2.50 for several weeks, jumped last week to $4 a share, reacting later to $3.50. The Mining Age says that, while there was no public news given out to explain this jump, it transpires that the work recently started by the Lewisohn engineers is showing up better than anticipated. At the present time there are six workings on the 200-foot level that are all being pushed in ore, making six faces in a commercial product. Among those who understand how rapidly reserves of this character accumulate it is plain that a new tonnage will be added to on a large scale from week to week.

In addition the company shaft is being set down below the 200-foot level and these workings are also understood to be in ore. At the Calumet property of this company, the surface workings of which have shown an unusually large deposit of carbonates, a new shaft is being sunk, while churn drills have been installed to add to the exploration equipment already on hand.

The ores from the averages already secured show better than 2¾ per cent copper. The tons in sight have been variously estimated at all figures. Fitz Mac, the well known mining writer, has been willing to be quoted giving the property a very large tonnage, while O. A. Turner, one of the original characters connected with the mine, has estimated that ore exceeding 25,000,000 tons would eventually be taken from the property.

These figures have all been considerably exaggerated, and to date the engineers who have measured the ground have felt that a 3,000,000-ton total was giving the ground a liberal estimate.

It developed this week that from very good sources the news has drifted East that the company has in reality much more ore in sight than it has ever received credit for from conservative sources, the figures given showing at least 9,000,000 tons of reserves of probable ore. It is the distribution of these well-authenticated reports that has had the strong effect on the stock during the week.

Figuring the company's output at 1,500 tons of ore per day, within two years, and estimating a recovery by concentration of forty pounds of copper to the ton, it would show an earning capacity of over 75 cents a share a year for the stock, for a period of twenty years, on a 13-cent market, estimating costs at 8 cents.

It is known that W. H. Weed, one of the foremost geologists in the United States, has spent considerable time at Ray, Ariz., recently, while in the employ of the Lewisohns. In addition, other well known low grade porphyry engineers of world renown have been giving these ores the very closest attention.

COMPANY IS IN GOOD SHAPE

Annual Meeting of Arizona Gold Mines and Milling Company---Frank Faulke of Fort Wayne, Ind., Declines to Retain Presidency.

Tombstone, Ariz., May 22.—The annual meeting of the Arizona Gold Mines & Milling company was presided over by President Frank Faulke of Fort Wayne, Ind. A general discussion was entered into by the stockholders of the conditions and affairs of the company, which all agreed were in excellent condition. The report of a committee showing that the books and various statements were found to be correct with the report of the managing director were then adopted on motion of Ed M. Bates.

The following directors were elected for the ensuing year: Charles L. Wright, Sr., of Webb City; F. D. McPherson of Los Angeles, M. E. Langdon, Los Angeles; J. W. Swayzee, Patagonia, and John J. Wyatt of Tombstone. Immediately after the meeting of the stockholders was concluded a meeting of the directors was held and the following officers elected: Charles L. Wright, Webb City, president; Fred Eckert, Fort Wayne, Ind., vice president; F. D. McPherson of Los Angeles, secretary; J. Allen Hardy, Sr., Webb City, treasurer and J. J. Wyatt, managing director.

The report of the operations of the company during the past year shows that there was some 600 feet of tunnel work done during the seven months that the company was operating, a shut-down being necessary on account of not receiving word from the forest reserve ranger that they could not have any more wood for fuel from the reserve, so that other arrangements had to be made, which was met by the installation of oil burners which work is not quite complete but it is expected to be done within the next thirty days and a supply of oil on hand by that time. It is the intention of the company then to start up both the mine and the ten-stamp mill and to keep them running night and day.

The only regretful feature of the meeting according to the stockholders was the fact that Frank Faulke, who had been president of the company for the past three years, refused to again accept that position, stating that on account of pressing private business matters he could not give the attention to it.

An excellent drawing of the mines and workings drawn by Grant Lewis was exhibitted to the stockholders and proved of great interest to them, many of which had not been down to the property and had no idea of the extent to which the property had been developed.

A number of the stockholders left to visit the property at Patagonia while others went out to inspect the company's holdings in the South Pass district, as well as to visit the camps of Courtraland and Gleeson. Most of them will return to their homes in the East within the next few days.

WEST END NEWS

OLD SYSTEM ANTIQUATED

Senator Works Urges the Commission Form of Government.

Is More Economical and Is Otherwise More Satisfactory.

That the generally accepted means of governing our cities in most instances is unbusiness-like, irresponsible, complicated, inflexible and extravagant, was the gist of the talk given by Senator S. D. Works of Mankato, who addressed the members of the City Democratic club last evening at Sloan's hall on "The Commission Form of City Government."

Safeguarded with the recall, initiative and referendum, the commission form of municipal rule was advocated by Senator Works as being far superior to the old system of having a mayor and aldermen. He said that it was not hard to find in any city council "men who are marvelously incompetent to look after municipal affairs." "Perhaps they have attained aldermanic honors by having a political pull, but in the majority of cases the man is of small business caliber," he said.

"The history of the race," said the senator, "is traced to a considerable extent by the history of the cities, the nerve-throbbing centers of a country. Now, if corporations employ trained and experienced men to manage their affairs, why should not cities do the same? Men should be hired who are sufficiently experienced to deal with big finances."

Old System Antiquated.

The speaker stated that the old ward system tended toward an extravagant form of government. "There may be waste of funds in national affairs," he said, "and some unnecessary expenditures may be authorized in the state legislature, but I fail to see the logic of waste of money in municipal affairs."

Another objection raised to the aldermanic plan of rule was that in most instances responsibility for mismanagement or mistakes could never be traced to any particular person. "For example," he said, "my own city of Mankato a few years ago was stricken with a fever epidemic. Hundreds of people were affected and fifty were laid in their graves. Divided responsibility failed to fix the blame. It cost the city about $500,000 and gave it a setback of four or five years."

Senator Works' plan is to have a commission of three men, each empowered with certain duties, and each responsible to the people for his department. One would, for instance, be expected to look after public affairs, parks and public property. Another department would be that of accounts and finance, with a supervision over all public improvements. The third commissioner would be a superintendent of public safety, and would have charge of the police and fire departments, etc.

These men would be elected from the city at large, and would be responsible to the people, on account of being subject to an immediate recall if their administration of public affairs is questionable. The advantages of the commission form, according to the speaker, are four. It is simple, because it eliminates considerable red tape, and in its simplicity appeals to the business man.

"It also places the responsibility, and, by the way," said the senator, "this is an important feature of the new plan, for it confronts the office-holder with the constant idea that if he does not 'make good,' he will be deposed from his office." He said that the system was also flexible and could be made to meet emergencies. The fourth reason given for the commission plan was because of the economy, for as far as experience goes in those cities where the plan is now in force, there is a saving of considerable money.

Senator Works stated that Mankato was planning the adoption of the commission form, similar to that adopted at Des Moines, Iowa, Berkely, Cal., and Galveston, Tex. He said he believed it was a step ahead in the march of progress, and should be taken up by those who wanted to see better management of civic affairs. Allusion was made during the course of the talk to the need of a revision in the state Constitution. "What I believe," he said, "to be two of the most urgent issues in the next legislative campaign, are reapportionment and a constitutional revision. The Constitution of Minnesota is an antiquated document and needs revising about as much as anything I know of."

The meeting was presided over by R. Dice, president of the City Democratic club, and Andrew Nelson introduced the speaker of the evening. He said that "our honored guest is big enough to see all over the state even if he does live in Mankato." In referring to the last legislature, Mr. Nelson said that one of the very few things that it had accomplished to its credit, was the passage of the Works bill, providing that cities of over 10,000 might adopt a commission form of government, if so desired.

Judge Jaques was called upon for a short talk and responded with a few remarks in connection with the commission plan, taking occasion to tell Senator Works that the people of Duluth knew what gratitude was, to the men who voted right in the tonnage tax fight. Remarks were also made by T. J. McKeon, Bert Fesler, Alderman W. B. Getchell, Representative Richard F. Grant, and Andrew French of St. Paul.

Senator Works left this morning for Crookston.

OPEN SEWER IS DISCOVERED

Drains Into an Open Lot in the West End.

A misdirected sewer has been discovered in the West end, and the attention of the board of public works was yesterday called to it.

A stream of sewage, which drains all the way down the hill from Fourth street, discharges itself between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues west and Second and Third streets in a vacant lot of low land.

Today the city engineer is investigating the open sewer, and it is understood that the board of public works will remedy the matter. The stream could be directed into the storm sewer on Twenty-third avenue west, or could be made to follow its course into Coffee creek, which is being enclosed by a concrete culvert.

BANQUET TO LINCOLN GRADS

Pupils of West End School Have Delightful Spread.

A banquet to the graduating class of the Lincoln school at Twenty-fifth avenue west was served in the school building last evening.

There are forty-nine graduates in this year's class, and the dinner was served by the members of the B eighth class. The teachers were also guests of honor at the affair, and plates were laid for ninety-five in all.

"The Boys".....
Miss Irma Baillie.
"The Girls".....
Arvid Truelson.
"The Lincoln School".....
Elizabeth Ostlund.
"Class Prophecy".....
Ida Leonard.
"Our Motto, 'Work and Win'".....
Millie Low.

The banquet was served in the lower hall, and the upper halls were used for games and dancing. The class colors, pink and green, were used in the decorations, and the music was furnished by the graduates of the class of 1907. It was one of the most delightful school closing exercises given in Duluth this year, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the members of the graduating class.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

Large Attendance Nightly at Swedish M. E. Church Meetings.

A large attendance is reported at the revival meetings that are nightly being held at the Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street. Rev. C. P. Eklund, conductor of the services, speaks every evening, and the songs are in charge of the famous evangelist, Prof. C. Wermine.

Tomorrow afternoon Rev. Ecklund will hold a special service at 3 o'clock for men only, and it is expected that a large number will attend. The regular revival services will be held this evening and Sunday night. The meetings will continue every night until May 31.

WILL LAUNCH BOAT.

A. Bluett Has New Engine and Equipment in the Pokegama.

A. Bluett will launch "the Pokegama," a pleasure launch and one of the best equipped crafts at the West end, tomorrow. The boat has been on the dry dock during the past week, having the finishing touches put on.

The boat was also run in the water last year, but it was not entirely equipped at that time. The interior of the cabin has since been refinished and electric lights have been installed. It has a powerful engine and is good for about fifteen miles an hour.

A NEW CONCERN.

Minnesota Brass Works Opens Up in the West End.

A new concern incorporated as the Minnesota Brass Works company has taken up quarters at the West end and will engage in the manufacture of stick brass, journal brasses, brass bearings, babbitt metal, and other like articles.

S. T. Rery is president of the concern and its manager is J. I. Foster. The firm is located at 2110 West Michigan street at the old quarters of the Giant Grip Horse Shoe works.

Work has started toward installing the machinery and other equipment in the place.

WRESTLING BOUT.

A wrestling bout will be put on this evening at the regular meeting of the Adams Athletic association at the new club rooms on West Superior street.

Ralph Whittle and Lester Dillon will get together for championship honors of the club. John Stauerwald will act as referee.

TAR MACADAM CHOSEN.

Property Owners on Twenty-Ninth Avenue Select Paving.

That Twenty-ninth avenue west should be paved with tar macadam on a concrete base was the opinion voiced last evening at a meeting of the property owners at the voting booth on the corner of Twenty-eighth avenue west and Second street.

There was not a majority of the Twenty-ninth avenue west property owners present, but it is thought that those who were not there are just as desirous of having the tar macadam pavement on the avenue in front of their homes.

Mayor Haven, who was present, presented a prepared estimate on the paving and sewer contracts, amounting to $9,000. A petition will be circulated requesting the city council to authorize the board of public works to let contracts and push the matter to a speedy completion.

The matter of paving Superior street from Twenty-fifth avenue west as far as Twenty-ninth will probably be the next matter to be taken up when the paving of Twenty-ninth avenue is disposed of.

SWIMMING CLUB.

New Organization By Adams Athletic Association.

The advent of warm weather is looked forward to by the members of the Adams Athletic association, who are now organizing a swimming club.

Emil Palmquist, a swimmer with a record, will be at the head of the new organization. Swimming will be one of the summer activities of the club.

The "Saterfest."

Preparations for the annual Saterfest of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, which will be presented Tuesday, May 25, by the young people of the church, are nearing completion. Last evening the young people met at the church for rehearsal. The dress rehearsal for the affair will take place Monday night.

The program will include a number of instrumental and vocal selections, recitations, dialogues, etc. The costuming will be in accordance with the Norwegian style of dress and colors of the Fatherland will be everywhere in evidence as decorations.

May Festival.

Final arrangements for the annual May festival to be presented Thursday evening by the Luther Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran church, were made last evening at a regular meeting of the guild.

The entertainment includes a splendid program of recitations, with vocal and instrumental music, some of the best known amateur artists in the city having promised their assistance.

After the program the members of the guild will serve light refreshments in the parlors of the church.

Revival Services.

A comparison of the present time revival services with those of former days will be made Sunday evening in the Bible lecture at Columbia hall. All Scandinavians are invited to attend the meeting.

Joe Simmington and Patrick Kennedy returned last evening with a good catch from a fishing expedition at the head of Miller's creek.

The United Garment Workers of America are planning on giving a dance in the West end Tuesday, June 8.

The ladies of St. Luke's Episcopal church of the West end served a fine New England dinner last evening at the vestry, which many attended.

A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wotczak of 2529 Wellington street.

John Germeroth is erecting a $2,000 frame dwelling on Third street, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth avenues west.

The cast of the "Hypnotist," the play to be presented about the middle of June by the young people of the Second Presbyterian church, will meet this evening for a rehearsal at the parlors of the church.

A daughter was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Wigging of 2308 West Third street.

The Young People's Society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church met last evening at a business session.

The next meeting of the French Naturalization club will be held Tuesday evening. Summer activities will be planned and final arrangements made for the observance of St. Jean Baptiste day.

G. N. Brathen of Hayward, Wis., is visiting at the home of Rev. H. K. Madsen, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church.

Rev. A. Skosberg, Minneapolis, pastor of the Mission tabernacle for a number of years, was a visitor at the West end yesterday. He is well known in the West end.

Rev. J. A. Krantz, pastor of Elim Swedish Lutheran church expects to leave the first of next week for Port Wing, Wis., where he will attend the annual Lake Superior mission district conference of the Swedish Lutheran church.

Thomas Hughes of 2626 Huron street underwent an operation yesterday at St. Mary's hospital. He was reported as doing as well as could be expected today.

The delegates who attended the state Sunday school convention at Crookston about two weeks ago will have a convention meeting tomorrow evening at the Second Presbyterian church.

Chamberlain's Liniment.

This is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflammatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invariably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lame back, lame shoulder and stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the affected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is allayed by this liniment. For sale by all druggists.

MANY BABIES ARE ENTERED

Contest Editor Swamped With Pictures of Pretty Children.

The list of adorable Duluth children is large and it would seem that a good share of these adorable young ones have been entered in the Borden baby contest and every mail brings to the contest editor more pictures of lovely children.

The pictures shown in The Herald tonight were the first to be received in the contest which began Monday of this week, and arrangements have been made by the Borden company by which a number of photographers will take pictures free for the contest. This morning a prize of a solid silver baby spoon was presented free to the first baby to have his picture taken at each of the three studios.

The conditions are simple. Any child under three years of age may be entered, the picture to be sent to the Baby Contest Editor of The Herald, with a label off a can of Borden's Eagle Brand Condensed Milk and a coupon cut from The Herald.

The studios of those photographers who have been engaged by the company to take the pictures of the children, present a most interesting appearance during almost any portion of the day. Taking the baby's picture is always a matter of vital importance and to get them in the pose which will do them justice is the earnest effort of the photographer, the mother the cousins and the aunts.

No Duluth baby should be denied the privilege of entering this contest and the mothers in large numbers are looking to the rights of their children.

PRIEST IS MURDERED FOR POLITICAL REASONS.

Tomsk, Russia, May 22.—The priest Ignatius, leader of the Monarchist organization in Tomsk and editor of the Monarchist organ, was found murdered in his bed today. The crime was actuated by political motives.

PRINCETON CLUBS MEET FIRST TIME IN DIXIE.

Louisville, Ky., May 22.—Orange and black are Louisville's colors today because the Western Association of Princeton Clubs is meeting in this city, for the first time in Dixie. President Woodrow Wilson is here to preside over the councils, as is James B. Shea of Pittsburg, president of the Western alumni of Old Nassau, whose successor is to be elected during the sessions.

DUTCH QUEEN ABLE TO WALK OUTDOORS AGAIN.

"THE LINE WAS BUSY."

Lineman Nearly Burns to Death While "Central" Hesitates.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, May 22.—Because a telephone line was "busy," Amos Scott, an interurban lineman, was fearfully burned and also badly hurt by falling from a telephone pole while making repairs. Scott was caught in a short circuit and the wire began burning his rubber gloves. A fellow workman rushed to the telephone company to tell the power house to shut off the circuit. But "central" said the line was busy and disregarded his protests. Finally another workman cut the wire and Scott fell to the ground. He may recover.

THE RIGHT TO CITIZENSHIP.

The appearance of the Northwestern Reporter, with the full decision of the Minnesota supreme court in the case of Marius Hansen, involving his right to citizenship papers, does not tend to calm the apprehension that the supreme court established in that case a precedent that is not good public policy. A layman should not, perhaps, question the law of the decision, but it seems necessary to question the condition under which such admissions to citizenship are possible as the one involved in this case.

The decision is one of those 3-to-2 affairs, Justices Elliott and Jaggard dissenting. In his dissenting opinion Justice Elliott declares that there ought to be some limitation to the right of citizenship, and that it ought not to be conferred indiscriminately. Surely he is right in this. As to the amount of discrimination shown in this case, the testmony, quoted by Justice Elliott, is illuminating.

This man was 46 years old, had lived in this country twenty-four years, and had children going to school. Questioned by the government attorney, he didn't know what polygamy was. Asked what it meant to be a citizen, he said, "Well, I get all the papers." He didn't know where the nation's capital was; didn't know what it meant to take the oath of allegiance; didn't know what the Constitution of the United States was, but had heard of it; asked who was president, he said "Ain't it George Washington?"; asked who was governor of Minnesota he said "I ain't get him, I don't remember his name;" asked what the capital of Minnesota is, he said "Ain't it Washington?"; when convinced that Washington wasn't in Minnesota, he said the capital might be Duluth or maybe Minneapolis; asked who made the laws he said "I guess the governor." When the court took him in hand for questioning he thought Roosevelt was governor of Minnesota.

This man was made a citizen of the United States, and the supreme court upheld his right to citizenship.

One could hardly express dissatisfaction with this decision more emphatically than did Justice Elliott in his dissenting opinion, even though he was commendably polite in doing so. Said he: "To hold that a man who believes that Washington is president, that Minneapolis or Duluth is the capital of the state, and that the laws are made by the governor, is entitled to citizenship, would seem to me absurd if it were not for the fact that a majority of my brethren think otherwise." This is a very polite reservation, the example of which The Herald will have to follow. However, we agree thoroughly with the following quotation from the dissenting opinion: "The fact that this man has lived in Minnesota for twenty-four years makes against him instead of in his favor, as it shows gross and culpable indifference to matters which are most intimately connected with the political duties he desires to perform."

That man can now vote. The most brilliant and most learned and wisest woman in Minnesota cannot vote. Is further comment necessary?

THE PRICE OF DISHONOR.

John H. Sanderson died in Brooklyn the other day, and the manner of his death made many people think. His story is so strong a point to a lesson that is taught every day that it is good that it shall make as many people think as possible. His life and death form a sermon from the text "the way of the transgressor is hard" that needs no moralizing to make it effective.

Sanderson was the contractor for the furnishings of the Pennsylvania state capitol. Everybody remembers about that. Pennsylvania has a tax system under which the state derives its revenues independent of local taxation, so it has no direct state tax. Thus a surplus was piled up in the treasury, and as none of it came directly out of the people, the people didn't pay much attention to what was being done with it. So when the new capitol was built, certain officials, combined with the contractors, dipped their fingers into that surplus and drew out nearly $10,000,000 that didn't belong to them.

Sanderson got as his share $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 more than he was rightfully entitled to, and he was, he thought, fixed for life. So he was, but in a way very different from what he supposed. He moved to New York, married, bought a yacht, took up his residence at Sherry's, and prepared to enjoy life on his stolen fortune.

It was too good to last, of course. Presently the mine exploded. Pennsylvania was corrupt, but in this case not contented. The thing was exposed, there was an investigation, the prodigious thefts were laid open, and last March Sanderson was convicted of a conspiracy to defraud the state, along with the state auditor, the state treasurer and the superintendent of grounds, whose connivance was necessary that his plundering might be successfully done. The convicted men got bail, and Sanderson was in Brooklyn awaiting sentence. Some time ago his counsel became satisfied that there was no hope of a new trial, and Sanderson collapsed when hope departed. From that point he sank to his death. It was easy, ridiculously easy, to rob the people of Pennsylvania of this fortune. It was easy, gloriously easy, to spend it having a good time. But it was hard, desperately hard, to face the inevitable punishment. It killed Sanderson. He died of shame and disgrace.

Nor did he die alone. The state treasurer, convicted with him, died early in the winter, and Sanderson's was the fifth death among the circle of exposed plunderers since the frauds connected with the building of Pennsylvania's graft-stained capitol were laid bare.

There is satisfaction and comfort in money earned by hard and honest work, in money gained by giving honest service to society. But there seems to be a curse attached to money dishonestly gained. The five deaths in this circle of Pennsylvania make a deadly parallel with the many deaths among the insurance and other swindlers exposed during the recent investigations of the affairs of high finance. Besides those who have died, there are unnumbered offenders that have retired, with nerves wrecked and health gone, to await their turn to face what lurks beyond the void of death.

"The wages of sin is death."

A STRANGE DOCTRINE.

In a discussion of Socialism in Scribner's Magazine J. Laurence Laughlin proposes some objections to its purposes in which there is unconscious humor that is almost tragically sardonic. He says:

> As a cure for the ills of this world Socialism proposes a scheme based on a change in the possession of material wealth. That is, will the spending of more money directly lead to the improvement of character? All history, and the present conduct of our richer classes, seem to show that greater self-indulgence followed by a weakening of fiber, with a lowered moral purpose, are the inevitable results of unrestrained expenditure. This holds true in spite of the theory that, by equalizing the expenditure of all classes, the poor would be elevated in the moral scale by having more to expend, and that the wrong-doing of the rich would be reduced by taking away the power of self-indulgence. It cannot be overlooked that human nature is much the same in all classes. Increased expenditure in itself will not provide the character to govern the spending; so that self-indulgence will only be transferred. Clearly, an increase of material rewards—while a gain to those already having a moral sonse—would give only wider play to the existing defects of human nature.

Surely no stranger argument against Socialism, or against any scheme for the improvement of the masses, has ever been uttered. If it is a valid argument, it holds not only against Socialism, but against such doctrine as that promulgated in the last Democratic national platform, which contemplated the ultimate end of giving to each individual due reward for his services to society, no more and no less. That object—which is not intrinsically different from the object of the Socialists—would, if accomplished, take away part of the riches now going to the inordinately wealthy, and divert it to the masses of the people. If J. Laurence Laughlin is correct, that wouldn't be a good thing to do, because it would give the plain people more money to spend, and that would weaken the fiber of the people and result in deterioration of the nation.

Working on that theory, attempts to give labor a higher wage are socially dangerous. If labor gets a fair share of what it produces, labor's fiber will weaken, because its ability to spend money will increase. If a clerk getting $100 a month is raised to $150, clearly his moral fiber will deteriorate 50 per cent. If a laborer getting $3 a day is able to induce his employer to give him $4.50 a day, that employer will be doing that laborer a deadly injury by giving him the means to weaken his fiber.

If J. Laurence Laughlin is correct, we ought to honor our plutocrats and be grateful to them, because they are saving the people from a deadly weakening of their moral fiber by depriving them of the opportunity to spend more money. According to his theory, it is better that wealth should be congested in the hands of a few, even at the expense of widespread poverty among the people, because that confines the weakening effects of money to the fiber of the few, leaving the many to grow strong on the uplifting association with poverty. Plutocrats, therefore, are the friends of society because in taking society's money they also absorb most of the temptation to that weakening of fiber which money-spending provides. But—

We wonder if J. Laurence Laughlin has given much attention to the weakening of fiber which comes from the poverty which is an inevitable condition at the other extreme of society from the plutocracy?

HOW TO GROW DOLLARS.

Every worker in the ranks hopes for a competence that will make his old age comfortable and independent. Sudden strokes of fortune are rare, and besides they seldom come to those who fail to put up their lightning rods. There is no royal way to wealth, and the only way the average person can hope for that competence is by saving.

You must plant pennies and nickels and dimes now, that they may grow to dollars when you need them. That seems rather a slow way, to be sure, but it is the only way. You can't any more hope to gain independence by spending all you make than you can hope to grow potatoes by eating them. Besides, it isn't nearly so slow as it seems. It is slowest at the start. It gets faster all the time you keep it up, and then is when it will begin to be really interesting.

If you put a nickel in your home bank now and another nickel tomorrow, that is only 10 cents, and it doesn't seem worth while. But if you keep it up for a year that is $18.25, and you have made that much without ever missing a penny of it. But money doesn't grow so well just by planting in that way. You have to have good soil, just as you have to grow potatoes, and the best soil to plant money in is the savings bank, where it will draw interest.

That nickel a day, the price of a 5-cent cigar, will amount to $182.50 in ten years. But at 4 per cent interest it will earn in that time $40, so the net result will be $222.50 instead of $182.50. Just stick away a nickel a day, and in ten years you have $222.50. Planting 10 cents a day would make $445.36, and 15 cents a day will grow $668.18. Twenty-five cents a day will amount to $1,113.75, and a dollar a day will make $4,455.75.

Put a dollar in a savings bank and leave it there twenty years, and it will grow to two dollars, with 19 cents besides toward a third dollar. But if you add a dollar out of your pocket every year, in twenty years it will make $30.97. If you can plant a dollar a week, in twenty years that will amount to $1,612, though you have actually planted only a little over a thousand dollars.

That is the way to get capital. When you have capital, whether it is $100 or $1,000, you should seek investment. Leaving it in the savings bank at 4 per cent would make $4 a year on your $100 or $40 a year on your $1,000. But there are other ways. You can buy bonds that will earn you 4 per cent up—some safe ones 6 per cent. You can put it in a real estate mortgage at 6 or 7 per cent. You can put it in a city lot that has a chance to advance in value, and make much more than that. You can make the first payment on a home with it, and pay the rest so much per month, just like rent.

But don't put it into the bucket shop. It looks attractive, of course, but it isn't your game. The fellow that keeps planting his dollars in good soil, where interest is steady and compounds itself right along, even though his planting is in a small way, will come out in the end ahead of the fellow with bigger capital who trusted his fortunes to the stock market. If you don't believe this, just pick out ten of your friends who have dealt in stocks, eliminating of course those who have made money by printing and selling stock certificates, and ask them to tell you exactly where they stand. If every one of them hasn't lost money in the long run, we miss our guess.

STIRRING UP BITTERNESS.

There seems to be a concerted effort upon the part of the press of the Iron range, with a few exceptions, to stir up feeling on the ranges against Duluth.

Why this is does not appear upon the surface, but it is a fact, and a very unpleasant one. Nor is it a new thing. For some reason that has been the policy of several of the range newspapers for some time.

A late recruit to the ranks of the dissatisfied and disgruntled is the Hibbing Tribune, which complains bitterly of Duluth in a recent issue, without specifying the items of its troubles. In the course of its article on this subject, it follows the example of several other range newspapers and criticises the attitude of the St. Louis county delegation in the legislature toward the range communities as follows: "Take the 'St. Louis county' delegation in the legislature last winter, for an instance. It was an able delegation, good fellows, fair-minded fellows, and the way it stood together—for Duluth—was wholly admirable—from Duluth's standpoint. But it did not represent St. Louis county any more than the last hair in a dog's tail represents the dog. It was amiable and willing to serve the ranges when no Duluth interest was affected, but let Duluth be concerned in the slightest measure and it talked about its duty's to the state, the necessity of economy and such like academic subjects of conversation. Instead of the bread you wanted, it offered to get you by the doorkeeper for half an hour so you might see how neatly it turned tricks for Duluth."

This is a sample of current range newspaper discussion. The object, of course, is to prejudice the people of the ranges against Duluth, though why that is a desirable object to a range newspaper man we cannot see.

Won't the range newspapers kindly furnish a bill of particulars as to their complaints against Duluth? They say Duluth "hogs" everything—what has it "hogged?" In this matter of the conduct of the St. Louis county delegation in the legislature, what did it fail to do for the ranges? Of course its time was mainly taken up with the tonnage tax. Was that a Duluth matter solely? Didn't it interest the iron ranges of St. Louis county as much as it interested the iron ranges of Itasca, Crow Wing and other counties, which seem to appreciate the work that was done very much? Were the range district court and the range judge Duluth matters? Two years ago the ranges were nettled because they didn't get this court. Now they have got it, and a range man to preside, and the range newspapers are more bitter than ever.

We have heard of no complaints against Duluth and the St. Louis county delegation except from the range newspapers. Before the range people let the range newspapers arouse bitterness against Duluth, let them analyze this newspaper talk. What is there to it? What has Duluth withheld from the ranges? What has it taken that does not belong to it? What did the St. Louis county delegation in the legislature fail to do for the ranges?

If the range people are asked to hate Duluth, they ought to be told why they should hate it. The range newspapers haven't told them anything yet except that they ought to hate the county seat. That oughtn't to be enough. There must be a reason. Let us hear it.

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION.

The commission plan would not, as Senator Works wisely told his Duluth audience last night in his instructive and enteratining address, perform a miracle and cure all municipal evils by magic. But it would, beyond any question, accomplish a marked advance upon present conditions, and it couldn't make things worse than they are now.

"There is no government so ineffective and so crude as the present government of our cities," said Senator Works; and there he put an unerring finger on the greatest blot upon popular government in this country. Even the best city governments are unbusinesslike, and must be from the very nature of their beings.

If you had a business of as great magnitude as that of the city of Duluth, you wouldn't think for a moment of having it run as the city's business is run. You would be far more likely to organize it according to the commission plan, because the present government is political, and the commission government is a business management. The commission form of government is coming, and Duluth might as well begin considering it earnestly.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

In the opinion of George J. Vodst of Sacremento, Cal., an attorney, who was at the Spalding last night, the trouble with the present prosecution of bad trusts and corporations, is that though we have the laws with which to treat these trusts, the laws against these combinations will not execute themselves.

"Trust prosecution in the United States is a new development of our commercial history," said Mr. Vodst. "We have of recent years been placing laws upon our statute books for the regulating of these trusts. These laws are upon the statute books, yet there is in many cases no adequate machinery for the enforcement of the laws.

"Out in California we have seen much of this. That state has led in the prosecution of trusts and grafters. Our state legislature has made laws regulating the corporations, and then in many instances the administrative part of the state government has found that there is not the necessary means to put the law into execution. In other words, that the law will not execute itself.

"The prosecution of wealthy offenders against the law was unknown in this country ten years ago. It is only of recent years that the prosecution of this class of malefactors has begun. It is for this very reason, that many of the laws are experiments, have not been perfected to that extent that they can be applied with the desired results to many of the trusts and corporations doing illegal business in this country. As the years advance and the laws become more adapted to the complex industrial development of this country, you will find that for every law against the corporations that is placed upon the statute books, there will be some provision for the execution of this law.

"The wealthy corporations of this country have employed the very best legal talent in the country to combat the deficiencies of any of the anti-trust laws that have been placed upon the statute books. I have wondered, at different times, whether this, in the end, was not a rather shortsighted policy. There are two sides to the story. The exposing of the weakness of the laws enacted for the regulation of the trusts, the showing that these laws cannot be applied, is bound in the end to aid the people and the lawmakers of the country.

"I might say at the present time that there is a greater understanding among the lawyers of the country. The commercial development has been ahead of the law. In other words, the great development of the trusts and the combinations of capital within the past decade has been so rapid and so sudden that the law has not kept pace with it. But within the next few years you will find that the laws of this country, in regard to the regulation of the trusts and combinations that seek unfair methods, or illegal methods, in the conduct of their affairs, will be adequate to deal with this class of powerful offenders against the business ethics of the nation."

Here is a story, based upon the vanity of the gentler sex, that was told last evening by A. B. McLoughlin at the Lenox hotel

"My father is very fond of fried pork and baking-powder biscuits. Every once in a while he would insist that we have this favorite dish of his. He would prepare it himself. He had been in the woods for a number of years and was an excellent cook. With this fried pork and baking-powder biscuits he would prepare a thick gravy, made from flour and baking powder.

"My sister was about 12 years of age. She was one of the romping girls, that spend most of their time out in the summer sun and wind. Her music teacher was one of these delicate people. Also, she was in the habit of sneaking on a little rouge and face powder.

"You know in those days, some twenty years ago, it was against the rules and regulations of simple society for any one to paint and powder. But as I say, this music teacher was in the habit of sneaking a little on.

"My young sister's hands and cheeks were as brown as an Indian's. The hands and cheeks of the music teacher were as white as the poetical lily's beautiful petals. My sister envied the whiteness of hand and cheek of the teacher of the pedal stunts, so she went, very secretly and with many qualms of conscience, and purchased some face powder.

"She did not know where to place the powder after she brought it home from the village drug store. Finally she put it in a royal baking powder can and placed in in a dark corner of the pantry.

"One particular afternoon father came home and had the hunger for the fried pork and the baking powder biscuit, with the delicious gravy. He went forth to the kitchen and prepared to cook the meal. At six bells the family—there were six growing children—came trooping into the dining room prepared to do justice to the dish that tickled the fancy of the pater.

"We found father in a very ill humor. The biscuits were scrumpy affairs at best. Father complained that they refused to rise. They looked as if they had been frosted in t heir early youth. Everything tasted kind of peculiar. However, we kept on eating, and Brother Bill, who was about 6 feet 2, and still growing, stowed away a vast quantity of provender.

"It wasn't long after supper that father began to feel ill. Then some of the rest of us began to feel rather peculiar. Then Brother Bill got so bad that we sent for the doctor.

"Little sister, she of the brown hands and cheeks, quietly left the room. She, with fear and trembling, sneaked into the pantry and took a peep into the royal baking powder can that had contained her face powder. Not a grain of the powder remained.

"Little sister came running into the sitting room, crying, and asking for forgiveness. She then informed us of the mistake father had made in choosing the powder to make his biscuits with. The doctor, who up to the time of the dramatic confession of little sister had been rather puzzled, knew exactly what to do. He gave all of us medicine, and we were soon over the effects of the face powder menu.

THE WEATHER.

Temperatures have been just about the same during the last twenty-four hours, with sunshine from early morning until after supper time. No change in temperature is predicted, but showers are predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

The weather a year ago was clear and fine.

The sun was on the job bright and early this morning, at 4:24, and it is scheduled to go down at 7:44.

Of weather conditions Mr. Richardson says:

"During the past twenty-four hours showers fell over Atlantic and West Gulf states, the Rocky mountain region and most of the Northwest, due to barometric disturbances central over the Carolinas and Utah, respectively. The barometer has fallen over the Rocky mountains and Eastern slope. Pressures continue high over Eastern Canada and North Pacific districts. Temperatures are moderate generally. Conditions indicate more or less cloudiness, with a possibility of showers at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

The Village Blacksmith.

If it had been written by Robert Browning instead of by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

Beneath the tree known as the chestnut
The village smithy stands.
(We garner from that tree the best nut
In this or other lands.)
The smith he will wear coat and vest, not—
Bare are his breast and hands.

The children from school homeward trudging
Look through the open door;
They watch the soot his face besmudging,
They hear the bellows roar—
A roar like winds 'gainst cliffs unbadging,
Or waves along the shore.

He sits within the church on Sunday
To hear his daughter sing.
Glad that in all the week there's one day
He need not do a thing.
But ready once again on Monday
To do his blacksmithing.

He turns the circle of a horseshoe
Between the dawn and eve,
Each morning brings to him one more shoe
To beat and hold and heave—
Observing this, I think, of course, you
The moral will receive:

(In Venice once I knew a friar
Who said the same as I.)
We smelt our great deeds in the fire,
Spite all the hue and cry—
Now laugh loosely as a liar,
But point me out the lie.

—WILBUR D. NESBIT, in Chicago Evening Post.

Southern Minnesota People Fair.

New Ulm Review: Speaker Rockne, we believe, voiced the true sentiment of the people of Southern Minnesota regarding the tonnage tax proposition when he said in an interview the other day: "The farmers of Minnesota can be trusted to do the right thing. They do not want anything that is unfair or unjust, as the tonnage tax undoubtedly was. The veto of the bill will have a tendency to place its merits and demerits before the public, something that had never happened before. The only thing that made the tonnage tax strong was the cry of the 'steel trust.' At the mention of that name everybody took to cover. The fact of the matter is that it did not particularly touch the steel trust, but did strike at Northeastern Minnesota and at Duluth. Suppose some such hostile measure had been directed against Minneapolis in the sawmill days. Minneapolis would not be what it is today. The sawmills are gone now, but Minneapolis went right ahead and is now a great city, and that is what will happen to Duluth. Even assuming that the additional revenue claimed by Mr. Bjorge would have been added to the state funds as a result of the proposed bill, it would have meant only about 7 cents to every quarter section. All that will be necessary in the southern part of the state is to put the facts before the people. To insinuate that the farmers of Southern Minnesota want something that is unfair and unjust is a libel to the residents of that section."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The only foolish thing about being extravagant is when it's somebody else.

The only kind of public policy that can interest a man is when it affects his private pocket.

A man likes to have theories that never work out right, so he can say he is too practical for that sort of thing.

The reason a woman knows her husband is brave is he isn't afraid to swear over the telephone when it's against the rules.

The thing that can make a woman talk about her country estate in the surest tone of voice is for it to be a suburban cottage she rents by the month.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Man With a Grievance.

About the worst thing that a man can nurture within his breast is a grievance; but it is one of the easiest things to foster. Weeds grow faster than flowers, and evil tendencies within us often outstrip the good. A grievance grows like a snowball when the snow is damp. It begins as a little pin prick of resentment arising from real or fancied injury. It ends as a mountain which shuts out of view the smiling landscapes beyond it. Nurture this viper long enough and you will even suspect your closest friends, think and talk nothing else, lose sleep that was meant to refresh you, become sour and finally end up in the madhouse.

Not that everybody who allows a grievance to grow within them comes to this deplorable end; but he cannot help being warped in his judgment and made less pleasant to live with and less capable of doing well his part of the world's work. Here is a man who has a grievance against some organization with which he was once connected. Possibly it may be the Christian church. He thinks that he has been unjustly treated or overlooked or altogether ignored; henceforth he will not give a cent to the support of the institution or favor it with his presence. He looks upon those still loyal to it as either misguided or hypocrites. Nursing his grievance day by day he pulls further and further away from an institution of which he was once fairly fond, and all because of some perhaps minor slight of bygone days!

Grievances against other individuals embitter life for not a few persons. A disagreement, perhaps, on non-essentials led to misunderstandings, harsh words and permanent estrangement, and now when Smith thinks of Jones he does not remember Jones' many excellent qualities, his generosity, his hospitality, his friendliness, but simply that one unfortunate episode when he and Jones grew warm under the collar, perhaps shook their fists in each other's face and went away sworn enemies.

Grievances against men are bad enough, but when cherished against God they shadow and narrow the life cherishing them. God has done something or permitted something to be done that you cannot understand. It has been a hard experience and the first impulse is to deny the existence of a Father in heaven, or, if admitting it, to vow that you will have nothing more to do with such a God, who can let such things happen to you. You condition your belief in Him and your trust in Him on His acting just as you want Him to act.

From the point of view of strict justice, there is just enough ground in almost every grievance to make it easy to cherish it, provided one is so disposed. None of us likes to be injured by any one else. Something within us smarts under the blow and we say, "That is not fair." But does that justify the fostering of this sense of being unjustly treated? The best thing to do with a grievance is to bury it out of sight, to stifle it before it is fully born, for, depend upon it, the nurturing of it will magnify the original offense far beyond its due proportions, and make your own life thereafter all the weaker and more unhappy.

Think, when disposed to cherish a grievance, whether there may be no one else in the world who has occasion to feel resentment toward you. Have you been so considerate, so absolutely scrupulous in all your dealings with your fellow men that no one has any occasion to feel sore or wounded with respect to you?

Life ought to be full of confident trust in God, even though we cannot explain all His dealings with us and our fellow men, and life ought to be so full of loving service for those about us that we shall have neither time nor disposition to cultivate any sense of being injured by others. Let it smart if it will, for a moment, then bury it forever.

THE PARSON.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Christian Register: "Yes," said the old peer, "my son is willing to stand for parliament. Unfortunately," he added, after a slight pause, "Parliament does not reciprocate.

Tit-Bits: Brown—What did your wife say about your being so late home the other night?

Jones—Nothing at all. She just sat down at the piano and played "Tell me the old, old story."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "He lets his wife do just as she pleases."

"Nothing startling about that."

"No; but he does it without an argument."

Chicago Tribune: Provoked Mother—Tommy you're the plague of my life.

Tommy (snuggling up to her)—You wouldn't talk that way if somebody'd kidnap me, would you, mamma?

Life: The Doctor—Ah, yes! Very nervous, irregular pulse, palpitation of the heart and feverish. Let me see your tongue?

"There's nothing the matter with me, sir. I just come to ask for your daughter's hand."

Philadelphia Record: "How many ribs have you, Johnny?" asked the teacher of physiology.

"I don't know, ma'am," giggled Johnny, squirming around on one foot. "I'm so awful ticklish I never could count 'em."

Newark Star: Bangs—What is the difference between a woman's whist club and a man's poker club?

Wanggs—Why, in one you get home to dinner and in the other to breakfast.

Los Angeles Express: Said Uncle Silas: "If hein' poor wuz a crime, gee, what a police department we'd need!"

Chicago News: Money that comes in drafts is not the only kind that is cold cash.

Washington Star: "Lady," said Meandering Mike, "you don't want to listen to no hard-luck story, do you?"

"Not a bit of it."

"You relieve my mind. If you want to hear somethin' worth while, you jes' gimme a chance to show what I kin do as an after-dinner speaker."

Yonkers Statesman: He—So you favor woman suffrage?

She—I certainly do!

He—Well, in the last election, for instance, would you have voted for Mr. Taft or Mr. Bryan?

She—I would not have voted for either. When I vote I'll vote for a woman or not at all.

Pointed Paragraphs.

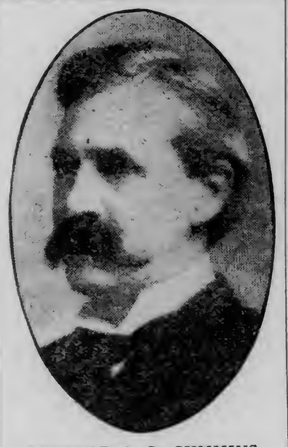
ALBERT B. CUMMINS

BY SAVOYARD.



SENATOR A. B. CUMMINS.

MEN have seen it in the tree; but never in the sapling; they have looked on it in the stream, but never in the fountain"—I quote from memory—and such is the proud boast of the illustrious Scottish house of Douglas, and the house of Cummin. If not so renowned, is equally as ancient Connected with every noble family of Scotland, the Cummin blood was poured out lavishly for the good and glory of that historic people, who gave to arms Wallace and Bruce, Montrose and Claverhouse, and to letters Burns and Scott, Hume and Robertson

When Robert Bruce slew the Red Comyn before the altar in the Church of the Minorities in Dumfries, he drove the Cummin family into the arms of Edward Longshanks, and thus made his work of redeeming his country from the thraldom of England ten times more difficult, and his conscience was never rid of the sin—not of the assassination, but of the scene he chose for it. The lord of Lorne, a near kinsman of the Comyn, hunted Bruce to the moruss, and forced him to "the hills, the caves and the rocks," to crouch with the fox, and it was the hardships he thus underwent that undermined the powerful physical constitution of Robert Bruce and sent him to the tomb all too early.

All the Cummins family in America came from the illustrious Scottish family of Comyn, whether they spell it with a y or not. The junior senator from Iowa came from the Scotch-Irish settlement of Pennsylvania, but he is descended from the "Red," or the "Black" Comyn of Scotland of six centuries ago.

Albert B. Cummins was born in 1850, the year Champ Clark and Henry Cabot Lodge first saw the light. After receiving a liberal education, young Cummins studied law, was called to the bar and began the practice of his profession at Chicago. Whether it was that he did not succeed, or whether he preferred a rural atmosphere—whatever the moving cause, Cummins left Chicago and went to Iowa and began the practice of law with politics as a by-vocation, and he became a powerful factor in the affairs of that state. But he was an incipient mugwump before he was 40 and occasionally the outside world heard of him, and moss-back Democrats down in Kentucky, twenty and more years ago, were wont to wish him well and expect great things of him; but, however, much of a reformer Cummins might have been, he was no martyr. He stuck to the Republican party, from which all may gather that the Hon. Cummins knows which side of his bread has got the butter on it. Nevertheless all Kentucky Democrats got a heap of comfort out of the man, and more or less aid. But that is what beggared us. If the South had stood by Cleveland as Cummins stood by the G. O. P., it would have mattered little what Cummins, La Follette, Jerry Simpson, Bryan, and statesmen of that ilk thought, or said, or did We would have kept the country in the basket we put it in in 1892.

By and by Cummins got to be governor, and served two or more terms. We continued to hear of him, and like good Catholics in the age of Savonarola, there were Democrats who thought there might be the making of a political Pope Angelica out of him to bring joy to all our hearts, office to all our ambitions, and consequent and resultant salary and perquisite.

And now the octupus chase began. Bryan had made the Democratic party a Populist; had cashiered Cleveland and enlisted Weaver; had traded the electoral vote of New York for that of Nevada; had solidified the North and broken the South But they chased the octupus, and on the other side of the hedge Cummins, La Follette, Clapp, Wisconsin Cooper and that set joined in and ran the varmint to J. Pierpont Morgan's Wall street lair. Theodore Roosevelt was the chief huntsman, and in his pack were Ben Tillman and Joe Bailey, held in leash by Bill Chandler. One day the "Allison Amendment" emerged from Morgan's den and Aldrich handed it over to the grand old man of Iowa. Everybody but the two Alabama senators and Foraker voted for the bill, Roosevelt sent Chandler, Tillman and Bailey to the Ananias club, and the octupus chase was over. Statesmanship, thy name is humbug!

In the Fifty-third congress, Iowa had an exceptionally strong delegation. There was John H. Gear, a man of good common sense, who had made a big fortune selling goods and been remarkably successful playing the game of politics.

David B. Henderson, a Scotchman, a Federal soldier, who had left a leg on the battlefield of Shiloh, a fervid orator, color-bearer of the bloody shirt, a man of as much jing as patriotism. I believe I will again tell of a speech I heard him make in the Forty-ninth congress. He was a-waving of the bloody shirt with unusual enthusiasm, even for him, when to the utter astonishment and immense dismay of his own scholarly party associates, such as Willie Wallie Phelps, in an ecstasy of patriotism and a thunderation of voice, he exclaimed: "From Highland Pass to Lowland Moor, treason never found lodgment in Scottish breast!" The woodcock ejaculated and away he flew. The Hon. Henderson had just demonstrated that the South was at that very instant of time as full of traitors as Iowa was of hogs. If a committee of historians were appointed to ascertain the country that could show more treason to the square inch, such as Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee committed, by a unanimous report they would award the palm to Scotland; but the Hon. Henderson brought down the house, and that was what he was after.

Robert C. Cousins was from the bloody Third district. He is a wonder, capable of everything but industry. There was a member of the British commons, late in the eighteenth century—William Gerard Hamilton—contemporaneous with Fox and Pitt, Burke and Sheridan. One night he astonished the house by making a speech that might have challenged the greatest orator who ever spoke our tongue. He never repeated it, remained silent ever after in that body, and he is known in history as "Single Speech" Hamilton. I one day heard Cousins make a speech in our congress that would have been a credit to Breckinridge, or Cockran, or William L. Wilson, but he never made another to approach it, and he is in danger of being known as "Single Speech" Cousins.

William P. Hepburn was a member of that congress, and he, too, is a fluse orator, and if he would acquire that virtue and accomplishment that Sir Walter Scott's Jonathan Oldbuck had in so eminent a degree, a knowledge of and respect for accuracy of facts—John Dalzell has it—he would be the first debater on the Republican side. I have often said that it is worth a trip from the Mississippi to the Potomac to hear Hepburn say "the United States." On the senate side there is a fervent Republican orator, who believes this is a nation with a big N, and he will not use the definite article before "United States," but says "United States" is this, that, or 'other thing, just as he would say England, or France, is this or that. It reminds me of what the most brilliant Washington correspondent this town ever saw said of Charles Sumner's use of the term he coined, "ridiculosity." Joseph B. McCullough in commenting on it characterized it as "one of Sumner's jackassities."

Jonathan P. Dolliver was also in the Iowa delegation. He too is an orator, and can make as good an epigram as William Jennings Bryan—better when he tries.

But in my opinion by far the ablest man in the delegation was George D. Perkins of Sioux City. If that man had the delivery and the presence of Hepburn, long ago, he would have been a senator and a conspicuous and honored and trusted leader of his party throughout the Union. Notwithstanding his poor delivery it is a delight to the intelligent mind to hear him; for he never indulged a word of claptrap or nonsense. He is a plain, blunt man, of fine intellect, who believes something and is not afraid to tell it. I do not believe a word of the man's politcs. I think them horrible; but I do believe that it is the duty of both parties to send to this capital the ablest men they have to legislate for the people of this big country. I don't know whether there are any Democrats left in Iowa or not. I doubt if there are a baker's dozen of them, not Bryanized, and if there is not one fit for senator. I hope Perkins may be given opportunity to wind up his career like Allison did his.

One of these days, before the summer solstice I intend to complete this letter and tell a word or so about some other Iowa men, dead and living, who played big parts in this town.

I have only to repeat that George Perkins, in my opinion, is the ablest man Iowa has had in either house of congress since John A. Kasson.

EDWARD M. STONE'S BOOK STORE.
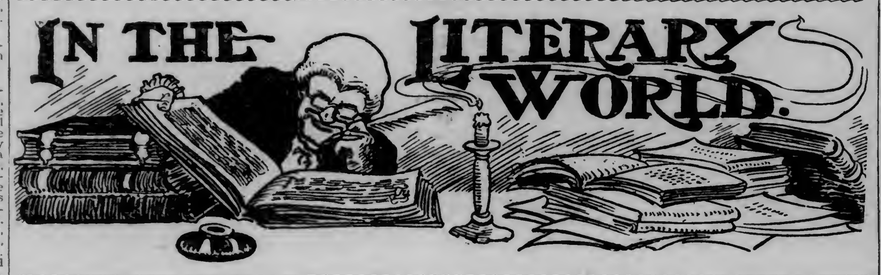
221 West Superior St., Duluth.



THE INNER SHRINE. Anonymous. New York: Harper & Bros. $1.50.

This workmanlike novel, which is brilliant if uneven, and wholly absorbing in the bargain, was published anonymously in Harper's Monthly, and it is now set afloat as a book, still lacking an author. It is good enough as a novel to explain why there has been much discussion as to its authorship, and the nature of the impression it is making can be easily imagined from the fact that it has thus far been attributed to nearly all of those novelists whose books everybody likes to read, and to none whose work comes beneath the first class. It is obviously the work of no 'prentice hand at noveling, and except for the mystification of the reading public it is difficult to see why the author should have withheld her name. The feminine pronoun is used advisedly: the book was written by a woman, or we miss our guess.

But after all it is the book itself that concerns us here, and the chief inconvenience about the absence of the author's name is the lack of a definite place to place the praise that is coming; for half the pleasure of praising is lost when the party to be praised is not in evidence. If it is not a great work, it falls little short of greatness, as greatness goes nowadays in novel-making. It is a society novel, with far more than the usual depth and human interest that characterize its class. It parallels the society of two continents, placing the social customs of New York in vivid contrast with the social customs of Paris. The chief figure, Diane Eveleth is a French woman who had an Irish mother, and who had been reared in the ways of Parisian "society." She has ruined—without realizing it—her American husband, who has been taken to Paris by his society-loving mother, and the husband and mother more than halve the blame for this final downfall, which occurs as early as the first chapter, when he is killed in a duel over a piece of scandal involving Diane. Diane has been skating on very thin ice, as the French fashion is, and though she hasn't gone through it, she has helped others to poorer fortune in that respect. Her husband and his money gone, Diane and her mother-in-law return to New York, where the real story begins. The plot is too long and too complex to be more than hinted at here. Suffice it to say that Diane's Parisian career, innocent though it was from a Parisian viewpoint, gets her into a lot of real trouble when it is exposed in distorted form, with the help of a lying French nobleman, to the more prudish vision of New York society, which, though probably not more moral, is more circumspect than that of Paris. The story chiefly involves a love theme embracing Diane and a mature New York banker, who is jealous and stupid, a combination prolific in mischief. Poor Diane, though marvelously deft in untangling the affairs of others, manages her own not quite so well. They get into a pretty tangle, therefore, and they are not easily straightened out. The telling of it all, with the brilliant analysis of character and customs involved in the process, is beautifully done. In spite of the unevenness hinted at already, the work has positive brilliance and shows actual genius. Whatever the motive back of the concealment of the author's name, it was most assuredly not that of timidity as to the merit of the book, for anybody clever enough to write so good a novel is undoubtedly clever enough to know that it is good.

LIFE'S DAY. Guide Posts and Danger Signals in Health. By William Sealman Inslee, A. M., M. D. New York: Frederick A. Stokes company. $1.35 net.

The man who is efficient to his utmost capacity, who gets the most out of life and gives to society the most out of himself, must be a well man. Ill health, with its inefficiencies, comes from ignorance or recklessness. This volume, written in plain English, will dispase the one and point out the perils of the other, and this it does in very practical and effective fashion. Its advice, if followed faithfully and intelligently, should enable one to become and remain well, and therefore to be efficient. It is a manual of health for the busy man and woman, providing in entertaining form the knowledge necessary for the maintenance of good physical condition from before birth until death. Taking up life's day from dawn to dusk, it always pays special attention to the critical periods of infancy, childhood, adolescence, middle age and old life. It covers the whole ground, and covers it namely and well. The author is the proponent of no fad of diet, exercise or anything else except the fad of good health, which is within the reach of every normal human being who will take such advice as this book gives and follow it consistently. As a guide book to health it fills the bill better than anything that has recently come to our notice.

In the saving of society this author puts Socialism and Christianity into two opposing and irreconcilable camps. It is true that a great many people will not agree with him. They believe that essentially they are the same forces—that Christianity cannot do its duty without vitalizing its efforts, and that Socialism is applied Christianity—the Golden Rule translated into human action and made the basis of an economic system. There is much to be said for that idea, but this author does not say it. However, he approaches both subjects with candor and fairness. Though condemning Socialism as unchristian, he admits its appeal to those who wish to see society redeemed, and who see that the church is not redeeming it. He approaches Christianity, on the other hand, with reverence and commendably implicit faith. It is an earnest and an honest study, made intelligently and without too much dogmatism. Socialism is looked upon as a logical outgrowth of agitation for which no other creed seems to offer a plausible remedy. It is admitted that its spread is the result of abuses of the privilege of private property which are making necessary the ultimate abolition of private property in the forms from which abuses flow. While this author seems to find Socialism and Christianity about the same things in object, by scriptural quotations he aims to show that their methods are opposed. He seems skeptical of evolution, both biological and economic. Probably he does unwitting harm to the Scriptures by too literal an interpretation, and to economic theories by seeking to square them to that interpretation. The fundamental and irreconcilable differences between Socialism and Christianity, in his view, is that while Socialism clings to a belief of the innate goodness of man, who is bad because of remediable conditions, Christianity believes in the depravity of human nature, which can be redeemed only by a new birth in Christ. Christianity looks to God for relief, Socialism to man. Mr. Hartman admits that the church has failed, and says that this is because, while preaching good doctrine, it has failed to give the secret of attainment. Socialism purports to give this secret, hence it is taking power that ought to belong to the church. Some of his views appear to be based upon a dogmatic interpretation of Christianity from which it may be that modern thought has drifted somewhat. The work shows much study, consistent and earnest thought, and a facility of expression which the author too modestly disclaims.

Mrs. Garrison is a prolific author of magazine verse of a lively and entertaining style, and nearly a hundred of her best poems are gathered in this volume. We don't fancy that books of poetry, nowadays, are a very lively commodity in the book market, but this particular one is likely to be an exception, for it has elements of popularity and excellence that should give it much vogue. An unusual evenness of merit is maintained throughout. There is an irresistible lilt in the lines, an engaging fluency and ease, a richness of imagery and a musical rhythm. Real ideas form the basis for most of the poems, which isn't so usual in poetry as it might be. The book places Mrs. Garrison in the first rank of minor poets, which is saying much in a day remarkable for its appalling scarcity of major poets.

OPISTHOPHORUS; or, The Man Who Walked Backward. By C. and J. A. Jones. Chicago: W. B. Conkey company.

This very serious book seeks to show the sufferings and temptations of a drunkard, and to illustrate the possibilities of his redemption. Most of the incidents occur in a "jag" hospital, where cases of greater or less seriousness are being treated. It is an intimate description of life on a "jag" farm, and tells how the horrible examples got there and how they were cured. Cases of delirium tremens are vividly described, and there is the cheerful assurance to moderate drinkers that they are not immune to that horrible infliction. A reading of the book is not calculated to increase one's appetite for liquor, and that is evidently why it was written.

THE NEW SCHAFF-HERZOG ENCYCLOPEDIA OF RELIGIOUS KNOWLEDGE. Vol. III. Complete in twelve volumes. New York: Funk & Wagnalls company. Cloth, $5 per volume.

The third volume of this voluminous and valuable compendium of religious knowledge is at hand, three months having separated its appearance from the publication of the second volume. This volume ranges from "Chamier" to "Draendorf," treats 755 topics, includes the work of 142 collaborators, and contains 516 pages. Though it does not contain so many topics as its predecessor, it has exactly the same number of pages, and the fact that less topics are treated is due to the character and treatment of those covered, some of them requiring lengthy treatment. The same policy toward biblical subjects is pursued in this volume as in the preceding ones. Among the articles of particular interest are the following: "Christology," by Dr. David S. Schaff; "Comparative Religion," by Prof. George Gilmore; "Congregationalists," by Rev. Norton Dexter; "Church and State," by Dr. George James Bayles. Biographical articles are numerous and full. Among others Charlemagne, Charles V, Chrysostom, Confucius, Constantine the Great, Dante, and David are included. Christian Socialism and Communism are interestingly treated, and the first subject particularly is very timely.

This newest and best encyclonedia on theological subjects will appeal to all ministers. It will be found an easy means of refreshing the memory and a ready guide to matters on which information is needed.

Louise Closser Hale had the advantage of her own stage experiences in writing "The Actress," her novel which had proved one of the Harper successes of the season. One of these experiences leads to a good story which Mrs. Hale tells on herself. It seems that behind the counters in every shop are many girls who are sure that their true place is the stage. "If they recognize me when I am shopping," says Mrs. Hale, "they tell me all about it while I wait for change, and I restrain myself and merely advise them not to give up their present position, for a while at least.

"'I should have went on the stage,' one of them said to me one day.

"'I strove to be interested. 'But see how tired I am,' I said to her. 'I have to work very hard as it is, and I have had to work much harder to gain what little recognition I have had.'

"'Oh yes,' she responded, complacently, gazing at herself in the mirror. 'But, you see, I have talent.'"

"What is your ideal woman?" was once asked of Elinor Macartney Lane, the late lamented author of "Katrine," and Mrs. Lane answered: "Nothing of the new woman, a loving, passionate, great-souled generous creature who loves children and animals, men women, and plants." This thought she expressed also through a character in one of her novels, who says, "Give a woman plenty of her husband's kisses, and his babies at her breast."

"The Inner Shrine," the anonymous serial in Harper's Magazine, destined still to remain anonymous even now that it is a book, has been attributed to almost every living author of distinction. The latest to be named are W. J. Locke and J. C. Snaith. Some of the others have been Gertrude Atherton, Edith Wharton, Gilbert Parker, Mrs. Humphry Ward, Booth Tarkington, Richard Harding Davis, and Margaret Deland. One naturally wonders how a single novel, especially one that maintains a consistent style throughout, could contain so many different traits of style.

Among the Magazines.

Young's Magazine for June arrives with eight additional pages of reading matter, and an opening novel, entitled "Crossroads," by Elizabeth Goldo, wherein Dodo fascinating divorcee, typical exponent of society's creed of "arriving at whatever cost," presents an absorbing study of the modern society girl. She has position but no money, and she becomes the "sandwich woman" for an enterprising dressmaking firm; her famous diamonds are really excellent paste; she cozens and lobbies and "succeeds," while Washington gapes open-mouthed at her audacity. Her standards and ideals have been blighted and warped by the false conditions and meretricious morality of her "set," but when the right man comes, she is transformed into a new woman. It's a charming story of a dazzling, enthralling woman's personality. "On the Elephant of the Maharajah," by Lilian May Troy, is a story of convulsing humor, wherein Joanne, a convent-bred maid, relates her adventures, and experiments upon men with "tricks of the eyes."

Van Norden Magazine for June has drawn upon the world for its news—fact articles. Congressman James A. Tawney has a scathing denunciation of governmental extravagance under the title of "How Uncle Sam Pays the Piper," and the chairman of the house committee on appropriations is an authority; Read Condon discusses the other side of the food preservative controversy in an incisive article; the "Real Patten and His Wheat Deal" is set forth by William A. Orr; "When Islam Calls," by Wallace Hirst, tells of the problem in Turkey where religious influences appear opposed to progress along Occidental lines; A. H. Parnall sums up the "World's Finance" and explains the British income tax proposals.

American heroism is the subject of the opening article in Harper's Magazine for June—the heroism of military scouts, secret service men, during the Civil war. William Gilmore Beymer tells the touching story of "Rowand," a scout, in the first of a group of true tales of gallantry and reckless daring. Howard Pyle has made the paintings to illustrate it. In the same number appear some delightful pictures by Castaigne, illustrating Marie Van Worst's charming account of the Danube river. Another well-known artist Thornton Oakley, contributes striking pictures to accompany his own article on "The Shipyard." Elizabeth Shippen Green has made the pictures of Richard Le Gallienne's fairy-story, "The Stolen Mirror," and there are a number of reproductions in sepia of Frank W. Benson's paintings, accompanying an article on that artist's work by Charles H. Caffin. Still another artist, Charles W. Furlong, contributes drawings to illustrate his own exploration article on "The Southernmost People of the World." Prof. Lounsbury, of Yale, writes on what he calls "Wardour Street English."

Ainslee's for June has an unusual table of contents, which includes Harold MacGrath's serial, "The Goose Girl," a complete novel by Marie Van Vorst, and eleven short stories by Clara E. Laughlin, Mrs. Jacques Futrell, Charles Neville Buck, Norval Richardson, Steel Williams, Quenth M. Lytle, Elizabeth Comfort, Francis Willing Wharton, George Lee Burton, Owen Oliver and Roy Norton.

The cover of the June number of the Popular Magazine is the latest inspiration of the celebrated artist, J. C. Leyendecker. He is without doubt the leader in this particular style of painting. It is full of real life in color and in action, and, like all his work, it contains a certain "go" which cannot be equaled.

The leading article in the June number of Hampton's Magazine is "The Story of the Wonderful Water Melon Patch," which is a remarkable exposition of the tactics employed, and the means resorted to, by the giant corporations in their process of stock watering. Charles Edward Russell, one of the closest students of economics, is the writer of this remarkable article, and he handles a disagreeable subject in a most delightful manner. Other articles of interest are "The Unknowable Negro," by Harris Dickson; "White Coal Mines and Water Farms," by John L. Matthews; "Our Undisciplined Daughters," by Reginald Wright Kauffman; "Women of the Circus," by Hugh C. Weir, and "The American Millionaire," by Gilbert K. Chesterton.

The June number of Scribner's Magazine contains many interesting pictures. There are four beautiful full pages in color, one depicting "Day at Fishing"—Trout, black bass, salmon and muskallonge. There is also a very elaborately illustrated article on Ingres by Frank Fowler, who considers him one of the very great portrait painters of the world. H. G. Dwight, who was wounded in the recent revolution in Turkey, has a most entertaining description of "A Turkish Village" where he lives, near Constantinople. From this village he was going by boat to the city to see the fighting when he was hit by a spent bullet. "Gen. Sherman's Letters Home" are concluded with the letters giving an account of his great campaign through the Carolinas at the end of the war; his negotiations with Johnston; and the political troubles into which they drew him. These letters also show the friction at Washington after the war was over between President Johnson, Grant, and the members of the cabinet. There has never been a more direct light thrown on those troublous times. James Ford Rhodes, the distinguished historian, writes an appreciation of the great work of Edward Gibbon, the author of "The Decline and Fall." He pictures him as the "greatest modern historian."

The Smart Set for June contains a number of features of peculiar excellence. "A House to Let," by Mary Mullett; "The Woman in a Million," by Marie Belden James; "Green Charcreuse," by Frederic Taber Cooper; "Miracle!" by Adelaide Stedman; "To the Devil and Back," by H. Fraser Hill; "As They Would Have Told It," by Louis Barry, and "The Trick of Time," by Frederick Marland, are all clever stories of the sparkling, breezy type that have made the Smart Set "the magazine of cleverness." Tom Masson, Theodosia Garrison, Elsa Parker, Channing Pollock and Wilberforce Jenkins are represented by other stories, sketches and verse.

All the children will be delighted with the June St. Nicholas, from the frontispiece, "Half Way Up the Winding Road Stands the House that I Call Mine," to the letter box and the riddle box at the end. "The Sinking of the Bark Kathleen" is a handsomely illustrated sketch by Frederick Booth. "The Story of Dutch Painting," by Charles H. Coffin, is written in a style to enlist the interest of young readers, and Henry Hatton and Adrian Plate tell about "Methods of Magicians" so that every one can understand how to perform tricks with cards. There are all sorts of stories and verses and pictures galore. Altogether, it is a great number for the young folks.

An article from Louise King in the House and Garden for June, under the caption of "Simple Curtains for the Modest Home," is timely and full of adaptable and practical suggestions. Her descriptions of the possibilities which lie in cotton prints, chintz, cheese cloth and stencil are not only inspiring to the amateur house decorator, but materials are so modest in price that they interest the householder from the economical standpoint as well.

Summer from many points of view is reflected in the beautifully illustrated pages of the Delineator for June. Alice Lounsberry writes about "The Return of Rose-Time," and Mabel Osgood Wright describes "Birds We Ought to Know." For those who are going to Europe and for those who will stay at home M. Landon Reed tells, most amusingly, of "The Hard Work of a Foreign Tour." Mabel Potter Daggett contributes an article of rare interest, a study of "One Woman's Civic Service," the one woman being the Rev. Caroline Bartlett Crane, who has achieved national distinction since she began to work for municipal reform in Kalamazoo.

Anne Hagan, who is a farmer when she is in Connecticut, a prominent member of the Women's University club, as well as an author, has contributed to the number of Smith's Magazine now on news-stands an essay on "Marriage and the Working Woman," which every thoughtful woman should read. The same number contains twenty-four splendid full-page art studies of face favorites, and stories and essays by such writers as Rupert Hughes, Marion Hill, Holman F. Day, H. Addington Bruce, C. N. Williamson and Annie Heasilp Lea.

The People's for June celebrates the month of roses in its bright, attractive cover design, the Rose Girl. Turning the page, another beauty strikes the eye. This is the portrait of Miss Fritzi Scheff, an exquisite color plate, printed on a fine quality of paper, and conveying perfectly the vivid and winning personality of the comedienne. The 192 pages of fiction continue the rich summer tone, and are filled with the fine, fresh vigor which is the keynote of the magazine.

E. Phillips Oppenheim, Anthony Hope and Arthur W. Marchmont are three star writers represented in the fiction of Gunter's for June. Oppenheim's latest novel, "Jeanne of the Marshes," begins in this number. Judging from the first big instalment, it will be as great a success as the same author's "The Missioner," which is one of the present season's "six best sellers." "Jeanne of the Marshes" is to be brought out in the fall in book form by Little, Brown & Co. The second part of Anthony Hope's two-part story, "The Fight for Lord Arpenhoe," is full of many delightful surprises sprung in the inimitable style of this master of romantic writing.

Thirteen at table, that most widely dominant of all superstitions, is the motive of the story given leading place in the June Century. The tale, "With the Coin of Her Life," is one of three on the same theme to appear in early numbers of The Century, and how they came to be written is interesting. Some time ago, when discussing the influence of a point of view on human judgments, it was suggested that two or more writers be asked to write separately each a short story on a chosen subject. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, Margaret Deland and Owen Wister took up the above subject; and the stories were finished without any one of the three having knowledge of what the other two had written. The editors declare that guesses as to the author of this first tale are likely to miss the mark.

SOCIETY

THE EVENT of the coming week promises to be the May festival of music, which will be presented at the Lyceum, Friday and Saturday. Never in the history of Duluth have the subscriptions for a musical affair equalled those already pledged for this festival, and a brilliant audience is promised for the opening concert Friday evening.

There is much generosity being displayed, and several Duluth women have, with their subscriptions, arranged to extend the pleasure of the concerts to a number of students and young people who otherwise would be unable to hear the music. This fine spirit of unselfishness will make the two days of music by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, and the assisting soloists, of especial interest and pleasure in Duluth.

To those who are especially anxious that the influence of music be extended as far as possible, the children's matinee to be given Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, is one of the most important and delightful features of the concert. A charming program has been arranged. It will include Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" and "Spring Song," Schumann's "Traumerei," the Mascagni "Intermezzo," the Bocherini "Minuet," and other well known and beautiful numbers, in which the pronounced melodies will appeal directly and perfectly to the little folks.

In that audience Friday afternoon there will be none more appreciative than the pupils from the Webster school. During the winter they have listened to informal lecture musicales by Miss Josephine Carey, and yesterday afternoon Miss Carey played for them at the piano, the program which the orchestra will play next Friday. The numbers were played separately and a few simple words of explanation were given, and they they were played by Miss Carey without announcing the number, and the audience decided which was being played. The little folks at this school have nearly all made arrangements to go.

As yet no provision has been made for the little folks at the Children's home to enjoy this affair. It is probable that no one has thought particularly about the children there, but some kind Duluthian will probably come to their rescue during the week.

The audience at Friday and Saturday night concerts promises to be among the largest and most fashionable of the season.

Mr. Oberhoffer, director of the orchestra, will be the guest of honor at a luncheon Saturday at the Commercial club, at which Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Reyner will be hosts.

A simple wedding ceremony took place last Sunday at Meadowlands when Miss Harriet Rebecca Arnold, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Bishop Arnold of this city, became the bride of John Newton Tidd. The wedding took place at the bride's home, Whiteface Lodge. The service was read by the Rev. F. W. Hill of Coleraine. Mr. Tidd and his bride will be at home at Meadowlands.

Duluth society was much interested in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Effie Smith, daughter of Mrs. Sterling Smith to Ralph Cadwell of Warren, Ariz., which was made known to the Duluth friends of the bride during the week. The family is well known in Duluth, where they made their home until last fall. During the last two months Mrs. Smith and her daughter have been the guests of Mrs. Smith's son, Sterling Smith at Warren. Mr. Cadwell is superintendent of the street railway lines at Warren. The wedding will probably take place during August at Los Angeles, where Miss Smith and her mother will spend the summer.

She will spend the summer with her sister, and will probably be heard in a recital during the summer.

Whooping Cough.

This is a more dangerous disease than is generally presumed. It will be a surprise to many to learn that more deaths result from it than from scarlet fever. Pneumonia often results from it. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, and always with the best results. Delbert McKelg of Harlan, Iowa, says of it: "My boy took whooping cough when nine months old. He had it in the winter, I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which proved good. I cannot recommend it too highly." For sale by all druggists.

The May Festival.

"There is no organization of men, perhaps, that becomes so truly unified into a single force as a big symphony orchestra, under the baton of a skillful conductor. They play, to use a common comparison, like one great musical instrument. Yet the perfect fusion is only attained after association in the exercise of their one common function—the making of music—and every large orchestra contains widely varied individual units.

MR. HEDGE.
Soloist at the May Festival.

The musicians of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra are, almost without exception, men of European birth and education. All are professional musicians, who devote their entire time to music, and every country of Europe known local singers, Walter Smith and Philip Gordon Brown, and the intention is to have the closing concert as a fitting and memorable finish to the orchestra's tour. The festival will really open on Friday afternoon with a matinee for the pupils in the high and grade schools, when ten compositions, ranging from Mendelssohn to Strauss, will be presented, and at a cost of 10, 15 and 25 cents, according to location. This school matinee will be a great feature of the festival.

The Skovgaard Recital.

There is much interest being displayed in the concert to be given tomorrow evening at Flaaten's auditorium by Skovgaard, the Danish violinist, assisted by Marie R. Hovey, soprano and Alice McClung, pianist.

Of Skovgaard's appearance in Leipsic was written:

"The concert by Skovgaard, the Danish violinist, was a rare musical event. Skovgaard is a perfect master of this instrument and his audience is involuntarily drawn into a state of perfect harmony with him. He overcame the greatest technical difficulties with ease and the taste and thorough comprehension which characterized his playing prove that he possesses a complete knowledge of his art."

"A concert of more than passing interest was given on Dec. 5, by Skovgaard, the Danish violinist. There are many violinists who play very artistically, who please, and who are in great demand in the musical world, and sometimes the line of departure separating the good from the great, very nearly approaches the intangible. However, when the truly great violinist appears before one, he is immediately recognized, and all others fade into the misty sphere of mediocrity. In the class of the really great violinists belongs Skovgaard, the Danish violinist, who plays with all the charm of virtuosity, elan and musical feeling of the innate artist."

Piano Recital.

The piano pupils of Mrs. D. H. Day were presented in a delightful recital last evening at the Pilgrim Congregational church. The church was prettily decorated in flowers and palms for the affair, and a large audience was present. Mrs. Day had as ushers during the evening Dr. Day and Messrs. James McLennan, William White, Jr., and Fred Wolvin.

The numbers were prettily presented by the students, and Miss Virginia Harrison, who played Godard's "Second Mazurka," was twice recalled by the enthusiastic audience.

Those who appeared on the program were Marion McLennan, Rae Cook, Martha Wall and Beryl Wallace, Marion Baxter, Cyrilla Gross, Vera Lindahl, Lillian Westgaard, Vivian Turrish, Helen Edwards, Dorothy Meakin, Ethel Gonsky, Alica Hollahan, Edith Fitzsimmons, Alice Lang, Marguerite Getz, Esther Gomberg, Virginia Harrison, Gertrude Logan, Jeanette Goubera, Alyda Flaaten, Martha Linner, Maud Gilbert, Helga Frank, Dora Polinsky and Olga Murvold.

The assisting artist was C. Lawrence Paul, who sang in a finished and pleasing manner "It Was Not So to Be," by Victor Nessler, and "A Son of the Desert Am I," by Phillips.

Executive Board Meeting.

There will be a special meeting of the executive board of the Twentieth Century club Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the clubroom of the library.

Miss Fulton's Recital.

A recital which proved attractive was given last evening before a large and enthusiastic audience at Flaaten's auditorium by the piano and vocal pupils of Miss Mabel Fulton.

The younger pupils, who opened the program, played daintily and neatly, and the two tiny tots who sang, Irwin Kunerth and Marjorie McTague, aged 5 and 7, respectively, were a delight to the audience.

The older students, pianist and singers, on the program, all acquitted themselves with credit.

GAINS DESPITE TARIFF DELAY

Improvement Area in Iron and Steel Rapidly Widening.

New York, May 22.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

Almost every development, except the lengthening debate on the tariff, is favorable, and gains made in spite of the tariff disturbance are a fair indication of what may be expected when that is out of the way. Domestic agricultural conditions are excellent, and yet prices of farm products continue to advance. The area of improvement in iron and steel is rapidly widening and a notable event of the week is the restoration of wages by independent producers. Reports of railroads are of steadily increasing business, and the latest earnings show a gain of 14.9 per cent over last year, the decrease, as compared with 1907, being 12.8 per cent.

The primary cotton goods market still continues to be dominated by the high level of prices for the raw material. Although slight irregularities have occurred here and there, the market as a whole is steady, with manufacturers reluctant to enter into contracts for any extended delivery. Export buying has been restricted, China having withdrawn entirely from the market for the present. There is some inquiry from the Red Sea at lower prices than manufacturers are willing to concede, while about 2,000 bales of standard drills have been sold to India and considerable more business has been done in prints for Manila and South America. The print cloth market is still firm, with sales moderate and more demand on the finer counts for converters and cutters. In the woolen goods division duplicate business on heavy weights has been fairly satisfactory and a further improvement is anticipated, as clothiers now know the general trend of demand. The principal feature of the trade is the higher level of prices at which business is being done. In the dress goods division a scarcity in the fall season is anticipated. The general level of yarn prices is higher, although comparatively little increase in business is noted.

The slight improvement in shoe conditions still continues, and while there has been no especially heavy trade, business shows an increase in nearly all lines, and large New England manufacturers expect that the footwear market will soon be restored to its normal position. The staple lines show particular improvement with larger-sized orders than for some time past. Prices have again advanced, and a further general rise is announced in nearly all lines. The Chicago packer hide market has ruled considerably less active since the liberal buying of last week, and country hides are steady. The advance in prices has been checked for both packer and country take-off. Foreign dry hides have advanced still further, and stocks of all kinds are well sold up with a lack of offerings from the river plate. Calfskins are strong. The feature of the whole leather market is the announcement of a further advance in prices of union backs.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

ARCHIE'S father had not approved of Bingo when Archie brought the old fellow home one evening after school. Not that Bingo was an ordinary dog, nor because Archie's father was an unkind man, but because Mr. Smith—Archie's father—did not approve of keeping dogs in town. He declared that town or city was no place for a dog, and, therefore, when Archie came home leading beside him a fine old dog, Mr. Smith shook his head and said: "Now, son, you know how I feel regarding dogs in town. Why did you bring this fellow here, and where did you get him?"

"Why, Papa, it's this way," said Archie, explaining; and doing his best to present the matter to his father so that Bingo might be allowed to stay. "As Tom Flower and I came down the alley back of those old unoccupied warehouses Tom said to me: 'Hello, Archie, you've got a new friend. See him beside you!' And glancing around I saw this fine old dog, walking very gently beside me. When I looked into his face he wagged his tail and looked so pleased to be noticed. I said, 'Where did you come from, fellow?' and he merely wagged his tail again and came closer to me than he had been. It was plain, Papa, that the dog had strayed, or been lost from some of those strolling bands of Gypsies that have been camping of late on the river banks below town. And he seems such an intelligent fellow that it would be a shame to send him adrift on the town, for he'd wind up in the pound. Oh, that would be terrible, Papa." And Archie's face wore an expression of horror at the thought his words conveyed.

Mr Smith looked Bingo over, then asked what Archie would do with him were he to stay.

"Why, I'd chum with him, sir," spoke up Archie, quickly, a smile of hope in his eyes. "He's a worthy fellow, Papa, and I'm quite sure his name is Bingo, for I called him several names before he seemed to reply to one of them, and it was to Bingo that he leaped up at my side and looked as though he wished to say, 'That's my name, sir.'"

"All right, son," smiled Mr. Smith. "We'll try him for a while, and if he becomes too much of a nuisance we'll get some farmer to take him."

Archie turned away smiling. He felt sure that Bingo would never become a nuisance. Boys always have a better understanding of dogs than grownup people do and Archie could read the character of Bingo much better than his father could. "Come, Bingo," he cried, snapping his fingers to his new-found chum. "Come, let's have a run." And away down the street they ran, each happy in the society of the other.

And so the first week of Bingo's sojourn at the home of the Smiths passed away very pleasantly, and Mr. Smith had no complaint to make of the newcomer's conduct, save that he seemed of no use. "He behaves himself all right," he admitted, speaking to Archie of Bingo, "but he is of no account to us. He only eats and roams and sleeps. A dog ought to be on a farm, where he can find work to do. Even a dog is better employed than idle."

On the next day—it being Saturday—Archie decided to pay a visit to a young friend who lived in the country, and called to Bingo to accompany him. Archie would walk the distance of four miles, for he was quite an athletic fellow, and five or six miles was as nothing to him when the weather was fine. And old Bingo, Archie knew, would not feel fatigue from such a walk. So, bright and early, boy and dog set out, boy whistling gaily and dog trotting beside him in a happy mood.

They were soon in the country, and Archie found much to interest him along the roadside. There were many fresh young plants—belonging to the weed family—that were worth examining, for Archie was deeply interested in botany and exercised his knowledge of plants whenever the opportunity presented itself. So half the day had passed before Archie realized that he was prolonging his journey too much, for he knew his young friend would be expecting him for the noon dinner, and he was still a mile from the farm where he was to pay the visit.

"Say, Bingo, we've loitered," Archie said, throwing down a half-open bud he had been dissecting. "Come, let's get a sudden move on, and cover this mile in no time. Say, old fellow, there's that great pasture we might cut through and save climbing the hill, also cutting off a quarter of a mile of distance. We'll take the diagonal cut across the meadow, and reach the farmhouse ten minutes sooner than if we went by the road. What say you, old chap?"

Bingo looked his approval, and Archie strode off towards a barbed wire fence which confined a meadow pasture. Archie supposed the pasture was one used for grazing the milk cows, but he saw no cattle anywhere. "Well, Bingo," he said, as he and dog crawled under the lowest wire of the fence, "we're now in a fine pasture, and we may meet a long-horned cow. Should she take offense at our intrusion—well, you'll give her a sound of your voice. Your bark is enough to frighten the life out of the ordinary animal—or man, too, for that matter."

So the two trudged along, wading through the fresh, deep grass and rich clover. On reaching a little grove of young timber Bingo saw a small ground animal, and ran after it with all his might. The animal led him a chase through the grove, taking him to the opposite side of it, thus cutting him off from Archie's view. Just as Archie was about to whistle to Bingo to rejoin him and quit his fruitless chase there loomed right in front of him a wild-eyed young bull, his head lifted high, his nostrils dilated. He had stepped from behind a cluster of bushes, which had concealed him from Archie's sight till now, and was looking at the small boy as if asking: "Why do you dare to intrude here, you stranger?"

Archie felt his hair standing on end, and his blood seemed frozen in his veins. Slowly he began to retreat, walking backwards and keeping his eyes on those of the animal. And at the same time he whistled furiously for Bingo, who was some distance off, standing near to a small hole, into which the little ground animal had slipped. But his quick ear heard his new master's whistle, and he knew that he was wanted. He quickly forgot the ground animal and turned to join Archie. Just as he did so the young bull took it into his head to chase the two-legged intruder out of the pasture, and also thought it would be great sport to toss the said two-legged intruder on his horns. With a furious bellow, a preliminary pawing of the earth with his strong hoofs and a switching of his tail in an enraged manner, he started, head down, for Archie. The boy, thus menaced, turned to fly, but knew that his chance to reach the fence was small. He ran with all his might, but knew that the bull was only a short distance behind him and that only a matter of a few seconds lay between him and a pair of sharp horns. Possibly it would mean his death! The very thought was so horrible that Archie almost fainted from fear. But he was saved from this disaster by hearing Bingo's low, deep bark, or a snarl it was now, and Archie knew that his faithful friend was close beside the pursuing bull.

"Ah, Bingo's come to my relief!" he thought. "He'll hold the bull's attention till I'm safe beyond the fence." And so it did happen just that way. Within a minute Archie had gained the fence and rolled under it to safety. Then getting to his feet quickly he looked into the pasture. Not ten rods from where he now stood the bull was engaged in a strenuous tussle with Bingo. The brave old dog—a powerful fellow in size and strength—had caught him by the ear and was holding on for dear life's sake. In vain did the bull try to shake him off. Bingo only fastened his long teeth the firmer and held fast. The bull was infuriated, but Bingo was calm, so the latter had the best of it.

Then Archie began to call and whistle to Bingo to come to him. "He can drop off the bull's ear and gain the fence before the bull can reach him," he said to himself. "Come, Bingo! Come, fellow!" Then he whistled again. And in response to the master's call Bingo suddenly let loose the bull's ear and came with lightning-like bounds to the fence, and with a powerful leap cleared it, landing several feet from his young master.

Only a Matter of a Few Seconds Lay Between Him and a Pair of Sharp Horns.

The bull, thus suddenly released, stood gazing toward boy and dog for a few seconds, then shaking his head, from which blood was flowing, for Bingo's teeth had pierced one of the animal's ears, he slowly turned and made off toward the little grove in the pasture.

And it was a thrilling story of Bingo's bravery, intelligence and strength that Archie told his father that evening on returning home. And after hearing the account of Archie's close call at the horns of a bull Mr. Smith said feelingly: "Bingo's well worth his board and keep, son, and from henceforth shall be one of the family."

And of course Archie and Bingo were both very happy over this verdict.

Blackie Gets Even With Goldie.

A Story for Wee Ones
By Helena Davis.

GOLDIE was a little girl five years old. She was called Goldie because of her golden hair. Blackie was a new pet belonging to Goldie. Blackie was a strong, fat kitten, about three months old. He had been brought to Goldie by her uncle Tom who had bought the funny little fellow from a cat peddler. "He'll do for Goldie to play with," Uncle Tom had said, without ever asking Blackie if he would like being the property of a very mischievous little girl. So Uncle Tom had paid a dollar for Blackie and had carried him that same day to Goldie, and Goldie was much pleased at having a live toy. Her dolls, her Teddy bear, her Noah's ark animals, were all so stupid; never moving of themselves, and having to be put into position by Goldie herself. So, she found Blackie very amusing.

On the third day after Blackie's arrival in the home of Goldie, the little four-footer and long-taller found himself very unhappy. First of all, he missed his nice warm mother, against whose side he had slept so comfortably. Next, he found himself looking in vain for his sisters and brothers with whom he had played so merrily. And many, many other recollections of the very recent past flitted through little Blackie's mind as he was wooed and pulled about by his new mistress, little Miss Goldie.

"Ah, you are such a bad kitten!" cried little Miss Goldie, squeezing poor Blackie till he mewed pitifully. "Why, do you want to get out of my arms, you ugly fellow? Aren't you having a good time? Oh, I know what I'll do—I'll put one of Dolly's dresses on you. Oh, how very, very funny you will look. You'll look like a live nigger doll, with your funny black face."

Then Goldie ran to her playroom and got one of Dolly's dresses. But she hadn't given poor Blackie a chance of escape during the time she was going up and down stairs; no, she had lugged (that is the only word that describes the manner of Goldie's carrying Blackie) the poor uncomfortable kitten with her, squeezing his poor body till he suffered real pain.

Once again on the big back porch, Goldie proceeded to dress Blackie in the doll's dress. And the poor fellow soon found himself in a garment very tight about the neck and arms (Blackie's front legs served the purpose of arms when in a dress). In vain he mewed and mewed, begging to be taken out of the torturous clothes. Goldie had no pity, and kept hold of the poor Blackie, scolding him for mewing, and slapping him occasionally over the ears, all of which made Blackie very miserable indeed. You know a cat has feelings just like a human being's, but cannot express his pain or joy in words. So poor Blackie had to suffer and suffer, his little heart almost breaking.

The next day Goldie conceived the idea of dressing Blackie up in a doll's dress again, for her little friend, Fred Scott, had come to play with her, and she meant to let Fred wool and pull and tease poor Blackie in his uncomfortable clothes. But Blackie had been thinking all the night before and had arrived at this conclusion: A cat has his rights, and one of them is comfort; another one, liberty. And why should he, Blackie, submit to the tortures inflicted upon him by Goldie? No, he would fight back, he would. If ever again she tried to put those horrid clothes upon him he would protect himself; he would use his claws and teeth. What else were claws for? So, the following day, when Goldie got the doll's dress and began to put it on Blackie the determined little fellow sprang at her face and dashed both paws across it. One went slap across Goldie's nose, leaving a tiny bloody streak marking the claws' progress. The other paw stroked her chin, leaving a twin streak of blood to the one over the nose. Goldie, screaming with fright and pain, threw Blackie to the ground and ran in the house to tell her mother. Fred, also afraid of Blackie, having been a witness to the scratching, ran after Goldie, intending to testify to Blackie's terrible conduct.

And Blackie was now at liberty to go where he pleased, and he pleased to run with all possible speed to the alley. Arriving there, he found a snug barrel, turned on its side, full of straw, and into it he crept. Half an hour later Goldie and Fred came to the alley hunting for him, calling "Kitty, kitty, kitty!" But Blackie kept very still and the children went away without so much as suspecting that he might be in the barrel.

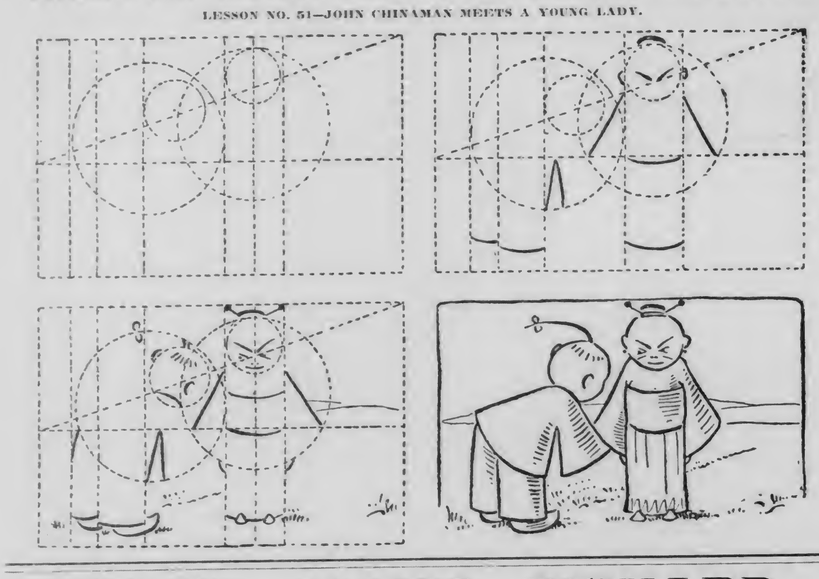
That night Blackie crept forth and found a garbage barrel in the alley, from which he got a pretty good supper. Then he traveled on, and when morning came had entered the yard of a nice old lady who had no children about the place, and who, seeing Blackie, fed and petted him and made him know he was welcome to live in her house. And as soon as Blackie found there were no children about he decided to stay and to pay for his board and keep by catching the mice in the cellar.

And to this day—which is a year since Blackie found the happy home with the old lady—he has remained and grown into a genuinely fine mouser, and his present mistress thinks he is the finest cat in the world, and treats him as though he were human, for she knows that cats feel the same as do people.

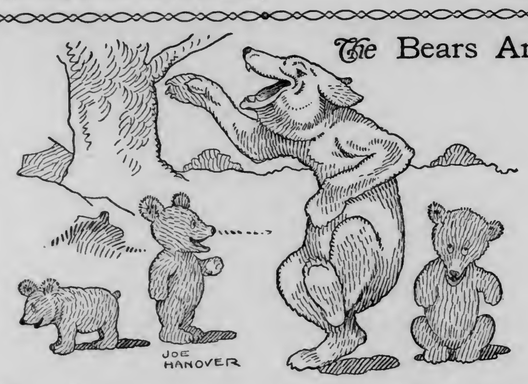
He Soon Found Himself In a Garment Very Tight About the Neck and Arms.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR OUR YOUNG ARTISTS.

LESSON NO. 51—JOHN CHINAMAN MEETS A YOUNG LADY.



The Bears Are Out Again.



OLD Mother Bear and little young bears
All winter had lain in a hole,
But as soon as the first spring days arrived
From the gloom and darkness they stole
To the light of day and pure sweet air,
And each little bear laughed with glee;
"Ah, ha! It is fine to be wide awake,
To have light, air and grand liberty!"

Then in chorus loud together they cried,
"We'll eat, play, hunt and fight,
And we'll make our day just six months long,
For we've had six months of night."

And Mother Bear, with a look of pride
On her children standing there,
Said, "I know that you will all grow up
To terrorize folks everywhere.

"You'll frighten boys and big men, too,
And 'twill be such jolly fun
To see those queer two-legged things
Turn pale when they see you and run." M. W.

ETHEL MAY'S REWARD.

BY MAUD WALKER.

THERE were three of the Anderson children, Gracie, aged 15; Jack, aged 13; Ethel May, aged 11. And all three were spending the summer with an aged aunt in the country, on a beautiful farm near to a small and interesting village.

As the Anderson children's home was in a very large Eastern city, they found a great deal of pleasure, and many surprises, in the country. There seemed no end to the variety of sights and sounds. There were the domestic animals, fowls in the barnyard, the fields, gardens, meadows, woods and hills. And then there were the brooks and ponds, full of fish the meadows and woods full of birds and noisome insects.

One day during the last week of May the children's Aunt Mary called them to her on the big front porch, saying: "My old friend, Mrs. Jones, just called me by phone this morning and says she is arranging a picnic in the woods for her grandchildren, who are visiting her from the city, and she begs me to allow you three youngsters to be of her company. Would you enjoy a picnic the day after tomorrow?"

"Oh, yes, Auntie," exclaimed all three children. Then one spoke at a time: "I don't think there'd be anything nicer, Aunt Mary, than a picnic in the wild woods." So spoke Gracie. "Oh, I'll take along my fishing tackle, and fetch home enough flunies for dinner," cried Jack. "And I think it would be perfectly splendid," agreed Ethel May. "I do love a picnic more than anything."

"Then all be prepared to start at 9 o'clock on the day after tomorrow," said Aunt Mary. "I'll see that a fine luncheon is prepared for you to carry with you. John, our man, will take you in the carriage to Mrs Jones' house. From there you'll go afoot to the woods—which is only a mile distant from Mrs. Jones' place."

Of course, the children talked of nothing else all that day except the coming picnic in the woods. They had never enjoyed a country picnic, and this one held much pleasure for them.

On the day of the picnic the Anderson children were ready to start to the home of Mrs. Jones long before John had the carriage in readiness. And their baskets were filled with luncheon, the very best that Aunt Mary's fine old colored cook could prepare.

It was wanting a quarter of an hour till nine—the time set for starting—when Jane, the housemaid, called to Gracie: "Come to your Aunt's room at once, Miss. She's taken suddenly ill."

Gracie, accompanied by her brother and sister, ran upstairs to Aunt Mary's room and found that good old lady lying on her bed very pale and ill-looking. After a few inquiries Aunt Mary explained that she had been very miserable all night, but that she had tried to dress in order to come down to see the children off on their day's outing; but she had become so faint that she was obliged to lie down, and to call to Jane to come to her assistance. "I have asked her to phone to my doctor, who lives in the village, and he'll be here within an hour. I am sorry to have spoiled your starting, children, dear." So spoke old Aunt Mary.

"But shall we go to the picnic?" asked Ethel May, solicitously. "I don't think we should leave Auntie when she is ill."

A cloud passed over Gracie's face. It was plain she did not wish to be disappointed in the picnic. She turned toward Jack, who stood looking his displeasure at Ethel May for having made such a blunder. He, too, did not wish to remain away from the picnic. Then he spoke up:

"I really don't see what we kids could do for Aunt Mary. There is Jane to wait on her; and the doctor will be here directly. I think we'd better go to the picnic, for Mrs. Jones, and the Jones kids will be looking for us."

"Yes," said Gracie, adding her argument to Jack's, "Auntie will be well cared for by Jane and the doctor. We—as Jack says—can be of no use to her. We'll be in the way, only."

Ethel May's face reddened, and she turned a sharp look on her brother and sister; "Well," she said, "we may not be of any use as far as waiting on Auntie is concerned, but we can be company for her and try to cheer her up. I for one, won't leave her while she's ill."

Aunt Mary put out her hand and touched Ethel May's hair gently. "Dear little girlie," she said feebly, 'you shall not sacrifice your day for me. I shall get on very well with Jane to nurse me. And as Jack and Gracie are so anxious to go to the picnic I would not for the world detain them here. No, all of you go. And it is time you were off. John is at the gate now with the carriage."

"Well, Aunt Mary, I hope you'll be O. K. when we get home this evening," exclaimed Jack, hurrying from the room, "I'll get the luncheon baskets in the carriage, girls, while you are getting on your jackets and hats. But hurry!"

"All right, Jack, we'll follow immediately," called out Gracie. Then stooping, she kissed her old aunt's cheek. "Goodby, Auntie!" she said. "I hope you'll be well soon. The doctor will fix you up all right, I'm sure. Come, Ethel May, don't stand there and worry Aunt Mary. I fancy she wants to be left alone. Come." And Gracie was off down the stairs like a flash, all thought of the aged sick aunt vanished as she saw the carriage waiting at the gate.

"Why don't you go, child?" asked Aunt Mary, turning to Ethel May, who still lingered in her room.

"Because, Auntie, I just can't go off and leave you sick in bed. And I wouldn't enjoy the picnic were I to go, knowing you were here alone and ill. I know just how Jane will do. She'll come to you when called and perform just the little errands you require of her. Then she'll hurry down to the kitchen to gossip with cook and the gardener. I know her, and the other servants, too. They'll neglect you. So I mean to stay and look after you."

Tears trickled down old Aunt Mary's cheeks, and she caught Ethel's hands in her own and pressed them tenderly, saying, "Thank you, dearie. It is sweet to have someone with you who loves you. Servants want only money. You stay with me because ——"

"Because you are the dearest old Auntie in the world, and I love you," declared Ethel May. "And now I shall see about making you more comfortable." And the little Miss soon had her auntie in a loose robe and back into bed, where the pillows were fixed just right, and the window shades were so adjusted that the morning sun and air came into the room but did not fall on the bed. Then, running to the garden Ethel May picked a bouquet of roses and placed them in a vase of water near to her aunt's bed.

The doctor came and found Aunt Mary feeble and "run down," as he expressed it. Nothing serious, but a sort of breakdown. He advised a change of scene and climate.

"How would California do?" asked Aunt Mary. "I've long thought of making a nice trip there."

I'll Get the Baskets In the Carriage, Girls, While You Are Getting On Your Jackets.

"Just the place, my dear woman," declared the doctor. "And go as soon as you are a bit stronger. You'll be able to start next week."

After the doctor had departed Aunt Mary turned to Ethel May, saying, "You and I will start for California this day week, dear. So you may make your plans accordingly. I'll write your parents tomorrow about it. They'll be delighted to have you accompany me on this enjoyable trip."

"And brother and sister—will you take them, too?" asked unselfish Ethel May.

Aunt Mary shook her head "No, childie, only you shall go with me. You have proven your unselfishness this day and deserve a reward. It shall be in the form of a visit to all parts of interest on the Pacific Coast as far as we can go and remain in our own country. And maybe next year we'll go to Old Mexico—you and I. You see, dearie, love—disinterested love—is a rare thing, and when one finds it, as I have found it in you today, one must value it dearer than all else. In future you shall be my dearest one, and I shall try to repay you for your sweet, youthful devotion and self-sacrificing kindness."

And Ethel May's Aunt Mary kept her word, and that time next week found them driving to the railroad station in the village, where they would take the train for the great and glorious West. And Jack and Gracie returned home to the city and had ample time to ponder over why Ethel May should be taken and they left behind.

Our Puzzle Corner

LETTER ENIGMA.

My first is in joy, but not in grief.
My second is in army, but not in relief.
My third is in car, but not in train.
My fourth is in kill, but not in slain.
My fifth is in smile, but not in tear.
My sixth is in terror, but not in fear.
My seventh is in oven, but not in bake.
My eighth is is in candy, but not in cake.
My ninth is in come, but not in go.
My tenth you have found in my fifth also.

My whole spells a game
That children will play
When it rains out of doors.
And indoors they must stay.

ZIGZAG PUZZLE.

The words of this zigzag contain the same number of letters. If the words are rightly guessed and written one below the other in correct order their zigzag letters, beginning with the upper left-hand letter and ending with the lower left-hand letter, will spell the surname of a famous French woman artist. The cross words are: (1) A sea-going vessel. (2) The place in a barn where hay is stored. (3) A place from which minerals are taken. (4) That which looms far above the earth's surface. (5) A place where boats land. (6) To be consumed by fire. (7) Part of a melon.

BEHEADINGS.

(1). Doubly behead one who makes his living on the water and leave the name of a famous American general. (2) Triply behead a snake and leave a dred brick that is used in building grates. (3) Behead the plural of a sharp-bladed weapon and leave that which no language can be without.

ANSWERS TO LAST WEEK'S PUZZLES.

LETTER ENIGMA: Swimming.

BEHEADINGS: (1) Lichen-hen. (2) Ballad-lad. (3) Person-son.

MINOT MAN RETURNED

Missing City Treasurer Was Temporarily Deranged By Overwork.

Alleged Shortage Disappears as Expert Examination Is Made.

Minot, N. D., May 22.—Duncan Cameron, city treasurer, who had been missing since Monday night, returned home Thursday night.

Friends were certain Cameron had not absconded, or committed suicide, as rumored, but were confident he had became temporarily deranged.

At the close of the first year of administration Mayor Clark ordered a thorough investigation of the city's affairs. It appeared that Treasurer Cameron had kept certain deputies on the city books most of the time during incumbency of the office since 1906.

Experts discovered discrepancies amounting at first to $10,000. Then the treasurer found credits, receipts, coupons and warrants which had never been entered, which reduced Cameron's apparent shortage to $1,300.

Bank Accounts Straight.

Cameron was assistant cashier of the Minot State bank, and the council investigating committee and experts crowded him to balance the city books so that a report could be made on Tuesday. He worked day and night to straighten out the books, maintaining that all his accounts were correct. His accounts at the bank are straight, as well as the funds of the Commercial club and the school district, of both of which he is treasurer.

Still more credits found Thursday indicate that the city's accounts are not short.

Cameron worked in the bank nearly all Monday night, and left the city's papers scattered all over the office. He left the bank vault unlocked and a light burning. Overwork temporarily unbalanced his mind, and in that condition he wandered away, coming to himself near Velva Thursday night.

He boarded a freight and returned home. His clothes were covered with mud and there was every indication that he had not slept or eaten since leaving Minot. A lunch in his pocket had not been touched.

No Loss Expected.

Cameron rested well yesterday, and it is believed he will be able to resume his work on the city books at once, and that a final report will show everything intact. He has always been one of the most respected citizens of Minot. The only discrepancy which now appears is in the accounts of 1907, where a double entry of warrants exists, doubtless through the error of a deputy who had charge of the books at that time.

NEARLY DROWNS IN GASOLINE TANK

Plumber Has Harrowing Experience in an Appleton, Wis., Garage.

Appleton, Wis., May 22.—Joseph Toonen, a plumber, had a narrow escape from suffocation and drowning in a tank of gasoline yesterday.

Toonen was sent to the Staton garage to install a new pump in the big gasoline tank. The work required him to climb into the tank. Ten minutes later Toonen's companion, who remained on a ladder on the outside of the tank, heard Toonen's hammer drop in the tank and then heard a splash. Climbing to the opening he saw Toonen lying unconscious in four feet of gasoline. He had to summon assistance to pull the imperiled man through the opening. His condition is serious, he having been overcome by the fumes. He also swallowed some vasoline.

SMALL TORNADO IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Barns, Windmills and Other Structures Torn to Pieces.

Britton, S. D., May 22.—Western Day county was visited by a small tornado this week, which damaged property in different sections. Ole Tinquist six miles west of Bristol, was the heaviest loser, his large barn, 30 by 60 feet in size, being torn to pieces and the small buildings adjacent being destroyed. His loss is estimated at $2,000.

The Norwegian Lutheran church in Valley township was removed from its foundation, the windmill on John Hasinger's farm was twisted off, the barn blown from the foundation, and his smokehouse demolished. At E. W. Harms' place the east side of the barn, the side opposite from the storm, was blown out. Albert Friedman's barn was damaged, and a large corncrib on Charles Buell's farm was destroyed. The total loss will amount to several thousand dollars.

DIAMOND FOUND BY DREAM.

Man's Search the Following Day Reveals Long Missing Gem.

Sioux Falls, S. D., May 22.—For many years, Frank Delire, a business man of Platte, was firmly of the belief that there was nothing whatever in dreams. Everything is changed, however, because of a peculiar dream which Delire himself had.

Delire lost a valuable diamond last fall while at work in his store. In a dream he saw the lost jewel swept out of his store and dumped into a barrel of sweepings which stood in the yard behind his building.

The dream made so deep an impression upon his mind that he decided to make an examination of the contents of the barrel. After carrying on the work for some time he suddenly caught the reflection of something unusually bright and glittering, and it proved to be the lost diamond.

FLAG DAY PROCLAMATION.

Gov. Davidson of Wisconsin Urges Observance of June 14.

Madison, Wis., May 22.—Governor Davidson has issued the following flag day proclamation: "One hundred and thirty-two years ago on the 14th of June the congress of the United States established by law the design of our flag. Of late years the significance of this event has become more generally recognized by our people, and the anniversary fittingly celebrated. A special effort will be made this year by patriotic citizens and organizations to have this memorable occurrence observed. In full sympathy with the impulses actuating these lovers of our country and all it stands for, I, J. O. Davidson, governor of the state of Wisconsin, designate Monday, June 14, 1909, as Flag day, and call upon all public officers, upon the mediums of information and education, and upon all who love the flag and our country to join in an enthusiastic endeavor to make this year's observance a notable one.

"I request that the flag be displayed from public buildings and our homes, and let us present to the young and refresh for the old, the lofty ideals of our fathers."

FIVE BABIES AT ONE BIRTH.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 22. — Medical men of Eau Claire were astounded yesterday by a well-authenticated report from Thorp, north of this city, that Mrs. Fay Irish, wife of a well-known man of that town, had given birth to five babies—three daughters and two sons—at a single accouchement.

JUDGMENT IS AFFIRMED.

Court of Appeals Upholds Verdict Against McClure Company.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The United States court of appeals, New York, has affirmed the $15,000 verdict secured by E. L. Philipp, president of the Union Refrigerator Transportation company, against the S. S. McClure Publishing company for a libelous article published in McClure's Magazine.

This decision is final, there being no question involved in the suit that will permit an appeal to the United States supreme court.

The article that caused the litigation was written by Ray Stannard Baker and appeared in the McClure magazine in January, 1906. It was objected to by Philipp because it charged him with receiving illegal rebates from the railroads. Baker admitted on the stand that he based his charges solely on a letter written to Senator La Follette by John W. Thomas, then state railway commissioner.

ASHLAND REGULATIONS ABOUT MILK SPLENDID.

Ashland, Wis., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Assistant State Veterinarian Wolcott, who was in the city this week, stated that Ashland has now the best regulations for the sale of milk of any city in Wisconsin. He spoke of the rapid weeding out of diseased milch cows here, and said that by carefully watching the cattle in the vicinity for the next year or so, no community in the state will have purer milk. After the weeding out is finished, only now and then a cow will be found to be diseased, if care is taken in buying from outside. Mr. Wolcott gave a demonstration in diagnosticing diseased cattle at Cumberland, Thursday.

FIVE YEARS' SENTENCE FOR EMBEZZLER NILES.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 22.—Ellis W. Niles, former receiving teller of the First National bank and confessed embezzler of $70,000, was yesterday sentenced to serve five years in the state penitentiary at Stillwater. Good behavior will reduce the time to three years, seven months and eighteen days.

FIRE AT MINNEAPOLIS DOES $100,000 DAMAGE.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 22.—Water and smoke, resulting from a small blaze, damaged the Stokes building of the New England Furniture & Carpet company, between Fifth and Sixth streets on First avenue south, approximately $100,000 last night.

BANKER ASKS COURT TO PROVIDE COUNSEL.

Minot, N. D., May 22.—L. W. Dale, cashier of a bank at Loraine, has applied to Judge Goss for the appointment of an attorney to defend him at the June term of court on the charge of murder in the second degree. He is charged with being implicated in the death of Miss Gina Lelin.

If an attorney is appointed by the court the highest charge is $25.

KILLED HER CHILD AND THREW IT INTO A POOL.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 22.—Mrs. MaryBoch of the village of Rudyard is under arrest here pending an investigation of the death of her 2-months-old baby, which was found dead in a pool in the woods. The young woman disappeared with the baby last Sunday, and when she was found wandering about the country the child was missing. She is thought to be demented and is said to have confessed that she killed the infant before throwing it into the water.

Collected Many Pike Eggs.

Fergus Falls, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Game Warden J. H. Jones has completed the work of collecting pike eggs at Battle Lake, and estimates that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 eggs were collected, fertilized and put back into the lake. There are about 160,000 eggs to the quart, and estimates are made on this basis.

CROP OUTLOOK BRIGHT NEAR THIEF RIVER FALLS.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fields in the neighborhood of Thief River Falls were never in more desirable condition and the farmers are elated over the prospects for a bumper crop this year. The weather conditions are perfect and the early sown grain is fast showing above the surface of the soil. A noticeable fact is that a heavy acreage of potatoes and corn will be planted this season, some farmers having gone to the expense of securing the latest machinery with which to plant and cultivate potatoes.

DISCHARGED SOLDIER ATTEMPTS TO TAKE LIFE.

St. Paul, Minn., May 22.—A. J. Stewart, whose parents live at Holdingsford, Stearns county, was found in a dying condition in a room at the Continental hotel, Thursday morning, the young man having blown out the gas apparently with suicidal intent. A bottle of alcohol, partly emptied, was found at his side. The man was taken to the city hospital and it is stated that he cannot recover.

Stewart enlisted in the regular army at Little Falls three years ago, and had just been discharged. No motive for the deed is known.

NEW CATHOLIC CHURCH AT GLIDDEN DEDICATED.

Glidden, Wis., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—This town put on its holiday regalia yesterday and business was practically suspended on account of the dedication of the new St. Paul and St. Peter's Catholic church. The church is a fine edifice and reflects more than ordinary credit upon the parish and people of Glidden. There were several priests and church dignitaries present, and all classes, irrespective of denomination, participated in the ceremonies. There were visitors from all the towns along the Wisconsin Central.

Olive Hill Gets $5,000.

Stillwater, Minn., May 22. — Miss Olive M. Hill, the trained nurse of St. Paul, was awarded a verdict of $5,000 against Hugh A. Jones, the station agent at the village of Newport, in her breach of promise of marriage suit.

Northfield Man Won.

Appleton, Wis., May 22.—S. T. Sorenson of St. Olaf's college, Northfield, Minn., won first place in the interstate oratorical contest last night, including representatives of ten states, with C. Bruce McClellan of Knox college, Ill., in second place. At the election of officers, J. Willis Hamblin of MacAlester college, St. Paul, was elected president.

Park Falls, Wis., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnie Wells, a graduate of the high school and compositor on the Park Falls Herald, died very suddenly Thursday night from quinsy. She had been sick but twenty-four hours.

Burned to Death.

Hazel, S. D., May 22.—Friends gathered here to attend the funeral of C. C. Smith, an old man who was burned to death by the destruction of the farm residence of Walter Hammetter, one mile south of town. The origin of the fire is a mystery. The old man was the only person about the place at the time, and it is supposed he met his death while striving to extinguish the flames.

Killed by Lightning.

Le Sueur Center, Minn., May 22.—A heavy thunder storm passed over this section late Thursday afternoon. At Lake Emily about fourteen miles from here, Ed Hurst was killed by lightning about 5 o'clock. He was out in a boat on the lake when the storm broke.

At Minot in December.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 22.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the North Dakota Educational association, held here yesterday, Dec. 28, 29, 30 and 31 were fixed as dates for the annual convention of the association to be held in Minot. The program for the meeting was outlined.

Fire at Island Lake.

Bemidji, Minn., May 22.—Fire entirely destroyed the big store and stock of goods at Island Lake, owned by F. O. Sibley and his associates, yesterday. The fire was of unknown origin. Mrs. Sibley, who discovered the blaze, was awakened by the discharge of cartridges which were in the building. The total loss was between $7,000 and $8,000.

Dee submitted a statement covering $150 expenses to Stephenson for space in his paper. The committee, after examining the account, accused Dee of "padding."

After considerable argument the witness said: "I think the old man got value received."

Dee could not remember to whom he disbursed $200 for workers to distribute campaign literature. At the conclusion of Dee's testimony, the committee adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

NEGRO WRITER OF SONGS DEAD

Hogan, Who Wrote "All Coons Look Alike to Me."

New York, May 22.—Ernest Hogan, one of the best known of the negro comedians and song writers, died Thursday morning at his home, 1002 Brook avenue, the Bronx, of tuberculosis. Hogan had been ill since last winter, when he was taken sick on the stage of the Fourteenth Street theater, and was compelled to give up his engagement.

He was born in Bowling Green, Ky., about fifty years ago. His mother was a cook in the family of Adjut. Hogan at Bowling Green, and the boy took the family name. When he was 20 years old he left Kentucky and went on the stage, playing with minstrel shows through the South and West. For several years he was with Black Patti and her "Troubadours," and later went to Australia, where he remained two years with one of his own shows, "Lucky Coon."

Later he went under the management of Hurtig & Seamon. He wrote the book and music of "Rufus Rustus," in which he starred for two seasons, and then of "The Oyster Man," which he was producing at the time of his illness.

Hogan wrote several hundred songs, of which "All Coons Look Alike to Me" was the most successful. It is said that he cleared $40,000 from this song alone. Among his other songs were "Lamb, Lamb, Lamb" and "C-h-i-c-k-e-n Spells Chicken." He was billed always as "The Unbleached American." His wife was Anna Wilkes, a colored singer, from whom he was separated, and who is now playing in Europe. He lived with his mother.

U. S. SENATOR FRANK B. BRANDEGEE WHO WAS ON THE POINT OF LEAVING PUBLIC LIFE WHEN DEATH ELEVATED HIM TO THE SENATE

(Copyright, 1909, by the Associated Literary Press.)

EVERY American boy learns while he still is in the primary school that some day he may be president of the United States, and may, when he becomes a man, be sent to congress.

All this is great sentiment for a great democracy, yet it is undoubtedly the experience of most young men who have been elected to congress that service in the house of representatives for a longer period than two terms at the most involves great risk for any young man who contemplates a career which will bring him some reputation and sufficient earnings properly to care for himself and his family when he has reached middle life or old age. And undoubtedly those young members of congress who have been persuaded from time to time that the wiser part for them was to abandon political ambition after having served a term or two were influenced in that decision by anecdotes told to them of the distress, the poverty, the disappointment which came at the end of long careers in congress or in public life to the men who had gained national political reputation.

President McKinley used earnestly to advise young men who had been elected to congress not to serve longer than two terms, and he was able to relate the sad experiences of many men of brilliant intellectual powers who had gained great prominence in congress, but who, when political reverses came or old age had impaired their usefulness, found themselves in actual want.

Samuel J. Randall, for several terms speaker of the lower house of congress, and in 1884 earnestly advocated by a considerable number of his party for the presidential nomination, after a service of nearly thirty years, was so poor that it was deemed advisable by his friends to make up for him a purse wherewith an income sufficiently modest to support his family, could be secured.

John A. Bingham, an orator of high repute, one of the managers of the impeachment proceedings against President Johnson, and afterward minister to Japan, served so long and so faithfully in congress that when old age came he found himself without worldly possessions, and the last years of his life were passed in pecuniary distress.

Charles A. Russell, who began life as a newspaper writer after his graduation from Yale, and who afterward became a manufacturer of woolen goods, was elected to congress while still a young man from one of the Connecticut districts. He gained distinction there, and was tempted to remain in public life, and that, too at a time when, had he yielded his seat in the lower house and devoted himself to his mills, he must surely have gained a comfortable support, and might have secured a fortune. But his triumphs in the house, where he became an influential member of the ways and means committee, involved disaster to his manufacturing interests, so that when he died some two years ago it was discovered that he was practically penniless, and a private subscription was necessary to relieve the immediate wants of his family.

The Senate Like Unto the House.

It is more or less of a melancholy fact that the senate, in the matter of keeping its members from acquiring a competence for old age, is like unto the house.

No member of the senate within the memory of the present generation gained a finer repute than was that consequent upon the service of Francis Marion Cockrell, who was senator from Missouri for thirty years. And the more exacting the service given by the senator, who always was watchful lest there be extravagance or improprieties in appropriations or claims, the less time he had for attention to his private affairs. It was presumed that he would remain a member of the senate for life, but by reason of an unlooked for political change in the state of Missouri, he was defeated for reelection, and then the question, embarrassing and anxious for him, was raised: "What shall I do for the support of my family?"

The senator could not take up the practice of law with any hope of success—his years were too many to make it worth while for him to spend any time building up a practice. There were no business openings available for him, and but for the recognition of his public services which President Roosevelt gave, it is probable that he would have found himself in serious financial difficulties. When President Roosevelt appointed him member of the interstate commerce commission there was a common understanding that while the appointment was justified by reason of Senator Cockrell's ability, he was picked out for the place chiefly because it was deemed proper to provide for him in his old age, his long service in congress having made it well-nigh impossible for him properly to accumulate a competency in civil life.

Two other impressive illustrations of the danger of serving too long in congress in either branch, so far as acquiring a competency for the seeming of good professional practice is concerned, are discovered in the careers of James G. Blaine and George Frisbie Hoar.

As every follower of the "Plumed Knight's" career knows, Blaine was a member of congress for twenty years, serving both in the house of representatives and the senate. He was gifted with intellectual powers which undoubtedly would have brought him great successes had he entered business life at one time it was seriously proposed to urge upon him the acceptance of a proprietary interest in and the editorship of one of the more important newspapers of the metropolis. But Mr. Blaine was averse to leaving the political field, and so when he retired from President Arthur's cabinet the only money he had laid aside was that which he had been fortunate enough to secure in certain real estate investments in Washington.

Doubtless because he realized that this small fortune was not sufficient to meet the wants of himself and his family and leave anything over for the rainy day, he set about collecting data for a history of his twenty years' service in congress; but not until he was seen day after day busy amid the alcoves of the old Congressional library, whither he went to collect much of his data, did he confess that he contemplated writing such a history.

This work was in progress at the time of his campaign for the presidency in 1884. On the morning after the election, when it was announced that Grover Cleveland had defeated him, Mr. Blaine took up his pen and completed this work. According to the understanding at the time, it yielded him a little more than $300,000, and that constituted the chief part of his estate. But for it Mr. Blaine, notwithstanding his pre-eminent influence in his own party, would have retired from public life a comparatively poor man.

Senator Hoar served as a member of the lower house eight years, and as a member of the senate twenty-five years, a grand total of thirty-five years of patriotic labor. It was said by so distinguished a lawyer as Sidney Webster that, if George Frisbie Hoar had remained in practice, he probably would have ranked with his cousin, William M. Evarts, and would have been universally recognized as the leader of the New England bar. Instead, however, of devoting himself to a professional career, Mr. Hoar gave the best of his powers and years to his country; and, though he had a small fortune when he entered congress, he nevertheless was dependent upon his salary, first as a representative and then as a senator, for his daily bread.

So necessary, indeed, was his salary for his daily support that the senator was not able to gratify his ambition of many years' standing to take a considerable European tour until within two or three years before his death. At that time a proposition was made to him that he should write his reminiscences of public men and events. The offer was accompanied with a stipulation for money payment which the senator regarded as an amazingly handsome remuneration. In fact, it represented the largest return for a single undertaking that he ever had received, and the willingness with which he accepted the proposition only emphasized the fact that, after brilliant service of more than thirty years in congress, this statesman was rejoiced at the prospect of being able to secure a little extra money against the appearance of the rainy day. And with a part of the proceeds of his pen he at last was able to take his long-dreamed-of European trip.

Hard to Begin all Over Again.

The post-congress careers of two famous speakers of the house—Thomas B. Reed and John G. Carlisle—illustrate only too well the difficulties that lie in the path of the man who, after long service in congress, re-enters private life either through business or a profession.

Mr. Carlisle was a member of the lower house of congress for twelve years, and for half of these years he was its speaker. He was senator from Kentucky for three years, resigning from that exalted office to become secretary of the treasury in President Cleveland's second administration. His public life as representative, senator and secretary lasted for twenty years, and he was 60 years old when he was compelled to resume the practice of law, his first love, in order that he might live.

On the advice of friends, Mr. Carlisle opened a law office in New York, but he speedily discovered that, notwithstanding his wide reputation as a lawyer, he would have greater difficulty in building up a law practice than would have been the case had he hung out his shingle in New York while still a young man, or after serving a term or two in congress. He found, too, that his national political reputation was of no very great service to him in securing a clientele, and his first profitable retainer came to him nearly four years after he had begun the practice of law in the metropolis. This retainer was connected with the question which Mr. Carlisle brought before the supreme court involving determination of the citizenship of the people of Porto Rico under the United States flag, and when it was learned that Mr. Carlisle had been retained in this case a former attorney general of the United States said to the writer:

"I am very glad, and all of Mr. Carlisle's friends are rejoiced, that this litigation at last gives him an opportunity of gaining in New York a profitable law practice."

And it also was said that had Mr. Carlisle remained in the practice of law in Cincinnati or Covington, Ky., or had he resumed the practice of law after a brief service in the lower house of congress, he undoubtedly would have gained a position which would have ranked him among the leaders of the bar of the Middle West.

It was in New York, also that Mr. Reed located for the practice of his profession after he had declined to serve any longer in congress. His national reputation was second to that of no one in public life, but what looked like an excellent opening had been offered him in the metropolis, and for these and other reasons it was expected by his friends and foes alike that Mr. Reed's reputation and universally acknowledged ability would attract to him a large and profitable clientele.

It is true that there was considerable demand for Mr. Reed's services, and his success as a lawyer in New York city could be termed good. Nevertheless, it did not meet his own expectations or those of his friends, and he is reported to have said that it would have been much better for him, from the viewpoint of success in civil life, had he retired from congress ten years earlier.

A Boy Representative's Civil Success.

Thus the question, "Is congress a career or an incident for a young man?" is partly answered. But what about the chances of entering congress in early life and remaining in that public service until higher success comes? McKinley and Gen. Garfield are the conspicuous exceptions of representatives so favored. On the other hand there are many cases telling of successes which have followed the putting aside of the temptation to remain in congress after a service of one or two terms in that body.

Some time in the month of April there appeared before a committee of the New York legislature at Albany Joseph H. Choate and George A. Post. Their purpose was to make argument in opposition to certain proposed legislation relating to metropolitan rapid transit and other railway regulations. Of course, Mr. Choate needed no introduction. On the other hand, George A. Post was unknown, excepting that he had been identified as the organizer of the National Railway Men's Business association. He appeared before the committee not as a paid lobbyist, but as the representative of this association. He spoke with a plain, business-like bluntness and emphasis, which reminded some of those who had heard Mark Hanna speak of the latter's earnestness and practical every-day manner of appealing by argument to a company of listeners. And so there were inquiries for further information respecting this man.

In the early '80s a political convention was held in one of the counties of Northern Pennsylvania for the purpose of nominating a candidate for congress. The delegates were members of a party which was in a minority in that district. The nomination of candidatesf for congress was looked upon as a mere perfunctory honor. It was offered to several citizens, and declined, and then, with some sense of humor, the convention named as its candidate a young man who would be just of age to qualify as member of congress in case he were elected—George A. Post. There came of a sudden a cyclonic factional disturbance which completely demoralized the dominant party, and was followed by the nomination of a candidate by each of the factions. As one result, when the votes were counted on election night it was discovered that the boy candidate, George A. Post, had been elected.

When Mr. Post appeared before Gen. Keifer, who had been chosen speaker of that house of representatives, to take the oath, so youthful, sophomoric jolly-faced and out of place did the young Pennsylvanian appear, that he at once became a conspicuous member upon the floor of the house, and when the time came for nominations for members of the next congress Mr. Post's party urged him again to be a candidate.

But the young man had been a close observer, studying the careers of some of the veterans of congress, learning what the temptations to political life were, and how much of risk to a successful career they offered. He therefore decided that one term in congress was enough for a young man who had his career and his fortune to make. He realized that after a second term, if a member of congress yielded to temptation to serve a third term, then he was lost, at least so far as a business or professional career that would bring a competence was concerned. Mr. Post, however, was satisfied that one term in congress was worth while for a young man, whether he contemplated business or a professional career. After his term expired he entered business life, became successful in his chosen vocation and is now conspicuous among the railway authorities of the United States.

From Congress to the Bench.

There appeared before Samuel J. Randall, the last time he, as speaker, swore in members of congress, a slender, dark-eyed, quiet-mannered young man, who until he stood before the speaker to take the oath, was presumed to be the clerk of a committee. He was the youngest member elected in November, 1880. Some of his friends were of the opinion that he qualified for service as a representative by only two or three months—in other words, he was not 25 years of age when elected, but was of that age when sworn in.

This "youngster" was Philip Henry Dugro, familiarly called Harry. He had been a member of the bar of New York city only three years when elected to congress. He inherited wealth, and his father was on intimate relations with the Tammany Hall leaders of that day. He could have contemplated a career as a representative without anxiety as to his pecuniary independence. But before Mr. Dugro had finished his first term he came to the conclusion that congress offered no possibilities of a career for a young man unless he possessed the peculiar and distinctive gifts for the kind of public life which service of the lower house of congress reflects. He qualified this opinion by saying that for a young man representing one of the new districts of the United States in the remote West or some parts of the South, long continued service in congress might be an acceptable career, but this could not be true of a young man representing any district in the more populous parts of the country.

The young New Yorker, therefore, determined to put behind him any temptation for continued service in the lower house of congress. He returned to New York city, and before he was 30 years old might have been nominated for mayor with certainty of election, had not his friends advised him that a permanent and highly dignified and influential career was possible for him through acceptance of a nomination as justice of the supreme court. Nominated and elected, and having had long service upon the bench, Mr. Dugro feels that his judgment that a career in congress is a mistake for a young man has been perfectly vindicated.

The Experience of a Senator's Father.

Frank B. Brandegee, now junior senator from Connecticut, had served two terms in the lower house of congress while still a young man, when, by one of the accidents of politics, he was transferred to the senate to serve the unexpired term of Senator O. H. Platt. In all probability, but for this transfer, Senator Brandegee, at the expiration of his second term, would have quit congress on the advice of his venerable father, now in the 80s, who was persuaded by his own experience that it is a mistake for a young man to serve longer than two terms in the lower house of congress.

Augustus Brandegee, the father, was elected a member of congress when only a little past 30. He went to the lower house with a brilliant reputation as an orator, possessing both natural and acquired gifts. He was a member of that congress in which Roscoe Conkling served his second term as representative, and it was of him that Conkling spoke, saying that Brandegee possessed as high gifts as an orator as any member of that body.

In the middle of Mr Brandegee's second term it was impressed upon him, by information that came to him of the poverty of one who long had served in congress, and who had returned to private life through one of the whirligigs of politics, that there was grave danger for a young man in the temptation to make a prolonged career in congress. This led him to determine that at the end of his second term he would return to his professional practice and devote himself to securing an income and a competence for his old age as a practicing lawyer.

In this determination he was justified. Political honors came to him; he was elected mayor of his native city of New London; he was a delegate to political conventions, and he represented the United States at an important conference at Sherbrook, Can., where he made a brilliant address which became traditional throughout Canada. Moreover, he amassed a competence in the practice of the law and always felt that, had he yielded to the temptation to serve a third term in the lower house of congress, his career would have been wrecked, at least so far as gaining professional success and pecuniary independence was concerned.

The Examples of Littlefield and Black.

In recent years no young man has entered congress bringing with him a more brilliant reputation for the higher intellectual gifts and finer powers of oratory than Charles E. Littlefield. He was elected from the state of Maine to fill the unexpired term of Nelson Dingley. This of itself was sufficient to concentrate national attention upon Mr Littlefield, but be it said in his behalf that his career in congress justified his reputation and he became one of the prominent members of the house.

But of a sudden Mr. Littlefield determined to quit congress and abandon politics. He was in his fourth full term when there came to him a full realization of the fact that for a man without a fortune, with a family dependent upon him for support, and with a professional reputation to make, it is a fatal mistake to remain in congress longer than two or three terms. He immediately resigned, sought and gained admittance to the bar of New York state, entered into practice and has been able to count in a single year a larger income than the aggregate salaries he had received in all his public service, including his term of four years as attorney general of the state of Maine.

Mr. Littlefield is of the opinion that he did not give up public life a day too soon.

When he was elected to congress from New York Frank S. Black had gained what promised to be a remunerative a legal practice as any lawyer of Northern New York had secured. The first session of congress to which he was elected was not ended before Mr. Black perceived that there would be great risk to his professional advancement if he were tempted to remain in congress for a longer period than a second term, and he decided that he would guard against this temptation by refusing a second nomination in case one were offered him.

Of a sudden, however, and by reason of a peculiar political complication, he was nominated for governor of New York just about the time of the termination of the congress to which he had been elected. But his success in the practice of law since his retirement from public life has been so great as fully to justify his belief that he would have made a grevious mistake had he been overcome by ambition to serve continuously in the lower house of congress.

Two other prominent men who saw this same danger and avoided it, and who are now extremely successful in private life, are John S. Wise and that William McAdoo, who was assistant secretary of the navy under Cleveland and later police commissioner of New York city. Mr. Wise, who was one of the youngest members of the Confederate army, decided to put aside congress ambition even while he was serving his first term; Mr. McAdoo, who was elected four times to congress, always has been of the opinion that, from the standpoint of success in private life, he would have been much wiser had he declined re-election after the expiration of his second term. When he did abandon his congress ambitions, he likewise determined to leave public life altogether before it was too late to save his professional practice, and he later became connected with the navy and the police department of New York city, largely through the realization of the fact that experience in these two fields would give him information which would be exceedingly valuable in the practice of his profession.

For the Young Man Who Has to Depend on His Own Resources the Answer is "An Incident" From Such Men as Frank S. Black, Charles E. Littlefield, George A. Post, Judge Philip H. Dugro and William McAdoo, Who Served in Congress and Quit to Make a Living.

START LIBRARY WORK.

Excavating Begins for Houghton Structure Donated By Carnegie.

Houghton, Mich., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sum of $5,000, the first installment of the $15,000 donated by Andrew Carnegie for the erection of a public library building here was received this week.

Contractor John J. Michels has commenced excavating for the structure and it will be completed and ready for occupancy by Oct. 1. The library is being erected at the northeast corner of Montezuma and Huron streets, on the site formerly occupied by the Houghton armory, and will be a beautiful structure.

The building will be 64 by 37 feet, and will add greatly to the general appearance of that section of Houghton. Mr. Stoyle announced this morning that the entrance would be similar to that of the Central high school building. Cement sidewalks will be laid along both sides of the building, and to the rear of the structure there will be a grass plot 20 by 50 feet in dimensions.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Ashbell Parmelee, – First Vice President of the N.Y. Medical Legal Society and late Dean of the Medical Dept. "U" of Vermont, says:

"I am convinced that the legitimate and conservative use of lager beer is not only beneficial to the physical well being of most people, but is, from a temperance point of view, worthy of recognition and adoption."

The nourishment contained in choice barley malt and the tonic properties of selected hops combined make both food and medicine. There is, however, a difference in brews, but the best costs no more than the others.

Mr. and Mrs. August Gradine returned Thursday evening from West Duluth after spending the past week with friends and relatives there.

Swan Swanson of Payne was the guest of his brother, Olof Swanson, Wednesday.

Per Peterson transacted business in Duluth Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Sam Sullivan spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Eveleth visiting friends.

Miss Hans Lind and Miss Louise Willner spent Saturday in Forbes.

The members of the confirmation class were confirmed Sunday afternoon. Rev. K. Akerman came down from Hibbing in the afternoon, returning in the evening. The church was prettily decorated, the members of the class were: Miss Alma Lind, Theodore Rask, Werner Rask, Manuel Gradine and Edwin Gradine.

Bror Peterson was a business caller in Virginia Thursday

HAYWARD

Hayward, Wis., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new steel bridge which crosses the Namakogan river above the sawmill, is finished and open for travel.

Matt Sherrard of Stone Lake was in town Saturday, calling on friends.

Mart Vance and wife moved to Virginia, Minn., Monday of this week.

District Attorney McNamara has returned from Mankato, Minn., where he was attending legal business.

Mrs. James Helms and infant son have left for a short visit at Shell Lake.

Mrs. Oscar Moreland and children of Minneapolis are visiting relatives and friends here before leaving for California, where Mrs. Moreland will reside in the future.

Mrs. Ole Olsson left the first of the week for a three months' visit at her home in Norway.

Pat Nelson returned to the Odanah reservation with a cow, to burn up the brush after their winter's work.

B. W. Skeede came home from Virginia, where he is now employed, to attend the wedding of his daughter, Miss Laura Skeede.

Sheriff Mike Madden returned from Huron, South Dakota, Friday.

Mr. Blomberg, a farmer living at Round Lake, died after an illness of a few days with pneumonia.

McDermott, head woodsman for the Hines Lumber company, has been in town for a few days.

Mrs. Searle and daughters have left for Superior, where they will reside in the future.

Matthew Locke of Sand Lake and Miss Jessie Merceran were married here, May 17.

The wedding of Miss Laura Skeede and C. Brown of St. Paul took place Tuesday at high noon, at the home of the bride's parents, corner of Dakota avenue and Second street. The service was read by the Rev. Isaac Tracey. Miss Marie Marquette and Miss Pearl Schafer were bridesmaids. The brother of Mr. Brown was best man. The bride was gowned in white satin and point lace. She carried brides' roses. Miss Marquette and and Miss Shafer were old rose gowns, and carried cream and pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Brown left at 5 o'clock for the coast. They will be at home in St. Paul after June 15.

Will Cayo and family moved to Superior Monday, where they will make their home in the future. George Wiegles bought the house recently occupied by Mr. Cayo.

Mrs. Van Horn sold her farm to Harry Rinkin. Mrs. Van Horn will return to the East.

William Mapes of Cuduray, arrived here Monday with Henry Cloud, who was convicted of Grand larceny, and committed to the county jail until the June term of court.

Mrs. Fred Clarke left for Minneapolis, where she will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Ben Morris.

T. S. Winton, manager for the Huron Lumber company returned from his Eastern trip Tuesday.

THE PLEA —OF— ARMENIA

BY Y. M. KAREKIN.

(The writer of this plea for American representations in the Armenian crisis is a son of one of the leading men of the province of Maamuret-ul-aziz in Central Armenia. His father was impoverished by the pillage and massacres of 1895 and afterwards government officials forced him to total bankruptcy by various devices common in Turkish government circles. Mr Karekin's father was away from home at the time of the last massacres and barely escaped. The son, a boy a little over 13, fell in dodging a hatchet thrown at his head. His mother, who was near him, fainted at the sight. She lay in a pool of blood, and the Turks thinking her dead, left her there. The boy, after seeing his uncle killed, although wounded himself, ran until exhausted and lay among dead and wounded bodies till morning, while the Moslems mauled them over, giving the last blows that left only corpses behind.)

To prevent—have I caught your gospel? To prevent—famine, orphanhood, distress. It is with such words that I bespeak the interest of Americans to prevent the slaughters of my countrymen in Asiatic Turkey.

My plea is not a random one. After the 1895 and 1896 massacres, Central Armenia became a veritable field of orphan asylums. Different missionary organizations, the French Roman Catholic, German Lutheran, and the American missions established scores of them, at least two in each principal town, numbering in all in the neighborhood of 150 throughout the interior provinces.

Furthermore, for eighteen months there has been famine in Asiatic Turkey. The 1895 and 1896 massacres, brutal though they were, did not decrease the supply of breadstuffs, because the farmers had done their summer work and the massacres came in October. Now, the disturbances are coming at a critical time. This is the month for the farmers to plant. Should the seed time go past and another summer's crop fail, hunger would claim the country. Long, long before the outbreak of the present troubles, it has been harassed in ways that leave it weak. The Christian is the farmer of Asiatic Turkey. The famine has not been of God's sending.

The old regime of the sultan is wholly responsible for poor conditions. Bribery and oppression at the hands of subordinate official, could be traced to his encouragement. Chiefs of different Kurdish tribes and influential Mohammedans have forcibly taken away the tillable land from Christians, on one pretext or another, mainly threatening that they would betray them as revolutionary men—which is the biggest fear in the country, and have turned these tilled lands into wild cattle pastures. On the other hand, taxation has been growing heavier and heavier every year. The sultan's official goes to the poor widow who has only one son of 18, a sole protector, who tills the land with a yoke of oxen, the only treasures that he owns, and supports his mother. The official conducts away forcibly that yoke of oxen and sells it at auction and leaves them helpless.

Orphanage, famine and poverty—the toll of the massacre is not complete even with these. We must add sickness. In 1895, in those cities that were along the rivers, the bodies of the dead who were thrown into the water after lying about the streets for a week or more. This year's massacre, starting in the southern part of the country, where the climate is very warm, and gradually spreading to the northern, has summer before it and will certainly mean cholera, for Mesopotamia is near to the sources of the plague in Arabia.

We must see the Armenian massacres in relation to the situation at Constantinople. There are, perhaps, 2,500,000 Armenians with probably 20,000,000 Mohammedans in the country which they inhabit. They were loaded with taxes and famine was starting in the country when, last summer, constitutional government was established in Turkey. Under the Constitution the provinces were to elect representatives with free votes. Instead, the Turkish officials threatened the public especially the Armenians, into casting their votes for certain Turkish tyrants, most of them were the leaders of the 1895 massacres. However, the Armenians succeeded in having eight representatives, two of them the most able lawyers of their country. During the nine months of the parliamentary session, repeated complaints came from the provinces that the usual atrocities were growing worse. The president of the chamber, Ahmed Riza, the present grand vizier to be, put them to one side and those who insisted on having their complaints before parliament were threatened with being thrown out of office, for the young Turks are Pan-Islamites.

There is another element in the reform party in Turkey, which, while standing out for Constitutional government and the empire, would leave large measures of self-government to the races and cities composing it. After the Constitution was restored last summer, a number of broad-minded, well-educated Moslem officials who were exiled by the old regime and who also were members of the Young Turk party, returned to Constantinople. They noticed that the Committee of Union and Progress was trying to be all powerful in civil matters and discriminating against different Christian elements because of racial prejudice. These leaders, the nucleus of the present Liberal party, held that if 500 years of tyranny and occasional butchery could not force these different proud old races to forget their nationality, the present system could not force them to do so and make them Ottomans now that they had been given freedom of press and speech. Besides, they pointed out, it was the Christian element which had advanced the commerce, the industry, the skilled labor and art.

No sooner had the Liberal party with its broader notions come into power, early in April, than the reactionaries provoked the military uprising in Constantinople, which provoked the counter revolution of the Young Turks and has led by quick stages to the disposition of the old sultan. While the Young Turks were still marching on Constantinople, the ecclesiastics, suspecting what their fate would be, fled inland to the Armenian provinces to agitate massacre and plunder there.

My belief is that the real struggle in Turkey is yet to come, whether the program of the Liberals or of the Committee of Union and Progress shall be carried out. The Liberals have a certain portion of the army on their side, which had kept neutral during the last two weeks' trouble; the ecclesiastics are by no means shorn of their strength. An Oriental parable says that when two horses fight, the donkey that goes between gets the worst of it. That is the case with the Armenians. What I plead for is such action by the Christian nations as will save them from slaughter whatever the outcome between the civil factions at Constantinople. It is all but farce to say that the Turkish government cannot control the mob. Turkish mobs are cowards and one soldier, if he has a proper command, can stop a 100 civilians if he levels his gun in a business-like manner. For the Christian who had a gun in his house and threatened to shoot, the mob did not venture in that house. But Christians in Armenia are not armed. For ten years, they have been put into prison so much as a revolver has been found in their houses; while the Moslems do business in the market place with revolvers in their belts as ornaments. Yet the civilized world wonders why the Armenians die like sheep.

Great Britain signed a treaty with the powers in Berlin that she would protect the Christians in Turkey. She has not washed her hands of the stain of 100,000 victims in 1895, and she is not much concerned now. Is this protection an honoring of one's signature? What has a helpless child to do with politics that it must die because Germany approves the sultan's actions for Bagdad railroad concessions, or because England and Russia cannot agree who shall take the best piece of old Turkey?

I do not wish to be misunderstood as a war agitator, for my most worthy teacher, the late Dr Samuel J. Barrows, who has been my guardian since childhood, was a peace advocate. Yet is it not time for America to step into this matter or at least protect the honor of the Stars and Stripes, which are dying on many houses throughout Turkey?

SOCIALISM AND WAR

"The Independent Order of Americans has petitioned the government to investigate the Socialist party of the United States."—News item.

One of the allegations in the complaint being that in case of war between the United States and other nations that "Socialists are pledged to engage in anything that will terminate a conflict." Awful to contemplate, is it not? Socialists are against war, against the letting of human blood, against men promiscuously killing one another. Some persons may consider such ideas treasonable to the state, for if all men were inoculated with that kind of belief the lion and the lamb would verily be lying side by side without fear of one destroying the other. To those persons who believe that war is an essential to civilize man may I be permitted to put a few questions?

Is war aught other than legalized murder?

Why is war declared between nations if other than because of differences over property rights?

Are men in reality so brutal at heart that only through carnage can they be made good?

Can harmony and love and peace come only by killing off the strongest and bravest among us—for if war does anything it does just this?

Can war be justified on moral, religious or ethical grounds?

Is it not true that war is an evidence and a relic of the times when men, as savages and barbarians, killed in order to feast upon the entrails of the vanquished?

Is it perhaps because Malthus promulgated a doctrine that if there were no wars and pestilence or something that would check human growth that the earth would in a short time become overpopulated?

If the Malthusian doctrine is true, then Mr Roosevelt ought to be taken to task for preaching the doctrine of breeding large families.

We Socialists—all of us—plead guilty to the charge that we are against war. No need of investigating a charge that we are ready to admit as true. If civilization—even such as we now have—cannot see the horrors resultant from war, then civilization itself is worthy only of being destroyed. Tell me, you cynics who disagree with us and hurl at us the charge of being cowards because forsooth we will not shed blood, what has war ever accomplished for the progress of the human race?

Supposing we were to put it to a vote of the mothers of the race as to whether they are willing to have their husbands and sons to go out on the battle fields to wade in each other's life blood, how do you think they would vote?

Can it be possible that the Creator has intended that man shall breed in order to kill? To build in order to destroy? Must we suffer all the pangs of hell in order to appreciate the blessings of heaven?

Socialism does not build on hate, nor war, nor death.

Socialism aims to unite society, not to divide it.

Socialism aims to abolish classes, not to perpetuate them.

Socialism aims to make men respect one another's rights and not to trample upon them.

Socialism aims to develop a nation of brothers, and not of malcontents.

Socialism demands that every human being be afforded the opportunity of developing normally and naturally his real self.

Socialism contends that there can be no lasting civilization, nor can there be peace under conditions where man must prey upon his brothers in order to provide food for himself.

Socialism is destructive only in so far as it seeks to make man to lose his prejudice toward his fellows, and use reason as the only weapon of defense as a substitute for the club of the savage or the gun of the so-called civilized man.

War means death, pestilence, grief-stricken widows, heart-broken mothers, orphaned children, maimed and crippled men, besides the destruction of million of dollars' worth of wealth—the specter of want and hunger everywhere, the skeleton of death haunting all of us—and this is civilization? How long will man continue to be blind?

And yet men who should know better dare to accuse Socialists of being traitors to the country we live in. For daring to hope and preach for the realities of Tennyson's "Parliament of the World" we are to be deported.

As one of the "undesirables," my answer to the "Independent Order of Americans" is not a defy (calling names prove nothing)—but I say to you, whoever you are and wherever you may be, I pity you from the bottom of my heart. Your dwarfed mind and blinded intellect deserves pity, not censure. Far be it from me to oppose you; you have begun by hating us, you will end by hating yourselves. To those who do not understand me, I would suggest the rereading of Emerson's treatise on "Compensation."

Pending definite action against us, we shall keep on preaching our economic doctrine—for time wasted is time lost—and as misery loves company, we may as well take to us a few recruits that the additional time that we are privileged to remain in civilization may bring to us.

MORRIS KAPLAN.

THE COBALT MERGER LIKELY

Despite Denials That Consolidation Is Intended, Such Move Is Considered Probable---Length and Lives of the Mines Looking Better.

New York, May 22.—The Mining Age says: Donald Catlin, of the firm of the Catlin-Powell company, who has just returned from Cobalt, where he spent a week working out the details of a forthcoming deal, said this week that he thought the camp was looking as lively as ever.

"Cobalt," said Mr. Catlin, "is going through a real estate boom of considerable proportions, and there is not a single vacant house to let either at that town or at Haileybury. Property bought several months ago is being sold at an advance of several hundred per cent profit.

"While there is a good deal of talk about the Nipissing, La Rose, Chambers-Ferland merger and efforts to deny it are pretty strong, I am satisfied that the consolidation will go through at some later date. It seems the logical outcome of the location of these properties.

"At the Nipissing it begins to look as if the western portion of their territory, which was not considered likely ground at first, will develop into the best part of their locations."

"The length and lives of the mines, in regard to the permanent and established properties, is looking better now than at any other period of the silver camp's history. Depth is showing a continuation of the deposits and the original theory regarding the limitations of the rich are within a defined formation is now all exploded. One formation has as good a chance to get it as another.

"The rumor prevails at the camp that the Temiskaming mine is not looking as well as in the past. The underground workings are still in ore, but the streaks are inclined to be irregular and not constant. This may account for the reason why the company is hastening to build its concentrator. The ore is believed to be more 'pocketey' than at any other time in the history of the property."

in full operation will be less than in any other district.

At the present low price of copper, it has been considered advisable to ship our ore to any custom smelter, it being thought wiser to direct our efforts towards vigorously developing the mine, which we are doing and putting it in position to ship to the capacity of the plant when the conditions of the copper market change and prices will yield a more reasonable profit to stockholders on the ore mined and shipped. There is no advantage in taking out ore when the price realized from same does not yield a more profitable margin over the cost of production than it does at the present time.

Our treasurer's report herewith will, I think, be sufficient, but should any stockholder wish further information it will be cheerfully given. For the directors. THOMAS BARDON, President.

property, and it is probable that some important announcements will be the result.

With the consolidation of the Eureka and Globe Consolidated properties into the Cordova Mining company, which is all but completed now, and which will be effected within the next few days, important developments on these properties may be expected within a short time. The Globe Consolidated is looking very good, and all indications favor the opening of a rich vein on the Eureka, which was a good producer some years ago.

five pounds mineral per ton of rock which compares with eighteen to twenty pounds mineral per ton of rock secured from the older No. 2 workings. There are occasional stretches of ground particularly in the territory tributary to the No. 6 shaft that will easily average fifty pounds mineral to the ton of rock. The company now has two shafts equipped with permanent hoisting machinery, and a third shaft will be similarly equipped within the next sixty days. The stamp mill is handling around 1,200 tons rock daily or slightly better than 50 per cent of capacity.

Mass.

Mass has two machine drills engaged in drifting and one machine stoping at the seventeenth level in the so-called Green Epidote. The lode has been opened at this point by about 150 feet of drifts, and without any apparent diminution in values as the drifts reach out. The ground exposed is uniformly mineralized from end to end of drifts and for the greater part of their width. Eight feet of this twelve-foot lode are exceptionally well charged with the mineral. The company is making an accumulation of rock from this point of which a test will be made to determine the proper method of milling and incidently show up the copper content of the rock, which has been variously estimated to carry from 1 per cent to 4 per cent copper. The rock is very showy and though some of the richer portions of the lode may without selection test as high as 3 per cent fine copper, an average recovery of more than 1 per cent is not generally looked for. The thirteenth and fifteenth level crosscuts driving from the older workings of the mine to tap the new lode are in over seventy-five feet and are expected to reach the lode early in June. The completion of this work will make possible the extraction of upwards of 500 tons of rock daily from the Green Epidote and should and probably will aid very materially in raising the general average of the rock now mined, which average for many years past has been uncomfortably close to ½ per cent, or approximately half that of the general average rock mined in the entire Lake Superior district.

Anaconda company. A crosscut has just been started north to the Jessie vein on the 2,200 level, but that vein will not be reached for some months. The lower level is being extended first in order to provide drainage for the ground above. The Butte & Superior Copper company, which is developing the Blackrock mine a little way north of the Berlin, has found some good copper and rich zinc ore on the 1,500-foot level, which ought to be an encouraging sign for the North Butte's northern group of claims.

Butte & Superior.

The Butte & Superior shaft has been sunk through the Black Rock vein, and in drifting west on the 1400 the vein character changed and a wide streak of ore, carrying a high percentage of copper and about 25 per cent zinc, was encountered. The drift is being extended to determine the size of the vein and extent of the copper-bearing ore. The shaft, which is 1,400 feet deep, will be sunk to the 1,600, and work on it will be resumed in a few days. The discovery of good copper ore in the Butte & Superior has been very encouraging to other companies in that section of the district. The Black Rock vein, extends through the property of the North Butte Extension Development company. It is expected that when the new zinc concentrator at the Butte Reduction works gets into capacity operations and the Butte & Superior company can dispose of about 150 tons of its zinc ore per day, it will be able to more than pay its running expenses and add rapidly to the treasury for the payment of the company's indebtedness.

Colonel Sellers Group.

It is stated that plans are under way for the resumption of operations on the Colonel Sellers group of claims, in the North Butte section of the district, by the Butte-Milwaukee company, of which the Butte & New York is the holding company. The Colonel Sellers has a shaft 600 feet deep, but work on the property was stopped by the financial panic, which caused the suspension of many concerns. The Colonel Sellers lies a considerable distance north of the Black Rock and on another vein series.

Amalgamated Victory.

The Amalgamated Copper company has won an important decision in the federal court of Wyoming in a suit brought by the government to cancel patent to several thousand acres of coal lands, to which the Diamond Coal & Coke company has title. The government claimed that entry was made by several men in collusion with the present owner and under what is known as additional soldiers' scrip. It was claimed that the land was known to contain coal deposits and was therefore not open to entry. The court holds differently and finds that there has been no fraud.

Contradicted by Ryan.

A story in circulation in Montana and elsewhere has been to the effect that the International Smelting & Refining company was not acting in good faith in moving to build a new smelter in Utah, the story being that there was no intention to complete the smelter. John D. Ryan, before leaving for New York, took occasion to contradict the story. He said the smelter would be built as rapidly as possible and would have an initial capacity of 2,000 tons per day. It is to be so constructed that it can easily be enlarged or changed to meet future needs. He said it was the aim of the company to make of it the most modern and efficient smelting plant in the country, and millions of dollars would be spent on it.

A Snowstorm Dividend.

The Snowstorm Mining company, that concern of uncertain dividends, paid another dividend in May, making the third this year. The dividend was 3 cents per share. Manager Greenough explained that the company paid a dividend whenever it had money enough. The policy of the company is to permit no accumulation in the treasury, to build up no reserve fund or surplus. Since the Snowstorm has been paying dividends it has distributed a total of $1,097,100.

The Ophir.

Preparations are being made at the Ophir mine to resume development work. The boilers are being moved nearer the shaft and a new one will be added to the battery. Supt. McConnell expects to receive word very soon to begin active operations.

lime and magnesia. It would require in a modern blast furnace three tons of this ore to make one ton of pig iron; it would require one and one-half tons of limestone and two tons of coke, or six and one-half tons of material, to manufacture one ton of pig iron. This is practically out of the question as long as the higher grade ores can be purchased at almost any price. I have assumed that the utilization of this large body of unmerchantable ore will be of the greatest help to mankind.

"Over 90 per cent of the iron made at the present time is made with coke, and while there is a movement on foot to utilize the by-product coke oven to save the volatile products of coal there is an open question as to the final saving on account of the immense capital needed to put up these plants. One hundred pounds of the best coking coal will give off 36 per cent of volatile gases, leaving a fixed carbon in the average Connellsville coke of about 87 per cent. The heat units in this 36 per cent of volatile matter are wasted, and do not enter into any calculation in the manufacture of iron. The coke is put into the top of the furnace with ore and lime. In this blast furnace 52 per cent of the heat units contained in the coke are driven off as C. O. The reason for this is the great speed with which the gases formed at the tuyeres are driven through this mass of coke, ore, etc., the speed where the diameter in a modern furnace is about ten feet being about 4,000 feet a minute. This does not give time for the ores to absorb the carbon in the C. O. and the result is that 52 per cent goes off at the tuunel head through the downcomer. In addition to this, the amount of carbon required to cause a breaking up of the limestone makes this process utilize only 15 to 18 per cent of the original heat units in the coal. Thus on 25,000,000 tons of metal, assuming that it requires 4,000 pounds of coal to manufacture a ton of pig iron (3,600 pounds of coal being the best practice with the best ores), the waste heat alone would represent 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 tons of coal.

Explains His Method.

"As to my method of utilizing the low grade ores, together with saving a large portion of the heat units now lost in modern practice, I have built a nearly horizontal kiln, lined with fire brick, 125 feet long and eight feet in diameter, similar to a cement kiln. The tube has an inclination of one foot in twelve. The rotation of the kiln brings the ore forward, and as it moves forward it gradually loses its oxygen, delivering a product in which the oxygen and part of the silica are eliminated. I am satisfied that with this process we can utilize, outside of the radiation loss, over 50 per cent of the heat units that are in the original. I believe we are back to an iron age. The present steel maker, who has only been at the business fifteen or twenty years, does not realize the advantages of wrought iron over homogeneous iron or steel. In the case of steel there is practically no fibre. A piece of steel will practically bend one way as well as another, while wrought iron, owing to its fibrous nature, will bend one way and break the other. This is caused by a slag coating produced in the puddling furnaces, each grain of iron being entirely surrounded with an oxide slag. These grains are compacted through squeezing and rolling, and the bar of iron when finished shows each wire or fibre still covered with an oxide. In other words, a bar of wrought iron is similar to a bunch of very fine wires. The reason that wrought iron does not rust and disintegrate is on account of this coating of oxides.

"I have a letter from Henry Hewitt, Jr., of Tacoma. In which he says: 'I believe you are right; we are back to an iron age as soon as we can get the iron. Some twenty years ago, when I came to this coast, we had several iron vessel built out of old-fashioned wrought iron plate. They are as good today as when built. Some eight or ten years ago we had another lot of vessels constructed to haul lumber to San Francisco. They were built of steel plate. Now they are practically in pieces, the disintegration of the steel making them worthless. Our first mill, covered with ordinary puddled sheet iron, painted, is as good today as when put on twenty years ago. Our new mill we have covered twice with sheet steel. It now looks like a sieve. This is also true of all the pipe we have laid.'

"Some thirty years ago there was an iron bridge put over the Shenango river at Sharon, which is as good today as the day it was erected. Fifteen years ago there were steel bridges erected alongside of it. They have rusted until they are wrecks. The galvanizing of wire does not prevent the rusting of nails. The wire used in fences is not standing over three or four years.

"Under the modern practice it costs $8.62 to deliver enough ore at Pittsburg to make a tone of pig iron. We know from our mining practice that we can deliver ore at the mouth of our furnace at 1 cent per unit. We have had a number of tests made on these iron ores, and we expect to get into commercial operation shortly."

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of Six Hundred and Thirty-five and 70-100 Dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Katherine H. Perry and H. L. Perry, her husband, and May O. Reese, unmarried, Mortgagors, to Joel Colby, Mortgagee, bearing date the 27th day of February, 1895, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, on the 2nd day of March, 1895, at 3:50 o'clock P. M., in Book 93 of Mortgages, on page 267, and default has also been made in the payment of taxes, and the mortgagee has paid taxes levied upon said premises since the delivery of said mortgage, in the sum of $55.80.

The said Joel Colby died on the 4th day of May, 1901, leaving a Last Will and Testament wherein and whereby he bequeathed to Elizabeth F. Colby, his widow, all his interest in and to the above described mortgage and in and to the indebtedness secured thereby, which last Will and Testament was duly allowed by the Probate Court of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 12th day of June, 1901, and a final decree was duly rendered by said Probate Court on the 3d day of February, 1902, assigning said interest of said Joel Colby in said mortgage and said indebtedness, to said Elizabeth F. Colby, and a duly certified copy thereof was duly recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds on the 3d day of February, 1902, at 4 o'clock P. M., in Book 182 of Deeds, on Page 250, and no action or proceeding has been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

NOW, THEREFORE, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, namely:

An undivided 1-12 (one-twelfth) of the Southeast quarter (SE¼) of the Northwest quarter (NW¼) of Section Six (6) in Township Fifty (50), North of Range Thirteen (13) West of the Fourth Principal Meridian, according to the United States Government survey, situate in St. Louis County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said St. Louis County at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County and State, on the 28th day of June, 1909, at ten o'clock A. M., of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of Six Hundred and Thirty-five and 70-100 Dollars, and interest, said sum of $55.80, paid for taxes, and Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars, Attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

WEEK HAS BEEN ACTIVE IN REAL ESTATE MARKET

Much Inquiry for Suburban Property for Home Building—Demand for Park Point Rock Property a Feature of the Market—Work Is Rushing on New Buildings.

The real estate market the past week has developed considerable inquiry for lots for building purposes, largely for homes. The most active locality for high residences continues to be in the vicinity of Twenty-fourth avenue east and up about the normal school.

For very modest homes there is considerable demand for property on Sixth, Seventh and Eighth streets between Lake avenue and Chester park. The proposed improvement of Sixth street is making Sixth street property more active and lots sell for increased prices above the cost of the improvement, freely. There is some talk of improving Seventh street also. If property owners there realized how much more salable their property would be, at increased prices above cost of improvement, they would get the improvement done this year, and share in the activity of Sixth street property.

Residence lots in the West end are also in demand and people are inquiring for property that will be benefited by the extension of the street car line up Piedmont avenue west.

Central residence property is more of an investment proposition and is not as active as the localities mentioned.

A distinct interest is being shown in low-priced central property on the plateau lying between Seventh avenue west and Fourteenth avenue west and between Third street and the boulevard. This property is accessible from the Seventh avenue west car line at all streets, and will also get some benefit from the Piedmont avenue west line. Residents being able to go either way and reach all sections of the city. At the same time it is only from five to ten blocks from the business center. Lots here are cheaper than in almost any part of town, notwithstanding their accessibility and general desirability. They are being rapidly picked up for homes. Water and gas have been put in.

Business property is quiet but firm, so firm that it is hard to buy and yet there is little demand at the present time. Investment buying has been waiting largely for business conditions at large to become settled and for congress to finish the tariff revision. Conditions are steadily improving in all business lines, however, and with a fair or good crop this summer we look for an activity in real estate exceeding any movement we have had for many years.

One feature of the Duluth market that has aroused much talk is the acquiring of large tracts of Park Point property by Duluth people.

Jack Desmond some time ago acquired about seven acres which he will have improved and turn into a ball park and hockey rink. Little & Nolte are handling the property, and they expect to let the first contracts for the filling in of the water front, some time during the month of June.

Julius H. Barnes has been steadily buying bay front property and is said to have 130 lots on the water front below the boat club. The harbor line extends in some places 600 feet from the present shore line, leaving plenty of room for filling in, and making the best of water frontage. All the other dock property in Duluth is taken up and is held at a stiff figure. This Park Point frontage is the only dock property left, and it is being bought up very rapidly. It is at this time held very cheaply and is looked upon as a very attractive speculation, especially in view of the rumors of railroad yards to be built there.

The buying of Park Point property for summer homes goes merrily on. While a few years ago a first-class lot could be bought for $200, the price now ranges from $700 to $1,000 and even more than that for choice locations. The rise in both price and popularity of this land, has been wonderful, and brokers predict as great an advance in these lots in the next few years as has taken place in the past.

The bright weather of the past few days has brought hundreds of inquiries to the offices of the real estate men in regard to rentals on the point. That it is the most popular summer living place in the city during the summer months is without question. Many are on the way and many are clamoring for anything in the shape of a house on the point.

T. W. Wahl has purchased from O. C. Hartman twenty-six lots on Park Point among the pines at the end of the car line. He will erect a fine summer home there.

One of the features of the week's business was the announcement that M. S. Burrows, formerly of this city,

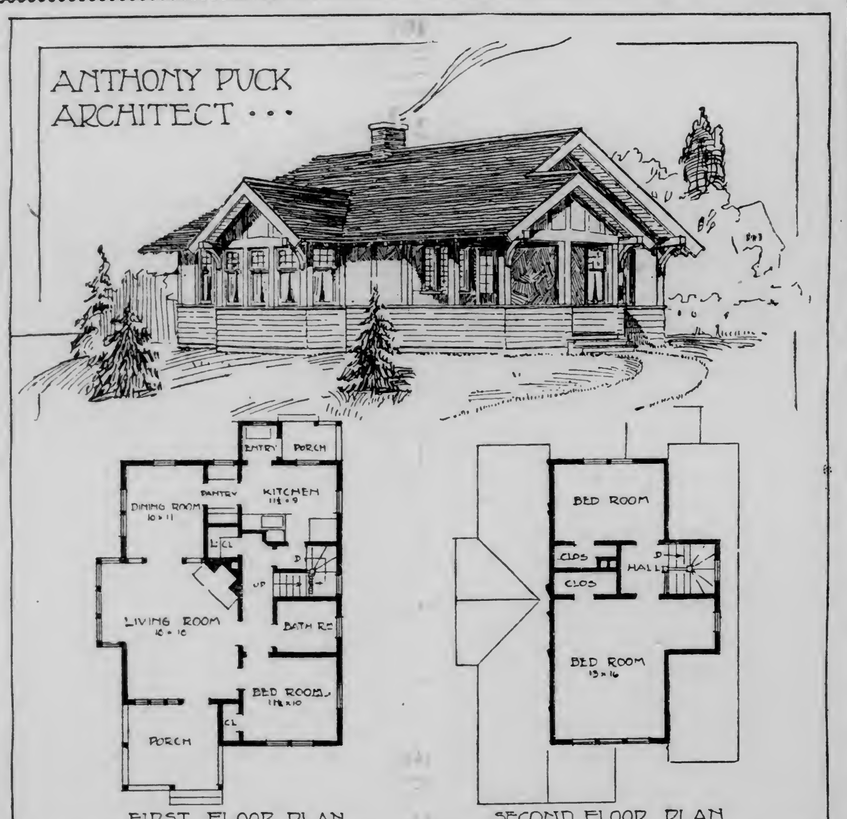
COSY BUNGALOW HOME WHICH WOULD COST $3,300 IN DULUTH



Coziness and convenience are features that make a home of the bungalow type attractive. The above illustration shows a design in which these features are evident and which is distinctly of the bungalow style of building. The exterior is made attractive by its stucco and half timber finish, and the low roof and wide eaves.

The plan is compact and all space is well utilized, making light, livable rooms of practical size. Good wall space and ample floor space are planned in the living room. The deep bay window and corner fireplace are its most attractive features. The dining room is really more of an alcove separated from the living room by posts and beams. Connection with the kitchen is made through the china pantry, and both are well arranged for all practical purposes. An exceptionally good feature of this plan is the privacy attained for the sleeping quarters of the house. The bedrooms and bathroom are separated by a corridor from the living rooms. The corridor also provides convenient communication from kitchen to front entrance. Stairs to the basement descend from the kitchen and are connected to a grade entrance at the landing.

The stairway to the second story ascends from the corridor. In the second story are arranged two large bedrooms with ample closet space. The rooms throughout are well lighted and of good relative size.

With a concrete foundation and part pasement, hot water heat, plumbing and a good grade of finish a home as above described would cost to build in Duluth or vicinity $3,300.

WEEK HAS BEEN ACTIVE IN REAL ESTATE MARKET

would again enter business here, representing a corporation which has secured a long lease on the store building formerly occupied by Mrs. Webster and R. R. Forward. The building will be thoroughly remodeled in order to fit it for its new tenant and an additional floor will be added which will be occupied by Mrs. Webster.

While there have been no sales during the past week of a startling nature, business conditions have been healthy and local brokers express themselves as satisfied with the conditions of the local market.

The feature of the week has been the great number of transfers in the cheaper residence property. For the past six weeks there has been a noticeable tendency on the part of many to invest in suburban property. Not for investment purposes, but for the purpose of building homes. Surburban property is cheap in Duluth. The price is rapidly rising and it is claimed that the prices that this year look large will next year fade into insignificance with the rapid rise in the values of this class of property.

The real estate situation has been rapidly improving since the veto of the tonnage tax, and while the weater conditions this spring have not been of the kind to encourage the buying of property, those interested claim that the improvement over former conditions is great.

Woodland is experiencing a boom. It is claimed that there is more buying and building of homes in this suburb than at any time in years past. The improved street car service is partially responsible for this, and not only in Woodland proper is the building going on, but between the main part of the city and the end of the line many residences are being erected.

Lakeside seems to enjoy the whole year around a sort of continual house-building boom. Much property in this end of town is being bought, and those who sell houses on the monthly payment plan report a brisk week's business.

The interest that was awakened some weeks ago in Duluth Heights property still continues to exist. Property in this hilltop suburb is cheaper than in any other part of town and appeals strongly to those who are looking for something that calls for the expenditure of only a small sum.

West Duluth and the West end are moving along at a satisfactory rate, and the conditions there seem to suit those who are located in that part of the city. The western part of the city is being built up very rapidly, especially Third and Fourth streets.

The announcement some few weeks ago by the Northern Pacific Railway company that a gasoline car would be put on the Fond du Lac run has increased the demand for summer home property in this pretty village. The train service was not satisfactory, in that the trips were not frequent enough. With the gasoline car, at least six trips a day will be made, it is said, and the transportation difficulty will be overcome.

The building of the new Levine hotel was commenced during the week, and while the contract has not as yet been let for the new office building to be located at Second avenue west and Superior street, it is understood that it will be within a few days and actual work commenced. The tenants moved out during the week and everything is ready for the workmen.

The real estate men will, on June 1, at either the Commercial club or the Spalding hotel, sit down to their annual banquet, and the plans for which this year are greater than ever. Outside men will be invited, so as to get into touch with the situation in other cities, and outside of the exchange more than 100 invitations will be sent to the home people. The committees in charge of the affair are working hard to make the banquet the best ever.

J. B. McCloud reports the sale of the Henry Guyer residence, on the corner of Fifteenth avenue east and London road, to Lena B. Price. The consideration was $4,800.

The L. A. Larsen company reports the sale of lots 85 and 88, block 47, Duluth proper, third division, for the First National Bank of Superior to local parties. The lots are on Fourth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues west. The consideration was $5,100.

This firm has also been doing a Lakeside business, having sold to Crest Porter a lot on McCollough street for $700. W. W. Seekins has purchased lot 12, block 44, London Addition, for $650. This lot is on Robinson street.

Capt. Ray T. Lewis has sold the property on the corner of Fourth avenue west and Third street to L. Oreck. The consideration was $9,000.

The Hopkins Realty company has sold forty acres of land lying directly back of Spirit lake to Charles Carlson. The price was $25 an acre.

The Whitney Wall company reports the sale of the Henry Fee property, at Twenty-third avenue east and Third street, to J. H. Hearding. This is a corner lot and a modern new home is standing on the property. The consideration was $25,000. Mr. Hearding is the new superintendent of the Oliver Iron Mining company and recently moved to the city.

C. L. Rakowski & Co. have deals pending in their office to the amount of $2,100. They are not ready yet, however, to make the sales public.

The Whitney Wall company will soon put on sale fifteen acres of choice residence property on the East end. This land was recently platted. This land lies between First and Fifth streets and Twenty-seventh and Twenty-ninth avenues east. The plot is owned by the W. B. Silvey Investment company.

The land has not been divided into residence lots, but has been cut up according to the best plan for the building of residences. It is understood that only buildings of over a certain value will be constructed in this district.

Bray & Nystrom have let to J. A. Charry, the contractor, the contract for the erection of a new residence to be built by T. F. Cole on Second street, near Seventeenth avenue east. The cost will be $12,000.

J. J. Wangenstein is taking bids for a brick schoolhouse to be built at Marble, Minn. It will cost $40,000.

Bray & Nystrom are preparing plans for a $10,000 brick house to be erected on the corner of Fifth street and Twenty-fourth avenue east for R. S. Newell.

The building permits for the past week of $1,000 and over follow:

Edward Dryke, frame dwelling on the north side of Wadena street, between Minneapolis and Woodland avenues, to cost $1,500.

T. F. Cole, brick dwelling on north side of Second street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth avenues east, to cost $12,000.

John Germeroth, frame dwelling on south side of West Third street, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth avenues, to cost $2,000.

Gotlieb Krause, brick apartment house, to cost $10,000.

Fred Husby, frame dwelling on East Fifth street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenues east, to cost $2,500.

Charles Stanberg, frame dwelling on West Second street, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third avenues, to cost $1,500.

James Curran, brick flat on East First street, between Fourth and Fifth avenues, to cost $5,000.

Harry Merritt, frame dwelling on Magellan street, between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh avenues west, to cost $3,000.

S. I. Levine, hotel basement for new hotel of that name, to cost $7,000.

George Christianson, frame dwelling on on Seventh street, between Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth avenues west, to cost $1,000.

Stans Nowak, flat on Fifth street, between Lake and First avenues west, to cost $5,000.

IS SHURE INSANE?

Sensational Case to Come Before North Dakota Court.

Forman, N. D., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sensational case has been set for trial before Judge Allen of the district court of this county for next week. It is that case in which the sanity of Chris Shure, recently sent to the asylum for the insane, is the question and it comes before Judge Allen on a writ to review the ruling of the county insanity commission.

Some time ago Mr. Shure who has been a wealthy farmer of this section for many years, was ordered committed to the insane asylum. Shortly afterwards attorneys were engaged and they are setting up the claim that Shure was railroaded into the institution. The hearing promises to be somewhat sensational in its nature.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Decided Hit Was Made By the 1910 Gopher Annual.

Plans for Commencement Week Have at Last Been Completed.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Never before at Minnesota university was there such a lineup on "Gopher day" as was seen Monday on the campus. Over 700 copies of the 1910 Annual were sold. President Northrop praised the book in glowing terms, and the bunches of students gathered under the oaks all day testified to the quality of the book.

The book was divided into sections, the first containing university views; section two, the Junior album; section three, the university year; section four, organizations; section five, athletics, and section six, the bee hive, consisting of campus gossip and slams. The quality of the publication as a real representation of the university has been attested on all hand. The campus views were unsurpassed in beauty and realism by anything in any previous edition. A few people were hard hit in the bee hive, but the board has been condemned for this less than is usually the case. The only complaint which has been entered against the board has been from the medics, dents and pharmacists, who declare that they were not granted enough space and will next year get out an annual of their own.

College players and the Women's league gained new laurels Saturday afternoon and evening when Sullivan's delightful operetta, "The Mikado," was presented at the Princess theater. Everything conspired to make the performances a success: the cast was the strongest ever gotten together for a college opera at Minnesota. Arthur Allen as the mikado was much applauded for his ridiculous portrayal of this purely comic opera monarch. He responded to numerous encores with verses full of local hits which delighted the audience hugely. Mirth culminated when he gave a mock account of Roosevelt's African trip with a "real" Hon. Eugene Bibb as Ko Ko delighted the audience into enthusiastic calls for encores.

Plans for commencement week are at last complete and 800 seniors are awaiting their honors. Dr. Cyrus Northrop and Mrs. Northrop will give their annual reception to the graduates Friday evening, June 4, at their home. The baccalaureate sermon is to be delivered by Dr. John E. Bushnell of Westminster Presbyterian church in the university armory. Tuesday is class day and will be a busy one for seniors. Monday is the day for the presentation of the class play, "The Scarlet Arrow." Rehearsals have been going on daily for this, and the specialties are also being practiced faithfully each noon. Wednesday is alumni day, and members of previous classes are expected to hold reunions and picnic dinners on the campus knoll. In the evening the senior promenade is to take place at the Plaza hotel. Amos Parker Wilder, United States consul general to Hongkong, China, will address the class at the commencement exercises at the university armory Thursday morning at 10 oclock, and President Northrop will present the graduates with their diplomas.

In accordance with the provisions of the war department, the annual inspection of the university corps of cadets will be made by Capt. P. D. Lockridge, general staff, U. S. A., on May 24. Preceding the inspection there will be a review.

"The Gray Friars' is the name of a society which has been organized among the seniors. It is similar to the senior societies at Yale, Wisconsin, Maine, California and other universities. This society is made up of fifteen seniors chosen from the leaders in student activities. It was organized at the suggestion of several members of the faculty and the hearty indorsement of President Northrop. Each spring juniors are to be elected to perpetuate the organization.

Following the lead of the academic college the engineering department has decided to excuse from taking the final examinations all those seniors who have received no conditions or failures during their college course. This ruling, which goes into effect at once, has been received with great favor, the engineers, who have all along maintained that they should be treated with the same consideration as the academics.

The Y. W. C. A. May fete is a matter now of history, Thursday having bei the memorable day of its institution. The day's festivities opened with the crowning of the May queen, Helen Riheldaffer, which was followed by an elaborate May pole dance. The expectant multitude was hurried thence to the library to see the little farce, "A Box of Monkeys." The performance was the snappiest little piece given at the university this year. Irene O'Connor, as a Western girl about to enter society carried the house off its feet. Her natural, enthusiastic and typically Western style in contrast

DEMAND FOR WHEAT FIRM

Closing Prices Show Fractional Gains Over Previous Day.

Flax Very Strong and Closes More Than Point Up.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 22.—Bullish sentiment prevailed during a fairly active session in wheat today, the closing prices here and in the other American markets showing fractional bulges over yesterday.

The strength of the cash market induced buying in the nearby months and the millers were bidding for the grain. Cables were easier in tone.

Liverpool closed ½d higher to ⅝d lower, Berlin ¾c lower and Budapest 1½c lower.

The May option closed ¾c higher in Duluth and Minneapolis, ⅝c higher in Chicago and Winnipeg, ⅛c lower in New York, 1c higher in St. Louis and Kansas City. The July option closed ⅞c lower in New York, ⅝c higher in Chicago and Winnipeg, ⅝c higher in Duluth, ⅝c higher in Minneapolis, ⅛c higher in New York, ¼c higher in St. Louis, ⅛@⅛c higher in Kansas City and ½c higher in Winnipeg.

July corn closed ¼@⅜c higher in Chicago and oats ⅛@⅛c higher.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The strength in America yesterday together with unfavorable reports from both Germany and Hungary caused a firm opening in wheat here, with values ½d to ⅝d higher. There was active covering by shorts early on the continued strength in the country markets yesterday. Cargo sales and the better demand for cargoes were firmly held. Manitoba offerings were light and dearer. During the morning, the market suffered a severe reaction, values declining ⅝d to ¾d with the principal pressure in July. Selling was the result of expected heavy shipments from Russia this week, Bradstreets' light exports, discredited and reports of rains through Southern Russia and Danubian countries. At the close, the market was easy and from ½d higher to ¾d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was firm and ½d higher. The market was dull but firmly held, owing to the firmness of La Plata offerings. Wheat cargoes arrived off coast, 5, and awaiting orders, 6. Wheat cargoes in distant positions firm, but quiet. Corn firm, but inactive.

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 13 against 18 last year, and at Minneapolis, 146 against 147 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 159 against 165 last year, Chicago received 5 against 68 last year.

Clearances of wheat and flour were, 126,000 bu.

Clearances of corn were, 8,000 bu.

Wheat trading was quite active in the Duluth market. May wheat opened unchanged at $1.30 bid, advanced to $1.31 and closed at $1.30¾, a gain of ¾c over yesterday. July wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.29, advanced to $1.29¾, declined to $1.29, rallied to $1.29⅝, declined to $1.29½, rallied to $1.30⅛ and closed at $1.30, a gain of ¾c over yesterday. September wheat opened unchanged at $1.11¼, declined to $1.10⅝, rallied to $1.11⅜ and closed at $1.11½, a gain of ¼c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¾c higher.

The demand for flax was very firm and the close was move than a point higher than yesterday. May flax opened ⅝c higher at $1.77, advanced to $1.77½ and closed there, a gain of 1¾c over yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.75, went as high as $1.76½ and closed there, a gain of 1½c over yesterday. September flax opened unchanged at $1.52, advanced to $1.53 and closed there, a gain of 1c over yesterday. October flax opened unchanged at $1.46½, advanced to $1.47 and closed there, a gain of ½c over yesterday.

Oats closed ⅛c higher, rye 1 to 2c higher and barley 2c higher.

Following are the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Moderate Demand By Shorts Causes Upturn in May Wheat.

Chicago, May 22.—Wheat for May delivery continued its upward flight today, the price touching $1.31⅝, a gain of 3c compared with the previous best mark recorded yesterday. There was little trade, however in that option, a moderate demand by shorts causing the upturn. The market in general was weak owing to liberal shipments this week from Russia and because of favorable conditions in this country for the crop. The market opened weak with prices ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower, and during the early part of the day failed to show any recuperative power. July, which opened at $1.16¾@1.16⅞, sold at $1.16⅝, but quickly dropped back again to $1.16¾.

The market was extremely nervous the last half of the session. On renewed buying by shorts the May delivery was forced to $1.32½. July advanced to $1.17⅜. The close was firm with July up 5@5⅜c at $1.17⅜@1.17½. May was 5c higher at $1.32⅜. Oats was inclined to be weak, the May delivery being particularly heavy owing to larger receipts than had been estimated. Some of the leading commission houses were sellers. Local traders May sold off ⅛c compared with the previous close. July opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 52⅝@52⅞c, sold off to 52¾@52⅝c and then rallied to 53@53⅛c.

The strength of wheat had a bullish effect late in the day. July sold up to 69⅝c. The close was firm with July up ¾@⅞c at the top.

Oats again advanced to new high record marks, May delivering selling at 61⅜c and July at 52¼c. Covering by shorts caused the fresh advance. Prices at the start were a shade higher to ⅛c lower, with July at 53⅛@53⅜c.

Provisions were easy because of a 5c decline in live hogs. Trade was dull. Prices at the opening were unchanged to 5c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Light Offerings Cause Strength as the Week Closes.

Minneapolis, May 22.—Local stocks decreased 761,386 bu for the week against a decrease of 769,846 on last week. For one day of this week there was a decrease of 75,000 bu. Light offerings made the market strong and both May and July advanced to new high points. The close was fairly strong, being only ⅜c below the high. Minneapolis today received 146 cars against 147; Duluth 13, against 18; Winnipeg 49, against 20. September opened $1.10¼; high, $1.11⅛; low, 1.10; close, $1.10⅞. July opened, $1.29¾@⅞; high, $1.30⅜; low, $1.28⅝; close, $1.30¼. Cash wheat was in fair to good demand. Country millers were fair buyers early in the day and also representatives of the local mills were good buyers. No. 1 northern sold for 3½@1½c over the July option, and No. 2 northern for 1½@2½c over. No. 1 northern spot and to arrive, $1.33½@⅝; No. 2 northern, $1.31⅛@¼; spot and to arrive; No. 3 wheat, $1.30@1.13; No. 3 yellow corn 73¼@73¾c; No. 2 white oats, 56¾@57¾c; No. 2 rye, 83¾@85½c.

Flax—Receipts, 2 cars today, against 2; shipments, 4. Light offerings made the market inactive. Prices were about the same as the Duluth July option. Close, $1.77¾.

Barley—Receipts, 20 cars today, against 9; shipments, 13. A strong demand for all grades, especially feeding barley, made the market advance about 1c. Early in the session all the offerings were sold. Closing range, 65@71½c.

Millstuffs — Shipments, 1,307 tons. Demand was strong and far in excess of the supply. Local millers can see nothing to warrant any change in the near future. Prices held firm. Bran in bulk, $24.00@24.50.

Flour prices made a further advance today on account of the higher wheat market. Prices now are at the highest point in years. Demand was only fair, orders being for small amounts on account of the high prices. Shipments showed a decrease of 15,000 barrels. First patents, $6.30@6.50; second patents, $6.20@6.40; first clears, $4.95@5.05; second clears, $3.55@3.65.

HEARD ON THE FLOOR.

Gossip of the Trading Room and the Pit.

A number of estimates upon the wheat crop in Kansas came out this morning.

Rollin E. Smith of the Commercial West has just returned from Kansas, and he declares 60,000,000 bu is a fair estimate.

Nicollet of the Kansas City Star places the state's crop at not over 65,000,000 bu.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 22.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 6 points, but quickly broke under liquidation, July declining to 11.05 and December to 10.79. Weekend figures were considered bullish and there was some talk of too much rain in central sections of the belt, but crop prospects in the Southwest are supposed to have improved. There were apprehensions, also, that a bullish weather bureau was being over discounted Liquidation came largely from Wall street sources. Futures closed barely steady; closing bids: May, 11.26; June, 11.05; July, 11.02; August, 10.90; September, 10.81; October, 10.76; November, 10.74; December, 10.80; December, 10.82; March, 10.72. Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St Paul, Minn., May 22.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Market shows increased activity. A number of orders were filled for shipment to Western points, where railroad work is in progress. The largest order of the day was filled by the Crex Carpet company of New York city, who bought thirty head to be used on their hay marshes near Wyoming, Minn. Local retail lumber-ing interests were active buyers of big draft horses, which they require to meet the demands caused by heavy building operations. Mules were quiet. Receipts light. Well broke family drivers and ponies for children meet with easy clearance. Shipments were made to Glendive, Mont., Mendan, N. D. and Twin Falls, Idaho.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Opened Higher and Close Was Active and Buoyant.

Coppers and Southern Railway Prominent in the Large Dealings.

New York, Mayy 22.—Opening prices of stocks were carried fractionally higher on a light demand. There were only a few exceptions to the advance, and those amongst the less important stocks. Western Union rose ¾, Kansas City Southern ⅝, and United States Steel 1½.

Quiet strength prevailed during the first hour. There was no demand of consequence for any of the leaders, but prices rose until a number of important gains were established. St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, Norfolk & Western, Southern Railway preferred, Toledo, St. Louis & Western, American Smelting, Sloss-Sheffield Steel, United States Rubber and Distillers Securities were lifted 1 to 1¼.

The market closed active and buoyant. Announcement of the purchase of $30,000,000 of Armour & Co. bonds was accepted as evidence of the sustained investment demand of capital and of the abundance of money supplies. Prices advanced on large dealings, the copper and Southern Railway being prominent. Anaconda and Amalgamated Copper rose 1⅝, Southern Railway ⅜, American Malting 1½, Southern Railway preferred, Chicago & Alton and Consolidated Gas 1¾ and Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Atlantic Coast Line, Chicago Great Western preferred, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, Peoria & Eastern and Tennessee Copper 1. Long Island shot up 4½, pointed and Reading second preferred 2¾.

SATURDAY, MAY 22, 1909.

Mr. Hugo leaves for Butte today to see that the machinery is correctly put in place at the Scott property. We can look forward to big things happening at this mine in the next few months. Nothing can stop us now. We have plenty of money and plenty of ore. The shaft will be sunk 400 feet deeper as fast as money can do it. Next winter this mine should be a very heavy producer and we should be able to wait a few months when we know absolutely that it is only a question of a little time.

The full paid continues to trade at $10 in Butte. It must look good to those Butte people to see a few carloads of heavy machinery and big timbers unloaded at the Scott. They are starting in on this issue the same as they did on Butte & Superior.

Miners will begin putting their wages into this stock, for is it not a fact that it is the best buy in this country at the present time? Which one on the board compares with it? I have been in the brokerage business a long time and have studied mining, but no one can show me another stock that is as safe and sure as either of the Butte-Alex Scott stocks.

THAT WILL YIELD FROM $1,000 TO $2,000 IN THE GREAT SOUTHWEST

Many farmers and land owners have become millionaires from tracts in the Southwest that originally cost no more per acre than the lands here now offered at $5 per month. Every indication points to a greater increase in values than ever before. Many tracts around the thriving cities and towns are increasing in value from $200.00 to $400.00 per acre. Every acre sold brings the purchaser nearer to a fortune. Many tracts around the thriving cities and towns are increasing in value from $200.00 to $400.00 per acre. Every acre sold brings the purchaser nearer to a fortune. No finer soils or climate could be desired. No more healthful surroundings. Good schools and churches. No better watermelons or cantaloupes are grown. All the berries are of the finest. All kinds of staple crops are grown, including tomatoes, potatoes, sweet potatoes, melons, lettuce, cabbage, peas, beans, onions, peanuts, turnip beets, asparagus, etc.

THE BEST FOR POULTRY RAISING

It is the season of clover and timothy. Alfalfa is a great success. The Blue Grass of Kentucky is equaled, some say surpassed, by the Bermuda grass. It grows in abundance. Corn yields 40 to 60 bushels per acre, wheat 20 to 25, and oats 40 to 60 bushels. It is the best section of the United States for poultry raising, as attested by the Texas Poultry Journal. It is a heavy shipper of fat cattle, hogs and sheep. The second greatest cattle market in the world is Kansas City, a city 4 hours' distance. The climate is almost perfect, no mild are the winters that work is not required to be housed. The farmers live mostly in the open air. Nature is bountiful. Not a failure. Prosperous farmers. It is a railroad and a large shipper of farm products. Its markets are modern and beautiful, according to average prosperous population residing there. Many of the finest and in most substantial homes. The land requires no aid from nature, only cultivation or irrigation. The rainfall is just right for crops and not too little. Thousands of acres are planted out to better apple orchards and strawberry patches can be found anywhere. It has several towns handling the famous Pecos of Kentucky. No need roads.

5 ACRES $5.00 A MONTH

$5.00 one and after a month will buy a 5-acre farm in all that part of the Southwest—a farm that will yield from $1,000 to $2,000 per year. Let us tell you some interesting facts from responsible people whom you can easily call on regarding climate, Possibilities, country. Presenting Adamson, Pecans, Cattle, Melons, Alfalfa, Irrigation, school, Superintendent, Railroad Officials and Bankers. It will pay you to investigate this particular section of the country almost every great man of the United States, with the possible exception of Roosevelt, has visited this section. We have no property to sell, but we can tell you all about it. We have no property to sell, but we can tell you all about it. We have no property to sell, but we can tell you all about it

CANADIAN MINE STRIKE FINALLY DECLARED ENDED

Three Months' Struggle Settled By Board of Conciliation.

Miners Yield on Contention Over the Open Shop.

Operators Yield as to Discrimination Against Union Men.

Winnipeg, Man., May 24.—The strike of the coal miners, which has been affecting nearly all the mines of Southern Alberta and Eastern British Columbia for the past three months, has been settled by the board of conciliation, appointed by the government under the Lemieux act, assisted by board members of the United Mine Workers of America, sent from Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

The terms are those agreed to at the first conference to which District President Sherman objected, although approved by the votes of the miners, and against which Sherman ordered the strike.

The miners yielded on the open shop contention and the mine operators yielded as to discrimination against Union members. The terms of the agreement will be signed Wednesday, and work resumed Thursday.

The end came none too soon, as the managers at the chief centers in Alberta and Eastern British Columbia are out of coal. Ten thousand men were forced into idleness by the strike order.

INDIANAPOLIS MASONS DEDICATE A TEMPLE.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 24.—Masons of Indiana unite today and tomorrow in dedicating the new $750,000 Masonic temple in this city, which, they declare, is the finest building devoted to Masonry in the world.

The temple is built of steel and stone, four stories high. The interior fixtures are of beaten brass and bronze and the furniture, carpets and tapestries were especially made for the purpose. The temple contains two restaurants and many private dining rooms and is topped by a roof garden. The equipment for the exposition of Masonry is most elaborate.

OWEN HITS AT OCTOPUS

Oklahoma Senator Attacks Sugar Trust, Blaming the Tariff.

Has Newspaper Assault Read to Get It In Record.

Washington, May 24.—The sugar trust was the subject of an attack in the senate today by Senator Owen of Oklahoma, who sent to the secretary's desk a denunciation of the trust published yesterday in a local newspaper.

"This account," said Owen, "points out one of the most evil and insidious conspiracies of the building up in this country of gigantic organizations protected by the so-called tariff, which has led to poisoning the fountains of information of the people of the United States so that millions of dollars have been stolen from them.

"This fact is not mentioned by the leading newspapers of the city of New York but, on the contrary, full-page advertisements of the American Sugar Refining company appear in lieu of the truth which ought to be made known to the people of the United States.

Consequently Owen asked to have the newspaper's attack read, in order that it might appear in the Record, which was done.

TELL TALES OF HEROISM

Survivors of the Ill-Fated Columbia Are Heard From.

Only One Woman Passenger Was With the Party.

Seattle, Wash., May 24.—A cable dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer from Senard, Alaska, says the mail steamer Dora has arrived there with 194 survivors of the wrecked ship Columbia. The survivors tell a tale of suffering and of heroism seldom excelled.

Following the grounding, in a blinding snow storm, eight miles east of Unimaka Pass on the night of April 30, the experiences of the passengers and crew of the Columbia were harrowing in the extreme.

There was no wind at the time, but the surf was raging from a storm on the previous night. On the vessel were fifty-three Italians, ninety-six Japanese and forty-five Scandinavians and Americans.

Only one woman, the Australian wife of Mate Cameron, was with the party.

On the morning of May 2 a storm caused the final abandonment of the wrecked Columbia. The same day the ship burned to the water's edge.

AUTO TURNS TURTLE; FIVE PERSONS INJURED.

Auburn, Ind., May 24.—A seven-passenger touring car driven by Harry McIntyre, son of W. H. McIntyre, a manufacturer, turned turtle today, wrecking it, and badly injuring five occupants. Henry Gast, a machinist, is critically injured about his head and shoulders. Waldo Zeller suffered two broken ribs, severe bruises about his head and internal injuries. Oak Hasselman, John Backman and W. H. McIntyre were hurt, but not so severely. While the auto was going down hill the driver lost control and the machine struck a stump.

Minnesota Postmistress.

Washington, May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Mariana Sorenson has been appointed postmistress at Columbia Heights, Anoka county, vice M. Peyson.

AMERICANS RELEASED

Were Sentenced in Mexico on a Charge of Murder.

Supreme Court Reverses Verdict and Dismisses the Charges.

Chihuahua, Mex., May 24.—The supreme court today ordered the release of Ole E. Finstand and "Shorty" Coughener, Americans convicted of the murder of Charles McMurray and Robert Rutherford, the latter a wealthy Philadelphian. McMurray was a brother-in-law of Finstand.

McMurray and Rutherford were killed at the ranch of Finstand in Chihuahua and Coughener was badly wounded. Finstand and Coughener claimed the crimes were committed by Mexican bandits, but the Mexican court convicted the Americans, sentencing them to imprisonment for twelve and one-half years. The supreme court today reversed the case and dismissed the charges.

MAYOR SHOT BY BURGLAR

Thief in Cedar Rapids First Loots Home of Priest.

Series of Sensational Robberies Reaches Climax —Dangerous Wound.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, May 24.—A series of sensational burglaries came to a climax early today, when an unknown thief shot and dangerously wounded Mayor John T. Carmody.

Previous to entering Carmody's house, the burglar robbed Father J. J. Toomey's home, covering the priest with a revolver. While the police were investigating the Toomey affair, the bandit entered the Carmody home, two blocks distant. The mayor grappled with the intruder and was shot in the abdomen. Carmody continued to fight, but finally fell exhausted at the bottom of the stairs, while his assailant escaped.

YOUTH OF TEN KILLS A BRIDE

Young Hunter Sees Handkerchief Flutter and Fires.

Flint, Mich., May 24.—Arthur Merritt, 10 years old of this city, while walking along the river bank carrying a rifle, saw a white cloth fluttering in some bushes on the opposite side of the stream and fired at it.

Mrs. Lizzie Atkinson, a bride of a few months, received the bullet in her forehead and died in a few minutes. She was walking along the riverside with her husband and it was her handkerchief with which she was wiping some dust from her face that caught the eye of the boy with the rifle.

Young Merritt was so affected after the accident that he had to be placed under restraint to prevent him from carrying out threats of suicide.

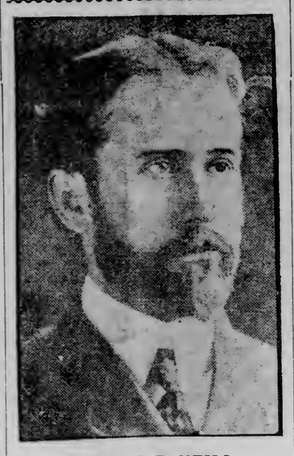
UNITARIANS' ANNUAL MEETING IN BOSTON.

Boston, Mass., May 24.—With meetings throughout the day and reception in the evening the American Unitarian association, spent the second day of its annual anniversary week observance today. The annual meeting of the Ministerial association was held in Channing hall when Prof. William H. Carruth of Lawrence, Kan., spoke on "The Religion of Now."

Taft Going to Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 24.—President Taft, who will attend the fifth annual convention of the Associated Yacht Clubs, next Saturday, has also accepted an invitation to read services next Sunday morning in the First Unitarian church. While in Pittsburg Mr. Taft will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Laughlin, Mrs. Laughlin being a sister of Mrs. Taft.

WILL ATTEMPT TO SETTLE ROAD STRIKE



CHARLES P. NEILL.

Washington, May 24.—As the result of appeals to the federal board of mediation to use its efforts to settle the strike of firemen on the Georgia railroad, Commissioner of Labor Neill, a member of the board, will leave for Atlanta tonight.

Proposed By Governor.

Atlanta, Ga., May 24.—Arbitration to settle the Georgia railroad strike was proposed by Governor Hoke Smith today. The governor suggested a commission of six residents of Georgia, three to represent each side in the controversy. The Georgia railroad lies entirely within this state. Involving a race issue, as to whether white or negro firemen shall be employed, the strike has become of importance all over the South.

NO LIQUOR AT WEDDING

Muskegon, Mich., Ministers Declare They Will Not Officiate.

Action Results From the Scandals Due to Drinking at Marriages.

Muskegon, Mich., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the six Holland-American churches in this city, where there is a large population of former Hollanders, the ministers announced yesterday an agreement not to officiate at weddings unless a pledge is made that there will be no liquor served either during or after the ceremony. The combined action of the ministers follow several scandals which have grown out of drinking at weddings here.

The ministers further announced that men affiliated with clubs which served liquor on Sunday will be cut off from the churches.

COLLISION IS FATAL

Two, Perhaps Three Lives Are Lost at Buffalo.

Steamer Western States and Tug Princeton Crash.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 24.—Two, and perhaps three, lives were lost today in collision between the steamer Western States of the Detroit & Buffalo Navigation company and the tug Princeton in the harbor off the United States life saving station. The two men drowned were firemen on the Princeton. The tug's engineer is missing.

Capt. James Sullivan of the Princeton escaped by swimming to the life saving dock.

The Princeton had crossed the bow of the Western States in order to tow the steamer to a dock. The tug Yale had taken the line off the Western States and was swinging around to head up the river. The Western States, however, had greater headway than the captain of the Yale calculated, for the steamer struck the Princeton amidships. The Princeton turned over and the crew were precipitated into the water.

Passengers on board the Western States saw one of the tug's men come to the surface and make a struggle for life. Before help reached him, however, the sailor sank from view.

BRITISH FLAG MUCH SALUTED

Empire Day Observed More Generally Than Since Inauguration.

London, May 24.—Empire day, which comes on the anniversary of the birth of Queen Victoria, was more generally observed today than since its inauguration. The day has been selected as the occasion upon which the children of the empire shall honor the flag, and it was celebrated in every part of Great Britain. It is estimated that 15,000,000 persons saluted the national emblem, and in the United Kingdom alone close to 4,000,000 children took part in the demonstration. For the first time London had an organized celebration. Five thousand uniformed school boys marched through the main streets of the capital to Hyde park, where all the children gathered and saluted the national flag as well as the emblems of fifty-six dominions and colonies.

ARE PESSIMISTIC AS TO REMOVING DEBRIS MASS.

Leadville, Colo., May 24.—Those in charge of the work at the Tennessee Pass on the Denver & Rio Grande, take a very discouraging view of the possibilities of ever being able to move the immense mass of debris that has accumulated as a result of the recent cavein. There is a large force at work, but practically no progress is being made, material running in as fast as it is taken out.

TRAIN ROBBERS STILL AT LARGE; ALL CLUES FAIL

Men Who He'd Up Overland Limited Cover Tracks.

Believed They Drove to South Omaha in Wagon.

Theory That They Had an Automobile Is Discarded.

Omaha, Neb., May 24.—In spite of vigorous search for four masked bandits, who held up and robbed Union Pacific train No. 2, known as the Overland Limited, a mile west of the city limits, just before midnight Saturday, and obtained seven registered mail pouches, the authorities have as yet secured no tangible clews.

John P. Maurer of New York city, a passenger, had not retired when the train was stopped. Expecting that the robbers would go through the cars and rob the passengers, Maurer jumped to the ground and hid in the weeds by the side of the track. He witnessed the robbery of the mail car. He remained in the weeds until a sheriff's posse reached the place after daylight.

RAIN RUINS THE CROPS

Heaviest Fall in Years Does Damage in Oklahoma.

Growing Grain in Kansas Is Beaten Into the Ground.

Vinita, Okla., May 24.—One of the heaviest rain falls in years has swollen Grand river and other streams to flood stage, causing much damage to railroad property and farms, and partially submerging the town of Afton. At Catale a portion of the trestle work of the St. Louis & San Francisco railway bridge has been carried away.

In Muskogee the streets and many houses here were flooded by last night's rainfall, which amounted almost to a cloudburst.

Grain Is Ruined.

Wellington, Kan., May 24.—Six inches of rain fell in three hours last night in a territory fifteen miles long, extending from South Haven, a few miles south of Wellington, into Oklahoma. The rain was accompanied by sheets of hail that beat the grain into the ground.

TO COMPETE AT MUSIC FESTIVAL

New York, May 24.—The names of the five societies which compete for the Kaiser prize at the great music festival to be held in Madison Square Garden from June 19 to 22, by the United Singing Societies of America, are announced today. They are the Kreutzer Quartet club of New York; the Concordia of Wilkesbarre, present holders of the prize; the Junger Maennerchor of Philadelphia; the Germania of Newark and the Arion society of Baltimore.

The judges are Prof. Max Mayer-Oberspieben, director of the Royal School of Music in Wurzburg; Prof. Gustav Wohlgemuth, director of the Leipsic Choral societies; Max Spicker, the composer and conductor; Arthur Mess and Prof. Cornelius Rubner, head of the music department of Columbia university.

TURNS GUN ON HIMSELF

Lawyer Who Killed Woman Tries Suicide When Caught.

John W. Beam Is Finally Brought to Bay by Bloodhounds.

Lima, Ohio, May 24.—John W. Beam, a well-known lawyer and real estate dealer, who was sought by the police on charge of murdering Mrs. Estella M. Diltz, a young widow, who was shot and instantly killed in her doorway last night, attempted to end his own life today, and is in a serious condition in a hospital.

Immediately following the shooting the police sought Beam. The chase continued throughout the night and early today bloodhounds were used. They led the officers to the Beam home.

The man was found in his barn and upon being ordered to surrender fired, but the shot did not take effect upon any of his pursuers. Beam then ran behind the barn and turned the revolver upon himself.

The killing of Mrs. Diltz is said to have been the result of litigation between the widow and the attorney to recover property belonging to the widow.

BULL REPORTS BOOST PRICES

New High Records on Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, May 24.—New high records on the board of trade were established today, largely on bullish reports from Kansas, predicting crop shortage in that state. May wheat early sold at $1.33¾, 1½ cents over Saturday.

September contracts brought $1.10, which is ⅞ cent higher than the previous close, and ½ cent better than the previous high point of some weeks ago. July, at $1.18½, was within ⅝ cent of its previous top price.

December wheat, which touched $1.07⅝, showed evidence of influential bullish support.

JURY FIXING IS ALLEGED

Reports of Attempted Crooked Work in Madden Case.

Witnesses Attack Honesty of the State's Chief Witness.

Chicago, May 24.—Rumors of an attempt unduly to influence the jury in the trial of M. B. Madden, F. A. Pouchot and M. J. Boyle, labor leaders charged with extortion in connection with fake strikes were the subject of private conferences today between States Attorney Wayman and his staff.

Time in court was largely taken up with hearing witnesses who attacked the reputation for honesty of George S. Andres, the state's chief witness. Andres testified that he personally paid Madden $1,000 to settle a strike on the plant of the Joseph Klicka company.

In connection with the jury influencing reports, the state's attorney interviewed four men, one of whom is Ernest Krulevitch, a Ninth ward politician, said to be an intimate friend of Madden. Krulevitch was among those indicted by a special grand jury impanelled some months ago to investigate alleged frauds committed at the primaries of last August.

JUDGES SPLIT, TWO AGAINST TWO, OVER TERMINAL RAILROAD CASE

St. Louis, Mo., May 24.—Disagreeing, two against two, on the government's suit to dissolve the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis, the judges of the United States circuit court here have certified the case direct to the United States supreme court.

Notice of the action was received from St. Paul at the federal building here today. The notice is signed by Judges Sanborn, Vandeventer, Hook and Adams.

The suit was brought in November, 1905, by Charles Nagel, now secretary of commerce and labor, being one of the special attorneys employed by the government to prosecute the case. The complaint alleges that the association of practically all competing railroads and ferry and bridge companies, engaged in interstate commerce and acting in violation of the federal statutes.

The case was argued here in April just before the Standard Oil dissolution suit was heard. Following the latter decision the court adjourned to St. Paul. It is reported that the four judges will next consider the Standard Oil suit and may reach a conclusion on it before adjournment early in June.

Judge Adams Explains.

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—Judge Adams, one of the United States circuit judges who signed the order certifying the St. Louis Terminal Railroad association case to the United States supreme court, said concerning the action of the court:

"The court finding itself evenly divided as to whether there was a restraint of trade or an enhanced competition by reason of the combination of the terminal railroad association, certified the case directly to the supreme court. The order assigned by the court was to the effect that two of the judges found that the combination was in restraint of trade and that the association should be dissolved. The other two judges were of the opinion that these bridges or approaches were not railroad bridges, but were merely terminal facilities and giving all railroads approaches to the city and affording the people ample opportunities to come from all parts of the city.

"Finding the court so evenly divided, merely certified all the papers in the case directly to the supreme court under an actual authorizing the court to do so."

Judge Adams said he did not care to state which judges voted for the association, nor which voted against it.

FATHER TRIES TO KIDNAP ST. PAUL GIRL BUT IS FORCED TO YIELD HER

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—West Seventh street was the scene of another sensation last night, when an attempt was made on the crowded street to kidnap little Alberta Hirst, aged 2 years, from her aunt, Mrs. Loviel, when the latter stepped off a street car with the child in her arms. Mrs. May Hirst, mother of the little girl, who lives at 216 West Seventh street, said today that she would swear out a warrant against William H. Hirst, the child's father, from whom she has been separated for three months, charging him with the attempted abduction of the child. Mrs. Loviel recognized him when he snatched the child from her, and the man made no denial when taken to his wife's home by the police a short time after the trouble.

The child was rescued from the arms of the would-be kidnaper by James Malloy of South St. Paul, after the little one had been placed in a carriage and driven at great speed five blocks. Malloy saw the man, who had evidently been waiting for a chance to get the child, jerk the little one from Mrs. Lovier's hands and jumped into a carriage with it. Malloy gave chase in his own buggy and, by crowding the other man's team to the curb, succeeded in bringing the horses to a stop.

By this time the police and a crowd of several hundred had been attracted by the exciting chase, caught up with the two carriages, and little Alberta was taken from her father's hands after a brief struggle. One of the first to reach the place was Mrs. Loviel, who had run all the way behind the carriage, and who recovered the child with a long breath of relief.

The police questioned the man who had seized the child, but upon receiving satisfactory assurance from him that he was the father they allowed him to go, much to the displeasure of the crowd which had grown threatening.

COPPER FROM ALASKA SOON

Mines There Will Ship in Fourteen Months, Says L. C. Dillman.

L. C Dillman, president and general manager of the Alaska United Copper Exploration company, is at the Spalding.

President Dillman is of the opinion that the copper of Alaska will be placed upon the market within fourteen months, and that the time is not far away when copper will be sold at a greatly reduced cost, simply for the reason that the Alaska production is so immense, and can be produced at less cost than the copper of this country.

With the completion of the railroad that the Morgan-Guggenheim interests are constructing to the mining property of the Copper River country, Mr. Dillman is of the opinion that the copper of that part of the Alaska will be placed upon the markets of the world.

President Dillman says that no one can gain any idea of the wealth of the copper deposits of this section of Alaska. He believes that there is more copper in this region than has been mined in all the other copper regions of the world in the past century. He states that had Alaska no other resource than the rich copper deposits to be found in the Copper River country, this mineral wealth would be sufficient to make the country prosperous.

Mr. Dillman was formerly a large real estate dealer of Tacoma and Spokane. He represented James J. Hill when the railroad magnate pushed the Great Northern railway to the Pacific coast.

NATIVES WANT ARITHMETICS

Board of Presbyterian Foreign Missions Requests More Funds.

Denver, Colo., May 24.—"The Board of Foreign Missions wants more arithmetics. These books are wanted by the natives in Uganda, who wish to be able to compute the number of lions and tigers and giraffes slain by our beloved former president."

This was one of the requests made by Dr. Judson Swift, D. D., of New York, secretary of the American Tract society, who spoke before the general assembly of the Presbyterian church today.

In presenting the report of the society, he pleaded for more funds. Necessary headway could not be effected until donations were greater. He found a new cause for what he believed was a lack of interest in Christianity in America.

ATTACHMENT TO ISSUE IN LYNCHING CASE.

Washington, May 24.—The case of John C. Shipp, sheriff of Hamilton county, Tenn., and nine others charged with contempt of the supreme court of the United States in connection with the lynching of a negro named Ed Johnson at Chattanooga in 1905, was acted on today in an opinion by Chief Justice Fuller, which directs that an attachment issue for Shipp, his deputy, Gibson and defendants Williams, Nolan, Padgett and May. The information as to Deputy Sheriffs Galloway, Justice and Ward, three of the defendants was dismissed.

AUSTRIAN-JAPANESE TREATY REPORTED MADE.

Berlin, May 24.—The foreign office has no information regarding the reported conclusion of a military treaty between Austria-Hungary and Japan, providing for mutual help in the event that either power should become engaged in war with Russia.

Copper Combine Rumored.

Calumet, Mich., May 24.—It is said that Calumet & Hecla interests are buying stock of the Lake Copper company, and that plans are being considered for the consolidation of Lake Copper, North Lake, Adventure and Aztec. These mines lie adjacent to each other in Ontonagon county. The companies have a total capitalization of $8,500,000 and an area of 3,300 acres.

HITS TRAIL FOR CHINA

Chin Ong Lee Goes Back to Yellow Love and Happiness.

She Waits for Him at Backdoor in Hong Kong.

Chin Ong Lee is in love. There is no doubt about that fact. Even the stoicism of the Oriental did not hide this fact. The object of his love waits the coming of Ong Lee, and this morning the Chinaman walked into the office of the Northwestern railroad and purchased a ticket for the coast.

He was accompanied by one of the local Chinamen, the proprietor of a tea and coffee house, who often acts as general instructor to those of his race who know less of the ways of America than he does.

Ong Lee possesses a long queue, folded neatly under a black American Fedora hat. That is one of the customs of his native land that he has carefully observed. His mentor, the merchant who was showing him how to purchase his ticket, and was giving him shrewd advice while the ticket was being made out, did not possess a queue, and he smoked a cigar with all the elegance of a clubman. The man with the queue and the love light in his slant eyes smoked a long black pipe.

To Ticket Agent Blackeney the man unfolded a story romantic, even if it was told in language that no poet would ever attempt to couch a love tale in. That broken lingo is swell for comedy effect, but as for the tender passion, some one please turn the light off.

Ong Lee met the future Mrs. Ong Lee while delivering laundry to the place where the fair object of his devotion hung out. It must have been in the kitchen of a swell house in Hongkong, for Ong Lee told about going around to a back door upon courting nights and chanting, in that sing-song language of the Celestial, sweet Chinese nothings into the pink and yellow ear of his steady.

Anyway, Ong Lee met his one best gamble with matrimony when he was shouldering a big package of the neatly ironed and washed. He lingered longingly, he admitted with a bashful grin, and the yellow maiden didn't seem disposed to hurry him back to the washtub. He made a funny gutteral sound and the girl made another—a sound something like Willie makes when his mouth is filled with pumpkin pie.

But Ong Lee prospered in his courtship of the pride of the kitchen. He carried the laundry to the back door about every week, and the more he carried the laundry to the house where the yellow maiden worked the more he lost control of his heart. Then he got the American fever, as so many of his fellow cits do, and he planed the weary width of the big blue sea between him and the back part of the house resident of dreary old Hongkong.

Ong Lee stuck around Seattle for a brief bit of a while, and then decided that he would come to a good part of the country. He put his thought into execution, and came to Duluth. He rode all the way, too.

Although he thinks that this is one of the parts of the country where a man should be contented and happy, Ong Lee cannot help seeing the face of the back door girl, and with that longing desire to hold tight in his arms his almond-eyed love, Ong Lee has saved the price to hike back to the land that gives Emperor Wilhelm a start twice every year and take unto himself the girl with a complexion strange to us, but beautiful to the eyes of this particular Oriental.

Ong Lee leaves this afternoon. He will be speeded upon his journey by several of the residents of Duluth's Chinatown. They will wish him all the luck in the world in the happy wedding to the object of his long journey. Ong Lee wants to come back here and make his home with us if there is any way that the matter can be fixed, he will be with us again, with the little resident of the back part of the house as his better part.

UNDERGROUND RIVER.

Scott County, Mo., Citizen: At Bird's Point, opposite Cairo, some months ago an incline used by the Iron Mountain Railroad company sank and went out of sight. The river was dredged to locate the lost incline, but it could not be found, and a government diver—an expert—was sent down to see where the incline had gone and locate the same.

The diver found the bottom of another river which runs under Bird's Point and Cairo and the Mississippi and Ohio rivers at right angles with the two rivers. This river is believed to be as large as the Mississippi river, though with not so swift a current, and the water is of a different color and will not mix with the water of the Mississippi.

LOSES A FINE FISHING ROD

H. H. Turner's Outfit, Worth $25, Stolen Near Colbyville.

H. H Turner of 4511 Dodge street is bemoaning the loss of a fishing rod, reel and line, valued at $25, which were stolen from him near Colbyville yesterday. He has a pretty fair idea of who took the outfit, and the matter is now in the hands of the police.

Mr. Turner had managed to extract six nice trout from the stream, and when the noon hour came he produced a lunch and, seeking a sunny spot, sat down to eat. The pole was left lying on the creek bank, not more than thirty yards distant, with only a small clump of brush intervening.

When the fisherman came to resume the sport, his rod was nowhere to be found. Every trace of it had disappeared. His suspicions rest upon some people seen in the vicinity, and the police have been supplied with a description of them.

SPENT NIGHT ON THE RIVER

Another West Duluthian Has Sad Experience on Sand Bar.

Stranded all night in shallow water up the St. Louis river, C. M. Phillips spent several hours last evening trying to push his launch, "The Hazel P.," out into deeper water. He waded ashore and telephoned early this morning to a friend in West Duluth telling of his predicament.

This afternoon a boat went up the stream for the purpose of pulling "The Hazel P." from the shallow spot. Mr. Phillips left late yesterday afternoon for a trip up the river, but his pleasure jaunt came to a sudden termination when the boat struck.

The water in the river is very low this spring, according to the boat men and the shifting sands have changed the channels, making it necessary for the boatmen to learn by experience where to go in order to avoid the high spots.

Farewell Surprise.

Mrs. L. J. Nordhelm of 7010 Redruth street, who will leave on June 5 for Ritter Root valley, Mont., where she will make her home with her husband, who is superintendent of a large tract of land for the Summerdale Improvement company, was pleasantly surprised by a number of the women of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church and made the recipient of a beautiful cut glass dish.

Those present were: Mesdames N. Olson, Berley, Wollum, C. Nelson, Ellison, A. Anderson, O. J. Jernstad, Strom E. Anderson, N. Nelson, J. Solum, Jacobson, Bonhiersen, Taraldson, Hanson, Hendrickson, Nelson, J. O. Johnson, A. Stevenson, Alice Moen, Meldahl, Berdun, Bjerge, Clemenson, W. Wollum, E. Jensen, Whalen, Olsen, Broseld, Carlson, Miss Pauline Solum and Rev. J. A. Bjerke and Clarke.

HIS NICE CURLS WERE CLIPPED

Ball Player Gets Revenge on Over Zealous Youngster.

Sweet revenge for one member of the Oak Hall baseball aggregation of West Duluth for treatment received at the hands of the Clipper fans immediately following the game played at the East end in Superior yesterday, caused some over-zealous Superior boy's hair to be clipped this morning.

The aftermath of the Clippers-Oak Hall game was anything but a pleasant one for the West Duluthians. It was found necessary to almost run the gauntlet after the game to get to the car, and become targets of mud or anything else that came handy. The throwing was especially indulged in by a number of young boys.

One of the youngsters came a little bit too near one of the Oak Hall men, Theodore Fredell. The lad had long curly hair and appeared to be somewhat of a ringleader in the affair. Fredell removed a large piece of gum from his mouth and at an opportune moment slapped it down and rubbed it in the young fellow's hair.

This morning, the boy had his hair clipped. Manager Jack Gram of the Oak Halls stated today that a return game with the Superiorites would be played in two weeks. The Clippers will get a square deal, if nothing more, he says.

The Oak Halls were defeated by a score of 5 to 4.

Up to the last inning the exciting game stood 5 to 2 in favor of the West Duluthians. But with the aid of a triple steal aided by two passes, the Clippers ran in four men and turned the trick on the Oak Halls.

George Cullen was in especially good form yesterday and threw a fine game for the Oak Halls. He only allowed three hits during the entire game and struck out twelve men. Cadotte, who tossed for the East enders is credited with five strikeouts and allowed eight hits.

New Cement Walks.

Contracts were let today for the construction of a number of new cement walks along the main thoroughfare in West Duluth. Those that have been given on Central avenue are: The Gilley property for fifty feet and on the adjoining Lee property for fifty feet. The contracts were let to Kern & Nickerson.

The Kilton Construction company is also doing considerable cement sidewalk work in West Duluth at the present time in the resident districts, especially on upper Central avenue and on North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

ARBOR DAY IN WEST DULUTH

The Children of the Ely School Plant Many Trees.

Thirty-seven trees were planted around the Ely school this afternoon by the primary grades and the children of the school at their own individual homes planted this year 168 apple trees.

Today was Arbor day at the Ely school and it was observed with the same spirit as if the governor had named it in a state-wide proclamation. When the trees were planted this afternoon the following program was given in the school, the weather outside being too cold to permit of the exercises:

Room 2—"Flower Song."
Room 3—Song, "Robin's Return."
Room 4—Song, "May Song."
Room 5—Recitation—"Which Tree Is Best?"
Room 6—Song "Sunset."
Room 7—Song, Summer Woods."
Room 8—Song, "Woodsman, Spare That Tree."
Room 9—Song, "Now to Own a Heap."
Room 10—Reading, "Famous Trees."

Will Oppose License.

It is understood that opposition will arise at the council tonight at its regular session to the granting of the liquor license to Nicholas Buffer, at the old Tetler stand, 5629 Grand avenue.

Two years ago the license was revoked. Twice before residents in the district have defeated attempts to reopen the place.

THE PECULIAR NATIONAL MEAL.

London Chronicle: It is not only in Scotland that breakfast is the characteristic national meal. Travel where you may, the first meal of the day is the one that strikes the foreign note, luncheon and dinner having gradually absorbed cosmopolitan qualities that are not even confined to hotels. But you never feel so much of an Englishman as when Switzerland gives you rolls and butter and honey, and nothing more, with your coffee; or when France makes this into one exquisite crumbling "croissant," with an inch or two from a yard long loaf, or when Denmark adds cream instead of milk to the coffee and a dangerous piece of pastry to the black bread and round white roll.

Yet our English breakfast became an institution only in the eighteen century. Before that only royalty breakfasted off meat, bread and cheese and ale. The commoner, such as Pepys, took merely a morning draught of buttered ale.

NEARLY KILLED MENELIK.

The report spread last November that King Menelik of Abyssinia had narrowly escaped electrocution, says the New York Sun. Details are now supplied by Dr. Vitalien, a Frenchman, who has been for some time King Menelik's private physician.

The king has always been a hard worker. Certain advertisements printed in foreign newspapers and telling how youth had been restored by means of electricity, attracted his attention at a time when he was suffering from overwork. He told Dr. Vitalien that he wished to take a course of electrotherapy. The doctor dissuaded him.

A Syrian doctor, who possessed some electric apparatus of a primitive order and in a somewhat dilapidated condition, managed during a temporary absence of Dr. Vitalien to persuade King Menelik to try his machinery. The Syrian doctor, who knew very little about how to use electric apparatus, nearly electrocuted the king. Dr. Vitalien was summoned and succeeded in saving his life.

The May Readjusted Price Sale

After this week this May event will have become a thing of the past. It has truly been a great sale—brought us lots of business—made us many new friends—and now for the grand finale—many good chances for safe investments are yet left—but don't wait—come tomorrow.

The Garment Section On the Second Floor

Has made the heaviest selling during the sale—and no wonder, better values were never offered, just at a time when most needed. Note a few of the readjusted prices and remember these are not suits bought for special sale purposes, but taken right out from our regular lines:

$39.50 to $45.00 SUITS FOR	$31.50
$35.00 to $37.50 SUITS FOR	$27.50
$27.50 to $32.50 SUITS FOR	$24.50
$22.50 to $25.00 SUITS FOR	$18.50
$22.50 LONG COVERT COATS FOR	$17.50

Two Bargain Tables

(On the Second Floor.)

Broken and odd lots of Muslin Underwear, Shirtwaists, children's dresses, ladies' wrappers and kimonas, originally priced from 50c to $3 and $4, divided into two lots, at 25c and 50c

Now listen please, these garments are some of them badly mussed and slightly soiled from handling and are not all of this season's newest styles. But they'll all wash and are worth from two to five times what we ask for them. We consider the room they take up better than their company—hence the price.

SAYS THEY MUST TELL

Senator Heyburn Warns Republicans of Another Election Day.

Demands to Know If Lumber Wages Are to Be Cut.

Washington, May 24.—Senator Heyburn resumed his speech on the lumber schedule in the senate today and submitted a large amount of evidence concerning the cost of producing finished lumber and the need of a differential duty.

Senator Heyburn inquired how much it was proposed by the advocates of reduced lumber rates to cut wages of laborers in the lumber camps. He wanted to know whether it was the mills in the West or South that it was proposed to close.

Only a dozen senators were on the floor. "The circulation of the Congressional Record is so limited and the interest of the press on this question so small, that I prefer to speak to those who must vote on this question," the Idaho senator said. He then questioned the presence of a quorum and the roll was called. A quorum responded and Mr. Heyburn repeated his question. The silence which followed was broken by the senator declaring, "if you don't answer these questions here you will answer them when election day comes around and you want to hold up to the people the fruits of the Republican party."

In the meantime so many senators had again left the chamber that a quorum had to be brought in by another roll call.

A clash between Senators Heyburn and Clapp followed the former's assertion that the promised tariff revision was made by the few Republicans at the Chicago convention in the hour of their fright.

Senator Clapp asked if the Idaho senator did not want to withdraw that statement.

"No, I am not afraid of ghosts, wherever I meet them," replied Mr. Heyburn. "The people knew the Republican party could be trusted to do the right thing, although inadvertently a bad promise crept into the platform."

Senator Burkett followed Senator Heyburn by defending a reduction of the lumber rates.

CASHIER GIVEN FIVE-YEAR TERM

Frank Lepisic Convicted of Embezzlement From Prentice Bank.

Phillips, Wis., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Lepisic, former cashier of the Prentice State bank, was found guilty on Saturday of the charge of embezzlement of $5,000 and was sentenced to prison for a term of five years at hard labor. Lepisic is a young married man and had a first-class reputation until this trouble. The cause of his downfall was living too fast a life for his income.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Parish read him a lecture and incidentally gave some pertinent advice to young men who hold responsible positions and handle other people's money to remember that all that belonged to an employe was his salary, and that only on pay day—not before.

ULRICH OFF FOR PHILADELPHIA

Will Meet Two Quaker City Scrappers While There.

Curley Ulrich left last night for Philadelphia where he will mix with some of the Eastern scrappers who think they have the goods.

While in the Quaker City he will meet Young Lockrey and Adam Ryan at the Nonpareil club. Both these men are fast, but Curley thinks he can get away with them.

George Gunther is in that city and he and Curley will train together. Gunther has several fights on, and after they are over, according to a letter received in the city from him, he intends coming back to the Head of the Lakes country in an endeavor to get on again with Walter Whitehead.

Curley intends to be gone about six weeks and will bring Gunther back with him. The black scrapper is sure that if given another opportunity he can get safely away with Whitehead.

Player Will Recover.

Racine, Wis., May 24.—Earl Burwell, a member of the Oshkosh, Wisconsin-Illinoise league team, who yesterday was struck by a thrown ball while running to first base, suffering a concussion of the brain, regained consciousness shortly after 12 o'clock last night. Physicians at the hospital believe he will recover.

Golf Tournament Begins.

Edinburgh, May 24.—Play in the first round of the British Amateur Golf championship tournament, over the Muir field course, opened today in glorious weather. The match between E. A. Lasseen, the holder of the title, and C. A. Palmer, naturally attracted a large gallery, but the principal interest of the day focused on the play of the American champion, Jerome D. Travers of Mount Claire, N. J., who was opposed by W. A. Henderson, one of the hardest match fighters of the Royal and Ancient Golf club.

WOULD INCREASE CARRIERS' PAY

Steenerson Introduces Bill for the Rural Mail Men.

Washington, May 24.—An increase in the rates of pay for rural free delivery mail carriers is provided for in a bill introduced by Representative Steenerson of Minnesota. It provides that after July 1, 1911, letter carriers on the rural delivery upon routes exceeding twenty-four miles in length shall be paid at the rate of $37.50 per mile per annum for the first twenty-four miles and $18.75 per mile per annum for each additional mile of route over twenty-four miles.

ADANA SITUATION MUCH IMPROVED

Hundred and Fifty Moslems and 95 Non-Moslems in Custody.

Mersina, Asiatic Turkey, May 24.—The situation at Adana, the scene of fatal rioting during the recent anti-Christian outbreaks in Asiatic Turkey, shows definite improvement in the last four days. The commission of investigation is busily occupied, but no judgment has been given nor have any punishments been executed. A considerable number of Moslems are in prison, but not men of important positions.

Rev. Herbert Adams Gibbons of Hartford, Conn., a missionary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, has testified before the commission as to the killing of Armenians at government headquarters. No other foreigners have yet been called upon for evidence.

The official records show that 150 Moslems and ninety-five anti-Moslems were taken into custody in connection with the disorders.

ISLAND TARIFF BILL IS PASSED

Goes Through the House After Several Futile Efforts.

Washington, May 24.—The Philippine tariff bill was finally passed by the house today, after several previous efforts had been made to put it through, but which failed because of the lack of a quorum.

Immediately after the house met today Mr. Macon of Arkansas continued his demand for a quorum. The clerk began to read the journal, but was interrupted by the Arkansas member with a statement that so important a state document could not be considered in the absence of a majority.

Speaker Cannon counted 175 members present, twenty-one less than a quorum, whereupon a call of the house was ordered. The sergeant-at-arms was directed to bring in the absentees.

FOUND IMMORAL WOMEN AT HUSBAND'S HOTEL.

In the divorce action of David Christopher, the defendant has filed her answer in which she charges the plaintiff with improper conduct and with keeping immoral women at the Lake Avenue hotel, 228 Lake avenue north.

She states that she has visited the hotel but six times during the past two years, and on one of these visits she found there a girl who has since been compelled to leave by the police. She says any complaints she made to her husband were not heeded.

The affidavit of Matt Kangas, a former bartender at the Christopher saloon was filed. It tends to substantiate the defendant's answer in so far as it alleges that immoral women were accustomed to frequent the hotel and saloon with Christopher's knowledge.

APPLICATION CHARGES HIGH FINANCE METHODS.

Chicago, May 24.—Methods employed by W. S. Quinby of Boston, in an alleged attempt to secure control of the H. W. Dudley Coffee company, a $500,000 corporation of Chicago, savor of "high finance," according to an application for a receivership, filed in the superior court heer today by three stockholders. Misconduct of officers is charged in the bill.

SAILORS HAVE DUTCH LUNCHEON ON HILLTOP.

Natchez, Minn., May 24.—Though today was intensely hot, a battalion of bluejackets from the battleship Mississippi was sent ashore for parade. After the parade the sailors were given a Dutch luncheon on top of a hill overlooking the river. Meamtime the officers were guests of the Elks' club at a similar luncheon. A reception to the officers tonight and a dance will close the vessel's stay here.

PICKED QUARREL WITH STEPSON

Edward Davis Arrested as Result of Visit to Wife's Home.

Edward Davis started a fight Saturday night with his stepson, John Conkley and was fined $15 in municipal court this morning, with fifteen days in jail as an alternative, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness.

Davis married Mrs. Conkley when she was living in the West end, in company with her three daughters and one son, the latter a young man about 22 years of age. The second marriage did not meet with the approval of the children and when the step-father turned out to be a drinking man they said they would leave home unless he was ejected.

The new Mrs. Davis according to the police says that she had made a mistake in the second marriage, and told her husband to leave. Shortly after this she started a boarding house uptown on Third street. Davis stayed away until last Saturday evening, when he visited the place while under the influence of liquor. He hadn't been there long before he encountered the son, and proceeded to pick a quarrel with him. The quarrel ended in a fight and it was necessary to call the police to quiet the disturbance. Davis was taken to the police station.

POLICE LAND A LID LIFTER

Bartender Pleads Guilty to Violation of the Liquor Laws.

Archie Caron, bartender in the saloon of Joe Burns, 2105 West Michigan street, pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to the charge of keeping the saloon open on Sunday, and was fined $100 and costs. The costs amounted to about $2.50.

Caron was in court once before on a similar charge. The police had a very clear case against him this time, it is said. It has been suspected for the last two or three weeks that the liquor laws were being violated at the Barns place.

THE BABY CONTEST.

Three Photographers Are Kept Busy Taking the Pictures.

The extra prizes of silver baby spoons which were offered by the Borden company for the babies, who had their pictures taken first Saturday morning were won by Baby Lawson of 118 Twentieth avenue east and Baby Murphy of 42 Grand avenue west.

Through a mistake in Saturday evening's edition of The Herald the names and numbers of the babies whose pictures were reproduced were wrongly printed. This was simply a mistake in makeup and will have no effect in the judging of the pictures as each picture is carefully marked with the right name and there will be no possible mistake in the judging.

Each mail brings more pictures for the contest and the three photographers who have been engaged to take the pictures free for this contest, are being kept busy.

GREEK WHO KILLED POLICEMAN IS TRIED.

Omaha, Neb., May 24.—John Masouredis charged with the murder of Policeman Edward Lowery at South Chicago was brought to trial before Judge Sutton in the district court here today. The killing of Lowery caused the riots in South Omaha last February during which much property was destroyed several persons were wounded and all the Greek residents of the town driven away. Masouredis was threatened with lynching at the time.

Lowery had arrested Masouredis on a vagrancy charge. While being taken to the station the Greek drew a revolver and a duel followed in which the officer was killed.

SHEBOUTH TO BE OBSERVED

The Jewish "Feast of Weeks" Will Begin Tuesday.

The Jewish Shebouth, known as the "feast of weeks," will begin tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock and will be observed by all the Jews in the city.

The feast signifies a holiday, and is in celebration of the giving of the Ten Commandments. It will be generally observed all over the United States.

A feature of the observance in Duluth will be a sermon by Rabbi Lefkovits, who will speak on "The Three Fundamentals of Judaism."

FOUR LIVES REPORTED LOST, DUE TO WASHOUTS.

Fort Worth, Tex., May 24.—All Rock Island trains arriving today were delayed on account of the serious washouts in Oklahoma. Railroad officials here report all Oklahoma rivers bank full and rising rapidly. Hail accompanied the storm, beating the crops into the ground. The business sections of Sapulpa, Tulsa, Ada, Muskogee and other towns are flooded. Four persons are reported drowned at Foraker.

Paris, May 24. — Francois Emil Michel, the French artist and artic critic, died in this city today. He was born in 1828.

G. A. R. PLANTS A MEMORIAL ELM

Richmond Booker Buried With Military Honors.

The Willis A. Gorman post of the G. A. R. Saturday afternoon planted a memorial elm at Forest Hill cemetery, in honor of Richmond L. Booker, whose remains were Saturday removed from the vault and placed in a grave. The planting of a tree was a part of the funeral services, which were in charge of the G. A. R. men.

Mr. Booker died April 23, and at the time of his death was the oldest veteran of the Civil war in Duluth. The old veteran was laid to rest Saturday with military honors. The firing squad and bugler were furnished by the local Sons of Veterans.

After the ceremonies the old soldiers marched to the Soldiers' lot and planted the memorial tree, presented by Comrade Henry Cleveland. The veterans formed in a circle, and each one of them placed a shovelful of earth around the roots of the tree.

COL. LOUNSBERRY TO COMPLETE HISTORY.

Fargo, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The popular history of North Dakota, started some years ago by Col. C. A. Lounsberry, is to be completed next year. The colonel has spent several days in Fargo and is now en route to Washington to resume his duties in the department of the interior. He will resign that position in April and return to this state. He was the pioneer editor of the state and is exceptionally well qualified for the task. Practically all the data has been collected.

Notice to Tax Payers

The time allowed by law for the payment of the first half of the 1908 taxes without penalty, will expire on May 31st. But as May 31st this year falls on a legal holiday, taxes will be received as late as Tuesday, June 1st, without penalty.

W. A. HOLGATE, County Treasurer.

RAINY RIVER FARMER IS SHOT IN LEG BY OFFICER.

Cloquet, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire of unknown origin yesterday forenoon destroyed the greater part of the planing mill of the Cloquet Lumber company. The engine room and boiler were not damaged, and a few of the machines in the east end of the building escaped the flames, but the rest of the building was totally destroyed. The yard was saved only through the hardest work on the part of the firemen and mill hands, who turned out in great force to overcome the fierceness of the fire, which threatened to clean out the entire yard south of the railroad tracks. A strong wind from the northeast was blowing, rendering the danger very great.

Work on repairing will begin at once, and in all probability it will be found possible to operate the machines not damaged by the fire. The total loss, as near as can be estimated, is in the neighborhood of $75,000, fully covered by insurance.

Red Lake County Teachers.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the rural teachers of Red Lake county was addressed by Dr. F. H. Ganabol of Thief River Falls, Dr. Tupper and Prof. A. S. Kingsford of the Moorhead normal school. Miss Irene Caldwell of Thief River Falls was elected president of the teachers' association of Red Lake county, and Miss Berg was chosen secretary.

MINE ACTIVITY IS NOW RENEWED

Chinese Colliery Work Was Suspended, Due to Royalties.

Amoy, China, May 24.—Active development of the Awtow Iron mines, fifty miles northwest of Tsuan Tsiu has been renewed. For the last ten months work was suspended by exorbitant royalties of 30 to 50 per cent being demanded by the government, and because of a Japanese protest against the employment of other than Japanese engineers. Both difficulties have been removed. British or American engineers are to be employed and the payment of royalties have been suspended. According to an English expert the magnetic iron ore at these mines is 90 per cent pure and is sufficient to supply the world for four centuries. The Awtow district is rich in coal and limestone and is only fifty miles from tidewater.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The annual meeting of the Women's Relief Corps of Minnesota will be held June 10 and 11 at St. Paul and the local members are much interested in the affair, inasmuch as Mrs. John Williams of this city has been named as one of the candidates for the state presidency. The other candidates who are prominently mentioned are Mrs. Lucie Lewis of Minneapolis, who is well known in patriotic circles, and Mrs. Mary Wilson of Staples.

The meetings will be held at the Central Methodist church and the headquarters of the convention will be at the Willard hotel.

The local delegates to the meeting will be Mesdames N. Mellen, Charlotte Clarke, Delmia Burnet, Amanda Mellin and Mary Bates, with Mesdames Esther Butchart, Jennie Hamblin, Jessie Vollmer and Lena Culbertson and Miss Helen Call as alternates. Mrs. Williams, who is the state senior vice president, will also attend the meeting.

The department officers, assisted by the past department presidents, will give a reception on the evening of June 9 in the new capitol in honor of the department commander of the G. A. R. and the members of his staff.

The seventeenth annual meeting of the Ladies of the G. A. R. will also be held June 10 and 11 at St. Paul. Headquarters will be at the Merchants hotel and the meetings will be held in Odd Fellows' hall. It is expected that the national president, Mrs. Genevieve Longfield Lane, will attend the meeting. The local delegates from Garfield Circle of this city will be Mrs. May Dennis, Mrs. J. F. Davey, Miss Maude Wallace, Miss Susan Irvine, Mrs. Cooley and Mrs. W. E. Pike. A number of the past department officers will also attend the meeting.

A reception will be given the evening of June 9 in the parlors of the Merchants hotel for the members of the G. A. R. and the allied orders and the arrangements will be made by Ellsworth Circle No. 6 of St. Paul. Mary A. Livermore of Circle No. 1 of Anoka, will exemplify the ritual work during the convention.

UNSUPPORTED ART

In Duluth Again Disappoints Musicians.

"Duluth must be a small town," said Skovgaard, the Danish violinist, last evening during the concert which he presented at Fhaten's auditorium before the usual Duluth concert audience. He was judging as one must from personal experience and the small audience assembled for the concert.

"I have played in a village of sixteen houses, expecting in the evening to meet a few souls in sympathy, and been surprised by an audience of more than 250," said the musician.

Skovgaard has distinguished company in his chagrin at the audience that Duluth presents. De Pachmann, Heking, Schilling, Marie Hall and almost every musician who has been brought to Duluth is accorded the same treatment. So, if it be any consolation to the outraged gentleman to know, he and his fellow sufferers from local musical indifference, make a distinguished company.

It is the old story, carrying with it as much bitterness and chagrin each time to the enthusiastic souls who do their best to bring music to Duluth. Much sympathy may be felt and extended but the lack of musical support in the city is proverbial and his condition must be met. If people choose to spend their money for musical comedy they will do it so long as the present Constitution of the United States lasts, and no law says what shall constitute happiness for them, and the only hope of a real musical taste lies in the education of the rising generation.

Skovgaard played a Grieg sonata, a Mendelssohn concerto, a Vieuxtemps "Ballade et Polonaise" and group of three Boroglesi, Haydn and Bach numbers, and concluded with brilliant and fiery Paganini "Caprice de Bravoura." After recovering from the chill of the disappointing audience, the violinist played brilliantly. He was supported by Miss Alice Medling, pianist and Miss Marie R. Hovey, soprano.

PEACE VIEWS

Of Women Are Forcibly Presented at Meeting.

Not so brilliant, perhaps, in point of foreign attendants, as the meeting held in New York under the patronage of Andrew Carnegie two years ago, the second National Peace congress, which closed in Chicago Wednesday evening, May 5, was, nevertheless, notable in many respects, and chiefly in the practical work for peace projected by women, says the Women's National Daily.

Statesmen, educators, philosophers and philanthropists, with a fair representation of ambassadors from foreign courts, contributed to a program that covered every phase of the peace problem, ethical and economic. Stupendous figures relative to the cost of war, and the futility of armament as promotive of world peace, were promulgated. The arguments advanced, and the women discussed these commercial aspects of the question as familiarly as they would discuss the cut of a new gown. In fact, the feminine simile was in evidence in the statement of one speaker: "I do not ask my dressmaker," she said, "whether or not I want a new gown. I decide the question myself and then consult the dressmaker if her services are needed. On the same principle, it is folly to ask a military man whether or not we need a larger navy. He is not a statesman, nor a logician; he is a fighter. Of course he wants a larger navy."

The views of women on the question of world peace were presented most fully in that section of the program under their direction. Representatives of organizations that have an aggregate membership of more than 1,000,000 women brought greetings and expressed the sentiments of their societies concerning the peace movement. The General Federation of Women's Clubs had the largest representation, and it was stated by Mrs. Philip N. Moore of St. Louis, the president, that the peace question would have a place on the program of the next biennial convention, to be held in Cincinnati in 1910. The National Council of Jewish Women, the Congress of Mothers, the Ladies of the Maccabees and the Women's Christian Temperance Union were represented, the last named being the only woman's society that has a regularly equipped peace department in both national and international unions.

The woman's point of view on the question of war or peace is not that more often exploited in pulpit and press, despite the fact that none are so vitally interested as "the mothers of men." The relation between war and industrial life for women, between war and the decreasing birth rate in France and Germany, was pointed out with unerring accuracy by such speakers as Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of Boston, a director of the American Peace society and the moving spirit in this congress; Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, whose name is synonymous with movements for world betterment; Miss Mary McDowell of the University of Chicago settlement, whose influence is said to have been the determining factor in the settlement of the great stockyards strike; and Mrs. Ellen M. Henroth of the Chicago Woman's club, who presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Henrotin called attention to the fact that few references are made to woman's part in the Civil war. "Visit our national cemeteries," she said, "and see what war meant to the women of that day. The best men were taken, and their loss not only cost the nation a decadence in art, poetry and other productions of the men of ideas, but it forced women into industrial life as bread winners. The women of France and Germany, knowing that their sons are doomed to conscription, refuse to endure the pangs of childbirth as an offering to the god of war. The more intelligent women become the more intolerant they will be of the idea of rearing sons for the cannon's mouth. American women will gladly give their sons for the uplift of humanity, but not for the carnage of war."

The decadence of the Latin nations was cited as a result of war. The best men are picked for military service; the weaklings remain at home to become the parents of the succeeding generation.

Household Helps.

The housewife who learns the art of making sandwiches is always well fortified against problems when serving an informal luncheon to guests. Close-grained bread should be used for coarse bread will crumble. And bread baked in round tins is preferable to that cut into slices and cut with a biscuit cutter, since the baked edges preserve the shape. Very moist fillings should be laid between lettuce leaves, and by buttering the bread the moisture cannot penetrate it, making it soggy. Melted butter can be used, if it is not soft enough to spread. A salmon sandwich is a tempting article of food and should be half mixed with a chopped boiled egg and very thin slices of olives and pickles. The wise hostess will make two different kinds of sandwiches, some with the mixture moistened with vinegar or lemon juice, others without, for many persons cannot eat acids. Practically all meat sandwiches are extremely rich and strong condiments are noticeable in the filling, especially mustard and catsup. While white meat makes a delicate sandwich, yet the darker meats, mixed with mayonnaise and other relishes, are more appetizing in every way. When hot sandwiches are served at a noonday luncheon at home, the contents of the sandwiches are placed between the layers of bread and fried, or the bread is toasted and covered with cooked meat filling, then covered with buttered toast and served hot. Peanuts mixed with mayonnaise and sliced egg make a good sandwich. They make a fruit sandwich which is well liked by those who are very fond of fruit and bread. The filling consists of chopped dates, figs, lemon juice and ground nuts, lightly mixed with tart jelly. The bread is buttered for this. Candied fruits are often used, but often the sandwich is a bread-cake, more of the angel food variety, filled with fruits and moistened with cherry juice or the liquor from preserved pineapple or peaches.

Tact.

Tact is the elderdown that cushions against life's hard knocks.

Where it is lacking there is endless friction and general misery.

It may also be "achieved." But here the likeness between tact and "greatness" ceases—the former is never "thrust upon" anybody.

There is no use denying that the road to "achievement" is a hard one to climb, but it certainly is worth the while of every woman to climb it.

THE EVENING STORY

ON THE BACK PORCH

By Rozelle P. Handy.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

The Marlborough and the Richmond apartment buildings stood side by side with a narrow space between. The windows of the flats in one were directly opposite the windows of the flats in the other and the people in each building often overheard what was going on in the other. In the third flat in the Marlborough lived Dorothy Malvern with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jenks. Dorothy was an excessively proper young woman who was so afraid that her opposite neighbors would see and hear what was going on in her aunt's flat that she kept all the side shades drawn most of the time and encouraged the family to talk in whispers. Fortunately, the shades were a pale yellow, and a good deal of light came through them, and Mr. and Mrs. Jenks were naturally quiet. Otherwise, life might have been a burden to them and Dorothy.

Their opposite neighbors were not so particular. These were two young bachelors who laughed and joked and sang with supreme disregard of a possible audience. They left up their window shades, even when the gas was burning at full tilt, and Dorothy might have seen many a midnight card party or stag supper, but she never peeped from behind her own blinds. Yet the two young men fancied that they had a fair neighbor, for Dorothy sang like an angel. Fred Pritchard and Stanley Green enjoyed the frequent songs and often speculated about the singer.

"She must be the tall young girl, with golden hair and dark brown eyes," said Fred one day.

"Flat No. 1 next door is vacant; flat No. 2 is occupied by that young married couple with the baby that squalls all night; flat No. 3 by the fair unknown and her people, and flat No. 4 by an old maid and her parrot. 'Ha ha; how droll, ha ha, how droll. Pretty poll, pretty poll'—the creature is always shrieking when I want to sleep. You see, Green, there is no young lady in the building except the singer. I have seen 'golden hair' come and go frequently—sometimes with an elderly lady or an old gentleman, sometimes with both of them, often alone. She must live in flat No. 3, and the old people must be her father and mother."

Fred's curiosity carried him so far as to take him up the steps of the Marlborough and into the vestibule, where he inspected the card under the bell belonging to flat 3.

"Jenks," he read. "I don't think much of that name. She doesn't look like a girl who would be named Jenks."

Oddly enough there was already but one "she" in the world for Fred. He was in love with Dorothy's voice and with her hair and eyes.

"By jove," he exclaimed to himself, "if they should belong to two different people it would be cruel. I don't know which is most bewitching."

Fred and Stanley lived in the Richmond from October to the end of the following May before Fred had a chance of becoming acquainted with the object of his admiration. The weather then was as warm as June, Fred was alone one evening, for Stanley was out of town. He sought the back porch of their flat with his after dinner cigar. He started as he came out of the door. On the adjoining porch was a little rocking chair and in the chair sat the girl with the golden hair and the brown eyes. Her back was turned to the Richmond porches and she did not see the newcomer. Her lap was full of sewing things and she was hemstitching dainty ruffles. Fred tip-toed softly back into the kitchen and brought out a chair and sat down, throwing away his cigar. Presently Dorothy began to sing. Fred was delighted. Here was proof positive that the golden hair, brown eyes, and exquisite voice were united in the same person. He longed for an opportunity to address the beautiful girl, although it would have seemed almost sacrilligious to him to have interrupted the song. A sudden puff of wind was more irreverent catching a fluffy bit of mull, the breeze blew it out of Dorothy's lap, over the porch railing and down into the back yard.

"Pardon me," said a manly voice from the other side of the division railing. "I'll get it for you, if I may."

Dorothy turned, gathered up her sewing materials in her little white apron as she did so.

"O, thank you, it isn't worth while. I can't think of troubling you," and she arose from her seat.

"No trouble at all," said Fred, as he disappeared through his back doorway. In a few minutes Dorothy saw him in the Marlborough yard picking up the ruffle. He glanced up at the porch with a bright smile and raised his hat. Soon the ruffle was in its owner's hands and Fred was on Dorothy's porch. Hearing voices Mrs. Jenks came to the kitchen door and looked inquiringly around.

"Auntie," said Dorothy, "this is Mr. —." She paused with a charming blush as it occurred to her that she had begun to introduce one whose name she did not know.

"Pritchard," supplied Fred, quickly.

Mrs. Jenks did not grasp the situation, but to Fred's joy she did not attempt to do so at that time.

"Good evening, Mr. Pritchard," she murmured. "Dorothy, it is too cool for you out here. You and Mr. Pritchard had better come inside."

Fred could not resist the unexpected invitation. He followed the ladies through their back door. Mrs. Jenks was a notable housewife and her kitchen was as immaculate as her drawing room, so she did not flinch as she conducted the guest across it and down the entire length of the narrow hall to the front of her pretty little flat. The drawing room reached, she and Dorothy and Mr. Pritchard were soon engaged in pleasant conversation. Fred stayed as long as he dared. Mrs. Jenks who had found him remarkably entertaining asked him to call again.

"Why, auntie," exclaimed Dorothy, as soon as he was gone, "Do you know that Mr. Pritchard is an entire stranger to me?"

"What on earth were you chatting together on the back porch for, then?" inquired the aunt. "To be sure I don't see how he got there," she added reflectively.

"You funny auntie," said Dorothy, "you acted as though his being there were a matter of course. Did I ever take a young man out to the back porch—even Mr. Foster?"

"Well, how did he get there?" asked Mrs. Jenks. "I didn't show surprise when I saw him; of course not. It is never well bred to show surprise."

Dorothy laughed and related her little adventure.

Each day during the ensuing week Fred asked himself if he might call on his new acquaintances and prudence answered no. Twice he met Miss Malvern on the street near her doorsteps and received a smile and a bow each time, but he saw nothing more of her during his period of waiting. Exactly one week after the affair of the ruffle he presented himself at the Jenks' front door. Mrs. Jenks and Miss Malvern were not at home. Fred waited three long days before calling again. Happily, the ladies were receiving. The evening passed pleasantly. Fred dared to ask for a song and Miss Malvern graciously granted his request. Mrs. Jenks skilfully drew out the young man and discovered that he was a lawyer and the nephew of one of the leading business men of the city. She did not hesitate to invite him to come again. Fred joyfully availed himself of the invitation. Before long he was a regular visitor at the house. He became a great favorite of Mr. and Mrs. Jenks, and he knew it. Of Dorothy he was not sure. One evening, when he and she were alone in the drawing room, he found courage to tell her how long he had worshiped her from afar and to ask her to be his wife.

"Oh, Mr. Pritchard!" cried the girl in genuine consternation, "I am so sorry—I never dreamed of this. I have been engaged for nearly a year to Mr. Foster, whom I have known from childhood."

"I have never seen him," stammered Fred awkwardly.

"No," answered Dorothy. "He went to St. Paul last December. He is a railroad man and he is ordered about like an army officer or a Methodist minister. We shall probably live in St. Paul. We are to be married in September."

Fred sorrowfully took his leave.

He did not die of a broken heart, but it was six years before he married. His bride was neither young nor pretty nor could she sing. She was a widow with two children. But she had $500,000.

FORGET THE RULES.

Many Children Do Not Comply With Regulations in Picture Contest.

If every boy or girl who enters the Borden prize money contest would read the conditions carefully there would perhaps be few disappointed ones. Many are still sending in their letters or the pictures of cows which they drew, without the label or the coupon.

The conditions are going to be told again. Read them carefully. For the young people between 12 and 21 years there is the letter contest. Write a letter about Borden's Peerless Evaporated milk, send it with a label from the can and coupon cut from The Herald, to the Contest editor. Just the same conditions apply to the picture contest, only instead of writing a letter, draw a picture of a cow.

The prize winners Saturday were Miss Ida Olson of 2309 West Seventh street, who won the first letter prize of $3 and the second prize went to Joseph Drew of 419 East Fourth street.

Alexander Koefod of 422 Twenty-seventh avenue west drew the best cow and will receive a prize of $2 and Annie Pelletier of Bovey, Minn., won the second prize of $1.

Children on the range and even away over in Michigan are getting into the contest.

DIFFERENTIAL DUTY IS URGED

Senator Root Pleads for Protection Tariff for Lumber.

Washington, May 24.—An extended plea for a differential duty on dressed lumber was made in the senate today in connection with the consideration of the tariff bill by Senator Root, who cited the various lumber interests along the Canadian border, and gave reasons why they should be accorded a protective tariff.

"Canada," he said, "offers to every planing mill which will move across the border a remission of taxes for from fifteen to twenty-five years. So that duty which we are imposing, if we adopt the committee report on dressed lumber, merely balances the tax that is imposed upon the property of our mills for the support of our state and municipal governments.

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT AFTER TRAIN ROBBERS.

Washington, May 24.—Stirred as it has not been over a train holdup in years, the officials of the postoffice department have taken prompt and vigorous steps to capture the robbers and secure the booty taken from the Overland Limited at Omaha Saturday night. The office of Chief Inspector McMillan of the postoffice department is today one of unusual activity over the daring robbersy, and the greatest interest is being manifested in the case. A force of postal inspectors, picked for their bravery are on the scene working in co-operation with the Union Pacific inspectors and authorities.

This force will be increased by tomorrow by several men, in whom the chief inspector has every confidence.

Railroad Unions Invited To Send Delegates To Labor Convention.

The State Federation of Labor is working earnestly for a closer relationship between the unions which compromise the federation and the various unions of railroad employes.

The federation has issued invitations to the railroad unions, asking them to send fraternal delegates to the state labor convention at Red Wing next month. The cooperation of the railroad unions in forming a joint legislative committee to secure the enactment of laws beneficial to working men, is especially sought.

Following is the invitation sent to the railroad organizations:

"Inclosed you will find a copy of the call for the annual convention of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor.

"During the last session of the legislature, the labor organizations of Minnesota met with some severe reverses because of the lack of unity among all trade unions. We think the representatives of the railroad organizations in Minnesota, who served on legislative committees at the state capitol will testify that the officers of the State Federation of Labor did all within their power to secure the enactment of laws of benefit to railroad employes.

"It has been suggested that a joint legislative committee ought to be organized in Minnesota, and pursuant to such suggestion, you are cordially invited to send a fraternal delegate to the convention of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor. No fee will be charged for admittance on the floor of the convention, and every fraternal delegate will be given the right to the floor just the same as any other delegate, with the right to vote limited only to such questions as affect us all.

"We sincerely trust that your lodge will send a delegate or delegates, to the end that steps may be taken to inaugurate a campaign for two years hence so that all labor will meet with better success in the state legislature."

FREE CONCERT BY YOUNG PEOPLE

Zenith Juvenile Orchestra Gives Delightful Program at Temple.

The special program rendered by the Zenith juvenile orchestra was attentively listened to by an audience which filled all the permanent seats in the auditoroum of the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon and was much appreciated. The players, numbering eighteen, were arranged on the stage, and the curtain went up on a pretty sight of the anxious, slightly nervous, but earnest musicians, surrounded by a beautiful woods scene, but at the top of Miss Abbott's baton they braced up like veterans and gave the "Alice Serenade," by Root, with taste and precision. The shadings were marked and the time good. The orchestra might be strengthened in the violins with advantage. The orchestra numbers were the best received, the "Gypsy March," by Bequin, having a snap and go which would do credit to many an older organization. The program follows:

"Alice Serenade" ..... Root
Orchestra.
Violin solo—"Gavotte, Opus 62" .....
..... Henkel
Maurice Lavick.
"Battle Hymn of the Republic" .....
Alice Pee and Orchestra.
Violin solo—Adoration .....Borowski
Otto Olsen.
Drum solo—"National Airs" ..Spindler
Frank Spindler.
Piano duet—"Hungarian Dance" .....
..... Brahms
Alice Olsen and Alice Pee.
Violin duet—"Barcarolle" .....Noodt
Otto Olsen and Herman Bergstrom.
Piano solo—"Troldhangen" .....Greig
Alice Olsen.
"Gypsy March" ..... Bequin
Orchestra.

At the close the manager of the free concerts thanked Miss Arbett and the organization on behalf of the Scottish Rite Masons and invited all to be their guests in the Brahs matinee of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

A selected program of organ music was given after the regular concert, which included Auber's overture to "Masaniello," "Intermezzo" by St. Clair, selections from Strauss' operas, Massenets "Angelus" a gem on the organ and several other pieces. These Sunday afternoon organ rehearsals take the place of the regular concerts. They are delightfully informal, open to any person, and the newest music as well as the standard is rendered for an hour, beginning at 3:30 p. m.

Those composing the juvenile orchestra are: First violins Otto Olsen, Maurice Lavick Herman Bergstrom, Margaret Sands, Frank Spindler, second violins Ida Anderson, Beatrice Webster, Clifford Kohagen, Edwin Skinner, Arthur Fleming, second mandolin, Harold Heim, violoncello Erma Rakowsky, contrabs, Charles Whiteside, Edward Copeland, cornets, Walter Black, alto, Constantin Norman Sjoberg, drums, Wilfred Spindler has instruments including the bass drum, snare drum, cymbals and triangle; piano Alice Olsen Alice Pee.

The schools represented in the orchestra are: High school, 3; Washington, 2; Endion, 1; Nettleton, 1; Franklin, 12.

THINK HARD.

It Pays to Think About Food.

The unthinking life some people lead often causes trouble and sickness. Illustrated in the experience of a lady in Fond du Lac Wis.

"About four years ago I suffered dreadfully from indigestion, always having eaten whatever I liked, not thinking of the digestible qualities. This indigestion caused palpitation of the heart so badly I could not walk up a flight of stairs without sitting down once or twice to regain breath and strength.

"I became alarmed and tried dieting, wore no clothes very loose, and many other remedies, but found no relief.

"Hearing of the virtues of Grape-Nuts and Postum I commenced using them in place of my usual breakfast of coffee, cakes or hot biscuit, and in one week's time I was relieved of sour stomach and other ills attending indigestion. In a month's time my heart was performing its functions naturally and I could climb stairs and hills and walk long distances.

"I gained ten pounds in this short time, and my skin became clear and I completely regained my health and strength. I continue to use Grape-Nuts and Postum, for I feel that I owe my good health entirely to their use. There's a reason."

"I like the delicious flavor of Grape-Nuts and by making Postum according to directions it tastes similar to mild high-grade coffee."

THE SACREDNESS OF PERSONALITY

Rights of Children Should Be Observed, Says Pastor.

"The most sacred thing to each man is his own inner self, his personality, his soul," said Rev. George R. Gebauer, at the First Unitarian church, corner First street and Eighth avenue east, yesterday. "In this personality are summed up all his mental and moral and spiritual possibilities. This soul gives him his peculiar attitude toward the world and position in the world. This personal self sets him apart by himself as an individual. And it is this realization the soul has of itself which makes it jealous of its rights; it recognizes itself supreme in its own sphere of thought and action, and represents all intrusion into this sacred precinct. Before the entrance of personality there stands a sign with the inscription, 'Forbidden grounds, stay outside except you are invited to enter.'

"That realization of sacred individuality utters itself already in the infant though it be unconscious of it. A thorough bred baby, which is not treated with the respect due to an infant personality will rebel against the pricks of indignity, and kick and scream vigorously where its baby honor has been tampered with. It appears to say 'If only I could talk, I would show you your brutality. Even if I be but an infant, I am a soul, an individuality which demands respect.' In older children this recognition of their own sacredness and their rights as individuals is often freely expressed, and the trespasses of the older ones cause many bitter tears and provoke deep indignation and wrath in the young breast. Children do not want to be treated like little pets they want to be recognized as the offspring of the Godhead. The soul always feels itself of age, always able to act for itself, and only desires light. On the whole, it may be said that grown people often grievously sin in this regard. They fail to see the reasonableness of the protest of the child.

"Young ones have no rights except those granted to them by their elders, so many people believe. Only too often children, as to their rights, are classed with the maltese cat and the fox terrier. The apostle to the Gentiles, though reputed a bachelor, who is supposed to know but little about child training said a wise word: 'Fathers provoke not your children to wrath. We parents are used to think only of ourselves as 'provoked to wrath' by our children, but here we see the thing reversed, and we must admit that there is a great deal of truth in it. Even the best of parents are at times thoughtless and will do things that deeply hurt the little souls given in their care. They often fail to consider the natural rights of their children in their decisions, and then they wonder why these little souls flash up in anger and indignation. Should the child not find as much consideration from the parent as the parent expects from the child? Oh, if only we would think of our own childhood, and remember how we were hurt in our deepest self by the thoughtlessness of our elders. It is this disregard of the personality of the child which in return calls forth disrespect for the rights of others as long as these rights are not properly guarded. I think the best way to teach children proper respect for elders is to meet their own inalienable rights with proper regard."

Training Colts to the Harness.

"Breaking the colt," as the performance is usually carried on, is little better than a relic of barbarism. The well-bred, properly trained colt is never "broken." It never needs breaking. Its education should begin when it is able to stand on its feet. Let the trainer's hand be the most alluring thing in the range of his knowledge. Rub its head, stroke its ears and gently massage its little body. After a few days it will press against the hand that caresses it and seem to ask for more attention. Everybody should have a case of golden grain belt beer in their cellar. It is unsurpassed as a summer beverage. STEEL BUSINESS IS INCREASING

New York, May 24.—The steady increase in operations at steel works is reflected in the larger buying of steel making and steel scrap, as well as in larger output of coke ovens and the heavier shipment of fuel to blast furnaces. Contracts calling for about 40,000 tons of heavy steel melting scrap as well as 40,000 tons of basic pig iron, were placed by Eastern Pennsylvania steel works last week.

Fewer large contracts for foundry iron have been developed, but numerous small orders, aggregating more than 50,000 tons, have been placed in the territory east of the Allegheny mountains, and the tone of the market is slightly firmer, although higher prices have been realized only on small lots.

Interest in finished steel products has continued to be centered mainly in wire, nails and fabricated steel. Contracts for wire products have been recorded during May. American steel and wire trading contracts for 250,000 tons during the first two weeks, and one single day reached 36,000 tons. Since the advance of $2 per ton, effective last Monday, contracts have been less excessive, but still abnormally heavy. Another advance in prices is announced for the first of the month. A host of small contracts for fabricated steel for buildings and bridges has come out, resulting in adding about 50,000 tons to the order for May, and the prospects are that 45,000 tons additional will be placed this week. Tenders have been made on 120,000 tons by the three divisions of the American Bridge company, but only half of this is expected to develop into actual business.

More orders for cars, locomotives, lake and coastwise vessels are developing, which will call for a large tonnage of plates and shapes, about 60,000 tons, in the near future. The Gould lines have ordered 100 locomotives and the Chicago & Northwestern seventy from the American Locomotive company.

DEAL FAIRLY, PLEASE.

Nobody can criticise those advocates of the tonnage tax who approach the inquiry honestly and with a fair determination to know the right of it and to decide upon and stand for that which they believe to be true, even though they may be mistaken in their judgments. There is no fault to be found with such agitators as these, because sooner or later, in their honest search for the truth, they will find it.

But there is reason to criticise, and to criticise severely, those who approach the subject with preconceived opinions, who distort all the facts to fit those opinions, and who, when the facts won't stretch, deliberately manufacture alleged facts that will fit. Hardly less open to criticism are those who borrow these distorted or manufactured facts and pass them on as argument without properly weighing or investigating them.

If all those advocates of the tonnage tax who follow one or both of these lines of argument were eliminated, there wouldn't be much of anything left of the agitation for that iniquitous measures, some extent of the iniquity of which those who have been hit by the bushel tax on wheat have lately come to see.

As an instance, there comes to our notice a quotation from the Canby News, a country newspaper which favors a tonnage tax on iron ore but not a bushel tax on grain, that includes the following suggestion: "If Governor Johnson had signed the tonnage tax bill we might have got that billion-dollar steel mill promised long ago, as we understand that no tax would be collected on ore manufactured into iron and steel within the state."

As a matter of fact, of course, the situation is just the other way. From the nature of mining operations on the Minnesota ranges, there is strong reason to believe that the tonnage tax could not apply to that portion of the ore which is shipped out of the state to be manufactured into steel in other states. A state cannot levy a tax upon interstate commerce, and many lawyers believe that ore which is scooped out of the ground and dropped by the same motion into a car headed for another state is a subject of interstate commerce, and therefore not a subject of state taxation. Ore shipped from the mines to Duluth for manufacture here, however, would clearly not be a subject of interstate commerce, and therefore this argument could not apply to it. The obvious effect of this would be that ore shipped out to be manufactured in other states and to give employment to labor in those states could not be taxed, but that ore kept in the state to give employment here to laborers who with their families would create a new market for the farm products of Minnesota, could and would be taxed. That would be putting a premium upon the exportation of the ore, and applying a prohibitive discrimination against local manufactures.

So the Canby News, evidently, is advocating a tonnage tax upon a ground that is entirely mistaken. The same thing is true of all other advocates of the tonnage tax. The big steel plant is coming, but it certainly cannot be helped along by legislatton which discriminates against this state and in favor of other states.

CLEANING DAYS NOT OVER.

The official period set apart by Mayor Haven for the spring clean-up in Duluth ended Saturday night, and there is evidence on every hand that much good work was done during the three days.

Unfortunately, there is also evidence on every hand that the work was by no means finished. The spring cleaning period should not be over until every bit of cleaning necessary has been done. And in view of the fact that dirt and debris are not things of periodical occurrence, materializing only in the spring, but are perennial factors in city life, it seems timely to remark that in a city full of publicsspirited people who take pride in their homes and their community, every day is cleaning day so long as there is any cleaning to be done.

DEMOCRATS AND THE TARIFF.

It is very evident that members of the Republican organization who realize that the party's betrayal of the people in the pending tariff legislation is likely to arise to plague the candidates in the next congressional and presidential elections, would like very much to make the Democratic party share the ignominy because certain Democratic senators have helped make it possible for Aldrich to carry out his plans.

Those Democratic senators whose action has made this attempt possible have done their party as ill a turn as the Republican organization in congress has done the Republican party. There can't be any question about that. Yet the situation is vastly different. It is the Republican party which has absolute control of both branches of congress. It is the Republican party which has the power, by virtue of its congressional majority, to frame such a tariff bill as it desires; and it is the Republican party that must be held responsible for whatever is done.

That there are Democratic senators who are as faithful servants of special privilege as any Republicans in the Aldrich camp is true; but there is nothing new about that. They have been there some time, most of them, and this isn't the first time they have done the bidding of Aldrich. The truth of it is that though it is the agents of special privilege who most decry non-partisanship and independence in politics, it is these same agents of special privilege who are most non-partisan in their motives and actions. They care nothing for any party except insofar as it can be made to serve their purposes. They are as willing to get special privileges to plunder the people from Democrats as they are to get them from Republicans. They contribute to both campaign funds, and they use lawmakers wherever they are useful, no matter what their party labels may be. There are Aldriches and Hales and Lodges in the Democratic party, just as there are Dollivers and Beveridges and Cumminses in the Democratic party.

Had the Democratic party been in control of the government as long as the Republican party has been, doubtless its organization would now be as corrupt and as recreant to its duty to the people as the Republican organization is. The powers of plutocracy have found Democratic senators and congressmen useful at times, and they have had no scruples in using them, as they are using them now in the making of the Aldrich tariff bill.

But that doesn't affect the fact that the Republican party is corrupt because it has been long in power, and that the Democratic party is purer because it has been long out of power. It doesn't affect the fact that the making of tariff laws is in full and absolute control of the Republican party, and that the tariff law that is produced will be the product of a Republican congress and will be signed by a Republican president. That there are gray wolves in the ranks of Democratic lawmakers is shameful; but it is more shameful still that the organization of the Republican party is absolutely controlled by the Republican gray wolves, and that it does the bidding of special privilege with contemptible alacrity. It is even likely that if the Democratic party were placed in full control, it would shortly be as suppliant a tool of the interests as the Republican party now is. But unless the Republican congress enacts a tariff measure that is half way honest with the people, beyond any question it will be a strong temptation for the nation to try the change, just for the experiment.

THAT SPECIAL SESSION.

The idea of asking Governor Johnson to call a special session of the legislature to take up reapportionment has met with some favor in the northern part of the state, but we fear that those who have approved it have leaped rather hastily to their conclusions. A little consideration will show that this is not the way to get reapportionment, and that the idea of getting it that way should not be considered for a moment.

In the first place, the present legislature has gone on record on this question very definitely. It was shown beyond question, at the regular session which closed a month ago, that if Northern Minnesota is ever to get a fair deal in the matter of legislative representation, it cannot get it from the present legislature. The senate defeated, overwhelmingly, two different reapportionment bills. Neither of these measures met the needs of Northern Minnesota, and from the manner in which they were drawn it was clear that the senate, as constituted at present, will never concede a just reapportionment. The bill which originated in the senate committee on reapportionment was deliberately framed with a view to having it defeated, and Senator Clague, the chairman of that committee, while openly professing friendship for reapportionment, secretly worked to concoct a bill which he knew could not pass. The other bill, which originated in the house, was a miserable substitute for real reapportionment and would have given no relief to Northern Minnesota.

The only way Northern Minnesota can get reapportionment is to get together, elect a delegation to both branches of the legislature pledged to stand for reapporionment before anything else, and to use its power as a unit in the accomplishment of that end.

The only possible excuse for a special session would be as a joke upon the members of the legislature, who collected all their pay in advance, and would have to serve at their own expense.

STATE CONTROL OF FARM LANDS.

In the current issue of a technical journal F. W. Fitzpatrick of Washington, but formerly of Duluth, makes the ingenious suggestion that farm lands ought to be closely inspected, if not actually controlled, by the state.

The suggestion is almost startling, and will naturally meet with considerable hostility, yet it is not one that should be cast aside without proper consideration. It is based upon the knowledge that present methods of farming are, in altogether too many cases, robbing the soil of its fertility just as surely as continued shipments from a mine tend to leave nothing but "a hole in the ground." Since the public's welfare, and even its existence, depends upon maintaining the productiveness of the soil, surely this is a proper subject for the exertion of the public authority, through the agencies of government.

Mr. Fitzpatrick anticipates the objection that this would be "paternalistic," but that is an epithet that has lost much of its force. Anything is paternalistic if it involves the exercise of government for the control of industry of any character in the interests of the people. The postoffice is not only paternalistic but socialistic. The postal savings bank, which everybody wants but congress, the parcels post which nearly everybody wants except congress and the express companies, state drainage, federal irrigation, federal development of waterways, regulation of railroads and trusts, supervision of banks—all these things are paternalistic, too, quite as much as supervision of farm lands would be. It is most assuredly a matter for public concern, and therefore a matter for public action, that the wheat yield in Minnesota, for instance, should have dropped from better than twenty-five bushels to the acre in less than a generation to twelve bushels to the acre, and should be still going down.

"This may seem ultra-paternalistic," says Mr. Fitzpatrick, "and savoring of usurpation, an invasion of private rights. But it is absolutely necessary that something of the kind be done and that at once. The people would have to get accustomed to it as they have done to other state control. There was a time when the individual thought he could build just as suited him, a firetrap or other dangerous structure; manufacturers of explosives or foul-smelling products felt that they have a right to go on with their work anywhere. Endless abuses were perpetrated in the name of private rights. Little by little people have realized that their rights, the rights of the community as a whole, were best conserved by the state, the representative authority of the whole. Today the state steps in and says that you may not do thus and so that may endanger or inconvenience the community. More than that, it will not permit you to do those things that can only harm yourself. How much more should it conserve, protect and defend the land that means the nutrition, the prosperity, the very life of all individuals constituting composing the state."

Here is a matter that will bear thinking about. There can be no private right that is greater than a public need.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Paul Perkins, ex-mayor of Ranier, and who was the first citizen of that little city to hold the office of mayor, was at the St. Louis yesterday. Mr. Perkins is enthusiastic over the prospects that lie in store for Ranier as a summer resort. He believes that the little town, with its great scenery and splendid hunting and fishing, will some day be one of the most famous summer resorts in the Northwest.

About 390 islands ave been sold only recently by the Canadian government to private citizens. Many of these people are from St. Paul and Minneapolis, according to Mr. Perkins. Many of them are the class of people who have decided to come to the resorts in the vicinity of Ranier, because of the magnificent scenery and other attractions that can be found at no other spot in the state.

Ranier at the present time has a population of about 400. The town is growing, says Mr. Perkins, and with Fort Frances and International Falls, will form the Triangle Cities of the Canadian border. Since the completion of the Canadian Northern railway, Mr. Perkins says that Fort Frances has grown wonderfully, and that there is a great future ahead of all of the three towns.

The electric power plant that is being constructed at International Falls will be completed sime time during the present year, according to Mr. Perkins. The Backus-Brooks company, which is largely interested in the construction of the power plant, has promised the people of Ranier that they will be furnished with electric light some time in July. This does not mean that the plant will be completed at that time, but that it will be far enough toward its completion to manufacture electric light.

But returning once again to the future of Ranier and all that country in the vicinity of International Falls, as a summer resort, Mr. Perkins stated that many cottages were under course of construction at the present time, and that many more would be erected during the present summer. The islands that have been sold by the government vary in size from an acre to many times that size. Some of the islands are just big enough for a cottage or two, while others are large enough for a little settlement of cottages.

The Walkers of Minneapolis will spend the summer at Ranier, as will many other prominent Minneapolis people, according to Mr. Perkins. There will be many steam launches there, Willis Walker, son of T. E. Walker the lumberman, has shipped his launch to Ranier. Mr. Perkins is of the opinion that within a few years it will be not only the greatest summer resort in this state, but one of the most famous in the entire country. It is only a question of time before a large summer hotel will be constructed in the vicinity of Ranier, according to Mr. Perkins.

Tourists are beginning to come to that section of the country so frequently that it will be necessary to have a large summer hotel.

"You will see the price of lumber advancing in the near future, and the advance in the price will be a steady one," was the statement of H. A. Huskin, a lumber operator of Chipnewa Falls, Wis., who was at the Lenox yesterday.

"One of the causes of the decrease in the price of lumber was the fact that the Southern lumber dealers sold their lumber at a sacrifice price. They were stuck in the midst of the panic, and it was a case with them of getting the money and getting it in a hurry. What did they do? They simply flooded the market with lumber which they sold at a price far below that offered before the panic.

"The result of this was to reduce the price of lumber not only in the South, but all over the country. It has had its effect upon the lumber situation in this part of the country. I am of the opinion that there will be a steady advance in the price of lumber. The Southern dealers are in better shape at the present time than they were two years ago. They are holding on to much of the same kind of lumber that they were selling at very low prices less than a year ago. This will tend to advance the price upon lumber.

"Business is slowly getting better. "As to lumber tariff, many of the lumbermen are of the opinion that free entry of lumber from Canada would not hurt the lumber business of this country. They have very little white pine in Canada, and there would not be a great deal of competition in this commodity. I am personally of the opinion that free entrance of lumber from Canada will have to come in the near future, and that the removal of the tariff upon lumber would not have a great effect upon the price of lumber in this country. I am inclined to believe that the price of Canadian lumber would advance some, rather than the price upon American lumber decrease.

"Many of the lumber operators believe that the lumber of this country cannot last much longer, and that we will have to import lumber from the other side within a very short time. These men are of the opinion that we might as well have free trade in lumber now as at a later date."

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday was bright and fair, although there was still a chill in the air. This morning a northeaster was trying desperately hard to get action, but the sun seemed to be about holding its own. Tonight the weather man—cheerful optimist that he is—hands out a package that reads "fog, rain and cool temperatures." That weather man has a rare disposition.

A year ago today conditions were much the same as they are today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:21 and will set at 7:47, making fifteen hours and twenty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The barometer continues high over the province of Ontario and the upper lake region and low over the Southwestern states. During the past twenty-four hours the disturbance in the Southwest caused light to heavy rains there and throughout the Mississippi and Missouri valleys, the Rocky mountains and Northwestern states. A rise in pressure over the Far Northwest is attended by cooler weather in Eastern Montana, the Dakotas and Saskatchewan. The easterly movement of the low pressure area in the Southwest favors showers at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Tuesday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Local Forecaster.

Chicago, May 24.—Forecast for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperatures.

Wisconsin—Increasingly cloudiness with possibly showers Tuesday and in southwest portion tonight; not much change in temperature.

Minnesota—Unsettled tonight and Tuesday with showers.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; colder in west portion tonight.

EFFECTIVE OPPOSITION NEEDED

Minneapolis Tribune: With the Republican party, under the control of leaders inherited from its worst period, striving to defeat the will of the people and break the pledges it made them before election, a vigorous and united opposition might render a patriotic service to the country.

If it could not bring about immediate legislative results by uniting with the better Republican part to aid a Republican president to keep the party pledges, it could at least afford a rallying point for the effort to get such results in the future. Perhaps it is too much to expect the Democrats to help a Republican administration, but why should not they accept the help of Republicans to make a Democratic administration?

The Tribune believes firmly that enough Republicans in the Middle West would vote with the Democrats to put that party in power, if it could be trusted to revise the tariff downward in the sole interest of the mass of the people. They could have the next house for the asking. If the senate remained stubborn and the president proved impotent to keep the party's pledges, they could have the next presidential election as easily.

So far the necessary condition has not been fulfilled. The people do not trust the Democrats to reform the tariff because so many of their representatives in congress line up behind Aldrich and Cannon to perpetuate and increase the profits of privileged monopoly. It is not needful to go back to the burking of the Wilson bill, which did more than Cleveland's stand for sound money to ruin the party. Democrats in the present congress gave Cannon his rules and defeated amendments revising the tariff downward in both houses. Nearly half of it serves under the banner of privilege.

The Tribune held is a safer reliance for Governor Johnson, so long as he and men like him are attacked by senators smirched by this service and lack nerve to assert themselves in reply. Whether or not Governor Johnson said it, Democrats who vote for raising the tariff betray their constituents.

So long as the present condition exists, neither party as such can command public confidence; nor will the people take the trouble to do more than to divide the government between them. The beneficiaries of protection ask nothing better. That is the ideal of standpattery.

Independent Journalism.

Boston Herald: Journalism has two functions, mainly—the publication of news and the publication of comment on the news. In many papers the comment is usually favorable to a party or class. But the old-style party organs are, throughout the country, diminishing in numbers and in influence. In some sections they retain their rigid partisanship, but the greatest American newspapers are they that are not bound to any party, to any class or interest, and which, printing the news without fear and without favor, comment upon it in their editorial pages without regard to any interest save the public welfare. They are papers of opinion, as well as purveyors of news, but their opinion is not party opinion, nor class opinion, nor is it the opinion of individuals employed for or engaged in propaganda.

A great newspaper is an institution not less than an enterprise. Its voice is not the voice of an individual, not merely that of associated individuals; it is a living entity, as the church is, as a parliament is; policy is not opportunism, nor its work only for the day.

Mary's Little Hen.

Mary had a little hen
Upon her little farm,
Against the wolf before the door
It proved to be a charm.

Each day it laid a little egg,
Which Mary sold at town.
And thus she bought her groceries,
And now and then a gown.

The years passed, and Mary paid
The little mortgage due,
And sent her girl to boarding school,
Her boy to college, too.

She has a nest egg in the bank,
And even keeps a cook,
And everything about her has
A thrifty, well-kept look

Says she to those who daily fail
With needle, brush and pen:
"If you would do as well as I,
Just keep a little hen."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

North Branch Review: Governor Johnson voices the sentiment of the people of the Northwest at least when he says that the Aldrich tariff bill is not what the people expected and hoped for, and that it will go bad with the Republican party is some improvement is not made before the bill goes through.

Eveleth News: Governor Johnson is the coming figure in the party which claims Jefferson as its progenitor and tariff will be the issue. One year ago we said John A. Johnson was not heavy enough for the presidential class, but men grow with years, the tonnage tax veto shows a mature mind and obedience to what is right, and we will support him even though a Democrat.

Virginia Virginian: Every time Governor Johnson goes East the people localize that Minnesota is in the Union. A prospective candidate for the presidency isn't a bad advertisement.

Anoka Union: Be not surprised to see another party formed if the people fail to get their demands at the hands of the Republican party. The masses will not trust the Democratic party, as they realize that that party is no better, and is even worse, than the party now in power.

Albert Lea Standard: What a farce it is at Washington—and worse—what it is at Washington—and worse—what it is as to economy and fraud it is! And the evil despots that are dictating further tax exactions from the people will be the worse fooled of all. They assume that they are settling the tariff fight, and that with the passage of their relentless measure they will quell agitation and smother protest and resistance. The scheme and foolish assumption. The scheme will aggravate and no relief. It will only make will aggravate worse, and thus it will only give the demand for honest tariff revision greater determination, courage vision greater determination, courage and energy, and the fight will be more and energy, and the fight will be more bitter than ever before. For, next to the bitter than ever. For, next to the malignant plans to curtail, if not suppress the freedom of the press, the press the freedom of the press, the tariff question is the greatest before tariff question is the greatest before the American people, and it never will the American people, and it never will be settled until it is settled right. be settled until it is settled right.

Austin Transcript: The mass of the people have little use for the Aldrich-Cannon variety of Republicanism. The Roosevelt policies suit them to a turn.

Le Sueur News: The Republicans in congress are determined to commit the crime of turning the country over to the trusts and greater corporations to the trusts and greater corporations to with a new tariff law working more to with a new tariff law working more to their satisfaction than the present one, their satisfaction than the present one, though that would seem impossible. Well and good. An election one, though that would seem impossible. Well and good. An election will be held in November, 1910, when will be held in November, 1910, when the people can turn congress over to the people can turn congress over to the Democrats. the Democrats.

Lake Crystal Union: You keep right along advocating a party that is gradually oppressing the people, and occasionally throw the masses a little sop it is only a question of time before such a party will be overthrown and disaster follows.

Chisholm Tribune: If the Southern Minnesota farmers who advocated and passed the tonnage tax bill could come to Chisholm in a body and see what has been done here since the disastrous fire last fall, it would be all day with us. They would have a law enacted at the next session taxing brick blocks, according to the rate of construction, and this village would then have to pay nearly all of the state tax. And the worst of it is that we may not always have a governor with back bone enough to use the veto power.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The noblest thing about a mother is that she isn't a father.

Most of a man's education is acquired by unteaching himself what he learned at school.

A man gets so nervous waiting to learn whether it's a boy or a girl that he can't be much worse if it turns out to be twins.

If there's no other way to have one a woman could pour kerosene all over the doghouse, so as to be able to speak of it as the garage.

The thing that makes a woman proudest of her husband is for somebody to get him mixed up with another man of the same name who is famous.

Mr. Justice O'Brien.

"Justice Thomas D. O'Brien, of the supreme court of Minnesota," rings true. We believe Governor Johnson has made no mistake in this appointment and there will be little partisan division in the public approval which will come as an echo. Mr. O'Brien, beside having rendered the state good service in more than one capacity and thereby earned the recognition now given, is well equipped by learning, temperament and experience for the seat on the state's highest tribunal. We believe also that the people of Minnesota will look upon his acceptance at this office, under all of the conditions and with its always doubtful political tenure, as something of a duty. If the state may be the loser through the retirement of Mr. O'Brien as counsel in litigation in which the interests of the people are concerned, it may be compensated by his services on the supreme bench.

No Standard Oil Candidate.

Kansas City Star: What Senator Bailey says in denunciation of Governor Johnson of Minnesota makes it clear that Mr. Johnson is not Standard Oil's candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1912.

Love is Life

Without love this world would be a good place to emigrate from. Without it the human race would die—and be glad of it. Love is but the light in the east that leads to maternity. Love of husband is the stepping-stone to love of child.

There are thousands of women who live well into middle-life without knowing the bliss of a first-born's caress, but who are happy mothers to-day and heap blessings on Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Many thousands of women have testified to the merits of this marvelous remedy. The "Favorite Prescription" quickens the life-giving organism of women. It makes a woman strong and healthy where she most needs vigor and vitality. It cures all weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organs. It eliminates the discomforts on the way to maternity and makes baby's coming easy and nearly painless. Found at all medicine stores.

It's an insult to your intelligence when a druggist urges upon you a SECRET nostrum as a substitute for this proven remedy OF KNOWN COMPOSITION simply that he may make a little larger profit. Physicians prescribe "Favorite Prescription" because it's every ingredient is printed upon its outside wrapper making it an ethical remedy for them to prescribe. There's no secrecy, no deception—it's a good, honest, square-deal medicine, made of native medicinal roots without alcohol or habit-forming drugs in its make up. Ask Your Neighbors.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels. One to three tiny sugar-coated "Pellets" for a dose. Easy to take as candy.

LUMBER CAMP TOTALLY BURNED

Loss of $3,500 to the Peshtigo Lumber Company.

Menominee, Mich., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fierce forest fire, or rather series of fires, that have been raging along the Wisconsin-Michigan railroad's right of way during the past week, finally wiped out Ingram Taylor's camp at lake Nequetay. Three houses and a small barn were destroyed, numerous woodsmen's articles consumed and a desk belonging to Henry Hilgen, a member of the Marinette grand jury now in session, was destroyed. The desk contained valuable books and records and $35 in currency.

The camp was owned by the Peshtigo Lumber company and they estimate their loss at $3,500, partly covered by insurance.

BIGAMY IS ALLEGED.

Milwaukee Woman Accused in Divorce Suit By Second Husband.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 24.—Charges which may lead to prosecution of Mrs. May Pierce, on the charge of bigamy were made in the divorce suit brought by Frank B. Martin in the circuit court.

The woman is a resident of Milwaukee, it is said, but she made no defense of the allegation made by her supposed husband. Mr. Martin made the allegation in his divorce complaint that the woman he married at Eureka, Wis., Feb. 14, 1904, was at the time the wife of Edwin Pierce, whom she married in Chicago Nov. 13, 1904, from whom she had never been divorced.

On the face of this charge, Judge Halsey granted a divorce, with the statement that he regarded the matter as one for the district attorney to investigate.

PIONEER LUMBERMAN OF WISCONSIN DIES.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 24.—Charles S. Newell, a pioneer lumberman, of this section, member of the Daniel Shaw Lumber company for many years, passed away at his home on Menomonie street this city. The cause of death was apoplexy. He is survived by his wife, two sons, La Ferrest and F. S. Newell, city, a daughter, Mrs. A. J. Brawley of St. Paul; three brothers, John C. of New Portland, Me.; L. L. of Durham, Me., and J. B., a resident of Massachusetts, and three sisters, residing in Maine. Dr. W. J. Newell of this city is a nephew, and Mrs. Enos S. Culver of this city a niece.

SHUBERT THEATER SITE IN ST. PAUL SELECTED.

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—The new Shubert theater in St. Paul will be erected at Wabasha and Exchange streets, on the site of the French Catholic church. This definite announcement was made by George Benz & Sons, owners of the property, and it was also stated that the new playhouse will be completed and ready for occupancy early next fall.

The building will be modeled very closely after the Maxine Elliott theater in New York city.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LAW WILL BE TESTED

Senator Cooke Employs Counsel to Attack the "Pork Barrel" Bill.

Will Attempt to Enjoin State Auditor From Issuing Warrants.

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The constitutionality of the $600,000 "pork barrel" bill authorized by the last Minnesota legislature is to be tested in the courts. Senator L. O. Cooke of Wabasha county, who was in St. Paul Saturday, employed W. B. Douglas, former attorney general and former state supreme court justice, to bring an action to restrain S. G. Iverson, state auditor, from issuing warrants under the provisions of the "pork barrel" bill. The case will be filed in the Ramsey county courts at once.

The 1909 "pork barrel" bill prepared by the good roads committees of the house and senate appropriated $600,000 out of the state revenue fund and scattered it over the state for the purpose of building bridges and "improving" roads. An analysis of the bill showed that the measure appropriated state money for the improvement of city and village streets, and the building of bridges within corporate limits. The "pork barrel" is a biennial affair, and although it appropriates money to be spent entirely without state supervision it has been defended on the ground that it gives the farmer his only "dip" into the state treasury.

The new feature of the 1909 bill was the fact that it appropriated $200,000 more than ever before, and that instead of being confined to the betterment of country roads, its provisions authorized special grants for highway improvements inside city and village limits.

Senator Cooke, who has characterized the "pork barrel" as a "grab," has instructed Gen. Douglas to fight the case to a finish, and the supreme court will undoubtedly be called upon to decide the constitutionality of the bill.

The constitutionality of the "pork barrel" will be tested on two grounds. In the first place it will be urged that it is in violation of section 5, article 9, of the Constitution, and in the second place that it is contrary to the Constitutional amendment of 1898 known as the "good roads amendment."

VALLEY CITY RAISES A KICK

Valley City, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case involving the question of the abandonment of the so-called "low line" by the Northern Pacific in favor of the new "high line" will be fought before the federal court for the district of North Dakota. Late Saturday afternoon upon the application of the attorneys for the railroad, Judge Burke of the Barnes county district court issued an order transferring the case to the federal court.

In this case Valley City seeks to prevent the abandonment of the old service at the downtown depot. The Northern Pacific has just completed the construction of a new line running about a mile north of the city this line being constructed that time might be saved in avoiding the long grades out of Valley City. The new depot is located about a mile ut of the city, and the citizens object to having to go there to catch the trains.

PLANING MILL BADLY DAMAGED

Loss of $15,000 Caused to Cloquet Lumber Company.

Spooner, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Provincial Constable Simpsen of the Rainy River district was caught in quite a mixup when he went out to Pine Wood to levy on some property at the home of a man named Livingston. Livingston and his two sons resisted the officer, and when Livingston pulled his gun Simpson shot him through the leg. Livingston is now in jail at Rainy River awaiting trial.

WORRY OVER EXAMS.

Prompted Former North Dakotan Girl to Commit Suicide.

La Moure, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word has just been received here of the suicide of Miss Tyrie Brown, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Brown of Tropico, Cal., but formerly of this city. She was 21 years of age, and worry over the approaching examinations at school were responsible for the act. She inhaled gas at a room in a Los Angeles rooming house, where she had gone from her home the morning she killed herself.

JUNIOR SENIOR BANQUET

Of Thief River Falls High School Largely Attended.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The junior-senior banquet of the Thief River Falls high school was held Friday evening at the Hotel Evelyn. Covers were laid for forty-nine, this number including the high school faculty as well as the members of the two upper classes. The local high school has advanced in numbers so rapidly during the last three years that it now ranks fourth in point of enrollment among the schools of Northern Minnesota. Besides the usual courses found in a high school, it maintains complete commercial and normal training departments. The domestic science and agricultural work will also be extended this year so as to install these lines of effort in entirety in the school. The total enrollment of pupils in all the schools of city is 1,150.

SERIOUS CHARGE MADE BY CONVICT

Says District Attorney Offered to Drop Case for Money.

Marinette, Wis., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Glass, a former resident of Marinette and now serving a five-year term for burglary in the Wisconsin state prison, exploded a bomb before the grand jury when he testified that last fall, before he was tried on a robbery charge, A. E. Schwittay, then district attorney, promised to have the matter dropped providing Glass paid him a certain sum of money." Schwittay told me that a portion of this money would go to the robbed man, while the rest would be used in 'fixing up' matters," testified Glass. Whether another indictment will be returned against Schwittay—he was recently tried and acquitted of a perjury charge—is doubtful, as the convict bore a bad reputation in Marinette and is known to be a bitter enemy of Schwittay.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

North Dakota Man Overcome By Gas While Digging Well.

Milton, N. D., May 24.—While digging a well at the creamery, Thomas Costello was overcome by gas and rendered unconscious, in which condition he remained for over an hour. He is now, however, fully recovered from its effects. About 11 o'clock in the forenoon Mr. Costello touched off a stick of dynamite in the bottom of the well. When he went down into the well after dinner the lantern which he carried immediately went out, and William Sollitt, who was hoisting dirt from the top, suspecting something wrong, secured help and found Costello unconscious in the bottom of the well.

BELOIT PEOPLE WANT THEIR MONEY RETURNED.

Beloit, Wis., May 24.—Action is being taken by citizens who contributed the sum of $4,000 to St. Mary's hospital to recover the money or part of it, on the ground that the hospital has ceased to exist. The hospital was founded under the authority of the Catholic church a few years ago, but after about two years of life the sisters in charge gave it up and now the building is used as a residence property.

THE STATE BOARD OF WOMEN VISITORS NAMED.

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Appointments to the state board of women visitors have been announced by Governor Johnson. They are: Mrs. Mary L. Stewart, St. Cloud; Mrs. H. L Stark, St. Peter; Mrs. W. E. Bramhall and Mrs. W. R. MacLean, St. Paul, and Mrs. J. L. Washburn, Duluth. The board will have to do with the women's institutions in charge of the state board of control.

UNOSTENTATIOUS COMFORT AT THE HOTEL ST. REGIS.

The One Modern New York Hotel That Satisfies the Discriminating.

A well-known Western editor said recently (editorially) after a visit to New York and the St. Regis hotel: "The instant a patron enters the St. Regis he is made to feel at home. There isn't the slightest attempt at arlstocracy. Indeed, we believe that the multitude of patrons whom the St. Regis has had are among the well-to-do people of the country, rather than from the millionaires."

This writer has struck the keynote of St. Regis service. The great "middle class" are its constant and satisfied patrons. These the St. Regis never fails to attract. Situated on Fifth avenue at Fifty-fifth street, its location is ideal for visitors to New York who desire to combine business and pleasure. Far enough removed from the commercial districts to avoid the clatter and roar of business traffic, it is still within five minutes' ride of the retail shopping and theatrical centers. Its every aim is to retain "homelikeness" in its atmosphere, and to make every patron so satisfied that he will be sure to come again—and that as often as circumstances will permit. Its restaurant charges are the same as other first-class hotels, and rooms may be had as low as $3 and $4 a day for a large, handsomely furnished single bedroom; the same with private bath for $5 a day (or $6 for two people); or $12 a day and up for an elegant suite consisting of parler, bedroom and private bath.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Watertown, S. D.—The largest oil depot between Des Moines and the Rocky mountains is to be located in Watertown before the end of the summer. The Manhattan Oil company is back of the move.

Wessington, S. D.—Rev. E. P. Leach of Sioux Falls, general secretary of the State Sunday School association, was one of the principal speakers at the annual convention of the Sunday School association of Beadle county, which was held in this city.

Aberdeen, S. D.—While shooting gophers, Henry Miller, aged 10, was accidentally shot in the head by his older brother Reuben. The boy is in a hospital at Webster, and his condition is critical.

Pierre, S. D.—The team of trained buffalo owned by R. L. Yokum of this city were shipped to Baltimore, Md., where they have an engagement of several weeks at an amusement park. They are one of the few trained buffalo teams in the country, and as they have been broken both to harness and saddle they will be an attractive feature at any place they are put on exhibition.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Ever Wagness, one of the best-known citizens of Ramsey county, and whose acquaintance extended all over the state of North Dakota, died at his home in this city after an illness extending over several months. Ever Wagness was one of the first settlers of this part of North Dakota. He came to Fort Totten in 1878, and worked in the post trader's store at that place.

Lisbon, N. D.—Harry S. Oliver, one of the earliest settlers in Dakota, is dead from cancer of the stomach. He was a member of the house of representatives for two terms of the legislature, including the years 1891-92-93. At the time of his death he was postmaster in Lisbon, and has been a prominent figure for many years in the politics not only of his county, but in the state. He was a member of the first grand commandery of Knights Templar, and other Masonic bodies.

Fargo, N. D.—The new opera house at Devils Lake will be provided with attractions from the Red river valley circuit according to a letter received in that city from C. P. Walker, who is at the head of the circuit.

Grafton, N. D.—Grafton will hold an old-fashioned glorious Fourth of July celebration this year—one that will make up for the lack of celebrations in former years. The celebration will be held on July 3 since the Fourth falls on Sunday. The committee in charge elected H. G. Sprague, president and M. W. Hostetter, secretary.

Larimore, N. D.—James H. Magoris, who has been in the hospital at Northwood for several days, is reported as improving rapidly. Some time ago Mr. Magoris ran a nail in his foot and blood poisoning set in. It was feared that the patient would lose his leg, but word comes from the hospital that all danger is now past.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Horace Pagett of the Grand Forks Mercantile company left Thursday evening for St. Paul, where he was called by the death of his father, Samuel Pagett, who was 64 years of age.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Chief Justice Morgan of the supreme court is recovering from a very serious illness. He is at St. Luke's hospital, St. Paul. On May 5 he underwent an operation and writes that he is recovering nicely and if all goes well he will have ly and if all goes well he will have better health than he has enjoyed during the past ten years.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison—The supreme court, in a decision in the Pabst and Beals inheritance tax cases, fully sustained the constitutionality of the inheritance tax law. The decision of the lower court in the Beals case is upheld. The decision in the Pabst case is reversed, but on a technicality only.

Bayfield—The Bayfield Progress is the name of a new newspaper started here, with L. A. Holmes as editor. The paper is owned and controlled by Chairman Henry Wachsmuth of Bayfield.

Washburn—Work will be started this week on the building of a large box crating and wire reel factory twelve miles above this city, near Bayfield. The plant will be built by Chicago parties.

Appleton—Twenty schoolboys of Appleton, Kaukana, Neenah and Menasha have formed a canoe club that will paddle up the Fox river to the Wisconsin river and then to the Dells.

Madison—At a meeting of the Mandolin Club of the University of Wisconsin, Maurice H. Needham, '10, of Chicago was elected director for the next year, and Edward Fisher, '10, of Madison was chosen manager.

Sparta—Word has been received that Charles M. Ambold, who left that place some time ago to take the position of assistant manager of the American Tobacco company's plant at Petersburg, Va., has lost both legs in a collision between an automobile and a railroad train.

Kenosha—The police are looking for two mysterious men, who are believed to have made two attempts to kidnap Louis Heyden, a boy of 12.

Stevens Point—The Woman's club of Stevens Point has taken up the project of establishing a hospital.

Milwaukee—Gen. Otto H. Falk has declined the appointment of public debt commissioner tendered by Mayor Rose, and William H. Upmeyer, jeweler, will be named.

Madison—State Treasurer Dahl, in a communication to the state senate, explains that he has not attempted to collect the $35,934 due from the fifteen life insurance companies which withdrew from the state two years ago, for the reason that the issues involved are now being tested in the courts.

Kenosha—William Wallace Miller, aged 10, son of John W. Miller of Somers, Kenosha county, stumbled as he was carrying a revolver owned by his father and was fatally shot.

Prairie du Chien—As a result of a dispute between Mrs. John Cook and Mrs. William Dupee of the town of Clayton, near Prarie du Chien, the former has been arrested on the charge of having attempted to murder the latter by shooting.

Milwaukee—While at the top of a staircase, with a battered tin can for a toy, John Picolo, a 2-year-old boy living with his parents at 389 Jackson street, tumbled down the long flight of steps and alighted on top of the tin can in such a manner that his tongue was almost cut off. He was taken to the Emergency hospital.

Wausau—A cow which was to be paraded and given away by Wausau Knights of Pythias at the "Dode Fisk circus" tomorrow has been stolen from the farm where it was being kept.

Milwaukee—The required fund of $75,000 for the proposed rescue mission has been pledged and work on the institution will be inaugurated shortly.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—Miss Anna Abramson, aged 22, died at her home in Wolverine after a long illness. The funeral was held Sunday with Rev. Ojala officiating.

Hancock—Hancock, according to the finding of the board of review, is about $250,000 richer in this world's goods than it was last year. The total valuation for the city is $2,853,525.

Lake Linden—The death of Auriel, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carriveau of Lake Linden, occurred after an illness of two weeks. The cause of the death is attributed to appendicitis. Besides the parents, three sisters and three brothers survive.

Ishpeming—Sunday was the thirtieth anniversary of the destruction by fire of the Barnum house, which occupied the site of the Nelson house. The fire was the hottest that ever occurred in Ishpeming. It was worse in many respects than the big fire which destroyed nearly four blocks of buildings on South Main street in the spring of 1873. The Barnum house, which was erected and owned by the late Robert Nelson, was opened for business on Jan. 1, 1873.

Hancock—Patrick O'Brien, who left Hancock twenty-five years ago for Butte, Mont., where he has since been engaged in various mining ventures, is home for a visit with relatives and old friends for the first time since his departure. He will spend several months in the Copper country as a guest of his aunt, Mrs. Kelly, of Ripley, and other relatives.

Ironwood—Work on the extension of the street railway line from Ironwood to Bessemer has been started. The first grading is being done at Montcello. At this point the new line leaves the present line and goes near the new North Pabst location, thence following quite closely a county road and entering the city of Bessemer near the electric light power house.

Ontonagon—After being buried at Ontonagon, the body of Joseph Gazlik which was found a week ago, was exhumed and a coroner's inquest held over it, and it is now decided that the man did not come to his death accidentally, but was murdered, and the sheriff of Ontonagon county is searching for the murderers. The lumberman's body was discovered lying beside a logging road a few miles from Ontonagon.

Escanaba—In the past two weeks, County Treasurer Mallmann has been made the custodian of $68,139 direct revenue from the saloons of Delta county. The records show that at the present time there are 133 retail liquor places and two wholesale houses. Two breweries add their mite to the grand total.

Houghton—F. W. Stoyle, treasurer of the school board of Portage township, has received from Andrew Carnegie a draft for $5,000, the first installment of the ironmaster's donation of $15,000 for a library building for Houghton. In accordance with the terms of the donation the first installment was paid promptly at the commencement of the work.

Stambaugh—During a mixup a few days ago at the Caspian location, near Stambaugh, Joe Jachlinski was either struck on the head with a club or other weapon, pushed on the porch of the house where he was boarding and fell on his head on some hard substance. He was taken to Mercy hospital at Iron River in a critical condition, with a cracked skull, and has since died from his injuries.

Bessemer—The 2-year-old son of Rosso Sophia of Bessemer fell into a pan of boiling water and was badly scalded. The child was taken to the hospital at Ashland, where it shortly passed away, after suffering much agony.

Calumet—A well attended meeting of the bakers of Houghton and Keweenaw counties was held in the Nelson offices for the purpose of organizing a U. P. branch of the National Bakers' association. The meeting unanimously decided to organize, and Ed Kelfu of the Vienna bakery, Red Jacket, was elected the first president, and Alex Lindsay, the well-known Houghton baker, secretary-treasurer.

Torch Lake—Work on a rectory for Holy Rosary church is to be started at once. The building will front on Lake street, where there is ample room on the church lot to make the grounds not occupied by the building into an ornamental garden. The dimensions of the building will be 24 by 30 feet.

Ironwood—Old friends have been advised of the death of J. P. Moyle, a former resident of Ironwood, at Intervale, Me. The deceased was a member of the Sons of St. George lodge of Ironwood. Death was caused by African fever, Mr. Moyle having returned only a short time ago from South Africa, where he had been working in the mines.

Calumet—At a meeting of the Fourth of July committee in the Red Jacket council room, Secretary N. F. Kaiser reported that he had closed a contract with Prof. H. S. Martin of St. Johns, and his assistant, R. W. Bottrell, for two balloon ascensions here on the Fourth of July.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Staples—J. A. Burger, superintendent of the Staples city schools, has returned from a trip to Miles City, Mont., and while away signed a contract to accept a similar position at that place. He will have supervision over the two grade schools, and also the county high school, and the salary the first year will be $2,500.

St. Cloud—Theodore Schiedemantel, a former resident of St. Cloud, died at Ramee, N. D., last Thursday night. Death was caused by stomach trouble.

Mankato—A bank caved in, burying three shovelers, William Hert, John Izen and Carl Lundine. Other workmen dug them out, but all three were badly hurt. Izen's chest was crushed, Hert got a dislocated shoulder and all were cut and bruised.

St. Cloud—The contract for the Northern Pacific depot has been let to Cameron & Co. of St. Paul by the maintenance of way department. The contract price has not been made public but it is understood that it will reach $30,000.

Hawley—Guiseppe Lekiola, an Italian laborer employed on the Northern Pacific, west of Hawley, was arrested by Game Warden T. B. C. Evans of Hawley for slaughtering wild ducks and prairie chickens out of season, and was fined $10 and costs.

Crookston—Rev. Burton F. Bronson and wife arrived Saturday from Rochester, N. Y., where Rev. Bronson has been stationed in charge of a Baptist parish, and will assume his duties as pastor of the First Baptist church of Crookston, to which position he was elected some weeks ago.

Walker—H. Brimand underwent a serious operation at the Walker hospital last week. A small particle of bone, which was out of place on account of fracture, was removed from his skull. He is recovering rapidly.

Aitkin—Mart Crosby was down from Duluth last week. He says the proposed township of Crosby at Serpent Lake is now being drilled for iron, and that if enough ore is encountered, they will have to select another place for the new town.

Crookston—The annual meeting of the Gustavus Adolphus college graduates in the Northwest was held at Grand Forks in the Hotel Frederick, followed by a banquet and a program of musical numbers, addresses and toasts. Superintendent of Schools N. A. Thorson of Crookston was elected president, and it was decided to hold the annual meeting in Crookston next year.

Kelliher—Edgar Titus has arrived from Bemidji to take charge of the jewelry department in the City drug store here.

Wahkon—The Mille Lacs Transportation company has secured a site near the Rutherford boathouse and will build a passenger dock, office and company warehouse.

Crookston—William Munch, deputy state game warden for this district, has received his appointment as ranger for this district from C. C. Andrews, the forestry commissioner for Minnesota.

S.S.S. NATURE'S TONIC

The very great majority of persons need a tonic in the Spring or early Summer. The system undergoes a change at this season and the entire physical machinery is disturbed. The general bodily weakness, a tired, worn-out feeling, fickle appetite, poor digestion, a half sick feeling and a general run-down condition of the system, show that the blood is weak or anaemic, and a blood purifying tonic is needed to build up the deranged system and enrich the blood. The use of S. S. S. at this time may save you from a long spell of sickness, and it will certainly prepare you for the long, hot Summer. Many people have put off using a tonic until the system became so weakened and depleted it could not successfully throw off disease germs, and have paid for the neglect with a spell of fever, malaria or some other debilitating sickness. S. S. S. is Nature's ideal tonic. It is a composition of the extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks which science and experience have proven are best fitted for a tonic to the human system. It contains no minerals of any kind and is therefore perfectly safe for persons of any age. S. S. S. tones up the stomach and digestion, rids the system of that tired, worn-out feeling, and imparts vigor and strength to every part of the body. It purifies and enriches the blood, stimulates the secreting and excreting members to better action, quiets the over-strained nerves, and makes one feel better in every way.

FIRE TUG IS GIVEN TEST

McGonagle Stands Up Well Under Most Trying Conditions.

New Boat Can Throw 12,000 Gallons Per Minute.

The fire tug McGonagle was given her first official tryout in the lower harbor, near the foot of Fifth avenue west, this morning. The boat was brought from her berth at the Missabe docks about 10:30, and for more than an hour was subjected to the severest tests those present could suggest. The big tug more than fulfilled every promise of her builders, and President McGonagle of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and other officials of the company who were present were highly pleased at the result.

Under full pressure the McGonagle is guaranteed to throw 12,000 gallons of water per minute. When the pressure is turned on full through a four-inch nozzle it will throw a stream about 400 feet. The pumps were worked under full pressure this morning, and the efficiency of the fire crew aboard the vessel was tested by various maneuvers about the harbor.

The engines, pumps and boilers worked perfectly and demonstrated conclusively that the McGonagle will be able to meet all requirements in actual fire fighting. One of the men who had charge of the boat when the tests in the East preliminary to acceptance were made, arrived in Duluth this morning and was present on the McGonagle throughout the trial.

Present with Mr. McGonagle this morning were several officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, members of the fire department and a number of guests hurriedly invited when it was decided to make the test this morning.

The McGonagle was taken back to the ore docks about noon. Fire drills will be frequent to keep the crew in training. It is intended to turn in water front fire calls at unexpected times both to keep the men alert to their duties and see how the boat will act in an emergency call.

The McGonagle was built to order for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road and named in honor of its president. The vessel is constructed entirely of steel. She is 120 feet in length, with a width of 28 feet and is one of the finest and most completely equipped fire tugs in the United States.

BUBONIC PLAGUE ONCE MORE MENACES CARACAS.

Caracas, May 24.—After an absence of six months the bubonic plague has again made its appearance at Caracas. One case is officially under examination. The rats of Caracas show infection. No case has been found at Laguyra or elsewhere in the republic. The government authorities announced today that they would make no secret of the existing conditions, and that they proposed to adopt measures of sanitation in fulfillment of the Washington convention. A surgeon of the American marine hospital service is expected shortly at Laguyra, where he will be attached to the American consulate. He is coming from San Francisco.

IS NOW UP TO O'CONNOR

Proposed Strike of Longshoremen Is Entirely in His Hands.

Four Prominent Labor Leaders Are Headed for Duluth.

Local interest in the marine strike situation has been considerably revived since the announcement last week that several men prominent nationally in union labor circles, are to meet in this city. The conference will be held in the old Elks' hall, 118 West Superior street tomorrow night and among those who are expected to be present is T. V. O'Connor, president of the International Longshoremen's union.

What the results of this meeting will be can only be guessed at at this time. No intimation has been given out as to what matters are to be brought up for consideration.

Mr. O'Connor is at the present time in a peculiar position. At a big meeting of longshoremen held in Cleveland yesterday, representatives from fifty-six locals along the lower lakes voted to place the decision on the strike question entirely in his hands. It is an responsibility that has thus been thrust upon the president of the union.

One word from Mr. O'Connor and 24,000 men will be ont of employment and a complete tie-up of lake traffic will result. That Mr. O'Connor fully appreciates the weight of responsibility that has been thrown upon him is evidenced by his reticence in giving interviews bearing in any way upon the situation.

A party of four national labor leaders left the Soo this afternoon for Duluth to take part in the meeting tomorrow evening. This party includes Martin Cole, president of the Licensed Tugmen's Protective association; John Dickey, president of the National Drill Workers' association; Charles McCarthy, president of the Tug Firemen's association, and Thomas J. Nolan, national secretary and treasurer of the Deckie Crannemen and Runners.

These men have been visiting among the locals of the lower lakes ascertaining the conditions at various ports, and acquiring data to aid them in reaching a solution of the strike question.

The longshoremen throughout the lower lake districts are unanimous in their demand for a strike, according to the delegates at the Cleveland meeting. Mr. O'Connor is expected to arrive in Duluth tomorrow morning, and it is not improbable that if a strike is called the order will be issued from Duluth.

There is little doubt, in the light of recent developments, that the advisability of declaring a strike will be the main topic of discussion tomorrow night, although this was denied by Martin Cole at the Soo today.

The great question at issue is whether or not the longshoremen will join in the marine workers' strike on the Great Lakes. It is known that they have grievances, and President O'Connor has stated that if a strike is called it will not be on sympathetic grounds.

The longshoremen and the unions affiliated with them will be represented at the meeting, which will be held behind closed doors.

SUES FOR DEATH OF LITTLE GIRL

Mrs. Lizzie Jetsu of Chisholm Wants $5,000 From Great Northern.

Lizzie Jetsu as administrator of the estate of her little daughter, Siste Terrik, who was killed by a Great Northern engine on the tracks of that company in Chisholm in July of last year, wants $5,000 for the child's death. The case is on trial before Judge Ensign of the district court today.

Mrs. Jetsu claims in the complaint that the company was negligent in that its right of way was not fenced, and the trainmen did not take the proper precautions against accidents.

The child, she claims, strayed on to the track, was hit by one of the company's engines and almost instantly killed.

Most of the morning was spent in the selection of a jury.

AUTOMOBILE STRUCK CURB; MAN INJURED.

Menominee, Mich., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Leisen, a Menominee millionaire, and an officer of the Leisen & Henes Brewing company of this city was painfully injured when his sixty-horsepower roadster, going at a terrific clip, struck the curbing of a street near the outskirts of the city. Both axles were smashed and Mr. Leisen landed on all fours, thirty feet from the scene of the collision. He was able to walk home.

JEWELRY PACKAGE IS RIFLED IN THE MAILS.

Minneapolis Minn., May 24.—A package containing jewelry, sent by the Johnson Jewelry company of Minneapolis to R. H. Knudvig, Reynolds, N. D., was mysteriously rifled in the mails.

The stamps on the package were cancelled in the Minneapolis postoffice, but before it left the building it was noticed that one end of the package had been torn out and that it was empty.

SNAP FOR CHIROPODIST SOCIETY IS SCENTED.

Springfield, Ill., May 24.—Attorney General Stead today rendered an opinion to Governor Deneen that the bill which creates a state board of chiropody, consisting of four members, who shall be appointed by the governor, "and recommended by the Chiropodists' society of Illinois," vacancies to be filled by recommendations of the society, it is unconstitutional. The attorney general says the bill vests the appointing power in the Chiropodists' society of Illinois and gives a franchise to a private association.

FOR THE PUBLIC WELFARE

WHAT THE PUBLIC SPIRITED MEN AND WOMEN ARE DOING AND MIGHT DO FOR DULUTH.

(Note—Suggestions from citizens of needed reforms will be welcomed.)

THE RESCUE HOME

Although every department of the Bethel work is overcrowded and every worker will feel unbounded relief when new quarters are at last provided, no one department will be more greatly benefited than the Rescue home.

This home is the only place in the city where rescue work for women is carried on, and although there is often among unthinking people a slight disapproval in widening out this work, reason will tell that, with the growth of the city, it is absolutely necessary that kind and considerate provision be made for the girls and young women who are forced to face a severe life crisis alone and friendless. Much of the other work being carried on is of the preventive kind. Thought and care are extended to the young women before temptation meets them, but no one, knowing the comfort and care which has been brought to sorrowing women, can question the value of the work being done by the Bethel Rescue home.

The home at the present time is inadequate to the demands upon it. There are twenty-two young women at the home, when the house and equipment can only comfortably care for fifteen or sixteen. There are twenty-five nameless babies, when eight or ten is the number that could best be cared for.

There is no place in the city where the kind attention and help of the women of the city is more appreciated.

THE MISSION OF THE Y. M. C. A.

At the conference of the North American employed officers of the Young Men's Christian association the first week in June, at Omaha, the general theme will be Present Day Objective and Relations of the Y. M. C. A. Interpreted this means "the association's mission to the men and boys of the continent," says the current issue of The Survey. Important parts of the program will be special reports of commissions which have made investigations into the mission of the association to high school boys; to the native born of foreign parentage; to men and boys in and from the country; and to men and boys of the churches. An increase of $10,000,000 in association property the past year and a projected increase of $9,000,000 suggest the scale on which these "missions" may be conducted.

The most significant development in recent years has been the increasing emphasis laid on social service. While no less stress is placed on "personal salvation," the idea of "social salvation" applied to bettering conditions of life, has taken strong hold.

The 609 city associations and the 225 railroad branches on the continent, besides the others, are opening better and more commodious buildings and extending their work, not only to provide for the bodily comfort of men—places where they can eat and sleep and play and study under the most favorable circumstances—but also to discover and meet new needs. Some of the most effective work is done at isolated railroad stations where the need is great but organization for improvement difficult. Special cars are run out on different lines to construction camps.

Thus the Y. M. C. A. is rapidly occupying a larger place in modern social life. It has been suggested that in time a local association, besides its other functions, may become a training center or "clearing house" for social service.

Dishes have to be washed 1095 times a year---Why not let the Gold Dust Twins do the work?

It stands to reason tnat if you save a little labor each time you wash your dishes, it will amount to a great deal of relief at the end of the year. Gold Dust softens hard water, cuts dirt and grease from the dishes and with its use the dishes require little else than rinsing and wiping. Washing dishes in the old way meant drudgery—with Gold Dust it is merely child's play.

Gold Dust makes dish water that digs. It goes deep after every hidden particle of dirt and germ life and sterilizes as well as cleans.

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with Gold Dust. Gold Dust has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The Gold Dust Twins need no outside help.

BANQUET TO EMPLOYES

Engineers and Janitors of Office Buildings Are Dined.

Whitney Wall Gives His Annual "Get Together" Dinner.

About forty employes of the Palladio, Manhattan and Torrey buildings and about a dozen invited guests, sat down to a banquet given at the Commercial club Saturday evening by Whitney Wall, agent for the three buildings.

It was Mr Wall's annual "get together" meeting for the employes of the three buildings, and a very enjoyable affair it proved to be.

The first banquet was given last year by Mr. Wall, with the idea that friendly talk might help to solve many problems that confront the janitors, engineers and elevator operators of the buildings under his control. So successful did it prove to be that he decided to make it an annual affair, and Saturday evening the second one was held.

It was a real dinner that was served, not the usual five or six meager banquet courses.

Mr. Wall acted as toastmaster and introduced the different speakers, after making a very brief address of welcome to his guests. Chief John T. Black of the fire department was presented and gave the guests instructions as to how to act in case of a fire in any of the buildings. He told them not to hesitate about calling the department, even if they succeeded in extinguishing the fire themselves, as frequently a blaze would smoulder in the walls and break out again. He also gave a short talk on how to prevent fires, discussing the causes of fires in office buildings.

Chief Troyer of the police department gave a short talk on how best to handle troublesome persons who might enter the buildings.

Tenants from the three buildings were also present and spoke. H. H. Phelps represented the Palladio building, of which he has been a tenant for almost eighteen years. George W. Martin was present from the Manhattan building and Charles E. Adams represented the Torrey building. All three speakers warmly praised the work of all the employes of their respective buildings, stating that the service was uniformly courteous and efficient.

The dinner proved to be a thoroughly enjoyable one, being very informal in its nature and marked by a spirit of good fellowship.

Those present, in addition to the speakers, were:

Palladio Building.

Manhattan Building.

Torrey Building.

F. J. Pokorney, chief engineer; A. McGilvary, assistant engineer; S. Nowak, assistant engineer; O. M. Jorgensen, head janitor; O. Medal, janitor; Nels Ahl, janitor; T. Medal, janitor; H. Olson, janitor; J. Pierce, elevator operator; O. Jensen, elevator operator, Axel Larson, elevator operator.

General.

Hans Farvar, painter; Chris Larsen, painter, George H. Johnson, engineer, Polz building.

THREE CHILDREN SLEPT DURING EXCITING FIRE.

The children slept all during the excitement. The block was saved only by the prompt and efficient work of the firemen.

LATEST OIL CRAZE.

Bismarck Excited Over New Find Near That City.

Bismarck, N. D., May 24.—Last year Frank Jaszkowiak, a local machinist of this city, constructed a patent well-drilling machine of his own device, and drilled several flowing wells last fall in this vicinity. The machine is moved about the country with gasoline motive power, and when set up in working order, the same gasoline engine is used for power in driving the drill. The machine is a very powerful one and has proven a complete success for digging deep wells.

He has started drilling wells again this spring, the first one being two miles north of the city, and a few days ago, when he had reached a depth of about sixty feet, he discovered that he struck a good flow of oil. The news of the discovery was sent to the city at once, and the matter is being investigated, and it is believed now that an oil field has been discovered at Bismarck that probably equals those recently found in the northern part of the state.

DESPONDENT MAN ENDS HIS LIFE BY DROWNING.

Sioux Falls, S. D., May 24.—Ed Rigdon proved to be the true name of the young man who committed suicide by jumping from a bridge into the Big Sioux river. Rigdon's home was at Alta, Iowa. His wife and baby are said to be residents of Minneapolis. For several days he had been brooding over some trouble, thought to be of a domestic nature.

NOT LOOKING FOR TROUBLE

Food Inspectors Aim to Educate Rather Than Prosecute.

New Chief Inspector Talks of Work of His Department.

"We do not simply aim to prosecute offenders against the pure food laws. Our aim is, rather, to educate the dealers up to the laws," said Andrew French of Plainville, the newly appointed chief dairy and food inspector, who was in Duluth Saturday, looking over conditions at the Head of the Lakes.

"Our idea is to instruct, rather than to prosecute. There is little to be gained merely by prosecuting. Whenever a dealer shows the intention of doing the right thing and trying to observe the laws, there is no need of prosecute him. The laws are rather complicated and the dealers have to be educated up to them. If, after a warning, a dealer persists in trying to evade the law, then we try to get after him and land him.

"There are not many serious violations of the law. Once in a while we run across an aggravated case, like the one on the border recently, where a man sold some decayed meat. As a rule we have the hearty support of the retail and wholesale grocers. The reputable wholesalers are always ready to take back goods which do not conform with the pure food laws, and the small retail dealer seldom gets stuck. Our aim is to make it certain that a man knows what he is buying, and see that the labels tell clearly what the packages contain.

"The milk inspection is also a big feature of the work. We try to cooperate with the local inspectors in this department of the work. Duluth, the inspectors tell me, has a very high standing as far as its dairies are concerned, and you are getting good milk here. Of course, there is always room for improvement."

Mr. French succeeded E. K. Slater, and this is his first official trip to the northern part of the state. No successor has yet been appointed to Harris Bennett, who was deputy for this district, for the reason that there are no eligibles on the list from this part of the state. The department is now under the civil service rules. There are thirty deputies scattered over the state, and A. J. Anderson is temporarily in charge of this district, looking after the milk licenses, which are now due.

Mr. French was the opponent of Congressman Tawney in two campaigns, and in the last campaign, in 1908, gave the congressman a hard fight, losing by but 2,800 votes in the strong First Republican district.

OLDEST DAKOTAN DEAD.

First White Settler, Fellicia Fallas, Passes Away.

Yankton, S. D., May 24.—Fellicia Fallas, who died at St. Mary's hospital at Pierre a few days ago, after a long illness, was probably the oldest white man in length of residence in either of the Dakotas. He came to this country in 1856 with Gen. Harney's expedition, which went from Fort Kearney, Neb., fought the decisive battle of Ash Hollow with the Sioux, thence by the southern base of the Black Hills to the Big Cheyenne river, thence to old Fort Pierre, which the government had bought of Indian traders. Intending it for a military post, but Harney found it unfit and built Fort Randall, in 1856. Fallas was a civilian employe of the army, and settled opposite Randall.

GRAND JURY RECOMMENDS COUNTY BOARD'S REMOVAL.

Mismarck, N. D., May 24.—The grand jury, which has been in session in Emmons county, has made a report to the court, and among other things has recommended the removal of the entire board of county commissioners of that county, charging the commissioners with being negligent and incompetent. Indictments have been returned against the board charging the members with being implicated in many irregularities pertaining to certain bridge-building contracts of that county.

BODY OF GEORGE HALL FOUND IN THE RIVER.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of the late Rupert H. Sweet, who, with George Hall, was drowned in the Chippewa river at Shawtown two weeks ago, when the launch in which they were riding struck a pile and tipped over, was found Saturday afternoon near the west bank of the river on the Martin Grosvold farm in the town of Union and some four or five miles below this city.

Two boys fishing along the bank of the river made the discovery. The body was half in the water and half out, having apparently caught in a tree, to which it was suspended, while the river was high, and had remained there after the water had gone down.

The track team representing the Washington school was the victor in the grade school track meet held at Athletic park Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the boy's department Y. M. C. A.

The Jefferson school carried off second honors and the team from the Adams school was third.

From every standpoint the meet was the most successful in the history of the event. This was the sixth annual. The grand stand never was so full of enthusiastic people, and never was the array of colors displayed more brilliant. The rooting was a feature. The youthful supporters of the respective teams were not in the least timid about straining their voices, and the noise was at times deafening.

MATT BROWN

Mothers were there in full force to see their young hopefuls perform and even they at times became worked up over the outcome.

J. B. Batchelor of the boy's department, who engineered the whole affair, is to be congratulated on the success achieved this year.

Matt Brown of the Washington school won the largest number of points individually, getting twenty points for his school and the silver medal awarded by the Kelley Hardware company. Walter of the Jefferson was second with thirteen points. The Washington school by its victory wins possession of the cup donated by The Herald.

FAIL TO SCORE AT TRACK MEET

Minneapolis, Minn., May 24.—St. Paul Central walked away from the other Twin City high schools entered in the third annual invitation interscholastic tracks meet held on Northrop field Saturday afternoon, by finishing second with a total of 26 points. Menominie Wis., won first place, however, with a total of 34½ points, and Shattuck finished third with 21½. Menominie had a six-man team, and won five firsts, two seconds and two thirds, the men taking four gold watches, the individual banner and the relay loving cup home with them.

The showing of St. Paul Central was exceptionally good. The other Twin City team finished nine points ahead of Minneapolis Central, her nearest Twin City opponent. Hutchinson made 19 points and finished fourth.

The weather conditions were almost perfect for a field meet. Several good records were made. The mile went in 4:45 and the 220-dash in :22 1-5. The 220 hurdles went in :26 3-5. Chapin of Hutchinson won the high jump at 5 feet 6 inches.

Kitzman proved to be the individual star, taking two firsts, but Hudson of Shattuck scored more points as he took one first and two seconds. Thorlson won one first, one second and two fourths, making 16 points. La Crosse sent a one-man team, and he won 6 points, taking home a gold watch. Albert Lea won a third, getting a bronze medal.

ANNUAL REGATTA AT PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, May 24.—New York oarsmen carried off the bulk of the honors at the seventh annual regatta of the American Rowing association here Saturday afternoon. Of the twelve events, the New York entries won seven, Philadelphia two, Harvard one, Cornell one and Baltimore one. A steady rain fell throughout the day and kept down attendance to a few hundred.

Due principally to the strong northeast wind at the backs of the oarsmen and the swift current, new records were established in five events, the first single, second singles, first double sculls, first pair cared shells and the junior collegiate eights.

Cornell won the feature event, the race for junior collegiate eights, open only to crews whose members never rowed in a "varsity boat and Poughkeepsie or New London. There were three crews in the race, Cornell, Harvard and Pennsylvania. The crimson oarsmen were favorites and led Cornell and Pennsylvania for the first quarter of the one and one-sixteenths mile course. Then the Cornell eight moved up on even terms and soon was a few feet in advance of Harvard and won by six and a fourth lengths in 6:26 4-5, which beat the record of 6:27 made by Yale last year.

Harvard made some amends for her defeat in the junior college race by winning from the Malta Boat club of this city the race of the first eights. The crimson won easily, though not in as fast time as the junior collegiate race was rowed.

The Central high school of Philadelphia won the race for the scholastic championship, defeating the Baltimore City college and the Georgetown preparatory school of Washington. The Philadelphia youngsters had the race well in hand from the start and the only fight was that between Baltimore and Georgetown for second place.

The University of Pennsylvania and Georgetown freshmen crews furnished the struggle for second eights. The Pennsylvania freshmen showed exceptionally good form in this event and led from the start. They increased their lead in the last half mile from a length to nearly three.

Durando Miller and his brother, J. A. Miller, both of New York Athletic club, won races for first and second single sculls respectively and each broke the record. Oddly enough, the younger Miller made better time than his elder brother, though the latter had no real competition in his race.

The closest struggle of the day was that furnished by the Harlem Rowing club and the New York Athletic club in the first double sculls. The Harlem double had a lead of nearly a length, a quarter of a mile from the finish, but the New York Athletic club men almost caught them in the last few strokes, losing by a couple of yards.

To Get Loving Cup.

New York, May 24.—When Roger Bresnahan leads his St. Louis ball players on the diamond at the Polo grounds this afternoon, his old friends will tender him a loving cup. John M. Ward, manager of the Giants in 1895, and now a golfer, will make the presentation speech.

PLAY WAS BAD BUT STILL THEY WON

The Fitwells played at Athletic park Sunday with the Turnbull-Cameron-Degler team of Superior. The Fitwells won by a score of 16 to 9.

The whole affair was an error exhibition from start to finish, and the Fitwells seemed able to do little else. The Superior team has it all over them at every point of the game until their pitcher went up in the last half of the ninth inning.

There was a fair crowd present, and they seemed to thoroughly enjoy the contest. Hitting was frequent, and grand stand stops at times brought the spectators to their feet with shouts of applause.

The Fitwells showed a remarkable ability to boot the ball about the lot, while in every inning but one they batted like a bunch of professionals.

The score:

	R.
Fitwells	0 0 0 1 0 1 0 2 6—10
Turnbull-Cam-Degler	4 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 4— 9

SALARIES TO BE DISCUSSED

Sunday afternoon at the Superior hotel, the officials of the Wisconsin-Minnesota league will meet and discuss business. The most important topic to be brought up at that time will be the ever-teaching of the salary limit by a number of the managers.

There is going to be a howl from the managers who feel that they cannot afford to pay more than the constitution of the league allows. Al Kuchnow, secretary of the Duluth team, says that three of the teams are away over the limit. This he says does not worry him. If the smaller towns in Wisconsin can afford to pay more money for better players, he says that Duluth can stand it. He has been strengthening up the team lately and of necessity paying larger salaries, until now he feels that he has one of the strongest teams in the league.

The Duluth season opens Saturday. The team will have a great reception and if the weather is fine there will be an enormous crowd at Athletic park when Duluth faces Superior in the opening game of the season. Al Cummings will pitch on the occasion.

AMATEURS OPEN THEIR SEASON

Hummers, 20; Duluth Reds, 5.

Adams, 7; Union Match company, 5.

The City Amateur Baseball league opened its season Sunday. Two of the games were walkaways. The other was a fair exhibition.

It was the first game of the season for all the teams and many weak spots were shown up. Each manager will make an effort to strengthen his team before the next games. It is expected that they will then settle down to a hard season's play and a hard fight for the championship. Each week hereafter, three games will be played.

At each game there was a large crowd and in each instance rooting was a feature.

Thirteen Inning Tie.

Fosston and Ada played a 13-inning 0 to 0 game at Fosston yesterday. Ada had to catch a train and could not play it out.

Batteries—Cadreau and Roy, Fosston; Summers and Betcher, Ada.

Moose Lake Wins.

Moose Lake, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Moose Lake defeated the Spalding baseball team here yesterday 11 to 4. The Spalding boys could do nothing with Nevers, the local pitcher, who struck out four teen men. The batteries were Nevers and Newton; Danielson and Johnson.

Games Today.

Duluth at Wausau.
Superior at La Crosse
Winona at Eau Claire.

La Crosse, Wis., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—La Crosse took both the Saturday and Sunday games with the Duluth White Sox, yesterday's contest taking place on a very heavy ground and resulting in a score of 7 to 4. The final score Saturday was 5 to 3.

Yesterday's game started off with Thorsen in the box for Duluth, but he showed a liberality that was amazing, hitting one man and allowing four hits, and he was extracted from the box after the first. The favors of Mr. Thorsen gave La Crosse a beautiful start, netting the locals four runs.

Murray relieved Thorsen and he did well except in the third, when La Crosse piled up three runs. An error by O'Brien helped the home tetam some.

Duluth scored two in the second inning and got two more runs in the fifth, but could not tie the score.

Duluth tried out a new pitcher named Baetsch in Saturday's game. He performed satisfactorily until the eighth inning, when he issued four passes, which, with two errors by Breen and Vorpagel, netted the home team four runs. La Crosse had previously scored one in the second.

Duluth scored one in the first inning and got two men across the plate in the second, when Romaine issued passes indiscriminately.

Catcher Fogel of the locals was put off the grounds for disputing a decision.

Secretary Kuehnow of the Duluth team saw Saturday's game, and Manager O'Brien of the White Sox announced before leaving that his squad would comprise but fourteen men when it reached Wausau.

Following are the scores by innings:

Sunday—	R.	H.	E.
La Crosse	4 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 x	7	11	2
Duluth	0 2 0 0 1 1 0 0 0	4	12	3

Saturday—	R.	H.	E.
Duluth	1 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0	3	6	4

Batteries — Romaine, Fogel and Schaeffer; Baertschi and Mueller.

Winona Still Winning.

Winona, Minn., May 24.—Winona won its ninth straight game Saturday by defeating Superior in the third of the series by a score of 8 to 3.

Despite the fact that Superior played good ball and made only two errors to the local's four, their errors in the third inning were principally responsible for the four runs. Score:

Superior	0 1 0 0 0 1 0 1 0	3	9	2

Batteries—Olson and Drill; Byers and Moore.

Wausau Takes Long Game.

Wausau, Wis., May 24.—Wausau won a fifteen-inning game here Saturday, after having been tied, by Eau Claire in the third inning.

A hit by Bourheois brought in the winning score. After the third inning it was a pitchers' battle, one of the most stubborn seen on the local diamond. Score:

Wausau Shut Out.

Wausau, Wis., May 24.—Eau Claire shut out Wausau here yesterday, rolling up five scores. The result was brought about by a combination of errors and hits. Score:

Eau Claire	0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 x	5	6	2

Detroit, Mich., May 24.—Only five Detroit players reached first base, but four scored and one died stealing, not a home player being left on the bases. Two hits were bunched with a pass in the first, and two more with a wild throw in the seventh. Cobb's hits counted all the runs. Washington had several chances to score, but could not hit with men waiting. Cobb was benched for criticising a decision. Score:

GOPHERS TROUNCE HIBBING.

St. Paul Team Piles Up Seventeen Runs on the Range.

Hibbing, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Colored Gophers of St. Paul carried the local team off its feet in the game Saturday, the final score being 17 to 2.

Hibbing used two pitchers, but the Gophers did not mind, seemingly being able to hit them at will. A total of six errors on the part of the locals materially helped the "dusky gelmen."

For the Gophers, Tate allowed but six hits, which gave the locals two runs. The Gophers did not err once. The two teams are scheduled for another game today. Score:

GREAT CROWD WILL ATTEND

London, May 24.—Every seat in the National Sporting club has been sold for this evening, when Sam Langford, Boston negro, will attempt to win the title of heavyweight champion of England from Ian Hague, who recently took it from "Gunner" Moir and "Jimmy" Walsh, the American fighter, and "Digger" Stanley will battle for the bantamweight championship of England.

The big fellows will fight twenty rounds for a purse of $9,000, and the bantams fifteen rounds for $1,750.

Langford and Walsh have been training together at Stonebridge Park, and, with the small colony of Americans who have taken up their residence there, believe they have excellent chances of winning. Langford, who will enter the ring at about 165 pounds is giving much weight to Hague, but expects to overcome this disadvantage by his quickness, in which he excels the Yorkshire man. Langford is a strong favorite in the betting, some wagers having been made at 5 to 2 on him to win. Not much money has been wagered at these figures, however, and it is likely that Hague's stock will improve when the Yorkshire men arrive and back their man.

"Believe me, John, as the country cousin sometimes exclaims, in a fit of enthusiasm, there was some race at the Duluth Boat club Saturday afternoon.

In a race over the full mile and a-half course, the seniors defeated the juniors by a trifle over a boat length. The more experienced seniors jumped the juniors at the start of the race. They gained a full half length in the first twenty strokes. This was increased to a length before the first half-mile. Then the juniors began to gain.

They pulled up to the middle of the seniors' shell. Then the seniors raised their stroke to about thirty-six and crossed the line ahead of the green crew.

It was a race all the way. It was not decided until the line was crossed. Two hundred yards from home the juniors had an opportunity to win the race through the collapsing of one of the members of the senior boat. This man keeled over near the finish of the race, simply holding his oar and letting the other men pull the boat. Had the juniors known this fact and put twenty drives into the boat, they might have defeated the seniors.

But even the defeat will stand for a virtual victory for Dr. Lynam's charges. It was confidently expected upon all sides that the seniors would make a runaway race out of it. It was believed that the seniors had put the game on the ice before the start of the race.

But the seniors failed to show any marked superiority over the greener oarsmen. In fact, rowing the same number of strokes to the minute, the juniors outrowed the Peyton pupils, and came so near passing them that the coxswain yelled for a higher stroke. With the raising of their stroke the seniors were able to retain their lead gained at the start of the race and cross the line a winner.

Looking over what the race disclosed, it must be said that if the juniors had been rowing a sufficient length of time so that they could raise their stroke a trifle higher, they would have given the seniors the fight of their lives. They do not shoot quickly enough at the present time, and when it comes to raising the stroke, they are lacking. While there was an improvement in the form shown Saturday afternoon, there were times when about every man in the junior boat was rowing individually, wasting his strength and impeding the progress of the boat.

The Lynam stroke showed to good advantage. After the first half mile of the race the seniors attempted to row stroke for stroke with the juniors. It was at this point that the juniors began to creep up on the Peyton crowd.

The race showed that Duluth should have two crews that can go to St. Paul and give a very good account of themselves. The season is young yet. Many accidents and other things may happen before the time arrives for the regatta, but if the junior crew shows the same progress up to the time of the holding of the regatta at St. Paul as it has in the past week, Dr. Lynam should have a very good chance of turning out a winning crew.

The junior crew has promised, and it is up to both the coach and the members of the crew to make the most of a grand opportunity.

There is a rumor that there will be a shift in the makeup of the senior crew. Just how true this rumor is will be shown the present week. Both crews have a lot of hard work ahead of them, especially the juniors. The speed of the shoot and the catch of the juniors must be quickened if they are to have any hope of being able to raise their stroke sufficiently to hold their own with the crews that will compete at St. Paul.

The juniors got their legs into the stroke in very good form Saturday, though in getting together in the catch they are very poor at times.

Tonight at dear old London, Sam Langford, the Boston colored middleweight will be pitted against Ian Hague of Yorkshire, Eng. It looks as if all black Sammy will have to do will be to walk around Mr. Hague once or twice, select some nice vulnerable spot upon his body, and send home the punch that will net the Boston citizen the greater part of the purse.

They have touted English Ian as a star upon 'he other side of the water. But they also touted poor old Gunner Smith as a star. Little Tommy Burns played with this Gunner Smith, and at the end of a showing up fight, put the hypnotic delivery to the pride of England. They have a bunch of overrated pugilists upon the other side of the pond, deep, when it comes to the heavyweight class, and unless Ian Hague proves to be something that England hasn't turned out for many a year, he will prove nothing more than a little exercise for stocky Sammy.

Dame Fortune played a scurvy trick upon the members of the Duluth Central high school track team. Down at Minneapolis Saturday about everything of an unfortunate nature that can happen to athletes happened to the members of the Duluth team. They fell, were injured and a few other things occurred to prevent Duluth from breaking into the high score column.

Helmer was almost sure of winning points in the two dashes for Duluth. He easily qualified for the 220 dash He easily qualified for the 220 dash but in the final when the Duluth boy had a chance to win, his leg, that was injured a week ago, gave out and he finished fifth.

Quinn was beaten in the 440, just being nipped at the tape. He finished fourth. Taylor also met with an accident in the 440, which the members of his team believe kept him from winning the race.

Thorburn finished fifth in the mile, which was run in the interscholas'io time of 4 minutes 46 seconds. McCrea jumped 19 feet 2 inches in the running broad jump, which would ordinarily insure a high school athlete of a place in the event. However, as fortune would have it, they were jumping further this year, and the Duluth man was not counted in the scoring. Johnson had not sufficiently recovered from his injuries to compete in the weights, and there you have the story of the failure of the Zenith City athletes to make a fairly good showing.

All of the members of the team, with the exception of Quinn, will be in school next year. That should insure for Duluth a very strong team in 1910.

Cycle Records Broken.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 24.—Three world's motor-cycle records were broken here yesterday. E. Lingenfelder of Chicago broke the eight-mile record in 6 minutes 28 seconds, by 11 seconds.

The 25-mile race for professionals was taken by Lingenfelder in 24 minutes 10 seconds. The former record was 25:05. The 10-mile amateur event was taken by A. Ward of this city in 8:04. Previous record, 8:08 4-5.

POT HUNTERS FROM MINING CAMPS KILLING OFF GAME

According to some of the local sportsmen who keep in close touch with the situation, the biggest factor in the extermination of game now going on in this section of the country is the foreign labor employed in the mines, on the railroads, and in the woods.

"These foreigners hunt the year round," said a Duluth hunting enthusiast, today. "They do not hunt for the sport of it, but merely for certain classes of aliens, when employed on railroad and mining work, to board themselves. A bunch of them will get together and all chip in towards a general fund for the support of all. In this way they can live much more cheaply than if they paid board on the American boarding house plan.

"In Northern Minnesota you will find dozens of these gangs scattered about in the railroad and mining work, and in every gang there will be a few good guns. Whenever a member of the gang has a little time, he will shoulder a gun and go out in search of meat, of which nothing is too small for him to shoot. Robins, blackbirds, and even woodpeckers fall before his gun. Partridge, grouse and prairie chickens look especially good to him, and rabbits are considered fine eating. Deer, of course, are more eagerly sought after than anything else, and some of these foreigners will watch a deer lick or runway ten or twelve hours at a stretch, in the hope of downing one of the animals. Their patience is a marvel.

"There are certain times of the year, the present, for example, when no game is fit to eat. It tastes bad, is stringy, and contains little nourishment. But all seasons look alike to these pot hunters. They would just as soon shoot a doe which has just become a mother as they would a buck in the fall of the year. It is meat, even if bad meat, and that is all they are after. In many sections of Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin more game is killed by these people than by Americans who shoot during the closed season.

"In going over Northern Minnesota you will find regions surrounding small villages, which should be abounding in game, where there is scarcely a hair or feather left. This is because the foreign element in the villages hunt Sunday after Sunday, covering a radius of ten or twelve miles around the town. They shoot everything wild they see, and many of them use dogs. Where, in the natural course of events, there would be good deer hunting, you cannot even find a track today."

SPORTS FOR THE WEEK

Many Important Events Are To Take Place This Week.

Racing, Golf, Bowling, Boxing, Track Meets and Other Sports.

New York, May 24.—The field of athletic sports this week teems with unusual interest because of the variety, as well as the importance, of the forthcoming events. England will have the classic Derby at Epsom Downs and the golf championship at Muirfield, while in this country there will be championship golf and bowling tournaments, the annual intercollegiate track meet, and several boxing bouts of interest to the pugilistic world.

Tonight the national bowling tournament will open in New York. More than 1,000 bowlers from all parts of the United States and Germany will meet in the alleys in Madison Square Garden. It will be nearly three weeks before the championships are finally determined. There are 213 five-men teams, 70 two-men teams and 1,410 individuals entered in the competitions.

That rare racing stake, the Derby, will be run at Epsom on Wednesday, when a score or more of thoroughbreds will negotiate the distance of about a mile and a half for the rich stake of $6,000, $30 sovereigns. The betting public believes that the race lies between King Edward's Minoru and the American horse Sir Martin.

The Metropolitan golf championships for both men and women will be held in New York this week. The women's Metropolitan championship tournament opens Tuesday at Nassau and the men's Metropolitan championship tournament is scheduled to begin on the Apawamis links Wednesday.

Jerome D. Travers, American golf champion, who has been playing for some time on the English courses, will enter the championship tournament at Muirfield this week, beginning today.

It is more since the Metropolitan golfing situation has been so chaotic on the eve of the annual championship. One of the interesting features is the 18-hole handicap event, which has been held in three previous years. This tournament is open to all golfers. Travers, Oswald and Campbell of Nassau, the three-time champion, Findlay Douglas won one and Travers another, went to Deweraix Laidlay, a young man who had never entered a formal tournament before. Laidlay has many supporters, who believe he may become as great as H. H. Heyburn and Albert Seckel, both students, who lost also in the semi-finals at Atlantic City and Garden City, respectively. The annual re-opening of the youthful golfer after a long interim, is therefore most significant tendency of the budding season.

With permit Travers abroad, and Chick Evans present title holder, out of the running, Travis is favorite for the Metropolitan championship, but the field is so large and the average ability so much higher than a few years ago that a new champion is quite possible. The Apawamis links, moreover, are rather too varied in surface to just suit the Travis style.

The centers of public interest for thousands of miles apart this week. Monday night Sam Langford, Boston heavyweight, will endeavor to wrest the title of English heavyweight champion from Ian Hague at the National Sporting club in London, while Jimmy Walsh of Boston will battle with Digger Stanley for the English bantamweight championship as a preliminary to the Langford fight.

On Saturday Battling Nelson and Fighting Jack Hyland engage in a 10-round mill at Colma, Cal. They will meet at 133 pounds.

The track teams of the larger Eastern colleges will meet for the annual intercollegiate championship at Boston on Friday and Saturday.

BIG TOURNAMENT OPENS IN GOTHAM

Bowlers Gather for Annual Meet in Old New York.

New York, May 24.—The annual tournament of the National Bowling association opens in Madison Square garden tonight, with twenty-four alleys in operation. Clubs from all over the country will compete for the trophies. The committee in charge says it will be the largest bowling tournament ever held, and that as many championships are carried in the program that three weeks will be required to complete it.

In the matches between teams from various cities, which will open the tournament tonight, a feature will be a special challenge match between David Weber of New York and David Weisman of Chicago. These two men are rated among the best in their respective cities. A great amount of public interest has been shown in the contest of skill. Another big match to be rolled tonight is that between Joseph Rubino of New York and George Finn, the famous Buffalo bowler. Besides these matches there will be in the regular program of the championship tournament, a dozen matches between teams representing New York, Baltimore and other cities.

James E. Sullivan, president of the Amateur Athletic union, and many officials of New York and other cities will participate in the opening ceremonies.

RECORDS BROKEN AT GRAND FORKS

Dakota School Boys Make Good Showing in Field Meet.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—By covering the mile in 4 minutes 46 2-5 seconds, Roy Cruikshank of Fargo proved to be the sensation of the seventh annual interscholastic field meet, held in Grand Forks Saturday. By making the mile in this time the Fargo lad established a new state record, lowering it from 5 minutes 8 seconds, which record was held by Lovell of Grand Forks, and which was made in 1906.

Valley City was the victorious team in the meet, carrying off the honors easily. Davidson Hemp and Runyon proving star men. The teams scored as follows: Valley City, 45; Park River, 28; Grand Forks, 17; Fargo, 15; Bathgate and St. Thomas, 11; Enderlin, Devils Lake, Drayton and Hankinson, 5; Pembina and Cavalier, 2, and Langdon, 1.

220-yard dash—Runyon, Valley City, 24 seconds. Former record held by Joss of Jamestown, 24 3-5 seconds.

120-yard hurdles—Brett, Park River, 17 2-5 seconds. Former record held by Brett, Park River, 17 3-5 seconds.

440-yard dash—Owen, Grand Forks, 55 1-5 seconds. Former record held by Botsford, Park River, 56 seconds.

Hammer throw — Dunbar, Valley City, 143 feet 4½ inches. Former record held by Stewart, Edgerwood, 115 feet.

Mile run—Cruikshank, Fargo, 4 minutes 46 2-5 seconds. Former record held by Lovell, Grand Forks, 5 minutes 8 seconds.

Half-mile relay—Valley City team, 1 minute 43 3-5 seconds. Former record held by Park River, 1 minute 42 seconds.

MANY BETS ARE MADE ORALLY

Brooklyn Prosecutor Will Test Law in Court of Appeals.

New York, May 24.—Believing that gambling at the race tracks will be as flagrant this summer as before the passage of the anti-betting laws, District Attorney Clarke and his assistants, Robert H. Elder of Brooklyn, Kings county, announce that they will immediately apply to the court of appeals the highest court in the state, for a final interpretation of the recent statute.

Gambling on the races was found by detectives to be open to all who could identify themselves at Belmont park. The officials of Kings county, in which are located Sheepshead bay and other important tracks, were led by this condition to believe that oral bookmaking would flourish despite the law.

"The contention of the law," said Mr. Elder, speaking of the Gaynor decision, "was that to lay 'odds' orally for the purpose of getting bets is bookmaking. The court holds that there must be writing of some sort, but it doesn't specify whether it must be of 'odds' or what. It leaves, thus, the real point of the case undecided. We are trying to find out if it were necessary to record the 'odds' to make the act bookmaking.

"If this decision stands there is fear in New York that the anti-gambling provision of the Constitution will be nullified. If business gambling is not a crime without some writing or recording then the bookmakers can shout the 'odds' and make oral bets at will. This would enable them to do business on a very large scale, especially the wealthy bookmakers, who could employ assistants with cipher codes for recording bets. The whole cell of bookmaking could be renewed and the statute and Constitution nullified.

"The indications at the Belmont park track tend to confirm this fear. I understand that Mr. Belmont was asked to stop this. The fact that he did not shows that the gamblers are to take advantage of the decisions of the court to the utmost.

"The friends of order tell me that they have not lost faith in the court of appeals, however. The racing men have organized a press bureau to try to manufacture a public sentiment. I do not think, however, that the people can be fooled. The real enemy of liberty is the man who would substitute his own way for the way of the law."

BROOKSTON DEFEATS GRAND FORKS PICKETTS.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Poor base running was responsible for the defeat of the Grand Forks Picketts at the hands of the Crookston, Minn., baseball team Sunday afternoon at the Pickett park in East Grand Forks. The game was one of the poorest exhibitions of the national pastime that has been pulled off here for some time. The Picketts seemed to forget entirely the art of running bases, while Crookston played a good game throughout.

	R.	H.	E.
Crookston 0	4	0	0 1 0 0 0 2 — 7	8	5

BASEBALL SEASON IS OPENED AT CROOKSTON.

Crookston, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The baseball season was formally opened in Crookston yesterday when the Commercial league schedule for the summer was started with a game between the Redlands and Militia teams, the Company I boys winning in a clouting contest by a score of 10 to 6. There was a crowd present, which taxed the capacity of the grand stand and bleachers.

The league was reorganized by the election of G. H. Zealand as president and Ross Chesterman as secretary-treasurer and will include four teams: Company I, Redlands, Great Northern and White Seals.

NEGAUNEE DEFEATS THE CRACK MUNISING TEAM.

Negaunee, Mich., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Sunday afternoon, in one of the most hotly contested games ever played at Union park, the Negaunee city nine defeated the crack Munising team, the score being 2 to 2. A special train was run up from Munising for the accommodation of the team and rooters and over 1,500 enthusiasts witnessed the game.

Saturday the local highs defeated the Munising highs, the score being 14 to 5. The so-called crack Ishpeming high school team suffered a severe defeat at the hands of the Marquette highs, the score being 17 to 6.

Brainerd Defeats Aitkin.

Aitkin, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brainerd defeated Aitkin in the first game of baseball this season here yesterday by a score of 12 to 8. Features of the game were the pitching of Towers of Brainerd, who struck out seven men and allowed but four hits, and the playing of Bush of Brainerd at short; also the catching of Parker for Brainerd.

New Discus Record.

New York, May 24.—Martin J. Sheridan, the Irish-American Athletic club world's champion discus thrower, sent the newly adopted discus from a seven-foot circle at the Pastime Athletic club's oval yesterday for a new world's record of 133 feet 11¾ inches. The former record of 132 feet 7 inches was held by M. F. Horr.

SAFE BLOWN AT PROCTOR

Robbers Make Good Haul in T. R. Hancock's Saloon.

Believed That There Were Three Men in the Gang.

The safe in T. R. Hancock's saloon at Proctor was blown open at an early hour yesterday morning, and the burglars secured $150 in cash, a gold watch valued at $50, a silver watch valued at $25, and a ring worth $10. Chester Cusick, cook at the Proctor hotel, heard the explosion and when he looked towards the saloon, says he saw three men running from the building.

The interior of the building was damaged quite badly by the explosion, the noise of which was heard all over Proctor. The mirrors and windows of the place were b roken. The cash drawer was found in the alley. A package of soap used with the nitroglycerine in blowing open the safe was also found.

The police say there have been several suspicious characters seen hanging around Proctor lately, and they believe they know the men who are guilty of Saturday night's robbery.

SAYS HE CANNOT SUPPORT WIFE

John Johnson Financially Unable To Comply With Court's Order.

John Johnson has filed affidavits in the district court to show that he is financially unable to comply with any order of the court directing him to pay his wife's attorney's fees and provide for her support during the pending of the divorce action she has commenced.

He alleges that his wife left him in October, 1908 and lived with another man. He says she came back once or twice afterwards, but that since November of that year she has not been home at all.

Johnson says he became discouraged and went away to find work. He was for a time on the range, but says it took all he made to support him and that he has not enough now to pay his own attorney's fees.

The defendant claims that his wife is well able to take care of herself. The complaint charges habitual drunkenness and cruel treatment on the part of Johnson. The case has been continued for two weeks.

HOTEL AND MEAT MARKET AT BAUDETTE BURNED.

Baudette, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Palace hotel and Hammond's meat market was burned to the ground at 5 p. m. yesterday. The fire originated from the hotel range. Both buildings were valued at $4,000, and were insured.

WEST END NEWS

DULUTH BOY KIDNAPED

Escapes From Captor After Spending Night in Box Car.

Man Described By Boy Arrested By Ashland Police.

WAIVES EXAMINATION.

Ashland, Wis., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Ryan, the alleged kidnaper of Gordon Clayton, when araigned in court this morning, waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury. It was brought out at the hearing that Ryan was preparing to take off the boy's good clothes and disguise him when the latter escaped. Ryan will probably plead guilty and be sent to state prison.

Kidnaped from his mother while on a visit with friends at Ashland, and forced to spend the night in a box car with his abductor, Gordon, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Clayton of 2011 West First street, slipped away from the kidnaper while the latter slept, and was found by a searching party late yesterday morning.

John Ryan, alias James Thomas, who is under arrest and is being held by the Ashland authorities for the offense, was described by the Clayton boy as the man who had spirited him away on Saturday night. The case against Ryan will be taken up today, and it is understood that charges of a serious nature will be preferred by the district attorney at Ashland.

F. C. Clayton, the father of the boy, is a railroad engineer on the Northern Pacific road, and makes a run between Duluth and Ashland. The boy and his mother were planning on spending most of the summer with the W. D. Kuhn family of 322 Front street. They went to Ashland about a week ago.

The little lad left the house before dusk Saturday night to meet his father, as was his usual custom. Before he had gone far, his story goes, he was stopped by a stranger, who, after talking with him for a little while, took his watch away from him, sold it and bought some liquor.

The liquor was tucked under the man's coat, according to the story told by the Clayton lad, and he was forced to go with the stranger down to the Omaha railroad yards. Most of the whisky the man drank himself, but he said Ryan had made him drink some also.

The little boy spent the night, shivering and cold, in the box car. Ryan was too stupefied by the liquor to be much concerned with his little prisoner. Early in the morning when his captor slept Gordon escaped. He was at loss to know where to go, and wandered aimlessly about.

The searching party ran across him on the Washburn road that passes Sheaton's mill about a mile and a half out of town about 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The boy was tired, he said, and had not slept any during the night. He told the police what his strange companion looked like and the description given led to the arrest of Ryan an hour later. He was found loafing around the railroad yards.

The finding of the boy relieved the increasing anxiety of the mother, who had heard no news from the searching party after anxiously waiting the entire night. The friends of the family in Duluth were notified that the boy had been found.

Ryan, according to Chief of Police W. T. Blair of Ashland, has figured prominently in police circles several times, having been up on charges of vagrancy and drunkenness. He refuses to say anything about the affair.

Whether his motive in stealing the boy was similar to that which actuated the Whitla kidnapers, or whether he was prompted by other reasons, will largely determine what charges will be preferred against him by the district attorney today.

The Ashland authorities are inclined to discredit the theory that Ryan abducted the boy simply for the value of his personal possessions. If this had been the case, they say, the boy would have been released after the valuables had been taken.

TWO CHURCHES TO HOLD REVIVAL

Swedish and Norwegian-Danish Congregations to Conduct Services.

Union revival services, held jointly by the First Swedish M. E. church and the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, will be conducted four nights this week, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at the last named church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

The meetings will be in charge of Rev. C. P. Ecklund, the Burlington, Iowa, evangelist. A special service for women only, will be held on Thursday afternoon. On Saturday afternoon, there will be a children's meeting.

Tonight there will not be any services held, but tomorrow night the revival meetings will be continued at the Swedish M. E. church. Prof. C. Wermine, Chicago, will sing at each service.

ADAMS TEAM WINS.

West Enders Defeat West Duluth Aggregation in Interesting Game.

In an interesting, although not particularly exciting exhibition of baseball, the Adams Athletic association team of the West end yesterday defeated the old Crescents, now known as the Union Match company aggregation, giving them the little end of a 7 to 5 score.

The game was pulled off on the Fifty-second avenue west grounds and a large crowd attended. Telbot pitched for the Union Match company and McFarlane and Olson for the Adams team. Telbot was not in his usual good form. Olsen, shortstop for the Adams team got a home run.

West End Girl Dies.

Violet Cecilia Olson, the 7-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Olson of 2720 West Michigan street, died early yesterday morning at the home of her parents. Death was due to typhoid fever.

The funeral of the child will be held tomorrow afternoon from the residence, at 2 o'clock. Interment will be at Park Hill cemetery. Rev. C. G. Olsen, pastor of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, will officiate.

Ready for Festival.

A final dress rehearsal for the "Sater Fest," the annual entertainment to be presented by the young people of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, will be held tonight. The affair will be held at the church tomorrow evening.

A special feature of the entertainment will be the costumes. The decorations, the stage settings, and the language will suggest Norway.

The program will be varied and will consist for the most part in dialogues and recitations in Norwegian. Old Norsk songs will be sung and a number of instrumental numbers are also on the program.

West End Shortrails.

William Anderson is in Minneapolis for a few days' visit.

Miss Augusta Anderson of San Francisco, Cal., is a guest at the home of Alderman Peter Olsen of 2233 West Tenth street. She is returning to her home, after a year in Europe.

The Altar Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church will meet tomorrow evening at the vestry.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Pearson have returned from Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. Pearson underwent a successful operation for appendicitis. They live at 2109 West First street.

WAS A CASE OF SUICIDE

Believed the Unidentified Dead Man Met Death By Own Hand.

Note on Body Said He Was Tired of Life.

"I am tired of life."

This is the substance of a note found in the clothing of the unidentified man, who was found dead, last Saturday at Thirty-first avenue east, about 200 feet south of Superior street. The assumption is that he committed suicide.

The words were written in German, probably indicating the nationality of the dead man. The remains are being held at Flood & Horgan's undertaking rooms. Many have viewed them, but no one has recognized the features of the corps. There was nothing about the body to give a clue to the man's identity.

The body was found in a thick clump of brush, under a rude tar paper covering, open at one side, and just high enough so that a man could crawl under. The man's feet were wrapped in hay and pieces of sack. It is believed he had been dead five or six months. He was about 55 years old.

BERG CASE DISMISSED

Baraga Boy Will Get Nothing for His Injuries.

Judge Ensign Rules That Railroad Company Was Not Negligent.

The case of Amelia Berg, as guardian for her little son, George, against the Duluth, South Shore Atlantic railroad was dismissed this morning by Judge Ensign, when it was all ready for the jury.

The evidence had all been submitted Saturday, when a motion was made by Attorneys T. S. Wood and C. O. Baldwin for the defendant, asking that the case be dismissed on the grounds that the company had not been negligent and that the boy had been a trespasser on the property of the company at Baraga, where he was injured. The motion was taken under consideration by Judge Ensign, and this morning was granted.

Mrs. Berg sued for $40,000 for the injuries to her son, and an additional $5,000 for the expense of medical attendance, and the care of nursing him. The lad lost both his legs. It was shown during the trial that the company had issued orders not to allow children to play about the yards, although the plaintiffs claimed that it was a common custom in Baraga for the railroad men to invite the boys to come in and do odd jobs for them, getting rides on the engines in return. P. J. O'Brien of Hancock and Victor Linley of Superior represented the plaintiffs.

The case was a hard-fought one throughout, the attorneys contesting every possible point.

WAS SHOT BY BARTENDER

John Johnson Fires His Revolver at John Hill.

John Johnson, bartender in the saloon of Peterson & Erickson, 113 St. Croix avenue, was arrested Saturday night for shooting John Hill, after Hill and two other man had refused to leave the saloon when ordered to do so.

The bullet entered Hill's left side, but did not hit a vital spot, and at St. Luke's hospital, where the wounded man was taken, it was announced that there would be no serious results. The bartender called the police and gave himself up immediately after the shooting.

Johnson said Hill had been hanging around the saloon all the afternoon, with two other men, and that all three of them had been drinking heavily. The trio become disorderly during the evening and the bartender ordered them to leave the place, but they refused to go.

Johnson then tried to force them out of the building and was struck in the face by a beer glass, which was thrown by one of the men. Enraged at this, and to save himself from further injury, he says, Johnson reached behind the bar, seized his revolver and fired two shots, one of the bullets taking effect in Hill's side.

Frank Hill, one of the men who started the disturbance, was taken to the police station with Johnson.

Johnson will have a hearing in police court May 31. Bail has been fixed at $1,000. Frank Hill, charged with disorderly conduct, pleaded not guilty in court this morning, and his hearing was set for this afternoon.

BABY IN VILLAGE WELL.

Gruesome Discovery Which Has Disturbed the Baudette People.

Baudette, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The inhabitants of Baudette are very much excited over a gruesome discovery Saturday. Mr. Hanson went to the village well to get some water. His pail dropped in, and he went down into the well and discovered a new born baby floating on the top. The coroner was immediately summoned and it was found to have been dead not exceeding two days. The baby weighed twelve pounds.

CARRIED OVER THE DAM.

Logs Held Up By Dietz Now in Chippewa River.

Bruce, Wis., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large drive of logs belonging to the Mississippi River Logging company has entered into the Chippewa river from the Flambeau at this place. These are the logs which caused the trouble between Dietz in Sawyer county and the authorities a number of years ago when Dietz held the drive at his dam and resorted to the use of arms to prevent their passing.

The logs now passing were carried over the dam by recent high water and others were hauled around by team.

The Scenic Highway Thro' the Land of Fortune

Increased Train Service

Effective May 23, 1909, the Northern Pacific Railway augmented its passenger train service by the establishment of new trains, not alone between eastern and western terminals, but locally on main lines and branches in the several states which it serves.

¶ It has thus placed in closer touch than ever the different sections, the various cities and towns, the thriving communities, which for twenty-six years the Northern Pacific has aided and fostered in growth and progress.

¶ This increased efficiency of service means much to the territory tributary to the Northern Pacific Railway.

¶ Additional lines projected or actually under construction will still further increase the scope of Northern Pacific co-operation in the development of the Northwest in the course of the next year or two.

¶ The present through service comprises

SAFE BLOWN UP AT CHISHOLM

Great Northern Depot Safe Cracked But Nothing Secured.

Chisholm, Minn. May 24.—The safe in the Great Northern depot was cracked Thursday night, doing considerable damage to the building. The robbers entered through the south door which enters the men's waiting room and cut a hole through the door leading from the waiting room to the office, making it easy for the cracksmen to get at the safe. Two windows on the north side were smashed in as they were broken from the inside it is the concensus of opinion that they were broken for the purpose of passing tools through the opening for the blowing up of the strong box which was done with nitro-glycerin.

The cracks were all filled with soap and the explosive poured in through a tube and when exploded the outer door was wrenched off, throwing it against a stove and breaking it in two pieces. The inside door was not damaged and nothing was missing. The robbers were evidently frightened awa yafter the first explosion, leaving the job unfinished.

MARBLE TO HAVE A FINE SCHOOL

Electors Decide to Bond the District for $35,000.

Coleraine, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a special meeting of the electors of this school district held at Marble Saturday night a unanimous vote was cast to bond the district for a modern eight-room school building to cost $35,000. Plans and specifications for the new building have already been prepared by J. J. Wangerstein of Duluth and have been accepted by the board of education. A contract will be let at once and work rushed to complete the building by next fall. A beautiful site has been secured in the heart of the village of Marble. School is now being conducted in that village in a temporary frame structure and in the new town hall.

Where there was only an untouched forest last July is now the modern village of Marble, the location of the famous Hill mine. There are many fine modern residences, a large three-story brick hotel, recently opened, a two-story brick bank building, several other business blocks, and a town hall recently completed at a cost of $15,000. A mile and a half distant is the saloon town of Calumet.

NASHWAUK WINS FIRST GAME

Defeat Stevenson in Their First Contest of the Season.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Nashwauk and Stevenson baseball teams clashed together on the latter's ground Sunday afternoon. Three hundred people witnessed the contest which was exciting from the beginning to the finish. The score was 16 to 13 in favor of the Nashwauk team. Nels Nelson pitched scientifically during the game, striking out fourteen men. Manager William Hayes and Capt. Jerry Hicks were well pleased with the excellent showing of the team, which played its first game this season.

NASHWAUK CONTRACTS.

The contracts were awarded to the D. R. Black & Co., for the Heating plant at $7,292, and for the plumbing at $1,998. The Burgess Electric company received the wiring contract for $1,032.25.

Adam Kolemaine, former manager of the Finish Joint Stock company's store, has opened a pop factory on Second street.

DROWNED IN BURNTSIDE.

Young Indian Tried to Swim Across When Intoxicated.

Ely Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Bugamagesik," an Indian, about 24 years of age, was drowned in Burntside lake. T. E. Miller and M. E. Gleason who went up there, having been notified by the Indians of the drowning, found the remains on the other side of the Burntside portage. It seems that the young fellow had been in town and had filled up on whisky. Returning home, instead of calling to the camp on the island for a ferry, he attempted to swim across and was drowned.

BUYING ON THE CUYUNA.

Hibbing Men Buying Land Within Three Miles of Deerwood.

Hibbing, Minn., May 24.—H. P. Reed spent several days last week on the Cuyuna iron range and came back with options on 160 acres finely situated on the new range. The land purchased is within three miles of Deerwood, northeast of the city of Brainerd. It is but a short distance from a quarter section which recently sold for $16,000. Mr Reed was offered a substantial advance for his holdings within a day after his purchase, but refused to sell. The purchase is financed by ten residents of this city, including, Mr. Reed, Al Scrimger of Hibbing, Wood & Knapp of Chisholm and others.

Plans are hatching for the formation of a company in Hibbing to buy up other tracts on the Cuyuna range.

RAIDED BY MINISTER.

Four Saloons at Bovey Visited But No Arrests Made.

Bovey, Minn., May 24.—The saloon keepers of Bovey were thrown into a state of consternation when Rev. Mr. Hill, pastor of the Methodist church at Coleraine, and two officers appeared at 11:30 last night and raided four saloons. The places which received such welcome visits were the Unique hotel, Pat. C. Peterson's saloon, Barrett's and Speck's. No arrests were made, but the names of those found in the places were taken and it is expected that warrants will be sworn out.

BAD ROADS MAY DELAY BETTER MAIL SERVICE.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 24.—C. B. Hillman has received a letter from Congressman Miller stating that an inspector from the postoffice department will be here soon to investigate the matter of establishing a tri-weekly mail service north of the city and into the Silver creek district.

As the roads in this district are in very bad condition at the present time, it is very doubtful if the inspector will make a favorable report unless he receives assurance from the proper authorities that immediate improvements will be made.

HIBBING EAGLES PLAN FOR STATE CONVENTION.

Hibbing, Minn., May 24.—The local aerie of Eagles has organized to prepare for the state convention of Eagles, which will be held in Hibbing the latter part of next month. Headquarters have been opened in the new Rood block, where L. L. Baskins, as secretary of the executive committee, is in charge.

The convention will be held in the armory of the new city hall. The building will not be completed by that time, but the third floor, in which the armory is located, will be ready and the convention will be held there.

Conductor A. S. Atter and father departed Saturday for Eau Claire, Wis., for a visit with relatives.

E. W. Peck, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., addressed the men's gospel meeting at the local Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon.

The local members of the Northern Railway club went to Duluth on a special train Saturday evening to attend the monthly meeting of the club.

Among those from here who will attend the International Y. M. C. A. convention at St. Louis this week are Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Burwick, B. G Hall and N. W. Benning.

The Duluth & Iron Range steam shovel has been moved from Brimson to Summit pit, and the gravel is being hauled from there for the new tracks in Gilbert yard.

Owing to the fact that all their timber has been cut, Somers Bros. do not expect to rebuild their mill on the Little Stewart river, near this city, which burned down last week.

The Missabe road gospel car, under charge of Local Y. M. C. A. Secretary N. W. Benning, made stops and held meetings at Fayal, Pettit, Mesaba and Ely last week.

The county commissioners, at their meeting Tuesday, June 1, will open bids for grading about four miles of new roads in the county.

C. M. Floatlie, Rev. N. Moulton, C. A. Yenberg, C. Eliasson and F. F. James went to Hinckley, Minn., Saturday, to inspect the Keweenaw Western Development company's property, near that place.

The wrestling match here Thursday evening, between Emil Peterson of this city and William Beaulieu of Superior, was won by the former, who took two straight falls in 19 and 8½ minutes respectively.

The new City Baseball league has elected the following: J. C. Manville, president; N. W. Benning, vice president; John St. Cyr, secretary and treasurer.

THE "DUMP" SANK OUT OF SIGHT

Water Pipes and Telephone Wires at Marble Broken.

Coleraine, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word has just been received here of a most remarkable sinking of the "dump' near the Hill mine at Marble. Last night a large part of the dump on the shore of Mud lake sank. This dump was forty or fifty feet high and it sank out of sight during the night. The water pipes and telephone wires are broken and large sections of the water system lost. The new Nashwauk branch of the Great Northern crosses here and a short time ago a part of the heavy fill on the right-of-way on this road sank.

The high school teachers and students had a delightful picnic at Snyder's point on Trout lake Saturday. The large gasoline launch Twin City was chartered from the Ingalls Boat company for the occasion. The weather was ideal and the picnickers spent a most enjoyable day.

CHISHOLM WILL HAVE BALL PARK

Fast Team Expected to Be Put in the Field.

Chisholm, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work has been started on the ball park by Hayes & Hackett. The park is situated about a quarter of a mile from the main street. It is a very level piece of ground, and with a couple of weeks' work will be one of the best on the range. It will be fenced and bleachers built as soon as the grounds are finished. It is expected that a very fast team will be put in the field this year, although it will have a late start.

Attorney C. A. Knapp has returned from St. Paul, where he attended to business matters.

Herman Tetzlaff has commenced work on a brick building 50 by 75 feet and two stories high.

The Miners State bank has decided to erect a brick building 25 by 70 feet two stories high. Work was commenced Wednesday. The building will be located at Lake street and Second avenue.

Karon brothers are building a brick store 25 by 60 feet, situated on Lake street. It will be occupied by S. Groman, with a clothing store.

The funeral of Ed Meeker, who died at Rochester, Minn., after being operated on, took place Friday afternoon. Interment was made at Hibbing cemetery. A large delegation of Eagles attended the funeral. He was 43 years old.

All shacks now situated on the Main street must be off by the 25th inst. That is the last day the council decided to let the shacks remain.

Lawrence Kovack is erecting a two-story brick building on his lots on Lake street. He will occupy both buildings with a saloon and grocery store.

Frank Klink will start work on a brick building 50 by 50 feet, on Second avenue. The building will be occupied by himself, and he will conduct a dry goods store.

ORE SHIPMENTS GROWING.

Mines in and Around Hibbing Getting Very Busy.

Hibbing, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The stripping operations at the mines in and around Hibbing are being rapidly pushed forward. The Winston-Dean company had started one shovel, while the Drake & Stratton company is at work stripping both the Leonard and Mahoning No. 2. The Tener mine began shipments last week. The ore shipments are gradually increasing. The Great Northern yards at Kelly Lake are sending out about fifteen cars a day, while the Missabe is shipping from twenty to twenty-five cars a day from its Mitchell yards.

HAD FIGHT WITH FOREST FIRES

Aurora People Had Hard Work to Stop Fierce Fires.

Aurora, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saturday noon a fire was discovered on the corner where the road leading from the village turns towards the Mohawk location, and in a few moments was a raging forest fire. The men from the Miller mine were put to fight it, and after hard work stopped the fire from spreading south when it reached within 100 feet of the Miller powderhouse. Later in the afternoon the fire crossed the road just west of the sidewalk and, getting into the dry woods, raged fiercely, steadily working its way toward what is known as "Chicken Town." Although the wind was in the southwest, the fire beat its way ahead against it. When it was seen that the settlement was in danger, backfires were built and after a few hours the flames had died down.

On the west, near the Miller location, a hose was kept at work continuously from a pipe line laid from the Miller mine, and the fire in this direction was checked.

At the same time a large forest fire was raging three miles north of the Meadow mine, but no damage is reported as the territory has been burned over before.

Sunday a good-sized forest fire started several miles south of town, and one to the northeast.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY.

THE LYCEUM STARS DEFEAT INDEPENDENTS.

Eveleth, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lyceum Stars and the Independents, the two local amateur teams, played a fast game of ball yesterday afternoon at the ball park before a fair-sized crowd. The Lyceum Stars won by a score of 9 to 5.

The local high school team went down to Virginia Saturday and were defeated by one run. The score was 7 to 6. The Virginia team won out in the last half of the ninth.

MISS SHALEEN TO RESIGN POSITION AT HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Elvalild Shaleen, who has had charge of the manual training schools in Hibbing, will at the expiration of the present term, resign her position. On next Friday afternoon and evening, in the high school building, the pupils of Miss Shaleen will give an exhibit of the work done by them in sewing and manual training.

NEW SAWMILL TO BE STARTED AT HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., May 24.—I. P. Lliend has returned from a trip through the South. While in Bridgeport, Ala., he purchased a $40,000 sawmill and will install it just as soon as it arrives, which is expected to be very shortly. Mr. Lliend will saw lumber, prepare mining timber, etc., and his mill will afford employment for several men. The mill will be located east of the Buffalo & Susquehanna mine, near the mine's long trestle.

BALL TEAM FOR EVELETH.

Hope to Have Team That Will be a Winner.

Eveleth, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. P. Tredennick, the local broker, who left ten days ago for Oregon, Ill., where on May 18 he was married to Miss Ida Marshall, returned yesterday morning with his bride, and they will occupy a suite of rooms in the Glode hotel.

Mr. Tredennick is manager of the Eveleth Baseball club, and a meeting of the fans will be held tonight to raise some money and get players to make up a good team, which will trim Hubbing or any other range team. Pat Boyle, last year's third baseman, is playing manager. A soliciting committee will go out today to sell shares in the baseball club at $10 each.

MINER INSTANTLY KILLED.

Fell From Trestle at St. James Mine While Intoxicated.

Aurora, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Williams, a Cornishman aged about 35, fell from the trestle at the St. James mine this afternoon and was instantly killed, his neck being broken. As near as can be learned Williams had been in town all day from the Adriatic mine, eight miles north of town, where he was employed and had been drinking quite heavily. A short time before the accident he was seen by Supt. W. J. Rashleigh of the St. James' sitting alongside of a ditch at the end of the trestle. Williams, it appears, had started to walk to the Adriatic, but upon coming to the St. James had changed his mind and turned toward Aurora again, going by the way of the mine. He had walked to the end of the trestle, but finding no way to get down turned back, and when over a creek was seen to fall by a boy, Thomas Gogan, who immediately rushed to his aid. Williams was found dead and the boy reported the accident to the marshal. The fall was a distance of about sixteen feet and Williams had struck his head on one of the timbers.

Deputy Coroner Nelson being on a trip to Pennsylvania, Dr. Barrow viewed the remains and they were taken to the morgue. No inquest will be held. Williams, so far as known, has no relatives in this country, and was an unmarried man.

F. R. ELLSWORTH TO WED A MILWAUKEE GIRL.

Eveleth, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Milwaukee advices state that Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Lucas, 3115 Syracuse street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Isabelle, to Fergus Richards Ellsworth of Eveleth.

QUITS HOTEL KEEPING TO ENJOY FARM LIFE.

Hibbing, Minn., May 24.—Emil Anderson has leased his Hotel Northern property and will devote his time to farming. Mr. Anderson has conducted the hotel for thirteen years, worked hard all the time, and has it figured out where he can enjoy life for a few years at least. He has a splendid farm, partly under cultivation, at Buck lake, about fourteen miles northwest of here.

National Bank at Bovey.

Bovey, Minn., May 24.—The First State Bank of Bovey has just received a charter from the comptroller of currency at Washington for the organization of a national bank, and while it will take some little time to complete the details, the First State will eventually be converted into the First National.

Married At Chisholm.

Chisholm, Minn., May 24.—Frederick Fuller a local contractor and teamster, and Miss Annie Olson, formerly of Duluth, were married here on Tuesday by C. P. Keast, at the Methodist church. Mr. and Mrs. Fuller are residing in Chisholm.

Memorial Day at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., May 24.—The Modern Brotherhood of America has decided to ask the other lodges of the city to join in the observance of Memorial day.

Aurora Defeated Elba.

Aurora, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Elba and Aurora teams played here yesterday, the latter winning by a score of 8 to 6. Batteries for Aurora—Lindquist and Buckner, Renson and Beecroft; for Elba—Andrel and Haskins.

Goes to Attend Funeral.

Eveleth, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. William H. Linn left this morning for Minneapolis to attend the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Lund, who died in Minneapolis Saturday morning.

Eveleth, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local Order Brith Abraham, composed of Jewish men and women, gave a social and dance last night at Monitor hall, to celebrate the first anniversary of the organization of the local lodge. Many visitors from Virginia and Gilbert were present and several talks were given by members of the lodge, telling about the the growth of the lodge.

Goes to Gilbert.

TRAIN ROBBERS STILL AT LARGE

Maurer heard an automobile soon after the robbers disappeared, but did not see it. He supposed it belonged to the robbers, but this theory is not now accepted by the authorities, who believe it was the one in which the police made their first search for the bandits.

John Favelle, an employe of a stove factory at Ralston, was walking to his home in South Omaha at about midnight Saturday and was passed by four men in an express wagon headed for South Omaha and driving rapidly. It is the general belief that these were the train robbers. Favelle is unable to furnish any definite description of the men.

Passengers Not Molested.

The robbers evidently got on the train at some place west of here. They climbed over the tank and forced the engineer to stop his train and then proceeded to the mail car. The clerks were forced to open the door and hand out pouches of registered mail. Once they obtained the bags they hurried away in a southerly direction and permitted the train to proceed. The passengers were not molested.

Two of the robbers climbed into the engine with drawn revolvers and forced the engineer to stop the train. The engine crew was ordered out of the cab and two robbers stood guard while the other two escorted the engineer and fireman to the rear. The quartet were apparently well acquainted with the ground, as they forced the train to stop in a deep cut.

A continuous fusillade of shooting was kept up during the robbery, evidently to intimidate passengers and crew. A flagman who went to the rear narrowly escaped being shot.

Plans Well Laid.

That the robbers had laid their plans was apparent. They dropped from sight so quickly that no one has been able to give a clue to the direction in which they went. The empty mail pouches were found near Forty-third and Jackson street, which leads the police to believe that the robbers came towards the city. All four men wore long raincoats and their features were entirely masked, giving no opportunity to identify the men by members of the train crew.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Camden, N.J.— "It is with pleasure that I add my testimonial to your already long list—hoping that it may induce others to avail themselves of this valuable medicine. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered from terrible headaches, pain in my back and right side, was tired and nervous, and so weak I could hardly stand. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to health and made me feel like a new person, and it shall always have my praise." —Mrs. W. P. VALENTINE, 902 Lincoln Avenue, Camden, N. J.

Gardiner, Me.— "I was a great sufferer from a female disease. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me in three months." —Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner Me.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

WANTS BIG SUM FROM CITY OF ELY

Herman Kanbelin has commenced action against the city of Ely to collect $25,000 for injuries he alleges he sustained through the negligence of the city in keeping its sidewalks in repair, and $600, which he claims he has been compelled to expend for medical service as a result of the accident.

The plaintiff alleges the accident occurred Nov. 28, 1908, when he fell on a defective sidewalk. He alleges that his back was badly strained, his hip bone broken and his brain affected by the fall. He alleges that he is losing weight and is in a bad condition generally as a result of the accident, and thinks that $25,000 is a fair compensation.

A Family Dispute.

The case of Mary J. Gillon against her sister-in-law, Lillian Gillon is on trial this afternoon before Judge Dibell, in the district court.

The case involves the ownership of lots 7 and 8 in London addition to the city of Duluth. Lillian, the defendant is the widow of James F. Gillon, a son of Mrs. Anna Gillon, the owner of the land before the contestants came into possession.

The oldest canal in England was originally a Roman cutting—the Foss dike—running its eleven miles from London to the Trent, near Torksey. Deepened in the time of King Henry I, it was allowed to decay until 1840, when the Edinburgh Stevensons both widened and deepened it.

CITY BRIEFS

Printing and Bookbinding.
Thwing-Stewart Co. 'Phones 114.

Ely Haley Guilty.
Ely Haley, charged with disorderly conduct, because he knocked Patrick McDonough off his feet Saturday afternoon, pleaded guilty in police court and was allowed to go under suspended sentence. It developed that McDonough, while drunk, directed abusive language at Haley until the latter was justified in striking him. The little scene occurred on Superior street, near the corner of Third avenue west.

Copper Near Hinckley.
J. C. Towne, George Mumford, W. N. Moulton, Thomas Spalth, Charles Eliasson and Ransom Metcalf of Two Harbors, are in the city on their way home from Hinckley, Minn., where they have been inspecting properties in that vicinity said to contain copper prospects.

Visits Duluth.
G. Ray Hall, commercial agent for the Canadian Northern and the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg road in Chicago, was in the city yesterday. Formerly he was connected with the Rainy Lake road in Duluth.

Saloon Still There.
The saloon at the corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street is still in operation, despite the fact that is on the site of the new hotel building now under course of construction. The old saloon building, measuring 25 by 142 feet, has been cut down to 10 by 20 feet, and liquor will be sold here until the first floor of the new building is ready for occupancy.

Return to Detroit.
Russell A. Alger and party of Detroit, Mich., who have been inspecting the new improvements made by Alger & Smith at Knife River, passed through Duluth yesterday on their way home.

A Big Corset Event.
J. M. Gidding & Co. are holding a remarkable sale of Gossard and Ferrostaffle corsets. $3.50, $5 and $8 are the prices set on these famous corsets, that regularly sell at from $5 to $10. See the ad. on society page.

Angling on Gooseberry.
A party comprising F. F. McQuaid, A. J. Pierce, F. W. Culley, E. F. Guyer, H. B. Puente of Duluth and Iver Emerson and J. Hegge of Two Harbors was among the successful fishermen on the Gooseberry river yesterday. They drove from Two Harbors in an automobile, and on the way back killed a calf, rather expensive accident with beef prices at their present level.

Held to Grand Jury.
Alex Saiekko, charged with second degree assault, had a preliminary hearing in police court this morning, and was held over to the grand jury. Several witnesses testified that he had thrown a beer glass at A. Reimi in a Lake avenue saloon, badly cutting the latter about the face.

Fourth Street Paving.
About the only business of special interest scheduled for the council meeting this evening is the disposition of the Fourth street paving matter, which was laid over from last week. P. McDonnell is the lowest bidder for the contract, but his bid is $2,500 higher than for the same work two weeks before, and some of the aldermen are not satisfied with his explanation, or were not satisfied last week.

Hibbing Men in Jail.
George Rimes and George Hensliff of Hibbing are in the St. Louis county jail, charged with stealing a watch. Judge Thomas F. Brady bound them over to the next term of the district court.

Dynamite Demonstration.
A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the Grand Rapids Experimental Farm, who was at the McKay today, says that the demonstrations in the blasting of dynamite as a method of clearing the stumpage from the land of the settlers in this part of the state are being carried on at the present time, and that some time in June a demonstration will be given in this city. The agricultural department of the Duluth Commercial club will have charge of the demonstrations that will be given in this county.

Amended Complaint.
An amended complaint has been filed in the United States court in the case of Amanda Guinn against W. G. Crosby and others in an action to collect $40,000 damages for the disposal of certain iron range land under alleged fraudulent misrepresentations by one of the defendants.

Streams Frozen Over.
Fishermen returning from the streams north and east of Duluth report that on Saturday night a quarter of an inch of ice formed on many of the pools.

PERSONAL

Roy C. McIonigle, for many years one of the tellers in the American Exchange bank, but now traveling auditor for the Washburn-Crosby company, the Minneapolis millers, left Duluth last evening for Hancock, Mich., after a visit of several days with Duluth friends. Mr. McGonigle will open a new office for his company at Hancock.

Edward A. McConville formerly of this city, but now in the copper brokerage business in St. Paul, is in Duluth on a business trip and to see his old friends.

Miss Elsie Silberstein, who has been visiting in the Twin Cities, has returned.

Mrs. Sophie Thomsen left this afternoon for the Pacific coast.

E. C. Johnson left today for San Francisco.

A. S. Kitton and wife of Virginia are in the city today.

George L. Shattuck of Hibbing is at the St. Louis.

Capt. Thomas H. Presnell, clerk of the United States court, is confined to his home today with an attack of bronchitis. He has been indisposed for several days, but did not feel it necessary to give up his work until Saturday evening.

SUPERIOR NEWS

HOLMES CASE IS CALLED

Negro Given Hearing on Charge of First Degree Assault.

The preliminary hearing of James Holmes, colored, who is charged with assaulting with intent to kill John Buell, was called this afternoon in the Superior municipal court.

The defense made by the negro is that in striking Buell over the head with a revolver, it was an act of self-defense and the firing of his revolver was accidental.

The trouble began over the strike situation on the lakes.

The case was adjourned late this afternoon.

DIES FROM HIS WOUNDS

Woodsman's Attempt at Suicide Finally Proves Successful.

After lingering between life and death at St. Mary's hospital in Superior for over a week, Jacob Matson, 27 years of age, who has no relatives or friends in this country, died this morning as a result of an attempt to cut his throat on May 11.

The remains were turned over to the poor authorities and will be buried in the Potter's field. Matson slashed his throat from ear to ear in a Third street boarding house over a week ago, but lived until this morning.

Despondency was the cause of his self-destruction.

RESENTED BEING CALLED "SCAB"

Special Officer Beaten—Two Alleged Assailants on Trial.

Charged with having beaten and robbed Officer Harrington, special patrolman for the docks, at Third street and Banks avenue late Saturday night, Joe Smith and George Wilson, alias Harracka, were arraigned this morning in municipal court.

Both men pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery and the case was set over to May 28. According to the story told this morning in court by Harrington, he entered a Third street saloon Saturday night and was accused by strikers of sympathizers of being a "scab."

Harrington resented the accusation and told them so. When he left the saloon two men followed him and pounced upon him at Third street and Banks avenue. He was beaten until unconscious.

When he came to himself, he notified the police, who arrested the two men. Harrington identified both of them in court this morning.

Shong's Successor Named.

Prof. Harvey A. Schofield of Nellsville is slated to succeed A. C. Shong, principal of the Blaine high school, next fall.

Odd Fellows' Banquet.

Covers were laid for about sixty at the banquet tendered yesterday afternoon by the Superior Odd Fellows in honor of the North Star Degree team of Minneapolis. The affair was held at the Hotel Roaster. H. W. Dietrich was toastmaster.

Calendar Is Called.

The June calendar of the circuit court was called this morning, and the jurors will tomorrow report for duty. Several criminal and civil cases of importance are slated for this session. There are also a number of personal injury suits.

Police Suspect Indian.

William Wright, an Indian, was arrested late Saturday afternoon, pending an investigation as to whether he is the party who has passed several bogus checks in Superior. He will be arraigned in municipal court today.

Injuries Are Serious.

The condition of Elmer Hunker, a Terminal switchman, who was seriously injured by being thrown from the top of a freight car Friday evening, was today reported to be no better. He sustained three fractured ribs, a sprained wrist and internal injuries.

REFORMERS ARRESTED

Lid Agitators Are Jailed For Breaking Open Saloons.

Thiefs Followed Them and Wholesale Thefts Are Reported.

Coleraine, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. F. W. Hill, August Johnson and Ed Carson, constables, and P. M. Ramquist, were arrested in Bovey this afternoon after they had broken into many of the town's saloons and opened a way for thieves later to make a wholesale haul from the unprotected buildings.

The men were in search of evidence that would help to convict the saloon keepers of violating the state liquor laws. They were held in $500 bonds each.

Believing that the saloons were maintaining slot machines and violating the liquor laws by selling on Sunday, they started out to get evidence against them.

After raiding a few saloons, a crowd collected and followed the four men on the balance of their trip. After their visit to Knobloch's saloon, the owner found that thieves had entered in their wake, and finding the doors open and the premises unprotected, had taken $700 in cash.

At Barnett's saloon the thieves collected $200. On entering the saloon owned by J. Speck the men encountered the bartender with a loaded revolver. He held the four investigators up for some time at the point of the gun.

In the C. Peterson place the crusaders are said to have found several men at the bar. Those who lost money and where property was damaged caused the arrest of the four men this morning.

COURT PROTECTS MRS. YERKES

Denies Appeal for Stay in Receivership, However.

New York, May 24.—An appeal of counsel for Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes for a stay in the receivership in the Yerkes estate was denied today by the United States circuit court of appeals.

The court decided that the receiver should be continued in charge pending hearing on the appeal from his appointment, which is set for June 15. Mrs. Yerkes, however, gained one point that she sought—measurable relief from the scrutiny to which she claims to have been subjected from detectives whom the receiver has kept stationed in the Yerkes mansion on Fifth avenue. Her counsel stated that she had recovered from her recent illness, but feared to leave the house lest she be prevented by the receiver's representatives from returning.

The court, while declining to interfere with the present status of the case in other respects, directed that Mrs. Yerkes be allowed to leave the residence and return at her pleasure.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION —OF— ALLIE M. FERRIS PERSIAN COMPANY.

This is to certify that the undersigned, whose names are subscribed hereto, have associated themselves together for the purpose of organizing a corporation pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of the State of Minnesota for the year 1905, and of the Acts amendatory thereof, and have adopted and signed the following Articles of Incorporation:

ARTICLE 1.

The name of this corporation shall be "Allie M. Ferris Persian Company," and the general nature of its business shall be to acquire, hold, or deal in lands, tenements and hereditaments, and real, personal and mixed property; to sell, lease, mortgage or otherwise dispose of any of its properties or to improve the same, and to do any other lawful business, including the purchasing, holding and selling of investment securities or other personal property in the State of Minnesota and any other states and territories of the United States of America.

The principal place of business of this corporation shall be in the City of Duluth and State of Minnesota.

ARTICLE 2.

This corporation shall begin the 25th day of May, 1909, and shall continue for a period of thirty (30) years thereafter.

ARTICLE 3.

The names and places of residence of the incorporators are as follows: Alfred Jaques, Duluth, Minnesota; Theodore T. Hudson, Duluth, Minnesota, and M. L. Knutson, Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE 4.

The government of this corporation and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a board of three directors. Said directors shall be elected from among the stockholders at their annual meeting to be held on the first Monday in May of each year. Each director shall hold office for one year and until his successor is elected and qualified.

The following named persons shall constitute the first Board of Directors, viz.: Alfred Jaques, Duluth, Minnesota; Theodore T. Hudson, Duluth, Minnesota, and M. L. Knutson, Duluth, Minnesota, each shall hold office until the first annual meeting and until their successors are elected and qualified. A majority of the directors shall have power to fill any vacancy occurring in the Board between annual meetings.

The officers of the corporation shall be a President, Secretary and Treasurer. The officers shall be elected at the first meeting of the Board of Directors and thereafter at the first meeting after the annual election, and shall hold office until their successors are chosen by the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE 5.

WHEAT PRICES STILL SOARING IN AMERICA

Old and New Crop Options Have a Good Bulge.

The Market for Flaxseed in Duluth Is Lower.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 24.—Wheat made new high marks in many of the American markets today, the advance beginning at the opening and continuing with but occasional slight reactions until the close.

Not only the May and July options, but the September option, which is new wheat, had a substantial advance in the Duluth market. September wheat was more than two points higher than Saturday.

Liverpool closed ½d to ¾d higher, Berlin ½c lower and Budapest 3½c lower.

The May option closed 1c higher in Duluth and St. Louis, 2c higher in Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City, and ¾c higher in New York. The July option closed 1¾c higher in Duluth, 1¾c higher in New York, 1⅞c higher in St. Louis, and 1¾@1⅞c higher in Kansas City. It was a holiday in Winnipeg.

July corn closed 1@1⅛c higher in Chicago, and oats 1⅛c higher.

World's shipments of corn last week: America, 5,000; Russia, 888,000; Danube, 813,000; Argentina, 3,251,000; total 4,760,000 bus.

World's shipments of wheat last week: America, 2,112,000; Russia, 3,784,000; Danube, 824,000; India, 568,000; Argentina, 1,360,000; Australia, 784,000; Chili, North Africa, 216,000; total, 2,640,000 bus.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The market here was affected at the opening by the firmness in America on Saturday and private reports of an unfavorable outlook for the Kansas crop, and values were ½d to ⅝d higher. During the early morning shorts became nervous and covered freely, and with offerings light prices further gained ⅝d to ¾d. The world's exports were smaller than expected. Country markets continue firm, good demand for cargoes, especially from the continent, and the fact that private reports now confirm out recent cables that the rains in Southwest Russia were only part and more are wanted. Just before midday there was a slight decline, due to the development of a quieter demand for nearby cargoes, and at this time the market was ¼d to ½d lower than the high of the morning, and ⅝d to 1d up from Saturday.

"Corn was quiet and about ¼d lower. The market was dull, with a quiet demand for all positions."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 6, against 18 last year, and at Minneapolis 272 against 196 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 277 against 215 last year. Chicago received 9 against 53 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 358,000 bu; last year, 631,000 bu. Shipments, 331,000 bu; last year, 398,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour were 108,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 558,000 bu; last year, 640,000 bu. Shipments, 518,000 bu; last year, 462,000 bu.

Wheat was fairly active in the Duluth market May wheat opened at $1.32, advanced to $1.32⅜ and closed at $1.31⅜, a gain of 1c over Saturday. July wheat opened unchanged at $1.30, advanced to $1.31½ and closed at $1.31⅛, a gain of 1¼c over Saturday. September wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.11⅜, advanced to $1.14 and closed at $1.13⅜, a gain of 2⅛c over Saturday.

Durum closed 2c higher.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.77½, advanced to $1.78, declined to $1.76¼ and closed at $1.76½, a loss of 1c from Saturday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.76½, declined to $1.74 and closed at $1.74¾, a loss of 1½c from Saturday. September flax declined from $1.53 to $1.52, a loss of 1c from Saturday. October flax declined from $1.47 to $1.45¾, a loss of 1¾c from Saturday.

Oats closed ⅛c higher and barley ½c higher.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Speculative Prices for Grain Continue to Soar to New Records.

Chicago, May 24.—Speculative prices for grain continued to soar on the board of trade today, wheat, corn and oats advancing to new high record marks for the season. Wheat for May delivery sold during early trading at $1.33⅛, which is 1⅛c above the closing quotations of Saturday. The September option also established a new top figure at $1.10, while July failed by ⅝c of reaching the best price touched prior to the sensational slump of a few weeks ago, that delivery advancing more than 1c to $1.18½.

The wheat market opened rather heavy, with prices ⅝c higher to ½c lower. May being at $1.32 to $1.32½, July at $1.17⅛ to $1.17½, and September at $1.08¾ to $1.09⅛. The easy tone at the start was due to moderate profit taking. Offerings, however, were quickly absorbed, and with prominent commission houses active bidders, prices readily advanced. Unfavorable crop reports from Kansas, and strength of European markets, were leading influences.

The market was strong all day and during the final hour sentiment became extremely bearish. May advanced to $1.34⅜. July also touched a new high record mark at $1.19⅛. The top for September was reached at $1.12. There was some reaction on profit-taking, but the close was strong with May up 2c at $1.34⅛. July was 1⅝c higher at $1.18⅜@⅝ and September 2⅛c higher at $1.11⅛.

The price of corn for May delivery was bid up more than 1c at the start, despite greatly increased receipts here, shorts being urgent buyers. During early trading the price advanced to 74⅛c, a gain of 1¼c compared with Saturday's close. July opened unchanged to a shade higher, at 69⅝c to 69⅝@69½c, and sold up to 69⅝c.

July continued to advance until it touched 70⅝c. The market closed strong with July up 1@1⅛c at 70⅜@70½c. May was 1⅝c higher at 74⅜c. All deliveries of oats advanced to new high marks for the senate during the early part of the day, the May option selling at 62c. July was at 55⅜c and September at 45¾c. The upturn was due to brisk demand by shorts, which met with only light offerings. At the opening prices were unchanged to ½c higher, July being at 54⅛@54⅝c.

Provisions failed to respond to the strength of grain, the market being steady with only small trade. Prices at the opening were 2½c lower to a shade higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Advance in the Cables Causes Firmness—Domestic News Favorable.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 24.—An advance in the cables and further unfavorable foreign crop reports made the market firm. Light offerings made the market have additional strength. Domestic news was very favorable, July, May and September options all went to new high points. Local stocks decreased 175,000 bu for two days. Minneapolis received 272 cars against 196; Duluth 3 against 19, and a holiday at Winnipeg. September opened at 1.10⅛; high, 1.13⅜; low, 1.10⅛; close, 1.12⅝@1.13. July opened $1.30 @1.30¼; high, $1.31¾; low, $1.29⅞ @1.30; close, $1.31½@1.31⅝. Cash wheat was in fair to good demand, in spite of the liberal offerings, and the market held firm. Both country and local millers were good buyers. There were several sales of No. 1 northern at $1.35¼. Premiums were 3½@4½c above the July option for No. 1 northern, and 1⅞@2½c above for No. 2 northern. No. 1 northern, $1.34⅜@1.35¼; spot and to arrive, No. 2 northern, $1.32⅜@1.33¾; spot and to arrive, No. 3 wheat, $1.31¼@1.32¾; No. 3 yellow corn, 72¼@72¾c; No. 3 white oats, 57⅜@57⅝c. No. 2 rye, 83¾@85¾c.

Flax—Receipts 3 cars against 34; no shipments. Light offerings again made the trade inactive, crushers the only buyers. Prices were quoted 1c above the Duluth July option. Closing price, $1.75½.

Barley—Receipts, 29 cars today against 15; shipments, 14. Due to the strong oats situation the demand for feeding barley was very strong. Maltsters were not in the market. There were several sales made here to go to outside markets. Prices were 1c to 1½c higher than Saturday and a new high mark was reached. Closing range, 71@73c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,693 tons. Demand continued strong and far in excess of the supply. Millers reported the trade very satisfactory, and said they expected no immediate change. Shipments were normal and prices firm. Bran in bulk, $24@24.50.

Flour continued to jog along in the same old rut. Orders were largely for split cars, on account of the high prices. Demand was only fair at the best. Foreign inquiry was almost lacking. Shipments for over Sunday were light, 45,694 barrels, and prices held firm. First patents, $6.30@6.50; second patents, $6.20@6.40; first clears, $4.95@5.15; second clears $3.55@3.75.

REMARKS.

Showery weather prevailed except in Eastern Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana. H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

T. Indicates inappreciable rainfall. *For yesterday. †For twenty-four hours ending 8 a. m., 75th meridian time. ‡Minimum temperature for twelve hours ending 8 a. m., 75th meridian time.

NOTE—The average maximum and minimum temperatures and the average rainfall are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

New York Grain.

New York, May 24.—Close: Wheat—May, $1.40¾; July, $1.26; September, $1.17⅜. Corn—May, 85c; July, 79⅜c.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 24.—The cotton market opened barely steady at a decline of 3 to 8 points and sold off to a net loss of 8 to 11 points during the early session under liquidation and local bear pressure promoted by disappointing cables and better weather in the South. The market steadied during the middle of the morning with prices 4 or 5 points up from the lowest, on covering by recent sellers and renewed support from Wall street and Western sources.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 11.65; middling fair, 11.90; sales, 6,300 bales. Futures closed very steady; closing bids: May, 11.24; June, 11.05; July, 11.03; August, 10.92; September, 10.84; October, 10.81; November, 10.80; December, 10.82; January, 10.75; March, 10.77.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Opened Slightly Higher on Moderate Demand and Ruled Irregular.

Prices Receded Slowly in Afternoon and Close Was Heavy.

New York, May 24.—Opening prices of stocks today advanced on a moderate demand. In only a few cases were the gains in excess of a small fraction. Denver & Rio Grande rose 1¾, Erie first preferred 1½, Long Island 1, and Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Distillers Securities large fractions. Sloss-Sheffield Steel declined 1.

Railroad stocks, except the Hill issues, were almost stationary, but there was an absorption of the metal stocks with higher prices. United States Steel gained 2½; Sloss-Sheffield, 1¾; Pittsburg Coal preferred, 1½; Great Northern preferred, 1⅛, and Northern Pacific, Westinghouse Electric, Hocking Coal, Mackay companies and American Malting preferred, 1.

The recession of the Harriman stocks, Reading, Amalgamated Copper, to a fraction under Saturday's price caused a heavy tone and dealings became extremely dull. Some of the specialties rose briskly, Long Island and Pittsburg Coal gaining 2 and United States Rubber first preferred and Federal Mining preferred, 1. Bonds were steady.

A slight hardening of the market occurred late in the day, but there was no increase in the amount of business. American Car advanced 1 and Sloss-Sheffield Steel preferred 2 points.

The market closed heavy and dull. Prices receded slowly until checked in sympathy with a rise of about a point in Erie and the second preferred and 2 in the first preferred. Colorado & Southern first preferred declined 1⅝, and Illinois Central and Great Northern ore certificates 1.

VALUABLE KNOWLEDGE.

Stamp Collector Recognized a Variety When He Saw It.

Through his intimate knowledge of United States postage stamps a Philadelphia collector was enabled the other day to make a quick profit of over $5,000 on a small lot of envelopes bearing ordinary looking stamps to which the average person would have paid little attention, says the New York Sun.

The collector was passing the house of a man who handled curiosities of various kinds when the dealer called him in to take a look at nine stamped envelopes. The dealer said he knew nothing about stamps and would like to know what the collector would give for them.

"One hundred dollars apiece, or $900 for the lot of nine pieces," came the prompt reply of the collector.

"Oh, I don't want to stick you," said the dealer. "I offered these identical stamps to a well known stamp dealer here in town for $35 each and he replied he would give only $25 apiece.

"Never you mind," said the collector. "The $900 goes, and I'm glad to have the chance."

The envelopes or letters had been sent from Baltimore in the '40s. Five of them bore two stamps, while the four others had only a single stamp each. The letters were written before the United States adopted the adhesive postage stamp and at a time when the postmaster of each large city issued his own stamps. The postmaster of Baltimore at this time was James M. Buchanan.

Postmaster Buchanan issued 5 and 10-cent adhesive stamps and a series of 5 and 10-cent stamped envelopes. The stamps on the envelopes showed a large figure "5" or "10," surrounded by a circle. Above was the word "Paid," and above that the name of the postmaster in full, "James M. Buchanan." This signature was placed upon each envelope with a hand stamp.

Two colors were used—red and blue—the stamps appearing on paper of different colors. Sometimes, probably on account of the scarcity of the regular 10-cent stamp, two of the fives were used on one envelope to make up the sum of 10 cents. These were called compounds, and the collector in question in his lot of nine envelopes obtained five of these compounds, all of which are very rare. Of the 10-cent red stamped envelopes of straight denomination only two specimens are known to exist.

The collector had no difficulty in disposing of his stamps for $5,000 and still has in his possession a specimen of the compound envelope, which is easily worth $1,500.

From what can be learned these early envelopes with hand-stamped signatures were issued in 1845 for the first time. There is also on record a copy of the envelope with the autograph signature of Postmaster Buchanan.

ROYALTY LEADS SIMPLE LIFE.

Town and Country: Court life in Norway is usually simple, almost to the point of being democratic. In summer one frequently meets the king and queen, who then occupy their small but charming country house outside the city, driving along the country roads, while in winter it is by no means uncommon to meet them coasting down the hills upon kjalker, or sledges of the country, or upon ski, joining in with the populace in the national winter sports.

Sale of School and Other State Lands

STATE OF MINNESOTA. State Auditor's Office.
St. Paul, April 19, 1909.

Notice is hereby given that on the day and date and at the time and place herein stated below in this notice, in the office of the county auditor of the respective county named in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale the following described unsold state lands, and the following described state lands, which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest will also be then and there offered for resale. Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from the date of sale to June 1st, 1910, must be paid at the time of the sale. The balance of the purchase money can be paid at any time, in whole or in part, within forty years of the time of the sale; the rate of interest on the unpaid balance of the purchase money will be four per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1st of each year, provided the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid before the expiration of ten years from the date of the sale the rate of interest on the unpaid balance of the purchase money will be five per cent per annum; interest is payable in advance on June 1st of each year.

Holders of certificates on which the interest payments are in default can have their certificates reinstated on payment, before the sale, of the interest in full to date and the penalties thereon, when the lands covered thereby will be withdrawn from sale.

All mineral rights are reserved by the state. All sales made will be subject to the provisions of Chapter No. 299 of the General Laws of 1905.

SAMUEL G. IVERSON, State Auditor.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY.

FOUR HUNDRED MINERS BARELY ESCAPE FLAMES

Reach Surface Just in Time, From Burning Colliery.

Fire Makes Rapid Headway; Must Be Walled In.

Origin of Conflagration Near Irkin, Pa., Is Unknown.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 25.—A serious fire started early today in Mine No. 3 of the Pennsylvania Gas Coal company, a few miles south of Irkin, Pa., near here, over 400 miners were at work, but all reached the surface after narrow escapes.

The fire started in a rear entry and is making rapid headway. It will have to be walled in and the loss, it is believed will be heavy.

The origin of the fire is not known.

SLEUTH HELD IN GRAFT ARREST

Municipal Scandal of Pittsburg Takes a New Turn.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 25.—An arrest with more to follow was made today in connection with municipal graft scandals. Practically the entire membership of the old select council of the city, about forty-five members, have been subpoenaed for appearance before the grand jury. Thomas Donovan, one of the detectives employed by the Voters' league, which brought graft information against seven councilmen and two bankers, was arrested this morning.

Donovan is charged with conspiring to falsely indict. The information against him and four others was made in behalf of Councilman John P. Klein, who was recently sentenced to serve several years in the penitentiary. His wife preferred the charges against Donovan.

SHOT AND KILLED KNEELING AT PRAYER.

Kossuth, Mo., May 25.—While kneeling in prayer at family services on Friday night, Henry Cahl was shot and killed by his brother-in-law, Charles Chapin 18 years old. A posse headed by the sheriff is searching for Chapin. Cahl killed Harry Chapin brother of the slayer last August after having been driven from home by the Chapin brothers. He was acquitted the day preceding an act was justifiable.

LYNCH NEGRO AND PLACARD HIS BODY.

Lincoln, Ill., May 25.—Albert Aiken, a negro who wounded John Spines, a white man, two days last Thursday, was hanged by a posse of about 100 men this city. Aiken was in jail here and the posse broke into the jail, seized the negro and carried him into the country.

His body was found marked by bullet holes and bearing this placard:

"Notice—This is what will happen to all niggers in Lincoln county under similar circumstances."

RETAIL HARDWARE MEN MEET IN MILWAUKEE.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 25.—One hundred and fifty hardware dealers representing a membership of 1,500 in the National Retail Hardware association gathered in Milwaukee today for a three days' annual convention. Aside from the routine business the sessions of the convention are Executive Niagara Falls, Chicago and Detroit are bidding for the next convention.

HARVARD HOUSE IS FITTED UP AS MUSEUM.

London, May 25.—Harvard house in Stratford-on-Avon, the birthplace of John Harvard, which was purchased last year by Edward Morris of Chicago, has been renovated and fitted up as a museum and will shortly be opened to the public. The work is being done under the direction of the trustees, who include Sir Thomas Lipton and Marie Corelli.

Street Car Men May Strike.

Evansville, Ind., May 25.—The union street car men of this city will hold a meeting tonight to decide whether they will strike tomorrow, when an agreement with the company will expire. The company refuses to recognize the union though to secure recognition the labor organization has offered to forego a demand for increased wages.

STATES OBJECT TO BOOTHS BEFORE THE FAIR BUILDINGS.

Seattle, Wash., May 25.—All the states having exhibits at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition have joined Oregon in the protest against the effort to place selling booths on the lawns in front of the state buildings. In order to effectually guard the interests of the Pacific states at the exposition the state commissioners have formed a commissioners' association."

DEDICATE MONUMENT

All Plans Made for Ceremony on Gettysburg Battlefield.

President Taft and His Daughter Helen Will Attend.

Gettysburg, Pa., May 25.—Arrangements have been completed for the dedication on the battlefield here next Monday afternoon of the monument erected by act of congress to commemorate the services of the regular army of the United States in the Gettysburg campaign of June and July, 1863. President Taft will be the orator, to deliver the address. Miss Helen Taft, the president's daughter, will be the principal figure in the ceremonies and will unveil the monument. The president will arrive here Monday morning from Pittsburg and will be met by a committee of citizens and will be escorted by United States guards.

Secretary of War Dickinson will deliver an address and transfer the monument to the Gettysburg National park commission. The memorial will be accepted by Lieut. Col. John P. Nicholson, chairman of the commission. Following the placing of laurel wreaths at the base of the monument by the oldest regimental or battery commander in the Gettysburg campaign attending the dedication, President Taft will review the troops on the field.

The monument is a beautiful shaft, eighty-five feet high, surrounded at the base by a broad granite terrace. It stands on Hancock avenue a short distance of the high water mark of the battle of Gettysburg. The monument represents all of the Forty-second cavalry artillery, infantry and engineers organizations of the army that participated in the campaign. There has been erected a small monument seven feet high for each of the commands at the location it occupied during the battle.

The largest central monument and the forty-two smaller memorials are all appropriately inscribed.

UNITARIANS IN COMMEMORATION

Boston, Mass., May 25.—Representatives of the Unitarian denomination throughout the United States who are holding the annual anniversary week observance in this city began today's session with a prayer service in commemoration of the ministers of the Unitarian fellowship who have died during the year. Eulogies were delivered by Dr. Sam C. Crothers of Cambridge.

Following the prayer service, the ministers, laymen and women members each held separate meetings. The laymen planned to effect the organization of a national league of Unitarian laymen; the clergymen attended a meeting of the Berry street conference, while the National Alliance of Unitarians and other liberal Christian women held their annual business meeting.

Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ames of Boston addressed the ministers' conference.

MARINE GUARDS ARRESTS FORTY AT WORK OF STEALING.

Manila, May 25.—Having missed property of various kinds from the navy yards at Cavite for some time all the officials there decided to make a surprise search of Filipino employes leaving the yard. Today a marine guard suddenly surrounded a gang of several hundred and arrested forty, who had various articles concealed. About seventy-five Filipinos managed to throw their loot away in time to escape arrest.

VALUE OF H. H. ROGERS' ESTATE MAY BE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS

New York, May 25.—The will of H H Rogers will be read tomorrow afternoon at his late residence on East Seventy-eighth street by his attorney James M. Beck. Only immediate relatives will be present.

Previous to the reading Beck would not discuss the contents nor the amount of the estate involved. Estimates of the value of the estate range from $40,000,000 to more than $100,000,000. A number of anonymous friends of the late financier are quoted as saying that Mr. Rogers left an estate of much more than was popularly supposed. In the Wall street district it is not believed that the public will ever know even the approximate statue of Mr. Rogers' fortune, as it is understood that the will was so drawn as to confine this information to the immediate beneficiaries.

The widow who collapsed after the funeral services at Fairhaven was reported as improving today, and it was said that, following the reading of the will, she would return to Fairhaven for a long rest.

NO LYNCHING; IT RAINED

Elements Serve to Prevent Mob From Attacking Negro.

John Junkin Tried for Murder of Clara Rosen.

Centerville, Iowa, May 25.—Apprehension of a mob attack on John Junkin has been relieved by rain, which has driven the crowds off the streets on the opening day of the negro's trial for the murder of Clara Rosen.

In arraignment he waived the right of three days' time before trial and the examination of 120 veniremen specially summoned began. The prosecution is conducted by Seneca Cornell of Wapello county.

The defendant's attorney, Judge J. C. Mitchell, is making no effort to get a jury that has not heard of the crime or that does not think Junkin committed it. Mitchell will rely on his appeal to the jury for less than the death penalty.

Junkin has sufficiently recovered from his nervous collapse to appear in court unassisted. A heavily armed guard protects him.

WAS MURDERED AT ONTONAGON

Joseph Gusik's Death Is Charged to Companion, Who Is Arrested.

Houghton, Mich., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Detroit detectives arrived in Houghton today with Albert Foguskinski charged with the murder of Joseph Gusik at Ontonagon, whose body, exhumed a week ago, showed two bullet holes in the skull. The two men disappeared together on Dec. 18, Gusik having $40, which was missing when the body was found. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accidental death. Foguskinski, when arrested, had a watch which is supposed to have belonged to Gusik.

AFOUL OF THE LAW?

Senator Shively Fears the New Tariff Bill Has Flaws.

Suggests That the Dingley Rates May Be Continued.

Washington, May 25.—That the maximum and minimum rate provision of the senate tariff bill may prove unconstitutional, on the ground that it delegates legislative powers to the executive and that the tariff bill as amended by the senate may, as a result of such a decision, prove null and void and the Dingley rates be continued, were some of the assertions made today by Senator Shively of Indiana in a speech in the senate on the tariff.

B. F. SHIVELY.

ARE SHAKEN FROM BED

Cincinnatians Are Thrown Into Panic By Explosion of Dynamite.

Houses Within Radius of Two Blocks Jarred—Much Damage.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 25.—Residents in the vicinity of Freeman avenue and Front street were thrown into a panic late last night by the explosion of a heavy charge of dynamite between two of the 70-foot 50-ton iron girders being used in the approach to the new freight depot of the Cincinnati Southern railroad at the foot of Vine street.

Houses for two blocks were shaken by the explosion, window glass was shattered and sleeping persons knocked out of bed. The explosion wrecked the girders.

The iron work on the viaduct is being done by an Eastern firm which employs non-union men.

HOME MISSIONS MAKE REPORTS

Standing Committees Engage Attention of Presbyterian Assembly.

Denver, Colo., May 25.—The report of the standing committee on home missions engaged the attention of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church when the session opened at 9 o'clock today. This report together with that of the standing committee on colleges and another of the standing committees on synodical home missions took up the time of the assembly for the day.

Inasmuch as the committee on home missions has been engrossed with the study of recommendations made by the special committee on administrative agencies, it is possible the report of the first named committee may not receive full discussion now, but may be laid over the time. The woman's board of home missions resumed its sessions this morning and elected officers.

ROOSEVELT SAYS "SPECIALS" ABOUT HIS HUNT ARE FAKES

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 25.—A staff correspondent of the Associated Press returned to Nairobi this morning, after a two days' visit at the Roosevelt camp as guest of Mr. Roosevelt.

The camp is located on the Heatley ranch on the banks of the Nairobi river. Mr. Roosevelt and his son, Kermit, are in remarkably good health, and they are delighted with the success of their expedition. The accuracy of the rifle fire of Mr. Roosevelt and his son has astonished not only the settlers, but the members of the party. Kermit killed, recently at close range, a hyena that had attacked him, and he has also come very near making a second bag of female wart hogs in a given space of time.

Today the party is staying at the Heatley ranch, but tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt, his son and Edmund Heller are coming into Nairobi. Maj. Mearns and J. Alden Loring will remain at the Ju Ju ranch until Wednesday, collecting birds and animals.

Mr. Roosevelt is annoyed at certain special dispatches which, it is reported here, are appearing in American or English newspapers. He requests the Associated Press to send out the following statement:

"No newspaper has a representative with the Roosevelt party, nor any nearer means of gaining information of the party's doings beyond what is generally known. Any special dispatches appearing are in human probability sheer inventions. Moreover, the details which purport to be thus obtained can only be due to bribery, and it is safe to state that a dishonorable man giving a bribe and a dishonorable man accepting the same would be willing to invent untruths for money or traffic in other forms of dishonor."

'LONG 'BOUT THIS TIME O'YEAR.

FRANCE FELICITATES FRISCO ON HAVING SURVIVED QUAKE.

Washington, May 25.—Ambassador Jusserand of France left here today for San Francisco via Chicago and Los Angeles, where he is to present the city, on behalf of the French government, a handsome gold medal, commemorate of the restoration of the city from the great earthquake and fire. A number of entertainments in his honor have been planned at the coast cities. The ambassador was accompanied by Mme. Jusserand.

FIVE CHILDREN FATALLY BURNED, DUE TO CANDLE

LYNCHERS' ROPE BREAKS, BUT NEGRO IS HOISTED AGAIN.

Pine Bluff, Ark., May 25.—Lovett Davis, a negro, charged with attempting to make a criminal assault on a 16-year-old girl last Friday night, was taken from the jail at midnight by a mob of 300 men and hanged to a telegraph pole on one of the principal streets.

Just as the negro was being raised high above the street the rope broke and the body fell to the ground, but he was raised again and left hanging.

Little Girl Drops Electric Contrivance at School Celebration.

The Applauding Audience Suddenly Changes Into a Fighting Mob.

Panic Is Finally Checked By Coolness of the Men.

Central City, Ky., May 25.—Five children who took part in the commencement exercises of Mrs. B. C. Boyd's school in this city last night were burned, it is believed fatally, the audience was changed from an applauding group into a fighting mob, and several other children were slightly injured.

Panic was finally checked by the coolness of the men in the audience who covered the flaming children with their coats.

Little Dorothy Clay was the unwitting cause of the catastrophe when she dropped an electric candle and her dress caught fire. The flames spread to the garments of other children in a flash.

Four Perish in Flames.

Ottumwa, Iowa, May 25.—John Carter, an old soldier, aged 75, and the three children of his daughter, Mrs. Lela Shaw, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the Shaw home at Eldon, twelve miles east of here, early today. Mrs. Shaw is employed during the night in a restaurant and left the children with their grandfather. The fire was caused by the overturning of a lighted lamp during a storm.

Aged Watchman Suffocated.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 25.—Fire broke out early today in the Dodd-Strothers factory, 726 Sixth avenue. When firemen entered the building they found the aged watchman, W. O. Allen, suffocated to death by the smoke. The loss to property is light.

BAILEY TO BE FIRST

Will Be Followed By Cummins on Income Tax.

Proposed as an Amendment to the Tariff Bill.

Washington, May 25.—The fact that Senators Bailey and Cummins have been unable to come to an agreement on the form of an income tax amendment to the tariff bill renders it likely that the views of each will be voted upon, and from present indications it is probable each will be sent to the judiciary committee for approval.

The only agreement that has been reached between the Democrats and progressive Republicans is that the Bailey amendment shall be presented first.

It is the intention of Senator Cummins to offer amendments to the amendment in order to perfect it in accordance with his ideas on the subject of an income tax; failing to do this, to offer his own amendment after the Bailey plan has been submitted and a vote taken.

As a motion to commit the amendment to the judiciary committee would take precedence, and a poll of the senate is said to show sufficient strength to carry such a motion, it is improbable that an opportunity will be afforded to protect the measures in the senate to the satisfaction of the supporters of an income tax.

PORTLAND JOINS THE RATE FIGHT

Seeks Better Railroad Rates From Coast to Interior.

Portland, Or., May 25.—Portland is now in the fight against the railroads to secure better rates from coast points to points in the interior.

At a meeting of the transportation committee of the chamber of commerce yesterday it was decided to cooperate with Tacoma in a joint suit against the Great Northern and Northern Pacific on the question of rates from Tacoma and Seattle to points in Idaho and Montana. This suit will be brought before the interstate commerce commission, and papers will be dispatched to Washington in the course of a few days.

It already has been announced that the chamber of commerce will commence suit before the commission against the Oregon Railway & Navigation company on the question of distributive rates out of Portland.

HOLLISTER FOR CENSUS POSITION

He Will Be Recommended By Congressman Miller.

Washington, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller arrived in Washington last night, and this morning said he had decided to recommend B. L. Hollister of Aitkin to be supervisor of the census in the Duluth district. This position pays a salary of $1,500 and $1 per 1,000 additional for the names enumerated.

DISINFECTING STATION ESTABLISHED AT AMOY.

Amoy, China, May 25.—A disinfecting station for passenger traffic from Amoy to the Philippine islands has been established here under the supervision of A. D. Foster of the United States marine hospital corps. The operation of this station will enable the continuance of direct communication with Manila, which hitherto has had to be suspended during the quarantine period.

HUGHES VETOES BILL FOR THEATER LIQUOR.

Albany, N. Y., May 25.—A bill, designed to permit the sale of liquor in the new theater in New York city, was vetoed yesterday by Governor Hughes. The bill amended the liquor tax law by permitting traffic in liquors within 200 feet of a private school with the consent of the school. The new theater is being built by a number of wealthy persons and will be run somewhat on the plan of a national theater.

JAPAN TO WELCOME VISITING CHINAMAN.

Tokio, May 25.—The Japanese government is preparing an elaborate reception to Prince Tsaichen, selected as China's envoy to convey to the mikado China's thanks for having sent Prince Fushimi to Pekin to attend the funeral of the late emperor. The announcement of the selection of Tsaichen, who is of lower rank than Fushimi, is not regarded here as an affront.

German Cruiser Arrives.

New York, May 25.—The German cruiser Bremen arrived at New York today after visiting several Southern ports and will remain here until June 10. The chief purpose of the Bremen's visit is to enable the members of the crew whose time of service has expired to return to Germany. To take their places, other sailors will come from Germany.

RUSSIAN DOUMA MAKES MOVE TOWARD RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

St. Petersburg, May 25.—The douma today began the discussion of a law legalizing the sect of Old Believers. This is the first of a series of important measures designed to put into effect the principles of religious liberty enunciated in the emperor's manifesto of May 13, 1905. The sect of Old Believers, which, in various forms, embraces 15,000,000 worshipers, is the largest dissident body in Russia. It separated from the parent orthodox church during the period of religious reforms under Peter the Great.

The bill, which was first enacted as an emergency measure, after the dissolution of the second douma, grants the Old Believers the free practice of their religion, together with certain special rites, but it denies them the privilege of proselyting among the members of the orthodox church, of preaching in public or of using the title of priest for their clergymen. The measure probably will be passed in the form it is reported to the douma.

The Adams Athletic association will give a dance Thursday evening in the Lincoln park auditorium. The music will be furnished by Flaaten's orchestra. Ladies will be admitted free of charge.

"The Feast of Weeks."
The Shebouth or Feast of Weeks will be observed by the Jewish people of the city, beginning this evening at sunset. The orthodox Jews celebrate a period of forty-eight hours. With the Reformed Jews the period of observation is twenty-four hours. Rabbi Lefkovits will preach this evening at Temple Emanuel on "The Three Fundamentals of Judaism."

Label League Meeting.
At the regular meeting of the Women's Label league held last evening at Kalamazoo hall it was decided to send a resolution to the International convention in session at Louisville, Ky., indorsing the death benefit. A resolution will also be sent to the state federation at Red Wing, urging organization among women throughout the state. An informal social followed the regular session.

Aerial Bridge Painting.
The board of public works is preparing to advertise for bids for the painting of the aerial bridge. The work will require some little time, for it is proposed to paint every foot of the big structure.

Ladies' Aid Society.
The Ladies' Aid Society of Grace M. E. church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. J. W. Preston, 2509 West Second street.

Gust Lilla Dismissed.
Gust Lilla, arrested earlier in the month on a charge of selling liquor without a license, at his boarding house, was dismissed in municipal court this morning, there being insufficient evidence to hold him.

Woodmen Will Dance.
Duluth Camp No. 2711, M. W. A., will give an entertainment and dance Wednesday evening at its hall. There will be no admission charge, and all Woodmen are invited.

Disorderly Conduct.
Frank Hill, charged with disorderly conduct, was fined $20 in police court yesterday afternoon. He was one of the men responsible for the brawl in a St. Croix avenue saloon, which resulted in the shooting of John Hill. The latter is resting easily at the hospital and will recover.

Approaches Weak.
City Engineer McIlvray says that the timber supports of the Sixth avenue west viaduct, now being rebuilt, are so rotten that they almost crumble in the hand. The railroad companies having tracks under the viaduct are paying for the work.

Mrs. Shea Goes West.
Mrs. Abbie Shea for the past fourteen years a settler on the Cedar Island lake lands, has gone West for a visit with friends. Mrs. Shea and her husband, A. J. Shea, have been living on a portion of the land that has been in litigation for so many years. She has always had faith in the land, and believed the time would come when she and her husband would be well off.

Holmstrom Acquitted.
Carl Holmstrom was acquitted of a charge of reckless driving yesterday afternoon in police court. He ran over Stanley Patonbey, a 14-year-old boy, at the corner of Lake avenue and Superior street, last week, and was arrested. He was in an automobile at the time of the accident.

Inspecting Factories.
State Factory Inspector Hugo V. Koch, who is also commander of the Minnesota department of Spanish-American war veterans, was in the city last evening. Duluth is the last town on a tour he is making of the state. He has been paying special attention to the boot and shoe factories.

Mrs. Lizzie Jetsu, as administratrix of the estate of her little daughter, Susie Terrik, wants $5,000 for the death of the child. The case was begun yesterday and was continued today before Judge Ensign. The accident, it is alleged, happened at Chisholm. The plaintiff claims negligence on the part of the railroad company in that the right-of-way was not properly fenced.

Injury Case Still On.
The case of Herman Kanbelin against the city of Ely was continued this morning before Judge Hughes. Kanbelin seeks to recover from the range town $25,000 for injuries sustained after a fall on the sidewalks of that town. He claims the city was negligent in that it allowed the walks to be in poor repair. The accident is alleged to have happened in November of last year.

W. H. Carpenter Gets Judgment.
W. H. Carpenter got judgment by default from the Carpenter-Love-Caldwell company on some notes for $457.52 in district court before Judge Dibell this morning. The defendants did not show up at the courtroom.

Broker Off on Vacation.
N. S. Mitchell, the stock broker, left last night for a vacation trip. He went first to Chicago. He goes from there to London, Ont., where he will visit his mother. Before returning to the city he will visit Denver and a number of Western cities.

Dies at Hospital.
L. G. Seavey of Aitkin, Minn., 53 years of age, who was brought to St. Mary's hospital for treatment recently, died last night. The remains were shipped to Aitkin for interment today.

Small Damage By Fire.
A fire, starting from an overturned lamp, damaged the frame dwelling of Theodore Nusbaum, at 27 Seventh avenue west, to the extent of about $150 this morning. The flames which were first noticed at 10 o'clock did not extend beyond the second floor.

Floodwood Man Arrested.
Herman Hill of Floodwood, against whom a John Doe indictment was returned by the last grand jury, charging him with keeping a house of assignation, was arraigned in the district court this afternoon. He will enter his plea to the offense charged tomorrow.

Fast Time on Bicycle.
Ben Wood of Virginia made the trip from that city to Duluth yesterday in ten and one-half hours on a bicycle. The distance is about eighty miles, and Mr. Wood said if the roads had been in good condition he could have covered the entire distance in six hours.

Money to Loan.
The Climax Building & Loan association has $5,000 on hand to loan, easiest terms, no commission.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 25.—Capt. Arthur W. Gunther, prominent in military circles in Wisconsin, an active member of Wisconsin commandery, Militant Order of the Loyal Legion, and president of the Association of Retired Officers of the Army of Volunteers, was found dead today in his bed at the summer home on Pine lake, Hartland, of his sister, Mrs. Christina Wahl. Capt. Gunther was 73 years old. Death resulted from a stroke of apoplexy.

RAILROADS

TWO NOVEL GATHERINGS

Blackduck Handcar Club Will Hold Annual Excursion.

G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. Club to Give Barbecue in August.

The annual excursion of the Blackduck Handcar club will be held in the near future. C. E. Bordsen, agent of the Minnesota & International at Blackduck, to whose ideas on entertainment the club owes its existence, is at the present time making arrangements for the annual outing of the club.

All Duluth railroad men eagerly look forward to the meeting of the club. The rules of the club provide that the members of the organization must go to Blackduck in handcars. They carry their own provisions, though Host and Patron Adviser Bordsen has in the past provided many delicacies of the season and also many ingenious forms of entertainment for the members of the club.

C. W. Kleswetter, A. M. Fenton, John Runyon, J. T. McKiney, Mart Adsen, Jack Fisher, O. T. Fugk, A. R. Brown, W. R. Stephenson, John Kane, Bill Palmer, A. J. Perrin, James Maney, G. A. Sherwood, Otto Tuck, C. L. Kennedy and Fred Hills, all members of the handcar club, and in good standing, are waiting the formal announcement of the date of the gathering at Blackduck.

Secretary F. C. Buckley of the G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. club, the Head of the Lakes traffic organization, is sending out invitations for the big meeting that will be held in Duluth and Superior Aug 20 and 21. He has received a number of responses from the invitations, enough to warrant the belief that the meeting will be the biggest in the history of the club.

A barbecue will be given at Fond du Lac. The two days at the Head of the Lakes will be divided between Duluth and Superior, though Duluth will be the chief center of attraction. New memberships to the club are being received right along, and with the assurance of traveling traffic representatives that all the boys who make this territory will attend the gambol on the green, the meeting promises to be the most successful ever held by the enterprising Head of the Lakes organization.

THE FOLEY BROS. GET CONTRACT

Will Build Soo Extension to the Brooten Branch.

Foley Bros. of St. Paul have been awarded the contract for the construction of the Soo branch line from Thief River Falls to the Brooten branch, connecting Thief River Falls with Duluth by a direct line, and also giving Duluth another short line to Winnipeg. The terms of the contract specify that the work must be finished within a year.

Hoarseness, bronchitis and other throat troubles are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar as it soothes and heals the inflamed throat and bronchial tubes and the most obstinate cough disappears. Insist upon having the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar. Sold by all druggists.

M. W. A.

Duluth Camp, No. 2341, will give ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE Wednesday evening, May 26th, 1909. All members and their families are cordially invited. Admission, free. CHAS. SHOGRAN, Clerk.

WILL TRY FOR CHURCH UNION

Expected Presbyterian and United Presbyterian Will Merge.

Hamilton, Ohio, May 25.—At the closing session of the general committee on missions of the United Presbyterian church here today it was announced that at the session of the United Presbyterian general assembly which will convene in Knoxville, Tenn., Thursday, steps will be discussed for the union of the Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches of America. The chief obstacle has been the unwillingness of the United Presbyterian to abandon the exclusive singing of psalms. It is believed a compromise will be reached on this point. Church leaders expect committees to be named by both churches within a week to formulate a basis of union.

Many weak, nervous women have been restored to health by Foley's Kidney Remedy as it stimulates the kidneys so they will eliminate the waste matter from the blood. Impurities depress the nerves, causing nervous exhaustion and other ailments. Commence today and you will soon be well. Pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists.

Kills Self on Train.
La Crosse, Wis., May 25.—Thomas George McKean, holding a ticket from Minneapolis to St. Louis, committed suicide yesterday by throwing himself from a coach window in the Burlington limited passenger train, No. 52, near Cochrane, Wis. He jumped through the window head foremost, striking on his head and breaking his neck. A search of his grip revealed his name, and his address as 281 East Indiana street, Chicago.

No Fertilizer Combine.
New York, May 25.—The plan to combine the fertilizing plants of Europe and this country in one $50,000,000 corporation to be known as the Independent Fertilizer company has been abandoned. The failure to put the plan into effect is due to the refusal of some of the proposed constituent companies to accept the terms of the bankers who had charge of the financial portion of the combination.

ANXIOUS DAYS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Seniors Are "Cramming" for Their Final Examinations.

There is some "cramming" going on this week by the seniors at the Central high school.

Thursday and Friday examinations are to be held. Rather than slip at the last moment they are taking advantage of every minute, and there are some who wear a worried expression.

Those who are exempt from examinations,—and there really are some—will have finished their high school days Wednesday and nothing remains for them but the graduation exercises which will take place Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week. Class night exercises come Tuesday, and commencement Wednesday.

On Thursday evening comes the big event in the life of a high school pupil, the junior-senior ball. The party will this year be held in the ball room of the new Masonic temple, and it is expected to be the most successful in the history of the school.

The class this year is the largest yet graduated, numbering 112.

Duluth, Minn., May 24, 1909.

SUPERIOR NEWS

MAY NEVER BE CAUGHT

Little Hope of Ever Capturing Brutal Superior Murderer.

Last Suspect Held By Police Is Released—Withdraw Reward.

The brutal murderer of Rudolph Nelson, the Superior school boy, will probably never be brought to justice.

Baffled at all points, the Superior police are practically no further along in the case than they were the day the murder was committed, and the last suspect held at Superior police headquarters was released this morning. Charles Seboliski was the last man to be released, there being absolutely no proof against him. Sam Hill, Emil Antela and Ralph Diesenroth were released yesterday, the police having failed to connect them with the crime.

RUDOLPH NELSON,
The Mystery of Whose Brutal Murder May Never Be Solved.

The reward of $200 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer, offered by the city, was today withdrawn.

The action was taken on the ground that the crime was committed outside the city limits, and according to Assistant City Attorney T. L. McIntosh to offer a reward is outside of the authority of the city.

The additional reward of $50 for the return of the Elgin watch carried by the boy, will, however, stand, as Chief of Police McKinnon has agreed to put up the money out of his own pocket.

The sheriff's reward of $200 is also still offered.

REACH DEADLOCK.

Special Committee Will Not Report at Council Tonight.

The special committee of the city council on the high license question, at a meeting at the city hall last night, failed to break the deadlock reached, and no report on the issue will be made at the meeting of the city fathers tonight.

Indications are that while a $1,000 license will fail, a compromise of $800 will be agreed upon, and that the license will be set at that. Those who want a $500 license are a minority in the council.

Door Was Expensive.
John Wabraski was fined $8 in municipal court yesterday afternoon for taking a grain door, valued at 50 cents, from an Omaha freight car. He pleaded guilty on the charge of larceny.

Contracts Awarded.
The board of public works yesterday awarded the sewer and sidewalks for the year and appointed a street foreman for the Seventh ward. All of the other ward foremen were appointed at a former meeting.

Has New Quarters.
The Stein club has awarded a contract to a local furnisher for the equipment of its clubrooms in the Truax block. The popular entertainers have arranged for a suite of four rooms in this block.

Lay Steel in Ten Days.
Tracklaying on the Soo line into Superior will begin in about ten days, and if the plans of the railroad officials do not miscarry, about twenty-five miles of steel will be laid out from Superior by the middle of next month. Nearly 1,000 carloads of material have arrived within the last few days.

Begin Work on Viaduct.
Construction work was today begun on the Third street viaduct and foot bridge at Superior. The bridge is to be built jointly between the city and the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads. The work will represent an outlay of about $13,000. The viaduct is 400 feet long, and will be built entirely of steel.

ALLEGED THIEF IS CAPTURED

Caught In Cellar He Fights With Butcher Knife.

Faribault, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Vanbiler was arrested here today in a cellar, where he had been in hiding since last September.

He is wanted in Montana and North Dakota on charges of horse stealing and was discovered by the family that lived in the house.

He threatened to kill them and made a fight against the police with a large butcher knife.

SEED OF THE STEEL TRUST.

Young Andrew Kloman Planted It Fifty Years Ago.

New York Sun: Just half a century ago the seed was planted which has since grown into the mighty tree known as the steel trust. In the year 1859 one Andrew Kloman, with his brother, constructed a small iron making plant at Millvale, Pa., now a part of Allegheny.

The valuation of this plant was appraised by its owners at the time was $4,500.

Within one year after formation a third partner was taken in and the style changed to Kloman Bros. Another year and Henry Phipps became interested, and again, says Moody's Magazine, the firm name was changed, this time to Kloman & Phipps.

Now the business began to grow by leaps and bounds. The Civil war had come on, the demand for iron products nearly doubled, and with this demand the prices trebled. From $18.50 a ton in 1861 the cost to the consumer rapidly climbed to $73.60 a ton before the war period was over.

Almost before people realized it the Kloman furnace had forged to the front in iron making, was employing perhaps a hundred men and doing a business of $100,000 or more a year. This meant the production of probably fifteen hundred tons of iron a year, an amount which is exceeded by the production of an hour at the present time.

About this time a young man of 30, Andrew Carnegie by name, recognized the growing possibilities of iron manufacture and was induced to acquire an interest in the enterprise. He soon dominated the policy of the concern and in the course of time the firm name was changed to Carnegie, Phipps & Co., Ltd., and its capital had increased to $300,000, on which an annual net profit of from 10 to 15 per cent was being shown.

Prior to 1879 commerce and industry worked at a handicap. With the pressure for material progress on every side, the expansion of the railroad systems, the construction of the heavier vehicles, of machinery and of larger buildings, and the development of inventions, came an insistent demand for a new metal, that should be as strong as steel and as cheap as iron. The railroads were all using iron rails, which broke up constantly and usually wore out in a year or two of hard usage. The high cost of steel, however, made it impossible for them to use anything else but iron.

Almost simultaneously two inventive geniuses proved themselves "men of the hours"—Sir Henry Bessemer, an Englishman, and William Kelly, an Irish-American of Pittsburg. They both unknown to each other, arrived at practically the same solution of the problem at about the same time. They invented what has become known as the "bessemer process," by means of which the iron and steel trades were revolutionized.

Kelly as far back as 1847 knew that he had discovered the process, Bessemer as long ago as 1855, but it was not until nearly 1870 that the merit of their discovery was widely recognized. The process as worked out by these men, however, was not entirely complete, and the work of a third inventor, Robert F. Mushet, was needed before perfection was reached. This was in 1870. Other improvements in the process were afterward introduced as the method came widely into vogue.

It is interesting to note that Mushet, the perfector of the process, never received pecuniary reward for his contribution to posterity. William Kelly, the pioneer, received in all about $500,000, but little fame in the great outside world. Henry Bessemer secured the lion's share of worldly fame and honor as well as great financial gain. In money $10,000,000 was his portion; in honor, an English knighthood. In reputation, worldwide fame, his name being the only one of the three commonly known in connection with the modern process of steel manufacture.

DOG A TRAIN-BEARER.

New York Sun: Clipped and blanketed dogs, French poodles, pugs and such excite the contempt of the average person who likes dogs of a more vigorous sort. These folks also have a dislike for the small dog that is trained to carry packages or what not. Those who do not like this use of a really very fine animal should have seen an exhibition on a West side street one wet afternoon recently.

A woman was about to cross the street, followed by a small and mean-looking pet dog. The pavement was wet.

She called to the dog, and the dog trotted obediently up and took the hem of her skirt in his teeth. Then staying just far enough behind to keep all the skirt clear of the street, the dog followed her across.

Some other woman going along said: "Isn't that cute?" A man who saw the performance remarked, "Poor beast!"

"61" FLOOR VARNISH.

Withstands the severest wear and tear—the continual walking, the scraping of chair legs, the weight of heavy furniture, the hard romping of children—all of this it will withstand, without cracking, peeling, or turning white.

Heath & Milligan's paint in sixty different shades, there is no better paint made.

TAKE MAIL IN AUTOS

New Development in the Strike of Georgia Railroad Firemen.

Rural Postmasters Have Exciting Times Delivering Their Letters.

Atlanta, Ga., May 25.—The substitution of automobiles for railroad train service was a development in today's strike of the Georgia railroad firemen. Among fifty towns in Central and Northeast Georgia, scores of automobiles whirled today on schedules which sometimes beat those of the big locomotives, which, with fires out, stood sullen without a wheel moving the length and breadth of the Georgia railroad system. The automobile service was mostly town to town jobs, but there were many machines running seventy miles, or more than a third of the distance from Atlanta to Augusta, the route of the main line of the railroad. Passenger rates in these automobiles were quite unregulated. Some machines could be had from $4 to $6 per hour. One party of four chugged into Atlanta to the tune of $45 for the party for a fast 40-mile ride, something over 25 cent per mile per head.

The fight of the rural postmasters to deliver their mail became exciting. Daylight today brought in two rain-soaked, mud-bespattered postmasters from the vicinity of Lithonia carrying heavy sacks of mail after an all night struggle over dark roads in an automobile. A brief stop here and back they went to ride along far into the night with the return mail. Division Superintendent Terrell said that Georgia postmasters have been authorized to use automobiles whenever possible, but that they were not authorized to spend any money for automobiles and that they were using commendable ingenuity to obtain rides in machines.

AUTO GOES ON TEAR.

C. J. Murphy, Counsel for the Great Northern, Is Injured.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 25.— An auto owned by C. J. Murphy, counsel for the Great Northern railroad, ran amuck in Grand Forks. It knocked Mr. Murphy down and ran over him, careened down Alpha avenue at a lively rate and crashed into the cafe of the Hotel Frederick, wrecking a window and breaking a lamp and spring.

Attorney Murphy had one arm and leg badly bruised, but no bones were broken. His clothing was torn. Mrs. Murphy and sister, Miss Lizzie Sullivan jumped when the machine started to run away.

PURPOSE OF BIG LABOR CONFERENCE KEPT SECRET

Labor Leaders Refuse to Discuss Meeting Called Here.

National Leaders of Lake Unions Gather in City.

T. V. O'CONNOR,
Grand President of the Longshoremen.

The greatest secrecy is maintained regarding the purposes and plans of the conference of union leaders which will be held in the old Elks' hall, 118 West Superior street, this evening.

Several men of national prominence in labor circles arrived in the city over the South Shore road this morning. Among them were Martin Cole, grand president of the Licensed Tugmen's Protective association; Thomas J. Dolan of Chicago, secretary and treasurer of the Dredgemen's Protective association; Claude Wirth of Detroit, president of the Dredge Firemen's union, and Charles McCarthy of Cleveland, head of the Association of Tug Firemen.

All of these men, with the exception of Mr. Cole, whose home is in Duluth, are guests at the St. Louis hotel. They declined to discuss the meeting to be held here this evening, further than to say that it was called to bring the officers of the Duluth locals together for a general discussion of labor conditions.

Mr. Cole said this morning: "The meeting in Duluth tonight will be similar to those held at lower lake ports. It is only such a business conference as might be called at any time independent of strike conditions."

Asked if the conference would have any bearing upon the strike situation so far as the unions represented are concerned, Mr. Cole declined to be quoted.

O'Connor Not Here.

Thomas V. O'Connor, president of the International Union of Longshoremen informed Mr. Cole yesterday that he would arrive in Duluth over the Northwestern road this afternoon. Several friends were at the station to meet him, but he did not come. It is expected he will arrive during the afternoon coming by way of the Twin Cities.

William E. McEwen, state commissioner of labor for Minnesota, is in the city and will attend the gathering of chiefs tonight. When seen today, Mr. McEwen denied all knowledge of the reasons for calling the Duluth meeting, except what he had learned from several of those who will participate. This agrees with the statement made by Mr. Cole.

The general belief is that the strike situation will be the main topic of discussion by the labor leaders tonight. The down-lake locals of the longshoremen and unions affiliated with them have thrown the entire responsibility of a decision on the strike question on President O'Connor.

It is understood that the longshoremen are only awaiting the word from Mr. O'Connor to step out and make the tie-up on the Great Lakes complete. The sentiment in favor of a strike is said to be practically unanimous among the members of that union.

As the union officials who are in Duluth today have made a thorough investigation and are familiar with the conditions and sentiment at down-lake ports, it is believed that after the Duluth conference they will be able to speak definitely as to their future course in the matter of a strike.

Situation Unchanged.

The local strike situation remains practically unchanged. Vessels are moving without apparent friction between owners and the unions, and no cases of desertion or of attempted violence toward non-union crews have been reported during the past week.

The Lake Carriers' association continues to maintain its special police on all boats as they arrive. It was stated yesterday by a member of the association, that while the additional cost of special guards is heavy, it is necessary to hire men to protect the boats and the men who are at work, and that special police will be employed as long as there is any attempt to destroy association property or assault the men employed.

The lake carriers announce that twenty additional vessels have been put in commission during the past week, making a total of 221 vessels now in operation, controlled by the Lake Carriers' association.

The following have been started during the week:

Pickands Mather & Co. — Odanah, Samuel Mather.

Cleveland-Cliffs — Peter White, Angeline, Presque Isle, Falcon.

Capt. John Mitchell—Hugh Kennedy, M. Clement, F. H. Goodyear, Joseph Sellwood.

Gilchrist Transportation company—Gilchrist, George H. Russell.

United States Transit company—Lyman C. Smith, George B. Leonard, Wilbert L. Smith.

G. A. Tomlinson—Sylvania, Hoover & Mason, Ball Brothers.

Steinbrenner, Henry—Henry Steinbrenner.

RETURNS TO OPEN SEASON

Jay Quigley in the City Preparing for Stock Company Opening.

Jay Quigley, who will have charge of the stock company that will hold forth at the Lyceum this summer, accompanied by Mrs. Quigley, arrived in Duluth this morning. Mr. Quigley will immediately get busy with the details of the first production of the company, which will open a week from next Monday. Stage carpenters are already busy upon the scenic effects for the opening bill, and Mr. Quigley says he will have his hands full from now until the opening night of the first production of the new company.

"I think have I have selected one of the strongest stock companies in the country, and one that will please the theater patrons of this city," said Mr. Quigley. "I have been fortunate in securing the best players that have been playing in the Chicago stock productions. I have fifteen players in the company, and there will be some extra people.

"I want to tell you, that never before in the history of the American stage has there been so many stock companies in this country as there are at the present time. The reason for this great change in the methods of presenting amusement to the theater goers is because the people have found that by the stock production they get better productions, better actors and better results for much less expenditure of money.

"It requires a good actor to play the roles that stock work requires. Many of the road companies have one or two good people and many of the cast young and inexperienced actors. This is hardly possible in a stock company that is worthy of the name. I believe that Duluth will patronize a first-class company, and, imbued with that belief, I have brought such a company to Duluth.

"No matter if the prices of a summer stock company are much less than the prices charged to see a road production, the people have the right to be critical. I have borne that idea in view in selecting the members of the company that will play in this city this season.

"All of the plays that will be produced by the company will be high royalty productions. They range from $200 to $400 a week. I have secured a long list of plays that will be presented here, and some of the latest and best of the modern successes will be presented by the company. The great number of stock companies throughout the country has made it possible for a stock manager to secure the best of modern successes, if he is willing to pay the royalty prices of these productions. I have secured many of the best plays presented by the leading traveling companies of this country, and these productions will be seen in Duluth this summer."

Mr. Quigley will oversee the details of the preparation for the opening production during the present week. The members of the company will reach Duluth next week, when the rehearsals will be called.

AIRSHIPS MAKE FLIGHTS BEFORE THE EMPEROR.

Doeberitz, Germany, May 25.—The Gross and the Parseval airships, commanded by officers of the army, took part in the field exercises of the footguards today before Emperor William. His majesty arrived at the parade grounds at 7 this morning and awaited the coming of the airships. They had started from the Tegel headquarters, nine miles away. Strong winds made the evolutions difficult, especially in the higher altitudes, where the wind was blowing at the rate of thirty-eight miles an hour, but in the low levels the pilots executed difficult maneuvers with great skill. Both of the ships then came down in front of the emperor, who inspected them thoroughly.

The two balloons subsequently returned without mishap.

WORK OF THE PARK BOARD

The Spring Tree Planting Has Now Been Completed.

The Boulevard Extension Will be Put in Good Condition.

The park board is today finishing up the spring tree planting, and tomorrow will put a crew of men to work on the boulevard extension to West Duluth, to put it in good condition for the summer traffic.

Several hundred trees have been set out this spring in different parts of the city. Many of them have been to replace other trees that have died or been broken down. Quite a number have been placed around some of the local schoolhouses. The remainder have gone in the parks and along the streets and avenues.

The boulevard extension has been in poor condition since early spring, but the last week of dry weather has improved it somewhat. For a time it was so filled with mud holes as to be almost impassable. The crew of men and teams to be set to work tomorrow will level off the bad places and spread gravel where needed.

The extension was completed last season and it was not to be expected that it would be in first-class shape this spring. Careful attention will be paid it all summer, and by fall it should be in as good shape as the old boulevard.

Work in parks of the city, also under supervision of the park board, is getting along satisfactorily. Good progress is being made in putting the different parks in shape for the summer season. The ground is being cleared of refuse, paths and walks are being repaired and the drains are being put in condition to handle the surface water.

Particular attention is being paid the new Congdon park along Tischer's creek. The park is naturally very beautiful and, when improvement work on it is complete, it is believed the park will be the prettiest at the Head of the Lakes.

JOHNSON STAYS HOME.

Postpones European Trip Because of His Fight Plans.

New York, May 25.—Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, has decided to remain in this country and arrange several fights before his championship mill with Ketchel next October.

Johnson was to sail for England today, but having indicated a willingness to fight Al Kaufman in a few weeks, decided to cancel the trip abroad. The champion will now train for his bout with Kaufman and arrange for other fights.

It is not unlikely that Johnson will seek to have his bout with Ketchel set back, so as to have plenty of time to get in condition.

Rain Threatens Golf Meet.

Memphis, Tenn., May 25.—With clouds promising rain, sixty players of the Southern Golf association started the thirty-six hole qualifying round of the Southern championship over the links of the Memphis Country club this morning. The course was a trifle soggy.

The minor lights will be given their inning tomorrow. Ellis Knowles, the Eastern intercollegiate champion of 1907, is regarded by many as a 4 to 5 favorite. Lawrence Eustis of New Orleans is considered as having the best chance against Knowles.

Bowling Congress Plans.

Seattle, Wash., May 25.—With the opening of the Western bowling congress here but five days away, arrangements for the big event are going forward rapidly, and entries from far and near are coming in. The Washington, D. C., entries have just been received. Chicago and other Middle Western cities will be represented.

A HURRY CALL FOR OFFICER

Mrs. Briggs Thought Burglars Were Breaking Into Neighbor's House.

That three men were attempting to break in her neighbor's house shortly before midnight last night was the reason for a hurry-up call for an officer, sent in to the West Duluth police station by Mrs. A. Briggs of 5623 Grand avenue.

The police arrived on the scene in a few minutes, but there was no trace of the burglars to be found. It is supposed that the men left before the police arrived, shortly after the call was sent in to the station for an officer.

MISS HARTOUGH BECOMES BRIDE

Is Married to James Godfrey By Rev. Father Lynch.

The wedding of Miss Mayme Hartough and James Godfrey was solemnized at high mass this morning by Rev. Father Lynch, who read the wedding service at 9 o'clock, at the St. James' Catholic church, West Duluth.

The bride was gowned in brown silk, and her bridesmaid, Miss Gertrude Heideman, a cousin from Minneapolis, was attired in a pale blue gown. The groom was attended by a brother of the bride, Arthur Hartough.

A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Hartough, 705 North Fifty-fourth avenue west.

LEG CRUSHED BY TELEPHOHE POLE

West End Man Is Painfully Injured in West Duluth.

Edward McDonald of 2005 West First street, employed by the Northern Power company, sustained a badly crushed leg last evening about 5:30 o'clock in an accident which occurred on North Sixty-third avenue west.

While loading telephone poles on to a wagon, one of the heavy logs slipped and rolled over upon him. The blow was received on the calf of the right leg, and the lower part of the limb was badly crushed.

The leg is broken in several places, and, although attending surgeons do not think it necessary to amputate it, it will mean several weeks' confinement. He was removed to the Duluth hospital after the accident, but was taken to his home on West First street this morning.

GAVE PROCESS SERVER A LONG AND MERRY CHASE

Milwaukee Paper Tells How Miss Fellows Dodged Writs.

Will Return Here to Dispose of Tag Day Cases.

ALICE BURNHAM FELLOWS.

Miss Alice Burnham Fellows, who appeared recently in Duluth as manager of a tag day, in which the juvenile collectors eloped with a large share of the coin, has been brought into public notice once more, through the efforts in Milwaukee to evict her and her school for blind babies, from the premises they now occupy on Newberry boulevard in that city.

Miss Fellows' local career was short and eventful. She came to Duluth with credentials from Milwaukee city officials and employed Duluth school children to sell tags. Her receipts might have been large except for the fact that she had a dispute with the boys and girls regarding their pay, and many of them kept their banks.

When she left for Milwaukee it was with the expressed intention of returning to Duluth in a few days to prosecute the children who had broken their banks and kept the coin, and she had already placed her troubles in the hands of a local lawyer. She has not returned as yet, but her attorney says she will arrive in the city tomorrow, and will then decide whether to prosecute any children who took the money.

Better Than Millionaire.

In the matter of dodging a process server, it would seem that Miss Fellows has the best of the millionaires left at the quarter post. The premises which Miss Fellows has been occupying with her school for blind babies have been wanted for some time by the owner, and the Wisconsin law is very precise in what it requires to be done before a tenant can be evicted. Miss Fellows evidently knew that as long as she could keep from contact with the hated paper she was safe. The trouble the officer had in reaching Miss Fellows is told as follows in a Milwaukee paper:

"The hardest person to outwin and the smoothest and shrewdest talker that I ever served a writ on is Alice Burnham Fellows," said Constable William J. O'Malley. It was Mr. O'Malley who had in charge the eviction of Miss Fellows and her school for the blind from 403 Newberry boulevard recently.

"If Miss Fellows had been a half hour later that she was she would have been entirely evicted and would have had to stay out. As it was, luck was with her and she came up in time, so that enough goods remained inside for her to still be in partial possession. Before I could get them out she had telephoned to her attorney and a bond was given for an appeal to the higher courts. Now nothing further can be done until the matter is decided by the court.

Frequent But Not Welcome.

"When she saw me that day she did not act perturbed, or grow hysterical as an ordinary woman might have done. She walked up to me, tapped me on the shoulder and greeted me in a friendly manner, referring jokingly to the fact that I was a frequent visitor at her institution, but she did not say a welcome one.

"Three times previous to last Saturday I have served writs upon Miss Fellows. She is wiser than most men in evading service.

"The first time I went to serve eviction papers upon her, her servant refused me admittance with the information that Miss Fellows was not at home. I retired to Riverside park, nearby, and crawled under the bushes, where I had an outlook that covered Miss Fellows' abode and waited to see what sort of an opportunity might arise.

Waited Two Hours.

"Soon I saw a grocery boy driving toward her house. I came out of hiding and hurried to her back door. When the servant admitted the grocery lad I pushed myself in.

"'Whom do you wish to see?' the servant asked.

"'Alice herself,' I replied.

"'She's out,' said the servant.

"'Oh, very well,' said I, 'I'll make myself comfortable and remain until she returns.'

"The wait was not more than two hours, for when Miss Fellows saw I really meant business and would stay in the house until she appeared, she came down. I served the papers, and she was wise enough to understand that she would have to pay the back rent or get out, so that afternoon the landlady, Mrs. Miller, received a check and Miss Fellows also sent a check for costs incurred, and the matter was dropped.

Used Telephone.

"Some time after I was again employed to serve similar papers upon her for more back rent. This time I called up over the telephone after being refused admittance. I told Miss Fellows I was from out of town and wanted to see her. After much inquiry she accepted my story and arranged to be at home at a certain time. When I arrived the servant let me in. Of course, it was then an easy matter to serve my papers, and again the back rent was forthcoming.

"The next time I served a paper on her I waited for the mailman and walked along with him. When he rang the bell it was answered, and I dodged in without much ceremony."

BATTLESHIP STARTS BACK DOWN THE MISSISSIPPI.

Natchez, Miss., May 25.—Promptly at 5 o'clock today the battleship Mississippi swung slowly around in midstream, pointed her nose into the channel and started upon her return journey to salt air. Fifteen minutes later only her smoke was visible, and the trip of the big floating fortress up the stream whose name she bears was history. The hills were covered with people as the whistles sounded a farewell. New Orleans should be reached early Wednesday.

SANITARY LIVING AND EXPERIENCED MEDICATION THE BEST CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

NO MEDICINE IN BOTTLES EVER ALONE CURED TUBERCULOSIS

With this prophecy begins Dr. W. D. Rea, of Minneapolis, Minn., pleading for such restrictive measures as may be necessary to drive and stamp this universal disease from the civilized race. Consumption does not confine itself to any particular nationality, sex or age. It stalks the land hand-in-hand with grim death and cuts out the very flower of youth. No door is so narrow, no roof so humble, no house is so grand but that consumption may be found there. It is the curse and scourge of the land, and heretofore all scientists have bowed to it.

Statistics show that the age of those dying of tuberculosis ranges from eighteen to forty years, this at the age of the climax of one's usefulness in the world. Recent medical science has taught that consumption, cancer, tuberculosis and wasting diseases are communicable, preventable and curable. Statistics show that where pure air, pure water, pure food, judicious exercise, abundant sunshine and experienced physicians are, that the disease cannot survive. Consumption is a house disease. It depends upon the home. The germs are spat upon the floor, it dries and is swept up by the broom, flies into the air and breathed by the unsuspecting person, who thereby contracts the disease. Probably three-fourths of all cases of consumption conveyed from person to person, are contracted in the home, factory, workshop or crowded apartments. Worry, over-work, over-exercise, over-indulgence, indigestible food, loss of sleep, impure air, all tend quickly to breed disease.

Years of scientific struggle has proven that consumption, with the aid of nature's tonics, pure air, pure food, pure water, pure thought and God's given resisting powers together with scientific medication, can be cured.

Dr. Rea has treated and cured people from all parts of the civilized world. He has associated with him the best medical assistants and the most improved instruments that the world can produce.

Able as he is to tell the people their disease without asking a question, he is not likely to doctor them for the wrong ailment.

By request he has permitted us to publish a number of the names of some of the most prominent cures he has made.

Sven Hael, Christine, N. D.—Cured of diabetes and early consumption. Had many other doctors treating him. None seemed to do any good at all and he got worse from the beginning.

Peter L. Larson, Wimbledon, N. D. —Cured of early consumption.

M. S. Collings, Aitkin, Minn.—Cured of chronic gastritis and dyspepsia.

Miss Nancy Johnson, Warren, Minn. —Cured of a serious complication of chronic troubles.

H. Christopherson, Aitkin, Minn.—Cured of cirrhosis of the liver.

Ole Tromson's boy, Cummings, N. D.—Cured of Bright's disease and tubercular troubles. The neighbors all said this boy could not be cured.

Mrs. J. L. Ellis, Casselton, N. D.—Tumor removed in one treatment.

Mrs. Jas. Watson, Aitkin, Minn.—Cured of a chronic ulcerated sore leg. Very long standing and was considered a hopeless case by her local physicians.

Mrs. A. J. Schendel, Brainerd, Minn. —Cured of chronic female troubles.

Mrs. Mary Holman, Pequot, Minn.—Cured of a chronic skin disease, a disease considered almost incurable.

J. W. Tibbetts, Aitkin, Minn.—Cured of cancer of the lip in three treatments by Dr. Rea's injection cure.

Alice Nelson, Argyle, Minn.—Cured of chronic muscular rheumatism and kidney troubles.

Mrs. Robert Curran, Emerson, Man. —Cured of appendicitis after other doctors said she would have to be operated on.

Mrs. Julia Winkler, Brainerd, Minn. —Cured of chronic rheumatism after suffering for many years.

R. Augustine, St. Paul, Minn.—Cured of chronic liver, stomach and kidney troubles.

Miss Lillian Peter, Ronald, Minnn.—Tumor removed from her face by Dr. Rea's hypodermic injection plan.

Jacob Kemerle, Cavalier, N. D.—Cured of prostatic and bladder troubles.

Mrs. Ole Satterle, Brainerd, Minn.—Cured of chronic valvular heart disease. Local physicians did not know what to do for her.

Rev. E. W. Rosencranz, Dorsey, Neb. —Cured of cancer of the face in one treatment. Mrs. Rosencranz is 71 years old now and has better health than she has had for years.

Mrs. Josie Short, Lillo, Minn.—Cured of a fungus cancerous growth of the hand.

Mrs. Alexander Swanson, Oakes, N. D.—Cured of cancer of the face. Had it cut out three times and it returned quickly every time. Two treatments of Dr. Rea's injection fluid soon cured her.

Martha Wilhelm, Rt. 5, Minneapolis, Minn.—Cured of epilepsy.

W. N. Nulph, Wyndmere, N. D.—Cured of cancer of the face.

Mrs. Christ Wetchel, 3821 Halifax St., West Duluth, Minn.—Operated on for cross eyes by Dr. Rea and eye straightened in fifteen minutes.

Miss May Martenson, Lakota, N. D. —Cured by Dr. Rea.

M. K. Morken, Lakota, N. D.—Cured by Dr. Rea.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Rea will make his next professional visit to Duluth at St. Louis hotel Saturday, May 29th.

Dr. Rea limits his practice to difficult and long standing diseases.

Those who are in need of special treatment for these particular ailments can consult him on the above date.

WEST END NEWS

DIPHTHERIA EPIDEMIC

One Death and Five New Cases Within Few Days.

Health Department Had the Disease Well Under Control.

One death this morning from diphtheria and five new cases of the disease during the past three days, tells the story of the epidemic which the health authorities are trying now to stamp out in the West end.

The health department had the disease well under control in the West end this spring, but within the last few days, especially since Sunday, the disease has broken out in a number of West end families.

About two weeks ago one family was stricken and two of the members carried away within twenty-four hours. Since then there have been no deaths in the West end due to the disease until this morning, when Edward, the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Martinson, passed away. Mr. and Mrs. Martinson reside at 314 Garfield avenue.

Most of the cases, however, are in the vicinity of Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh avenues, near the parochial school. The following are some of the cases that have come to the attention of West end physicians:

Frances Genereau, aged 10, 109 Twenty-seventh avenue west; Rosie B. Perrault, aged 9, 2201 West First street; Albert Boisjoli, aged 8, 2417 West Fifth street; Isabel Fry, aged 12 years, 2517 West Third street; Albert Gagne, aged 12 years, 2607 Martha street.

READY FOR BANQUET.

Adams Alumni Will Have Annual Spread at the School.

Everything seems to indicate that the annual banquet of the Adams Alumni association, which will be held this evening at the school, Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street, will eclipse all former affairs. Covers will be laid for about 150, and the members of the Adams school graduating class will be the guests of honor.

The serving of the spread will be done by the ladies of the Second Presbyterian church. The banquet is to start promptly at 7:30.

Those who will take part on the musical program are: Don Cole, Walter Higbee and Bert Montgomery. Roy Hood is toastmaster, and the list of toasts is as follows:

"The Adams School of the Past"..... R. R. Forward.

"The Graduating Class"..... Response by Member of Class of '09 Albert Grover.

"The Value of an Alumni Association"..... Neal E. Beaton.

"The Girls"..... Clarence Rankin.

"The Boys"..... Myrtle Craigo.

"The Adams Alumni as the Teacher Sees Them"..... Miss May Coulter.

"The Adams Alumni—How they Behaved"..... Principal Anna M. Hicken.

"The Principal"..... Myrtle Cox.

"Reminiscences"..... W. E. McEwen.

No one will be admitted to the banquet hall unless holding an admission ticket.

SUES JANITOR FOR ASSAULT

Gust Gundeen Accused of Raising Disturbance in West End.

Claiming that Gust Gudeen, a West end janitor, entered her home in the West end on March 22 of this year, and assaulted her, beating and bruising her, and subjecting her to many indignities, Emelia Holstrom is suing him for $2,000. The case was called in Judge Dibell's room this morning.

Gudeen enters a general denial in the case, and claims that all the allegations in the complaint are untrue.

PLANS FOR BANK BUILDING.

Work on New Structure Will Be Started This Week.

Plans for the new bank building on the south side of Superior street between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues west adjoining the Sloan block, and the new Eckman building, have been accepted and it is understood that construction will begin the latter part of the week.

The new building will cost about $4,500 and will be a model one-story structure. It will have a marble finish. W. A. Hunt is the architect. The contract for the work will be let some time this week.

Woodmen's Plans.

The Modern Woodmen of America, Duluth Camp, No. 2341, will meet in social session tomorrow evening at Columbia hall. Refreshments will be served, followed by dancing.

The Woodmen are also making arrangements for devotional services at the Grace M. E. church Sunday, June 5.

West End Shortrails.

Al Olsen of Hibbing is in the West end today.

Charles Eckstrom is building a $1,000 frame residence on West Second street between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues west.

"The Hypnotist" cast of the Second Presbyterian church was entertained last evening at the home of Miss Esther Larson.

Frank Zimmerman has returned from a fishing trip on the upper Lester river.

Miss Josephine Russell will be married to P. Laskoski on June 8. The wedding announcements are out.

The funeral of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Oberg of 2210 West Sixth street was held yesterday afternoon from the residence, with interment at Union cemetery.

The Young People's Society of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church will meet Friday evening for a social session at the church.

The Altar guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church will meet tonight in the vestry rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Langdahl of Chisholm are visiting friends in the West end for a few days.

A class of twenty-four members will graduate this year from St. Clement's school. The exercises will be held on June 22.

The Young Men's Social club will give a dancing party this evening at Lincoln park.

There will be a conference Wednesday evening of the Sunday school teachers of all the Duluth and Superior Lutheran churches at the Zion Norwegian church.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. I. K. Melby, 618 North Twenty-fifth avenue west.

The annual entertainment to be given by the young people of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will be held tonight at the church. The "Sater Fast" will be presented.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Grace M. E. church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Preston, 2809 West Second street.

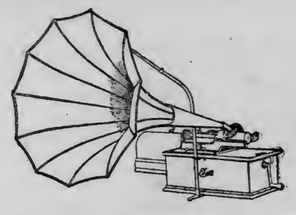
The funeral of Edward Leonard, the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Martinson of 314 Garfield avenue, was held privately this afternoon from the family residence. Interment took place at the Lutheran cemetery. The child died early today of diphtheria.

Beta council, Modern Samaritans, met last evening in Columbia hall. Alpha council was also represented by a drill team, to practice for the big initiation in June.

For bedbugs and roaches use Lion Bug Killer, 25c, at Lion drug store.

Whooping Cough.

This is a more dangerous disease than is generally presumed. It will be a surprise to many to learn that more deaths result from it than from scarlet fever. Pneumonia often results from it. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, and always with the best results. Delbert McKelg of Harlan, Iowa, says of it: "My boy took whooping cough when nine months old. He had it in the winter, I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which proved good. I cannot recommend it too highly." For sale by all druggists.



Mr. Edison has produced in the Amberol Record a Phonograph Record that plays twice as long as the regular Edison Record.

Edison Amberol Records not only play longer than any other record now made, but they play better, their tone quality being richer, clearer and more delicate than has been possible in the past. To play Amberol Records on your present phonograph requires an attachment comprising a change gear and a new reproducer. We have this attachment and will put one on your phonograph at a moderate cost.

GEORGIA'S RAILROAD STRIKE IS COMPLETE.

Atlanta, Ga., May 25.—With delivery of some necessities of life stopped in several towns, the Georgia railroad strike against negro firemen entered its ninth day this morning. Not a wheel was moving on the entire length of the main line, nor on any of the road's branches. No definite hope of improvement was held out pending the arrival of the federal commissioner of labor, Charles P. Neill.

Costs Cune High.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although S. C. Whalen, a dairy owner, was only given a fine of $8 by Judge Church in the police court Monday afternoon, the costs of the action made a total of $45, which Whalen will be obliged to pay, as a result of his arrest on a charge of failure to observe the letter of the city ordinance covering the garbage question.

Was Murdered.

Sioux City, Iowa, May 25.—An examination of the body of Ed Nelson, a business man, who was found dead along the railroad tracks at Alcester, S. D., has convinced the authorities that he was murdered.

SUBMITS "POEM" IN MILK CONTEST

I was born and raised on U. S. land,
My body was wrapped in silk.
Nothing to save mamma's helping hand,
But Borden's condensed milk.

My body was a withering away,
Nothing left but a drooping wilt,
But to save this body I can say,
It was Borden's condensed milk.

My little manhood, shows a willing way.
I am no more wrapped in silk.
But what I use each and every day,
Is Borden's condensed milk.

I may advise to any mother,
That in this brand, there is no filth,
For I prove it by my mother,
She raised me on Borden's condensed milk.

The above "poem" was sent in by a Duluth young man in the Borden letter contest and was one of the prize winners. Although few of the contestants

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"There are times," said Mrs. Feetham, general secretary of the Young Women's Christian association, "when patience ceases to be a virtue, and very presently I shall, in the fury of my wrath, create a tornado of excitement that will maybe arouse these sluggish men—these painters and decorators and clutterers-up in general—from the domain of this association."

If only the workmen who persist in hanging around at the new association building long past the time of their welcome could but see the flash of inward impatience there would, perhaps, be a hurried motion among those who are slopping on paint, or luxuriously applying varnish, or finishing walls, or doing any one of a number of little things that are necessary, of course, but seem to take an unconsciously long time.

The patience of every one concerned is becoming strained.

The number of men employes at the new association building has been reduced to the minimum. There will be an engineer in charge of the heating of the building, and a night watchman, in case of burglars or anything of that kind. There will not, however, be an elevator boy, with whom the girls might pass the time of evening, and whose life they might torment by long and persistent ringing of the bell. The elevator will be an automatic affair. You press the button and it appears. You press another and it takes you to the floor you're thinking about, and stops. That is convenient, of course, but still elevator boys have their good points.

With the work of finishing the building so indefinite, no plans can be made for the opening. Between fifty and sixty young women are living at the building, and the dining room is in operation, but the workers are becoming very anxious for the permanent settling and straightening around.

Farewell Reception.

The parishioners of St. Paul's church were entertained last evening at the rectory by the Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Ruggin in honor of James Cullyford, for many years one of the devoted attendants at St. Paul's and who will leave soon with his family for Denver to make his home. An informal evening of music was enjoyed. Miss Stoselius and Miss Reynolds sang. A parting gift of a beautiful prayer book and hymnal was presented Mr. Cullyford.

Business Meeting.

A business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Christian church will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. Sturgis of 707 West First street. There will be the election of officers and reports of committees.

Fudge Party.

Miss Rose Silk of 421 First avenue east, entertained last evening at a fudge party in honor of Miss Sophie Caplov. Nine guests enjoyed a delightful evening with games, music and refreshment. Those present were:

Misses—
Herbert Silk, Sherman Kassmir
Benjamin Silk, James Park.
Charles Kassmir,

Misses—
Sarah Kassmir, Ida Kassmir,
Goldie Bennett, Sarah Caplov.

TO GIVE A PLAY.

Club to Again Appear in "Talk of Town."

The executive board of the Twentieth Century club yesterday gave its sanction to the department of philanthropy and reform to present an entertainment in the city in the autumn similar to "The Talk of the Town" which was presented last year. The proceeds will go toward the Neighborhood work of the club, which is enlarging at a rapid pace.

The new quarters of the Neighborhood work at 1806 West Superior street are already taking an appearance of activity. A circulating library, reading rooms, sewing and gymnasium classes are maintained. The library work has increased to such an extent that the club will request the library board to undertake that feature of the work, establishing a sub-station there. To provide funds to properly carry on this work will be the object of the entertainment. The committee in charge of the work will entertain at a reception in honor of the club members at the rooms, Friday afternoon, June 11.

This was the only action taken at yesterday's meeting. The lecturers to be secured for next year were informally discussed. Among those being considered are Mrs. Frances Squire Potter of the University of Minnesota and Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour of this city, and a number of the university extension workers of the Chicago university.

Mrs. J. H. Crowley, chairman of the committee in charge of the distribution of trees and shrubs among the school children, reported that more than 1,600 trees were distributed throughout the city, and a general day of planting was observed. There is the greatest satisfaction expressed over the plan.

BLONDES ALL RIGHT

Despite Criticism, Lillian Russell Is Sure Of It.

Being blonde herself, and a pretty well known type of the fair members of her sex, it is not strange that Lillian Russell should come to the defense of the flaxen-haired sisterhood. A gentleman of distinction, who has a few angry blondes camping on his trail at present, is Surgeon Major Charles E. Woodruff, whose professional business is the army, but who writes to be entertaining. Recently Surgeon Major Woodruff published a book, doubtless meant to be a defense of the brunette. Like many well intentioned reformers, his brief for the dark-skinned types carried with it an implied threat that the blondes were the real sorry lot in the human family. Forthwith many a golden head tilted edgeways, and many a bewitching blue eye flashed defiance from out its azure depths, and the major has been called everything, from cat to a cross old patch, who had better look after his soldiers and leave the blondes alone. The latter is wholesome advice, all right, but why classify?

Miss Russell says that Maj. Woodruff has been misunderstood. Because he has said that the brunette tyes in criminology are in a hopeless minority, does not mean that blondes are naturally criminals. One might gather this inference in a superficial examination of his statistics, but getting down to the foundation of it, the truth revealed is that the color of a man or woman's hair and eyes has nothing to do with his or her observation of the law.

Owing to loose immigration laws America has been overrun with blonde types from European countries. These were in a measure children of monarchies, where they were taught the old maxim: "the king can do no wrong." Most kings of that time were blonde, and this implied that brunettes were of a lower order. Such belief eventually produced the heavy-browed villain of novels, and the handsome olive-complexioned and raven-haired devil of melodrama. This accounts for adventuresses upon the stage always being pictured as the darkest of brunettes. Miss Russell says that while Maj. Woodruff may have offended the blondes, he really establishes the verity, that only in the action of light upon the nervous systems of the criminally inclined is the matter of color schemes at all worth considering. Miss Russell also says that because these studies of the criminal classes and their complexion are interesting for references, there is no reason why the average blonde should harbor any resentment against Maj. Woodruff, because he has valiantly shattered an old superstition regarding the inferior habits of the brunette types. In fact the blondes owe him no grudge, and the brunettes should be grateful for having been set right before the people.

April Donations.

The donations to the children's home during April were as follows: Mrs. Duffy, Mrs. Barry, Mrs. Spring, Mrs. Nightingale, Mrs. Lanbeck, Mrs. Burnside, Mrs. Pond, Mrs. Phelps and Mrs. Taylor, clothing; Mrs. Hubbell, one dozen napkins; Stone-Ordeen-Wells, canned goods; Mrs. Comstock, food; Mrs. Christy, Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. Hawkes, milk; Mrs. Fay, three rugs; Mrs. J. D. Stryker, one box of oranges; G. A. R. club of Endion school, baseball and book; Mary and Clara Baldwin, money and Easter eggs; Edward Spring, book; Mrs. James Wall, sewing machine; Mrs. Abbott, one dozen oranges; P. O. Clerks, sandwiches and cake; Munsey Meat Market, five pounds of codfish.

The piano numbers from the classical composers, from Scarlottino to Beethoven, will be played by her pupil, Miss Loretta O'Gorman.

SPRING COIFFURE.

Hair Fashions and Ornaments For Season.

French women are affecting the side parting just now, the waves of hair being kept quite flat on top of the head, but spreading out over the ears in large puffs. This rather dashing style is becoming only to a few types of faces, but when it is worn it is very chic and attractive. With a pretty and feminine face the side parting is piquante and rather coquettish, but it is apt to give a strong or large featured face a mannish look. Also the woman past the freshness of first youth should beware of the side parting, says the Housekeeper.

Very quaint, yet attractive over the right type of face, is the old-fashioned ornament of roped ribbon wound with strings of beads. This style of hairdressing was affected in the '30s and the little curls falling over the neck at the back carry out the effect of this old time style, which is an abrupt departure from the dignity of the classic mode. Gold ribbon twisted in rope effect and wound with double strings of small gold beads may be used in this ornament, but white ribbon wound with pearls, or black velvet ribbon wound with jet beads would be equally effective. Finishing the ends of the ribbon and bead rope are leaf ornaments made of flat loops of the ribbon, sewed thickly with the beads, and from these leaf-like ornaments fall heavy tassels. Tassels and other pendant ornaments dangling behind the ears are much seen at Palm Beach in the evening, and the fad bids fair to last through the summer. The swinging ornaments when pinned to the hair quite near the ears give the effect of swinging earrings.

Just now there is a fancy for laurel wreaths for evening coiffure ornaments, and the deep green of the glistening leaves is beautiful with reddish or golden hair. Smilax leaves are also used and the fairy fronds of maidenhair are pressed into service. Sometimes the leaves are spangled lightly with make-believe dew-drops made of tiny rhinestones. Care should be taken with the leaf coronet to keep the leaves flat upon the hair, as a spiky effect is apt to be wild and unkempt in appearance.

Among the prettiest hair ornaments shown at the fashionable jewelers' to go with the Grecian style of coiffure is the combination barette and coronet of gold or tortoise. The tops of the back combs are hinged and so may be worn in the fashion of a coronet. One seen at a famous jeweler's could be worn in several ways: flat on the head as a bandeau, encircling the Psyche knot in the place of a barette and standing as a coronet.

The clever girl will not forget the charm of fresh spring flowers with a simple coiffure. The rose, well placed, has an artistic value independent of mode. The supreme rule in all hairdressing is becomingness. It is far better to wear the hair in a fashion of several seasons ago if it softens the face and emphasizes good features than to be a conscientious follower of fashion and sacrifice these advantages.

TRAVEL'S TROUBLES.

Postage Stamps and One's Identity Confusing.

About half one's time in travelling abroad is spent in buying stamps. No matter how many I put on a letter, I had no faith to believe that it would reach America," said M. Landon Reed in the Delineator for June. I found that I could send a letter with one stamp on it if I paid enough for it, also that I could get a denomination of which it would take twenty. In Cairo I put fifteen sphinxes and pyramids on the front of a letter and five on the back. As for postal cards—imagine asking for one in the Belgian language—Wereldpostvereeniging.

But it is in a Mohammedan country that an American mind needs most readjustment. We woke one morning in Constantinople and found our calendar nine days ahead of theirs, our watches seven hours behind, and the name of the month Ramadan. The Mohammedans seem to live up to their religion in a more definite way than we do, and we soon learned what to expect. The porter would drop one's trunk when the Muezzin called to prayer; the sacredness of animal life compelled us to walk around the hundreds of lazy dogs asleep on the sidewalk; we were required to take off our shoes instead of our hats when entering a mosque; women were not allowed to pray because they "have no souls." Friday was the day for Sunday, and a camera was an "evil eye" and could not be carried into any sacred place. Our artist was once charged 20 cents extra for keeping an evil eye in his room all night.

Before the journey ends the tourist has lost his identity completely. At first he is from "Kalamazoo, Mich." then from "Michigan," later "The United States" soon the "States," and the thew riter was once introduced to a gentleman from Tuscany as "the lady from North Amerien."

Length of Skirts.

The length of skirts varies almost as much, from one season to another, as the shape of sleeves, and that is saying a good deal. However, all walking skirts must clear the ground all around this year. The skirts of the new tailored suits for traveling and shopping are all walking length. More handsome suits, in broadcloth, rajah and other fabrics used for dressy wear, appear with a short train. Walking skirts are capable of some variation. The short woman should wear hers as long as she can without touching, while the tall woman will look well in a much shorter skirt. Women of medium height will find a skirt two inches off the ground an effective length. Genuine princess gowns should always have a train. This is not true, however, of the semi-princess frocks, where the belt destroys the actual princess lines. All evening frocks except those for dancing are being made with trains.

The Kaffeeklatsch.

The difference between a 5 o'clock tea and a German kaffeeklatsch, says the Queen, is enormous. The tea is a pleasant go as you please meeting where we balance one teacup in hands perilously handicapped by our multitudinous possessions augmented by the frail saucer on which a topheavy piece of cake finds an insecure resting place. We may also enjoy a variety of creature comforts augmented by ices and cups on festive occasions. Not so the eGrman kaffeeklatsch. That is a ponderous affair which you take sitting at tables. Coffee and savories mark the beginning of the meal, followed by numberless cakes which the Germans know so well to make. This is followed by some creamy preparation or a beautiful device made in ice; this again is succeeded by the choicest fruits. The kaffeekanne is meanwhile still busily plying its trade. There is a well-known German song which ends with the refrain, freely translated: "Thank you, thank you, hostess mine, I never dring more cups than nine."

friends have been interested in the contest which is bringing to light more adorable children than one could have imagined.

The Duluth babies, of course, are being entered in the greatest numbers. The contest continues into June, and there are a number of prizes to be awarded. Now is the time to send your baby's picture to the contest editor of The Herald, with a label from a can of Borden's Eagle brand milk and a coupon from The Herald.

TAKES DOWN SIGN. LOCKS DOOR, DIES.

Anderson, Ind., May 24.—After carrying on a small bootmaking and repairing business for fifty-nine years, William Mustard, 89 years old, decided his end was near. He folded his apron around his tools, took the sign down from over his door, locked the shop and died. One of his children, Daniel F. Mustard, is president of the Citizens bank of this city. William Mustard himself had $25,000 invested in property, but maintained in his later years that to leave his cobbler bench would shorten his life.

FAMILIES FORCED BY CLOUDBURST TO MOVE.

Norfolk, Neb., May 25.—A cloudburst occurred last night between Plainview and Niobrara, Neb., and in consequence of the damage to bridges no trains were run between Norfolk and the Rosebud country today. In Verigre, Neb., a number of families were forced to move from their homes to escape the water. Washouts occurred between Oakdale and Tilden, and between Albion and Loretto.

WOULD NOL PROS THE CASES AGAINST DIETZ.

Madison, Wis., May 25.—Assemblyman Daub presented a resolution today asking the legislature to recommend that since no longer any reason existed to prosecute John F. Dietz of Cameron Dam fame, nolles be entered by the court and district attorney, to all indictments and warrants. The resolution will come up for action Thursday.

Dietz had a dispute with the Chippewa Falls Lumber & Boom company for a number of years over the waterway rights at Cameron Dam and prevented the floating of millions of feet of logs over the dam. The logs were finally hauled away by the lumber company by teams. During the trouble many futile attempts were made to arrest Dietz.

Gideons Choose Officers.

Fargo, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Gideons selected H. R. Gladding of Fargo as president. The vice presidents are Eugene Smith of Kenmare, F. L. Montgomery of Grafton, C. H. Howard of Grand Forks and F. H. Taylor of Fargo. C. F. Greenwood of this city was made secretary and treasurer.

Kidnappers Arrested.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 25.—William Hale and Robert Taylor, colored, were held by the police for an alleged attempt to kidnap the 2-months-old child of Ruth Baker, also colored. The men took the child and started for the station with the intention of going to Minneapolis. They say it was only a joke they were playing on the mother.

CROOKSTON NEWSPAPERS TO BE CONSOLIDATED.

Crookston, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was formally announced today that on June 1 the Crookston Daily Journal would consolidate with the Crookston Daily Times, after which date the publication will be known as the Crookston Times-Journal, and will be issued from the present Times plant. The Polk County Journal will also be consolidated with the Weekly Times, which will be a semi-weekly publication after June 1.

Burned to Death.

Mandan, N. D., May 25.—Mrs. Caroline Hartman, mother of Mrs. F. W. Leal, who lives twenty-seven miles southwest of Sims, a small village in Morton county, was burned to death last week by having her clothes catch fire from a stove.

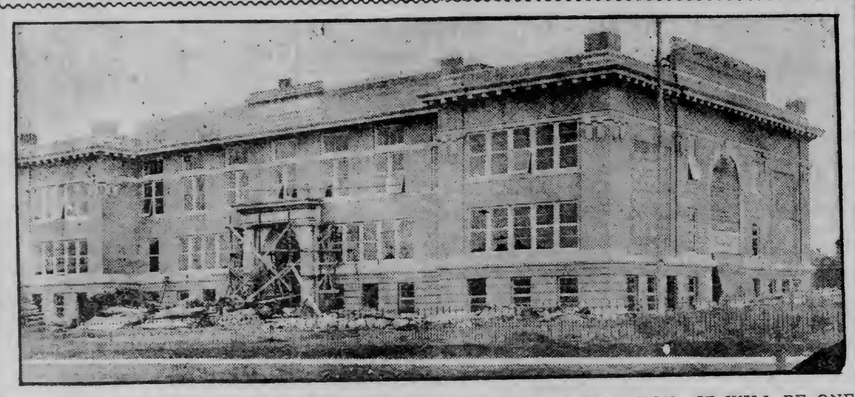
NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING AT EVELETH



THIS HANDSOME BUILDING IS NOW RAPIDLY APPROACHING COMPLETION. IT WILL BE ONE OF THE BEST EQUIPPED HIGH SCHOOLS ON THE MESABA RANGE.

CAPTAINS' INSTITUTE

Mining Captains on Mesaba Range Have Practical Organization.

Object Is to Inspect Mines and Discuss Everything Noted.

Aurora, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. T. J. Nichols of Aurora is the president of the Mining Captains' Institute which was recently organized at a meeting held in the council chambers at Virginia. The other officers are: First vice president, Capt. W. J. Sincox, Virginia; second vice president, Capt. W. Gardener, Hibbing; third vice president, Capt. Nels Lein, Eveleth; secretary, Capt. R. J. Fayle, Hibbing; assistant secretary, Capt. J. J. Hudson, Aurora; treasurer, Capt. J. Quayle, Virginia.

The enthusiasm with which the society was formed augurs well for its future success. It is generally conceded that this event connected with mining is one of the most far-reaching the Mesaba range has ever experienced. The vice president of the American mining congress said recently that "mining is no easy task. It requires strength of body and mind, the courage of a man, brains and ability, patience and persistence. The field in the past has not been so inviting as many sacrifices were required, self-denials to be endured. Mining has required broadminded men, those who think and act for themselves, who have been a little ahead of the times, and not afraid to cross mountains and swamps and stay away from home over night. And when success reaches these men, as it frequently does, it is by far the greatest of any in the business world. Mining is a pursuit founded on the Rock of Ages and is about the most honorable of all trades or professions."

Aims of the Institute.

It is said that one of the aims of the institute is to meet at different points on the range, go down into some mine selected at a previous meeting, make a thorough inspection of same, come back to a hall in the nearest town and fully discuss in mining parlance every item noted in the underground trip. Even to a layman the benefits to be derived from this procedure must be self-evident.

One of the organizers of the institute says: "On a close inspection of the names and members connected with this organization as secured by the press, we find men hoary with age rounding out a successful life of underground mining supervision; men, who, during their life's experience, have quite likely come into contact with every known system of mining in all parts of the world.

"We also find young men mentioned who have been schooled and well trained by the older ones, full of activity and energy, using their knowledge as obtained for present work and it will doubtless serve them as a substantial basis for future development. We also conclude from what we can gather at this date that the whole experience of these practical pioneer miners will be used, and directed toward eliminating all accidents to employes connected with operating, that their combined skill will enable them to suggest.

"In the past few years rapid strides have been made in this industry toward lessening the number of fatalities as compared with the tonnage produced. The last report of the county mine inspector supports this statement with an array of facts and figures that must certainly be very gratifying to the range men engaged in this occupation. One lamentable feature, however, is that very few have been able to secure the information contained in that report. It might be in order to sugest here that an appropriation be made by our legislature to cover the cost of printing these important reports each year. It certainly would be productive of much good.

A Complex Study.

"The art of mining is just as difficult, just as complex and needs just as much study and training as any trade or profession the world ever knew. We have it from good authority that each mine in its development stage is to some extent a problem in itself. Exploring with the diamond drill no matter how extensive it may be, can never furnish absolute information as to the method of timbering to be used in a mine as its different levels in order to make it reasonably safe. Actual development work alone provides this data, and at this point the mining captain, coming up through years of practical experience, acquires an instinct, 'if you please,' that cannot be furnished by any school or college throughout the land.

"The more youthful element of the institute must certainly be in a position to be greatly benefited when, if as we presume, the individual member will be entitled to the advice and suggestions of the whole body.

"The Lake Superior Mining Institute has been and will continue to be a great benefit to the mining world, but on account of its large and ever increasing diversified membership, its future work will quite likely be conducted along technical and historical lines to a large extent. The captains' institute will from its nature and inception deal more with practical detail work, using common every day mining terms and phrases. We understand that men holding the highest positions in the mining world have given this movement their hearty support and approval. If the organization as a result of their deliberations visits Aurora some time in the future we can vouch for a hearty welcome from our business men and citizens in general."

PASTOR HILL DEFENDS ACTS

Has No Fear of Outcome of the Bovey Arrests.

Bovey, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. F. W. Hill, pastor of the M. E. church, who made a raid on several saloons Sunday night and broke in the doors, subsequently being arrested with two constables on charges of burglary, preferred by two saloon keepers, John Speck and N. S. Knoblock, says that the action of the saloon men is only a bluff and he has no fear of the outcome of the cases, which are to come up before Justice Frantl on next Thursday. Mr. Hill said, in a statement issued last evening, that it has been common for many of the saloons of Bovey to be open every Sunday. He said that Sunday night the raiding party found nine persons in the first saloon, besides the proprietor and bartender; that the next saloon they visited was crowded and the saloon keeper was just preparing to close up. Mr. Hill claimed that in the meantime some one warned the other saloon keepers that the raiding party was coming and the other saloons were quickly closed and darkened, so that on their arrival at two of the saloons they found the doors closed. The pastor and the constable and his deputy had search warrants as their authority to make the raids and are confident that they acted within the bounds of the law when they broke open the door, but the saloon men claim that the search warrants, having been issued on Sunday, were not legal.

CHASED BY FIVE TIMBER WOLVES

Eveleth Man Has Exciting Experience in the Woods.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Smith, formerly a well-known timber cruiser in Duluth, had an exciting time yesterday afternoon while out in the woods estimating pine trees, about seven miles from here, near the Miller trunk road.

When about a mile from the road, Smith was startled by a sound near him, and as he turned he saw five timber wolves. He had no gun, and immediately took to his heels, setting out for a settler's house that was half a mile ahead. The wolves gave chase a short way, but then turned back. When Smith told the settler about the occurrence the latter took a gun and went out to look for the wolves, but they had gone back into the woods.

Several other people have reported seeing something like timber wolves in the woods near Eveleth during the past few weeks, but this is the first recent case where any one has had any real encounter with them.

EVELETH ELKS' LODGE TO START

The Institution Has Been Fixed for Next Monday Night.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local Elks received word yesterday that they could have the institution of their new lodge on Saturday evening, May 29. Several of the most prominent Elks in Minnesota and Wisconsin will be present, including District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler William Regan of Minneapolis and Grand Trustee Thomas B. Mills of Superior.

About 350 Elks from Virginia, Hibbing, Two Harbors, Duluth, Superior and the Twin Cities will come and will be served a banquet at the Glode hotel after the installation ceremonies. All the local merchants are planning on decorating up their places of business for Saturday and several bands have been engaged to furnish music during the day.

MAX STIPETICH HELD TO GRAND JURY AT VIRGINIA.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Max Stipetich, the local saloon keeper who had some trouble some time ago with an Austrian in the saloon, the result of which put the Austrian in the hospital with a broken leg and an injured head, was up before Judge Prince yesterday in the municipal court for examination. After taking testimony all day, Judge Prince bound Stipetich over to the grand jury at Virginia on $100 bail.

KILLED AT THE ADRIATIC MINE

Chris Marovich Is Warned of Danger But Took No Heed.

Aurora, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chris Marovich, a young Montenegrin, was killed by a cave-in at the underground workings of the Adriatic mine at 2 o'clock this morning. The place where he met his death was known to be dangerous, and all the miners had been warned of that fact, but Marovich disregarded the warning and went into the drift, with the result that he was killed. It took four hours to dig out his body, which was brought to Aurora. He was a single man and has no relatives in this country, as far as known.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD BOY SHOOTS HIMSELF IN HAND.

Two Harbors, May 25.—The 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fernan of Silver Creek accidentally shot himself through his left hand yesterday with a 22-caliber rifle while he was hunting. The boy was brought to the Budd hospital in this city, and underwent an X-ray examination. The bullet was located in the flesh of the hand. The wound is not serious.

LOST ONE FINGER IN A SAUSAGE GRINDER.

Chisholm, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Phillip Johnson is minus the index finger of the left hand as a result of too close contact with the sausage grinder in the Joseph Karl meat market. He was stuffing the meat into the grinder when he accidentally overreached with the one finger and it was crushed to pieces, making amputation necessary.

Weddings At Chisholm.

Chisholm, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two weddings were performed by Rev. Mr. Keast in one day. Miss Maud Kinney became the bride of Guy R. Wallace, a member of the office force of the Oliver Mining company at Hibbing. The bride is a niece of Mrs. O. D. Hake. She was assisted by Miss Luella Hake while Chelse Wallace acted as best man. Frederick Fuller and Mrs. Annie Olson were also married by Mr. Keast. The marriage of Theresa Sterle and Frank Bukovic was solemnized in the Catholic church by Father Tscholl.

NEW CHURCH FOR EVELETH

Holy Family Congregation to Inspect Plans Next Sunday.

Chisholm, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—At tho last meeting of the Commercial club, a committee was appointed to walk on the council and ask them to clean up three forties north and west of town and sow grass seed as a precaution against fire, also to take the rocks off the streets that are not being graded.

J. H. McNiven reported that the road to Dewey Lake can be put in first-class shape for $150, and that very little additional work would make an outlet for the north country.

The matter of stores on the locations was gone over thoroughly, and a committee appointed to interview the agents of the property where stores are being located on the locations and try to prevent leases being made for that purpose.

CHISHOLM BUSINESS MEN

Want Council to Take Further Precautions Against Fire.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the Holy Family congregation will be held Sunday afternoon, when the plans for the new edifice, to be built on the present site, will be laid before them. Olson & Magny of Duluth, the architects, will have the plans here by Sunday.

John Debevic and Angela Perovshek were married yesterday morning at the Holy Family church by Rev. Father Bliban. A feast was held at the couple's home after the ceremony, which was witnessed by many friends of the couple. Fidino Firano and Santa Stafaccia were married yesterday in the court chambers by Judge Prince.

Paul Welgle, who has been visiting in Texas, Nevada, California and Washington, returned the other day after being away three months. He is much improved physically.

Miss Pauline Rabinowitz, who has been taking the place of the high school teacher at McKinley, while the latter has been sick and quarantined, has returned home. Miss Rabinowitz expects to teach near Eveleth the coming fall.

Miss Daisy Selgar of Ishpeming, Mich., is visiting with Mrs. Harry Wills of the Fayal.

CROSBY MINE SHIPPING FROM THE STOCKPILES.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crosby mine started shipping ore from the stock piles Monday morning. One shovel is at work at present.

J. Flink of Ironwood, Mich., formerly employed as civil engineer for the Oliver Iron Mining company at Hibbing, arrived Monday and is working for the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company at the Crosby mine.

LINE-UP OF NASHWAUK AND STEVENSON TEAMS.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lineup of the Nashwauk and Stevenson teams that played ball on the latter's grounds Sunday last was as follows:

Nashwauk—Hicks, catcher; Nelson, pitcher; Berg, first base; Kuntz, second base; Wivell, third base; Loffitte, shortstop; McGuire, center field; Graham, right field, and Lienwinder, left field.

Eveleth Militia Won.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The militia baseball team returned yesterday from Hibbing, where on Sunday they played the Hibbing militia and trimmed them up to the tune of 7 to 1. Parks pitched for Eveleth and did well. The Eveleth lineup was as follows: May, catcher; Park, pitcher; Van Buskirk, shortstop; Cerveny, first base; Springer, second base; Myers, third base; Bill Pryor, right field; Cooper, center field; Anthony Pryor, left field.

Will Be Buried at Auron.

Aurora, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Williams, the Cornishman who was killed by falling off a trestle at the St. James mine, will be buried here, as no word has been received from his relatives as to the disposal of the body.

Mining Students Coming.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.) — Twenty-six students from the junior class of the Minnesota School of Mines will be here next week for two weeks. They will study practical surveying in the mines of the Oliver Iron Mining company. They will be in charge of Prof. Charles E. Van Barneveld. This trip is the regular surveying trip the juniors in the mine school make, while the seniors make a trip to the West.

LOGS AT VERMILION DAM ARE DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Tower, Minn., May 25.—Fire at the Vermilion Lake dam destroyed 50,000 feet of logs belonging to the Vermilion Lumber company, yesterday.

The blaze continued all day and a crew of men with tugs was busy fighting the fire and throwing unburned logs into the lake, to be towed down to the mill. Owing to the fire the mill shut down, but will probably resume operations again on Wednesday.

Johnson Recovering.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 25.—Theo G. Johnson, publisher of the Iron Trade Journal, who is ill at the Budd hospital with pneumonia, is reported doping nicely and will recover in a short time.

TO TRY MANY OF THE CASES HERE

Judge Cant Makes Ruling Regarding Range Personal Injury Suits.

Under the ruling made by Judge Cant of the district court yesterday, there will be but little personal injury work for the newly established court at Virginia.

Judge Cant held that companies having their principal offices in Duluth should have the privilege of having their court matters settled here. This decision was made in the cases of John Lahti against the Mohawk Mining company, Albert Halicky against the Hobart Iron company and Carl Sundquist against the Malta Iron company. All three were personal injury suits.

This is the first time this question has come up since the establishment of the Virginia court.

AFOUL OF THE LAW?

being used as a basis for the tariff discussion in the belief that the rates contained in that section (section 1) would be the rates of the Payne bill, Mr. Shiveley contended that the real rates to be enforced after March 31 would be 25 per cent higher than those in the dutiable list. He said that the senate amendment expressly declared that the maximum rates would be "the general tariff of the United States."

Actual Prevailing Rates.

"The rates prescribed in section 2 are to be the actual and prevailing rates," said Mr. Shiveley. "The rates prescribed in section 1 are all made conditional and contingent and could only become operative as rates chargeable against all dutiable imports when the president shall have performed the physically, if not legally, impossible function assigned to him by the provision in section 2." He explained that the proviso makes the judgment of the president final as to what shall constitute undue discrimination and as to what shall constitute "reciprocal and equivalent," and requires such mastery of facts as to render the task impossible of intelligible performance within the time of a presidential term.

Should the supreme court hold that the proviso putting in effect the minimum rates by presidential proclamation is an attempted delegation of legislative power to the executive in contravention of the Constitution, said Mr. Shiveley, then the maximum rates would be the only rates to be levied and collected under the law. "Should the court hold that the taint of invalidity on the proviso extends to the preceding lines as being dependent on and inseparable from the proviso, then there would remain in the act no definition of what shall constitute the general tariff of the United States," continued Mr. Shiveley, "and recourse might well be claimed to the act of 1897, as the unrepealed and only existing tariff of the United States."

Would Remain in Effect.

Should the courts hold the provisions constitutional, Mr. Shiveley declared that the maximum rates would remain in effect until the president shall have become satisfied as to a long series of things existing under foreign governments, and by proclamation from time to time make exceptions to the maximum rates and set in operation the minimum rates. "He could not be enjoined to become satisfied, nor mandamused to make proclamation if he were satisfied."

Mr. Shiveley discussed the difficulties which would be met in the president satisfying himself that a foreign country was entitled to the minimum rates. "The concessions granted in the minimum tariff are to be regarded as framing up obligations against foreign countries which can only be cancelled by what section 2 calls 'Treatment which is reciprocal and equivalent,'" said Mr. Shiveley. He then discussed the complications which he claimed would rise from this exaction. "The proposed act would make the tariff higher than any tariff law in the country's history."

AFTER BETTER MAIL SERVICE

Postmaster Asks for More Clerks and Carriers.

Postmaster Eaton has made requisition for four additional office clerks, six city carriers and two rural carriers. The extra help is made necessary by the increased business in the local office and the necessity of establishing business service in several downtown districts.

The district in which the new courthouse is located and the territory which includes the growing business section east of Second avenue on Superior street, will both be given business delivery.

There is need of an extra carrier at the Lakeview station and two at Hunter's Park. It is expected the postoffice department will act favorably on the establishment of a sub-station at the West end.

The fiscal year closes the last of next month. There has been a steady growth in receipts at the Duluth postoffice and this year promises to be as far in excess of last year in receipts as 1908 was over 1907. The postal receipts last year were $274,413.65.

THREE MEN HURT IN AN ACCIDENT

Have Trouble With Steam Shovel at Barnum, Minn.

In a steam shovel accident at Barnum, Minn., late yesterday afternoon, Charles Falgon, 22 years old, sustained a dislocated hip, and was otherwise injured, and Arthur Frogeatt, 55 years old, was wounded in the head.

Both men were brought to St. Mary's hospital. They were members of a crew doing railroad work on the Northern Pacific. Another man was slightly injured in the accident. Details of how the accident occurred are lacking.

NEW SYSTEM ADVOCATED

Important Changes in the School Work at Minneapolis Proposed.

Would Divide Work Into Three Classes—Comprehensive Training.

Minneapolis Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Important changes in educational system of the Minneapolis public schools are to be advocated by the Minneapolis Commercial club, through its committee on education. This committee, after considerable research and discussion, with investigation of educational systems in the United States and Europe, is about to make its suggestions to the board of education. These suggestions will take the form of a memorial from the Commercial club.

A new division of the education system will be advocated. This, it is argued, could best be brought about by consolidating the present seventh and eighth grades and the first year of the present high school course into a new intermediate division.

For Three Divisions.

There would be three divisions: The first would comprise the grades, one to six. The second would comprise the present seventh and eighth grades and the first year of the present high school course; the third would comprise the second, third and fourth years of the present high school course.

Comprehensive training for work after leaving school is the point aimed at by the scheme. It is argued that pupils leaving school at the end of the eighth grade are not fitted properly for work. A large proportion of pupils leave at this period in their education.

Into Intermediate Division.

Under the system advocated the commercial courses and the manual training would be taken into the intermediate division and every effort made to make the school course, up to the close of this division, practical in its aims and contrived to fit the needs of the boys and girls who will not enter the high school. There would be no graduating from the first division, comprising the first six grades.

The work of the high school, which would comprise the last three years of the present high school course, would be made preparatory to university education.

It is believed by its advocates that this plan, rather than being a greater expense would be in fact, a measure of economy, utilizing space in school buildings where it is now unused. The chief argument in its favor is that it would mean the best possible preparation for work for the boy or girl leaving school before finishing the high school course and at the same time allowing to the efforts of the teachers or work preparatory to university classes.

The system is modelled slightly on a German idea, but is said to be without counterpart in the United States.

ACCIDENTS AT NEW DULUTH

William Noael Lost Finger at Box Factory—Other Mishaps.

New Duluth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Noael met with a painful accident at the box factory. He was working at the gripper when one hand came too near the saw and was severely cut. The whole palm of the hand was torn open and the cords and blood vessels were severed. A physician was called and amputated the little finger. The skin and flesh from this finger were grafted to the palm. It may be necessary to amputate the whole hand as the thumb and first finger are the only ones uninjured. Noael is only 17 years old.

Webster Bushell, the 1-year-old baby of Mr and Mrs. Ed Bushell, had the first joint of his little finger smashed Saturday. The child's little brother was playing with a hatchet and accidentally hit the baby's finger. It had to be cut off at the first joint as it was so severely injured as to be perfectly useless.

Lloyd Olson the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Olson had the end of his third finger cut off Sunday by a playmate who was trying to shop wood with an ax. The little boy's hand was resting on the block and was struck as the ax came down.

The farm home on the old Berger farm, 8 mile from New Duluth, was burned early Sunday morning. It is thought tramps slept in the house and that fire caught from matches. The house belonged to Mrs. Barbara Berger and was uncoupied. There was no insurance.

MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Third Annual Event at Grand Forks for Two Days.

Grand Forks, N. D. May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The third annual May music festival will open in Grand Forks Wednesday afternoon, continuing two days. This festival is given under the direction of the Grand Forks Oratorio society and is considered the greatest musical event of the state. The festival will take place in the newly constructed auditorium of the society.

The auditorium building, costing in the neighborhood of $18,000, is not entirely complete, but the work has progressed so far that the holding of the festival in the structure is possible. The auditorium has a seating capacity of 2,500.

The Grand Forks Oratorio society chorus, composed of 175 of the most talented musicians of Grand Forks, and the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, with its soloists, will take part in the festival.

CROP CONDITIONS ARE EXCELLENT

Growth of Vegetation in Red River Valley Is Phenomenal.

Crookston, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—A steady rain set in Monday afternoon and continued during the greater part of the night. The moderate precipitation which has prevailed during the past two weeks, keeping the surface moist, has made conditions as near ideal as they could well be. The growth of vegetation is phenomenal and the advance can be noted from day to day.

The lack of anything approaching flood conditions at any time this spring has made conditions ideal for the nesting of prairie chickens, ducks and other game birds. As a result, there will be more birds hatched in this section this summer than for many years past, with the promise of some fine shooting next fall.

HIS ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE GHASTLY

Tried Bleeding to Death but Failed—Then Slashed Throat.

Kenmare, N. D. May 25.—A homesteader named Sibonius Swanson, living on a claim in the hills country, made a deliberate attempt to kill himself. A brother, who lives a few miles distant, happened to go over to the shack belonging to Swanson, and on opening the door a horrible sight met his gaze. Lying on a bed was the form of the man, literally covered with blood, his throat cut almost from ear to ear and the left arm slashed open near the wrist, penetrating to the bone.

On approaching the bed the visitor, to his astonishment, saw the man move. He attempted to get up, but was too weak.

Hurriedly the brother left the house to summon assistance, and as soon as a telephone could be reached medical aid was called, two physicians going out from Kenmare in an auto.

Swanson returned with a neighbor to the shack, where they were again confronted with a most unusual and ghastly sight, the would-be suicide having gotten out of bed, and, meeting them at the door, he tried to make them understand that he intended to die, it being found that he had cut into the wind pipe, which made articulation almost impossible.

The physicians arrived about an hour after the alarm was given the man was temporarily bandaged and quickly brought to Kenmare, being placed in St. John's hospital, where the physicians and nurses did everything possible to save the man's life. The man was given every attention, and it is thought he will recover from the effects of his rash act, although he will probably lose the use of the left arm, as the gash, which was made with a razor, penetrated the flesh into the bone.

IS OPPOSED TO PUBLIC POLICY

Hiring Attorneys on Percentage To Secure Divorces.

Waukesha, Wis., May 25.—That a woman cannot hire attorneys on a contract to secure a divorce for her was the decision of Judge M. S. Griswold in county court in dismissing the suit of C. A. A. McGee and L. M. Jeger, Milwaukee attorneys, against Marietta Caryl. The question has never been decided by the supreme court of Wisconsin, although the supreme courts of Michigan, California, Iowa and other states have so decided.

According to the complaint, Mrs. Caryl hired the plaintiffs to commence a divorce suit against her husband, Dr. W. W. Caryl, a retired dentist of this city, and signed a contract to give the attorneys 33 per cent of any amount they might recover in the way of alimony. Subsequently she retained Attorney A. L. Blackstone of this city, who secured the divorce.

The Milwaukee attorneys sued to recover $1,266.33, alleging that in the divorce Mrs. Caryl received property valued at $2,500 and $1,000 in cash. Judge Griswold in his opinion held that it was against public policy and that to allow it would prevent reconciliations in many cases.

CAMERON RESTING AFTER HIS NERVOUS BREAKDOWN.

Minot, N. D., May 25.—Still worried from his overwork and wandering on the prairie, Duncan Cameron is at his home resting. He was very nervous previous to the practically temporary collapse of his mind and it will be some days before he will be able to return to his work. His shoes were practically worn out when he returned and his feet are badly blistered.

Nothing further has been done toward checking over the city accounts.

"LOOKED ALL AROUND--- BOUGHT AT FORWARD'S"

THIS IS A COMMON OCCURRENCE since Forward opened the new store with new Furniture at New Prices at Second avenue east. And naturally so. The average person likes things that are NEW in preference to those of questionable age—that may have been "used" or "refinished."

Price, too, is a very important consideration. And Forward's prices are unquestionably a little lower than the usual run. People say so.

Most people are fairly good judges of quality after all! Forward buys his furniture of the best concerns in U. S. A. and the goods will bear looking into rigidly. We invite the closest inspection of our qualities and prices. Easy payments.

WAS SEVERELY BURNED.

Edward Leblanc Meets With Painful Accident Near Winthrop.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 25.—Edward Leblanc, whose eyes were affected by his being poisoned with wood alcohol about a year ago, and whose eyesight has been poor since, was severely burned at the Pluto Powder company's plant, south of the Winthrop location, one day last week. He was working near the pipe and the flame set fire to the legs of his trousers. Because of his defective eyesight, it is said he did not readily notice that his trousers were burning. Both legs were severely burned. Leblanc was removed to the Ishpeming hospital.

MRS. KIMBALL DEAD.

One Son Visiting in Duluth When She Passed Away.

Fargo, N. D., May 25.—After a brave fight for her life lasting over a week, Mrs. Porter Kimball of 208 Tenth street north succumbed to the grim reaper on Saturday.

Mrs. Kimball was 53 years of age, and has lived her whole life in the Northwest, having been born at Faribault, Minn. She moved to North Dakota with her husband in 1882 and they settled at Hope, where they made their home until six years ago. At that time they moved to Fargo and have lived here since then.

Besides her husband Mrs. Kimball is survived by the following seven children: Perley C., Arthur N., Edgar P., Merritt, Eva Ruth, Grace and Clarence. Perley C. Kimball lives at Hope, N. D., and Edgar Kimball is visiting at the present time in Duluth.

Mrs. Kimball is also survived by three brothers, Charles Merritt of St. Paul, Newton Merritt of Glyndon, Minn., and Elmer Merritt of Fort William, Ont.

PIONEER PASSES AWAY.

Lucian A. Barnes Dies on His North Dakota Farm.

Fargo, N. D., May 25.—Lucian A. Barnes, aged 69 years, one of the pioneers of the state of North Dakota and the man for whom Barnes township, Cass county, was named, died Friday evening at his farm home near Osgood. The cause of death was old age.

He was born in Martinsburg, Lewis county, New York, April 17, 1840, and was a son of the late Judge A. H. Barnes, who came to Fargo to make his home in 1875, and after whom Barnes county was named. Lucian A. Barnes was raised in New York state, coming to Delavan, Wis., with his parents when he was 9 years of age. He came to Cass county in 1878 and has made his home on his large farm in Barnes township since that time. He owned 1,200 acres in Barnes township.

He is survived by his wife, Mary A. Barnes, and one son, Alanson H. Barnes. He was a prominent member of the I. O. O. F.

WRESTLING MATCH ENDS IN ONE BEING KILLED.

Dickinson, N. D., May 25.—Death took a hand in a wrestling match at White Earth last week. Two Greek laborers employed on the construction work, it is reported, were engaged in a friendly wrestling bout in the middle of the railroad track when passenger train No. 5, bound west, came swiftly upon them and before one of them could get out of the way he was struck by the pilot of the engine and hurled with terrific force against the trucks of a madjoining box car and instantly killed. It is said that the brother of the dead man nearly went insane over the accident.

IS AGAIN MODERATOR.

Rev. J. S. Gould of Hancock Honored By State Association.

Hancock, Mich., May 25.—A dispatch from Muskegon announces the re-election of Rev. J. Sidney Gould, pastor of the Hancock Congregational church, to the post of moderator at the sixty-eighth annual Michigan Congregational conference, which was held in that city this week. Rev. Gould was first chosen moderator at the annual conference last year, and he presided in that capacity over this year's conference. The only other officer named from the upper peninsula was Rev. S. B. Poole of Sault Ste. Marie, who is made one of the trustees of the state association.

COPPER COUNTRY FAIR REMAINS IN HOUGHTON.

Houghton, Mich., May 25.—The Copper country fair remains in Houghton. The directors of the Houghton County Agricultural society decided to make no change in the place of holding the fair at a meeting held in the directors' room of the Citizens' National bank.

The directors decided upon Sept. 21 to 25, inclusive, as the dates for the fair.

JAMESTOWN'S RED HOT MAN CANNOT BE FOUND.

Jamestown, N. D., May 25.—Where is J. F. Ludvingson?

This question has been asked a number of times within the past few weeks by friends of the missing man of this city.

Ludvingson is perhaps better known as the man who sold hot wieners around the city last fall and winter. He evidently left this city about March 13 last, and since that time nothing has been heard of him or his whereabouts.

DESERTED BY HIS WIFE, HE TOOK CARBOLIC ACID.

Bismarck, N. D., May 25.—Herman Wraase of Mandan committed suicide by swallowing two ounces of carbolic acid. While he was committing the deed his wife was on her way to the depot for the purpose of deserting him as a result of domestic differences. Wraase has lived in Mandan for a number of years, and for a time fired on the railroad. A doctor living across the street was immediately called, but was unable to save the man's life.

Death of a Pioneer.

Aitkin, Minn., May 25.—Loren G. Seavey of this place, whose death took place at a Duluth hospital a few days ago, was one of the early pioneers of this county, and before settling here he was engaged in the lumbering industry on the Mississippi, having been identified with it at a time when lumbermen started from Minneapolis in flat boats, which were "poled" up to Pokegama Falls, in Itasca county. This was forty years ago. Mr. Seavey occupied the first building erected in Aitkin and afterward he lived in Grand Rapids.

Absolute cleanliness and purity are two strong points in favor of "Salada" Tea. It is prepared entirely by machinery, and never touched by human hands save in the picking. Ask your grocer for a packet.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—Sturgeon are being caught in the Red river and some of the fishermen have been successful in getting some large ones. One boy landed a fish which measured four feet six inches. Several smaller sturgeon were landed. They were caught with an ordinary hook and line.

Bismarck, N. D.—General Peake has received word that the war department will provide the entire militia with olive drab overcoats. The militia of the state has not before been provided with coats. The value of the allowance is nearly $12,000, but no charge will be made against the state allowance.

McClusky, N. D.—The petition for pardon of Sivert was largely circulated and signed. Sivert is the man who killed his faithless wife several years ago in this county.

Huron, S. D.—Elwood W. Holcomb of this city, for a number of years in the United States weather bureau, has been assigned to the position of assistant observer at New Orleans. Mr. Holcomb is the third man called from Huron to the New Orleans office.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—The body of the 7-months-old Feiken baby, which was drowned with its mother and little brother and sister in the East Vermilion river, southwest of Sioux Falls, over three months ago, has just been found by a searching party at a point near where the body of the mother was discovered about two months ago.

Minot, N. D.—The safe in the post-office at Tolley, a small town near Kenmare in the northern part of this county, was blown open Friday night. Robbers secured $400 in stamps, $42 in cash and two registered letters. Citizens are searching for two strangers seen in town the day before the building was wrecked.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Manual training will be established as part of the regular course of study in the North Dakota high schools in 1910, according to action taken Saturday by the principals of North Dakota.

The building when completed will cost $50,000, including the fittings.

Lisbon, N. D.—Oliver county was named for the late H. S. Oliver, whose death occurred at Lisbon a few days ago.

Fargo, N. D.—Dr. O. G. Libby has been elected president of the state Audubon society, devoted to the protection and preservation of wild birds.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Kenosha—Orin M. Calkins, a wealthy retired merchant, who had recently presented the city with a splendid Lincoln statue, which was to be unveiled with fitting ceremonies Monday, May 30, died suddenly Sunday morning.

Milwaukee—Eliza Murison, a resident of Milwaukee for sixty years, died at the home of her son, George B. Murison, 150 Knapp street, Sunday. Death was due to complications of old age. Mrs. Murison, who was 76 years of age, was born in Glasgow, Scotland. When 16 years old she came to this country with her parents, who settled in Milwaukee.

Antigo—Thomas Fish, secretary and treasurer of the new lumber company which is to engage in business here, says that the name of the company will be the Phelps-Fish Lumber company.

Wausau—After twenty-eight years of operation, the Montgomery Hardware company has sold out to the William Sell Hardware company.

Sheboygan—Work of constructing the new $85,000 bridge by the Milwaukee Bridge Construction company has been started. A pontoon bridge has been erected alongside the one now being torn down, to accommodate pedestrians.

Washburn—During the past week two fishing concerns have opeend up headquarters in this city. Three steam tugs and a large crew of men are now working. The fishing will be done among the Apostle Islands. Large catches of lake trout are being made.

Campbellsport—Local parties are considering the advisability of putting in a canning factory here.

Milwaukee—Isadore Burstein, 20 years old, was bounced from the fender of a moving street car, hurled in front of an automobile going in the opposite direction, run over and probably fatally injured Sunday afternoon.

Janesville—E. B. Helmstreet, for forty years a local druggist and well known in Wisconsin, will retire from business July 1.

Pewaukee—The body of Fisher Fritz, a well-known old fisherman, who disappeared nine days ago, was washed ashore on Sunday. He was, he claimed, a German nobleman, who fled from his native land because of a duel.

Milwaukee—Hoel H. Camp, the veteran banker and philanthropist, a resident of Milwaukee since 1853, passed away Saturday morning at his residence, 255 Prospect avenue, after an illness of a little over one week. He was 87 years of age.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Rochester—Prof. Mathew R. Beebe, instructor in mathematics and manual training of the Rochester city schools, has tendered his resignation to the school board, and has accepted an appointment with the Minneapolis schools.

Stewart—The marriage of Miss Adelia Klitzke and Henry E. Prohel, two prominent young people in Round Grove township, took place today at the German Lutheran church in Feriandio.

Waseca—Bennie Garlick, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Garlick of this city, was arrested here on complaint of his father, charging him with stealing $80 from the family purse on the 13th of this month. After having taken the money the young man went to Minneapolis, where he remained until Friday night, when he returned to his home here.

Little Falls—Clerk of Court S. P. Brick has received an order from Judge M. D. Taylor in which the court fixes the salary of Sheriff Armstrong at $1,400 per annum for the term ending Jan. 1, 1911.

Brainerd—Word has been received here of the sudden death of Erick Johnson near his home in the town of Platte Lake Thursday night. He leaves a wife and three grown sons.

Deer River—Adolph Schroeder, after being but two weeks in Swan River as station agent, has been returned to Deer River as day operator.

St. Cloud—Charles S. Benson, who went to St. Paul about ten days ago, is now in the Red River valley country engaged as a viewer of judicial ditches under the direction of the state drainage commission.

Brainerd — Mrs. Elizabeth Luse, mother of Mrs. George Abbott, died very suddenly Friday night of heart failure.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Crystal Falls—Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Doupe and family of Ortley, N. D., have arrived here to spend a few days with Dr. Doupe's parents, Alderman and Mrs. Doupe of Maple Grove. Incidentally their visit was a surprise on Mr. Doupe, Sr., designed to celebrate his birthday.

Mansfield—Miss Kate Corbett of Mansfield is certainly pulling off lots of honors at Ypsilanti, where she is attending the state normal college. Her latest honor is that of being chosen salutatorian of the junior class.

Quincy—At its last meeting the Mistletoe lodge, Sons of St. George, made the final arrangements for bringing the famous Wingates Temperance Brass band to Hancock. The band is an English organization that will make a tour of the country during the coming summer.

Houghton—W. E. Shaw, Jr., accountant in the offices of the street railway and electric light companies, has been named as acting assistant treasurer, to succeed J. H. Dufresno, who leaves to take hold of his new duties as assistant treasurer of the company at Fort Worth, Tex. Mr. Shaw's appointment is temporary, pending the arrival of John W. Paine, who is to be Mr. Dufresne's permanent successor.

Baraga—The friends of Clyde Swank, manager and butter maker for the Baraga Creamery company, were greatly surprised to learn that he had stolen a march on them and had been quietly married to Miss Bertha Sprague of Galien, Mich.

Ishpeming—While working in a raise at the American mine recently, William Rochon fell forty feet, landing on his back. He sustained quite serious injuries, but no bones were broken.

Ontonagon—At a meeting of the village council A. MacDonald presented his resignation as trustee, and it was accepted.

Baraga—Last week, at Philadelphia, Pa., occurred the marriage of Miss Emma Steinrock to Fritz Schure. The bride is one of the prominent young ladies of that city, while the groom is an employe of D. L. Hebard, and well known in Baraga county. They will make their home at Pequaning.

Ontonagon—Fred Nelson, an inmate of the county infirmary, died Thursday night at 12 o'clock from dropsy, due to liver trouble. He was 51 years of age and came to the home about two months ago from one of the lumber camps.

Calumet—Word has been received of the death at Iron Mountain of Aubrey, the 19-year-old son of Capt. and Mrs. Thomas Luxmore, formerly of Calumet.

MISREPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT.

This nation is enjoying, in its highest and most advanced form, what is called "representative government." Its fundamental theory is that the people, in the mass, are not qualified to manage their own affairs, but that they are qualified to select representatives who will manage them wisely. Proposals looking toward real democracy, like direct nominations, direct legislation, popular election of United States senators, etc., measures which place more power in the hands of the people, who are the sources of all mundane power, are greeted with horror by those who profit by representative government. They are condemned as dangerous, as revolutionary, as disastrous. We are told that our only safety lies in clinging to the present form of representative government, without permitting the slightest change in its form.

How representative government is working out is vividly shown by the present situation in congress.

With the entire country aroused, demanding a tariff devised for the people instead of for the plutocracy, protesting with what vigor and effectiveness it may against the plainly evident plans of the powers in control of congress to make the tariff still more profitable to plutocracy and still more oppressive to the people, what is the situation in congress?

The senate is in control of Aldrich, and the plutocracy owns Aldrich. The house is in control of Cannon, and the plutocracy owns Cannon. These two men, the first working directly and the second working indirectly, will make the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill what they please. What they please to do with it will be what pleases plutocracy. There is a minority in each house that is trying to bring about a tariff law framed in the interests of the people, but unless the minority in one house or the other is able to make an effective combination, the bill will go through just as those who supply the impulses that guide Aldrich and Cannon desire.

In short, congress, working more or less calmly in the midst of a storm of protest, is doing the bidding of the interests, regardless of popular wishes or popular needs.

This is representative government. Could anything be worse? Could mob-rule be more destructive? Could riot produce more lasting havoc?

In this aspect, it is possible to see congress and representative government in their true light. Congress ceases to be congress, and becomes a closely controlled body of men, supinely and fawningly doing the will of the people's enemies and shamefully and brazenly betraying the people from whom came their power. Representative government ceases to be holy and respectable, and becomes a gilded sham and fraud.

Representative government might do, until the world was ready for real democracy, were it representative of the people. When it ceases to be representative of the people, and becomes representative of the people's enemies, as it obviously is in this matter of the tariff, it becomes a graver menace than Socialism or Anarchism. It is the stock in trade of the plutocracy, and the plutocracy is democracy's deadliest enemy.

ATTACKING THE "PORK BARREL."

The announcement in The Herald last night that Senator L. O. Cooke of Kellogg is going to test the legislative road "pork barrel" is interesting and important. This "pork barrel" consists of an appropriation of $600,000 for the next two years for state road aid, and the money was divided by the legislature with gross favoritism and with gross disregard for the broad needs of the commonwealth. It will be used in wasteful patchwork, when a similar amount, spent under the state highway commission with a view to making a comprehensive system of state roads, would go far toward settling the good roads problem in this state. If Senator Cooke's suit develops that the practice is unconstitutional, the state will be immensely the ganier. Then, perhaps, the legislature will make suitable provision for generous and well-directed expenditures of state money for state roads, but not on the wickedly wasteful "pork barrel" plan.

A COSTLY ECONOMY.

It is interesting and pleasant to note that F. W. Fitzpatrick, a former Duluthian, keeps pounding away at the useless waste by fire in this country, and that he keeps on getting in good, sound whacks at the evil that cannot fail to make an impression—have, indeed, made an impression already, as the increasing consideration given to fireproof construction shows very clearly.

The sum of it is that the people of this country keep on throwing money away through the construction of flimsy, inflammable buildings, when by paying proper attention to fireproof construction they could cut down insurance rates, reduce the hazard to life and property by fire, and save annually an amount that would be hailed with glee if the nation could pick it up in some spectacular way without injuring anybody.

In La Follette's Weekly of a recent issue Mr. Fitzpatrick returns to the charge with convincing logic and overwhelming statistics. He attacks the idea that fireproof construction is involved and mysterious, and says that it is simplicity itself. He also attacks the more absurd idea that there is no such thing as fireproof construction, and adds: "A few, very few, cardinal principles have to be observed, and if properly observed you have the positive certainty that your structure will afford absolute protection to the lives of those within it, absolute protection to the major portion of its contents, and that the structure itself can only be damaged by the intensest fire to a very small percentage of its cost."

Discussing accomplishment thus far in fireproof construction, Mr. Fitzpatrick says that roughly speaking, there are nearly 12,000,000 buildings in this country. In that mass there is but one building that can be called absolutely fireproof as to every detail. There are perhaps twenty-five in which nearly everything possible has been done but where, nevertheless, the contents of an entire story may be destroyed. Then there are at last 4,000 buildings that by courtesy have been called fireproof, but in which human life may be sacrificed and in which the greater part of the contents may be destroyed. Furthermore, the structures themselves may be damaged by fire all the way from 10 per cent to 80 per cent of their cost value. After that there are possibly 5,000 buildings of an alleged "slow-burning," "semi-fireproof," or other makeshift construction. But all of these, and possibly 99,000 others, are occasionally or always referred to as "fireproof."

Mr. Fitzpatrick says that it is small wonder that people have become skeptical of the term. He states that he has seen a wooden hotel building, "veneered in brick but painted over with some patent truck or other and advertised as strictly fireproof."

The article urges the necessity of absolute fidelity to detail in fireproof construction, and instances the case of fireproof buildings in San Francisco, where perhaps $60,000 was saved by skimping the window protection, with a consequent loss of $10,000,000.

It is by economics like this, and greater ones, that this country every year saves pennies and loses hundreds of dollars for every penny saved.

THE SENATE AGAINST FREE LUMBER.

Of course the senate is against free lumber. It was no surprise that free lumber was voted down in that body yesterday better than two to one. You see lumber is a necessary, because the people have to have it for shelter. Like the other necessaries of food and clothing, it is in very wide use, and hence the special privilege of taxing the people through its sale is a very profitable one. Therefore the senate is ready to give to the lumber barons this power to tax the people, and when the vote was reached the senators showed great alacrity in bestowing this rich gift.

That is why the Aldrich-Cannon cabal is very anxious to put a heavy tax on necessaries—because they are in large use, and the taxing power is immensely profitable. It is hardly worth while struggling for the power to tax the people through commodities that are not in widespread use, so the powers of greed concentrate their forces on things like wool and cotton and lumber and sugar, which everybody has to use, and on which everybody will therefore be compelled to pay a tax to the large interests that control them. It wouldn't do to tax luxuries, because that would be hitting themselves, and besides only a few people, comparatively, can use luxuries, while everybody uses necessaries. It is the old policy of taxing poverty for the benefit of wealth, and as wealth has the power to do this, naturally it refrains from taxing wealth.

Nothing in all the history of the protective system is more absurd than this policy of "protecting" the owners of dwindling supplies of natural resources like lumber. By shutting out imports, the lumber trust is enabled to hasten its work of denuding the forests unhampered by outside competition. When the forests are gone, it is true that the people will have to pay whatever the other nations having forests choose to charge—but the lumber barons won't care. Their palaces will be completed and their fortunes made. What do they care about the people? And what does not the senate, secure in the favor of the rich and powerful, care about the people?

SUMMER PERILS.

The approach of summer, laggard though it has been, brings timely remembrance of duties that devolve upon everybody during the season of pleasant outings.

For instance, the dispatches are already bringing sad tidings of warm weather pleasuring turned to tragedy; which ought to remind us of several things. One is that everybody ought to know how to swim before venturing upon the water. Another is that in any event nobody should leave his common sense behind him when going bathing or boating.

It is early enough to be thinking of these things, but none too early. Perhaps the most important thing is the duty of learning to swim. Everybody ought to know how to swim, and it is easy to learn. It costs only a little effort to gain the knowledge, and when gained it is better than any life-preserver yet invented, though life-preservers are well enough in their way. The time to learn is in childhood, but it is never too late, except when one of the common varieties of summer accidents plunges you unprepared and unprotected into deep water.

The children, girls and boys, should be taught how to swim at once. Not only will they get out of it healthful pleasure and wholesome exercise, but they will be given the means of saving their own lives and perhaps those of others in later days. If you didn't learn to swim as a child, do it now.

There is no place in the world where common sense is more needed or where it seems to be more lacking than on the water. The "fool that rocks the boat" seems always to be with us, and every summer adds more trophies of precious human lives to his ghastly string of victories. That particular brand of fool ought to be debarred from human companionship, and certainly he ought to be shunned on the water. There was a case a year or two ago when one of these idiots rocked a boat and spilled some young girls into the water. It happened that a boatload of young men was near, and while part of them rescued the girls, one man devoted his time to ducking the fool under water and keeping him there until he was so nearly drowned that he reached dry land a much flustrated and possibly a wiser young man. The act would have been freely forgiven, probably, if it had resulted in drowning the fool; and as it was it gave more widespread pleasure through the country than anything else that happened that summer.

In rowing, sailing and especially canoeing, it is well to be sure that you are out with somebody that knows how to handle a boat. It is ridiculously easy for a tyro to come to grief in any of these styles of water excursions. Those who refuse to go out with amateurs, and those who insist upon keeping close to shore and upon having life-preservers aboard, may expose themselves to the ridicule of the thoughtless, but they will be showing very good sense.

Watch Duluth grow—and get in on the ground floor while there is time.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

James Dawson of Kalispel, Mont., a guest of the Lenox hotel yesterday, stated that 30,000 acres of land had been reclaimed along the south bank of the Yellowstone river, in Southwestern Montana, through the construction of the Huntley canal.

According to Mr. Dawson, the Huntley project was started in 1904. In the early spring of 1906 over 450 men were employed. More than forty engineers were engaged in surveying and laying out the route of the canal. At the present time the irrigation ditch is completed, and settlers have taken posession of the land. The land, before the completion of the Huntley irrigation project, was worthless. People out in that section of the state would hardly accept it as a gift. At the present time it is worth from $75 to $200 per acre, according to Mr. Dawson's statement.

The canal is 23 miles in length, 6 feet in depth, 20 feet in width at the bottom, and 38 feet in width at the surface of the water.

The farms along the irrigated stretch of country are divided into divisions of 30 to 160 acres, according to Mr. Dawson's explanation of the project. Part of the land of each farm is irrigated land. Then there is pasture and grazing land.

The Huntley project is in close proximity to Billings. This growing city has a beet sugar factory that cost over $1,000,000. The raising of sugar beets is one of the great industries in that port of Montana, according to Mr. Dawson.

The construction of the irrigation ditch has made possible the raising of alfalfa. This section of the state is one of the great sheep raising sections of Montana. Billings is one of the great wool markets of the West, and the building of the construction ditch has made it possible to pasture thousands of sheep upon acreage that before the construction of the ditch was worthless for grazing purposes.

What has been done for this section of Montana by the construction of the irrigation ditch has been also accomplished for other sections of the state by similar irrigation projects, and also by the dry farming system, states Mr. Dawson. The ranch is disappearing from that state, as it is disappearing from Texas and Kansas. The small farm is coming in, and the irrigation work that has been done by the government and private companies has made it possible for the homesteader to secure a small piece of land and to farm at a profit.

Winona must be some baseball town, if the statements regarding the degree of enthusiasm possessed by the fans of the that town are correct. A. G. Hush, who travels from the down-river town, whose team lately trampled upon the team from the Zenith City, says that $7,000 has been raised by the good and enthusiastic citizens of Winona for the purpose of a bonus should the team representing Winona in the Minnesota-Wisconsin league win the bunting.

Again, Mr. Hush made on incredulous by stating that all of the boys with sufficient cash in their clothes or in the banks have taken boxes for the entire season, and that the money raised in this manner has already placed the team on Easy street.

In fact, Mr. Hush says the fans down that way are so enthusiastic that they rush down town every evening to discuss the details of the game. Even the women of the town, the older ones, too, have become interested in the great national game. Mr. Hush would have us believe.

But there is also some enthusiasm in La Crosse, admits the informant. Winona and La Crosse are great rivals. La Crosse will spend good money to beat Winona out in the race for the new league bunting.

The enthusiasm in the two towns in question, even if it is not quite so great as it has been pictured, will be good for the success of the new league.

Talking about baseball, George Robison of Chisholm says that Chisholm will have a team this year that will compare favorably with the best teams on the range. At the McKay last evening Mr. Robinson stated that the new ball park would be completed some time in the early summer, and that Chisholm would bring some of the best teams in the state to Chisholm.

THE WEATHER

The weather man's promise of showers tonight does not rob today of its brightness. A year ago today it was raining. The sun rose this morning at 4:21 and will set this afternoon at 7:48, making fifteen hours and twenty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The Southwestern disturbance has moved its center from Oklahoma to Missouri. During the past twenty-four hours this barometric depression caused light to heavy rains over the Middle Rocky mountain region, the Red River, Missouri and Mississippi valleys and Southern states. Heavy rains fell over portions of the Dakotas, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Alabama. Another low pressure area developing over Alberta is attended by showers there and in Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho. Temperatures are moderate generally, except that freezing weather prevails in Yellowstone park. The barometer continues high over Lake Superior and off the Oregon coast."

FRIENDS.

The tariff's with its friends—
Ancient friends.
What complete bewilderment their monkeying portends!
How they tinker, tinker, tink,
With the schedules and the rates,
Letting on to make them sink,
While, on the sly, they wink;
With the slapsticks of the clown,
Letting on to put them down,
Waiting till the craze abates,
Marking time, time, time,
In their petty, punycrime,
Which to the obfuscation of the voting cattle tends.
Oh, the friends, friends, friends, friends, friends,
Friends, friends, friends.
Oh, the junketing and tink'ring of the friends.

See the big, no-conscience friends!
Brazen friends!
What woe and dread catastrophe their dignity forfends!
In the watches of the night,
Out of sight, out of sight,
As they plot,
Heeding not
The inhabitants' sad plight.
Thinking only of the clamorous appealing of the trust,
And how to fill the optics of the populace with dust.
And no matter how it ends,
Congress and the tariff will continue friends,
Bosom friends, friends, friends, friends,
Friends, friends, friends,
Close, intimate and confidential friends.

Why?

Collier's Weekly: Man discusses woman persistently and with a never-ending supply of the interrogation point. Take fashion, for example, which is always brought to the front by this cheerful Easter season. Why do women dress as elaborately as they can? It is not to attract men for they are more readily charmed by astute simplicity. We yield the floor for an instant to Robert Burton—not for one of his most ferocious allegations about women, but for the following:

"Why do they adorn themselves with so many colors of herbs, fictitious flowers, curious needleworks, quaint devices, sweet-smelling odors, with those inestimable riches of precious stones, pearls, rubies, diamonds, emeralds, etc? Why do they crown themselves with gold and silver, use coronets and tires of several fashions, deck themselves with pendants, bracelets, ear-rings, chains, girdles, rings, pins, spangles, embroideries, shadows, rabatoes, vericolored ribbands? Why do they make such glorious shews with their scarfs, feathers, fans, masks, furs, laces, tiffanies, ruffs, falls, cauls, cuffs, damasks, velvets, tinsels, cloth of gold, silver, tissue? with colors of heavens, stars, planets? the strength of metals, stones, odors, flowers, birds, beasts, fishes, and whatsoever Africa, Asia, America, sea, land, art and industry of man can afford?"

Nay, Burton, ask us not. Among all the numerous readers of this didactic sheet, you shall find not one who can inform you. We have many reasons in our head, some favorable to women, some not, but none of these is convincing enough to be worth printing as an answer to old Burton's queries.

Divided They Vote.

The whistle has blown and each man takes his place
To toil for the world at a death-dealing pace.
Each movement is skillful, each brain is alert,
While they patiently work in the factory dirt.
Just look at that picture and then make a note,
That united they sweat, but divided they vote.

The machines and the belts and the shafting are still,
And not a wheel turns—there's a strike at the mill.
A strike! Every workman has solemnly vowed
To stand by his mates till their claims are allowed,
'Tis a brave thing to do, but don't fail to note
That united they strike, but divided they vote.

The sun brightly shines as there passes along,
In holiday raiment, the Labor day throng.
Each man is decked out in his Labor day best—
"Labor omnia vincit," the banners attest.
Yes, labor may conquer, but never, please note,
While united they march, but divided they vote.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

•••Hugh M. Todd of the contracting firm of Swain & Todd was driving on Piedmont avenue, when the horse ran away. Mr. Todd was thrown out and one of the wheels passed over his stomach. It is feared he was injured internally.

•••Thomas Costello, a Duluth dock laborer, who was taken to Superior to help unload the Northern Light, was badly hurt there. He was working on the trestle, shoving a car, when another car caught him and crushed his side severely.

•••Morcom & Co. of Tower suffered quite a severe loss by a heavy frost three weeks ago, losing about 40,000 brick. The frost was wholly unexpected, and no unusual preparations had been made for it.

•••The dock men's strike on the Superior side of the harbor is ended, and no more trouble is anticipated here, the coal men being entirely satisfied with the present scale of wages.

•••The Gas & Water company will put in three stand pipes along Superior street for the use of Capt. Monaghan's sprinkler.

•••W. B. Wells returned last night from the Thunder Bay mining district, where he went with James W. Whitlock, who has been styled the "quartz king of America." They went to Port Arthur as representatives of a syndicate of Eastern men, who were willing to put a very large amount of money into any mines said by Mr. Whitlock to be valuable. In fact, he carried with him accepted drafts on New York for $500,000. They returned dissatisfied, and Mr. Whitlock has left for New York with the money still in his pocket.

•••J. E. and T. W. Mayhew came in this morning from Grand Marais. It is not often that T. W. gets to Duluth, but both the brothers find many friends here.

•••President Harrison has appointed William R. Day of Ohio to be United States district judge for the northern district of Ohio.

•••Dr. Fannie Holden and daughter returned today from the Twin Cities. Mrs. Holden was elected to membership in the State Homeopathic society.

•••The Oliver house at Ely opened its doors today. Oliver St. Germain is the landlord. The building cost $10,000 and has thirty rooms.

•••Word comes from the North that there is a good prospect of the early beginning of active work on the Port Arthur, Duluth & Western railway. A party of New York investors, headed by George C. Flint, are at Port Arthur, and expect to form a syndicate for building the road to the international boundary to connect with an extension from Ely of the Duluth & Iron Range road, which has had a survey made.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Hinckley Enterprise: Henry Rines has started a movement to force Governor Johnson to call a special session of the legislature to pass a reapportionment bill. Something should be done to give Northern Minnesota nearer her share of representation—but is it any more likely the hoggish tendencies of the senators from the southern part of the state would be less hoggish at a special session than at the regular one?

Sauk Center Herald: The jealous optics of William Jennings Bryan are fixed upon Minnesota's third term governor, who has just returned from a rest at Old Point Comfort. The governor visited Washington and was very much in the limelight, the newspaper correspondents vieing with each other as to who could send out the longest "string" about him. One of these two distinguished citizens is likely to be the Democratic standard bearer in the next campaign.

Fairmont Sentinel: Would the Republicans have dared, before the last election, to go before the country proposing such tariff revision as is proposed by the Payne-Aldrich bill? Hardly.

Madison Independent Press: Congressman James of Kentucky, says he believes in protecting our industries until they can stand upon their own feet, but he does not believe in protecting them until they stand upon everybody else's feet. That's the idea.

Ortonville Herald-Star: Speaking of rare specimens, President Taft could perform a service to posterity by getting Nelson W. Aldrich's hide and stretching it upon the back fence of the Smithsonian institute.

Aitkin Republican: The Cass Lake Times is in favor of the division of the state, rightly claiming that the north and south sections are not and never will be in sympathy with one another. The legislature is controlled by the southern part of the state and during several sessions it has persistently ignored the provision of the Constitution which requires a reapportionment of legislative districts whenever this is necessary to give the people of the state equal representation. The present condition is becoming intolerable and if it long continues the sentiment for state division is likely to grow rapidly.

A. M. Greeley in Big Falls Compass: It was the blind domineering commercial spirit of New England that hastened the Civil war. The same spirit, the same power and the same locality today in the tariff issue are repulsing the people of the balance of the nation.

Fairmont Sentinel: But one thing will entirely escape the new tariff—the pocketbook of the rich is not to be touched.

Sunday Baseball.

Elbert Hubbard in New York American: The state of Indiana has passed a law legalizing Sunday baseball.

There is also a bill up in New Jersey, with the same end in view.

Let us hope that it will become a law.

In some states it is yet a crime to play ball on Sunday, even if no fee is charged at the gate. In other words, the simple, healthy recreation is forbidden. This harks back to a puritanic time, that is happily past.

I like the attitude of my friend, the good Catholic priest in East Aurora, who changed his hour for mass so as to accommodate his parishioners who wished to attend the game between the Roycrofters and the Niagara Falls Giants.

He believed that religion and recreation were not incompatible; he believed that God was in the sunshine as well as in the church.

Within five years great changes have occurred in the sentiment of the people as to the day of rest, and also there is a change in our ideas as to what constitutes rest.

Absence of effort is not rest; a mind quite idle is a mind distressed. Rest consists in change. That folks should be allowed to rest in their own way, so long as they do not interfere with others, is now the prevailing opinion in America.

The majority of intelligent people everywhere regard it not only as a privilege, but a duty, to get out in the open air on Sunday and indulge with the children in a little harmless laughter, frolic and exercise.

Our interest in the ball game allows us to "forget it." The duties of the working days form a heavy tax on the vitality of most of us, and to lay aside our cares and smile and revel in the summer air is a blessing and a benediction.

Baseball does not replace church. The fans can attend divine worship in the morning and root for the game in the afternoon. Baseball for business—for pay—is, of course, another matter on Sunday.

Permitting boys to play ball and to watch the game, all in the open air, makes for health, happiness and increased usefulness.

And health, happiness and usefulness are all forms of righteousness.

The dictum of old Dr. Johnson that a sick man is a rascal has never been disproved; and, conversely, that which tends to eliminate sickness reduces the world's stock of harmful rascality.

The harmless pleasures of the people in the past have been too few. That which cultivates out-of-door sports, at the expense of indoor pastimes, is good.

When we have the chance to get out in the sunshine we should improve the opportunity.

Let all the other states follow the lead of Indiana and New Jersey.

We must breathe more, laugh more and love more. Ozone and friendship will be our stimulants—let the drugs and strong drink go forever. Natural joys bring no headaches and no heartaches.

Play ball!

Senator Dolliver.

Springfield Republican: It was the voice of Dolliver, but it was the soul of the West.

New York World: It is to be feared that the entente cordiale between Iowa and Rhode Island in the senate has been badly fractured by Mr. Dolliver.

Buffalo Express: Senator Dolliver has the satisfaction of having made a greater stir by his attack on the tariff bill than any one else who has spoken on the subject.

Providence Journal: Mr. Dolliver's interesting and forcible oratory will reconcile some of those who were disappointed when he declined to be considered in connection with the Republican vice presidential nomination.

Milwaukee Journal: Senator Dolliver does so well in the role of a genuine tariff revisionist that he ought to try to keep in practice.

Indianapolis Star: Of course Aldrich is protected from the big-fisted Dolliver by his advanced years.

Columbus Ohio State Journal: O well, defying Senator Aldrich is a harmless pastime.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Baltimore American: Book Agent—Madam, here is an admirable work I have on how to manage servants.

Housewife—Don't want it. You can't get any help in this town to manage.

Book Agent—Then here is a still better series on self-help.

Chicago Daily News: Mrs. Peckem—I guess my brother will live and die a bachelor. He says he's afraid to marry.

Peckem—That's funny. I never knew what fear was when I was single.

Chicago Tribune: Philanthropic Caller (with subscription paper)—I shall ask your attention only a moment, sir. Are you a friend of the dumb brutes?

Shorty McGinning—You bet I am! That's why I hate cats, parrots an' donkeys.

Harvard Lampoon: Old Lady—Conductor, is this my car?

Conductor (affably)—No, ma'am, this car belongs to the Boston Elevated.

Detroit Free Press: "Did you hear the news? Green has failed. He hasn't a cent in the world."

"Is that so? Gee! that's too bad. I owe Green $10. I suppose I'll have to pay it now."

Puck: Judge—You have not yet established the prisoner's insanity.

Attorney—But, your honor, we mean to introduce witnesses to show that the prisoner habitually argues politics with women.

Philadelphia Ledger: "Speaking of heirlooms," broke in the loquacious landlady, "I have one which has come down through five generations and—"

"Pawdon me," came the voice of the frivolous boarder, "but do you refer to the butter?"

Houston Post: "He has lost a fortune at cards."

"I didn't know he played?"

"He don't; his wife belongs to a bridge club."

Washington Star: "Which do you favor, protection or free trade?"

"Well," answered the orator, "it depends on the audience I am addressing. In most cases I find it advisable to compromise on the humorous anecdote."

Red-Fire and Sectional Dodo-Birds.

Atlanta Constitution: The sectional ghoul that decks himself in the threadbare garments of dead prejudices and hatreds is becoming almost as rare, North as well as South, as the late lamented dodo-bird.

Time was when these gentlemen, with their crocodile tears and their artfully acquired talent for swallowing artificial red-fire, used to be able to wring the hearts and inspire the bitterness of people both sides of Mason and Dixon's line.

Hanging onto the poisonous delusion that rancor was patriotism and delving in sectional graveyard statesmanship, they used to romp the land from Kennebec to Jupiter Inlet, with great effect.

Their mischievous activities, under the sacred guise of sentiment, were effectual in perceptibly postponing that national accord and tolerance without which no people may expect to arrive at greatness.

Their day has passed. Whether in the South or the North, they are viewed nowadays, and mourned nowadays, as freaks, with just a suggestion of the buffoon in failing to acquaint themselves with the reunited sentiment of a forbearing people.

Several days ago the Constitution gave an instance of this matter-of-fact fraternity of sentiment by quoting from an expression by Lafayette Young, editor of the Des Moines, Iowa, Capital, one of the biggest Republican dailies of the Northwest. Mr. Young related the incident of the Grand Army of the Republic camp in his city maintaining in its headquarters a draped picture of Robert E. Lee and drew therefrom encouraging lessons.

Here is another. It comes from the Duluth, Minn. Herald, in its way as strong a publication as the Des Moines Capital. The Herald reviews the action of the enterprising Congressman Hollingworth of Ohio, in seeking to prevent the inscribing of a picture of Jefferson Davis on the silver service of the battleship "Mississippi." Declaring the action to smack more of ridicule than praise, the editor continues—

"Mississippi was and is proud of him (Davis), and it doesn't mean that that state harbors any of the old-time disloyalty when it sees fit to honor him again by putting his picture on that silver service. The Civil war is buried deeply under a generation of good feeling that has cemented the Union as it never was cemented before the war."

The joint incidents are refreshing, in that they are typical of both sections.

The people have come, at the last analysis, to recognize the ultimate meaning of the appeal to the "bloody shirt" in the majority of cases. Semi-occasionally, it is unforgiving acrimony in very isolated instances, an acrimony that will die only with the death of its exponents. More often, it is a palpable effort at snaring votes and currying political favor, at the expense of patriotism and by expedients that appeal to the most sinister of human passions.

That the spectacle is so rare in both sections as to provoke comment, and that of a repudiating nature, bears out eloquently the assertion of the Herald that the "Civil war is buried under a generation of good feeling that has cemented the Union as it never was cemented before the war."

OFFICERS SAY TAFT MENACES THE ARMY CONSTRUCTION WORK

Washington, May 25.—President Taft sent back to the war department estimates submitted to him for the support of the military establishment for the fiscal year 1911 and indicated his desire that they should be cut approximately $36,000,000. Assistant Secretary Oliver has succeeded in reducing the figures by $18,000,000—half the amount asked for by the president, and they have been submitted to Secretary Dickinson for final consideration. If he reduces them to the extent the president desires, it will involve a still further cut of about $18,000,000. The totals do not include expenses on account of the Panama canal nor the permanent annual appropriations. Army officers say the reduction in estimates, if persisted in by the president, means practically no construction work for the army in 1911.

THE TRIAL OF CALHOUN.

San Francisco, Cal., May 25.—Francis J. Heney, prosecutor of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, on a bribery charge, went into the camp of the defense for several of his witnesses yesterday.

It appeared that the state was approaching the end of its long roll of witnesses and hopes were expressed that another fortnight would end the trial, which entered yesterday on its twentieth week.

The afternoon's session was devoted to the examination of Thomas R. Gibson, a detective in the employ of the United Railroads; of George R. Francis, secretary of the company's legal department, and of Luther Brown, a Los Angeles attorney.

Mr. Heney asked Gibson to explain his part in the investigation of the dynamite explosion that wrecked the Oakland home of James L. Gallagher, one of the chief witnesses for the prosecution.

Mr. Heney's questions carried many charges that Gibson denied, but the witness admitted that he had been directed to look into the affair by Thornwell Mullaley, assistant to Mr. Calhoun. When asked what he discovered, Gibson said:

"I found that two men were arrested and held in Oakland for a couple of weeks and that one had bought ten pounds of dynamite. His name was Wilhelm, and I suppose he was working for W. J. Burns."

"What report of the matter did you make to William M. Abbott?" asked Heney.

"I told him I thought Burns and Wilhelm had a hand in it, and that the explosion was brought about to create a feeling against Mr. Calhoun," said the witness.

"Did you think Burns wanted to kill Gallagher?" asked the prosecutor.

"I did not," replied Gibson. "I had reason to believe the people who lived in the house were all in the backyard by arrangement when the explosion occurred."

Mr. Heney asked Gibson if he had not attempted to interfere with Burns when the latter returned from the East and began an investigation of the dynamiting. The defense objected, and Mr. Heney declared an attempt was made to silence Gallagher by assassination, and that agents of the United railroads were instrumental in the effort to suppress evidence of the crime.

Secretary Francis admitted having received from John Helms, formerly connected with the United railroads' detective bureau, a filing cabinet and a quantity of documents, which Helms says were reports on jurors and other matters abstracted from the Burns office. Helms and other men engaged in similar work.

L. G. Brown admitted to certain activities as a detective for the United railways.

FAMILY ALTARS NOT RAISED OVER PERSIAN RUGS, HEARS THE PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY

Denver, Colo., May 25.—"Grace is not equally said over champagne and lobster a la Newberg."

"Family altars are not raised over Persian rugs."

"Students for the ministry do not, as a rule, get their early training by running steam yachts."

These remarks by Dr. J. W. Cochran, secretary of the Presbyterian board of education, caused great interest in the Presbyterian general assembly.

Dr. Cochran, who is from Philadelphia, spoke on the report of the board of education, which deplored the lack of recruits for the ministry.

The report was read by Dr. Edgar P. Hill of Chicago, who stirred the assembly by his description of the ignorance among immigrants, due, he said, to the fact that no Protestant denomination has taken the trouble to stir up a sufficient number of ministers to recruits to work among the people.

"Why can't we get the young men to preach?" asked Dr. Cochran. "I'll tell you. In the first place, there is little Christianity in the home. If there is any it is gone by the time the young man is ready for an education.

"Does he go for his education to a Christian, a Presbyterian school? No, he goes to a Godless state university, and when he returns to his home town, he puts religion at a low ebb, and if you ministers find your churches at low ebb you know where to place the blame.

"Even the need in this board of education is not for more money, but for men. Now, we cannot Christianize these state universities, but we can put a shepherd in charge and in this way keep these boys in the flock although they are being educated at Godless schools."

Lack of funds was told of by the American Tract society and the board of freedmen in their annual reports. Dr. Judson Swift of New York, secretary of the tract society, said the society could do five times as much work with twice as much money as it receives now.

ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL

John Lavender Held for Vicious Assault at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Lavender was on Monday bound over to the district court of Grand Forks county on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to kill. His bonds were fixed at $50, but this amount has not been furnished and Lavender is held at the county jail. He is charged with beating Barney Kelly into insensibility, Kelly being found under the Red Lake river bridge in East Grand Forks a week ago Sunday morning with his face and head badly beaten up.

The assault on Kelly is alleged to have taken place either late on Saturday night, May 15, or early Sunday morning, May 16, at a point near the People's church on First avenue in this city. A gas pipe is the weapon that Lavender is accused of using on Kelly, and jealousy is the supposed cause of the conflict, Lavender having made the statement several times before the affair that Kelly was too friendly with his (Lavender's) wife.

BEST PIANOS IN DULUTH

It is well known that it is the wealthiest class of people who buy Steinway and Ivers & Pond pianos, also Pianola Player Pianos.

Such people already have instruments of good quality, and these we have to take in exchange.

As soon as these exchanged pianos are put in perfect condition—in our rebuilding department—we offer them to our patrons at lowest prices.

That is why so many have found at our store, just what they have been looking for, a high-grade piano—good as new—at half price.

Our refinishing and restringing department is the best this side of Chicago.

YOUNG HEARTS ARE MADE HAPPY

The Humane Society Is Still Running Matrimonial Bureau.

Encouraged by the report of marriages successfully consumated through the medium of Mrs. Forgy of the humane office, and Rev. J. T. Moody of the Bethel, a North Dakota farmer has written Mrs. Forgy, asking her to find husbands for his two daughters, one of whom is 35 years old, and the other 30 years.

Every once in a while Rev. Moody and Mrs. Forgy receive a request for assistance in finding a wife or a husband, but more often it is asking for a wife. The girls either do not find trouble in getting married, or else they are too shy to ask the assistance of outsiders.

BIJOU—New Vaudeville Bill.

DIVERTING BIJOU BILL.

New Offerings for the Week Find Favor With Audience.

Last night's audiences were well pleased with the new bill at the Bijou, which was offered for inspection then for the first time. The consensus of opinion among the auditors seemed to be that the show was quite up to the high standard set this winter.

There are a number of excellent acts. First of all, there is the Bush-De-Vere trio, who oblige with some pleasing instrumental numbers. Mr. Bush claims to be the originator of illustrated music and he utilizes the idea in his act this season. A number of instruments are effectively introduced during the few minutes the act is on. To break the monotony of the instrumental numbers, there are some vocal selections and recitations. It really is a high-class number.

The six Cormalas, whose act is another feature of the bill, have a very clever acrobatic turn.

Jere Sanford does a whistling monologue, with which he gets away all right. Some of his gags are new and some are not so new, but he successfully extracts a laugh from his auditors.

McDevitt and Kelly are clever dancers and Rea and Brosche contribute one of the necessities of a vaudeville bill, this time a welcomed necessity, namely, a sketch—called "Just Like a Woman." Some people might deny the likeness, but the skit amuses, just the same.

Harry Webb is singing "The Sweetest Thing on Earth" with considerable effect and the moving pictures are diverting.

Shot His Wife.

Beaver Dam, Wis., May 25.—John Wenowitch on Saturday night shot and seriously wounded his wife with a revolver. Wenowitch shot four times, the last shot taking effect near the spinal column. Mrs. Wenowitch will recover. Wenowitch and his wife, who are Slavs, conduct a boarding house at South Center street, and he was jealous of one of the boarders.

MAN AND WIFE SHOT.

Each Accuses the Other of the Shooting—Man Dying.

Hurley, Wis., May 25.—John Mackl, owner of the Bank saloon here, lies at the Ironwood hospital near death, with a wound in the abdomen, and his wife is in jail here with a flesh wound in her shoulder caused by a bullet. Both were shot Sunday morning.

Mrs. Mackl claims that her husband shot her and then turned the weapon upon himself, while the story he told the police is entirely different. He stated that his wife shot him and he retaliated by shooting her before he dropped. The police are inclined to believe her story, as Mackl's clothing was powder burned, which showed that the revolver must have been placed high up against his coat. The woman, though, is being held pending an investigation.

TICKETED TO WRONG POINT.

Woman and Children From Calumet Stranded at Grafton, N. D.

Grafton, N. D., May 25.—Mrs. Anna Blasanim and three children reached here on the Northern Pacific Flyer from Calumet, Mich., supposing that it was Grafton, W. Va. The woman was not aware that she had reached a weary destination until she stepped off the train and began to inquire. Mrs. Blaisinin is a Coronian and does not speak English and it was with difficulty that she told her story. The case was a pitiful one as the woman was without funds. Mayor Reylock took the matter in charge and arrangements were made to provide a ticket for her to Grafton, W. Va., where her husband is employed in the mines.

Fred Eckhart Suffered Injuries From Which He Died.

Jamestown, N. D., May 25.—Fred Eckart was brought to the city hospital suffering from injuries received by being run over by a drill while engaged in work in the field near Medina. It appears that he was riding on a drill and by some means fell forward, the wheels passing over him. He was also dragged and twisted around by the discs of the drill in such a manner that he was fatally injured in the intestines, one lung was pierced, and his neck was broken at the base of the brain.

He was brought to the city hospital but died soon afterwards. He was 26 years old and leaves a wife and two children.

FOURTH STREET PAVING QUESTION RESULTS IN LONG WRANGLE IN COUNCIL

Contractor Resents Intimation That He Is "Fair Haired Boy."

Finally Decided to Call for New Set of Bids.

P. McDONNELL.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Rejected all bids for Fourth street paving, and ordered a re-advertisement for bids.

Directed that city take up some of the outstanding bonds, if they can be secured at 4 per cent or better.

Received invitation to attend first league ball game of the season next Saturday.

Ordered street railway company to stop for passengers at Second street on the incline railway.

Postponed for one week application of X. M. Buffer for saloon license in West Duluth. People in vicinity of saloon site protest against the granting.

Postponed pole and conduit condemnation proceedings in the East end for ninety days.

Refused to grant Duluth-Edison company a permit for a pole line in First alley.

Gave Northern Pacific right to lay track across Railroad street.

Greatly to the disgust of nine members of the city council, at last night's regular meeting, they found themselves in such a position that there was no alternative but to vote with the six other aldermen to reject all the last bids for paving Fourth street, from Mesaba avenue to Sixth avenue east, and to readvertise for bids on the work.

The final decision was reached only after a period of wrangling, which covered the greater part of the evening's session. When the matter first came up, Alderman Moore moved for a rejection of present bids and a re-advertisement for others, but this motion was lost by a vote of 9 to 6. Those voting in favor of the motion were Aldermen Moore, McKnight, Moe, Storey, Getchell and Poupisier.

Later on Alderman Shartel moved that the contract be awarded to the lowest bidder. There were seven yeas and eight nayes, and the motion was declared lost. First he moved that the matter be taken out of the hands of the committee, which had not yet made a report since the last bids were received but the motion was lost, 7 to 8. It took eleven votes to award the contract to P. McDonnell, the lowest bidder, and the aldermen favoring his bid here found themselves in a position where, if they stood out against a readvertisement, the chances were that the letting of the contract would be indefinitely postponed, because, as long as the other six aldermen stood out against awarding the contract to Mr. McDonnell, no action could be taken in that direction. Rather than submit to another long delay, the aldermen chose the lesser of two evils, and finally voted to reconsider the vote on Alderman Moore's motion, and then carried the motion, 13 to 2, Hector and Shartel voting nay. This means a delay of only two weeks before a fresh set of bids is before the council.

Their argument, in effect was came only after a long series of arguments, indulged in by most of the aldermen and a number of Fourth street property owners, who were outside the rail. Seven or eight Fourth street men, representing several hundred feet of frontage, argued in favor of granting the contract to Mr. McDonnell, the lowest bidder under the readvertisement, despite the fact that his last bid is $2,500 higher than the one he submitted two weeks previous.

The adjustment of the difficulty that they had waited longer now than could be reasonably expected of them, and that a second readvertisement for bids would mean another delay, which might be prolonged indefinitely.

Alderman Moore led the minority in a fight for the rejection of P. McDonnell's bid, and Alderman Shartel led the majority in an attempt to give Mr. McDonnell the contract, under the last figures submitted by him. Mr. Moore said the only way the council could set itself right with the contractors and the general public would be to order a readvertisement for bids, because the impression has gone abroad that Mr. McDonnell is being favored, and that other contractors are being discriminated against.

Gets After "Paddy."

"A. G. Osman, who claims to have been the lowest bidder when bids were first asked for," said Alderman Moore, "has said to me and has said to several other people, that it seems impossible for any contractor other than Paddy McDonnell to get a street paving contract from the city, no matter whether Paddy's figures are high or low. He says we might as well hang up a sign reading 'No contracts let except to P. McDonnell.'

"We know this is not true, but there is a lot of talk going around concerning the Fourth street paving contract, and to put ourselves right with the people the only thing we can do is to readvertise for bids. Then neither side can call the other names. There is a general misunderstanding on the part of the public regarding the proposition, and I think the whole thing should be set right by calling for a fresh lot of bids. This means no great inconvenience to the contractors and will result in a delay of only two weeks in letting the contract.

"If we do not do this the council will be open to criticism. The thing has reached a stage where the whole city is interested. Something higher than money and street paving is now involved. We cannot afford to have the impression go abroad that we are discriminating in favor of a contractor or of any one class. Everything should be open and above board in the awarding of such contracts, so that every one can see just what has been and is being done, and this be satisfied that there is nothing out of the way. Readvertise and let the people understand that no contractor is a fair-haired boy with the council. It is for the best interests of all that this should be done —the contractors, the aldermen the property owners interested and the public at large. And in the readvertisement, if Paddy McDonnell comes here with a higher bid I shall not vote to award him the contract."

At this point Mr. McDonnell got up in defense of himself. He said he had been in Duluth for twenty years and had always conducted his affairs in a businesslike way, with no suspicion attached of there being anything crooked. He defied any one to show in Duluth or anywhere else in the United States a bid for paving, under similar conditions as on Fourth street, that came within 25 cents a yard of being as low as his. He asserted that where he was getting $1.70 a yard for this work, Superior has to pay $2.30 a yard, and Grand Forks $2.90 a yard. He said he would do the work for nothing if any one could show a bid approaching his by 25 cents.

He declared he was the lowest bidder, and should get the contract. He branded it as unfair if the council took any other action. The whole trouble, he explained, arose over the strip of paving between the rails of the street car tracks. He said he wished the strip "was in hell." He stated that no city in the country was getting paving done lower than Duluth, and that while there were many municipalities that could be charged with favoring one contractor, Duluth was not in this class.

Frank Lacey, John Gonska and Thomas Michaud were among the Fourth street property owners who talked in favor of letting the contract to Mr. McDonnell under present figures. They argued against any further delay, and said that as long as a big majority of property owners interested were strongly in favor of giving Mr. McDonnell the contract, their wishes should be considered, and Mr. McDonnell's bid should be accepted. They said it was no concern of the remainder of the city what terms or conditions the contract was awarded under, as long as the people who were paying for the improvement were satisfied.

Aldermen Moore and McKnight said the proposition had now reached a stage where others besides the property owners were concerned, and where it was up to the council to vindicate itself in the eyes of the people by calling for a new set of bids.

Shartel Won't Be Led.

Alderman Shartel blamed the newspapers for starting the agitation against allowing Mr. McDonnell the bid under his last figures. He said he objected to being led around by the nose by the newspapers. The fact that three of the Fourth ward proceeded to gently slam the newspapers in general, and to say that one could not always depend upon what one saw in print. He tempered his remarks along this line by saying that sometimes the papers were misinformed.

After a good deal of more talk for against giving the contract to Mr. McDonnell, it was finally voted to readvertise for bids.

Mr. McDonnell announced that he would allow his present bid to stand, where all the world could see the figures, and would not make another secret bid. Alderman Shartel told the council that, with Mr. McDonnell taking this position, the aldermen would be robbing him by ordering a readvertisement, for some one else would be sure to bid a few dollars lower.

It was reported that the city is in shape financially to take up some of the outstanding bonds, and the council directed that if they can be had at 4 per cent or better they be reclaimed.

A petition was read from property owners between Forty-fourth and Forty-sixth avenues west, on Sixth street, stating that there was no use for the sidewalk recently ordered for the street between Thirty-ninth and Forty-sixth avenues. The petition states that, with a little repairing, the present walk is all right, and that if it is not considered all right it should be torn up altogether and not replaced, because there is not enough foot traffic along the south side of the street to warrant the improvement being made. The petition was referred to the committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks.

On the petition of people living in the vicinity of the Seventh avenue west incline railway, the street car company was directed to build a station at Second street on the incline, for taking on and letting off passengers.

Alderman Getchell voiced a strong protest against granting a saloon license to N. M. Buffer at 5666 Grand avenue, saying it was in a residence district and that all the people in the vicinity were opposed to it. The matter was laid over for one week.

The recommendation of the health commissioner and board of public works, a considerable number of sewers, most if them short ones, were ordered constructed.

A permit was refused the Duluth-Edison company for the erection of telephones in First alley, from Fourth to Eighth avenues east. The company was instructed to put its wires in underground conduits.

The Northern Pacific railway was given permission to lay a spur track across Railroad street, in order to reach the Great Northern Storage company warehouse.

Action on proposed pole and conduit condemnation proceedings in the East end was, upon motion of Alderman Moore, postponed for ninety days.

The chief of police reported that under present ordinances no one could be punished for throwing of hitching weights on cement sidewalks, unless actual damage from each weight could be proven. He recommended an amendment to the ordinance which would make it a misdemeanor for weights to be thrown on the walks, whether damage could be proven or not.

An invitation was received from the Duluth Baseball club, asking the aldermen to be on hand at the opening league ball game next Saturday afternoon. Carriages will leave the city hall at 2 p. m.

• • •

The Playground association asked the council to do something about the proposed issue of park bonds, so more money would be available for park and playground purposes.

Chamberlain's Liniment.

This is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflammatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invariably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lame back, lame shoulder and stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the affected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is allayed by this liniment. For sale by all druggists.

All Who Would Enjoy

good health, with its blessings, must understand, quite clearly, that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to living aright. Then the use of medicines may be dispensed with to advantage, but under ordinary conditions in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time and the California Fig Syrup Co. holds that it is alike important to present the subject truthfully and to supply the one perfect laxative to those desiring it.

Consequently, the Company's Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna gives general satisfaction. To get its beneficial effects buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

ARTIE O'DEA GETS HIS CLAIM

Baseball Player Establishes His Right to the Land.

The secretary of the interior, by a decision which reached the local land office yesterday, has brought to an end a case that has been in litigation for the past three years. The decision declares that Artie O'Dea, a well-known ball player, is the owner and entitled to the possession of 160 acres of land in the Beaver Bay district.

Several years ago, before the land was formally opened for settlement, John A. Lindgren built a cabin on the land in dispute. He cultivated it to some extent and obtained what he claimed was a squatter's right to first entry.

O'Dea learned that Lindgren was not spending sufficient time on the land. He went there and built another cabin and opened up a large tract for cultivation.

Lindgren brought contest before the local land office. The case was decided against him and he appealed to the commissioner of the general land office and later to the secretary of the interior. The last decision affirms the Duluth land office and the commissioner, and gives O'Dea a right to patent to the land.

BOOTH FISHERIES COMPANY ELECTS LETTS PRESIDENT

Chicago, May 25.—The Booth Fisheries company, a $7,000,000 corporation founded on the ruins of A. Booth & Co., yesterday elected Frank C. Letts president. The reorganized company, it is said, is heir to a fine of $1,000,000, imposed on the old company for rebating. The company was found guilty, two years ago, of accepting rebates from the Nickel Plate and Lehigh Valley railways, but sentence was not imposed until yesterday.

"SKINNY" MADDEN ON THE STAND

Chicago Labor Leader Charged With Extortion Gives Testimony.

Chicago, May 25.—Martin B. Madden, F. A. Pouchot and M. J. Boyle, labor leaders, charged with conspiracy to extort, occupied the witness stand in their own behalf yesterday in Judge McSurley's court. Their testimony dealt in detail with legitimate causes for calling a strike on the Joseph Klicka company's plant, and was vigorous and unanimous to the effect that no money had been paid, as charged, to settle the trouble.

George Andres' statement that he had, at Madden's direction, laid $1,000 on a desk in a private room in a saloon, was flatly contradicted by Madden. Asked about Andres' visit, Madden said that there was a number of labor men present at the bar when it occurred, and that Andres stayed about ten minutes.

RAILWAY TRAINMEN RE-ELECT CHIEF LEE.

Columbus, Ohio, May 25.—The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen has unanimously re-elected W. G. Lee of Cleveland, grand master or president as he will be known when the new constitution becomes effective. A. R. King of Cleveland was re-elected general secretary and treasurer and D. L. Cease of Cleveland, editor and manager, both by unanimous votes. Much opposition was made to the election of T. R. Dodge to the office of assistant to the president, who is now filling by ap-

PAIR SENTENCED FOR CRUELTY

Englishman and American Wife Maltreated Young Children.

Paris, May 25.—On the charge of having maltreated young children in their care, Cecil R. Sargent, an Englishman, and his American wife, who was Josephine Savin of New York, were found guilty in the county correction court yesterday. Sargent was sentenced to two years' imprisonment and his wife to thirteen months. A small fine was imposed on each.

Witnesses testified the Sargents beat the children and deprived them of food. One of the last witnesses, Mme. Marie Chal of Brussels, declared that she had confided her child to the Sargents five years ago, and until recently had not heard of it. She attacked Mrs. Sargent and tried to strangle her. Guards with difficulty pulled her away.

Sargent and his wife were arrested in Asnieres last February, charged with the gross ill-treatment of four children whom they had adopted. The couple had been in the habit of inserting advertisements in English and Belgian newspapers, offering to adopt children for a money consideration. An effort was made to have Mrs. Sargent examined as to her sanity, but after an investigation by a magistrate, both of the Sargents were ordered to stand trial.

A TONIC FOR THE STOMACH

Minnesota Evidence of the Power of This Treatment to Cure Dyspepsia.

There are thousands of people, who are without ambition or strength to do their day's work and who are always tired out, have but little appetite and a poor digestion, cannot get a refreshing night's sleep and are subject to headaches, backaches and nervousness because their blood is impure.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and as it becomes pure and red it strengthens the muscles, tones up the nerves and makes the stomach capable of digesting food.

Mrs. Anna S. Bowyer, a farmer's wife, of R. F. D. No. 1, Dundee, Minn., has been entirely cured of stomach trouble by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and heartily recommends this tonic treatment to anyone similarly afflicted.

"Following a general run-down condition," she says, "I suffered with stomach trouble for about one year. I had been feeling mean for some time. My stomach became sour and I was constantly belching gas. My heart was affected and for six months I could not lie on my left side. It beat so fast that it seemed I would choke and could not get my breath. The least effort to do anything made me short of breath. I was so nervous that sleep was almost impossible and I could not bear any noise. I was troubled with splitting headaches and with dizzy spells. My appetite was gone and I had no ambition to work. I was confined to bed for two or three days at a time.

"The doctor said I had stomach trouble but I gave up his treatment after a short trial as it did not help me in the least. I tried many medicines but nothing helped me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I read in our paper of a case that seemed to be exactly like mine that had been cured by the pills. I was hopeless of ever feeling better but thought I would give the pills a trial. At first they did not seem to help me but I had confidence in them and after a thorough treatment I felt well again. I have been wonderfully benefited. My heart and stomach do not trouble me any more and my appetite is hearty."

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

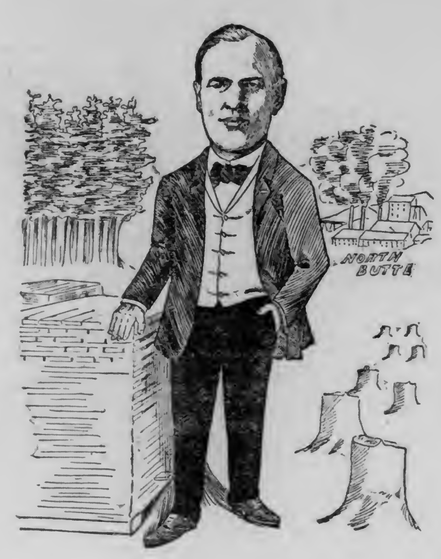
WELL KNOWN DULUTHIANS IN CARICATURE



CHARLES A. DUNCAN,
Lumberman and Mine Owner.

FREE LUMBER IS A LOSER IN UPPER HOUSE

Washington, May 25.—No single piece of lumber was ever used more effectually as a seesaw by children than was the great lumber industry yesterday by the United States senate. The lumber schedule of the tariff bill was under consideration almost the entire day with Senators Root, Heyburn, Borah and Dolliver contending on the one hand for a protection for the industry, and Senators Clapp, Burkett and McCumber arguing as strenuously against that policy. The day closed with more than two-thirds vote against Senator McCumber's free lumber amendment, the ballot showing 25 for and 56 against.

The surprise of the day was the attitude of Senator Dolliver, who heretofore has stood with the progressives throughout the present tariff fight. He took positive position against the radical demand for free lumber, but expressed the opinion that the industry would not suffer from reduction of the Dingley rates.

Opened by Root.

Senator Root opened the day's proceedings with a close argument in favor of a differential on dressed lumber. Senators Borah and Heyburn of Idaho contended for the highest duty on lumber, and Mr. Borah entered upon an argument to show that the policy he maintained if there are to be constant exceptions to it as is desired in the interest of free lumber. On the other hand, Senators Clapp and Burkett argued that lumber can be produced as cheaply in Canada as in the United States, and contended that the lumber industry of this country would not be endangered by the free admission of the Canadian product. Incidentally Senator Clapp paid a glowing tribute to the Canadian government, saying that it was equal to the best.

Senator Heyburn spoke of the Republican platform of the last campaign in a way that brought some criticism on his head, and Senator Bailey declared that he did not propose to be bound by the platform adopted by the Democrats at Denver. Mr. Bailey made a speech of some length towards the close of the session in which he expressed the opinion that enaction of the pending tariff bill would see the disintegration of the Republican party.

Early in the day Senator Owen made a sharp attack on the present tariff on sugar, saying that it led to frauds by a "trust" and still earlier Senator Aldrich introduced a resolution providing for an investigation of expenditures of the legislative departments.

The Island Bill.

Republicans of the house yesterday again took matters in their own hands, and with a sudden show of strength, passed the Philippine tariff bill, the consideration of which had been concluded two weeks ago, referred the message of the president regarding Porto Rican affairs, to the committee on ways and means, and devoted some time to a discussion of the bill amending the laws of Porto Rico so as to divest the legislature of certain authority.

When the body met, Mr. Macon made the usual point of no quorum, but Majority Leader Payne instead of moving an adjournment, as he had done heretofore, forced a call of the house, and a quorum appeared within a short time.

The feature of the day was a long speech by Mr. Larringa of Porto Rico, commissioner of the United States vigorously opposing the bill affecting the island represented by him and denouncing the executive council or upper branch of the legislature of Porto Rico.

HIGHEST COURT TO MEET OUT PENALTY FOR CONTEMT.

Washington, May 25.—For the first time in so serious a case the supreme court of the United States will next Tuesday undertake to mete out punishment for the crime of contempt of the court itself, and the importance of the occasion will be enhanced by the number of defendants.

The proceeding will take place in connection with the cases of Sheriff Shipp and Deputy Sheriff Gibson of Hamilton county, Tenn., and of four other residents of that county, Williams, Nolan, Padgett and May. These men yesterday were declared by the court to be guilty of an act of contempt in combining in 1905 in a conspiracy to lynch a negro named Johnson, who had been sentenced to death by the local courts on a charge of rape, and in whose case the supreme court had interfered to the extent of granting an appeal which had the effect of a supersedeas. On the night following the announcement of the court's action Johnson was taken out of the jail in Chattanooga by a mob and lynched. There was no resistance on the part of the jail authorities, and Shipp and a number of his deputies, as well as about twenty citizens, were proceeded against on the charge of contempt of the federal court.

The case has been pending ever since, and the number of defendants was from time to time reduced to nine. Of these nine, three yesterday were found guiltless, while the six others were ordered to be brought into court next Tuesday for sentence. They will be taken into custody immediately and will appear in court in charge of Marshall Wright. The sentence may be either a fine or imprisonment, or both.

The case is regarded as of exceptional interest because it is practically the first time that the highest court in the United States has ever undertaken to assert its dignity or to resent acts or words reflecting upon it. In one previous case some years ago, a defendant was fined for some expression of contempt, but the case was so comparatively insignificant as to practically leave the present proceeding standing alone.

In the cases of Sheriff Shipp and Deputy Gibson the court in effect declares that there may be contempt in a failure of officers of the law to prevent a crime in contempt of the court and in taking cognizance of an offense at so great a distance, the court for the first time asserts by action its right to compel the proper respect for and treatment of its verdicts in all parts of the Union.

PUBLIC GETS IN ON LAMBS' CLUB GAMBOLS

New York, May 25.—In consideration of $40,000 tendered them in amounts varying from $1,100 for a parterre box and $55 for a single orchestra chair to $2 for a seat in the last row of the top balcony, actors, managers and playwrights who constitute the membership of the Lambs' club, admitted the public last night to one of their "Gambols," the scene of which was transferred for the occasion to the Metropolitan opera house.

Attracted by the presence in the cast of some 150 stage celebrities and by the prospect of the unusual sight of Belasco, Augustus Thomas, Charles Klein, A. L. Erlanger, George Broadhurst and many equally prominent authors and managers in the role of stage personages and supes, representative New York crowded into the Metropolitan opera house to witness the event.

Before the gambol, the Lambs, 400 strong, paraded from their clubhouse in West Forty-fourth street, to the theater in a body, with Victor Herbert and his orchestra of fifty pieces in the van, the objects of an ovation which was only the fore runner of a noisier and more enthusiastic welcome when the curtain rose upon the assembled black-faced group for the first number of the program—an old time minstrel show.

With De Wolf Hopper as interlocutor and such favorites as Raymond Hitchcock, Eddie Foy, Nat M. Wills, Mack-lyn Arbuckle, Charles Evans, Ignacio Martinetti and Andrew Mack, as end men, with Victor Herbert conducting and his orchestra of fifty accompanying the singing, this proved one of the best of the evening's many delightful features.

The next number, the forum scene from "Julius Caesar," served to bring before the footlights James O'Neill as Brutus and De Wolf Hopper as Marc Antony. Supporting them in truly admirable fashion were William Muldoon, William and Melville Stewart, George V. Hobart, Wilton Lackaye, Dustin Farnum and others. The mob was in itself a remarkable aggregation, among the supers being Digby Bell, David Belasco, George Broadhurst, A. L. Erlanger, Lew Fields, Clay M. Greene, Charles Klein, John Mason, Eugene W. Presby, Edwin Milton Royale, A. Baldwin Sloane, Augustus Thomas and Joe Weber.

After "Julius Caesar" came a brief intermission, and then Joe Weber and Lew Fields, assisted by a company of stars, gave their old specialty entitled "A Game of Pool," which recalled the days when Weber and Fields were together, and brought laughter till the tears came. This was followed by "After the Matinee," a song and dance, in which nine well-known Lambs appeared as matinee girls.

A sketch written by George V. Hobart, entitled "Tuesday," brought the performance to a close. The scene depicted was a stage at a rehearsal on the morning after a New York "First Night." Wilton Lackaye was the hero, Donald Bryan the heroine, Digby Bell the wardrobe mistress and Raymond Hitchcock the chorus girl.

Terrible Red Patches on Face and Arms Made Victim Ashamed to be Seen—Suffered Intensely for Ten Months—Expert Treatment Gave No Relief—Two Sets of the

CUTICURA REMEDIES ENTIRELY CURED HER

"About two years ago I contracted eczema and suffered intensely for about ten months. At times I thought I would scratch myself to pieces. My face and arms were covered with large red patches, so that I was ashamed to go out. I was advised to go to a doctor who was a specialist in skin diseases, but I received very little relief. I tried every known remedy, with the same results. I thought I would never get better until a friend of mine told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. So I tried them as the last resource, and I am very glad that I did, for after four or five applications of Cuticura Ointment I was relieved of my unbearable itching. I used two sets of the Cuticura Remedies (Soap, Ointment and Pills), and I am completely cured. I always recommend Cuticura to any one that is suffering and in every case it seems to cure. SAFER BUILDINGS ARE REQUIRED

New York's Building Code Commission Completes Its Labors.

New York, May 25.—Until comparatively recently pretty nearly all kinds of buildings were tolerated in our cities, so that today we have a hodge-podge medley of highly combustible and dangerous buildings, interspersed among which are a few—very few—fire-resisting and first-class structures, not over 3,000 in our total of over 12,000,000 buildings in the country.

Of late years building ordinances have been enacted in most of our cities, but they have been rather lax and still more laxly enforced. Wood has been too freely permitted, inferior construction has been allowed in too high buildings, so-called "slow-burning" construction has been permitted and far too great latitude has been given the exploiters of the various reinforced concrete systems to experiment with their untried and often most questionable expedients in the name of economy. Endless troubles, and sometimes disasters, have resulted. For instance, the too liberal permission to use wood was the very direct cause of the appalling losses by fire in Baltimore, San Francisco and likewise in the devastating of the lesser fires of more recent date.

The authorities are awakening to the necessity there is for more stringent legislation. New York has taken the lead in revamping its building ordinances, and the other cities will undoubtedly soon follow suit. New York's building code commission has completed its labors and evolved a splendid schedule of requirements. It limits the height of combustible buildings to three stories in congested districts, it limits likewise all constructions of other than absolutely fireproof materials to safe heights, so that they can be easily handled by the fire departments in case of fire, and it recognizes as standard fireproof construction buildings erected of steel frame, protected with hollow fireproofing tile, a system that has been in vogue for thirty years and has stood satisfactorily every fire to which its properly assembled parts have ever been exposed. With few exceptions the leading architects and engineers of the country thoroughly approve of the new code proposed for New York and contend that in building laws, as in the divorce laws, for instance, there should be uniformity in all the states. It would be a very great advantage to the entire country if the state authorities, rather than the city, would adopt New York's building code and make it uniform and obligatory in all the cities of each state.

Aged Miner Goes Back to His Former Home.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 25—"Uncle" John Berryman, who has been a resident of Ishpeming for the past twenty-six years, left Sunday night for St. Ives, England, where he will spend the remainder of his days. His wife and some of his children, whom he has not seen since he came to this country, live there. Mr. Berryman, who is 70 years of age, has worked at the Lake Angeline mine nearly all of the time he has been in Ishpeming. He is now in poor health and has not been able to work for the past six months. He began mining when a mere boy and has followed that occupation ever since. He spent some years in Brazil before coming to America and he was a first-class miner.

In his younger days, Mr. Berryman was a clever Cornish wrestler. In most of the Cornish wrestling tournaments conducted in this county in the past fifteen years or so he has officiated as a stickler. When he first came to this country he was in the class of such wrestlers as Tom Karkeet, Bill Carlyon and others. He was an unusually strong man and he understood the game thoroughly.

Games Today.

Duluth at Wausau.
Superior at La Crosse.
Winona at Eau Claire.

Wausau, Wis., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cummings, in the box for Duluth, pitched a wonderful game of ball here yesterday and his support was the best possible, giving Duluth the game by a score of 1 to 0.

The locals were able to get only one hit off Cummings during the entire game.

Schaeffer pitched a good game for Wausau and the rest of the team was in good form. Duluth made its one score in the second inning. In all, Duluth got only three hits off Schaeffer.

The contest was one of the fastest ever seen on the local grounds. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Wausau .....000000000—	0	1	2
Duluth .....010000000—	1	3	1

Batteries—Schaeffer and Johnson; Cummings and Mueller.

La Crosse Downs Superior.

La Crosse, Wis., May 25.—La Crosse won the first game from Superior by making the hits count. The game was a hurling duel between Klingebiel and Schardt, the local man being in better form and being backed up by better support. La Crosse tried out Bonine, released by Superior, at second base. Score:

(By Bruce.)

Al Cummings won his second game of the season yesterday. Al has not won any more games for the simple reason that he has only worked in that number. And the winning of both his games by our fellow citizen, Cummings, and the reversal in form of the team's work, only goes to show that the men back of the Duluth baseball team are anxious to provide this city with a winning aggregation of ball players.

When you stop and ponder, Clarence, that baseball players, good players, you understand, are not the easiest kind of citizens to collect, you may be patient for a while. It is almost as difficult a task for managers to collect good baseball players as it is for the Superior police to catch any of the malefactors that have occasionally disturbed the sleepy quietude of the city across the bay.

However, the course that is being taken by the officials of the Duluth team commends itself to lovers of baseball. It might as well be stated right here, right out flat-footed, you understand, that the citizens of this city, the largest in the league, have the right to expect a better brand of baseball than they received last year. Another thing that should be understood, is not the kind of support that is calculated to give any city a winning team.

The directors of the Duluth baseball team have pursued the right course. When a man has been found wanting they have turned him down the path to slower company. In one case a lad, whose intentions were perfectly honorable, but who made a serious mistake in choosing life's vocation, was sent back to the farm. It is to be hoped that he reaches the old homestead in time to be of assistance to father in the spring plowing.

It is not entirely the fault of the officials of the club that some of the original package of players were like some of the eggs sold in the winter time. Part, or the greater part, of the task of securing players was left to Darby O'Brien, who is Irish and impulsive. However, the point in favor of the officials of the Duluth team is that they have so far showed a willingness to correct mistakes and have in several instances replaced incompetent players. The playing of the team since the coming of the new blood is has been of a higher standard. It is to be hoped that the team in its present condition is the equal of the present leaders of the race. If it is not the Duluth baseball public will expect that Mr. Kuehnow will keep his promise, uttered through the columns of The Herald, upon his return from watching the team perform in the southern end of the circuit.

But in the meantime some of the knocking that has been heard would try sorely the souls of angels. They kick when the team is winning, predicting that it is only a flash in the pan, and howl with but illy concealed joy when the team loses, as they can then pose as the original "I told you so."

These kind of people don't count in figuring upon a good baseball team. You find them in every town, but it is a misfortune that Duluth is inflicted with so many. It is the good people, the royal fans who are ready to support the team, that count in the end. It is these fans who must be considered. They are reasonable and fair, and when they see that the officials of the team are doing everything in their power to give the city a winning team they will suspend judgment until later.

And in the meantime—

Saturday is the opening day of the season.

"E's a bloomin' knocker, this Langford chap, O' I say."

And how disappointed and grieved the real, genuine monocoled and starched bosomed earls and lords must have felt last night. The one best bet of the English pugilistic arena was trotted out of the stable to beat our stubby Sammy Langford, the black boy from Boston.

And Sam, lacking humor that he must, refused to let the bout be even a good one. In this matter, he is lacking the coy and playsome humor possessed by his predecessor in the hope destruction line, Tommy Burns.

When Tommy fought Gunner Moir he allowed that worthy swabber of the big guns in his majesty's navy, to remain in front of the hopeful Britishers for ten rounds. Occasionally Tommy, who has a good eye for artistic effect, would allow the lumbering Briton to smite him. In this manner Tommy made the members of the National Sporting club believe that the battle was a desperate one and that he was fortunate to win. Gunner Moir was even included in the little joke. Tommy told him that he was a great fighter. He immediately asked conquering Burns for another fight.

But this Langford is a grim chap, apparently. Then, too, he is 39 years of age and the father of eight ravenous pickininies. When a man is that old and has followed the policies of Theodore as assiduously as Sammy, sometimes he loses his sense of humor. Mr. Langford refused to make the affair interesting, and after getting a line on the man from Yorkshire, rudely sent him to the land of unreality. Verily, Harold, life is filled with vicissitudes.

Ben Pierce, one of the strongest oarsmen in the senior eight, is to go on the road for the firm that he is employed with. This will prevent him from rowing with the Peyton crew. The loss of Pierce will be a severe one to the seniors. He is a corking good oarsman, and has been used as stroke of the eight recently. It is to be hoped that some man can be found to fill the place of the lost member of the eight.

SPALDINGS PLAY AT IRON RIVER

Manager Wants Another Game With Cloquet for Side Bet.

The Spaldings will play at Iron River, Wis., Sunday.

While this team has not been so very successful so far this year in the matter of winning games, they are as yet undaunted and will break into the game next Sunday with renewed vigor.

The Wisconsin team is a fast one. At the beginning of the season the Spaldings played them a tie game, the score being 3 to 3. The boys are confident that they are capable of bringing home the big end of the score.

Manager Lavall is hot after another contest with the Cloquet team. The lumber town aggregation put it all over the bunch with the baseball name in a game played in that town some time ago and the locals now want revenge.

In fact, Lavall in the course of a few days will offer to play the Cloquet team for a side bet of $50. The Cloquet manager is loth to bring any more Zenith City teams to his burg. He says that Duluth teams are too easy and that people won't travel to his lot to see them play ball. Not without reason does he think this way, either, for, without exception, the Duluth teams that have traveled that way this spring have been easy for the boys who represent the town by the river.

The Latonia Derby.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 25.—Four horses are carded to start in the Latonia derby, which will be the feature of the opening of the spring meeting of the Latonia Jockey club, this afternoon. One of the entries may be withdrawn before the race, leaving but three to compete for the prize.

A light rain is falling this morning, and the track probably will be slow.

The Latonia derby is for 3-year-olds, foals of 1906, and the distance is a mile and a half. The value of the stake to the winner is $360; second, $300; third, $200. The probable starters, with their weights, jockey and odds, follows:

Starters.	Weight.	Jockeys.	Odds.
Olambel	114	T. Hice	3 to 5
Warfield	114	V. Powers	2 to 1

Tournament Opens.

New York, May 25.—The third annual tournament of the National Bowlers' association began last night in Madison Square Garden. It was opened by twenty-four prominent New Yorkers representing various local interests, headed by John C. Klingen, president of the association and City Comptroller Howard Metz, representing the city government. The twenty-four lined up and each started a ball rolling down one of the twenty-four alleys which have been laid for the three weeks' bowling.

Chicago Pug Wins.

O'Brien to Meet Ketchel.

Philadelphia, May 25.—Jack O'Brien and Stanley Ketchel were matched last night to fight six rounds before the National Athletic club in this city on June 9. The men agreed to weigh in at 160 pounds at noon on the day of the fight. Each fighter deposited $1,000 forfeit.

HAGUE KNOCKED OUT IN FOURTH

Burly Yorkshire Man No Match for Sam Langford.

London, May 25.—The ring generalship which he had picked up in many battles enabled Langford to secure a comparatively easy victory over Hague, and the fourth round had barely commenced when the burly Yorkshire man was floored by a well directed blow and counted out.

Langford was at a disadvantage as regards weight, height and reach, but his superior knowledge of ring tactics and his quickness overcame this, and what was expected to be a long contest, proved to be a brief one.

In the first round, Hague was slow to start. Langford had a shade the better of it until the end of the round, when Hague reached him with a hook to the jaw. This seemed to encourage the Britisher, and although no damage was done in the second round he showed more cleverness than the colored man.

Langford opened the third round with a hard left to the face, using this blow effectively several times before the gong sounded. Hague, however, partially closed the American's eye with a hard right swing.

The men came together in a fast mix-up at the opening of the fourth round, and Langford put a terrific right on the Yorkshire man's chin, which ended the contest.

A record crowd saw the fight, and the American was a warm favorite, much money being bet at 2 to 1 and 5 to 2 on him to win. There was some dispute when the men came into the ring, over the bandages on Hague's hands, but Langford's objections were speedily overcome and the Yorkshire man was allowed to wear them.

Mean Trick Played.

Winnipeg, Man., May 25.—A low trick was played on Acoose, the Manitoba Indian last night in his 15-mile race with Appleby. The race was run in a rink. Some one sprinkled tacks on the course and as the Indian ran his moccasins gathered them in. He was leading by a lap in the fourth mile when he stopped to pick the tacks out, losing three laps. Appleby, running in rubber shoes, did not gather any in. The Indian gave up in the ninth mile with bleeding feet, four laps behind, and Appleby finished alone.

Gotch Cancels Date.

Omaha, Neb., May 25.—Frank Gotch, world's champion wrestler, has cancelled his match with Hackenschmidt, in Melbourne, Australia, for next January and will undergo an operation on the nose about the middle of June, to remove a growth which resulted from an injury received many years ago while playing ball. Gotch has matches in Sioux City, Des Moines and Minneapolis and after filling those dates he will go directly to Minneapolis for treatment. Gotch last night defeated Charles Olsen of St. Louis in straight falls. The first fall was 21:40 and the second 15 minutes flat. Olsen surprised the big wrestler several times, but was no match in size and strength for him.

President Wins at Golf.

Washington, May 25.—President Taft and Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, U. S. A., won a foursome by two up from Vice President Sherman and Senator Bourne of Oregon in a golf match at the Chevy Chase links yesterday afternoon. It was an ideal day for golf, and there were few on the links to interrupt the progress of the president and his party.

MAKES A RICH MINERAL FIND

"Chief Neverwash" Exhibits Hematite Iron to Fort Frances People.

Fort Frances, Ont., May 25.—Horace Phillips of Banning, better known to the prospectors and old residents of this district as "Chief Neverwash," emerged out of the wilderness last week and sought civilization by visiting Fort Frances. He walked into the Times office about noon, invading the editor's sanctum and, throwing down a heavy packsack, which looked as if it might contain anything from a Hudson bay blanket to mineral specimens, said he had just come in town after six years of prospecting on the iron range between Banning and Atikokan.

When asked if he found anything he said, "Well, I guess I have," and, opening his sack, he tumbled out several specimens of hematite iron ore which looked very promising. Assays have been made of the ore, running from 40 to 55 per cent iron, and Mr. Phillips believes that when he gets down to a much greater depth that the quality and quantity will improve. The vein or lode which he took the specimens from is 150 feet in width, and how long he does not know. The hanging walls are of red jasper, and from a crosscut of forty feet it would appear that he has found a real iron deposit in place.

After fifteen years' experience here he says that this is a hard country to prospect in owing to the heavy glaciers from the North having swept away the top showings and covered the gulches with a heavy drift. This is why we are unable to find much placer mining here and why we find large floats of good iron south of us.

Mr. Phillips is a well-known prospector among the oldtime prospectors. He was born in St. Mary's in 1871, his father having followed mining for a long time. Horace, Jr., is named after his uncle, Horace Greely of Boston, the well-known horseman of Augusta, Me. He also has served a term in Prof. Merriott's mining school. He would like all who are interested in mining, as there are plenty of fields for every one in this district, to call on him and he will be pleased to show them what results can be obtained.

Supremacy

The KNABE PIANO of today is the result of seventy-odd years of devotion to the development and perfecting of one thing. These threescore years and ten have been employed in making the Knabe better in each detail of tone, touch, durability and workmanship. Three generations of the House of Knabe have given their whole time, thought and energy—their very life—to the accomplishment of the ambition to make the Knabe Piano as near perfection as human skill, ingenuity and modern methods could devise. How well they have succeeded is shown in the New Models of Grands and Uprights now on exhibition in our warerooms. You will at least be interested in seeing and hearing these superb instruments, and we shall be pleased to have you call.

Our special piano proposition will enable you to purchase a Knabe on terms that will suit you.

STUDYING IMMIGRANTS

Agent of the Government Commission Collecting Data in Duluth.

Would Determine Value of Immigrant to the Country.

J. H. Bradford, an agent of the United States government immigration commission, is in Duluth today to make an investigation of the cost of living of the immigration in this section of the country, their value to the employer of labor and other facts that have to do with the industrial situation as it applies to the immigrant.

At the Spalding today Mr. Bradford stated that the immigration commission consisting of three senators and three congressmen, together with three appointees of the president which was inaugurated in 1907, has been conducting an investigation of relation of the immigrant to the industrial progress of the country. It is the duty of the agents of the immigration commission to visit different parts of the country and gather facts that will help the members of the commission in the investigation they are carrying on.

The work of the commission is not limited to any one section of the country. Sections of the country where labor is concentrated, like the Copper country and the Minnesota ranges are good fields for investigation.

Mr. Bradford will go to the Copper country from here, and it is also probable that he will visit the iron range country before he returns to Washington. In these sections he will gather statistics of the work being done by the class of labor employed in the mines, the pay, the cost of living of the men and the value received by the employer of labor.

In speaking of the immigration movement of the present time, Mr. Bradford stated that the movement from Europe was expected to be heavier than it was last year. The immigration movement to the United States reached its highest mark in 1907. In that year, according to the statistics collected by the immigration commission, over 1,250,000 immigrants landed in this country.

Last year a great contrast was presented. Nearly 100,000 more immigrants left the country than the total number of those who came here from Europe. The figures were approximately 700,000 immigrants landing in this country to 810,000 leaving for their native countries because of the financial depression.

Reports received by the department so far this year, bear out the belief that the present year will be a heavy one in the movement of immigrants to the United States. The reports of steamship agents is to this effect. Mr. Bradford states that a heavy movement of immigration to this country is invariably an indication of prosperity.

JOERNS, DULUTH, A CLASS LEADER

He Gets Honor at the Annapolis Naval Academy.

Annapolis, Md., May 25.—At the final examinations today the class standing of the third section of the class of 1907, which was graduated in three sections, because of the need of junior officers in the navy was given out. There are several members of the class whose commissions as ensigns will be held up because of the difficulty in studies. The rest will be completed at once. The leaders of the class are Bedford S. Hayes, son of Washington Nelson C. Dilkamp of Milwaukee, Wis.; Edgar A. Ewing, Chicago, Michael J. Lorenski, Nanticoke, Pa.; Ripley F. McConnell, Cape City, Pa.; Joseph Warren Howell, Manchester, N. H.; Ralph E. Stewart, Byron, S. D.; Robert L. Montgomery, Council Bluffs; Charles E. Hovey, Portsmouth, N. H.; George Joerns, Duluth, Minn.

BOTH SIDES REST IN "SKINNY" MADDEN'S CASE.

Chicago, May 25.—Both sides today rested in the case of the state against the three labor leaders, M. B. Madden, F. A. Peuchot and M. J. Boyle. The defendants are charged with conspiracy to extort money in connection with the settlement of a strike on the plant of the Joseph Ricka company in this city.

He had been farming, and had done well there, having owned two good farms. He was 65 years of age.

STATE AID GRANTED TO BUILD ARMORIES.

Bismarck, N. D., May 25.—The state militia armory board has granted the requests of Mandan, Minot, Wahpeton and Jamestown for state aid to build armories. The state allows each city $5,000, on condition that the citizens donate a site and raise $7,000 to the building funds.

The money for Mandan and Minot will not become available until 1911, and the Jamestown and Wahpeton allotments will be available in 1910.

Capt. J. W. Scott Dead.

Fargo, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dying of old age, 83, after an eventful life, Capt. J. W. He was a member of the Masonic bodies for half a century, a former Mississippi river captain and pioneer farmer in this county.

Not Sweet's Body.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 25.—The report that the body of R. H. Sweet, one of the two victims of a drowning accident on May 8, had been found in the Chippewa river was incorrect. The body found is thought to be that of Peter Paulson.

PSYCHOTHERAPY USED BY DULUTH PHYSICIANS

At Least Four Cases Have Been Treated By New Science.

Doctrine Fathered By Bishop Fallows Being Studied Here.

While few of them are willing to admit it, it is nevertheless true that many Duluth physicians are quietly studying psychotherapy, and one Duluth physician at least has had no small measure of success with it, working some cures in the treatment of functional diseases that appear almost unbelievable.

Within the past six weeks no less than four confinement cases have been treated at St. Luke's hospital by the aid of psychotherapy, and with complete success. The patients were at all times conscious of everything that was going on about them, but felt no pain whatever.

Psychotherapy is the scientific term for the doctrine expounded by Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago, which has attracted such widespread attention recently. It is, briefly, mental, moral and spiritual help for mental or physical ailments. It was taken up in Boston as the Emmanuel church movement, and has been successfully carried on in many other cities of the country.

Until the last few weeks no attempts have been made to practice it in Duluth, although many of the local physicians and clergymen are deeply interested in it, but recently it has been put to practical use by at least one local physician in the treatment of functional troubles, and the results have been almost startling.

Calls It the Soul.

The basis of psychotherapy is the theory that there exists a conscious and a subconscious mind. Bishop Fallows calls the subconscious mind, the soul. Suggestions can be made to this subconscious mind, which the conscious mind will set upon. The patient is placed in a state of semi-consciousness. Sometimes the operator can bring this condition about in a few and even weeks before the patient will respond to the mental treatment. When in the desired state, the operator can suggest what he will, to the subconscious mind. For example he might suggest that the patient can feel no pain, and that the muscles of the body are powerless. This was what was done in the cases treated at St. Luke's hospital, where four women were taken through confinement without the use of anaesthetics, and without feeling any pain whatever.

A peculiar feature is that the subconscious mind will not receive an immoral suggestion, and it was the discovery of this fact that led Bishop Fallows to believe that the subconscious mind was really the soul. An immoral suggestion made to the patient, even though the patient may be an immoral person who would not resist the suggestion when in a normal state, is frequently sufficient to bring this patient out of the condition in which he has been placed by the operator, and when this is the case the same operator cannot regain power over the patient again.

The treatment is valuable for functional disorders, for example in treating insomnia. It is suggested to the subconscious mind of the patient that at a certain hour he will have a strong desire to sleep. He will be restored to his normal condition, and at the hour designated, will fall into a deep slumber.

While its value has been proved in the treatment of functional troubles, it is useless in the treatment of organic diseases, and it is even at times harmful when used for ailments of this nature.

To the average citizen or business man, the theories of psychotherapy sound chimerical, and they are set down as "spiritualistic." Few men will take any stock in them until they have seen for themselves, but it is being experimented with right in Duluth at the present time, and the four cases treated at St. Luke's hospital are proof positive of its practicability.

Its Moral Value.

The value of psychotherapy, from the standpoint of the clergyman, is scarcely less important than from the medical viewpoint. Suggestions to the subconscious mind that certain habits of life should be discontinued, are readily acted upon, and some remarkable instances have been recorded where drug fiends and slaves of whisky or tobacco have been cured completely.

The followers of the Emmanuel movement no longer treat cases by psychotherapy until they have been diagnosed by a regular physician, and the exact condition of the patient determined. Harmful results might easily follow if the irresponsible persons attempted to practice it, and the medical aspects of it have been left largely in the hands of physicians.

Duluth physicians who are studying psychotherapy are naturally very reticent regarding it. Three different members of the local profession, who are known to be much interested in it, were approached yesterday, in an effort to secure some concrete examples of the results secured by the new science, but they refused to discuss it, fearing the results of publicity. But, nevertheless, it is a fact that psychotherapy is being practiced in Duluth, and practiced, with success, as the four cases at St. Luke's hospital show.

NEW FLOTATION IN RED WARRIOR DISTRICT

ST. MARY MINING STOCK GOES ON AT 30c PER SHARE

Thousands of shares were subscribed for today. We believe this will be one of the biggest successful flotations of a low priced issue ever put on in Duluth. We have spent over $1,000.00 to find out about this property and believe it should soon develop into another Red Warrior mine. Unless we believed in the future of this issue from either a mine or market point of view, we would not handle it at all.

We are taking orders today.

NEW SKIN REMEDY STOPS ALL ITCHING

Skin Troubles of Adults and Infants Quickly Cured.

When it is known that poslam, the new skin discovery, will stop the torturous itching attending eczema with first application and bring immediate relief and comfort to sufferers from all skin troubles, its merit will be appreciated and its wonderful success understood. On the tender skin of chafing infants, poslam may be used with soothing and beneficial effects. It is applied externally, and its remarkable healing powers begin at once.

All skin diseases, including eczema, acne, herpes, rash, tetter, etc., yield immediately to poslam. Occasional applications, in small quantities, will quickly banish pimples, hives, blackheads, blotches, and will relieve and cure itching feet, scaly scalp, humors, etc. A special 50-cent package is prepared for those who use poslam for these minor skin troubles. This, as well as the regular two-dollar jar, is on sale at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, Holmberg's in Superior, and other leading drug stores.

An experimental supply of poslam may be obtained free of charge by writing to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York.

THREE LINEMEN ARE ARRESTED

Were Stringing Wires in Alley Without Proper Permit.

Carl Larson, Carl Everson and Alexander Gustafson, employes of the Zenith Telephone company, were arrested this morning charged with obstructing the streets. They pleaded not guilty and their hearing was set for Friday.

The men were stringing wires for the company in First alley, and the permit in their possession did not, it is claimed, cover the work they were doing. They were told by the police to stop the work, but refused to do so, and were arrested.

HELPING THEMSELVES.

Dr. James Clark, Missionary, Says Africans Convert One Another.

Rev. Dr. James Clark, who has been for twenty-nine years a missionary, working mostly in Africa, and who last night spoke at the First Baptist church, says that the Africans are not being helped so much by the efforts of the missionaries sent there as by their own efforts.

The speaker said that once one member of the family became converted, he at once set about teaching the other members of the family. In this way the work is far-reaching and the progress great and lasting.

Dr. Clark declared that if the same system were used in the United States, the change in the lives of the people would be wonderful.

The lecture was illustrated. This, with an entertaining talk, made the subject a very interesting one. One picture showed a map on which was outlined ex-President Roosevelt's route in his search for big game.

Don't ramp and tear and claw the air and claim the Tariff isn't fair.

Of course, it isn't. Taxes never are; but if high or low, this old world will move just about as ever and what prices you pay for your small needs depends very much on the store you patronize.

The Columbia buyers look out for your interest by purchasing the best goods, domestic or imported, at the lowest going prices and we'll continue to sell them to you without exacting undue profits.

This week we expect to sell a great many boys' suits for the coming school events.

For the Boy of Knickerbocker Age

You can select here graduation suits at most any price between $5 and $15, and if you consider well the quality, you'll find that The Columbia sells for less than any other store in Duluth.

For the young men we have besides those described in our Friday Ad, a new creation called "The Stanley." Tailored on the lines of the dip front (not extreme), with full shoulders, creased back, long pressed lapels, and only one button on front of coat. Blacks or blues of this style, also in olive green, smoke, mixed gray, tan striped, brown mixed and other shades. Worsteds and soft finished materials. Sizes 32 to 38. Prices $15 up to $30.

BALLOT BUT NO ELECTION.

Crowd at Springfield Expected to See Move for Lorimer.

Springfield, Ill., May 25.—In expectation of lively scenes at the balloting for United States senator today, the galleries were crowded early. The number of lobbyists and political chieftains on the floor increased decidedly.

Expectation that an attempt to elect Congressman William Lorimer as United States senator filled the minds of many as the hour of joint session drew near. Nevertheless, the contingent favoring Former Senator A. J. Hopkins continued to assert that their man would increase his vote instead of falling behind. Representative Butts made the first shift on the Republican side by voting for Frank O. Lowden.

On the ninety-fourth ballot the total vote was: Hopkins, 88; Foss, 7; Mason, 2; Shurtleff, 19; Stringer, 40; Lorimer, 1; Lowden, 2; McKinley, 2; Sherman, 1; E. J. Kelly, Chicago, 11; Judge W. B. Wright, Effingham, 6; L. O. Browne, 1; M. J. Collins, 16; M. B. Walsh, Chicago, 1; Judge Theodore Brentano, 1; Yates, 1; W. H. Dietrick, 1.

Constitutional majority of the joint session, 103; majority of those present and voting, 101. The joint session was then closed.

PROGRAM FOR G. A. R. VETERANS

Complete List of Activities for Friday, Sunday and Monday.

The program for Friday, May 28, and for Sunday, May 30, has been arranged by a joint committee of the G. A. R.

Friday, May 28, a detail of members of Gorman and Culver posts, G. A. R., and from the Citizens' staff, will visit all the schools of the city, except the high school, at 2 p. m. They will visit the high school at 10 a. m.

Sunday, May 30, Gorman and Culver posts, and their auxiliaries, will meet at their respective halls at 9:15 a. m., and march to First avenue west and Superior street, and take the 9:43 a. m. Woodland cars for Glen Avon, to attend service at the Presbyterian church. Immediately after service, the column will reform and march to the cemetery, where the services of decorating the graves of the dead comrades will be performed, after which the column will break ranks and reassemble at the corner of Ninth avenue east and Superior street, at 7:15 p. m. After service they will break ranks.

Monday, May 31, the posts will assemble at their respective halls at 8:45 a. m. and take part in the parade at the time and place announced by Maj. Resche, the marshal of the day.

AUTO WITH FOUR EAGERLY SOUGHT

Hunt Continues for Men Who Robbed Overland Limited.

Omaha, Neb., May 25.—An automobile carrying four men which stopped at a Council Bluffs garage early Sunday, is engaging the attention of the officers, who are searching for the robbers who held up the Union Pacific overland train near here Saturday night.

The men, who were well dressed, left the machine at a garage in Council Bluffs at 1 o'clock Sunday. In the afternoon they left the city, arriving at Henderson, forty miles distant, Monday morning. There they put the machine into a garage and are said to have left the town by rail going in different directions.

The number of the car is 7342 Iowa and it is said the license records show it belongs to farmer named Albert Lawson living near Stanton, Iowa. Efforts are bing made to communicate with Mr. Lawson.

SENATE MAY VOTE UPON INCOME TAX BY JUNE 1.

Washington, May 25.—Believing that the senate will have completed its work on schedules in the tariff bill by June 1, the members of the committee on finance will agree to the taking of a vote on the income tax amendment on that day if Senator Bailey renews his motion that a time for voting be fixed. When this is done, Senator Aldrich will try to obtain an agreement for a voting on the bill itself, but whether he succeeds or not the committee has determined that it will not resist further a vote on the income tax question. If a vote is taken on this amendment, and on the bill as well, by June 10, Senator Aldrich believes that congress will be able to adjourn before June 20 and certainly not later than June 25.

DRANK POISON TO AVOID FACING ASSAULT CHARGE

West End Man Commits Suicide on Eve of Trial.

District Court Case Comes to Very Sudden Termination.

Unwilling to face the charges against him in a $2,000 assault case called today in district court before Judge Dibell, in which he is alleged to have assaulted Emelia Hostrom in her room on March 22 of this year, Gus Gundeen, a West end janitor, committed suicide at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, in a Tower avenue boarding house at Superior.

The tragedy took place at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Alfred Peterson, who conducts a boarding and rooming house at 721 Tower avenue. Gundeen had come over, he said, to visit her, but appeared to be nervous. Just before dinner, he went into a closet leading off from the dining room, took a four-ounce bottle of carbolic acid from his pocket and drank the contents.

He fell to the floor and the noise brought his horrified sister to his side, assisted by four other boarders. The prostrate man was carried out into the room and medical aid was summoned. He expired before the arrival of a physician.

Gundeen is a married man and has a family at 317 North Eighteenth avenue west. The family was notified of his death this afternoon by Coroner Giesen of Superior. The body is in charge of Undertaker LeSage of Superior. The lips of the man were frightfully burned by the acid.

The case against Gundeen was called the morning before Judge Dibell, and this afternoon no action had been taken, as the court was waiting for Gundeen to make his appearance. Mrs. Holmstrom the plaintiff in the action, claims that Gundeen entered her room on March 22 and assaulted her, beating and bruising her.

Gundeen had entered a general denial to the allegations contained in the bill of complaint, claiming that the charges made against him were untrue.

POLITICS TOUCHED

The Presbyterians Make an Issue of Immigration.

Speaker Deplores Deposing of Watchorn at Ellis Island.

Denver, Colo., May 25.—The prediction that immigration will send the population of the United States up to 200,000,000 in the next fifty years brought out a heated debate in the general assembly of the Presbyterian church today. Congressman Bennett of New York, a commissioner to the assembly; Dr. W. L. McEwan of Pittsburg, and Dr. Charles Thomson of Home Missions, participated.

"What's the use of listening to arguments that we have no field left for home missions," asked Dr. McEwan who is chairman of the board. "when the United States has left its back door open, admitting 10,000,000 a year of people, many of whom have not heard of the church."

Dr. Thomson asked for an appropriation of $800,000 to carry on evangelization among the immigrant classes. He spoke of the work in Cuba and praised the results obtained by the Federal government during the intervention.

"But the stars and stripes had no sooner vanished out of Havana harbor," he said, "than Cuba started backwards and gambling and bullfighting was given new sway. There is one place for home mission work."

Dr. Thomson roused cheering when he mentioned the name of Robert Watchorn, deposed commissioner of immigration at Ellis Island. His intimation that politics had caused the deposition of one of the best immigration officers in the service brought applause.

Congressman Bennett took issue with the speaker, who believed immigrants undesirable, or, at least, "It is libel," he said, "to say they are paupers and criminals."

J. J. HILL IS A WITNESS

Testifies Before Master In Chancery in Great Northern Case.

Tells of Probable Cost of Reproducing the System.

St. Paul, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time since the state rate hearings began in the federal building many months ago, James J. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern directorate has testified. He was called today by the master in chancery, Judge E. Otis, in the Great Northern case.

He was summoned to support the statements of other witnesses relating to the probable cost of "reproducing" the Great Northern system in Minnesota and especially the Great Northern terminals. His testimony being mainly corroborative, offered little novelty, except in its frequent discursive comments and in the picturesque personality of the witness.

The witness agreed with preceding witnesses for his company that the cost of reproducing the Great Northern terminals would be far greater than the state had estimated.

He had also disagreed with the state's assumption that some profit could be gained from a new railroad line, even before the construction of that part of the system had been wholly completed.

"Why, if our road in Minnesota had to be reproduced," he said, "I fail to see where we could get any such immediate profit. Take the line we built from Fort Assininiboine, Mont., more than 500 miles west to the coast. It reached some considerable towns and cities, such as Bonners Ferry, Sand Point, Spokane, Seattle. It was three years building—from 1890 to 1893; and five years elapsed after it was opened—from 1893 to 1898—before it earned any net money. Yet today the business of Spokane alone, with our road, is larger than the business of St. Paul. During some of those five years the line didn't even earn its operating expenses.

DEMANDS BACK TAXES OF THE GREAT NORTHERN

St. Paul, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—A demand for back taxes, aggregating $72,476.76 was made today on the Great Northern for the state by Anton Schaefer, state public examiner. The action was taken by the public examiner pursuant to a report on the gross earnings of that railroad made by E. W. McGrew, corporation examiner, who after an examination of the freight business of that company, running over the period from 1896 to 1907, including both years, concluded that the returns furnished by the company regarding the gross earnings of those years, understated the total of the gross earnings by $2,177,322.19. It took Mr. McGrew with three assistants more than seven months to make the examination.

CAUSE OF LEPROSY.

American Medicine: A new tubercular theory as to leprosy was suggested some time ago by Dr. Charles E. MacDonald of the army, who noticed in the Philippines the same facts as to fish diet which have long been held by Hutchinson as the cause. The present idea is not that the diet itself is at fault, but that there is an infection from tuberculous fish—rather startling, to be sure, but not at all improbable.

The matter is of timely interest in view of the differences of opinion as to the transmission of bovine tuberculosis. The vast difference between bird tuberculosis and the human variety has long been known, and it raises the suspicion that there may be very many kinds of tubercle bacilli, some of which produce in a man other conditions than tuberculosis as we now consider it.

The revelation that bubonic plague is in reality a rat disease and that some rats have a "tolerant immunity" to the germ has raised comparative pathology to extreme importance. It is now necessary to study the parasites of every lower animal with a view of discovering which of them can exist in man, either harmlessly or otherwise.

London Standard: The smallest specimen of a baby whale ever caught by a British trawler was landed at Grimsby some time ago by the King James. It was brought up in the trawl net in the North sea, and was so small—18 inches long and 3 pounds 3 ounces in weight—that the fishermen could not realize that it was a whale until an expert certified the fact.

The local officer of the board of fisheries secured this specimen, which could not have been calved more than three or four days, and immediately dispatched it to the laboratories of the fisheries department in London.

You'll Sometimes Use Van Camp's Milk

The change from the milkman comes slowly sometimes. But it comes. One cannot resist the facts long. There are too many reasons against raw milk—too many for using Van Camp's. Soon or late you'll change.

Ask some of your neighbors who have changed already. There are hundreds of them, perhaps.

Try to get them to go back to the milkman after they've used Van Camp's.

Get them to buy milk from day to day when they now have a cow in their kitchen.

Get them to cook with half-milk again. Or to use milk laden with germs.

It is hard, sometimes, to win one from the milkman. But it is utterly impossible to get one to go back.

No Disease Germs

The bane of raw milk is disease germs. For any germ in milk breeds with frightful rapidity.

There may be germs of consumption from tubercular cows, which are common. Infections may come from diseased milkmen or from dirty dairies.

These germs make raw milk the most terrible foe of humanity. For one thing, two-thirds of infant mortality is due to them.

Van Camp's milk is germless.

Our cows are inspected; so are the men who milk them. Our dairies are sanitary. Our buildings are built without wood. We make a business of cleanliness.

Then Van Camp's is pasteurized after the cans are sealed. Not a germ of any kind can remain in it.

Nothing But Milk

It's not a peculiar milk.

Our cows are the finest breed. Our dairies are in the best dairying sections. Our milk is evaporated while it is fresh.

That slight almond flavor—apparent only when the milk is drunk cold—is due to sterilization. It means nothing added. It indicates simple purity.

When you heat the milk—as in cooking or coffee—the almond flavor disappears. You have then the natural flavor of milk or cream save our surprising richness.

Six Cents Per Quart

Van Camp's is as thick as thick cream—so thick that you add one part water for coffee. Yet it doesn't cost half what you pay your milkman for cream.

Add two parts water and you have rich milk. The cost of such milk, when you buy Van Camp's by the case, is but six cents per quart.

Then you have no waste—no milk left over. That saving, in itself, is enormous.

So you have a cow in your kitchen—rich milk or cream whenever you want it. And it costs less than hand-to-mouth buying.

You have a pure, rich milk for less than you pay your milkman.

Matchless Milk Dishes

Just make one milk dish with Van Camp's. Note the wonderful flavor and richness. Then you'll forever use it.

Yet that flavor is not artificial. It comes solely from the whole, rich milk.

You are used to cooking with half-milk—you who buy from the milkman. For milkman's milk separates, before and after you get it.

The butter fat rises; the solids fall. You get so you don't know what whole milk means.

You get all the milk in Van Camp's.

But Be Careful

Condensed milk is half sugar. You can't use it for cooking. Don't think that Van Camp's is like that.

And don't think that all evaporated milks are alike.

Van Camp's Milk shows about 8 per cent of butter fat. That's because we use Holstein milk, and take out two-thirds the water.

But milk less rich, and with more water left in, may still be called "evaporated."

If you'll compare Van Camp's with other brands, you will see what a difference there is. Yet others cost as much as Van Camp's.

Van Camp's Milk comes in 5 and 10-cent cans, at your grocer's. It is put up at our dairies, in five states, where we milk 20,000 Holstein cows.

THE EVENING STORY

A MATTER OF KNOWLEDGE

By Julia Truitt Bishop.

(Copyright, 1909, by the author.)

"I am compelled to tell you, Mrs. Martin, that your niece is anything but satisfactory."

It may be remarked, in passing, that Judge Addison Martin arose and walked the floor, real that he did it gingerly, because he had the gout, and even when one is angry one does not forget the gout, since that the mere question was not new in the strictest acceptance of the term, but was merely a comparatively new-comer into the Martin household.

Mrs. Martin finished counting her stitches and then looked up with an expression that was almost like surprise.

"Why Mr. Martin!" she said in that gentle little tone of hers, "I am sure I thought you thought—"

"I thought you thought," roared the judge. "What do you mean by all that conglomeration, Mrs. Martin? Do you really think anything on the subject? No, madam, you cannot prove that you did. What you took for thoughts were merely impressions, and very unconvenient ones at that. Your impression was that I was satisfied with Leonora. A week ago that might have been true, but now it is not."

Mrs Martin arched her eyebrows to express surprise, because she was counting more stitches and could not speak just then.

"Fourteen, fifteen, sixteen," she said presently. "What has Leonora been doing, Mr. Martin?"

"Oh, it all comes of not having taken her when we took Ethel," said the judge still tramping madly and carpetfully about the room. "We raised Ethel ourselves,—or rather, I raised Ethel ourselves,—or rather, I raised her, for you are a slave to that fancywork, when the gods confound!—and now look at Ethel! I tried to get you to send for both of them, but you must let your sister take Leonora and now she comes to me, and the result shows she comes to me, and the result shows that your sister was a woman totally deficient in judgment. Mrs. Martin—totally!"

"Yes, but—ane, teh, e-lev-en,—what has Leonora been doing, Mr. Martin?"

"Doing, ma'am? She has been doing nothing. It is the things she has said. You know very well the plans I have been making to her—a handsome girl like that—a girl that could marry anybody, ma'am,—anybody!—and I took leave to throw Jerry Cerdovan's son plans to throw Jerry Cerdovan's son plans to throw Jerry Cerdovan's son plans to throw Jerry Cerdovan's son into her society, and I really thought she was pleased with him—and so last week I hinted that nothing would delight me more. And what do you suppose Miss Leonora had the effrontery to say to me?

"I am sure I don't know," said Mrs. Martin helplessly.

Why, she straightened herself up and said, 'Uncle Ad, I haven't the slightest objection to your continuing to choose my dresses for me, or even to choose my hats and shoes, for I don't like my shopping; but I am going to choose my husband for myself, if you please.' Think of it! The ungrateful minx said that to me! That comes of taking girls after other people have raised them! And ever since then she's been as cold as ice to Frank Cordovan, and has had no eyes for anybody but that Morris boy—a nobody—a—a—private secretary to a tenth-rate congressman!"

"Maybe you don't understand Leonora," suggested Mrs. Martin as a plausible way out of the difficulty.

The tramp up and down the room ceased and an apoplectic countenance was turned upon the lady with the fancywork—and John, the colored servant, who had come in to put on more coal, remarked to the cook a few minutes afterwards:

"Hi, de ole judge suttinly do take on when he lose his temper! Ef he could jes' stan' on an' hear hisself a ravin' an a pitchin' when he get riled he'd she'd put himself in de lock-up to dis-turbin' de peace!"

"Mrs. Martin, how do you suppose I have ever been able to obtain my present position at the bar without being a judge of human nature as well as of the law? Do you not know that I am considered the best judge of men in the state—that it has been remarked in the press that I have the faculty of reading men at a glance?—and do you insinuate that I am not able to judge a slip of a girl not 20 years old? Nonsense! I know all about it! I know that she is a perverse young woman, bent on her own destruction. If she marries a nobody like that secretary fly never see her again—never! No, madam, I will not!—Ah, here's my girl! Where have you been this morning, little kitten?

Little Kitten, leaning her head on his shoulder—"Down to the book store, Uncle Ad, to get that magazine you wanted."

Uncle Ad, radiant—"Ah, just see that! She barely heard me mention that magazine,—and yesterday it was to get my umbrella mended. She never forgets her old Uncle Ad, does she, pet?"

Pet twisting the topmost button of his coat and smiling up at him radiantly—"You were quarreling when I came in you know you were. Didn't you know that you are not allowed to quarrel? What was it about, sir? Tell me this instant!"

Uncle Ad, beginning to grow red again—"Oh, nothing at all. I am only amazed at your sister Ethel—simply amazed at her'—there, don't get excited, pet, it's nothing serious. I was merely remarking that if your sister took it into her head to marry a nobody like that Morris Gray, then I am done with her forever."

Pet, pretending to shake him by means of the button—"Oh, you—dreadful—old—ogre! You know you'd forgive her in a week!"

Ogre, furiously—"Forgive her, miss? What do you know about it? Only let her try it, that's all! I really think she'd be silly enough to do it; and now that I have warned her, I shall just leave her to think it over and act for herself. There, we'll not talk of it any more. Get the magazine and read me that article I was talking about."

Pet slowly opened the magazine and beginning to read, then pausing suddenly—"And you wouldn't forgive Leonora and her husband if they came and begged it, and said they were sorry?"

Ogre—"Never, Ethel, never! Have you ever known me to break my word."

Ethel—"How funny."

Mrs. Martin—"Five, six, sev—en—I there I'm go into the other room. I can't count when anybody is reading aloud."

The reader will suppose that a week has elapsed since the conversations just recorded, and that the gout has, to use an expression of John's, "got de one man floored." In this condition his temper is not angelic. John and the cook have agreed on that point, and the family have been equally certain of the fact in question. Leonora has heard the changes rung on her exasperating and ungrateful conduct, every one, and has been irritated, many times over, of the awful fate that awaits her if she persists in her present most astonishing and unwomanly course.

"I will never see her again," she hears the old judge roaring whenever she approaches the study. "No, Ethel, it is useless to ask it. If she persists in this insane course I will never see her again."

But having made this assertion for the hundredth time, until Leonora may be supposed to have grown somewhat accustomed to it the good gave him an extra twinge one day just as Miss Leonora came in smiling and rosy, and heard of this desperate future without a tremor.

"But why should I care?" roared the judge, pursuing his foot and his wrath with tenderness. "As you make your bed, so you must lie. Marry anybody you like, Miss! Marry the devil—"

"Oh, Uncle Ad!" cried Miss Leonora, rushing at him jubilantly. "Do you really mean that you are not going to try to make me marry Frank?"

"Make you marry?" shrieked Uncle Ad, wild with rage. "Don't be a fool, Leonora."

"Oh, Uncle Ad, I'm so glad, because you know I like Frank—and I think he likes me—in fact, we like each other—"

"What do you mean? What do you —as I live you minx, you are in love with Frank?"

Miss Leonora, with a prim and fetching air—"But, Uncle Ad, you knew I was not going to be made to marry anybody!"

Uncle Ad, limping wildly around the room—"Ha, ha, ha! The cunning little rascal! Mrs. Martin, come here! Think of her fooling her old uncle that way! Where's Ethel? John, call Ethel—I want her—I want her this minute. How surprised she'll be! You little hypocrite! That's the time I was taken in, I'll admit that. John, you idiot, what are you grinning at?"

John sober on the instant—"I wan't a-grinnin' seh. Please seh, Miss Ethel's note dat was jes' let at de do' by a white man seh."

Judge searching vainly for his spectacles, and unable to find them because they are on top of his head—"Confound these glasses! Here, Mrs. Martin, read this letter."

Mrs. Martin, reading "Dear Uncle Ad: Merris and I were married this morning at St. Paul's. We have been engaged ever since a month before Leonora came, and we didn't want to run away, but what else could we do? We know that you can never forgive us, so we won't ask it, and of course we'll be poor but we don't mind that. So, good-bye, dear old Uncle Ad, and dear Aunties and Leonora. Your Little Ethel."

The sensitive reader will please excuse himself for a few moments and leave the room until the worst of the storm has blown over. By this means he will return just in time to see the judge raging up and down with a limp and pallid look of agony, and to hear him roaring, lion-wise:

"Ethel, Ethel! That child! Why, I could have told every thought she ever had, from her cradle up! She was as transparent as glass madam! And here she has been engaged for months, under my very nose! Where did she find him? When did she see him? How did they ever have a chance to talk about love? And I believe Leonora knew all about it! Ah, look out her face! It makes a man doubt the evidence of his own senses when he can be circumvented, hoodwinked, deceived, by these girls in pinafores! And to deceive me—me!"

Mrs. Martin, innocently—"But, Mr. Martin, I thought it was Leonora that you didn't want to marry Mr. Gray. You never said a word about Ethel. If you didn't want Ethel to marry him, why didn't you say so?—and then, of course, I would have tried to prevent it, for anybody might have known that he and Ethel were in love with one another."

Judge staggering back and sinking into a chair—"Ha! Another! Mrs. Martin, do I understand anybody? Does any man understand any woman in the world? Are you a woman, with a mania for fancywork?—or, are you a female Sherlock Holmes, with a pebble in one pocket and a red eyelash in the other?"

He kicked at the stool before him, and then remembered his gout, with a shriek of anguish, and threw a magazine at John, who had forgotten to leave the room.

"Are you standing there grinning yet you Cheshire cat?" he cried. "Why haven't you gone after her, sir? Go and bring her back at once, do you hear?—at once! Who takes care of me like Ethel? Write a note Leonora, and tell her to come. I suppose you might as well tell Frank both to come," he added, grudgingly. "for just as likely as not she'd refuse to leave him. Nobody knows The man who thinks he understands women is a fool. Do you hear?—sixteen, seventeen, eigh—teen," murmured the female Sherlock Holmes.

"Yes, seh, I'll git 'em home, seh," said John, whose countenance was all one broad grin. "I knowed you wan't a goin' to hol' out no time."

"Another!" groaned the judge. "Another!" And after several minutes of silence, the judge, a very deeply humbled judge now, remarked meekly. "Angelina, that is a very pretty thing you are making. I don't think I ever noticed it before."

STATEMENT OF GERMAN WAGES WILL BE READ.

Washington, May 25.—An official statement of wages, now lodged in the state department, will be sent to the senate in accordance with a resolution introduced by Mr. La Follette today. Mr. La Follette desired the information contained in the document to assist in determining the differences in the production of this country and abroad.

Eddy Lectures at Wadena.

Wadena, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ex-Congressman F. M. Eddy delivered two lectures in this city the first of the week. His Sunday evening lecture at the Congregational church was his regular temperance lecture. This caused a great deal of comment and was very well received. Monday evening he spoke on the "Science of Fun," which was fully appreciated by his large audience.

RAILROAD STRIKE IS RACE WAR

Clash Between Whites and Blacks is Principal Issue.

Atlanta, Ga., May 25.—It is largely a race problem which will be presented to Commissioner of Labor Neill when he arrives in Georgia in an attempt to settle the Georgia railroad strike.

An immediate cause of the strike was the discharge of ten white firemen and the filling of their places by negroes. The demand of the firemen now is that the negroes be eliminated as far as possible from the Georgia railroad. The firemen argue that as negroes seldom or never become locomotive engineers, to hire them as firemen means the shutting out of white men from this indispensable apprentice ship for engineering positions. The strikers have not as yet demanded that all the negro firemen be supplanted by whites, but it is insisted that the seniority of white firemen over negroes be recognized. In respect to negro employes the railroad has taken the position that many of them have given faithful service and that the company cannot agree to lower the rank of those negroes. The race issue has been a growth since the strike, rather than the specific cause, which was the refusal of the railroad to sign contracts with the firemen involving various minor complaints.

Shortage of ice was one of the inconveniences imposed by the strike today. Wagons in Atlanta going fully twenty-five miles with ice. Vice President Ball of the firemen said today that there is no immediate prospect of the strike spreading to other roads on account of diversion of the Georgia railroad's traffic.

DEFENDS VOTE FOR IRON DUTY

Senator Stone Says Steel Corporation Will Not Profit.

Washington, May 25.—A defense of his vote for a duty of 25 cents on iron ore was made by Senator Stone soon after the senate met today. As a prelude to this statement Mr. Stone read from an interview with William J. Bryan, declaring that Democratic senators who had voted for the tariff on iron ore made a mistake. After an elaborate enunciation of his affectionate regard and respect for Mr. Bryan, Mr. Stone insisted that in this case he believed the famous Nebraskan to be in error and proceeded to give the arguments which had influenced him in reaching the conclusion that a "duty for revenue" should be levied upon iron ore.

Mr. Stone declared that he could see no way in which the United States Steel corporation could profit by the duty on steel and he believed the great iron ore product brought into this country had been made to yield revenue.

Burning Off the Right-of-Way.

The weed burning machine is being used to a great extent on the railroads in California, particularly in the sections where the fine climate and rich soil constantly produce a prolific crop of weeds. The machine is a gasoline burner, consuming between 75 and 100 gallons an hour under 100 pounds air pressure. It kills all vegetation on or near the surface, and for three or four feet beyond the ties on each side, covering about eighty miles a day. It is also well known fact that Golden Grain Belt beer is the ideal summer beverage. See that you are supplied with a case today. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company.

WEST VIRGINIA COAL STRIKE AFFECTS 6,000.

Charleston, W. Va., May 25.—According to reports received at the United Mine headquarters here early today the strike in the Kanawha coal field, ordered yesterday by President Ben Davis, is practically complete in the entire field except on Paint Creek, where an agreement is in force and at several other places. The mine officials claim that about 6,000 men are out.

MARINE NEWS

PASSENGER TRADE HIT

The Owners of Passenger Vessels Innocent Victims of the Strike.

Many Led to Believe It Is Unsafe to Travel.

Managers and agents of steamship companies operating lines of passenger vessels on the Great Lakes, are uneasy over the strike situation as affecting the early summer passenger trade.

While the strike is only between the Lake Carriers' association and the marine unions, it indirectly has a tendency to affect the passenger business.

The striking unions have scattered circulars in all ports of the Great Lakes warning all persons who are fair to organized labor to keep away from the lakes while the strike is on.

These circulars have been sent broadcast through most of the states bordering on the Great Lakes and especially west and southwest of Minnesota, through the territory from which a great part of the lake passenger traffic is secured.

Passenger men fear that these circulars will be wrongly interpreted by persons who are not familiar with the real lake situation.

A few inquiries have been received locally from out of town parties asking if it is safe to travel on the lakes until the strike is settled. The union efforts are directed toward keeping labor from coming to lake ports to take the place of strikers, and the passenger carriers are in no way involved.

SOME DELICATE MARINE SURGERY

New Section Welded on Shaft of Steamer Ionic.

A piece of marine surgery that is attracting considerable attention is being performed at the Grignon shipyards at the foot of Eleventh avenue west on the steamer Ionic, of the Northern Navigation company's line of package freighters.

The operation, which consists of welding five feet of new steel on the vessel's starboard propeller shaft, is one of the heaviest pieces of work ever attempted in Duluth.

The Ionic reached Port Arthur last week from Sarnia. The shaft was found to be so badly worn that it was in danger of breaking at any time. Divers were put at work at Port Arthur and hangers were placed under the stern to prevent the loss of the wheel in case the shaft parted.

The vessel came to Duluth light under her own steam, using the starboard wheel only for steering.

As soon as she arrived the Ionic was taken to the Grignon yards and her stern set in dry dock. The shaft, forty feet in length, was taken out and a new piece to which the wheel will be attached was welded on. The shaft is nine inches in diameter and weighs four and a half tons. The work was done yesterday under the direction of W. J. McFadden.

The Ionic is a sister ship of the Russia, which went down in Lake Huron during the recent storm. The vessel was built thirty-seven years ago. The repair work on the Ionic will be completed tomorrow and the vessel will be released at once to load for down-lake ports.

ADVERTISING FOR ENGINEERS

New York Newspapers Promise the Men Police Protection.

New York newspapers during the past week have carried in their want columns conspicuous advertisements for marine help to work under the open shop plan on the Great Lakes.

The ads offer work to engineers, firemen and seamen, the engineers being offered pay according to the tonnage shown by their licenses.

In the advertisement for seamen it is stated that armed deputies will furnish all needed protection for employes.

The marine unions say that this effort on the part of the lake carriers to man their vessels from salt water shows that they are not having the easy time in securing men they claim.

The Marine Engineers' Beneficial association maintains that the vessel-men will be compelled in a short time to give up their welfare plan and come to the union for chief engineers. The men of the Duluth local have for the most part secured other employment and their offices in the Manhattan building are closed the greater part of the time.

HOUGHTON RUN DISCONTINUED

Booth Steamer Will Make No More South Shore Trips.

The Booth line announce that after Friday of this week the passenger and freight service between Duluth and Houghton will be discontinued, the steamer C. W. Moore, leaving this port on her last trip on that day.

It was stated at the Booth offices this morning that the freight traffic has not been as heavy as anticipated and that the present and prospective business does not warrant the continuance of the run.

The crew of the Moore will be transferred to the steamer America, which will be put on the north shore run to Port Arthur and intermediate points in connection with the Easton. The Moore will remain in Duluth out of commission for the present.

Agents of lines connecting with the Moore at Duluth and Houghton have been notified that the service will be discontinued after May 28.

NEW RULES ARE MORE STRICT

Captains Must Keep a Log Book—Hatches Must Be Secured.

The local steamboat inspector has received copies of the new government rules for the inspection of lake vessels which are important to marine men.

Section 53 provides that it shall be the duty of masters of all loaded vessels to see that all hatches are properly covered and secured as soon as practicable after leaving port.

Section 52 provides that it shall be the duty of the master and the chief engineer of every steamer of more than fifty gross tons to keep a log book showing where the steamer navigated and dates of arrival and departure, as well as all occurrences of importance concerning which evidence may be required.

Another important rule reads as follows:

"No repairs or alterations affecting the safety of the vessel, either in regard to hull or machinery, shall be made without the knowledge of the local inspectors. Notice of such repairs and changes is necessary, even if such work does not require the vessel to be placed in dry dock and even if there are no licensed officers attached to the vessel."

This means that all repairs, even such temporary repairs as may be necessary at times, can only be made with the knowledge and consent of the local inspector.

Marine Notes.

In the collision last week at Buffalo between the Sonora and the L. S. De Graff, the latter vessel was damaged to the extent of about $2,000. The De Graff is owned by the Tonowanda Transit company and the Sonora by G. A. Tomlinson of Duluth. Both vessels have loaded at this port this season.

The Port Huron & Duluth Steamship company has chartered the steamer Binghamton of the Erie line to ply between Port Huron and Duluth in place of the ill-fated steamer Russia. It was first planned to charter the Anchor line steamer Japan. The crew of the Russia has gone to Buffalo to man the Binghamton.

James White of Buffalo has purchased from the Gray Transportation company the steamer Arizona and the schooner Scotia for $25,000. Both are well known lake vessels.

TIME AS AN UMPIRE

Will Render First Decision in the Grain Argument.

Wilson and Patten Agreed to Let Future Tell.

Chicago, May 25.—Private advices received here today stated that harvesting of wheat had begun in three counties of Texas, and that the yield would be fourteen or fifteen bushels to the acre on an average. H. E. Roycroft, a Chicago expert, however, declared that this estimate was 50 per cent too high, as prolonged drouth in the Lone Star state precluded such a yield.

The announcement did not affect prices in Chicago materially, as May wheat on the board of trade early sold at a new high price, $1.35¼. The first garnering of wheat each year begins in Texas at about this season, and is of importance chiefly as marking the beginning of the general harvest, sweeping in a gradually broadening path north with the advance of the season through the great winter wheat belt. From now on the hum of harvesting machinery will gradually swell, week by week, into the great midsummer of the Ohio and Missouri valleys. The winter sown crop gathered to the granaries, the spring wheat of the immensely productive Northern states follows until the last sheaf has been gathered from the broad acres of Manitoba in the latter part of August. This great forest of grain, when harvested, will leave an immense field of stubble, approximately 45,000,000 acres of accounts. The latest completed statistics made the yield 634,087,000 bushels in the United States in 1907. A similar yield this year would not, roughly, about that number of dollars. However, in many quarters it is asserted that this year's harvest will be under 800,000,000 bushels.

It is of interest in connection with the news from Texas to note that the course of the world's harvesting calendar strikes this country in mid-year. The world's harvest begins in January in the latitude of Australia, New Zealand, Chile and the Argentine, sweeps through Egypt, India, Mexico, Cuba and Asia Minor, until in May it takes in Texas, Central Asia, Japan and China. Thus, it works its way through the world's fertile spots until, in December, it finds itself back near the beginning point in Burma and New South Wales.

Even though the Texas returns never equal in importance those of the purely wheat states, and may be far under normal this year, the fact that harvesting has begun as usual affects the great point at issue between the bulls and bears of the Chicago wheat pit—will July be an old or new crop month?

"In July Chicago will be buying the wheat of the previous year," is a statement made by James A. Patten, at the height of his bull campaign in May wheat.

At this point Secretary of Agriculture Wilson took issue with the big speculator, and both finally left the controversy for "time to tell."

The news from Texas, therefore, is the first word of what the umpire "Time" has to say on the subject.

SELLING AT THE CLOSE

Eleventh-Hour Bulls Let Go and Wheat Goes Lower.

Flax Has a Sensational Bulge in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 25.—Selling by eleventh-hour bulls caused a weak close in wheat today. Until the middle of the session, the market had a firm tone, but after that, realizing sent prices off, the closing quotations being fractionally lower in Duluth and other American markets, except Chicago and Minneapolis, where July lost more than a point.

Flax had a sensational bulge here.

Liverpool closed ½@¾d lower. Paris 1¾c lower, Berlin ½c higher and Budapest 4½c higher.

The May option closed ⅝c lower in Duluth, ⅛c lower in Chicago, 1c lower in Minneapolis, ¾c higher in New York and ½c higher in St. Louis and Kansas City. The July option closed ⅝c lower in Duluth, 1⅛c lower in Chicago, 1@1⅛c lower in Minneapolis, ⅛c lower in New York and ⅝@¾c lower in St. Louis and Kansas City.

July corn closed ¼c higher in Chicago and oats ¼@⅝ up.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat market was firm at opening and values ¾ to 1d higher being influenced entirely by the strength in America yesterday. The market was at a time was well at the advance and later broke sharply, values losing ⅞ to 1¾d from the opening. Pressure resulted from general selling to realize, stimulated by the good rains reported throughout the United Kingdom and general rains in the drought districts of Southern Russia. The favorable weather reported in the American and Canadian Northwest and the continued favorable climatic conditions throughout the winter wheat territory, together with a poor demand for spot cargoes and parcels, encouraged profit taking. At midday, the market was weak and unchanged to ⅛d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was quiet at the start and unchanged. Later, July declined ⅝d in sympathy with wheat and the pressure to sell La Plata cargoes with a very small inquiry.

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 7 against 26 last year, and at Minneapolis 139 against 96 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 146 against 161 last year. Chicago received 8 against 86 last year. Winnipeg received 94 against 217 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 352,000 bu, last year 417,000 bu. Shipments 352,000 bu, last year 207,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour were 348,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 755,000 bu, last year 851,000 bu. Shipments 248,000 bu, last year 271,000 bu. Clearances of corn were 2,000 bu.

In Duluth, May wheat was inactive and closed ⅝c lower than yesterday at $1.31⅛. July wheat opened ⅝d lower at $1.31, advanced to $1.31¼, declined to $1.31⅛, rallied to $1.32⅛@⅜, dropped to $1.30⅝ and closed $1.32⅜, dropped to $1.30⅝ and closed $1.30⅝, a loss of ⅛c from yesterday. September wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.12⅝, declined to $1.12, rallied to $1.12⅜, and declined by the close to $1.12⅛, a loss of ⅛c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ⅛c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was sensationally strong at the close here. May flax went from $1.76½ to $1.81 and closed there, a gain of 4½c over yesterday. July flax opened ¼c lower at $1.74¾, advanced to $1.78¼ and closed there a gain of 3½c over yesterday. September flax advanced from $1.52 to $1.55¾ and closed there, a gain of 3¾c over yesterday. Other flax opened ½c lower at $1.45, advanced to $1.48 and closed at $1.47½, a gain of 2¼c over yesterday.

Barley was 2¼c higher and other cereal grains unchanged.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Profit Taking Causes a Break Near the Close.

Minneapolis, May 25.—The opening was about steady, and in midsession the lack of offerings made July advance to $1.32⅜, a new high point. Towards the end profit taking caused a break of nearly 2c. The close declared 57,000 bushels for three days, as compared with a decrease of 475,000 bushels for the corresponding time last year. Minneapolis today received 139 cars, against 96; Duluth 7, against 26; Winnipeg 94, against 217. September opened $1.12⅝, high $1.12⅝, low, $1.11⅞@1.11⅞, close, $1.12⅛@1.12⅜. July opened $1.31⅛@1.31⅜, high, $1.32⅜, low $1.30⅞, close, $1.30⅝@⅞. Cash wheat was fairly good demand. Country and local millers were both fair buyers. Inquiry was strong for the top grades. No. 1 northern sold for 2¢@4½¢ over July option, and No. 2 northern for 1½¢ to 2½¢ over No. 1 northern, spot and to arrive. No. 1 northern spot $1.32@⅜. No. 2 northern spot $1.32@⅜, to arrive $1.32⅜. No. 3 wheat, $1.30@1.31⅜. No. 2 yellow sold at 75@75½c. No. 3 white oats, 57½@58c. No. 2 rye, 83⅜@85⅜c.

Flax—Receipts, 4 cars today, against 16 shipments, 1. The market was quiet on account of the light offerings. The demand was fairly strong, cushers were the principal buyers. Prices were quoted at about ½c above the July option at Duluth. Closing price, $1.75⅝.

Barley—Receipts, 24 cars today, against 8 shipments, 4. A strong demand made the market steady. Offerings were fairly heavy. Inquiry was strongest for feeding grades. There were several sales made to outside market. Closing price, 70@75½c.

Millfeed—Shipments, 1,653 tons. The market continued very strong with demand far in excess of the supply. Bran in bulk, $24.00@24.50.

Flour was in only fair demand. Prices were advanced on account of the strong wheat prices. The present quotations are the highest in years. Orders were mostly for spot cars. Shipments were very light, 28,400 barrels. First patents, $5.60@5.70; second patents, $5.40@5.60; first clears, $4.60@5.25; second clears, $3.65@3.85.

PATTEN OUT OF DULUTH

Big Bull Disposes of Holdings of July Wheat Here.

Declares He Has Closed Out All of His Trades.

The report that James A. Patten, the big bull whose name has figured so prominently in the market has closed out his July wheat, was out of whack; altogether has been heard for some little time. Certain it is that he is out of the Duluth market.

Patten had bought quite a lot of July wheat in the Duluth market, but he has closed out his trades here. He does not own a bushel of Duluth wheat at the present time.

He disclaims the ownership of any wheat, saying that he has let go of his long line.

With the time for deliveries of May flax at hand and stocks at a very low ebb, the strength of the flax market, exemplified by the rise today in the Duluth market, is plain even to the eye of the layman.

Duluth May flax advanced steadily from yesterday's closing point, $1.76½, to $1.81 during the session today, a gain of 4½c over yesterday. July flax, which is also the old crop, bulged from $1.76¾ to $1.78.

September and October flax, which is the new crop for the most part, also advanced several points. September flax went from $1.52 to $1.55⅜, and October from $1.45 to $1.48, closing at $1.47½.

Deliveries of May flax to the Midland Linseed Oil Company of Minneapolis, which was long the seed in this market, will amount to about 250 carloads, valued at something like $375,000.

These deliveries represent about five trainloads, and they will be sent from Duluth all over the Omaha some time after June 5, when the milling-in-transit privilege goes into effect, permitting the shipper to take advantage of a lower rate.

Such a large shipment of flax to a Minneapolis crusher is due to the fact that there is a great shortage of flax, the market for the seed being quite as strong in its way as the market for wheat. Flax is selling around $1.81 per bu in Duluth, with receipts amounting to practically nothing. About all the old crop of flax that is being marketed, and until a new crop is harvested the market is bound to remain on a high level.

Duluth is the greatest flax market in the world and the Eastern crushers are quite as anxious to secure the seed this year as are the Western houses. Recently, more than 300,000 bushels of flax were imported direct from Fort William to Eastern ports of the United States, for Eastern crushers and as much more is to be similarly brought in.

Minneapolis puts were $1.28@1.28⅛ and calls $1.32⅜@1.32.

Chicago July puts were $1.19¼ and downs $1.16⅝.

Following is the weather forecast for the grain belt:

NEW RECORD FOR STEEL

United States Steel Common Reaches Another High Point.

Prices Sagged Back to the Lowest Near the Close.

New York, May 25.—The opening stock market today showed no distinct tone. Gains and losses of ⅛ to ¼ were almost universal and quite evenly divided. Dealings were small. A rise of 1 point in Denver & Rio Grande was the most conspicuous change.

The market drifted rather aimlessly in the second hour. Short reaction was preceded by a general rally after which the market eased off again. In only a few instances did the fluctuations exceed half per cent in the active stocks. Reading second preferred declined 1¾, National Lead 1½, United States Pipe 1¼ and Erie 1. Railway Steel Spring advanced.

Prices sagged in a dull and heavy market, but the movement was narrow except in the specialties. Minneapolis & St. Louis declined 2½, Western Maryland 1½, Chicago & Alton 1¼, and Delaware & Hudson, Long Island, Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Allis-Chalmers preferred 1. Canada Southern rose 3 and American Hide & Leather preferred, Bonds were steady.

There was no perceptible change in share values between 12 and 1 o'clock. St. Louis & San Francisco preferred and Tennessee Copper yielded a point. Prices began to harden slowly. Reading selling at its highest and Wabash preferred rising a point over yesterday's closing. Iowa Central sagged 1 and Crex Carpet rose 3½.

The market closed heavy and dull. United States Steel rose to 61, thus keeping up its daily successions for several days of new high records. St. Louis Southwestern preferred, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie and American Steel Foundries rose 1. From that prices sagged back in some cases to the lowest. Western Maryland gave way 3, and St. Paul and People's Gas 1.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 25.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 5@13 points, with the active months selling 9@11 points net higher, in response to better cables than expected and reports of too much rain. Trading was very active at the start, with old bulls rebuying and recent sellers covering, but the advance caused much realizing. There was considerable selling of July by leading spot interests. At 11 o'clock prices showed a gain of about 6 points.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 11.65; middling gulf, 11.90; sales, 100 bales. Futures closed barely steady; closing bids: May, 11.29; June, 11.11; July, 11.09; August, 10.96; September, 10.96; October, 10.85; November, 10.86; December, 10.88; January, 10.82; March, 10.84.

At the Scott mine developments are very satisfactory. On the 1,235-foot level, Mr. C. J. Stone writes that he will be greatly disappointed if this drift does not show up something very rich. The upraise continues in very high grade copper glance, and a great amount of lower grade ores. Mr. N. F. Hugo is now at Butte and we will soon know how soon the big machinery will be in place. The Butte-Alex Scott will soon have one of the finest operating plants in Butte. They have about 600 tons of ore on the stockpile, and one of the smelter company's samplers has been up at the mine to look over the ores, to see whether or not they should be sent direct to the smelters or to the concentrators first. This ore was taken out in the stages of development and must be shipped to make room for the ores now being hoisted.

There is no question as to the outcome of the Butte-Alex Scott Copper company's mines. They are opening up one of the best mines in Butte right now, and may soon start work on the other.

Butte & Superior is trading strong around $2.50 to $2.62. It is very active and any news from the mine will drive it along fast.

Ballaklava could not act better. This mine is a proven success and Delaware & Hudson so strongly recommend the purchase.

Copper Queen continues strong at $1.87. News is expected on the mill returns. This one can move along fast on good news.

Zenith Lead & Zinc was very active today at $1.87. This one is a dividend payer and is making a lot of zinc and lead. It should be bought for it is selling too low.

Carman holds around $1.75. No stock is more active when the general market is strong.

We are going to take orders for St. Mary's stock tomorrow. This mine is located only a short distance from the Red Warrior mine in the Star district. We have spent over $1,000 to find out about this proposition and believe no low priced issue now before us can begin to compare with it. A considerable amount of ore has been shipped from this property, and it runs high in silver, lead and copper. No big work has been done to date, but things will soon begin to move fast. People who know the property have been in my office putting in their orders before we even advertised it. Thousands of shares were subscribed for today through the other brokerage offices in Duluth. You know what this means. One office alone bagged us for 10,000 shares so that they could confirm to their people. Only a limited amount goes on the market at 30 cents. It should be the liveliest low priced stock ever put on in this city. You are taking another chance on the same kind of a proposition as the Red Warrior, located only a few hundred feet from this mine. Low priced stocks are in greater demand than any others, therefore we have concluded to handle this one from now on.

The mere fact that this office will handle it means that you stand a big chance to win from either a mine or market point of view.

To our customers outside of the city, you had better telegraph your orders in as soon as this paper reaches you if you want any of this issue. We expect by tomorrow noon it will all be subscribed for.

LATEST NEWS—Some of the stocks are strong and some are quite freely offered, but prices are without material change, as neither buyers or sellers seem particularly anxious to force changes either way. As a rule such conditions generally indicate lower prices unless news of exceptional character is received from the properties or a radical change takes place in the big markets.

Some time ago we sent a personal representative to the Star district to look over and report on the Red Warrior and Mowitza properties. While our party was there he wired us that Red Warrior was a big property and that Mowitza would undoubtedly develop into a big mine. Upon receiving this wire we wired our man to make an examination and get all the details regarding the St. Mary's group, a property that had just been brought to our attention. Our representative stayed in the camp over 30 days, spending a great deal of his time on the St. Mary's property, as well as examining it and comparing it with the other properties in the Star district. The report that we got was so favorable that we decided to take hold of the property at that time, but after giving the matter due consideration we thought best to send another representative, which we did. His report corroborated

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION —OF— ALLIE M. FERRIS PERSIAN COMPANY.

This is to certify that the undersigned, whose names are subscribed hereto, have associated themselves together for the purpose of organizing a corporation pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of the State of Minnesota for the year 1905, and of the Acts amendatory thereof, and have adopted and signed the following Articles of Incorporation:

ARTICLE 1.

The name of this corporation shall be "Allie M. Ferris Persian Company," and the general nature of its business shall be to acquire, hold, or deal in lands, tenements and hereditaments, and real, personal and mixed property; to sell, lease, mortgage or otherwise dispose of any of its properties or to improve the same, and to do any other lawful business, including the purchasing, holding and selling of investment securities or other personal property in the State of Minnesota and any other states and territories of the United States of America.

The principal place of business of this corporation shall be in the City of Duluth and State of Minnesota.

ARTICLE 2.

This corporation shall begin the 25th day of May, 1909, and shall continue for a period of thirty (30) years thereafter.

ARTICLE 3.

The names and places of residence of the incorporators are as follows: Alfred Jaques, Duluth, Minnesota; Theodore T. Hudson, Duluth, Minnesota, and M. L. Knutson, Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE 4.

The government of this corporation and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a board of three directors. Said directors shall be elected from among the stockholders at their annual meeting to be held on the first Monday in May of each year. Each director shall hold office for one year and until his successor is elected and qualified.

The following named persons shall constitute the first Board of Directors, viz.: Alfred Jaques, Duluth, Minnesota; Theodore T. Hudson, Duluth, Minnesota, and M. L. Knutson, Duluth, Minnesota, and shall hold office until the first annual meeting and until their successors are elected and qualified. A majority of the directors shall have power to fill any vacancy occurring in the Board between annual meetings.

The officers of the corporation shall be a President, Secretary and Treasurer. The officers shall be elected at the first meeting of the Board of Directors and thereafter at the first meeting after the annual election, and shall hold office until their successors are chosen by the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE 5.

The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be $10,000, divided into one hundred (100) shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each and shall be paid in at such time or times as may be determined by the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE 6.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject is $10,000.

The Board of Directors shall adopt a common seal and shall have power to adopt By-Laws and Rules for the regulation of the business and affairs of this corporation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, The undersigned have hereunto set their hands and seals this 21st day of May, A. D. 1909.

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR PROBATE OF WILL—

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis, ss.

IN PROBATE COURT.

In the Matter of the Estate of Addie S. D. Baldwin, Decedent.

A CERTAIN INSTRUMENT, Purporting to be the Last Will and Testament of Addie S. D. Baldwin, having been presented to this Court, and the petition of H. D. Dox and Josephine Morse being duly filed herein, representing among other things that said decedent, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died testate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, on the 13th day of May, 1909, and that said petitioner, H. D. Dox is the father of said decedent and that no one was named or appointed in said will as executor thereof, and praying that said instrument be allowed and admitted to probate as the Last Will and Testament of said decedent, and that letters of administration with the will annexed be issued to C. O. Baldwin thereon.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Courthouse in Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 14th day of June, 1909, at 10 o'clock a. m., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this order be served by publication in the Duluth Evening Herald according to law, and that a copy of this order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., May 17, 1909.

DEFAULTS HAVE BEEN MADE IN the conditions of a mortgage containing a power of sale, executed and delivered by Alice E. Wilkinson and Eugene J. Wilkinson, her husband, mortgagors, to N. F. Hugo, mortgagee, bearing date the 5th day of February, 1908, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 5th day of February, 1908, at three o'clock and forty-five minutes P. M. in book 246 of mortgages, on page 289, which mortgage was given to secure the payment of three principal notes all signed and delivered by the mortgagors, two for one hundred dollars each, due on the 1st day of February, 1909, and the 1st day of February, 1910, respectively, and one for three hundred dollars due on the 1st day of February, 1911, all of said notes bearing interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the 1st days of February and August in each year. Said mortgage provided that should default be made in any of the provisions thereof, it should be lawful for the mortgagee to declare the whole sum secured by said mortgage due and foreclose said mortgage. Said defaults consist in the failure to pay the principal note for one hundred dollars which became due and payable on the 1st day of February, 1909, and in the failure to pay the interest, which became due upon all of said notes on the 1st day of August, 1908, and in the failure to pay the interest, which became due on all of said notes upon the 1st day of February, 1909, no part of any said sums having been paid, and said defaults having continued to the date of this notice, said mortgagee hereby declares the whole of said sum secured by said mortgage and accrued interest thereon due. The amount claimed to be due and which is actually due at the date of this notice is the sum of five hundred sixty-four and 30-100 dollars, and the further sum of twenty-five dollars attorney's fees stipulated in said mortgage. No action at law otherwise has been commenced for the recovery of the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof and whereas said power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative;

NOW, THEREFORE, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, viz:

Lot six in block ninety-nine, London addition to Duluth, according to the plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the register of deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, said real estate being in St. Louis County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County and State, on the 7th day of July, 1909, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of Five Hundred Sixty-four and 80-100 Dollars, and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five Dollars, Attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

AMERICAN HORSE OUT

Sir Martin, Ridden By "Skeets" Martin, Falls at Epsom.

Great Enthusiasm When King Edward's Horse Wins Derby.

Epsom, May 26.—The Epsom derby, the classic event of the English turf and the blue ribbon feature of the racing season, was run here today and won by King Edward's Minoru. In this victory the famous bay colt has made history today being the first occasion on which the greatest of all flat races on the turf has been won by an animal belonging to a reigning monarch. W. Raphael's Lemberg was second and Lord Michelham's William the Fourth, was third.

The American crack Sir Martin, owned by Louis Winans, an American resident of London, and tried at Kempton by John E. Madden of which, so much was expected, was bowled in the race and had down. He was ridden by Jockey Skeets Martin.

Magdalene Moore scored his victory by a head only, while half a length divided the second and third horses. The victory of the King's horse was greeted by an outburst of enthusiasm, the equal of which never has been witnessed at Epsom.

Minoru is a bay colt by Cyllene out of Mother Siegel and is consequently a full brother to Perola, the winner of the Oaks.

SPRECKELS' SONS MAKE PROTEST

Sons Who Were Ignored In Will Sue to Get Money.

San Francisco, Cal., May 26.—The contest involving the estate of the late Claus Spreckels, the sugar magnate, who left a vast fortune, divided among his children, three of his children to the exclusion of two sons, who he knew, according to a decision by Probate Judge Coffey.

The matter of the bar is the demurrer filed by John Spreckels and Adolph Sprecekels to the petition for a Adolph Sprecekels to the petition for a Rudolph distribution entered by Rudolph and Claus Spreckels, executors under the will.

The grounds are the two children ignored by the terms of the will, and the argument in the demurrer may be the first step in a great will contest in California.

UNITED PRESBYTERIANS CONVENE IN KNOXVILLE.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 26.—The thirty-first annual general assembly of the United Presbyterian church will convene in this city tomorrow. The sessions will be held in the auditorium of the Knoxville college erected, as institution, under control of the United Presbyterians. Rev. W. J. D. Carson of Indiana, Pa., is moderator of the assembly, and will deliver an annual address. Rev. H. S. Somerville will be elected to the moderator's chair at the first meeting of the general assembly of this church in the south.

TRY TO PREVENT SPREAD OF STRIKE

GOVERNOR HOKE SMITH.

Atlanta, Ga., May 26.—The problem of how to save the other railroads of the South from the spread of the Georgia railroads firemen's strike with its disquieting negro problem, was one of the most troublesome issues presented at the conference here today between United States Commissioner of Labor Charles P. Neill, Governor Smith, General Manager T. K. Scott of the railroad and Vice President Ball of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

In view of the race question involved the widely separated residences of three of the parties to the negotiations was noteworthy. Mr. Ball is from Toronto while Washington is represented by Mr. Neill and Georgia by Mr. Scott and Governor Smith.

NORTH OUT DUE TO ROW

Census Director Resigns, Following Controversy With Nagel.

E. Dana Durand of California Is Named to Succeed Him.

Washington, May 26.—S. N. North, director of the census, has tendered his resignation to President Taft and it was accepted today. E. Dana Durand, deputy commissioner of corporations, has been named to succeed Mr. North, whose resignation is a direct result of his recent controversy with Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel. The following statement in connection with the case is given out from the White House:

"Director North tendered his resignation as director of the census. It was accepted and the name of E. Dana Durand, new deputy commissioner of corporations, has been sent in the senate to succeed him. Mr. North's resignation was based on the ground that on account of conditions existing and likely to continue, his administration of the census office would not probably be successful."

S. N. D. NORTH.

Mr. Durand is from California. He has been in the bureau of corporations

THINK ROBBER IS CAPTURED

St. Paul Police Believe They Have Chisholm Safe Blower.

St. Paul, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the arrest, last night, of Shillings charged with John Hennessy with having robbed a Great Northern boxcar in transit, the police believe they have the man wanted in Chisholm for blowing a safe there last Friday. The description tallies, they say, with that of the safe-blower, sent out by the Chisholm authorities. Shillings and Hennessy, it is charged, boarded the freight train at Cambridge and rooted a boxcar of fifty pairs of shoes. They were arrested upon arrival here last night by Special Officer Welsh and will be given a hearing in the police court this afternoon.

PUSHING HIM OFF.

CHICAGO SHAKEN HALF A MINUTE

Flames Start at Aurora, Ill., After the Town Has Been Jarred.

Buildings of Beloit College Tremble--- Milwaukee Feels Quivers.

Sweeping four states, crossing Lake Michigan, swaying the walls of the buildings of a college, causing fires and creating panic and more or less damage in all directions, a series of earthquake shocks were experienced between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning. Dixon, Ill., and towns in that vicinity were apparently hardest hit, the shock thereabouts lasting three minutes. Chicago felt the quake for half a minute, and in Milwaukee pictures were swayed on walls. The limits of the earthquake area are Milwaukee at the north, Davenport, Iowa, at the west, towns just south of the middle line of Illinois at the south, and Kalamazoo and nearby towns in Michigan at the east. The buildings of Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., were shaken, and in Aurora, Ill., fires were started by the earth shocks. No loss of life is reported.

Chicago, May 26.—An earthquake shock lasting only a few seconds was felt in the states of Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and contiguous territory beginning at 8:41 this morning. Early reports covered a territory from Springfield, Ill., through Davenport, Iowa, and Janesville, Wis., to Muskegon, Mich.

Reports of the vibrations, but recording no material damage, were received from the following cities: Beloit, Wis.; Peoria, Kewanee, Rockford, Joliet, Dixon, Streator, Galena, Freeport, Bloomington, Moline, Elgin, Aurora, Springfield, Ill., and from Janesville Wis.; Davenport and Dubuque, Iowa, and Muskegon and Kalamazoo, Mich.

Throughout the territory affected the only damage reported was of a minor nature. Several small fires were started by the overturning of stoves and many chimneys were razed. Aurora, Ill., suffered particularly in this respect.

In this city the shock was generally felt, but in a great majority of cases was attributed to ordinary causes such as the passages of street cars, elevated trains, blasting on the distant quarries or the passage of structural iron on big trucks through the streets. It was not until newspapers made their appearance with the story that the public learned that they had passed through a natural phenomenon.

Damage in Chicago and elsewhere was confined to the breaking of dishes and ornaments shaken from mantel pieces or tables. No fires of material consequence were reported. In the outskirts of the city several small fires were started, but were extinguished by the householders themselves.

During the period of the vibration it was almost impossible to get correct telephone connections, owing to the swaying of the wires against each other.

At Beloit, Wis., all the college buildings rocked violently. Many persons experienced difficulty remaining on their feet.

At Joliet, chairs and other light objects were overturned and at Dixon gas fires were shaken out. At South Haven and Benton Harbor, Mich., windows rattled violently and much china was broken. At Dubuque, Iowa, the vibration seemed to have the effect of two shocks. Davenport, Iowa, also felt two shocks, the first being the more violent.

The delicate instruments of the weather bureau were not disarranged. It is said that the shock was not felt at the street level, but was noted at the second and higher floors of buildings.

Prof. Cox, the weather forecaster, said the lights in his office swung from north to south during the shock and that the chairs and light desks showed the effects of the vibration.

Although the disturbance was felt everywhere in this city, it was not until newspapers were on the streets that citizens were correctly informed of what had happened. At first the vibrations were laid to passing street cars or building operations, which uncommonly slightly shake buildings. A young woman stenographer in the federal building thought that somebody had come up behind her and given the chair a shake.

"You stop that," she said, and turned around, only to discover that there was nobody behind her, and that the rest of the office force was observing the sway of a large chandelier.

Milwaukee Pictures Swerve.

Milwaukee Wis., May 26.—An earth shock, lasting about fifteen seconds, at 8:40 this morning was felt in the office of the weather bureau in the federal building, this city. Pictures hanging on the walls of the weather bureau were caused to swerve considerably. The shock was also felt in other parts of the city. No damage is reported here.

At Wisconsin's Capital.

Madison, Wis., May 26.—A slight earthquake shock was experienced at 8:38 this morning. The shock was noted at the local weather bureau and at the Washburn observatory at the university, but there are no instruments in the city for recording shocks.

Prof. William H. Hobbs, an expert on earthquakes and a former instructor at the university, and now with the University of Michigan who is a guest of President and Mrs. Van Hise, declared this morning that he noted three distinct shocks. He said it was possible the shocks were caused by a more violent disturbance in some portion of the world.

Reports from within a radius of sixty miles show that the tremors were felt in those sections, and were more or less pronounced. At one of the railroad stations in this city the solution was spilled from the batteries under the telegraph table. Residences along Lake Mendota were shaken up considerably.

Whole Valley Shaken.

Beloit, Wis., May 26.—The entire Rock river valley experienced an earthquake shock this morning at 8:40. Reports of a like happening came to Beloit from Rockford (Ill.).

All the college buildings rocked violently, and houses throughout the city

AMATEUR SHOW FOR ROOSEVELT

Governor Issues Invitations for Reception in His Honor.

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 26.—Theodore Roosevelt and the members of his party came into Nairobi today from the Heatley ranch, where they have been hunting. Tonight and tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt will be the guest of F. J. Jackson, acting governor of the protectorate. For the remainder of his stay here he will occupy George McMillan's town house, loaned for the occasion. The naturalists of the party, together with R. J. Cunningham, who has charge of the expedition, will stop at the Norfolk hotel. The party will leave here before the end of July. A public banquet will be tendered Mr. Roosevelt in Nairobi about the first of August.

The expedition will be accompanied to the Sotik country by L. J. Tarlton.

Governor Jackson has issued invitations to a reception to meet Mr. Roosevelt Thursday night, and he will entertain the former president of the United States at dinner on Saturday. After the dinner Mr. Roosevelt will attend an amateur theatrical entertainment.

Uprising of Peasants.

Madrid, May 26.—An uprising of the peasants similar to that which occurred a few years ago in Andalusia is now threatened in Galiacia, where the country people are reported to be burning the crops and the forests.

THROUGH A SKYLIGHT

Henry Hubbard Is Unhurt in a Fourteen-Foot Fall.

Not Even Scratched in Crashing Through Panes of Glass.

Falling fourteen feet from the top of a ladder, and before alighting crashing through a skylight, was the experience of Henry Hubbard, a West Duluth painter in the employ of Fleischer Bros., of 503 North Central avenue. The accident happened yesterday afternoon, and Hubbard was not even scratched, much to the wonder of himself and those who saw him fall.

He was painting on the structure at Fifty-seventh avenue west and Grand avenue, which is to be used for the new quarters of the Oriental Tea company next month. A strong gust of wind was the cause of the ladder being blown out from under him.

Mr. Hubbard facetiously said that he had intended to come down a minute later anyway, as the paint in his pail was nearly used. He was not injured.

LAURINE FUNERAL.

Services Will Be Held Thursday From West End Church.

The funeral services of Camille Laurine, who died yesterday morning at the Duluth hospital, will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from St. Jean Baptiste church, with interment at Calvary cemetery.

He was 65 years of age, and at the time of his death was making his home with a niece, Mrs. John Murray, 4221 Magellan street. He was a member of the A. O. U. W. lodge at Walhalla, N. D.

BANQUET TO GRADUATES.

Pupils of Longfellow School Will Be Dined By Alumni.

The annual banquet of the Longfellow Alumni association will be held tomorrow evening at the school, all arrangements having been completed to make the event one to be long remembered. The graduating class of the Longfellow school will be guests of honor.

Curtis Slicer is toastmaster for the occasion. Julia Carlson will be called upon to toast the members of the graduating class and a response will be given in return by a member of the class.

Miss Adeline Buckley will talk on methods leading to a stronger organization of the alumni and Laura Govett has been assigned the subject of "Rule in the School of Life." Clarence Fleischer is also on the list of speakers.

A musical program has been arranged. Ragnar Larson will give a violin solo, accompanied at the piano by Miss Pauline Solem. Miss Solem will also give a piano solo and the Misses Mabel and Florence Molin will be heard in a piano duet. There are other musical numbers.

C. O. F. MEETING.

West Duluth Court Will Be Represented at State Convention.

A regular meeting of St. James court, No. 614, C. O. F., was held last evening in Gilley's hall. This was the last meeting to be held previous to the state convention of the order, which will be held in Little Falls June 8. The local court will be represented by Joseph Bellmeur. A number of matters of interest were discussed at the meeting last night, at which the delegate-elect was present. St. James court has the honor of holding the highest office in the state, that of state chief ranger, being held by P. H. Martin. The other courts of the order in the city will also be represented by delegates, and all will work together for some needed changes in the state constitution.

Looking For Game.

THREW BRICK AT NEWSBOY

Carl Youngberg Used Strenuous Methods to Collect One Cent.

Brick Hit a Policeman and Carl Is Fined $12.

Because, he claims, a newsboy short-changed him 1 cent, Carl Youngberg last evening threw a brick at the youngster. The brick missed its mark, and struck a policeman. Youngberg was arrested, and was found guilty of disorderly conduct, in municipal court, this morning. He was fined $10 and costs, with ten days in jail as an alternative. Up to noon he had not paid his fine.

"They learn early in life to go after the money here in Duluth," said Youngberg, in court. "I object to being held up, even if the amount is no more than 1 cent. It's the principle of the thing I object to. I asked the kid how much he wanted for a paper, and he said 2 cents. I gave him a nickel, and he gave me 2 cents back. I asked for the other cent, and he started to run away, so I tried to collect it."

Youngberg's collection methods were rather rough. The incident happened on Superior street, just west of Fifth avenue, where two new buildings are in the course of construction. Not wishing to enter a foot race with the newsie, with the prize only 1 cent for the winner, Youngberg reached down and picked up a piece of brick. He threw it at the boy, and the missle landed against the leg of Police Officer Mason, who promptly took the man in tow, and landed him in the police station, on a disorderly conduct charge. Trying to collect the cent, cost Youngberg about $12, and the newsboy has the cent.

THE CASES ARE PILING UP

Two more complaints in actions for damages against W. G. Crosby of Duluth, John M. McClintock of Collinsville, Ohio, and Edward W. Barnes of Portland, Or., were filed in the United States court this morning.

They are brought by Narsis Janie Hickman and V. Ellar Fishor, daughters of James Rogers, and each demands separate damages to the amount of $10,000.

The complaints are almost identical with those formerly filed by other heirs of James Rogers. Fraud is alleged on the part of defendants in obtaining quit claim deeds from the several heirs to valuable mineral land on the Mesaba range, described as 120 acres in 28-58-20.

James Rogers died intestate leaving a widow and thirteen children. Several of the heirs at law have commenced action for damages, and the total amount demanded against the defendants, in the cases already pending in the United States court, is in excess of $500,000.

MASS MEETING ON PARK POINT

Place for Laying Cement Sidewalk to Be Determined.

There is a difference of opinion among Park Point property owners as to whether the new cement sidewalk, to be laid between Twentieth and Thirty-eighth avenues, along the point, shall be close to the lot lines, or near the center of the street.

The question will be taken up at a mass meeting of interested property owners, which has been called for next Friday evening, May 28, at Mission hall, on Twenty-eighth street. The walk, which will measure five feet in width, will be laid on the east side of the street.

FIRST STEP IN CAMPAIGN

Anti-Tuberculosis Committee Planning for a Sanitarium.

Will Ask County Board to Appoint Permanent Commission.

Steps are to be taken immediately toward the selection of a site for the proposed county sanitarium for the care and treatment of those suffering with tuberculosis. This was decided at a meeting held this afternoon at the Commercial club of the sub-committee appointed recently by the anti-tuberculosis committee of Duluth.

This committee consists of T. W. Hugo, Dr. John Jakola, G. A. Gray, Dr. W. R. Bagley and Mrs. J. L. Washburn. Dr. Jakola and Mrs. Washburn were absent, but their places were taken by B. P. Neff and Dr. Tuohy.

Members of this committee will appear before the board of county commissioners at its next regular session early in June, with a petition, urging that a permanent anti-tuberculosis commission be established.

The last legislature passed an act authorizing counties to establish such a commission. Support of the sanitarium is provided for by authorizing a special levy not exceeding four-tenths of a mill on the assessed valuation.

The committee that met this afternoon has spent some time in looking for a good site for a sanitarium. A tract of not less than 160 acres where the climatic conditions are best suited to the treatment of the disease, is desired. A location that it is believed will answer all the requirements, has been found a short distance north of Duluth.

This committee has no authority to purchase land, but it will urge the county board to appoint the commission as soon as possible and allow the work to get under way this summer.

The plan is to provide accommodations for all who apply for admission. Those who are able to pay for treatment will be charged a stated sum and such as are unable to pay will be treated free.

CAN SHIP BY NEW ROUTE

Freight Service Will Soon Be Inaugurated on Milwaukee Extension.

Within ten days the Duluth jobbers and shippers will be afforded the opportunity of shipping goods to the Pacific coast over the Chicago Milwaukee & St Paul railway. Announcement of the fact that published tariffs of the freight rates from Duluth and Duluth rate points to Seattle, would be in the hands of shippers within the time mentioned, was made at the Duluth office of the railway today.

Up to the present time the road has not been open to the coast, but within the time specified the road to the coast will have been completed, and freights will be routed through from this city via connecting lines to St. Paul to Seattle and Tacoma and Pacific coast points.

The opening of the Milwaukee means a Duluth transcontinental line for Duluth. It also will result in more through freight coming through the Duluth harbor on its way to Pacific coast points.

The opening of the through freight service of the Milwaukee also gives added territory to the Duluth jobbers.

At the present time the Duluth jobbing houses are shipping goods all the way to the coast. The competition of the Pacific coast houses have not prevented the Duluth houses from entering the territory west of Montana, and the new line will improve the service and widen the field.

The Milwaukee Pacific coast extension is practically completed at the present time. The branch to Tacoma is also completed. The inauguration of freight service will precede the opening of regular through passenger service. It is the intention of the officials of the railroad to have the road in perfect operating order before the inauguration of the regular through passenger service to coast points. It is not believed the through passenger service will be inaugurated before the first of the year.

BOUNDARY STEAMERS ARE NOW RUNNING.

The boats Koochiching and Itasca are now running between International Falls and Baudette and Spooner. These boats carry both freight and passengers and touch at all the towns upon the American side of the Rainy river.

The inauguration of the boat service between the American towns of Baudette and Spooner and International Falls will permit of freight from Duluth being shipped to many points upon the Rainy river that are difficult to reach by rail.

The Koochiching leaves International Falls on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and returns to the Falls every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The Itasca leaves the Falls Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 8:30 a. m., returning Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 5:30 a. m.

"PORK BARREL" LAW SUIT TO BE STARTED AT ONCE.

St. Paul, Minn. May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former Attorney General Douglas today confirmed the report, recently published, that legal proceedings would be commenced by him on behalf of Senator L. O. Cooke of Wabasha county, to prevent the carrying out of the provisions of the "pork barrel laws." He said the suit would be brought in the district court of Ramsey county with all possible haste.

Johnny Nichols Dies.
Johnny Nichols, a 15-year-old negro boy, who has been suffering for the past seven months with cancer of the lungs, died at St. Mary's hospital yesterday. Despite his affliction, he always has seemed bright and happy and smiled his way into the hearts of the nurses and patients. His mother, a widow will make her future home at Virginia, Minn.

Suit Over Contract.
P. M. Cadot yesterday started a suit in district court against J. A. Roberts for $2,000. The trouble arose over the subletting of a contract. Cadot says Roberts was to sublet the plumbing and heating contracts in the Salter school to him, and that instead of doing this the sub-contract was let to the Kealy-McFadden company. Cadot claims his profits would have amounted to $2,000, and for this sum he is suing the contractor.

Meeting of Bankers.
Members of the Eighth district group of the Minnesota State Bankers' association will meet in annual convention at Cloquet tomorrow. There will also be some visiting bankers in attendance from other parts of the state.

Two New Directors.
The Great Northern Power company has added W. A. McGonagle and Frank A. Brewer to its board of directors. There is a total of fifteen members on the board. The directors, in company with Eastern bankers who are interested in the water power development, yesterday visited the power plant and dam on the St. Louis river.

Invited to Denver.
Mayor Haven yesterday received a communication to the effect that Duluth has the privilege of sending ten delegates to the Trans-Mississippi congress meeting at Denver, Colo., Aug. 16 to 21. The Panama canal will be one of the principal topics up for discussion. Probably one or more delegates from Duluth will attend the meeting, but it is hardly likely the full ten will go.

Park Pointers, Take Notice!
Special meeting at Mission hall, Twenty-eighth street, Friday night, May 28, for benefit of residents. Property owners on Minnesota avenue, Lower Duluth, to voice their sentiment as to where the new cement sidewalk will be located. Majority rules.

Dancing Party.
The Young Men's Social club entertained at a dancing party last evening at the Lincoln Park pavilion. The prize waltz was won by Mrs. Curtis and Mr. Cookemen.

Fire Chief Operated On.
John T. Black, chief of the fire department, who was operated upon at St. Luke's hospital Monday night for appendicitis, is reported as resting easily this afternoon. The operation was a successful one and Mr. Black will soon be able to be out, according to attending physicians.

Will Hold Card Party.
Court No. 797, West Duluth lodge of Foresters, will hold a card contest after the regular business session of the lodge tomorrow evening. Prizes will be given to the winners.

WILL TAKE EIGHT DAYS

Duluth Boys Expect to Reach St. Paul in That Time.

Will Sleep Around Fire and Cook Meals En Route.

The coming hike to St. Paul is perhaps the all-absorbing topic of conversation at the Boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. now, and every day sees additions to the list of boys who plan to make the trip.

The start will be made from the Boys' department building Monday, June 7, one week earlier than was originally planned. With their packs on their backs and otherwise equipped for roughing it out of doors, the party will leave the building at 9:30 in the morning.

The boys do not intend to break any walking records, but eight days later, if not sooner, they expect to call upon Governor Johnson at the capitol in St. Paul.

On the way the hikers will take in the sights, and they expect to have a jolly time of it. They will cook their own meals en route, and when night comes they will sit around a big bonfire and swap stories. At bedtime they will roll up in their blankets and speed away to slumberland, under the stars.

At St. Paul, in addition to their call upon the governor, the members of the party will be the guests of the cabinet of the Boys' department of the St. Paul Y. M. C. A. They will also visit in Minneapolis.

The return trip will be by train. In all the boys expect to be gone about ten days. The expedition will be in charge of Norman D. McLeod, secretary of the boys' department, and J. R. Batchelor, physical director.

A meeting of those who have signified their intentions of going will be held Saturday, at 3 o'clock. Up to date, the personnel of the hikers is as follows: William Eklund, Harvard Rockwell, Walter Glass, Rex St. Clair, Charley McKinley, Ralph Dunning, Byron Clifford, Louis Bergtold, Arthur Roecker, Winfield Davis, Whitney Wall, David Wanless, Earl Russell, Albert Colding, Louis Ardouin, Dale Bayman, Bertram Greene, Laurence Duby, Helmer Peterson, Roger Whiteside.

The annual picnic of the Knights of Sir Galahad will be held Saturday at Lakewood. The party will leave the boys' department at 9:30, take the car to Lakeside and walk from there to the picnic grounds. Each member will bring his own lunch, and the committee will make chocolate. After luncheon, there will be a baseball game and other sports.

Every day more boys are entering the backyard cleaning contest, which is being conducted by the boys' department. Any boy in the city is eligible to enter. The inspection will take place July 1, and the prize will be awarded to the boy who shows the most attractive yard.

NUDE, BUT NOT ASHAMED OF IT

Little Everett Wesley Walker Gets Into Baby Contest.

Everett Wesley Walker, 8 months, resides with his parents at 231 Fifty-second avenue west.

Everett Wesley, without very much on, is entered in the Borden Baby contest, which is attracting attention not only in Duluth, but everywhere. The Herald goes throughout several states. Babies from Port Huron, Missaba and Negaunee are being entered in the contest.

EVERETT WESLEY WALKER.

The Borden company has made arrangements for the pictures of babies to be taken free in three photographers' studios in Duluth and Superior, but the pictures need not necessarily be taken at those studios. Any cabinet sized picture may be entered in the contest, so that makes it possible for the out-of-town readers of The Herald to enter their children in the contest.

WOMAN BURNED, DEATH RESULTS

Elderly Lady Visiting Daughter Is Victim of Terrible Accident.

Mandan, N. D., May 26.—A most horrible accident occurred Sunday morning at the F. W. Leaf home, twenty-seven miles southwest of Sims. Mrs. Leaf's mother, a lady of 61 years of age, who had recently come from Iowa to visit her daughter, was alone in the house with the children for a time, and suddenly the little ones came running out to their parents crying that "grandma" was on fire.

They rushed in and found her a mass of flames and though they extinguished them at once and a physician was secured as soon as possible, she died from the shock and the torturing pain before he arrived. She was unable to tell how the accident occurred, being unconscious from the time they found her, but it is thought she must have lifted the kettle from the stove and the wind blew the flames in such a manner as to catch her apron, the whole mass of clothing igniting at once. The remains were shipped to Elkader, Iowa, from which place Mrs Hartman had come five weeks ago.

RUNAWAY FATAL.

Madison Lake, Minn., May 26.—Julian Schwain, 80 years old, died at his home north of here as the result of a runaway accident. His horse became frightened at some approaching automobiles and his carriage was overturned.

Bad Temper--Wrong Food

Hard To Be Pleasant With Sour Stomach or Aching Head.

No man is proud of a poor day's work. No man prides himself on a nasty exhibition of temper. No woman wishes for a foul breath or a sallow complexion or for a perspiration with offensive odor. Yet you, dear reader, may have all these. Our friends do not always tell us of our physical shortcomings—they bear with us and excuse our faults.

Know Thyself. Health spells success and happiness. Ill health makes many a man and woman misunderstood. Drugs, impure air, darkness, bad water, bad food or good food mixed badly—all injure the body because they set up destructive chemical processes.

E-C Corn Flakes or Egg-O-See Wheat Flakes are good foods—neither will mix badly in the stomach. A breakfast of these crisp, delicious, tasty flakes with cream or milk and fruit starts the day right, and often these sensible breakfasts have restored to normal a physical frame racked by the poisons of rich, heavy foods that sour and destroy instead of digest and build up.

Remember it is only the famous Egg-O-See process that makes E-C Corn Flakes and Egg-O-See Wheat Flakes so delicious and healthful.

WILL ENFORCE LIQUOR LAWS

North Dakota Attorney General to Move Against Sheriffs.

Bismarck, N. D., May 26.—Sheriffs of several counties in North Dakota are promised special attention in a short time by Attorney General Andrew Miller, who is the Nemesis of the illegal liquor trade in this state. Mr. Miller announced that he would move in a short time against the sheriffs of counties where violations of the law are most flagrant.

"The state legal department has been crowded with other work since I took hold the first of the year," said Mr. Miller, "but I will take some active steps very soon to stop violations of the law in the few bad spots of the state. At present I have but one assistant, but the legislature has provided another for me, who will begin work July 1, and then I will have more time to organize the special work of enforcing the liquor laws. I am arranging now for the appointment of special assistants in several counties, where the local authorities are neglecting to act."

GRAND FORKS MAN IS MYSTERIOUSLY MISSING.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 26.—Fred Rebe, who was employed at the Johnson & Nelson Monumental works of De Mers avenue, suddenly disappeared a week ago and nothing has been heard of him since. Mr. Nelson, who was working with him, sent him to the backyard a week ago last Saturday to get an ax. He waited some time for Rebe to return and then went to the rear door, but he was not in sight and has not been seen since. Rebe was a single man and recently was injured when struck over the head by E. St. George at the Ashley livery barn.

LOG SUPPLY EXHAUSTED.

Mill at Thief River Falls Is Forced to Close Down.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local sawmill was forced to shut down for the reason that the supply of logs ran out in the pond. The drives have not yet been carried across the Red lakes and thus the mills on this stream, Red Lage river, are unable to continue their usual run.

It is expected that logs will be towed across the lake this week and that the mill may resume operations by next Monday at latest. The reason for this unusual condition of affairs is that the lakes of Northern Minnesota were later than ordinary in becoming free of the ice which lay on their surfaces this winter some thirty inches thick.

OLD MAN KILLED.

Norway, Mich., May 26.—D. Mole, an old settler of the Pine Creek district, was struck by an ore train on the crossing of the Sleshinger road, while driving home, and soon died.

FOREST FIRES RAGE.

Already Flames Are Giving Trouble in Northern Wisconsin.

Park Falls, Wis., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first forest fire of the season broke out about twenty miles from here in the Roddis Lumber companys' camps. The fire had been put out by some farmers and spread to the cedar railways and at last reports was consuming them, but a gang of men were rushed to the scene and the flames will soon be under control. The weather is very dry and fires will be prevalent if rain does not come soon.

BURKE NOT CANDIDATE.

North Dakota Governor Will Not Run Again, Says Report.

Bismarck, N. D., May 26.—Governor John Burke, who is serving his second term as governor is quoted as saying he is not a candidate for a third term.

"No, I do not expect to be a candidate for governor again," he is purported to have said. "I was nominated the first time against my will by a state convention, and accepted against my personal inclinations. Having served one term, I did feel a desire for an indorsement of my work, and became a candidate for re-election. The people of the state have honored me in a way I appreciate, and I am satisfied. Two terms are enough, and when this term is finished, I shall be very glad to go back to my law practice."

GODLESS CHARGE FUNNY.

Northrop Denies Statement Made at Presbyterian Assembly.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—The statement purporting to have been made at the Presbyterian general assembly at Denver by Dr. Joseph W. Cochran, general secretary, to the effect that state universities are Godless institutions, surprised President Northrop of the Minnesota institution and at the same time caused him to feel indignant at the charge.

"It was customary some years ago," said Dr. Northrop, "to speak of a state university as a Godless institution. That practice has largely gone by. It is recognized that some state universities are not more Godless than some denominational colleges. It is a well known fact that state universities are run in the interest of education and not mainly in the interest of religion. It cannot be otherwise; but, so far as I know, the influence of the state university has not been hostile to religion. What the state universities aim at in the field they attempt to cover is to find out truth and commend it to their students.

"Of course, state universities are not expected to drop class exercises and run religious meeting instead, and in that respect they may fall short of the standard desired by the religionists, who are worried about Godless universities. That this old cry of the Godless university should be echoing to us from the Presbyterian general assembly at Denver is very funny indeed."

THREE CASES BEING HEARD

Personal Injury Suits Will Keep All the Judges Busy.

Physicians on Stand in Suit Against City of Ely.

Three personal injury suits are on trial in district court.

Before Judge Hughes, Hermann Ramaeim is trying to get $25,000 from the city of Ely for a bad fall on the sidewalks of that city.

Dr. C. A. Stewart and Dr. George T. Ayres were on the stand this morning and testified as to how badly he was injured by the stumble. Both doctors agreed that he would never fully recover from the accident.

Edward Dahl of Ely also testified as to the condition of the walk, and several pictures showing the condition of the sidewalk were exhibited by Erick Anstin, a photographer.

Dr. Eckland testified that it was possible for a man to forget his greater injuries for the lesser, when the question arose as to why Ramaelin did not complain of his head until the day after the accident. He said that cases had been known where a doctor had treated a broken leg, only to have the patient die the next day from a fracture of the skull, which had passed unnoticed by the injured man the day before. The most serious injuries, he said, were not always the most painful.

The case is nearing an end and will probably go to the jury Thursday.

In the suit of Lizzie Jelsu against the Great Northern railroad company for $5,000 damages for the death of her little daughter, Susie T. Terrik, attorney Bardwin, who represents the railroad company, this morning made a motion for a directed verdict in favor of the railroad company. The jury was excused while the attorneys argued the motion.

Mrs. Jelsu claims that the railroad company was negligent in that its right-of-way was not properly fenced. The company disclaims all negligence.

Gust Lindberg is suing the city for $4,000 for a broken leg alleged to have been sustained last winter while walking on the north side of Fifth street between Third and Fourth avenues west.

He claims that an overflow from the sewers caused ice to be formed on the sidewalk and that it was the city's duty to keep them clear. He also asks $400 as special damages for expenses caused by the accident. The case is on before Judge Dibell.

The jury in the case of Mary Gillion against her sister-in-law, Lillian Gillion, over the title to a 40-foot lot located on Forty-fourth avenue east disagreed.

Lillian Gillion is in possession of the property and claims that it was deeded to her by Mrs. Anne Gillion, who died last year. Mary Gillion claims the property by a former deed.

VETOED BY THE MAYOR

Auction Sales Not Wanted in the Business District.

Haven Heeds Unanimous Protest of Permanent Merchants.

Mayor Haven this morning vetoed the auction license of A. Oreckovsky, granted by the council at the regular meeting Monday night. Three aldermen, Fenbister, Getchell and Moore, voted against granting the license in the first place.

Mr. Oreckovsky proposes to auction off a large stock of jewelry on the lower side of Superior street, between Lake and First avenue west, about the middle of the block. This is in the heart of the business and shopping district, and when it became known that the license had been granted, merchants in the block in question on both sides of the street flocked to Mayor Haven's office or called him up on the telephone and implored him to veto the license.

A petition, said to have been signed by every business man in the block, demanding a veto was presented to the mayor this morning. In the face of the violent opposition which arose, Mayor Haven felt there was nothing for him to do but turn down the license.

"There is some justice to the claims of the other merchants," said the mayor this morning. "I don't know as they can be blamed for being put out over the prospect of the auction sale. Such an affair, at best, cheapens the block in which it is held and should really have no place in the leading business district. An auction is now being conducted in the next block, and if Mr. Oreckovsky wishes to carry on his sale there, I do not think there will be any objections registered as long as a sale is already in progress. But with such united opposition to the granting of the license I cannot see my way clear to approve it."

ACCUSED OF STEALING FROM COUNTY FUNDS.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 26.—Accused of grand larceny, Jared C. Weed, cashier of the county treasurer's office since 1898, was arrested today in his home.

The arrest was made on charges preferred by County Treasurer Fix following investigation, which was finished last evening. Mr. Fix says, "It was found that the total of the alleged stealings since 1900, two years after Weed's appointment, were $36,550, ranging from a few hundred dollars to several thousand a year.

County Treasurer Fix alleges that another employe, who is not in the city, is implicated. Mr. Fix also asserts that cash and securities, sufficient to secure the county, have been turned over to him.

Treasurer Fix says he has a confession from each of the men, and that the confessions and the restoration of the funds were procured without promise of immunity. The money stolen, it is alleged, was all from back tax receipts.

ALL STEADY IN ZENITH CITY

Earthquake Shocks Do Not Shake the Old Grey Hills.

Announcement that many Illinois cities had felt an earthquake shock this morning came as a complete surprise to Observer Richardson of the local weather bureau.

"There has not been the slightest sign of earth vibrations in Duluth or vicinity during the past twenty-four hours," he said.

BLIND GOD IS TAKING A REST

What's the matter with the marriage business?

There has been little or nothing doing in this line for quite awhile.

The big book, where the names of those who intend to take a partner for life are registered, is getting but few signatures these days. Two days this week not a single license has been issued and many other days for two weeks past have been quiet.

Has the little blind god deserted his post?

June is nearly here and business should soon pick up.

Pure Food Candy

Special Demonstration

The manufacturers of Arizona Cactus Candy have sent to us from their Western factory an experienced demonstrator to properly introduce to the people of Duluth that most delicious and healthful of all known confections,

Arizona Cactus Candy

Cactus Candy is a departure from all other confectionary, inasmuch that its basic or principal ingredient, in place of being an indigestible syrup or sugar, is the easily digested, palatable and nutritious Arizona cactus.

The candy is not made from the cactus syrup, nor from the cactus extract, but is the actual cactus itself, deliciously candied—but come in and sample it—the lady will explain its many points of superiority, and the delicate pleasing flavor of the candy itself will act as proof positive of its quality.

TO DOUBLE CAPACITY

Copper Queen's Stamp Mill to Be Enlarged This Summer.

This Follows a Favorable First Report Just Received.

Reports of the first run of the Copper Queen Mining & Smelting company's new fifteen-stamp mill, just received, are so satisfactory that the company will carry out its intention to double the capacity of the mill. The improvement will probably be made this summer, so that by September, a thirty-stamp mill will be in operation.

The report of the trial run of the fifteen-stamp mill for fourteen and one-half days of twenty-four hours each, was received last night by A. J. McLennan, secretary of the company. A draft for the proceeds after express and mint charges had been paid, amounting to $1,731.96, accompanied the report.

The report just received, covers 349 hours of work and shows that the mill treated 600 tons of low grade ore. The average amount of ore treated per day of twenty-four hours was forty tons. The mill has a capacity of fifty tons, but for the trial run, forty tons is considered excellent.

The gold treated amounted to $1,738.50 and the silver, $9.46, making a total of $1,742.95. After the $10.99 express and mint charges had been deducted, there remained $1,731.96.

This amount is the result of fourteen and one-half days' run at the mill, and is an averrage of $120.20 a day. It is expected that the report of the second two weeks will disclose a better showing, as the machinery will be in better working order. An assay office is being established at the mine, so that it will not be necessary to send the ore to Salmon City, seven miles away, for assay.

Officials of the company are very well pleased and feel that the success of the mine and the mill are assured. Therefore, they will go ahead with the plans for enlarging the mill to one of 100 tons daily capacity, which can be done without a very large increase in operating expenses. The plant is equipped with enough power to run a thirty-stamp mill and the increase in labor would not be great.

Another report, one showing the net profits and giving other information, is expected tomorrow.

NEGRO'S LAWYER ASKS JURYMEN AS TO FAITH.

Centerville, Iowa, May 26.—The first six veniremen examined today in the trial of John Junkin for the murder of Clara Rosen had formed opinions and were dismissed. Judge Mitchell, attorney for the defendant, delved into the religious and family life of the talesmen, asked if they were praying men, and if they would give a verdict in accordance with the teachings of Christ. Junkin was kept under guard in the courthouse all night. There have been no mob demonstrations. The prisoner, neatly dressed, sits near his mother, but surrounded by guards.

RAIN WILL BE WELCOME

Forest Fires Beginning to Threaten District About Duluth.

Fire Department Has Call From Woodland—South Shore Smoking.

Today's rain will prove a blessing in that it will extinguish the numerous brush and forest fires that have started up within the last few days in the vicinity of Duluth. It comes just at a time when the fires, insignificant enough at the start, were assuming threatening proportions.

The local fire department yesterday afternoon made its first response of the season to a brush fire alarm. A blaze gained good headway just to the north of Woodland, and residents of the suburb were worried for fear the fire would get in among the houses. A report was sent in to headquarters, and two men were dispatched to the scene, with axes and light fire-fighting equipment.

It was a case of a stitch in time saves nine, and by working energetically until nearly dark, the men had the blaze under control. The department has kept an eye on the spot since, but the rain this afternoon will so dampen the ground and old brush and leaves, that there will be slight danger of the flames springing up again.

This is the only fire to which the Duluth department's attention has been called, but several others, none of them very large, but with possibilities of assuming dangerous proportions but for the rain, have been reported in the region immediately surrounding Duluth. On the hill back of the city, both in the East and West ends, the smoke of small brush and forest fires could be seen yesterday, and this morning, and fear was expressed that they would creep down into the outskirts of the city. Thanks to the rain, this danger has been done away with.

Small fires have been reported along the north shore, beginning within a few miles of Duluth, and larger fires have been threatening settlers along the south shore of the lake, in Wisconsin. Three or four bad forest fires have been reported from the range territory.

Woods Very Dry.

For nearly two weeks past there has been no rain, up to today, and the sun, together with the high winds, dried everything out, so that it burned easily. In the woods the ground is covered with dry leaves, which fell from the trees last fall, and in the more open places there is an abundance of dead grass which, in its dry condition, offers fine fuel for the flames. Spring forest fires are often more dangerous than those which come later in the summer, for in the latter case the flames encounter a large amount of green stuff, hard to burn, where in the spring, if there have been no rains, everything is dry.

INDICTED FOR LAND SWINDLE

Chicago Real Estate Men Alleged to Have Defrauded Woman.

Butternut, Wis., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of this locality are deeply interested in the news from Chicago of the indictment of Emil and Hugo Bauch for an alleged land swindle in this locality. Emil Bauch was formerly engaged in real estate business here, but moved to Chicago. He is alleged to have recently sold to Mrs. Lawrence Fick a piece of land near here, but the deed delivered to her was for another piece of property not as well timbered and worth considerably less.

Mrs. Fick laid the matter before the state's attorney of Cook county and the indictment of the Bauchs by the grand jury resulted.

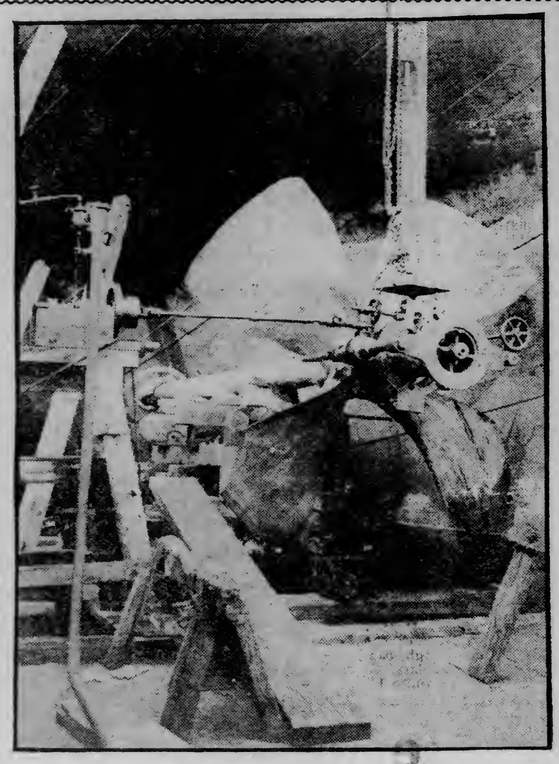
MARINE NEWS

NEW INVENTION GREAT AID IN MAKING REPAIRS



The above cut shows the steamer Ionic undergoing repairs at the Peter Grignon shipyards, with a portable lathe attached to the port propeller shaft. The lathe is the invention of Gus A. Rosnow, who until his death recently, was a resident of Duluth. The lathe can be attached to any shaft for trimming and smoothing it, without removing the heavy steel from the vessel. Its use results in a big saving of time and the cost of making repairs. The lathe has been indorsed by machinists generally and is largely in use in Eastern ship and repair yards.

STRIKE NOT DISCUSSED

Lake Labor Leaders Claim Conference Was Routine Affair.

Several Persons Not Known to Leaders Are Ejected.

No matters bearing on the general marine strike on the Great Lakes were brought up for discussion at the conference of union officials held in Elks' hall, 118 West Superior street, last night. A statement to that effect was made this morning by practically all who were present at the meeting.

Following so closely the failure of the Interstate board of arbitration in Detroit to bring about a settlement, and the more recent action of the down-the-lake locals in leaving the strike question entirely with President O'Connor of the longshoremen's union, the reasons for calling last night's meeting have been the cause of considerable speculation.

Mr. Cole said this morning: "The Duluth conference is one of many held annually in the sprincipal cities along the Great Lakes. The purpose of the gathering was to give the officials of the different unions an opportunity to meet the heads of the locals and discuss matters of general welfare.

"We have contracts affecting the tug interests which will not expire until next April. There are many features of these contracts that the locals do not understand as fully as we do, and we are here to lend our aid in interpreting them and otherwise rendering service where we can.

"Every union man is more or less interested in the outcome of the strike, but our meeting in Duluth would have been held if there had been no strike."

Claude Wirth, of Detroit, president of the Dredge Workers' Protective association, said that last night's meeting was satisfactory in bringing the men together for a better understanding, which was the principal reason for calling it.

Mr. Wirth left on the steamer Eastern this morning for Port Arthur, where he will meet and confer with the union dredge workers of that place. He will return late in the week to be present at a meeting of the Superior local Sunday, leaving for his home in Detroit the same evening.

There was a misunderstanding in some quarters as to the nature of last night's meeting. When order was called there were several men in the hall not entitled to be present. One of the union officials thought he recognized two of them as newspaper men from down lake. They were asked to leave and did so, after explaining that they thought the meeting was open to all.

T. Y. O'Connor, president of the Longshoremen's union, was expected to be present last night, but did not arrive.

Those in attendance were: Martin Cole, president of the License Tugmen's Protective association; Claude Wirth, Detroit, president International Dredge Workers' Protective association; Charles McCarthy, Cleveland, president of the Tug Firemen and Linemen's association; Thomas J. Dolan, secretary and treasurer of the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel and Dredgemen, W. E. McEwen, commissioner of labor for Minnesota, and James Walsh, Duluth agent of the state free employment bureau, were also present.

TAMPERED WITH VALVE

Engineer of Hoyt Gives Reason for Boiler Explosion.

Says Some Person Closed Valve to Water Gauge.

The death of three men on board the steamer James H. Hoyt, whose starboard boiler exploded off Fairport, May 15, was caused by the malicious interference of some unknown person with the gauges in the engineroom, according to the testimony of Engineer Duggan, given before the committee investigating the causes of the disaster.

"A valve between the boiler and the water column," he said, "was closed, causing the water gauge to register improperly. This valve was always kept open, except when the water column was being overhauled. I examined it the night before we left Cleveland with other valves and it was in proper order.

"Between that time and 7:40 next morning, when the boiler exploded, someone shut it. This gave a false level in the glass, which accounts for our having no water in the boiler."

The engineer gave the following account of the explosion, which is substantiated by Capt. Meno:

"I was standing on the threshold of the firehold," Duggan said. "The blast of the explosion hurled me back twenty feet against the engine room ladder. At first I was too stunned to think. Then my men down in the firehold came into my mind. I started to go to them.

"Covering my head with a jumper, I crept on my hands and knees into the firehold. There I found one man hanging onto the ladder which led to the upper deck. I dragged him into the engine room, where I met Capt. Meno, who took him to the upper deck.

"I went back and found another man in one corner behind the boiler and brought him out the same way. I got two more. That's all."

Capt. Meno says that instead of censuring the engineer he should be given great credit for bravery. His face and hands were badly burned by escaping steam. The captain says that but for Duggan, John Miller and Philip Donezetta, who are now in the hospital with a fighting chance of living, would have been killed outright.

The Hoyt is the vessel which had trouble with the rioters at Cleveland on her first trip of the season. The crew was attacked and Capt. Meno was roughly handled. The captain's right hand was broken in the fight. He then drew a revolver and fired into the crowd. Twenty shots were fired before the strikers dispersed.

It has been intimated that the boilers may have been tampered with by strike sympathizers, as the Hoyt carried a non-union crew. The vessel is owned by the Provident Steamship company.

FIND DYNAMITE ON LAKE VESSEL

Four Sticks on Heffelfinger Reaching Buffalo From Superior.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 26.—Four sticks of dynamite were found today stuffed in the discharge pipe of the steamer Frank T. Heffelfinger, lying at the Erie coal docks. The sticks were bound together with wire. Attached to the dynamite was a copper fuse, which had been ignited, but on reaching the wire, the fire was extinguished by the tightly bound wire.

The Heffelfinger is one of the Lake Carriers' fleet of steamers and arrived here yesterday from Superior, Wis., with grain.

YOUNG FARMER HAS SUSTAINED BIG LOSS.

Donnybrook, N. D., May 26.—Alfred Swansen, a young farmer living east of town, had the misfortune to lose his barn and all it contained, by fire Saturday. On arising in the morning he found that his barn was a pile of smoking ruins, and in it had perished all of his stock, consisting of six work horses, two cows, and a calf. Three sets of heavy harness, a large number of chickens, and some hay and oats were also destroyed. The loss is fully $1,500, with an insurance of $325. The origin of the fire is unknown.

$24.00 English Cabs—Like Cut $13.75

If you want the very best, here it is—a finely finished, rubber tired, nicely upholstered English cart at $13.75. Nothing to equal this value for less than $24.00 in the city.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The formal opening of the boat club season will be held Saturday evening, June 12, when dancing parties will be held at the main house and at the Oatka branch. There will be no formal program of races preceding the dancing parties, but the usual Saturday afternoon informal races will be held.

The formal opening of the club has come to be one of the most delightful events of the early summer season, and with the few warm days of spring which have been enjoyed, the members are getting anxious for the boat club season to open. The improvements at the clubs houses assure even a happier season than last, and the details for June 12 are being carefully worked out by the committees.

The Spirit Lake branch of the club will be open to the members after June 5, but no formal affair is planned for the opening of the river season. With the improved train service to Spirit Lake, the week end parties and informal dinner parties, promise to be a feature of the Duluth season.

The Spirit Lake house, in its beautiful location, is seemingly more enticing than ever this spring and by another week, when the new leaves will be further advanced, all the attractions of the spring will be calling the members from town and duty.

EXPLAINS MUSIC.

Miss Carey Plays Children's Program at School.

Miss Josephine Carey played at the piano the program which will be presented by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra at the children's matinee Friday afternoon, and explained the numbers for the children of the Emerson school yesterday afternoon.

The program which Mr. Oberhoffer has chosen for his orchestra to play for the school children of the city is as follows.

"Wedding March" ..... Mendelssohn
"Spring Song," Harp and Strings.. Mendelssohn
"Traumerei" ..... Schumann
"Serenade" ..... Moskowski
"Intermezzo" ..... Mascagni
"Pizzicato" ..... Delibes
"Minuet," Strings ..... Bocherini
"Marionettes" ..... Glazanow
"Funeral March of a Marionette" ..... Gounod
"Beautiful Blue Danube" Waltz ..... Strauss

Miss Carey has played and explained the program to the children of the Webster and the Emerson schools and the audience at the Friday afternoon concert promises to be one of the most interesting in the series of concerts at the May festival to be given Friday and Saturday at the Lyceum.

Week End Parties.

A number of week end parties are being planned for Memorial day and groups of Duluth people will begin to leave Friday for the nearby resorts to spend the week end.

Mr and Mrs. H. J. Place, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Deming, Miss Clara Murray and Miss Ethel McLean and Messrs. Maurice Scroggins and Hatch will make up a party to go to Solon Springs.

DULUTH DOCTORS WILL ATTEND NATIONAL MEETING

It is likely that several Duluth physicians will attend the meeting of the American Medical association, which will be held at Atlantic City next month. The Minnesota State Medical association has chosen some regular delegates to the association, but outside of these delegates, who do not include any Duluth doctors, it is believed that many doctors from Minnesota will attend the meeting as individuals, and that several Duluth doctors will make the trip to Atlantic City.

Dr. Magie has stated that he will attend the meeting, and several other Duluth physicians are planning to take the trip.

Rio Grande on a Rampage.

El Paso, Tex., May 26.—The Rio Grande river is the highest in its history, and villages and farms in the valley above and below El Paso are inundated.

ALL VIRTUES OF WOMANKIND COMBINED IN MISS NELSON, ACCORDING TO JAY QUIGLEY

MISS MARIE NELSON.

"She never has moods. She is even tempered, reliable, conscientious, anxious to please. She is one of the most fashionable and tastefully dressed women of America. She's just tall enough."

This sounds like an enthusiastic recommendation for matrimony, but it isn't. It's only Jay Quigley's recommendation of the leading woman of his new stock company, Miss Marie Nelson. It sounds like a paragon of all the virtues most to be desired in woman.

Never has moods! Think of it! Never snaps back without any excuse at some harmless and well intentioned little remark.

Is conscientious! Think of it! Never tries to get out of her share of the work. The more there is to do, the better she likes it.

Is anxious to please! Think of it! Never says "If you don't like it, you know, of course, the alternative that is left you," the way some women do.

And withal she's good looking, to say it as conservatively as possible. A regular stunner if you are at all extravagant.

She is bringing a whole raft of clothes to Duluth, Mr. Quigley says, and then four more trunks besides. She is, Mr. Quigley says, the best dressed leading woman in America. In fact, he wouldn't change her in any regard for any other in these United States of America—Mr. Quigley says.

She is coming from Chicago Sunday or Monday, where she played at the People's theater in stock, and she had to have a private secretary there, she received so many requests for pictures and autographs and advice and things. It's a wonder she isn't completely spoiled, Mr. Quigley says, and just spilling over with temperament, which, Mr. Quigley says, is all right, of course, only it's awfully hard to do business with.

GASOLINE CAR IS LOST BETWEEN HERE AND OMAHA

Like "The Ship That Lost Herself," that was made famous through the story written by Rudyard Kipling, the gasoline motor car that has been expected in this city for the past week, is apparently lost. If the car is not lost, the Northern Pacific railway men at the Head of the Lakes would like to know its whereabouts at the present time.

The car left the shops at Omaha two weeks ago. It should have been in Duluth and Fond du Lac, is with the car. He has been at the Omaha shops for the past thirty days learning the mechanism of the car. With him is one of the testers of the Omaha shops, who will remain in Duluth a month, showing the Northern Pacific motorman how to operate the car. That will give the Northern Pacific motorman sixty days' experience with the car.

Twenty-four barrels of gasoline have been shipped to Fond du Lac, so that everything will be in readiness for the tests. The only thing that is lacking to make the whole thing a complete success is the car.

WHEAT HARVESTING SEASON IS BEGUN.

Wichita Falls, Tex., May 26.—Binders were started today in many wheat fields in Wichita county. This is the first harvesting of the year in Texas and marks the beginning of the season throughout the United States. Reports received from the fields indicate the yield will be larger than expected and will average ten bushels to the acre. It is estimated that the best fields will yield twenty bushels. The oats crop is retarded.

LEGALLY DEAD, HE TURNS UP, MONEY AWAITS HIM.

Decatur, Ill., May 26.—With $5,000 in the hands of the county treasurer here awaiting Henry McEvey, declared legally dead two years ago, has turned up in Dunsmuir, Cal., after ten years' disappearance. The money is McEvey's share of his father's estate, recently partitioned. When McEvey went West he dropped from sight. His people learned that he had gone to Alaska and he was thought to be dead.

CAPTOR OF JOHN BROWN OF OSAWATOMIE IS DEAD.

Mitchell, S. D., May 26.—Maj. Israel C. Greene, who captured John Brown of Osawatomie at Harpers Ferry, is dead on a farm near here, where Greene had lived thirty-four years. Greene was a close friend of Gen. Robert E. Lee and was 85 years old.

Nephew Dies.

Ottawa, Kan., May 26.—Horace H. Day, nephew of John Brown of Osawatomie, died last night in the old homestead in this county, where Brown lived.

TAXING POVERTY.

What the senate has already done with tariff schedules touching the necessaries of the people is convincing evidence of what it is going to do with the rest.

Take cotton goods, for instance. There can be nothing more humble, more close to the lives of the common masses that know few luxuries and that have reason to be thankful if they are enabled to keep warm and housed and fed, than cotton. Silks and rich linens do the same service in the homes of those for whom the infamous Aldrich is weaving the further net of plutocratic conspiracy in the pending tariff bill, but in the homes of the plain people it is cotton that is the staple.

The cotton schedules proposed by the finance committee—which is Aldrich—of the senate—which seems to be Aldrich also—are devised for the benefit of rich New England mills. These interests have secretly brought strong pressure to bear to force through the Aldrich schedule. They apparently make no attempt to show that their industry needs protection. Only 3 per cent of the cotton consumption of the country today is imported, but the tariff schedules at present are not so high but that imported goods would quickly come in if prices were raised exorbitantly. That would regulate the market. The prices of cotton goods are now, while profitable to the manufacturer, jobber and retailer, only a little unfair to the consumer—and this because an attempt to exact undue profits would bring quick foreign competition.

It is just this competition that these New England mills wish to guard against. So they have induced—easily enough, no doubt—the proposal of a schedule that would bar out the possibility of foreign competition, and thus enable the large cotton milling interests of New England to raise their prices. In other words, the proposed schedule gives these rich mill-owners the right to tax the people under the guise of a protective tariff.

It is true that Aldrich declares that the bill does not raise cotton goods rates. Nobody, however, is going to be foolish enough to take his word for it. He may have the schedule so arranged that he will be able to make a plausible argument that it does not provide increases. His habit is to conceal the increases, in the hope that they may be smuggled through without attracting notice.

But the fact is that the proposed schedule does raise the rates, in some cases as high as 140 per cent. That mean that the influences back of the schedule are asking congress to give them the power to tax the people's clothing—not for "protection" but for profit. The cotton industry needs no protection. This country makes a quarter of the world's total production of cotton goods, and its exports have succeeded $52,000,000 a year to neutral markets, in competition with England and Germany. Cotton labor needs no protection—except from the greed of cotton manufacturers. Wages are less per yard in this country than they are abroad. In the face of these facts, the American merchant now pays over a third more for cotton goods than the merchants of Europe, and the excess goes to swell the enormous dividends of the owners of the cotton mills. Yet not content with this, they are asking congress to give them a higher tax, and congress seems anxious to do it.

It is a thing that touches the pocketbook of every citizen of the United States, yet it is only one of the items in an elaborate program of plunder.

ENCOURAGING ATHLETICS.

The Herald's attention is called to the fact that everybody missed the real point of the recent foolish incident when somebody was shocked into public expression of his horror because the high school track team boys were running in the streets in abbreviated training costumes. The false modesty of the protest needs no other consideration than the contemptuous laugh it received. But the point is that these boys were training in the streets because they had no better place to train. Encouragement of sensible athletics is sound public policy, because boys must have athletics to receive that full physical development without which they cannot be fully efficient citizens. Wouldn't it be a better idea to see if a suitable place cannot be found for the boys to do their training?

STRANGE MINNESOTA FAUNA.

We are quite sure that every student of nature, every inquirer into the extent and kinds of the fauna of Minnesota, will be grateful to the Park Rapids Enterprise for the amazing new light it throws upon this interesting subject.

To be sure, in a fairly extended acquaintance with the state and its wild inhabitants we never happened to run across any of the specimens which the Park Rapids newspaper enumerates and describes, but that is no reason for withholding credulity. The reputation for veracity of the Enterprise is sound and unassailable, and in the face of that it would be assumption of the most brazen sort to question the truth of its contributions to knowledge. Therefore, in the interest of science and of the widest possible distribution of these vastly important facts, we present to the world of science the Park Rapids newspaper's thrilling account of some little known natives of this state. It says:

"This is a country of wonderful beasts of the field, birds of the air and fish of the lakes. We have guarded our secrets too long about this wild morass. We have not only the bear, deer, wolves and jib-jab-aroos, but we have the oagly-woo. This is a much dreaded animal. It has six legs and a sharp, stiff tail. When cornered it sticks its tail in the ground and whirls rapidly around until it digs a hole big enough to hide itself in.

"The racaboar is another fierce denizen of these forests. It has two short legs and two long legs, the short ones on one side and the long ones on the other. It goes around and around mountains, and the only way to beat it is to start it going the wrong way, and then it trips itself up, when it can be captured easily.

"The one-eyed acmus is a bird that inhabits the highest hills, and when cornered gives a mighty scream, opens its beak and swallows itself.

"Another freak to be found here is the whiffletit, a fish found only in circular lakes. To catch this fish you have to take a long augur, go out to the center of the lake, bore a hole through the bottom of the boat and down through the water, bait the hole with a piece of cheese, and when the whiffletit comes up to eat the cheese he swells up and is unable to get back. The sportsman then leans over the hole and laughs the whiffletit to death."

These are indeed diverting beasts, birds and fishes, and the world is deeply indebted to this enterprising Park Rapids editor for his scientific researches and his commendable spirit in making them public. The ingenuity of nature in providing some of these specimens with means of self-protection and escape is remarkable indeed, though nature seems to have been niggardly when she invested the whiffletit with its confiding character and its fatal affinity with cheese.

We are puzzled about one thing, however. The Park Rapids editor classes the jib-jab-aroo with the deer, wolf and bear, animals with which all of us are familiar, thus apparently assuming that the jib-jab-aroo is also an acquaintance. There is something elusively attractive about the name, and it would be interesting to hear a description of the beast.

A VALUABLE ALLY.

The matter of chief importance in the fight against tuberculosis is to spread knowledge of the nature of the disease and of methods of prevention and cure. In that work every available means of publicity is valuable. Perhaps no one way could be devised that will produce more good results than to have the numerous fraternal organizations of the country take it up, as the Modern Woodmen of America have done. The general organization has printed a booklet explaining the nature of the disease, the first symptoms, how to keep well, how to guard against the spread of tuberculosis, and giving a large amount of valuable information. Also, for the benefit of its members, the order has established a sanitarium in the mountains of Colorado, and local lodges are contributing to equip it.

This is splendid work. The Modern Woodmen couldn't find a better thing to turn their intelligence and industry to, and other similar organizations will do well to follow their example.

THE USES OF SUNDAY.

In view of the fact that the passage of a law in Minnesota permitting baseball games on Sunday afternoons has created something of a turmoil in this state, there was much of timely interest in an article on Sunday baseball by Elbert Hubbard, quoted on this page last evening.

Noting that several states have legalized Sunday baseball and that several others are likely to do it, Fra Elbertus approves most heartily in the name of a healthier, saner and better-spirited humanity. Says he: "The dictum of old Dr. Johnson that a sick man is a rascal has never been disproved; and, conversely, that which tends to liminate sickness reduces the world's stock of harmful rascality. The harmless pleasures of the people in the past have been too few. That which cultivates out-of-door sports at the expense of indoor pastimes is good. When we have the chance to get out in the sunshine we should improve the opportunity. We must breathe more, laugh more and love more. Ozone and friendship should be our stimulants—let the drugs and strong drink go forever. Natural joys bring no headaches and no heartaches.

"Play ball!"

This is good, sound doctrine, and we can't believe that it is irreligious, even if it involves attending a baseball game Sunday afternoon. We don't believe that there are many people, nowadays, that think nobody should have any recreation at all on Sundays. There was a time when, under the Blue Laws, one couldn't travel, cook meals, make beds, sweep, cut hair or shave on Sunday; when a mother couldn't kiss her child, a wife couldn't kiss her husband, and a husband couldn't kiss his wife on Sunday. Those same Connecticut Blue laws forbade keeping Christmas, dancing, playing cards, performing on any musical instrument except the drum, trumpet and jewsharp, wearing clothes trimmed with gold, silver or lace, on any day of the week.

But nobody holds to these views now. The world has broadened. It doesn't argue that it has grown more irreligious therefor, because these rules never were religious; they were a canting, miserable and unlovely travesty on religion. Nobody profanes the name of the Lord more than he who makes Him sponsor for gloom and misery, and who makes Him authority for a denial of innocent pleasure. Everybody admits, nowadays, that some recreation is right on Sunday, especially for those who labor the other six days of the week. The only question is what kind of recreation is permissible, and there is nothing in an orderly baseball game to place it under the ban.

It is just as wicked to deny your soul the broadening, mellowing and gloom-dispelling delight of a good ball game as it is to desecrate the Sabbath; because to steep your soul in gloom and depression is to narrow its outlook and circumscribe its vision. The Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath. It is above all a rest day, and not alone a holy day: every day should be a holy day in the sense of reverencing the Lord and doing Him service. There is more rest in the enlivening atmosphere of a ball game, with its healing contact with God's great out-of-doors, than there is in a sluggish Sunday afternoon sleep in a darkened room.

The stern, forbidding and repellant doctrine which would deny man a few hours of harmless pleasure on the only free day in the week, because that day is Sunday, is no credit to religion, but a stumbling block in its way—a barbed cheval-de-frise warning young people to keep out.

Getting out in the woods, taking long open-air walking tours, attending a Sunday afternoon baseball game, or any other reasonable method of having life-giving communion with out-door interests, need not interfere with going to church Sunday morning and Sunday evening. Indeed, they will go hand in hand very well indeed, in a sort of joint effort for the enlargement of the soul and the purification of the body.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"The way the immigrants are coming to the towns on the range gives one the impression that the present operations in the mines will be heavy," said August Carlson of Virginia at the St. Louis last evening. "Since early this spring a large number of immigrants have been coming to all parts of the range. I have recently made a trip to Ely, Tower, Hibbing, Chisholm and Coleraine, and at all of these towns they informed me that an unusually large number of men were continually coming in and that most of these people were securing work.

"The coming of immigrants to this country, I have been informed, is the very best indication of returning prosperity. There is some source of information that these people have of the conditions in this country which seems to be reliable. They are kept informed by their friends in this country of the conditions here, and when you begin to see a heavy immigration movement you can generally be pretty certain that there are signs of returning prosperity in the United States.

"There is more work on the iron ranges today than there was at this time a year ago. While the ore movement is not very heavy at the present time, there is every indication that it will increase before the season is a month older.

"Many of the laboring people who left the range districts at the beginning of the panic last year have returned and have brought their families with them. Steamship agents report a still heavier movement to come. The best part of the increasing immigration movement is that all these people are securing work, something that could not be said if the movement had taken place six months ago.

"With the general increase of operations on the range there will be need for the employment of more men. This condition will hold all over the country. The range country is a very good index of the commercial situation. Men I have talked with, who come from the Pittsburg labor district, state that men employed there have been given a voluntary increase of wages and that there is a steady increase in the number of men employed both by the plants of the United States Steel corporation and by the independent plants.

"The increased employment of labor is one of the first signs of returning business prosperity, just as the letting out of men is one of the first signs to herald the coming of business depression. I have not had any access to labor statistics, but I am certain that the number of unemployed in this country has been reduced to a considerable extent within the past six months.

"Agitators and others of the same stripe, who feed upon the fat of the land from the distress of their fellowmen, would have you believe that the labor situation is not better now than it was a year ago. I do not believe this statement. I am of the opinion that conditions have improved a very great deal, that they are steadily improving and that a good crop will just about place the business prosperity of the country upon a normal footing."

According to L. C. Dilman, at the Spalding hotel, the Guggenheims and the Morgan interests, who purchased the Bonanza mine in the Copper river country of Alaska, and who will have expended approximately $42,000,000 upon the property before the completion of the Copper River & Northwestern railroad from tidewater to their property, are morally sure to get back the vast sum they have expended upon the development of this copper district.

Mr. Dilman says that there is in the neighborhood of $21,000,000 worth of copper in sight, and there can be only a speculation of the amount of copper ore that will be developed by further mining.

Mr. Dilman is of the opinion that the completion of the railroad, which it is expected will be brought about in the next fourteen months, will mean that the copper of Alaska will enter into competition with the copper of this country, and that with the lessened cost of copper production, which he believes will come with the improvement in rail and boat transportation facilities, Alaska may some day produce copper at 5 cents a pound.

THE WEATHER

The bright sky which greeted early risers this morning, was overcast before noon, and the weather man holds out the threat of rain again tonight.

A year ago today it was raining.

The sun rose this morning at 4:20 and will set this afternoon at 7:49, making fifteen hours and twenty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the past twenty-four hours local showers fell over Oregon, Alberta, the Dakotas, Southern Minnesota, Nebraska, Colorado, New Mexico, Eastern Texas, and throughout the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri valley states and Virginia, due to slight barometric disturbances central over Iowa, Mexico and British Columbia. The temperature changes were generally unimportant. Barometric pressures continue high from the lake region eastward to the Atlantic coast. Indications favor a continuance of northeasterly winds at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Thursday with some chance of local showers."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Minnesota—Unsettled tonight and Thursday, with showers.

Upper Michigan—Showers tonight and Thursday; moderate to brisk easterly winds, becoming variable.

Wisconsin—Unsettled tonight and Thursday, with showers; warmer tonight.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday, with showers in extreme east portion tonight.

The Sermable of Greed.

Life: The late Mr. Havemeyer of the sugar trust, who seems in the light of recent disclosures to have had the misfortune, during life, to have done some things that were wrong, had the mental penetration to say some things that were right. It is to him that we owe the remark that the tariff is the mother of trusts. It is, and of a huge army of iniquities besides. Some day we shall get it straightened out. It cannot be abolished of a sudden, because we need the revenue it brings in, and because the business of the country is still too closely geared to it to permit of being rashly smashed. But it is not impossible that we shall soon see the regulation of it entrusted to competent and skillful experts who shall deal with it wisely, cutting special privilege out of it, pruning it here and there as the conditions of business permit, and shaping it to serve impartially the interests of all the people and produce a proper revenue at the least expense of those who pay it. The moral uplift ought to bring about as great a change as this, and to do it pretty soon. One long step toward it is being taken now. The present method of tariff revision is comic or recognized for what it is, a ridiculous, one-sided farce. We shall laugh some time at the memory of the spectacle we see now—the spectacle of the great scramble at Washington, and all the greedy "interests" clamoring there in committee rooms for special privileges of taxation for the benefit of private pockets, and of the interjection of power and pull and political bargain in the shaping of schedules and the arrangement of rates.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: What makes a girl like a man is for the rest of her family not to.

Education can teach a man that he knows a lot of things he doesn't.

The thing to convince a girl that her nose doesn't freckle is for it to do it.

A woman can get a heap of happiness out of thinking how happy she could be if she were appreciated.

The average man can swear off most everything except the causes that make it necessary for him to swear off.

Delicately Put.

Argonaut: He was a fine type of the old Southern colonel, the fiery scion of a race of cavaliers. Also, he was exceedingly wrathy. He had just received a letter from a man, "a low sort of puhson, suh, I assuah you," which displeased him immensely, and he was debating inwardly how best to convey to his vulgar correspondent an adequate expression of his (the colonel's) opinion of him. But his stenographer was a lady. The colonel snorted, made two or three false starts, and finally dictated:

"Sir—My stenographer, being a lady, cannot transcribe what I think of you. I, being a gentleman, cannot think of it. But you, being neither, will readily understand what I mean."

May Be Johnson's Time.

Buffalo Express: Governor Johnson of Minnesota, evidently is fixing his eyes on the fact that another Democratic presidential nomination is to be made in 1912. He did not make a great deal of headway against Mr. Bryan last year, but Bryan must withdraw some time, and Johnson has about as large a measure of success to his credit as any Democrat in sight. This doubtless is the basis for the interview which he has given out on the tariff. He says: "The Republican party promised the people a thorough, honest and downward revision of the tariff. There is no doubt of that. The people expect that party to redeem that pledge. If the party does not keep faith with the people, the Middle West is lost to the Republicans four years hence."

Coming on the day after eighteen Democratic senators voted for a duty on iron ore, while nearly all the Republican senators from the Middle West voted against it, this sounds more like a prophecy of hope than of conviction. The Middle West undoubtedly is for a lower tariff, and it is very likely to make things warm for politicians who resist that policy. But the Democratic politicians have destroyed the possibility of making any tariff fight on party lines. The people will be forced to vote on the individual records and opinions of candidates. There has been a marked tendency in that direction for some years, and it is growing. Parties in the old senate are destroying themselves.

W. W. Henry, who has been in the South since last fall, has returned.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Chisholm Tribune: Why all this howl about Governor Johnson's signing the Sunday baseball bill? It's about time that some one discovers that you can't legislate religion into people. In our opinion a man can be a true Christian and a good citizen even if he does take a little wholesome outdoor recreation in a ball park on a Sunday afternoon.

Two Harbors News: The action of the legislature in legalizing Sunday baseball will meet with the approval of a very large majority of the citizens of the state, and in a real democracy it is the sentiment of the majority which makes law. If the wishes of the majority were consulted a great many other Sunday blue laws would be wiped off the statute books. At the time these laws were made the people looked differently upon these matters than they have for many years past, but they have been permitted to cumber the statute books because the legislators were afraid of offending the hidebound religious element. Both the recent legislature and Governor Johnson are to be commended rather than criticised for their action in legalizing Sunday baseball.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Governor Johnson failed to issue an Arbor day proclamation and there are people who profess to believe that it will be impossible to plant trees this year. The failure does not constitute a prohibitory law and you can plant all the trees you want to. The man who is anxious to beautify his dooryard does not wait for the governor nor any one else to tell him what to do.

Anoka Free Press: Some day the peat industry—the conversion of the marsh bottoms into fuel—will hit the people of Minnesota in a way that will make them wonder why they never thought of it before. Minnesota has thousands of acres of the best peat bogs in the country, and when somebody comes along some day—as is sure to happen—with an easy process for digging, compressing and drying the stuff, the coal trust can go hang so far as the people of Minnesota are concerned.

Foley Independent: It is no more right to charge Aldrich, Cannon, Elkins and others to the Republican party than it would be to call Murphy, Sullivan and their ilk typical Democrats. These men are in politics merely to serve some selfish interest, and they are a blot upon our body politic.

Royalton Banner: It is only a question of time when the comic Sunday supplement will be banished from the dailies. That time cannot come too soon.

Elk River Star-News: While we are ready to admit that Northern Minnesota suffered an injustice by the failure of the legislature to reapportion the state, there is no reason in calling an extra session of the same legislature that perpetrated the injustice. An extra session cannot well be confined to one thing, and, if newspaper reports are any criterion to go by, the public will shrink from getting the state legislature in the saddle again, as there is no knowing what it might do.

Success After Failure.

Rev. Thomas B. Gregory in New York American: There was never an instrument made by man's hands that was half so delicate, so sensitive, so finely adjusted, part to part, as was this same Edgar Allan Poe. The most exquisitely arranged watch spring, the most delicately constructed Aeolian harp ever turned out by human skill was coarse in comparison with this man's make-up.

And yet this strange creature—a combination of oak and vine, steel and gossamer, genius and silliness—stood by his guns for fifteen years, in the face of poverty and failure, grief and misery, shame and contrition, and fought them until he won the battle.

Dying at the age of 40, so poor that he had to be buried by the charity of his friends, and so badly off for fame that his little handful of admirers scarcely permitted themselves to hope that his name would live for a generation, he looms up today as the brightest name in his country's literature, and the world is fast coming to see that he was one of the master writers.

The work that Poe did, the circumstances under which he did it being duly considered, stamps him as having been not only one of the greatest geniuses of his own age, but one of the brightest intellects of all the ages.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

"Certainly—about twenty publishers that I know of."

Success Magazine: "Come right on in, Sambo," the farmer called out. "He won't hurt you. You know a barking dog never bites."

"Sure, boss, Ah knows dat," replied the cautious colored man, "but Ah don't know how soon he's going to stop barkin'."

Philadelphia Ledger: "Why did you revolt against the government?"

The Cuban shrugged his shoulders. "What would you do?" he replied. "There was no cockfight scheduled for the day."

Brooklyn Life: "I wonder if there isn't some way we can get our assemblyman to advocate good roads?"

Philadelphia Ledger: The ex-official looked annoyed at the reporter's question. "I'm a private citizen now," he said significantly.

"But your words are of value," urged the visitor.

New York Sun: Knicker—What did Jones look like?

Bocker—A tariff bill after the senate has got through with it.

Philadelphia Record: You can't insult a flea by telling him that he is going to the dogs.

The Bystander: Possible Employer—But we are slack ourselves. If I found you anything to do it would be taking work from my own men.

Applicant—The little I should do wouldn't harm anybody, guv'nor.

New York Sun: Knicker—So Jones has a great revenue making scheme?

Bocker—Yes; tax every aspirant for office.

Harper's Weekly: In an Ohio town there is still maintained a stage coach system of transportation, the steeds whereof are of that sad appearance presented by the horses attached to the Fifth avenue line in New York not so many years ago.

One day a Cincinnati man, visiting the town in question, boarded a stage, having no other currency than a five-dollar bill. This he proffered to the driver. The latter took it, looked it over for a moment or so, and then asked:

"Which horse do you want, Bill?"

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MANY SUITS FOR DAMAGES

Fourteen Actions Against One Road in North Dakota U. S. Court.

Northern Pacific Road Seems to Be Made a Special Target.

Fargo, N. D., May 26.—Many plaintiffs seek to mulct the Northern Pacific Railroad company

Seven of the fourteen civil actions in the present term of the United States court are damage cases against that road. The first one taken up was that of Mrs. Jennie Ware. The action has been tried before, and over a year ago she was awarded $5,000, but Judge Amidon set aside the verdict and later granted a new trial.

There is an element of mystery in the action. Mrs. Ware's husband was a passenger from Glen Ullin to Dickinson on a freight. There was a wreck and the caboose of the freight burned. The plaintiff alleged her husband was cremated. He has not been seen since, and the railroad company contends that he may have disappeared otherwise, and that his death has not been proven

The first case of its kind ever brought in the United States court of this district is the action by the government against J. Schmidt of Alpena, Mich. Schmidt is charged with bringing a woman into this country for immoral purposes, it being alleged that he brought her from Canada, and, after deserting his wife and five children, continued to live with the woman as his wife.

FAITHFUL TO PRINCIPLE.

Minneapolis Man May Die Rather Than Take Prescribed Stimulant.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—(Special, to The Herald.)—If Levi M. Stewart, the eccentric Minneapolis millionaire, fails to reach the century mark which he has declared he will reach, it will be because he refuses to break his life long rule of total abstinence from alcoholic stimulants. He is now more than 80 years old

Mr. Stewart is suffering from pleurisy, a second operation being necessary to drain the accumulation of serum from the pleural cavity. Mr. Stewart is tall and spare, with not an ounce apparently of surplus flesh. He can eat little now, and as he has not much latent vitality to fall back on, his physician has advised alcoholic stimulants.

Mr. Stewart rebels. He has been a teetotaler all his life, and will not break his rule now, even to prolong his days. He stood the operation well enough, and is resting well.

ENCAMPMENT OF WISCONSIN VETS

Four Ex-Governors Will Be Among Speakers at Eau Claire.

Madison, Wis., May 26.—Veterans of the Civil war are looking forward with a great deal of interest to the department encampment of the G. A. R. to be held at Eau Claire on June 14, 15 and 16. It is planned to have a real old-time encampment, and for three days the old soldiers will live over the days of the rebellious times which brought their organization into existence.

The Eau Claire comrades and citizens are not only making arrangements by which the stay of the representatives of the order will be rendered pleasant, but are also planning for a monster reunion of old soldiers. There will be parades, camp fires and all inducements to revive the past.

On the second day exercises will be held in each of the schools of the city, in which the veterans will take an important part. Commander-in-Chief Nevins will be principal speaker at the high school, on which occasion the relief corps will present a silk flag to the school.

Wisconsin still has four living ex-governors, Peck, Hoard, Scofield and Upham, who are members of the G. A. R. These four distinguished comrades, two of whom have been department commanders, will be among the speakers at the camp fire. The annual meetings of the Women's Relief corps and Sons of Veterans will be held at the same time.

A number of regiments will hold reunions, including the Eighth Wisconsin, better known as the Eagle regiment.

JAIL BREAKER RECAPTURED

Scanlon, a Noted Desperado, Who Broke Jail at Detroit.

Moorhead, Minn., May 26.—Harry Scanlon, a criminal with a long record, who escaped from the Becker county jail at Detroit last February, has been recaptured and is in jail at Huron, S. D., under strong guard.

The prisoner was implicated in the robbery of a jewelry store at Detroit last fall with "Scarfaced Slim" and George Simpson, all of whom were captured by Chief Malvey and the Fargo police redhanded.

At the recent term of court at Detroit, Simpson was sent to the penitentiary at Stillwater for six years and "Slim" for an indeterminate sentence at the same institution. Scanlon was the chief of the gang and has a bad record and is in the rogue's galleries as a bad man to deal with.

COUNTY DIVISION SCHEME DEFEATED

Judge Templeton Makes Important Ruling Affecting Ward County, N. D.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. F. Templeton of the Grand Forks county district court handed down an important decision yesterday afternoon, involving the division of Ward county and in accordance with his interpretation of the law, Ward county will remain without further division at the present time. The division suit was commenced by the supporters of the proposed Burke and Renville counties and the decision is a defeat of their plan.

The suit hinged upon the vote cast in the city of Kenmare. It was contended that Kenmare's vote was illegal, fraud being alleged. In case the Kenmare vote could be thrown out, both the Burke and Renville county propositions would be carried, the vote in that city, however, being sufficient to defeat the two plans.

In his decision, Judge Templeton holds that the vote cast in Kenmare is legal and that therefore both propositions were lost, as shown on the face of the returns when first reported.

Ward county has witnessed a bitter county division fight for the last year. There were four propositions on the ballot last November, creating Montraille, Renville, Burke and Lake counties, and leaving a Ward county as well. The Montraille proposition was carried, but the case was fought to the supreme court for final determination.

The Burke and Renville county propositions had majorities outside of Kenmare, but the vote there, which was favorable to the Lake county proposition, killed Burke and Renville aspirations.

An appeal to the supreme court will be taken.

HEROIC RESCUE BY YOUNG BOY

Plunged Into Icy Lake and Rescued Drowning Youth.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 26.—Had it not been for the timely arrival and the heroic act of little William Baker, 13 years of age, Arthur Bostwick, the 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bostwick of Third avenue, would have met a watery grave Sunday afternoon in Half Moon lake.

Arthur and his companion, a little McMahon boy, had been picking flowers in the afternoon on the island and about 4 o'clock wended their way toward home. In order to get across the lake it was necessary for the boys to walk the booms. On their way across, Arthur espied a block of wood floating on the water close to the boom, which he wanted. He stooped over to get it, and in doing so lost his balance, precipitating him headforemost into the water.

He could not swim a stroke and was floundering around in the water when William Baker, who was playing ball on a lot a quarter of a mile away, happened to see him. He ran with all his might to the edge of the lake and started across on the boom. When nearly to the unfortunate lad Willie saw him go down for the last time. Without hesitation or thought of his own safety, Willie plunged into the ice waters and dove after the sinking lad. When near the bottom of the lake he grasped the drowning boy by the hair and pulled him to the surface. Here Willie's blouse got tangled about his head and he could not see. He called to the other boys to help him, and together they pulled Arthur out and carried him home and placed him in the hands of two physicians, who succeeded in getting him back in first-class shape.

NEGAUNEE MEN RETURN FROM ENGLAND; OTHERS GO

Negaunee, Mich May 26.—Charles Toms, who went to England a few months ago, upon the receipt of the announcement of the death of his wife, arrived in Negaunee Saturday morning. He was accompanied by Leonard Stephens, brother of Sam G. Stephens, who is to remain here. Mr. Stephens will assist his brother in the management of his billiard and pool hall in the Sundberg block. Three Negaunee men, Arthur Jenkins, Gilbert Clemo and J. Vivian have left for their former homes in England. Messrs. Clemo and Vivian have been employed at the Hartford mine for some time past and Mr. Jenkins has been working at the rolling mill. Jenkins and Clemo plan to return to Negaunee in a few months, but Mr. Vivian, who is a much older man than the other two, will remain in the old country.

ORIGIN OF FIRE A MYSTERY.

Blaze Partially Destroys the McKendrick Residence at Hancock.

Hancock, Mich., May 26.—Mystery surrounds the origin of the fire which partially destroyed the residence of Mrs. Margaret McKendrick at the rear of the Scott hotel shortly after midnight Sunday morning. The blaze was discovered by Paul Exley, one of the city firemen.

The inmates of the dwelling, Mrs. McKendrick and her son-in-law and daughter and their children, were aroused and escaped from the building uninjured. The flames, once they attacked the upper portion of the dwelling, spread rapidly, and the interior was practically gutted before the department got the fire under control.

The family retired as usual Saturday night, and their first intimation of the fire came when they were aroused from their slumbers by the crackling of the flames. How the fire started no one knows.

"ELDER" STEWART IS AGAIN UNDER KNIFE.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—L. M. Stewart, widely known in Minneapolis as "Elder" Stewart, who has been confined to his home for nearly a week by sickness, was operated on Monday afternoon for the second time. Dr. R. P. O'Brien, who performed the operation, stated that Mr. Stewart had rallied well from the operation and that his condition was as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Although he is over 80 years of age, Mr. Stewart has always enjoyed excellent health, and this fact is looked on by his physician as greatly in his favor.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED.

Great Northern Wins Victory in Circuit Court of Appeals.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The United States circuit court of appeals at St. Louis has handed down a decision in the case of William Hooker vs. Great Northern railway. By this decision the verdict of the federal district court of $10,509 damages for the plaintiff is set aside, while the motion of the defense for a new trial is granted. Judge Amidon denied the new trial, but the higher court sets his decision aside as well.

Hooker was a Great Northern engineer and was injured in a rail accident near Bartlett in 1907. He was caught beneath the tender of his engine when a rear-end collision took place. He was badly injured as a result and claims that the hurts are permanent. He is a resident of St. John, N. D., at present.

WILL MEET AT WAHPETON.

Annual Gathering of the North Dakota Historical Society.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary O. G. Libby of the North Dakota Historical society arrived home Tuesday evening from Wahpeton, where he made arrangements for the holding of the annual meeting. The session has been fixed for July 12 and a very interesting program is being prepared by the society's officers.

One feature of the meeting will be that part of the program given by the old settlers of Richland county, who will meet in Wahpeton at that time. There will also be other prominent speakers both from points in the state as well as from other states.

This meeting has been called for the purpose of securing the co-operation of the people of the southwestern part of the state, especially in the work of the society. The biennial meeting of the society, at which the business affairs of the organization are cared for, is always held at Bismarck.

COMMISSIONERS ENJOINED.

Red Lake County Seat Fight Again in the Courts.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county seat fight has taken on another phase litigation as the county commissioners have been restrained temporarily by Court Commissioner Johnson from issuing $35,000 in bonds as proposed to build a new courthouse to replace the structure destroyed at Red Lake Falls. The matter will come up next Saturday. As there is a petition on file in the office of the secretary of state for the division of Red Lake Falls county, making this city the county seat of the northern portion of the courts, will probably be kept busy for some time hearing the contentions of the respective sides to the controversy.

JUDGE PREFERS GOLF.

Milwaukee Jurist to Play Daily Rather Than Have Vacation.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 26.—Circuit Judge Orrin T. Williams is such a devotee of golf that he prefers to sit all summer and take his chances on a daily pummeling of the pill than to take a formal vacation. While the other judges leave the city, he remains on the job, and he has taken one more step to assure his chances of play each day. He has notified the lawyers in his court that his court will henceforth open at 9 a. m., instead of the historic 10 o'clock.

STUDENTS' PUNISHMENT LOOKS PRETTY SEVERE.

Appleton, Wis., May 26.—As a punishment for yachting and dancing last week at Clifton, in violation of a specific order of the faculty, seventy students of Lawrence college fraternities and sororities have agreed to forego all communication, verbal or written, between students of the opposite sex in the remainder of the college year and to apologize personally to the faculty. All serious offenders must take final examinations, from which they had been exempted before the offense was committed.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Aberdeen, S. D.—The family of Richard Thomas, a laundryman, were awakened by the crying of a child, and the discovery was made that the house was on fire. The family escaped with difficulty. The entire structure was practically ruined.

Fargo, N. D.—George Berle has been arrested for assaulting J. W. Bartlett with a neckyoke in a fight Saturday with the result that Bartlett is carrying his arm in a sling, suffered a broken collarbone, besides minor injuries to his body. Both of the men are employed on the E. E. May farm.

Minot, N. D.—The experts at work on the city book and accounts expect to have the work all completed by the first Monday in June at which time the last meeting of the city council will be held.

Harvey, N. D.—Theo. Thompson, who is well known in this city, and who has been working for K. O. Rauk for several months, collecting and soliciting, was arrested on a complaint sworn to by Peter Kunanz, charging Thompson with fraudulently raising a check from $1 to $100.

Devils Lake, N. D.—The case of Thomas Semans against the Great Northern railroad was settled out of court by the company paying the plaintiff a good round sum. The plaintiff sued for injuries to one of his hands while working at the shops in the city last December.

Aberdeen, S. D.—If the plans of C. Westegard, an Aberdeen architect, are successful, this city will have an eleven-story office building. Mr. Westegard has planned the building to cost $200,000, and is endeavoring to organize a stock company to erect the structure.

Bismarck, N. D.—The Milwaukee right of way agent is purchasing options for the road between Marmath and Mott in the southwestern part of the state. This will make competition for the new Northern Pacific line south of Mandan along the Cannon Ball river.

Pierre, S. D.—As an evidence of the amount of breaking which is being done in Eastern Sully and Hughes counties, the blacksmith shops of Blunt were called upon last week to sharpen 151 plow points used in that kind of work.

Aberdeen, S. D.—The Republicans of the Second ward nominated Dr. R. D. Alway for alderman to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Alderman M. D. Widdis. The Democrats and Socialists placed no candidate in the field.

Devils Lake, N. D.—One of the most painful accidents reported here for a considerable length of time occurred while P. L. Andrews was directing the placing of a load of rock. The wagon struck a hole in the road and Mr. Andrews was thrown under the wheels. Both legs were broken and badly crushed.

Harvey, N. D.—Mayor Molander has proclaimed that no dynamite crackers or blank cartridges will be allowed to be sold in Harvey for the Independence day demonstration.

Pierre, S. D.—A decision of the supreme court in an opinion by Smith in the case of County of Brookings vs. P. J. Murphy, sustains the statute fixing county auditors' salaries by a population basis with a general minimum of $1,200 a year, but allowing county commissioners in counties of more than 12,000 population to grant the auditor $1,500 a year at their discretion.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—Ole Johnson, who had his nose fractured last week by Charles Johnson with a monkey wrench, was paid $65 by Martin Johnson, father of Charles, in settlement of the injuries.

Houghton—I. O. Bruneau has deeded to Frank Hilderand, James T. Healy and George E. Marcotte a one-half interest in forty acres of the Bruneau farm property south of Houghton, in the vicinity of the Isle Royale mine, and a new townsite will be started, to be known as Superior City.

Negaunee—E. Adams, a former resident, who has been located at Tonopah, Nev., for some time past is in the city visiting his brothers, Sidney and Nelson. He will leave this week for his old home at Gunnis Lake, Eng., where he will spend the summer.

Ishpeming—T. M. Solar, the contractor, left Saturday evening for Kaukana, Wis., in response to a telegram advising him of the death of his father, who was 93 years of age. Mr. Solar's mother died four years ago at the age of 87.

Munising—The annual meeting of the Munising Business Men's association resulted in the election of the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Burdis Anderson; first vice president, D. W. McDougall; second vice president, George J. Foster; secretary, Thomas B. Wyman; treasurer, W. F. Hopkins.

Iron Mountain—A pardon is being sought for John Borghetti, who murdered his wife at Iron Mountain, some sixteen years ago. E. A. Blakeslee of Gallen and Dr. H. T. Thomas of Allegan, members of the state board of pardons, recently visited Iron Mountain investigating the case.

Ishpeming—John Neary left Saturday evening for Arizona, to join his father, who has been located there for some years past.

Hancock—Mike Carrigan has received word of the death of his uncle, Martin Carrigan, a well known old-time resident of Hancock, at Los Angeles. The deceased had been in poor health for some time, leaving Anaconda for the better climate of Los Angeles several months ago for this reason. The remains will arrive in Hancock the latter part of the week.

Marquette—There are two lads in Marquette in line for a Carnegie medal, not for any recorded active heroism, but because they have been conscientious in their school duties and passed through a period of eight years without once being absent or tardy. The boys who have accomplished this unusual feat are Phil Kemp, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Kemp, 352 East Hewitt avenue, and Elmer Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, 263 Lake street.

Ishpeming—Charles Roberts and Miss Willie Dymond of the Winthrop were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at the city building. Judge Williams Verran of Negaunee performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Rebecca J. Dymond, and Thomas Hill supported the groom.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Eau Claire—Eau Claire has been selected as the place for the state oratorical contest, which is to be held Friday evening, June 4, and in which there will be six contestants from various parts of the state.

Madison—A handsome silver loving cup was presented to Prof. J. B. Parkinson by his class in constitutional law.

Wausau—County Superintendent W. J. Farrell has been elected principal of the Wittenberg high school and will begin work there next fall. Mr. Farrell was defeated for re-election at the spring election here.

Grand Rapids—The contract for the grading, laying of the ties and track and the general construction of the new interurban street railway from Nekoosa to Grand Rapids has been let to a construction company of Chicago. It is expected that this company will commence work immediately, as all franchises have been obtained and the right-of-way secured.

Madison—Attorney General Gilbert has held that the bill passed by both houses of the legislature, which provides for the election of school officers by the school district proper, although territories outside are taken in and annexed to districts for school purposes, is constitutional.

Ladysmith—Deputy Sheriff Baldwin is here from Rhinelander to identify one of four suspicious characters rounded up in a box car by Night Officer Reed. The man is wanted for burglary.

Brodhead—Fire, which started in the millinery store of Mrs. Nellie Grimm, destroyed the building and millinery stock of Mrs. Mary Schempp adjoining. The loss is $7,500, partially covered by insurance.

Waukesha—The body of Fred Kreds, familiarly known as "Fisher Fritz," was found floating in Pewaukee lake, near Taylor's woods. Kreds started up the lake May 14 in a light fishing boat. It is believed his boat capsized in the severe storm that swept the lake.

Madison—F. E. Andrews of Bloomer, chief clerk of the senate, has been appointed secretary of the Wisconsin Press association, to fill the unexpired term of the late R. W. Cheever of Clinton, postmaster of the assembly, who died suddenly a week ago Sunday.

Milwaukee—Record time for a marriage ceremony was established Saturday, when Grosvenor White and Edna Mayo of Chicago were married by Judge John C. Karel. The couple arrived from Chicago Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, secured a license and special dispensation, were married and returned to Chicago at 5:15 o'clock. White is a salesman, 22 years old, and his bride is 21.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Bemidji—The residents of White Earth on Monday, June 14, will celebrate the forty-first anniversary of the first settlement in the White Earth reservation which was made at the White Earth Indian agency. It is expected that Senator Moses E. Clapp and Congressman Steenerson will deliver addresses.

Alexandria—At the close of a two days' session of the Sunday school workers of the county, there was organized the Douglas County Sunday School association, with the following officers: President, Rev. George E. Tindall of Alexandria; vice president, Theodore F. Damask of Brandon, and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Eva E. Wold.

St. Cloud—Mrs. Johanna Zur of Brockway was in the city yesterday to make complaint against Blasie Vollok. She charges that he threatened to blow her up with a stick of dynamite. She seized his cattle, which were eating her grain.

Crookston—E. D. Childs, for many years one of the foremost residents of Crookston and brother of City Clerk A. M. Childs, has arrived from North Yakima and will spend some time here.

Stillwater—J. R. Kolliner was in Minneapolis when the Kolliner Brothers & Newman garment manufacturing factory burned. Arriving home he announced that work will be resumed within ten days. The stock of goods was valued at about $75,000 and the machinery and fixtures worth about $6,000. The insurance was $48,000 on stock; $3,000 on machinery and fixtures, and $4,000 on the building.

Minneapolis—Washington dispatches announce the appointment of John Barrett, a former Minneapolis man, to be insular treasurer of the Philippines, at a salary of $6,000 per annum. Mr. Barrett enlisted in Company A, Thirteenth Minnesota, in 1898, and served through the insurrection.

THE CULINARY DEPARTMENT OF A GREAT MODERN HOTEL

At the St. Regis, New York, Every Feature is Perfect of Its Kind.

Many a once-famous hotel has declined in public estimation because its "table" was not kept up to the accepted tandard; and no hotel—however excellent in other respects—can be more than very ordinary and inferior if any feature of its culinary department is unsatisfactory. At the St. Regis hotel, Fifth avenue and Fifty-fifth street, New York, there need never be fear of unsatisfactory food or service. Although built to be America's finest hotel, exquisite material surroundings for its guests were not the only concern of its owners and manager. The kitchen of the St. Regis is not excelled in its equipment by any hotel or restaurant in America; its cooks are selected for their ability and experience, while its food supply must pass the critical inspection of the manager, himself a restaurateur of national fame. In the dining rooms, as well, no feature is lacking to secure perfection in service. With all this painstaking care to obtain superlative results, St. Regis prices remain within the reach of the great "middle class." Its restaurant charges are the same as other first-class hotels, and rooms may be had as low as $3 and $4 a day for a large, handsomely furnished single bedroom; the same with private bath for $5 a day (or $6 for two people); or $12 a day and up for an elegant suite consisting of parlor, bedroom and private bath.

WEST END NEWS

WAS DRIVEN TO SUICIDE

Mrs. Gudeen Says Her Husband Was Not to Blame.

Had Sensitive Nature and Worried Greatly Over Lawsuit.

"My husband was not to blame for what he did! He was driven to suicide!"

This is the statement of Mrs. Gus Gudeen, the widow of the West end man who committed suicide yesterday afternoon at Superior, rather than face trial on a charge of assault brought by a woman in district court. The Gudeen family resided at 317 North Eighteenth avenue west.

According to the story told by Mrs. Gudeen to a Herald reporter today her husband was of a sensitive nature and worried over trifles. The anxiety over the outcome of the lawsuit, in which his wife thinks him entirely innocent, she says, was the reason for his act.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from R. R. Forward's undertaking parlors, 2010 West Superior street. Interment will be at the Lutheran cemetery, but it was not known this afternoon what minister will officiate.

Gudeen was 43 years of age, and is survived by a wife and two children, who reside at 317 North Eighteenth avenue west. At Forward's undertaking parlors, at the West end, where the body was removed yesterday, it was stated that the face of the dead man was badly disfigured with acid, and that he was frightfully burned about the lips and chin.

Gudeen had property in the West end, and had not been employed steadily during the last few weeks. He was janitor at the Phoenix building for some time, and had also held several other positions.

"SATER FEST."

Novel Entertainment Presented By Young People of Church.

The Sewing circle of the Epworth League of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church presented the "Sater Fest" last evening at the church as the annual entertainment of the circle The affair was well attended, and was a success in every particular.

The decorations, the refreshments, the costuming, and the dialect were suggestive of the Norwegian peasant life. The program consisted of a number of well given dialogues and Norsk songs. The entertainment was presented by the young people of the church.

Miss Millie Olsen is president of the society.

McDonald Recovering.

Edward McDonald of 2005 West First street, who was injured in an accident Monday night, in which he broke his leg in several places, was reported to be recovering today.

Although the leg is badly crushed below the knee, the injuries are not so serious that the member will have to be amputated. He will be confined to his home for several weeks.

for some time, and it is believed he will work in harmony with Secretary Nagel.

It has been supposed up to within the last few days that the controversy between Secretary Nagel and Director North had been amicably adjusted. The friction between the two continued, however, and at last Secretary Nagel put the matter squarely up to President Taft, saying that either he or Mr. North would have to leave the service, as existing conditions between them were impossible.

Director North held to the belief that the census bureau was an independent institution, and that he was responsible only to the president. A congressional enactment put the census bureau under the department of commerce and labor, however, and Secretary Nagel felt that, in spite of the great powers conferred by congress on the director, that official should be subordinate to the cabinet officer in charge of the department. It was because of this friction that Director North was finally forced to step out.

ANXIOUS TO EARN MONEY

Average Schoolboy Too Impatient, Says Labor Commissioner.

Graduates of the Adams School Are Tendered a Banquet.

That the tendency of the average schoolboy of late years is to leave school instead of furthering his education was the substance of an address last evening by William E. McEwen, state labor commissioner, who responded to a toast at the annual banquet of the Adams Alumni association. Mr. McEwen was a member of the first graduating class, in 1889.

Mr. McEwen said that this day and age was one of opportunities, and that this country was the land of opportunity. He said that the day of the "jack of all trades" was past and that a man must specialize in some particular line if he would prosper and keep pace with his fellow countrymen.

W. E. McEWEN.

The banquet was a success in every detail, covers being laid for 150. In the absence of Roy Hood, president of the association, Oscar Helam of the class of '02 acted in the capacity of toastmaster and called upon the various speakers for toasts. Mr. Helam also gave a toast to the graduating class, which was responded to by Albert Glover of the class of '08.

R. R. Forward, in his toast on "The Adams School of the Past," recalled the days when he attended the "little red schoolhouse on the hill," and told of the time when thirty graduates from all the city schools taxed the capacity of the facilities offered at graduation time. Mr. Forward was a member of the class of '90.

R. R. FORWARD.

Niel E. Beaton spoke on the "Value of an Alumni Association," and Miss May Coulter toasted the "Adams Alumni" in particular. Clarence Rankin paid a deserving tribute to "The Girls" in a cleverly handled toast, and Miss Myrtle Craige returned the compliment in her toast on "The Boys."

Principal Anna M. Hicken of the Adams school responded to the topic "The Adams Alumni: How They Behaved," and Miss Myrtle Cox toasted "The Principal." Don Cole, Walter Highe and Bert Montgomery gave the musical program.

The members of the graduating class, thirty in number, were guests of honor at the occasion. The serving was done by the ladies of the Second Presbyterian church. The banquet hall was decorated in purple and white, the colors of the association.

quently a high-class animal in the thoroughbred list. Cyllene is sire of Cicero, who won the 1905 derby for Lord Roseberry.

As a 2-year-old Minoru was not much of a success, on account of some eye trouble, but he made a few good attempts, showing that he possessed speed and stamina. His work as a 3-year-old continued to show improvement, until he became favorite in this classic event.

On Minoru the betting was 7 to 2; on Louviers, 9 to 1, and on William the Fourth, 20 to 1.

The stewards' handicap of 1,000 sovereigns for 3-year-olds, last mile and forty-four yards of the derby course, was won by H. P. Whitney's Perseus III, PAnson was second and Mustapha third. Ten horses started.

The crowd at the course was wild with excitement and broke through the police cordon and almost mobbed King Edward, as following the time-honored custom, his majesty, as owner of Minoru, led the champion into the paddock.

The field of fifteen was sent away to an exceptionally good start. Brooklands made the running for the first mile with the King's colt well placed in fifth position. Approaching Tattenham corner Minoru improved his position and stalling off close to the home stretch, a strong challenge by Louviers, he won by the shortest of short heads.

As soon as the horses entered the straight and the crowd recognized that the king's colors were in front the cheering began. Gradually the enthusiasm spread over the downs, and the cheers grew in volume as Minoru neared the judges' box. The victory was so narrow that there was a moment's hesitation pending the judges' verdict, but when the royal number was hoisted to the top of the board a great roar burst out afresh and followed the king as he left the royal box and led his third derby champion to the unsaddling inclosure. His majesty's two previous successes were achieved when he was prince of Wales.

Sir Martin actually started a favorite in the betting at 3 to 1. The American crack was going strong in the running and was well up among the leaders when he came to grief. Brooklands was leading at the approach to Tattenham corner with Louviers close up. Sir Martin, Minoru, Bayardo and Valens formed the flight. Rounding this dangerous corner Sir Martin was crowded by the other horses, crossed his legs and fell. Jockey Martin escaped unhurt.

Prince Will Give Plate.

Hamilton, Ont., May 26.—Although no official announcement has been made, it is authoritively stated that Earl Grey has informed the Hamilton Jockey club that the prince of Wales will give a plate for the feature race, similar to the king's plate. The Hamilton club will offer 50 guineas and a substantial sum in Canadian currency, and the race will become a Canadian turf feature.

FIRE ENGINE IN THE DITCH

Gets Beyond Control of Driver on Third Avenue East.

The fire engine from No. 2 fire hall, in the West end, ran into the ditch on Third avenue east, near First street, this morning and was slightly damaged.

The engine had been taken to the repair shop of the department at Third street and First avenue east, to have the brake repaired. It was found to be too big a job to handle there, and the crew started back for the West end, to have the repairs made at the Clyde Iron works. While going down Third avenue east, the engine got beyond control and ran into the ditch at the side of the road.

EARTHQUAKE SWEEPS FOUR STATES

Dishes Rattle at Rockford.

Rockford, Ill., May 26.—Earthquake tremors were felt here perceptibly at 8:38. Dishes and fixtures rattled. Some supposed there had been an explosion and people came down from upper stories to learn what was the matter. No damage is reported.

Streator Reports It.

Streator, Ill., May 26.—An earthquake shock lasting half a minute and accompanied by a rumbling noise was felt all over North Central Illinois at 8:40 a. m. No damage is reported.

Two Distinct Shocks.

Joliet, Ill., May 26.—An earthquake was felt this morning at 8:40. Steady tremors continued for three minutes. Some felt two distinct shocks. Reports of the quake were received for miles in all directions, from Lemont on the north to Braidwood on the south. It seemed to follow the line of the Des Plaines river valley. No serious damage is reported except to mirrors, chimneys and frail objects. Chairs and portable objects were overturned.

Ten Seconds At Galena.

Galena, Ill., May 26. — An earthquake shock in this vicinity this morning lasted ten seconds.

Three Minutes At Dixon.

Dixon, Ill., May 26.—An earthquake shock lasting three minutes was felt in Dixon at 8:40 this morning. Reports from the country say the shock was felt in all directions. Dishes were rattled from tables and gas fires were shaken out.

Panic In Sterling.

Sterling, Ill., May 26.—An earthquake shock passed through Sterling and Whiteside county this morning at 8:38. One shock was distinct and although no heavy damage resulted, people rushed from their homes in fear. Reports from outlying districts are slow in coming in because of wire troubles, but indications are that the shock did considerable damage in the vicinity of Tampico, Erie and other small towns in the southern part of this county.

Crosses the Lake.

Muskegon, Mich., May 26.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here this morning, a few minutes before 9 o'clock. The disturbance lasted only a few seconds.

In Western Michigan.

Kalamazoo, Mich., May 26. — The earthquake that shook Wisconsin and Illinois points was felt at South Haven, Mich., and Benton Harbor, Mich., shaking windows and breaking china. No loss of life or damage reported.

Burlington Quivers.

Burlington, Iowa, May 26.—A distinct earth shock lasting fifteen seconds was felt at 8:45 this morning. No damage was done.

Coe College Shaken.

Dubuque, Too.

Dubuque, Iowa, May 26.—The earthquake shocks were felt here this morning.

The first earthquake shock here this morning occurred at 8:30 and continued ten seconds. The second followed immediately and was of shorter duration. The shocks were felt throughout the city, but were worse in the downtown districts.

Big buildings trembled and the occupants rushed into the streets in terror. The bank and insurance office building, a substantial seven-story was shaken violently and several hundred occupants made a hurried exit, choking the stairways in their haste to escape. In the large manufacturing plants there were several panics when machinery rattled and boxes and crates fell. The local weather forecaster says:

"There were two distinct seismic disturbances moving from north to south."

Reports from the residence district emphasized the severity of the shocks.

Recorded In Washington.

Washington, May 26.—A very slight disturbance, lasting about a minute, was recorded on the seismograph at the United States weather bureau here today, beginning at 9 o'clock, 41 minutes and 30 seconds, Eastern time. There was not enough detailed record to indicate the exact location of the disturbance.

The Hungriest Boy on Earth is the growing boy at ten. You can't build him out of books or sermons. His growing body demands more building material than the adult. Nature is making for him a structure of brain, bone and muscular tissue. She must build it out of the food he eats and the air he breathes. The best food for the growing boy or girl is because it contains all the material for making bone, brain and muscle. The crispness of the shreds promotes mastication, which means sound teeth. The food to study on, to play on — for children and grown-ups. Your Grocer sells it.

Shredded Wheat is made of the choicest selected white wheat, cleaned, steam-cooked and baked. Try it for breakfast to-morrow with milk or cream. The Biscuit is also delicious for any meal in combination with fresh or preserved fruits.

PRESBYTERIANS TO SPEND BIG SUM FOR CHURCHES

Denver, Colo., May 26.—"Let Rockefeller and Carnegie alone—go into your own pockets for college endowments," was the advice of Dr. J. S. Steffen of Dubuque, Iowa, in an address before the general assembly of the Presbyterian church yesterday.

It became apparent that Chicago, instead of Atlantic City was taking the lead as the next meeting place, but the subject was not officially before the assembly.

It was decided that $100,000 should be spent in the erection of churches in the synod of Tennessee to replace those taken from the church by the decision of the supreme court of that state, which held the union of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America and the Cumberland Presbyterian church illegal.

Dr. W. McEwan offered the report of the board of home missions, showing that the amount received $1,073,971, was the largest in the history of the church. It asked for $80,000 for the work of the coming year. Dr. Charles I. Thompson of New York, secretary of the board, made a plea for the immigrant saying that within fifty years the United States will have a population of 200,000,000, and that a special effort must be made to Christianize the incoming foreigners.

FRANK HOIST MAY BE MICHIGAN STABBER.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—Word has been received by the Minneapolis police from Adjt. F. L. Ainsworth of the war department that no one ever served in the army under the name of Frank Hoist, name given by the man who shot and killed Lieut. John McNamara when the latter tried to stop him as he was fleeing from two detectives. Hoist stated that he had served in the army, but Chief Corliston was inclined to doubt his word.

Further inquiry into the record of the man now charged with murder has revealed the fact that he was known in Duluth as Frank Johnson. A dispatch from Duluth stated that Hoist resembled a man who had stabbed a man in Ironwood, Mich. Chief Corliston has written to Ironwood for particulars.

A letter from Leeds, N. D., brought the information that Hoist was know there as a desperate character.

DETECTIVES TESTIFY IN THE CALHOUN TRIAL

San Francisco, Cal., May 26.—Detectives employed by the prosecution and by the defense were the only witnesses yesterday in the trial of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads on a bribery charge.

Luther Brown, who admitted that he directed the activities of several assistants working in the interests of the defense, was questioned as to his relations with the men who have confessed to complicity in the theft of papers from the offices of W. J. Burns, agent of the prosecution. He refused to answer on the ground that his statement might tend to incriminate himself.

Norman Melrose, another attache of the United Railroads detective bureau, said he had delivered to William M. Abbott, general attorney for the United Railroads and jointly indicted with Mr. Calhoun, reports obtained by men under his direction.

Nicholas Corngold, now in the employ of the prosecution, but formerly a United Railroads detective, testified that he had received from F. A. Platt many documents taken from the office of W. J. Burns and delivered them to John Helms, a witness last week, and to William M. Abbott.

Corngold declared he had followed District Attorney Langdon with two detectives and John Claudianes, to the home of James L. Galaglier, which had been wrecked by dynamite.

He declared that Abbott had commended him for this work and had instructed him to ascertain, if possible, what had transpired in the grand jury room in Oakland when Claudianes was indicted in connection with the dynamiting.

All the testimony of the day was offered, according to Mr. Heney, in an effort to show that Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Abbott were engaged in a conspiracy to suppress evidence. It is believed that the prosecution is nearing its end of the case, but under the most favorable circumstances, it is improbable that arguments to the jury will be reached within a week.

It was announced by the prosecution that Attorney John O'Neill and his brother Hugh, together with F. A. Platt, all witnesses in the case, had disappeared. Agents of the district attorney's office are searching for them.

The O'Neill brothers are accused of having attempted to prevent the appearance of John Helms as a witness for the prosecution.

EXCHANGE WILL BE READY JUNE 1

Secretary Busy Purchasing Fixtures for the New Quarters.

Contractors and rental agents have assured the officers of the rejuvenated Duluth Mining Stock exchange that the new building at the corner of First street and Fourth avenue west will be ready for occupancy by the first of June—that is, that the quarters to be occupied by the exchange will be in readiness by that time.

The exchange is to have the corner store fronting on First street and with an entrance from Fourth avenue as well. The exchange room will extend from First street to the avenue entrance of the building.

The avenue entrance will be handy for the members, most of whom have their offices on Superior street between Third and Fifth avenues west. The trading floor will be but a little over half a block from Superior street.

Ray Nelson, secretary of the exchange, has a temporary office in the Lonsdale building, and he and the other officers are busy with preparations for the beginning of actual business by the revived organization.

There are the fixtures of the trading room to be purchased and installed as soon as the room is ready, and there is the listing of the stocks to be attended to.

If the trading room is ready by June 1 Secretary Nelson says operations on the floor will begin as soon thereafter as is possible.

FIELD MEET TO BE HELD AT ASHLAND SATURDAY.

Ashland, Wis., May 26.—Arrangements have been almost completed for the Northland interscholastic meet that is to be pulled off at the college on Saturday afternoon. The indications are that the meet will be the best that has ever been held here. Five of the largest high schools in Northern Wisconsin will enter teams, and some of the smaller schools are expected to send individual stars. Blaine, Nelson Dewey, Ironwood, Ashland and Northland academy will enter strong teams, and a close and interesting contest is assured.

TALK WITH MARTIANS

Leo Stevens and Professor Todd to Go Into Training.

Monster Balloon to Rise to Height of Ten Miles.

New York, May 26.—"We will be talking to the people of Mars before the 15th of next September," said Leo Stevens, the aeronaut, when he arrived in town from Amherst college, where he has spent several days with Prof. David B. Todd, the scientist, who will endeavor to communicate with the earth's neighbor by means of wireless from a balloon.

Mr. Stevens announced that plans are completed for the unique voyage to the edge of the world's atmosphere in a mammoth balloon, equipped with a special apparatus invented by Prof. Todd and that it was now only necessary to wait until Mars was sufficiently close to the world, which would be early in September.

To Breathe Oxygen.

The daring scheme evolved by Prof. Todd and Mr. Stevens to communicate with the Martians necessitates the most remarkable paraphernalia, including two hermetically sealed glass fronted aluminum cases, with tanks of oxygen attached for breathing; speaking tubes connecting one tank with the other, a wireless plant with ten miles of wire trailing down to the earth, specially made clothing of tremendous thickness and all manner of navigating instruments.

"We will resort to our tanks at the height of five or six miles," said Mr. Stevens. "While we are comfortably sitting in our chairs with the oxygen pump giving us life, we can watch the ascent of the balloon. When we arrive at the proper height, communication by means of the wireless, which the professor has invented and which is unlike any other wireless, will be begun.

Must Rise Ten Miles.

"Prof. Todd thinks we can pick up messages from Mars easily at the edge of this world's atmosphere. "I know little about astronomy, but I have guaranteed to take him where he wants to go in my car.

"The flight will take five or six hours. We will carry a small supply of heat-creating food to help us withstand the intense cold should emergency arise. The whole wireless apparatus, including the ten miles of wire which will trail from the basket of the balloon down toward the earth, will weigh but 200 pounds.

"I believe we will come down alive, although this trip, which will have to be the highest ever made, will be attended with some danger. We must reach ten miles, the professor tells me, to obtain the best results. Eight miles is the greatest height ever before reached in a balloon, and then members of the party died from cold and rarity of air.

To Train for the Trip.

"We are making these aluminum tanks to prevent just such a disaster. Both Dr. Todd and I will begin training for the trip in July. We will have tanks of oxygen sent to our homes and will begin breathing it to get accustomed against the time when we may have nothing else. This training will be continued systematically up to the time of ascension.

"The ground wires will also be used in carrying any messages from Mars we may receive straight down to earth, where they will be recorded. I will take Dr. Todd on numerous ascensions between now and the time for our big flight, to get him used to ballooning. He will succeed in this venture if anyone can."

NoticetoContractors

Wahpeton Citizens Subscribed $10,000 to Help State Institution.

Wahpeton, N. D., May 26.—When the state science school board was in session and had the letting of contracts under consideration and trying to make the cost of their new buildings come within their appropriations by cutting off a little here and a little there, and when the kind of brick to be used came up they found that they could get a Wisconsin brick for the three buildings about $900 less than they could buy Hebron brick made in North Dakota. State's Attorney Wolfe suggested that the Commercial club might assist them in raising the $900 if they were patriotic enough to use North Dakota brick, but when everything was figured up they were $5,000 short, and a committee of the Commercial club started to raise the money, and in a very short time they raised $10,000.

Burglar Alarm Photographs Intruder.

An Italian inventor has designed a burglar alarm and camera attachment known as the cleptograph. An intruder cannot enter a room where it is arranged without disturbing one of the wires. The movement of the wire turns the machine in the direction from which the disturbance arises, sets fire to a magnesium light, rings an alarm and takes a snapshot of the intruder. A similar device should be had to protect your case of Golden Grain Belt beer. This particular beverage has become known as the "home beverage." Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

CHANCE YET REMAINS FOR DEMOCRATIC-PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICAN PACT TO HOLD

Washington, May 26.—Had it not been for the attitude of "Progressive Republicans," who favor the adoption of an income tax amendment to the tariff bill, it is probable that Senator Bailey might have reached an agreement yesterday with members of the finance committee for a vote on his amendment on June 10.

The offense was taken by some of the insurgent Republicans because of the notice served by the Texas senator that no general agreement could be obtained on any phase of the tariff bill so long as Senator Aldrich refused permission for fixing a time for a vote on Senator Bailey's income tax amendment.

It was made clear at informal conferences yesterday that Republicans supporting the Cummins amendment desire the continuance of the coalition with the Democrats, but they do not want at the expense of surrendering the control of the income tax fight to the Democrats. Senator Cummins conveyed this view to Senator Bailey.

Before this action was taken, however, a conference was held by Republican members of the finance committee relative to fixing the time for a vote on the income tax question and all other amendments to the tariff bill. Members of the committee believe the work on schedules will be completed by June 10, and they could see no reason, therefore, for resisting fixing a time for a vote on the Bailey amendment beyond that time.

Senator Cummins said he would offer his income tax amendment as soon as consideration of schedules had been concluded. He will revise the amendment to meet wishes of a number of Republicans. It will provide for a flat rate of 2 per cent on incomes, including corporations.

Drawbacks will be allowed to stockholders of corporations equal to the sum paid on their stock by the corporation itself, when it can be shown by the individual that the total of his income is less than $5,000 a year. The Bailey amendment provides for a tax of 3 per cent. Mr. Cummins said that if the Bailey amendment is presented first he will vote for it, although he does not believe that it would prove as satisfactory as his own. He estimates that his amendment will produce $40,000,000 a year in revenues.

Members of the finance committee are confident that they have sufficient votes to refer either the Cummins or the Bailey amendment or both to the judiciary committee.

The senate yesterday began the formal consideration of the sugar schedule, but did not approach a vote on it. Instead, the time allotted to this schedule was entirely given over to speech-making, and, strange to say, the two speeches on the subject, while made by Democrats, were in strong advocacy of a high tariff on sugar of all grades.

The speeches were by Senators Foster and McEnery of Louisiana. Mr. Foster laughingly deprecated the application of the word "protection" to his attitude, but Mr. McEnery boldly espoused the protective theory and openly advised his Democratic friends to follow his example. He declared protection to be in the line of Democratic policy. Mr. McEnery was cheered by and given attention by the leading Republican senators, but his remarks received scant attention from his Democratic colleagues.

The lumber schedule was temporarily put aside in order to permit the committee on finance to make changes in it. Early in the day Senator Beveridge addressed the senate at some length in support of his contention that President Taft had, previous to and after his nomination, been a consistent advocate of a downward revision of the tariff. He followed the maiden effort of his Democratic colleague, Mr. Shively, who undertook to prove that if the tariff bill now before the senate should become a law, the rates over which the senate is wrangling would not constitute the tariff that would go into effect, but that under the maximum and minimum provision the country would find itself operating under the maximum rate, which is 25 per cent higher than the minimum.

MILLIONAIRE GAVE AWAY BEER IN A DRY COUNTY; NOW QUITS, SAYS FAILURE

Glasgow, Mo., May 26.—To spite the Prohibitionists, who carried this county "dry," John Morrison Fuller, millionaire bank president, opened a "Personal Liberty hall" and for twelve months served unlimited free beer to all who came at any time except Sundays. Now he has closed the place, admitting it was a failure.

Each week day for the last year his place was open. No restrictions were placed upon the consumption of the beer. It was as free as the water that flowed in the Missouri river past the town. A fresh barrel always was on tap, and rich men or poor, workingmen or idlers, strangers or natives, were welcome to turn the faucet and drink little or much.

As a lure for men to come and drink, and as an enticement for them to linger long and drink more, the room where beer flowed had an equipment of easy chairs and settees and a long table with the latest newspapers and magazines.

Two white men and a negro in white uniforms, kept the beer mugs clean and tapped a fresh keg when the one in the icebox ran dry. In the whole year there was never a drouth, never a lack of beer.

After a year of this free dispensation of beer Mr. Fuller has clamped the lid on "Personal Liberty hall," and now Glasgow, which fairly has wallowed in beer, is parched and dry.

"I must admit that my experiment was somewhat of a failure," the banker said. "I fancied I could educate the people to a spirit of resentment against the laws that were depriving them of their liberty to eat and drink what they chose.

"But I find they did not care. They are spineless slaves. As long as I kept my place open and gave them free beer, they would drink their fill, but never a thought would they give to the dangers of a government that says what a man shall eat or drink. So I closed it, and now they can go dry for all I care."

The rent of his hall, its furnishings, the beer and the service, cost Mr. Fuller something like $7,000 during the year. The beer alone cost him $80 a week.

Mr. Fuller is a Harvard graduate and is 50 years old. He is president of his own bank and comes of a Virginia family. His grandfather was William A. Smith, founder of the Randolph-Macon Methodist college of Virginia.

AMERICAN ARMY OFFICER SAYS ROOSEVELT IS NOW HAVING TIME OF HIS LIFE

Paris, May 26.—Maj. Louis L. Seaman, U. S. A., has arrived from Mombasa, where he met the Roosevelt party. He says that Selous and Cunningham are the best hunters in Africa, and that the former president "is having the time of his life."

Maj. Seaman, who hunted with Dr. Gutteras of New York over the Athi plains along the Nairobi river, where Mr. Roosevelt is shooting, brought out 150 specimens of big game. He reports animals so plentiful that after six weeks' hunting he and Dr. Gutteras were completely satisfied. When he left, he said, he would rather shoot snipes on the wing than elephants. "Never have the Western cattle ranges seen so many animals. One day we counted 450 zebras, gazelles and other animals within a segment comprising one-tenth of a circle. There were fully 5,000 in sight. Nevertheless, the animals are hard to approach, as the herds keep out sentinels."

Maj. Seaman considers the rhinoceros and the buffalo the most dangerous to hunt, as they invariably charge, which means death to the hunter if the animal is not killed or crippled. Lions, on the contrary, he says, are naturally cowards, adding, "My respect for the lion has disappeared since I went to Africa. The lion never fights except when he is wounded or driven to bay."

The most difficult element in shooting in the equatorial belt is the deception of the range caused by the vertical tropical light and the altitude. The nights are always cool, and it is necessary to wear flannels and to keep under blankets.

Maj. Seaman, who is an expert in military sanitation, was greatly interested in the sleeping sickness. He brought back the first news of the discovery of Dr. Scherin, a German, who completely upsets the theory of the English commission, that the tsetse fly only transmits the malady.

Dr. Scherin proved that the fly grows infected, thus establishing a "cycle," as is the case with the mosquito in yellow fever. The fly remains inoculated for fifty days. This discovery renders more difficult the solution of the problem of extinguishing the dreaded disease, as it ends the hope previously entertained of suppressing it by isolation. The disease has claimed 500,000 victims, and, according to Maj. Seaman, once a person attacked ever has recovered. The chief horror is the long period of incubation. The bite of the fly itself when not inoculated is harmless. Mr. Seaman was bitten on the forehead and suffered no bad effects.

JOHN MITCHELL ASSAILS NEW PRESIDENT OF MANUFACTURERS

New York, May 26.—The recent arraignment of organized labor made here in the course of his speech of acceptance by John Kirby of Dayton, Ohio, newly elected president of the National Association of Manfacturers, is made the subject of a condemnatory article by John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, published in the current issue of the National Civic Federation Review.

Mr. Mitchell quotes Mr. Kirby as saying that he has been elected to the presidency of the National Association of Manufacturers not on account of his ability nor because of his national reputation, but because members of the association knew where he stood on the labor question. He then goes on to illustrate where Mr. Kirby stands on this question by contrasting his utterances on the subject of organized labor with those of President Taft, Pope Leo XIII, Cardinal Manning, Gladstone, Mark Hanna, Potter Palmer, Wendell Phillips, Bishop Potter and Melville E. Ingalls.

From this parallel Mr. Mitchell deduces that "the only truthful and sane declaration made by the newly chosen spokesman of the National Association of Manufacturers is that wherein he says:

"'I have not been selected as your president on account of my ability.'"

"Paradoxical as it may appear," says Mr. Mitchell, "the representatives of this employers' association, in one breath decry and denounce what they term 'class divisions' and 'class hatreds,' and in the next breath malign and berate their fellow-citizens who are workingmen, and all other groups in society in sympathy with the legitimate purposes and high ideals of the labor movement. They claim and proclaim the right and necessity of organization among employers, yet deny to workingmen the right of organization and combination. They prate about law and order, yet advocate violence and anarchy; they suggest the use of the cannon as a means of dispersing the workingmen; they malign and traduce the great majority of employers of labor who refuse to join them in carrying forward their unholy and un-American designs to destroy organized labor movements, and to cap the climax of their inconsistency, they impugn the motives and question the intelligence of the religious, educational and philanthropic institutions of our country simply because these institutions have opened their doors to the organized labor movement and have listened respectfully to the claims made in behalf of the workingmen and women whose brain and brawn have contributed in no small degree to the commercial, intellectual and moral supremacy of the nation.

"How much better would it be for ourselves, how much more would it contribute to the honor and glory of our common country, if these gentlemen of the National Association of Manufacturers would examine with open minds and intelligent discernment the real purpose, policy and philosophy of the American labor movement."

WARSHIP IS BACK AT NEW ORLEANS; QUICK TIME

New Orleans, La., May 26.—Several hours ahead of her schedule and having broken all river records for speed, the big battleship Mississippi reached the navy yards off here at 7 o'clock last evening. Having left Natchez at 5 o'clock a. m., the trip, a distance of 297 miles, was made in the marvelously short time of fourteen hours. She was not expected here till this evening.

The trip down the river was marked by as much enthusiasm and interest as was exhibited on the journey up. The ship anchored off the coaling station at the navy yards tonight and will take on 550 tons of coal tomorrow. This will carry her to Pensacola, where she will pick up 1,800 tons more for her voyage of Philadelphia. She will leave New Orleans at 5 a. m. tomorrow.

FLYER IS WRECKED; NO PASSENGERS INJURED.

Allentown, Pa., May 26.—The Scranton Flyer on the Central railroad of New Jersey was wrecked at Slate Dam, fifteen miles west of here, by the breaking of a brake beam, six cars having left the track. The train, which left Philadelphia at 6 p. m., was composed of a combination smoker and five coaches.

A short distance below Slate Dam there is a bad curve, and the train slowed up. As the brakes were applied the smoker turned completely over, dragging the remaining five cars from the rails and throwing them on their sides. The locomotive remained on the rails. None of the passengers were injured, officials say.

A. R. Bennett of Scranton, the conductor, was slightly bruised. The avoidance of serious injuries is considered remarkable.

Duluth at Wausau.
Superior at La Crosse.
Winona at Eau Claire.

Wausau, Wis., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Davis, a new pitcher, was responsible for the spoiling of Duluth's game here yesterday, and he kept the locals guessing until the ninth inning when they managed to get the range of his curves to advantage and drive runs. Likewise, two bad decisions by Umpire Hayes helped Wausau a total of three runs, and if the game and Duluth's own errors and a double play, two passes and a double by Wausau the latter in the seventh, gave the seven hits to Davis, who pitched Russell for nine, but Davis could not manage more than two scores one in the sixth and another in the ninth. Still Losing.

La Crosse, Wis., May 25.—The "Drillers" lost to their hard to K contest yesterday by being scored out in the seventh inning after they had led all the way up to that time. Superior worked Pitcher Bartsell, who worked for Duluth here last Saturday and lost by the same score, 6 to 5. Bartsell allowed good ball, but the Reals to score six until the seventh, when two errors, a double a hit batsman and a sacrifice caused the three runs. Wolford kept the hits well scattered, but his passes to balls were costly.

The feature of the game was the fast work of Malloy on the bases.

Double-Header Divided.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 26.—Milwaukee and Minneapolis split even in a double-header yesterday afternoon, the visitors capturing the first game by a score of 4 to 3 and the home team winning the second 3 to 2. In the opener, Seibig pitched a magnificent game, holding the leaders to one hit, a single by Kelly. Mullin twirled nine ball until the eighth, when he was hit for three runs. Four more followed in the ninth on four singles and a double. In the second game Powers and Reed had all with good support in the fourth would have shut the visitors out. Score. R. H. E.

One Game Postponed.

The game scheduled between St. Paul and Kansas City was postpened on account of rain.

(By Bruce.)

As the sun at Epsom Downs gives signs of retiring behind the horizon this afternoon, and the bugle calls the runners to the parade, the eyes of the sporting world will be centered upon the result of the classic struggle at Newmarket.

The eyes of the American lovers of racing are centered upon the result of the race. An American entry, Sir Martin, the great chestnut of John E. Madden, disputes with King Edward's Minoru, the popular choice of the people as the probable winner of the race.

Two years ago Richard Croker's Orby won the race. There was an American pride in the accomplishment, through the fact that Mr. Croker for years had been an American citizen. Even the fact that he had been the leader of Tammany hall was overlooked in the general rejoicing that followed the splendid victory by the Croker entry.

That was the third historic occasion that an American entry had snatched victory from the horses of the English. And mother of rage, it ruffles up the sanctified sentiments of those British sporting men to have an American horse win the classic event.

When Mr. Croker led his horse back from the wire, as is customary for the owner of the winner to do, those Englishmen, who masquerade under the name of sportsmen, blessed the greyhaired owner of the gallant and game Orby. It was a grand victory magnificently won, and yet so bitter is the English resentment against an American entry, winning the event that the British sportsmen believe rightfully belongs to England, that they forget that they are supposed to be gentlemen.

If Sir Martin comes under the wire first this afternoon it will be the fourth time that an American horse has copped the coin in the classic Epsom derby.

If you go back into the musty records of the international turf events you will find that back in 1881, Iroquois, owned by Pierre Lorillard, won the English derby, winning double glory thereby, as the great Iroquois was the first American horse that ever won the greatest of English turf events.

In 1901 Volodyski, owned by the late W. C. Whitney, shoved his beautiful head under the wire ahead of the field that England could send to the post. In 1907, as has been stated above, Mr. Croker's Orby showed a clean pair of heels to the best horses that the English owners could nominate for the event.

If Sir Martin wins this afternoon, and may Dame Fortune speed the big chestnut on his way, it is probable that the stewards of the English Jockey club may adopt some action looking to the barring of American horses from the Epsom Downs event.

And the Sir Martin horse is accorded a very excellent chance of winning the race this afternoon. He was placed upon the future books at odds of 15 to 1. So steadily has been the deluge of gold that has followed the chances of the American horse that he is now played at 7 to 2. Only the entry of King Edward is a favorite over the entry of plebian John E. Madden. It is very probable that were it not for the fact that an American owned Sir Martin he would be the favorite in the race.

The race will be worth $32,500 and will be the greatest turf event of the year. It is an event of international importance, one upon which the eyes of the sporting world are strained, eager to catch the first news of the outcome of the race.

Here's the very best to you, Sir Martin.

Heigh ho, poor Willtrow, stormy times do o'ertake us.

This is simply to correct an erroneous impression that has gained wide circulation. Mr. "Barrel" Smith's name is not what they have been calling him. It is Burrell, pronounced with a soft "u" sound. Of course, people have called Mr. Smith other names than "Barrell," but we can't help that.

Fight to a Draw.

San Francisco, Cal., May 26.—Mike (Twin) Sullivan of Boston and Kyle Whitney fought twenty rounds to a draw last night. Sullivan outboxed Whitney and was aggressive, but was knocked down in the nineteenth round, which probably prevented him getting the decision. Sullivan had the better of his opponent.

KING EDWARD'S MINORU WINS THE ENGLISH DERBY

Great English Turf Event Draws Thousands of Spectators.

Americans Backed John E. Madden's Sir Martin, Heavily.

* Epsom, Eng., May 26.—The derby stakes of 6,500 sovereigns for entire colts and fillies foaled in 1906, the blue ribbon event of the English racing season, distance of about one mile and a half was won today by Minoru.
* The victory of his majesty's horse was exceedingly popular and was greeted by a burst of enthusiasm.
* W. Raphaels' Louviers was second and William IV third. Fifteen horses ran.

Epsom, Eng., May 26.—A heavy downpour of rain, which began early this morning and continued until noon, with threats of showers during the afternoon, kept thousands of the casual racegoers from journeying down to Epsom Downs today to witness the historic Derby. Interest in the race, however, remained undiminished, and King Edward's Minoru is still the favorite.

The rain chiefly affected the crowd which usually comes down by road. The customary costers' turnouts, the tradesmen's wagons, wagonettes and hansom cabs still were to be seen on the road, but the procession was diminished noticeably. A feature of the parade this year was the taxicab. This vehicle enabled the business man to leave his office after his morning work and get down here in time to see the big race.

There were few coaches out, but prominent among those that did come down were A. G. Vanderbilt's Venture, chartered for the day by Clarence Mackay, who had with him a party of American friends. The Venture was driven by Mr. Vanderbilt. Many other Americans, coming to the Derby for the first time, chose the time-honored road route, but instead of traveling behind horses, they were in motor cars. The great crowd which filled the grandstands and roamed over the heath took advantage of the special trains that ran every few minutes and deposited their passengers at the track. The sun had come out before it was necessary to leave London by train, and the doubtful ones who had been frightened off by the rain earlier in the day, later joined the procession to the railroad station.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra, Princess Victoria, the prince and princess of Wales and other members of the royal family came down by train. Upon arriving at Epsom they were driven to the royal enclosure in semi-state carriages, accompanied by outriders.

New York, May 26.—It was estimated in sporting circles last night that Sir Martin, the American horse in the English derby to be run today, will carry approximately $500,000 of American money. Efforts were made in New York late last night to put down a number of large wagers on the success of this colt, but they were refused, indicating that the bookmakers have accepted all the bets they desire on him.

Never before has there been so much American interest in the English derby as now, not excepting in 1881, when Iroquois, the American horse owned by Pierre Lorillard, was the first animal to capture the event for this country. The race will be run about 4 o'clock English time, thus bringing the news to the eastern part of the United States about 11 a. m.; Chicago, 10; Denver, 9, and San Francisco, 8 o'clock.

John E. Madden, the breeder of Sir Martin at his Kentucky farm, who has a substantial wager on the horse, and who stands to profit by a percentage of the $40,000 derby purse, has told for the first time the price he received for the great horse. He sold Sir Martin and Edward, both 3-year-olds, to Louis Winans for $75,000, of which $65,000 was for Sir Martin. He also retained an interest in the stake winnings of the two animals.

CREW TO BE DISBANDED

Loss of Two Men Discourages the Senior Oarsmen.

Junior Crew Will Be the Only Eight Entered in Regatta.

Despite the efforts of the officials of the Duluth Boat club to prevent the disorganization of the senior crew, the members of that eight have decided to disband for the present season, and the present week will mark the last appearance of the members of the 1909 senior crew.

The loss of Ben Pierce and John Sinclair is the reason for abandoning the attempt to form a senior eight that would make a good showing at the St. Paul regatta. The members of the crew have been hard at practice since early last fall. They worked faithfully in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium during the present early spring, and it was believed that through the strenuous efforts to produce a winning crew the seniors would make a strong bid for honors at the July regatta at St. Paul.

However, when it was announced that Pierce would be unable to row because of the fact that he was compelled to go on the road, and that Sinclair was ill from the effects of the race of last saturday, a gloom was cast over the members of the crew.

A conference was held Monday, and it was decided to abandon the crew. Some efforts may be made during the present week to make arrangements whereby the crew can be kept together. After all the interest the officials of the club and Coach Murray Peyton has shown in the welfare of the crew, and the faithful work that the members of the eight have done in all kinds of weather, at least a strong effort should be made to arrange for continuing.

The junior crew will, of course, continue its training.

McCUNE BESTS ART ALLARD

Detroit Man Has Advantage in Fast Ten Round Mill.

Houghton, Mich., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Science and brute strength met at Lake Linden last night when Tom McCune of Detroit and Art Allard of Lake Linden fought for the middleweight championship of the Northwest. The 10-round bout was declared a draw, but McCune had a decided advantage all the way through.

Allard was wild and plunging, while McCune fought coolly and used his head. Allard's upper body and face were beaten to a pulp, while McCune came out of the bout unscathed.

The local man threw him all over the ring, however, and both went down half a dozen times in the clinches.

OLAMBALA WINS CLASSIC DERBY

Rain Interferes Greatly in Cincinnati Racing Event.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 26.—Olambala, owned by J. G. Greener, won the classic Latonia derby at a mile and a half yesterday by five lengths from Pat Dunne's The Peer, while fifteen lengths back came Plateglass, the only other starter. Rain began falling early in the day and while it ceased when the derby was being run, the damage had been done and the race was run over a sloppy track. Starter Holtman had no trouble sending the three horses away to a good start. Plateglass jumped to the front immediately and held the lead until the stretch turn, where Olambala, the favorite, took command, followed by The Peer. Plateglass fell back beaten, untouched by whip or spur. Olambala widened the gap and came under the wire an easy winner by five lengths. The Peer easily took the place from Plateglass. Warfield was scratched shortly before the race on account of the bad condition of the track. The net value of the race to the winner was $3,050.

Despite the rain, a large crowd attended. Only three horses started in the opening event, the Latonia inaugural, at five and a half furlongs. Colloquy, at 5 to 1, won two lengths from Al Mueller, odds on favorite, with Madman third. Seventeen bookmakers drew in for the opening day. Four favorites won.

UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL MANAGER HAS RESIGNED.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—L. C. Campbell, who was some time ago elected as manager of the University of North Dakota football team for the 1909 season, has resigned, and on Friday the board of directors of the University Athletic association will hold a meeting to elect his successor. Mr. Campbell was obliged to leave his position from the fact that this year will close his work at the university.

Verma Defeats Bessemer.

Virma, Mich., May 26.—(Special to the Herald.)—Virma had an easy time with the Bessemer baseball team, defeating it by a score of 14 to 4. Virma got seven runs in the fourth inning. The batteries were Kruger and Johnson for Virma and Erickson and Bleeuth for Bessemer.

Duluth Will Not Be Represented at National Brewers' Convention.

According to August Fitger of the Fitger Brewing company, there is slight chance that Duluth will be represented this year at the annual meeting of the National Brewers' association, to be held at Atlantic City on June 1.

Mr. Fitger does not anticipate that any business of a sensational nature will come before the meeting. For the past four years he has been a trustee of the association, and this will be the first convention in four years that he has missed. The national association leaves the state organizations to worry over the prohibition and anti-prohibition questions, and pays little attention to it itself.

The Story of a Medicine

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

More than forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, teachers and writers on Materia Medica who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompained with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

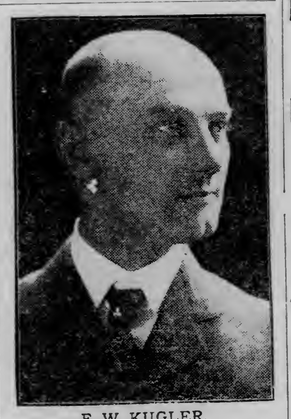
F. W. KUGLER VISITS DULUTH

Former Superior Street Druggist Returns From the West.

"The reason why Duluth doesn't grow as fast as the cities on the coast is that you haven't the crowd of boosters here that they have out there," said F. W. Kugler, the former Duluth druggist, who is back in the city visiting his friends here. Mr. Kugler is now located at Spokane, where he has a drug brokerage business, and apparently is prospering in a material way.

"Out in the West, when anybody starts any project that will help the home town, everybody seems to get in behind and boost it along. Here in Duluth it was always my experience that everybody had to be shown.



F. W. KUGLER.

If Duluth and Two Harbors were in the West they would have had a trolley line connecting them years ago, and there would have been lines running to Fond du Lac and to the range."

Mr. Kugler is enthusiastic about the Western country, although he claims to be still faithful to his old love—Duluth. "I was through the Bitter Root valley," he said, "and I believe the many Duluthians who have settled there have a good thing. In the West they have one law which is a splendid one. A man is compelled to take care of his fruit trees and keep them free from blight, or the state inspector comes along and chops them down."

Mr. Kugler expects to make but a short stay in Duluth, and will return to his business in Spokane.

Knights of Columbus to Give C. L. Twohy a Farewell Session.

C. L. Twohy, who is about to leave Duluth for North Yakima Wash., where he will take up his permanent residence, was given a farewell session last night by the Knights of Columbus at their hall on West First street. The event was quite largely attended.

A feature of the evening was the presentation to Mr. Twohy of a handsome diamond-studded gold watch charm, emblematic of the fourth degree Knights of Columbus. Dr. E. W. Fahey made the presentation speech. He is grand Knight of the Duluth council.

During the evening remarks were made by Val J. Mullery, John Dwan of Two Harbors, Fred J. Ryan, E. J. Kenny, Archie Kenny, A. V. Holahan, John Brown, Justin Zuger, T. J. Monahan and others.

Mr. Twohy has been prominent in Duluth business circles for many years past. He was one of the founders of the wholesale grocery house of the Ilowan-Peyton-Twohy company, and had other large interests here until recently, when he sold out to engage in business in the West.

S.S.S. REMOVES BLOOD HUMORS

Every pore and gland of the skin is employed in the necessary work of preserving its smooth, even texture, softening and cleansing it, and regulating the temperature of our bodies. This is done by an evaporation through each tiny outlet, which goes on continually day and night. When the blood becomes infected with humors and acids a certain percentage of these impurities also pass off with the natural evaporation, and their sour fiery nature irritates and inflames the skin, and dries up its natural oils, causing pimples, boils, pustules or some itching rash, or hard, scaly skin affection. S S S. cures skin troubles of every kind by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the blood. S. S. S. cools the acid-heated circulation, builds it up to its normal strength and thickness, multiplies its nutritious, red corpuscles and enriches it in every way. Then the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased by the exuding acrid matter, is nourished, soothed and softened by this cooling, healthy stream of blood. S S S., the greatest of blood purifiers, expels all foreign matter and surely cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum and all other diseases and affections of the skin. It removes pimples, blackheads, and other unsightly blemishes from the skin and assists in restoring a good complexion. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired free to all who write.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA

ON THE IRON RANGES

CALUMET HAS SEVERE FIRE

Whole Block in the New Western Mesaba Range Town Is Wiped Out.

Austrian Boarding House Near Aurora Catches From Forest Fires.

The unusually dry condition of forests on the Mesaba range already presents a menace to property in that section from forest fires. A block in the new town of Calumet on the Western Mesaba range, was wiped out this morning, the fire presumably starting from the forest fires reported in that section. Communication with Calumet is difficult, the news coming to The Herald from Hibbing, twenty miles distant.

Forest fires near Aurora are also doing some damage, a boarding house having been burned this morning and a large force of men being called out to fight the fires in the brush.

Reports from as far west as Grand Rapids and Deer River tell of fires caused by the unusual dry condition of the timber and carelessness in not extinguishing fires.

Hibbing, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Block No. 3 in the new town of Calumet, on the Western Mesaba range, about twenty miles from here, was destroyed by fire this morning, according to word received here. Details are hard to obtain, but it is understood that a hotel, three saloons, two clothing stores, a Chinese restaurant and a confectionary store, all small frame buildings, were destroyed at an estimated loss of about $10,000.

It is presumed the fire started from fires in the nearby timber. The town of Calumet was platted by W. J. Pewers of this place and has had a remarkable growth since it was first laid out.

Aurora, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A forest fire in May, something unusual in this section, has been raging since yesterday afternoon, north of Aurora, and this morning an Austrian boarding house, about two miles north of the village, was destroyed. The building was a two-story log affair, and the damage is not very heavy. All the lunatics escaped.

The fires in the brush are between the village and the Meadow location, and while they are not considered a menace to the town, men are at work today fighting the advance of the flames. About 1,000 feet of hose have been sent to the scene of the fire to aid in the fight. There is no danger of the town burning or the fire becoming especially dangerous. Carelessness in throwing a lighted match into the brush is blamed. The forests are unusually dry for this season.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dry condition of the forests in this locality and the carelessness of men burning brush are blamed for forest fires burning in this vicinity. There are several fires burning north of here, in the direction of Bovey. The yard of the Mason Cedar company here caught fire yesterday, but the firemen soon extinguished the flames. Fires are said to be burning along the Great Northern at different points west of here as far as Deer River.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires have already begun their annual harvests of timber in this section, many months earlier than usual. Already several fires of considerable proportions are raging in this vicinity, and if rain does not come pretty soon there may be a repetition of last year's heavy loss. No immediate danger is felt here yet.

FOREST RANGER HEADS FIRE FIGHTING BRIGADE.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The continued dry cool weather and backward vegetation, coupled with the very heavy winds of the past few days has blown up numerous forest fires along the Duluth & Iron Range, which will become dangerous unless the wind abates.

Yesterday afternoon fires were reported on the Drummond line near Britton siding and were had between Stewart and York, a number of places between Highland and Allen Junction, and especially at Mile 68½ and between Hinsdale and Embarrass. Forest Ranger August Tabor of this district, took out an Iron Range switch engine, with crew and water car about 4:30 p. m. to fight the fire between Stewart and York and worked until 9 p. m. and later on a call upon Mayor Knauff for more help, and ten men were sent there with pails on an ore train and remained during the night. How so many fires started is not known unless from farmers clearing land and burning brush. The ground is still filled with moisture, but the surface dry, and with the new vegetation slow in getting started the winds carry the fires easily. Their origin, however, will be easy to trace.

CITY HALL PLANS WILL BE CHANGED

Virginia Council to Provide Quarters for New Range Court.

Virginia, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council, at its meeting last night, decided to return to the architects, Radcliffe & Price of Duluth, the plans for the addition to the city hall. The plans as submitted did not make what the aldermen considered ample accommodations for the new district court. Some changes in the plans were suggested, and the architects were asked to submit the plans as soon as the alterations are made.

After some discussion, in which it was urged that the city give the manufacturers of gasoline road rollers a chance to bid, the council decided to act on the bids received some time ago on steam road rollers, and a roller costing $2,500 was settled on. The necessity of haste was the cause of the immediate action the council being anxious to get to work as soon as possible repairing the streets of the city.

Cleanliness has been a live topic at the council meetings for some weeks past, and it was taken up again last night. The street commissioner was instructed to keep the street cleaning gangs busy. As soon as the garbage cans are purchased, a scavenger will be put on regular duty collecting the garbage and disposing of it. The committee on establishing an incinerator.

William Rooney complained to the council last night of a merry-go-round operating near his home. Although a license had been granted, he was able to exert enough influence to have it revoked.

The council decided to allow the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company to install a grade crossing at the foot of Mesaba avenue. The council has been anxious to have an overhead crossing installed, but was unable to secure land for the necessary approaches.

FALLING STUMP KILLS.

Wife of Homesteader Living Near Mountain Iron Loses Life.

Virginia, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Samuel Swan, wife of a settler about eight miles northwest of Mountain Iron, was instantly killed yesterday by the falling of a tall stump. She was assisting her husband in clearing up some land near their cabin. Without warning, the heavy trunk was broken by the wind, falling on the woman and crushing her life out. The remains were brought to Virginia last night and the funeral will be held here. She is survived by her husband and five children.

EVELETH PHYSICIAN BACK.

Dr. Moore Returns From an Extended Stay in the South.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. C. W. More has just returned from a three months' trip with his wife and little daughter. They visited in Milwaukee, Chicago, Atlanta, Ga., and many other places, but spent most of the time at Aiken, S. C., where the little girl became much improved in health.

While there Dr. More attended a convention of the South Carolina Medical association and also secured many photographs of large tuberculosis sanitoriums, work in which he is especially interested, being a member of the Minnesota state board of health. At Charleston, S. C., the party were fortunate in seeing the semi-annual target practice of the batteries near there, when some excellent shots were made at a floating target. Dr. More was sick for ten days himself during the first part of the trip, but is now feeling very well.

Dr. Schultz of the Fabiola hospital has gone East and will sail June 9 for Germany and France for fourteen months' study abroad.

Dr. W. E. Harwood and family expect to sail in September for a long trip through Europe. Dr. Harwood has been here in the medical profession for many years and now thinks it time for a vacation.

SWAN LAKE BOATING.

Resort Near Nashwauk Promises to Become Very Popular.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brown Bros. ..... purchased a new gasoline launch which will be used on Swan lake this summer.

There are now eight launches on the lake and William Staley has bought a new equipment of rowboats which he will put in use soon.

Aside from the citizens of Nashwauk, many Hibbing people are interested in making Swan Lake a summer resort. There are sixteen summer cottages and many small shacks on its shores. The scenes of the surroundings of the lake are picturesque and the lake contains many varieties of fish. The Missabe line runs by the lake, which adds to the beautifying of its surroundings.

CASMER IS FINED.

Hibbing Man Mulcted for Striking Chinese Restaurant Keeper.

Hibbing, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trial of Robert Casmer, arrested on the charge of assaulting Charles Lee, a Chinaman, who runs the National restaurant, was adjudged guilty after a jury trial in Judge Brady's court yesterday and sentenced to pay a fine of $20 and costs or spend thirty days in jail. The case attracted considerable attention, the courtroom being crowded during the trial.

EXAMINE PAVING PLANS.

Eveleth Council Defers Definite Action Until Thursday Evening.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council met for a few moment last night after examining the plans and specifications for the different kinds of paving prepared by Engineer Austin. The meeting was adjourned until Thursday night, by which time the plans and specifications will be looked over and the clerk will be instructed to advertise for bids for the different kinds of paving.

A large number of property owners were present last night thinking that something definite would be done about the paving.

Was Another Smith.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Instead of being George Smith as stated in last night's dispatch to The Herald from here, the man who had the encounter with the timber wolves near Eveleth on Monday was Fred Smith, the former timber cruiser of Duluth.

FINNS PLANNING FOR GREAT TIME

Outside Speakers and Band From Montana Among Attractions.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local Finns are planning a celebration June 24 at Ely lake, when the annual midsummer day will be celebrated. Many people are expected. Special trains will be run from Duluth and the range towns. Either Judge Hughes of Hibbing or W. G. Calderwood of Minneapolis will deliver the address of the day. Part of the speaking will be in Finnish and the rest in English. During the day there will be a picnic, while a concert will be given in the evening at Wahlen Lahde hall. The Red Lodge band of Red Lodge, Mont., will be here to furnish music. Last year the day was celebrated in Duluth. Finns are expected from all over Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

The present officers of the association are: John Saari, chairman; Rev. Wargelin, secretary, and William Talkari, treasurer. The arrangement committee is busy now getting things in shape, and is composed of Frank Mattson, Rev. Wargelin and Victor Tapela. The local executive committee is composed of Jack Hill, Miss Selma Laota and Frank Mattson. The new officers of the association will be elected after the evening concert.

The Finnish Lutheran Church of America will hold its annual convention here June 5, and Rev. Wargelin, the local minister, is busy arranging a program for the meeting. Delegates will be here from all over the United States. Last year's meeting was held at Worcester, Mass.

GILBERT PLANS WATER SYSTEM

Village Council Figuring on Best Method of Securing It.

Gilbert, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the council meeting Monday night, the water works system question was the topic of discussion. For the present a surface pipe from the Gilbert mine will be laid, to supply the water needs of the village, while later the Steel corporation will put up a water system for the village as they promised to do for the Sparta people. Trustees Rattenbury, Cosgrove and Silver, and President Masterson were appointed a committee to see Supt. A. J. Sullivan of the Gilbert mine relative to the water system and it is understood that the latter has permission from Duluth headquarters to grant the use of the Gilbert mine water for the town. The permanent water system will have a pumping station at Ely lake, and an electric light plant will also be run by the village in conjunction with the water pumping station, as the village officials consider the electric franchise too valuable to be given away.

The salaries were set as follows: Health Officer Dr. Barrett, $100 a year; constables, $70 per month; village clerk, $50 per month; trustees and president, $10 per year.

The council will hold a meeting tonight to devise means of getting the pipe for the surface pipe as soon as possible. Through the usual routine, it would be some time before the pipe could be purchased, but as the water is needed at once, some way will be found to get the pipe now.

WANTS MORE TIME.

Northern Traction Company Asks Hibbing Council for Extension.

Hibbing, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council had an extended discussion Monday night over the application of the Northern Traction company, which proposes to connect the range towns with trolleys for an extension of its franchise, which soon expires, six months. The matter went over, the council desiring to have some of the directors of the company at the next meeting.

C. E. Young tendered his resignation as a member of the village library board, and it was accepted.

The committee on streets was directed also to give an estimate on excavating and macadamizing Third avenue, at the next meeting, which will be held June 1, bids on the furnishings for the new city hall will be opened. The council fixed the amount of the bond, which the city treasurer must give, at $20,000, and fixes his commission at three-quarters of 1 per cent.

Clothes are almost human!

Their lives can be shortened by abuse the same as ours.

With ordinary soap, the constant rubbing of clothes over a rigid washboard wears and tears the life out of them.

With the aid of Gold Dust most of the work is done without your help, and little or no rubbing is required.

Gold Dust is soap "with its working clothes on"—good honest, vegetable oil soap ground fine and blended with other purifying materials. It cleanses vigorously and thoroughly without taxing your strength, and with no injury to garments.

Eveleth Baker Separated From "Dough" for Breaking Ordinance.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fabrizia Vantrucca, a baker, was before Judge Prince yesterday on the charge of breaking ordinance No. 15, relating to licensing draymen. Vantrucca did some draying Monday and earned $2 extra. He was fined $5 for breaking the ordinance and now finds himself $8 in the hole, besides doing the draying for nothing.

Joe Baccitta, who was arrested for beating a board bill on John Belandnelli, was discharged as the evidence was weak.

Tony Bezno was unable to pay a fine of $20 and he was today taken to Duluth to serve thirty days. Frank Martin, who was arrested on a similar charge, paid a fine of $20, though he pleaded not not guilty.

VIRGINIA PLANNING TO CELEBRATE THE FOURTH.

Virginia, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia citizens are awakening to the fact that the Fourth of July is but little over a month away and are talking of a celebration. Last year Virginia, with only two or three weeks' preparation, had one of the best celebrations in the state. This year, the business men intend to outdo themselves and they will go an early start in order to do so. President C. B. Lenont of the Commercial club is expected to call a special meeting of the club soon to start the ball rolling.

JEWISH HOLIDAY IS OBSERVED IN EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local Jews began the celebration of the feast of weeks, commonly known as "Shebnoth," last night with appropriate services in the synagogue. Rabbi Samuel Levant conducted services last night and this morning. Rabbi A. Rubenstein will conduct the services tonight. This week is one of the important holidays of the Jewish year, as the ten commandments were received at this time. Several out of town Hebrews are in town to attend the first services of the holiday.

NASHWAUK TENNIS PLAYERS ARE ORGANIZED.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some of the citizens interested in lawn tennis met at the office of J. C. Lewis, attorney-at-law, Monday evening to organize a tennis club. The officers elected were: J. C. Lewis, president; V. B. Rogers, secretary, and F. W. Chain, treasurer. It is the intention of members of the club to purchase grounds enough to furnish two double courts. The site for the court will be located between Third and Second streets.

ORE SHIPPING FROM THE VERMILION RANGE.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first stockpile loading on the Vermilion range started yesterday, when a steam shovel was started to work at the Zenith mine at Ely. A switch engine was sent from here for the work. Shipments from the Vermilion range have been light up to this time. The Pewabic mine at Biwabik, one of the big shippers, commenced the season's ore shipments yesterday, and will load about a cargo per week for the present.

COMPANY BUYS BACK PROPERTY

A. Booth Company Will Be Continued Under New Name.

Yesterday, on the steps of the courthouse, the assets of the defunct firm of A. Booth & Co. in St. Louis county were sold to the highest bidder.

C. W. Turner, the receiver for the Booth company in Minnesota, came up from St. Paul to conduct the sale. The property was knocked down to T. B. Lynch of Chicago, of the Booth Fisheries company, that being the name of the reorganized firm.

Frank C. Leets of Chicago is president of the new corporation.

It is understood that there will be no changes in the subordinate officers and employes. The new organization will be practically the same as the old.

BADLY DECOMPOSED

Body of Unidentified Man Taken From the Bay.

The badly decomposed body of a man, which has not yet been identified, was taken from the bay yesterday in the vicinity of Northern Pacific dock No. 5. The remains had been in the water so long that the clothing had rotted away, only one shoe and a part of the shirt remaining. It is thought the man was drowned in the St. Louis river last summer or fall.

The lodge is also sending out circulars explaining the causes of tuberculosis and containing advice on how to keep well.

The Duluth Woodmen plan to raise $250 to go toward the support of the tuberculosis colony in Colorado.

THE VALLEY VIEW SOLD.

East Grand Forks Newspaper Bought By Uncle of Former Publisher.

East Grand Forks, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Valley View, a local weekly newspaper, which has been conducted for the past seven or eight years by Stoughton & Stember, was sold at public auction by Receiver Hugh Dunlevy yesterday to Peter Stoughton, an uncle of one of the partners. William Stoughton was committed to the insane hospital at Fergus Falls last fall, and this spring Stember brought suit for dissolution of partnership. T. A. Sullivan, guardian of Stoughton, asked for a receiver, and the request was granted, the sale being made by the receiver. The accepted bid was $2,216, and the sale is subject to the approval of Judge Watts of the district court.

BOYS LOSING OUT.

Girls Winning Majority of Prizes in the Picture Contest.

THE PRIZE WINNERS.

For the letters—First prize, $3, Martha Kaus, 611 East Tenth street; second prize, $2, Elsie Ziegler, 1918 West Third street.

The boys had better hurry in the Borden contest. In yesterday's prizes three of the four prizes were taken by girls, which doesn't speak very well for the enterprise and energy of Duluth boys.

The letters are coming by every mail and more and more of the Duluth children are becoming interested every day. Many are writing letters almost every day, for that's one of the finest features of the contest. You may enter as often as you like. And, of course, the oftener they write the better they do it, so this is another case of "if at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

For the boys and girls under 12 years there is the picture contest. Draw a picture of a cow, and send it with a label from the can of Borden's Peerless Brand Evaporated Milk, with a coupon cut from The Herald, to the Contest Editor of The Herald. For the young people under 21 years of age the same rules apply, only they are to write a letter about Borden's milk.

LORIMER IS ELECTED

Wins Illinois Senatorship on the Ninety-Fifth Ballot.

Congressman Takes Place That Is Lost By Hopkins.

Springfield, Ill., May 26.—Congressman William Lorimer of the Stockyards district, Chicago, was today elected United States senator to succeed Albert J. Hopkins of Aurora, on the ninety-fifth joint ballot of the legislature.

Lorimer received 105 votes. The result is come about through a coalition of Democratic assemblymen and the anti-Hopkins Republicans. The hall of representatives through the hours speeding the close of the deadlock was crowded with a host of politicians. Strong efforts were made by Senator Hopkins' aides to head off the break to Lorimer, but they were unavailing. The dramatic last act of the deadlock, which has waged since Jan. 20, played to a small crowd.

Unrest regarding the long deadlock over the senatorship was rampant today. Many believed that Lorimer would figure conspicuously in the balloting, and today was considered as crucial as was yesterday before the ineffective ballot was taken. The general understanding was that a break to Congressman Lorimer would be largely Democratic votes. That his election would be possible only by a coalition of Democrats and anti-Hopkins men was undisputed.

The first Republican to shift to Lorimer today was Senator Ball. Senator Brett followed and cast the second ballot for Lorimer, saying Lorimer could ably represent the people and was always consistent. On the joint ballot the vote of the senate was: Hopkins, 31; Lorimer, 12; Stringer, 7. The roll of the senate showed 12 votes for Lorimer, Republican Senators Ball, Brett, Cruikshank, Curtis, Downing, McElvaine and Democratic Senators Broderick, Gorman, Hearn, Hostlaw, Lindh and Rainey voting for him.

Lorimer Stock Rises.

After Browne of the lower house had voted for Lorimer the roll of the house members was started Abrahams (Democrat), Allison (Democrat), Aschbacher (Democrat), A. P. Madoc (Republican), Bock (Republican), Behrens (Republican) and Black (Republican) voted for Lorimer and the hopes of the friends of the congressman rose as each vote was cast.

While the roll call of the house was progressing and Minority Leader Browne was explaining his vote, Representative Chiperfield objected to the presence of Former Lieutenant Governor W. A. Northcott on the floor of the house.

A scene of confusion followed and Chiperfield left his seat apparently to enforce the release, while policemen sought to quell the trouble. Chiperfield shouted, "I invoke the rules of the house."

Repeated blows of the gavel brought a semblance of order and the rules permitting ex-state officers the privilege of the floor were read. Representative Shanahan then declared that the objection should have been to ex-state officers lobbying on the floor of the house and not to their mere presence. Mr. Browne then proceeded with his explanation.

When Chiperfield first called attention to the presence of ex-Lieutenant Governor Northcott, the latter stepped into the Democratic cloak room and was escorted by a policeman to the door. Northcott is one of Senator Hopkins' chief lieutenants.

FOUR DEAD, FOUR SAVED

Tragedy Befalls Party That Went to Roast Marshmallows.

Launch Capsizes With Occupants Near Grand Rapids, Wis.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 26.—A Daily News special from Grand Rapids, Wis., says:

Four persons were drowned and four were rescued from a capsized gasoline launch, which was carried through the sluice gates of the dam of the Consolidated Water Power company of this city last night, and dashed to the rocks below.

The drowned:
MISS BESSIE ANDERSON.
MISS B. BOGIGER.
MISS MAY FORSE.
RALPH ANDERSON.
Those rescued:
Miss Esmo Dolan.
Carroll.
Don Halliday.
Will Sweet.

The body of Miss Bogiger was recovered.

The party went up the river about 8 o'clock to a place on Big island called Lovers' Nook, to roast marshmallows. Upon their return, in attempting to make a landing, and not knowing the gates of the dam were open, the swift current caught the stern of the craft and all were carried to the river below. Screams for help brought a party of rescuers, but some members of the party became exhausted before help arrived. The remainder of the party were nearly exhausted when help arrived.

An Oak Hall Sale.

The Oak Hall clothing company were last week offered by wire a special lot of 300 suits made for a Twin City clothier, who got cold feet, owing to the backward season and cancelled the order.

The suits were then offered to Oak Hall by New York's leading maker at a price that hardly pays for the making and after the exchange of a few messages by which the Oak Hall were assured that the suits were up to the standard demanded by them the order was given to ship the lot and today the big store is busy arranging for a special sale that will start tomorrow. The Oak Hall does not indulge in the continual sales habit, but this special deal was too good to let go by and the suits will be sold at a price that will clean them up in short order.

ALDERMAN MAKES GRAFT CHARGES

Claims Liquor Interests Spent $4,000 to Defeat High License.

Charges of graft were made last night at the council meeting by Alderman Schaefer, who with six other members of the council, stood firm for raising the liquor license from $500 to $1,000 and limiting the saloons to 100. Both measures were defeated and the present license fee will be retained.

In a speech to the council, Alderman Shaefer took occasion to say that it had been stated that $4,000 had been raised among the liquor men of Superior to buy the high license men. Before the vote was taken, he warned his colleagues that if their vote was changed, it might be inferred that they had to be bribed.

When the alderman claimed that there were fifty-three places in Superior selling booze without a license, a mild sensation was sprung. Mayor Crumpton interrupted him and asked him if he could furnish the names of the parties. He said that he could. He further said that in several of the drug stores in Superior, liquor could be purchased on Sunday in any quantity.

Other aldermen also spoke in favor of a high license on the grounds that it would cut out a number of low dives.

HORSEWHIPPED IN COURTROOM

Superior Teamster Willing to Take What He Gave Horse.

To substantiate his claims that the lash of a whip did not hurt a horse, W. J. Campbell, a teamster, was horsewhipped at his own invitation yesterday afternoon, in municipal court at Superior. Campbell is a large man and never winced under the blows administered for several minutes by Dr. Howden, a veterinary surgeon.

W. J. Campbell, James Campbell and their employer, William Esch, were arrested and fined $5 each for cruelty to animals yesterday. The testimony showed that the whip had played no small part in compelling the horses to pull heavy loads.

When the whips were introduced as evidence, W. J. Campbell rose from his chair and invited any one in the courtroom to use them upon him, contending that there would be no ill results. He bared his arm and Dr. Howden plied the whip on it for several minutes. Campbell came out of the ordeal without a scratch. Humane Agent W. B. Kellogg prosecuted the case.

THREE HOUSES BURNED.

Billings Park Families Lose Homes in Night Fire.

A blaze originating from a defective chimney flue burned two houses to the ground and partially destroyed a third last evening about 7 o'clock on Missouri avenue in Billings Park. The houses were numbered 1608, 1610 and 1612. William Robertson occupied the first house and the John Bollne and Andrew Peterson families lived in the other two houses. The loss was about $3,000, partially covered by insurance. Considerable furniture was saved.

Agitate for Park.

Agitation is under foot, backed by the Third Ward Improvement league, for a park in that section of the city. A meeting was held last evening and those interested in the project outlined plans for a campaign.

Holmes on Trial.

James Holmes, the negro, who is charged with having assaulted, with intent to kill, Jack Buell, about a week ago in a Third street saloon, was tried this afternoon in superior court.

Holmes did not take the stand this afternoon, but it is understood that his defense will be one of self-protection. He admits striking Buell over the head with a revolver, but says that the discharge of his gun was accidental.

The case went over late this afternoon until tomorrow. It will be taken up in the morning.

Harry Furniss, in the Strand: James R. Keene, who won and lost fortunes and who played with millions of dollars as a child would play with a heap of sand, was once asked why, having wealth to satiety, he did not give up the game of money-grabbing and seek peace, comfort and contentment.

The answer vouchsafed by Keene may be regarded as that which would be offered by many another man, if the same question were put to him.

"Why do I want more money?" said Keene. "Why does a dog want another rabbit? Your dog will chase the millionth rabbit as though it were the first he had ever seen. He will strive and strain in the pursuit of it to the point of heart-break; one might suppose his soul's life depended on the capture. And yet, should he overtake it, he will cast it aside when killed and begin quartering the ground to start another. So the last gasp of his breath that dog will chase his rabbit. When you tell me why that dog wants another rabbit I'll tell you why I want more money."

Mrs. Cobden Sanderson is very resentful of the suggestion that the women of England have a separate legislature. It was a major general in the army who suggested the plan, but the ladies will have none of it and declare that it would be most absurd. Lady Warwick is also opposed to the idea, as are the other suffragettes.

WHEAT HAS WEAK CLOSE

Northwestern Markets Have Firmer Tone Than the Others.

Flax Is Strong, However, and Close Here Is Quite Firm.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 26.—Closing wheat prices were lower in the American markets today, but Duluth and Minneapolis were inclined to hold firmer than the rest. The cash situation in the Northwest is very strong, and with light receipts, has a tendency to keep prices steady in this part of the country.

May and July closed fractionally off in Duluth, but Minneapolis July was slightly higher at the close.

Weak cables were partly responsible for the lower prices on this side of the Atlantic. Liverpool closed ⅞d to 1½d lower, Berlin 1¾c lower, and Budapest 1⅜c lower.

The May option closed ¼c lower in Duluth, ⅜c lower in Chicago, unchanged in Minneapolis, ⅜c lower in New York, ½c lower in St. Louis, ⅝c lower in Kansas City and ¼c lower in Winnipeg. The July option closed ¼c lower in Duluth and Winnipeg, ⅛@¼c lower in Chicago, ⅛c higher in Minneapolis, unchanged in New York, ⅛@⅜c lower in St. Louis and ⅝c lower in Kansas City.

July corn closed ¼c lower in Chicago and oats ⅞c lower.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was a quiet undertone to the speculative wheat market at the opening, although offerings were larger and values ⅜d lower than yesterday. Following the opening and during the remainder of the morning, the market was severely under selling pressure and values further declined ⅝d to ¾c. May was dull after the opening and unchanged. Weakness resulted from the late break in America yesterday, which led traders here to discredit the bullish reports from Kansas. Further rains are reported in Southern Russia and Roumania, where drought has prevailed, and light rains are reported in Germany and France. Near cargoes were in poor demand at 3d decline and generally offerings were more liberal. At mid-day, the market was weak and from 1d to 1¼d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was quiet at the start and unchanged. Later, July declined ¼d on the larger and lower La Plata offerings."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 10, against 53 last year, and at Minneapolis 63, against 121 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 163, against 174 last year. Chicago reported 199 cars last week and 199 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Session Is Nervous and Wild—Close Same as Tuesday.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—The opening was a little weaker, on the cables and favorable weather. The session was very nervous and wild. Local stocks decreased 375,000 bu for four days against a decrease of 600,000 bu for the same time last week. The close was about the same as yesterday. Minneapolis received 63 cars against 127, Duluth, 10 against 53; Winipeg, 37 against 38. September opened $1.12¾, high $1.12¾, low $1.10⅞; close, $1.11⅜. July opened $1.30⅜; high, $1.30⅜; low, $1.29⅞; close, $1.30⅝. Cash wheat was in good demand today. Both the country and local millers were again eager buyers of the light offerings. Inquiry was strongest for choice grades. No. 1 northern sold for ¼@¾c above the July option, and No. 2 northern for 2@2½c above. No. 1 northern spot, $1.34¾; to arrive, $1.33⅞@1.34⅜. No. 2 northern spot, $1.32⅞@1.33; to arrive, $1.32⅜@1.32⅝. No. 3 wheat, $1.30⅝@1.32½. No. 2 yellow corn, 73@73¼c. No. 3 white oats, 57⅜@58⅜c. No. 2 rye, 84@86c.

Flax—Receipts 2 cars today against, 19; shipments, none. Light offerings made the market inactive. Prices were the same as the Duluth July option. Close, $1.78⅜.

Barley—Receipts, 21 cars against, 15; shipments, 34. Demand was strong and the market was steady to ½c stronger. Inquiry was the strongest for feeding grades. Several sales were reported for outside markets. Closing range, 72½ @ 73½c.

Millstuffs shipments 1,547 tons. The market continued strong and active. Demand was far in excess of the supply. Millers reported a very satisfactory business. Shipments increased and prices held firm. Bran in bulk, $24.00@24.50.

Flour was in only fair demand again, due to the break in wheat, and prices declined. Orders continued to be most for split cars. Foreign inquiry was very light. Shipments, although light were heavier than yesterday, 36,782 barrels. First patents, $6.40@6.60; second patents, $6.20@6.30; first clears, $5.05@5.25; second clears, $3.65@3.85.

STOCKS ARE LIFELESS

Prices Almost Motionless for Most of Final Hour.

Weakness of Reading and Steel Had a Bearish Effect.

New York, May 26.—There was an extremely sluggish and irregular movement of prices in the opening dealings today on the stock market, which were very light. Some of the industrials made a show of strength. United States Steel opened ¼ higher than last night and ⅛ better than its previous record price. American Locomotive and Utah Copper gained 1 and Amalgamated Copper and Baltimore & Ohio large fractions. Western Maryland declined ⅝.

Moderate liquidation of some of the low-priced stocks produced a generally heavy tone. Subsequent weakness of Reading and United States Steel was a contributing influence, but there were losses of importance in the standard stocks. Pressure lightened before 11 o'clock and there was a slight recovery. Reading gave 1⅜, People's Gas 1¼, Western Maryland and Rock Island 1⅛ and Wisconsin Central and Colorado Fuel 1.

Cessation of the selling led to dullness, with no effective rally, except in Western Maryland, which rose one over last night. Selling was then renewed and prices yielded easily. Reading was forced down 2⅝, American Sugar 1¾, and Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Southern Railway preferred, Erie first and second preferred, Missouri Pacific, Texas & Pacific, Kansas & Texas, American Smelting, Westinghouse Electric, Republic Steel, American Malting preferred and Consolidated Gas 1. Wells-Fargo sold at an advance of 20. Bonds were steady.

Trading became dull around the low prices, but prices did not rally much. Delaware & Hudson sagged 1½, and Pullman 1⅜.

The market closed heavy and lifeless. Prices were almost motionless for most of the final hour. Reading Steel fell 1⅜, and Long Island, American Car, Distillers Securities, American Cotton Oil, Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Federal Mining preferred 1.

AFRICA'S BIG GAME.

Chicago News: Of some of the wild beasts that remain to be hunted by the sportsman in Africa, a writer says: "The quagga, most graceful of all the horse tribe, has disappeared entirely. The millions which once inhabited the high plateau of South Africa were killed off in sheer wantonness, and today not a single specimen survives, unless it be between the Crocodile and Sabi rivers, where, according to native reports, a small herd was running six years ago. As with the quagga, so with the swart wilde-beeste, the white-tailed gnu of the naturalists. Once the most common of high-veldt buck, as well as the most grotesque and harmless, it is now represented by a few depressed-looking specimens in various zoological gardens. It was very easy to hunt, and, as a result, it was shot down for the sake of its long tail, which made a splendid fly-whisk. Incidentally, of course, a valuable source of food supply was destroyed, no small matter in a country which today depends entirely on tinned and frozen meat.

"The Cape buffalo are now confined entirely to the low-lying jungle on the east coast, yet half a century ago they ranked among the most plentiful of the great game. Hunters who knew them in earlier days speak of them with scant respect, but it seems as if, as they have retreated before the advance of civilization, they have grown more spiteful and vindictive, until today they certainly take first rank among the dangerous game of Africa. That slinking pest, the lion, is a low coward by comparison with the buffalo, a destructive nuisance, whose sole title to respect is that, when he can escape no longer, he turns on his foe, a characteristic which he shares with practically every animal, even down to the rat.

"The buffalo, on the other hand, harms no one if left to himself; but when attacked he becomes the very incarnation of revenge. Moreover, in addition to his strength and ferocity, he has a cunning which the lion does not possess. He may be grazed with a bullet at sunrise and it may be evening when he charges his assailant from behind a clump of bush. A lion may be shot from the safety of a tree, to the foot of which he has been lured by means of a goat or a calf; but to kill the buffalo it is necessary to follow him down to the fever-haunted jungles, and tackle him fairly and squarely, at the risk of one's life; consequently, the mere fact of a man's having made the attempt is a far surer proof of his courage than the actual slaying of a lion.

WHAT IS A GOPHER?

New York Sun: "If you should ask a man from the Illinois prairies what a gopher was," said a man who acted as though he had asked a man from Illinois prairies the question, "he would say a gopher was a gray squirrel that burrowed in the ground.

"If you should ask the same question of a man from prairies further West he'd say a gopher was a striped squirrel that lived in holes in the ground.

"A Missouri farmer, though, would declare to you, if you asked him, that a gopher was a mole-footed brown rat that digs its way under the ground in that state.

"A man from Georgia would probably surprise you, therefore, when he assured you that a gopher was a snake familiar to everybody in that state, but not more perhaps than a Florida native would surprise you when he informed you that a gopher was a turtle.

"The funny part of the matter is that every one of those informants would be right in his view. A gopher is a gray squirrel that burrows, a striped squirrel that burrows, a rat that burrows, a snake that doesn't burrow, and a turtle that does, just according to the locality. The most interesting of all these is the burrowing turtle.

"This turtle is a Florida institution. The Florida Cracker, and quite a good many Florida folks who hold themselves a good deal higher up than the Cracker, dote on the gopher and think it the finest thing in the edible line ever created.

"The gopher never leaves its burrow except to forage. If it can't get into a sweet potato patch it will graze on the wild grass that abound in the localities where it lives.

"The burrow of this gopher is invariably shared by its occupant with a family of rattlesnakes or lizards. The gopher plainly delights in this deadly association, although it is itself as mild and harmless as a dove.

"No dweller in the same region with the Florida gopher ever goes abroad without a bag slung over his shoulder. This is to carry gophers home in, for he is pretty sure to come across them out foraging. The moment the gopher detects the approach of danger it shuts itself securely in its shell, and the Cracker tumbles it into the bag.

"The gophers are likewise trapped by digging holes in the ground close to the entrance of the burrow and sinking a box or barrel into it. When the gopher comes out it tumbles into the trap and can't get out. These queer turtles often weigh as much as thirty pounds. They are of prodigious strength, a large specimen being able to rise on its legs with a man standing on its shell and walk under his weight."

AT THE RIGHT COUNTER.

Baltimore Sun: The old lady with the pale blue umbrella had been standing at the stationery counter for ten minutes.

"I want to be waited on," she snapped impatiently.

"Certainly, madam," hastened the tall floorwalker. "Do you wish a stationery clerk?"

"Stationary clerk? Gracious! They all seem stationary. They don't want to move."

WEDNESDAY, MAY 26, 1909.

Butte-Alex Scott is a little quiet marketwise, but as sure as the sun rises tomorrow this one will come along fast later on. Reason it out. Only 100,000 shares issued, mine located in the very heart of Butte Hill, big veins passing lengthwise through the Scott claim; large bodies of ore opened up on every level, and with possibilities of blowing open several feet of copper glance at any time. The big machinery now being put in place under the personal direction of Mr. N. F. Hugo, the vice president.

They have a large amount of copper glance in this mine, also about 700 tons of ore on stockpile ready for shipment.

The Little Annie claim has the possibilities of becoming another Butte & Superior mine. Don't let them fool your Scout away from you, and you will thank me after a while. I am telling you the truth about this company and its holdings, and therefore it should be very easy for you to understand if you believe me.

The St. Mary's stock was taken today in big lots all over the country. My office sold 60,000 shares alone. I know of no new proposition put on in the last seven years that took as well with the traders as this one did. Calumet took 10,000 shares and the ranges were heavy buyers; St. Paul and Minnenpolis, and from all parts of Minnesota we received orders. This mine is located in the Red Warrior district, and is easily developed. Many people want to get in on a good low priced issue with quick possibilities from both market and mine point of views. I look for St. Mary's stock to be one of the swiftest traders in the Northwest. It will certainly have a big market, many people know the mine and have been heavy buyers. We have not gone into this one blind, for we spent our money to find out and have studied this proposition for six months, before we tackled it.

Butte & Superior is trading strong at $2.50. It seems very strong around this level. Any news from Butte will drive it along fast.

Curtis holds strong at $1.75.

Ballaklava closed $11.25 bid.

Full paid Scott $6.00 bid. Two dollars paid Scott $6.00 bid.

Copper Queen is making good. Remember that good reports are coming from the mine returns.

BONI WINS ON TEACHER

Court Says He Only Can Choose Children's Instructor.

Cousin Who Married the Countess Cannot See Them.

Paris, May 27.—The decision of the superior court on Count Boni de Castellane's appeal of the case brought by him for the custody of his children was handed down today, and is a partial victory for the count.

Today's decision confirms the decision of the lower court giving the mother the custody of the children, but sets forth that the father alone has the right to choose an instructor and to designate the college in which the children are to be educated.

Furthermore, Princess Helie de Sagan, the count's former wife's second husband, is specifically excluded from the list of persons authorized to visit the children. The count's contention that the influence of the prince is pernicious is thus in effect sustained.

The costs of the appeal are divided.

The decision, emphasizes the right of the count to control the education of the children; he may name the instructor of the youngest and pass upon the choice of an institution for the education of the two eldest. If the parents cannot agree on a school for these two boys within a fortnight they are to be sent to the lycee of Janson, where only the mother, the grandmother and George Gould may visit them. The decision sets forth also that "whatever the character and past of the prince de Sagan, it is not true that the princess imposed upon her children the influence of her new husband to prejudice their affection for their father."

MAKE NO MOVE FOR DISPOSAL

Lackawanna Railroad Directors' Policy as to Mines Unannounced.

New York, May 27.—After a meeting of the directors of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad company today it was stated that the directors took no action toward the disposal of the company's coal mines.

It is understood that the directors will make some announcement of the company's policy in this matter next week.

Under the recent decision of the supreme court of the United States in construing the Hepburn law, a change in the control of the Lackawanna's coal properties is expected.

WILL CARE FOR SIXTY ORPHANS

National Relief Body Aids Victims of Turkish Massacres.

Worcester, Mass. May 27.—The support of sixty children made orphans by the recent massacres in the Adana district, Asiatic Turkey, has been assumed by the National Armenian and India Relief association.

The secretary and treasurer, Miss Emily C. Wheeler of this city, today sent a cablegram to this effect to Rev. W. W. Peet at Constantinople. By the system of orphanages established in the district it is possible to support one child for a year for $30.

Miss Wheeler stated today that every effort would be made to secure in this country sufficient funds to take care of 200 orphans.

UNITARIANS PUT IN A BUSY DAY IN BOSTON.

Boston, Mass., May 27.—With twelve meetings on the program, today was expected to be one of the busiest of the anniversary week observances by the American Unitarian association and its allied organizations.

At 10:30 the Unitarian Historical society's annual meeting was held, with President Henry M. Edes presiding. At the same hour the fellowship for social justice held its annual meeting. Another gathering at that hour was the meeting of the alumni and friends of Proctor academy, at which Rev. Dr. Samuel C. Beane presided, while the postoffice mission workers and others interested in the distribution of denominational literature held a session in Channing hall.

SON OF THE FAMOUS JOHN BROWN WILL MAKE SPEECH

Columbus, Ohio, May 27.—The National Negro-American Protective league is today perfecting an address that will be read at the John Brown memorial meeting tonight. Jason Brown of Akron, Ohio, son of the famous John Brown, and W. F. C. Cook of Baltimore, son of J. E. Cook, who was hanged with John Brown, will make addresses.

EXPLOSION PUTS 30,000 CHICAGO 'PHONES OUT OF BUSINESS.

Chicago, May 27.—An explosion of sewer gas put 30,000 telephones out of commission here today. The explosion knocked a hole in a water main in the west division of the city, flooding a conduit containing the telephone wires. It was several hours before normal conditions were restored.

GOVERNOR ADDRESSES THE PRESBYTERIANS

JOHN F. SHAFROTH.

Denver, Colo., May 27.—It was believed when the general assembly of the Presbyterian church met today that the plan of Dr. S. J. Nichols of St. Louis for the selection of commissioners by synods instead of presbyteries, as at present, would be adopted. This evening Governor John F. Shafroth will welcome the commissioners to Denver. Mayor Speer also will speak. Addresses will be made by prominent pastors on the "Semi-Centennial of Presbyterianism in Colorado."

DOWIEITES MAY MOVE

One Faction Buying Land From the Canadian Pacific.

Colony Is Reported Intending to Take Forty Acres.

Winnipeg, Man., May 27.—Three representatives of the Dowie colony at Zion City, near Chicago, are in Edmonton completing a deal for the purchase from the Canadian Pacific of two townships of land in the irrigated district about forty miles east of Calgary. The entire colony will migrate to the new land this summer.

Secretary Makes Denial.

Chicago, May 27.—E. L. Carey, secretary of the Dowie colony at Zion City today stated, when shown the Winnipeg dispatch declaring that the colony is to migrate to Canada, that there is no intention of leaving Zion City.

"It is possible that land may have been purchased near Calgary by former members of the church," said Carey, "but not for the church."

The church in Zion City, founded by the late John Alexander Dowie, has been split into two factions since Dowie's death, and it is possible one or the other factions is secretly preparing to found a new settlement. Wilbur Glen Voliva, leader of one faction, made such a threat at the height of the political campaign which recently went against him."

NEW DALTON HAS HEAVY FIRE LOSS

Lumber and Logs Valued at $45,000 Destroyed —Not Insured.

Marquette, Mich., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lumber and logs valued at $45,000 were burned at New Dalton, southeast of Marquette, last night. They belonged to the Dalton Lumber company and were not insured. The manufacturing plant was saved. An engine spark is blamed for the fire.

EX-PRESIDENT ELIOT GOES TO CINCINNATI.

Cambridge, Mass., May 27.—Dr. Charles W. Eliot, who retired from the presidency of Harvard college last week, left the University City today for a visit to the Western Alumni association of the university and to deliver various addresses.

Mr. Eliot will be present at the twelfth annual meeting of the Associated Harvard Clubs in Cincinnati tomorrow and Saturday. June 1 he will deliver the Phi Beta Kappa address at the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo. He will return to Cambridge June 2, and on June 29 will deliver an address before the alumni of Radcliffe college. Directly after the Harvard commencement, on June 30, Dr. Eliot will go with his family to his summer home at Northeast Harbor, Me.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF CHEMISTRY CONVENES.

London, May 27.—Upwards of 3,000 scholars of international repute are in London to attend the seventh International Congress of Applied Chemistry, which opened this afternoon. The congress is larger than previous similar gatherings held in London, and, as it comprises the most famous men in chemical research and manufacture of two hemispheres, good results are expected.

An invitation sent by America through Dr. Harvey W. Wiley of Washington to hold the next congress in Washington appears certain of acceptance. The German, French and Italian delegates already have announced their intention of supporting such a motion and no objection has come from any source.

RAIN-WIND MAKE HAVOC

Four Southern States Suffer Through an Immense Damage.

Crops Are Damaged and Many Towns Are Under Water.

Memphis, Tenn., May 27.—Reports from the surrounding country bring details of the devastation done by the recent rain and wind storms. Mississippi and Arkansas seem to have suffered most. The Arkansas river is out of bank, flooding the surrounding country and flood warnings have been sent out that other rivers will rise above the danger point. In both states the crops are said to have been damaged while numbers of towns are under water.

Great damage had been done to the railroads and in several places trains are tied up while the telephone and telegraph wires are down in many localities.

Yesterday a tornado passed over the northern portion of Mississippi, wrecking many houses. As yet no deaths have been reported.

Loss in Two States.

Mobile, Ala., May 27.—Reports indicate that the loss from the high waters in Alabama and Mississippi will be considerable. It is believed the damage to farming interests in the two states will reach at least $100,000. Railroads have suffered much loss and there have been reports of damage to private property in the flooded districts.

JAP MERCHANTS TO BE GUESTS

Thirty Leading Oriental Business Men and Families Coming.

Seattle, Wash., May 27.—Thirty leading business men and trade experts of Japan, their wives and families will arrive on the steamer Minnesota from Yokohama Sept. 2.

As guests of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific coast they will visit the principal coast cities. Their itinerary is now being prepared by the Seattle chamber of commerce, and elaborate preparations are being made for their entertainment. The delegation will also tour the Eastern states, visiting every important manufacturing center east of the Rocky mountains. Elaborate hospitality is promised by the Boston and New York chambers of commerce and the Pennsylvania railroad system.

Local Option Elections.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—Elections to determine whether licensed saloons shall remain in the counties of Laporte, Floyd and Harrison, are being held today. Laporte county has been the seat of one of the bitterest contests thus far held.

TO SUCCEED ROGERS AS VICE PRESIDENT

JAMES A. MOFFETT.

New York, May 27.—James A. Moffett will succeed the late Henry H. Rogers as vice president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, it is understood on good authority here. Mr. Moffett has had active charge of the transportation problems of the company. He is also president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, upon which was imposed the famous $29,000,000 fine.

BATTLE HYMN WRITER REACHES AGE OF 90

JULIA WARD HOWE.

"In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea,
With a glory in His bosom that transfigures you and me;
As He died to make men holy, let us die to make men free,
Our God is marching on."

Boston, Mass., May 27.—Julia Ward Howe, who is 90 years old today, is receiving numerous congratulations. Mrs. Howe requested the Associated Press to make public the following statement:

"I am very grateful for the general interest felt in my ninetieth birthday, and am glad to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation to the public and its great representative—the press."

WARSHIPS MAY AID

Asked to Carry Mail While Other Boats Are Tied Up.

Labor Trouble in the French Merchant Marine Increases.

Paris, May 27.—The strike of the sailors, stokers and stewards of the merchant marine is extending. The men demand a weekly day of rest and equalization of pay on passenger and freight boats.

The tieup is complete at Marseilles, where fifty vessels are unable to move, and it is partial at Havre, Dunkirk, St. Nazaire, Toulon and Bordeaux. Torpedo boats are being employed for the conveyance of the mails to Algeria and Corsica.

The companies concerned have asked the government to lend them warships to insure the movement of the mails.

SHARPSHOOTERS SAIL OVER SEA

German-American Experts With the Rifle Go Abroad.

New York, May 27.—On the steamer Main, specially chartered for the trip, a party of 160 members of German-American sharpshooting societies and their friends from various parts of the United States sailed today for an extended trip through Germany.

Incidental to the main purpose of the journey—attendance at the national Schuetzenfest in Hamburg July 11 to 18—the members of the party plan to visit their birthplaces and make a tour of leading German cities, particularly along the Rhine. A reception at Oldenburg has been arranged. The visitors expect to hold a German-American Schuetzenfest on their own account at Niernstein July 3 and 4.

BANQUET FOR ROOSEVELT WILL BE GIVEN AUG. 3.

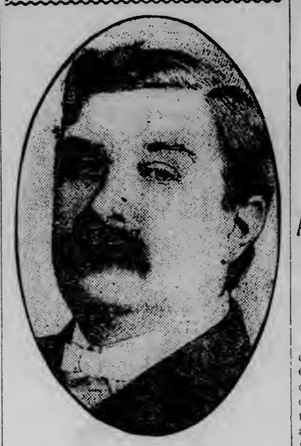
Nairobi, British East Africa, May 27.—Theodore Roosevelt, who is at present the guest of Governor Jackson of Nairobi, has accepted an invitation to a public banquet to be given here in his honor, Aug. 3.

The results of the expedition's hunting trips have been assembled. Mr. Roosevelt has secured eighty-six specimens of game of twenty-two different varieties. With the exception of six specimens they are all for the National Museum at Washington. The naturalists of the party have obtained about 1,000 specimens of birds, mammals and snakes.

Commission Bill Advanced.

Madison, Wis., May 27.—The bill granting the commission form of government to cities of the second, third and fourth classes, as ordered engrossed in the Wisconsin assembly yesterday after an amendment providing for the referendum and initiative had been defeated.

SENATOR-ELECT THANKS SOLONS



WILLIAM LORIMER.

Springfield, Ill., May 27.—The vote which elected Congressman Lorimer of Chicago to the United States senate to succeed A. J. Hopkins was: Senate—Republicans, 28; Democrats, 6; total, 19. House—Republicans, 42; Democrats, 47; total, 9. Grand total, 108. Mr. Lorimer said: "Receiving the votes of the two great parties is, of course, a new precedent in the history of this commonwealth. Every Democrat who voted for me knew he was voting for a Republican. Such a condition as exists today in this hall could not have been obtained twenty years ago, but the parties have been growing in their great principles closer and closer, until now we are separated by just a few great principles. I thank you."

JUDGMENT TO REMAIN

Court Refuses to Open It in Fenton G. Warner Case.

State Wished to Charge Former Oil Inspector With Fraud.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—In an opinion handed down this morning, Judge George L. Bunn in the district court denies the state's motion to open the judgment entered in its favor against Fenton G. Warner, former state oil inspector, for $11,439.37.

The judgment was for oil inspection fees, which the state claims Warner should have collected and turned into the state treasury. It was entered under a stipulation of facts under which Warner admitted his liability, while the state especially waived any charge of fraud.

Warner subsequently filed a petition in bankruptcy, in which this judgment was listed as a liability. The state then applied to the district court to have the judgment opened up in order that the charge of fraud might be made, which would prevent a discharge from this debt in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Under Judge Bunn's decision the state is bound by its stipulation and Warner will be relieved from this debt in the bankruptcy proceedings.

FURNESS LINER HITS ICEBERG

Over 100 Counted During a Sail of Forty Miles.

St. Johns, Nfld., May 27.—With bow badly damaged after collision with an iceberg, the Furness liner Almeriana came into port today from Liverpool. She reported great quantities of ice off the coast. The Almeriana hit the berg about midnight Tuesday.

Passengers on board the steamer Prospero, which was obliged to put back into the harbor today because of ice floes, stated that they counted over 100 icebergs during a sail of forty miles.

GOULDS WOULD HURRY THE CASE

Each Party in Separation Suit Petitions the Court.

New York, May 27.—Counsel for both Howard Gould and Mrs. Gould, who is suing her husband for separation, joined in a motion before Justice Gerard today, asking that the stay of trial, which was granted when depositions of witnesses were being taken all over the country, be vacated, and June 7 be set as the day for the trial. Justice Gerard reserved decision.

SKINNY MADDEN'S CASE IS GIVEN TO THE JURY.

Chicago, May 27.—By tonight probably the fate of Madden, Puchot and Boyle, the labor leaders accused of extortion, will be in the hands of a jury. Attorney Brady, for the defense, concluded his argument today, and was followed by State's Attorney Wayman, who closed for the state.

TAKE FOOD BY WAGON

Georgians Rise to Emergency During the Railroad Strike.

Are Well Prepared for Long Continued Train Tie-Up.

Atlanta, Ga., May 27.—This was the eleventh day of the strike on the Georgia railroad, and the fifth day of no train service. A town to town canvass by automobile today showed that the various communities affected are better prepared for a long continued tie-up than at any time since the strike began.

With two exceptions every town between Augusta and Atlanta is deprived of freight, passenger and mail service.

The people have organized wagon trains to carry provisions from points nearby. The wagon trains carry such quantities of food as to prevent possibility of suffering. The most serious inconvenience is from lack of mail service by rail.

At the Washington End.

Washington, May 27.—Upon returning today from visiting Indiana postmasterships examination, Second Assistant Postmaster General Stewart found upon his desk important telegraphic advices regarding the strike situation on the Georgia railroad. The most important was from Vice President Ball of the firemen.

"It is currently reported," he telegraphed, "that an effort is being made to charge the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen with responsibility for interference with the United States mails on the Georgia railroad. So far from this being true, we stand prepared to aid you in getting the mails through. I should be glad to confer with any representative of the postmaster's department designated by you (the postmaster general) to aid in accomplishing this result."

The latter suggestion was taken up with Postmaster General Hitchcock, who returned today from a trip to Cuba.

Mr. Stewart declared that while the department would be glad to get the mails through, he doubted whether it could compel the railroad company to divide trains and run a car for mail purpose only. That, said Mr. Stewart, involves a legal question. The most that can be done, is to insist upon a performance of the mail service.

PUPILS MARCH OUT OF FLAMES

Coolheadedness of Instructor in Physics Prevents Panic.

Akron, Ohio, May 27.—The cool head of C. P. Alexander, instructor in physics, prevented a panic among the 1,000 pupils at the high school today, when fire broke out in the laboratory, shortly after school had convened. While he was making some electrical examinations, a blue flame shot out from a contact, and communicated with woodwork in the school room.

Alexander quieted the students in the laboratory, and notified the principal of the school. The building was filling with smoke. The fire drill was used, and all the pupils were quietly marched out of the building. The fire was extinguished without much damage.

BLOODY STONE SHOWN IN COURT

Murder of Clara Rosen Declared Worst in Iowa's History.

Centerville, Iowa, May 27.—The foulest murder in the history of Iowa was the characterization Frank Hunter, assistant attorney for the defense gave today to the murder of Clara Rosen, for which John Junken is on trial. Hunter pictured Junken as an irresponsible criminal, and declared that life imprisonment was the proper punishment for a moral degenerate, insensible to the significance of hanging.

State's Attorney Seneca Cornell outlined the evidence against Junken, dramatically holding aloft the blood-stained stone used to beat out the girl's brains.

Fred Rosen told of the finding of his sister's body, and identified articles taken by Junken, including an engagement ring.

CASA BLANCA INCIDENT IS NOW DECLARED CLOSED.

Paris, May 27.—The cabinet today approved a formula of reciprocal regret regarding the Casa Blanca incident, and this dispute between France and Germany is now closed.

French officials at Casa Blanca seized certain deserters from the foreign legion of the French army, while the men, who were Germans, were under the protection of the German consul. The matter was taken to The Hague court of arbitration and a decision handed down a few days ago.

ANOTHER EARTHQUAKE THAT IS LIABLE TO SHAKE WASHINGTON.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S TICKET DRAWS BARREL OF SAUERKRAUT.

Sandusky, Ohio, May 27.—President Taft holds the ticket that drew a barrel of sauerkraut, worth $8, at the Elks' fair here last night. It was presented to him by William Homer Reinhart, president of the Perry victory and international centennial peace commission, who was in Washington recently.

WEATHER—Partly cloudy weather tonight and Friday, warmer tonight; moderate winds, mostly northeasterly.

REPORTERS TO BE PROVIDED FOR

Room in Courthouse Will Be for Their Exclusive Use.

A room for newspaper reporters is to be fixed up in the new St Louis county courthouse.

The matter was not brought up until lately. In fact, the commission had not thought of the matter. It will be up to the permanent commission to be composed of the county auditor, the county treasurer and the chairman of the county board, and the auditor has already approved.

In most of the new courthouses throughout the country rooms have been fitted up for the newspaper reporters, and the St. Louis county board was not to be outdone.

Not all the rooms have been assigned. In fact, there are many that will not be used at all, at least for a few years. One of these will be fitted up with a desk and telephones for the newspaper men.

Her courthouse "run" will be in demand with the reporters.

MISTAKES

Many a bright and promising career has been blighted by injurious habits of folly before the age of knowledge and understanding and many have been cut short by the unfortunate contracting of some poisonous special disease, which through neglect or improper treatment has completely undermined and shattered the physical strength and mental faculties. No greater mistake can be made than to consider lightly the first evidence of the introduction of any disease into your system or to neglect the first symptoms of weakened mind and approach of nervous debility, caused by habits, dissipation, etc.

Such indifference and neglect of the first symptoms are responsible for thousands of human wrecks, failures in life and business, insanity, suicide, etc. Why take such desperate chances? The manifestations of the first symptoms of any disease or weakness should be a warning for you to take prompt steps to safeguard your future life and happiness. You should carefully avoid all experimental, dangerous or halfway treatment, for upon the success of the first treatment depends whether you will be promptly restored to health again, with all the taint of the poisonous diseases removed from your system, or whether it be allowed to become chronic and subject you to future recurrences of the disease, with the various resulting complications, etc. We cure KIDNEY AND URINARY DISEASES, DISCHARGES, NERVOUS DEBILITY, CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON and all diseases and weaknesses due to dissipation, or the result of special diseases. Write for symptom blank if you cannot call. CONSULTATION FREE AND CONFIDENTIAL.

WAS CHASED FOR SIX BLOCKS

West End Man Has Exciting Experience With Highwaymen.

Chased for several blocks by two unknown men, very suspicious in their actions, William Warner of 228 South Twenty-seventh avenue sought refuge late last night at the West Duluth police station and was escorted home by an officer early this morning.

Warner told the police that he noticed two suspicious looking men following him shortly after midnight. He stopped on the corner of Thirty-seventh avenue west and noticed that they still lurked in the shadows.

Not having a gun with him, he said, he thought the best thing that he could do was to run. He started out in a westerly direction on Superior street and was given a merry chase by the men for six blocks.

Here he met Officer Walsh of the West Duluth force and the men disappeared. He told the officer that he wanted protection on his way back home, which was accorded him when he applied at the station. It is thought by the police that the men would have held up Warner if better opportunity had been afforded them.

FORM ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Ely School Graduates Will Organize After Banquet.

The organization of an alumni association in the Ely school will be perfected this evening, after a banquet to the graduating class and an after-dinner program. Officers will be chosen and steps taken to adopt a constitution.

Harry Clark, president of the graduating class, will act as toastmaster at the banquet, and will call upon the following for toasts: Hamilton Morgan, "The Girls"; Doris Phelps "The Boys"; Earl Braden, "Success"; Clayton Burnside, "The Class of 1909," and Miss M. Jackson, "A Higher Education."

The class day exercises will also take place this evening in connection with the annual graduation banquet. The class history will be given by Mine McVeigh, the class prophecy by Irene McCabe, and Charles Gundy will give the class will. Myra Willesen will give a recitation and Jennie Nelson will give a reading.

The musical numbers will be given by Clemans Kranlz, Margaret Clark, Zelam Moyer, Elfva Smith and Minnie Abrahamson. L. A. Barnes was to appear on the program, but is absent from the city this evening. The other officers of the class are: Vice president, Doris Phelps; secretary, Clayton Burnside, and treasurer, Margaret Clark. There are thirty-five members in the class.

"LUCIA'S LOVER."

Queen Esther Circle Will Present the College Play.

A college play, "Lucia's Lover," will be presented this evening at Great Eastern hall, under the auspices of the Westminster Presbyterian church, West Duluth, by the Queen Esther Circle of the Grace M. E. church of the West end.

Although the evening's entertainment will be featured by the play, there will be other numbers on the program. Several vocal solos and instrumental numbers will be given.

OLD FOLKS' CONCERT.

Proceeds Will Go to West Duluth Baptist Church Fund.

An "old folks' concert" will be given on Monday evening next at the West Duluth Baptist church, the proceeds to go toward the building fund.

The concert will be put on by the members of the Central Baptist church at the West end, where the same program scored a success a short time ago.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Friends Remember Miss Sylva Halvorsen on Tenth Birthday.

Miss Sylva Halvorsen was pleasantly surprised last evening at the home of her parents on North Fifty-seventh avenue west by a number of her friends, the occasion being her tenth birthday.

Luncheon was served and games played. Those present were: Caroline Lundahl, Vera Stverson, Alice Nygaard, Sylvia Aslaason, Clara and Dagmar Nelson, Laura Carison, Axel Skordahl, Arthur Nygaard, Edson Ecklund, Carl Erickson, Gust Holmstrom, Christ Aslaason, Olaf Nordlun, Gottfried Hartwig.

ANNUAL BANQUET.

Baptist Young People's Union Is Preparing For the Affair.

The Baptist Young People's Union of the West Duluth Baptist church will hold its annual banquet two weeks from this evening, on June 10, at the church parlors.

The committee on arrangements will meet this evening and will complete the final arrangements for the affair. The Union has over fifty members at the present time, and is in a flourishing condition.

Confirmation Class.

A large confirmation class will be graduated next Sunday morning at the Swedish Mission church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Green street.

The ceremonies will begin at 10 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. Fred Bloom, pastor of the church.

HIS SHARE OF TROUBLE.

Death Follows Fire at Home of Smithville Man.

Misfortune follows misfortune at the home of Claus Johnson of Smithville.

About a month ago his home was totally destroyed by fire and this morning his infant son 2 months old died at 7 o'clock. The boy's name was Euclid V., and he had been sick but a few days.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence.

Attends Bankers' Meet.

L. A. Barnes left this morning for Cloquet, where he is attending a convention of bankers in session today. Mr. Barnes appeared on the program of speakers this afternoon. He will return tomorrow morning.

School Banquet.

The annual banquet of the Longfellow Alumni association will be held Friday evening. Curtis Silger is toastmaster, and a number of appropriate toasts will be responded to by the members of the association.

A good musical entertainment has also been provided. The graduating class will be guests of honor.

Bullying Children.

Complaints were made yesterday from the Ely school that a number of boys about 18 years of age, were in the habit of passing by the school and interfering with smaller children on the school grounds.

An officer was sent up to the school, but the boys left before he got there.

West Duluth Briefs.

William Ellsworth of Bay City, Mich., is in West Duluth today.

Miss Anna Donnerstag left this morning for her home at Buswell, Wis., after a several months' stay at West Duluth.

The Royal Neighbors will entertain tomorrow evening at a social dance.

Owen Gibbons left this morning for Fort Worth, Tex., where he will resume his work on a railroad. His wife will join him in about a week. Mrs. Gibbons spent the winter in West Duluth.

The Foresters will meet this evening at Gilley's hall for a social session and dancing party.

T. J. Lilley, special agent for the Continental Insurance company, was a business visitor this morning in West Duluth.

The dancing party which was to have been given next Thursday evening, June 5 by the Union Match company baseball team, has been postponed for a week.

August Suelems is erecting a frame cottage on Thirty-ninth avenue west, near Travers street. It will cost about $500.

Mrs. Leonidas Merritt of Forty-sixth avenue west left yesterday for St. Paul, where she will undergo an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Flycht of 6103 Wadena street are the parents of a baby boy, born yesterday.

Alva Merritt of the Northern Dredge & Dock company left yesterday on a business trop to Northern Michigan.

Arthur Brizelle and Henry Gifford came up from St. Paul yesterday afternoon in their automobile, and today were the guests of Arthur Jacoby of West Duluth.

Watch repairing, Hurst, W. Duluth.

George Murray of Fifty-seventh avenue west, has returned from a fishing trip up the French river. He brought back a good catch.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church were entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Johnson, 5706 Grand avenue.

PORTO RICO IS MADE AN ISSUE

House Hears Douglass of Ohio Arraign Island Lawmakers.

Washington, May 27.—When called to order today, the house of representatives resumed its wonted aspect. There was an unusually large attendance and a general disposition to proceed with a transaction of business. After disposing of some routine matters, consideration of the Porto Rican bill was resumed.

Mr. Douglass of Ohio, the first speaker, arraigned the house of delegates of Porto Rico for making it a condition precedent as he charged, to its assent to appropriations that the executive council or upper body agree to certain legislation.

"It amounts to revolution—nothing else," he exclaimed. He declared in response to a question by Mr. Fitzgerald of New York, that while he was willing to admit that revolution may be justified in cases of oppression, there had been no oppression in Porto Rico calling for such a course. He defended the bill as well as the policy of the government toward the island possession.

Criticism of the Foraker act was made by Mr. Garret of Tennessee. That act, he said, was the same to the Porto Rican as was the Constitution to the United States, but he maintained that affairs were more in the hands of the people of the islands under Spanish rule than they were under the Foraker act.

TWO DAYS TO MAKE TRIP

St. Paul Motorists Had Trying Journey to Head of Lakes.

Suggest a Scenic Route Connecting the Three Cities.

A. D. McCleod of Dubuque, A. C. Boggs of Fort Dodge, H. Gifford of St. Paul, and W. E. Fadden of St. Paul, reached Duluth this morning in two automobiles. The condition of the roads and the fact that they were compelled to stop their machines frequently prevented them from reaching Duluth last night.

Louis Michaud, who started out with the crowd, left them at Hinckley and boarded the Northern Pacific train. He reached here last evening ahead of his companions, but this morning was subjected to an unmerciful guying. The hardy automobilists stated that Michaud may not be afraid of the cars in the street term of the expression, but he lackss trust in automobiles on a dark night and a muddy road.

The automobilists left St. Paul yesterday morning in a heavy rain storm. Until they were within twenty-five miles of Duluth the cars bucked the worst kinds of roads that could be found in the state. Three times the party was obliged to stop while one or the other of the cars was repaired.

They ran into a sow somewhere near Sandstone late last night, and the frantic bellowing of the beast made the air heavy with noise. The members of the party stopped at a farmhouse and routed the farmer out of bed by the repeated blowing of the auto horns. They put up there until an early hour this morning, when a fresh start was made for Duluth.

The members of the party will return to St. Paul today or tomorrow.

All of the automobilists are enthusiastically in favor of a state automobile road from the Twin Cities to the Head of the Lakes. They state that if such a road were constructed hundreds of motors will make a trip to Duluth every week. The proposed plan of such a road would take in Lake Minnetonka and other scenic spots of the state and would do much to advertise Minnesota among tourists and visitors, say members of the St. Paul party.

SNOW ALARM IN TEXAS.

New York Arrival in Galveston Thought the Hotel Was on Fire.

New York Sun: "When I registered in a Galveston hotel a few weeks ago," said a returned traveling man, "I asked the clerk where his porter was, for I had toted in my own baggage. The clerk replied that he was out getting kindling wood to start a fire in the office stove.

"As I looked around I saw a crowd in the middle of the room. The men were bunched in a circle. The clerk informed me that they were waiting for the porter to make some heat. I learned a few minutes later that the community was expecting a norther. A Texas norther drives man and beast to cover.

"I went to the barber shop to get freshened up for breakfast. It was open, but no one was in. I slid into a chair and sat there for ten minutes. No one showed up, and I passed into the bar. I stood against the counter and knocked, but there was no response.

"I returned to the office to inquire about the missing artist and the barman, but the clerk had disappeared. I noticed then that the bunch which had gathered about the stove when I first entered the office had disappeared. A lot of kindling wood lay on the floor near the stove. The porter had evidently done his stunt in part and had vamosed.

"No one was in the elevator, so I walked up one flight to the dining room, for I was getting hungry for breakfast. Half a dozen men were scattered about the room waiting for food. Not a waiter was in sight. I remained for several minutes and then went out.

"I met a negro boy, but he was running. He paid no attention when I hailed him. I noticed that every one whom I met in the corridor was in motion, and the motion indicated unusual activity. I wondered if the hotel was on fire.

"I ran down the steps to the office. The room was still. Not a soul was in sight. Again I went to the barber shop, no one in. I made a second trip to the bar; it was as before. I retraced my steps to the office and began pounding the gong on the counter.

"A negro blew in from somewhere, and I asked him where the clerk was.

"'He's out tha', suh.'

"I asked where the barber was, and he made the same reply. An inquiry for the barkeeper brought out the same answer. I asked where the waiters were, and the negro grinned and said they were also 'out tha'.'

"I ordered the negro to find the clerk and tell him if he did not return instanter he would lose a guest. The clerk came, but in a very leisurely manner. I made my kick unusually vigorous.

"'Treat Scott, man,' he replied, 'don't you know what's goin' on? Why, man alive, it's snowin' out tha', and we don't see anything like that down here often.'"

LEVEL LANCES AT ALCOHOLISM

Presbyterians O. K. Red Hot Report of Their Temperance Committee.

Denver, Colo., May 27.—President Taft, Emperor William and President Eliot of Harvard university were placed on "dry" pedestals by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church today when their example of turning "teetotalers" after many years of drinking was commended in the approval of the report of the temperance committee of the assembly.

The committee's report advocates far-reaching reforms which it is proposed to achieve. Here are some of them:

That the receipt of revenue in any form from the liquor traffic be discontinued.

That the Federal government shall no longer issue liquor tax receipts in prohibition territory.

That interstate shipments of liquor to dry territory cease.

That a prohibitory zone, twenty-five miles in width, be established around every Indian reservation.

That the mails be closed to the advertising of, or the distribution of liquor.

The report recommended one fraternal order heretofore noted for its convivial membership for its action in discontinuing the sale of, or drinking of liquor during the lodge premises.

Newspapers which carry liquor advertising will, under the ban of the assembly, it being recommended that such papers be not patronized.

"Social drinking" received a setback when it was urged that the women's societies of the church make war on this evil and make it their business to fight the use of liquor in women's clubs and in the home.

The last Sunday in October was set aside as "Temperance day."

LITTLE WORK FOR COMMISSIONERS

Will Hear Attorney's Decision on Road Superintendent Idea.

The county commissioners will hold an unimportant meeting June 8.

On account of the fact that several members of the board will be out of the city on the occasion of the meeting the more important business has been put over until the July meeting.

Two or three small matters, such as the repairing of several stretches of road and the building of some small bridges on the range will come up, but that it is said, will be about the limit of the board's business.

The members are anxious about the decision to be made by Attorney W. J. Stephenson in regard to the employing of a road superintendent. At the last meeting the board indorsed this idea, but since that time the question has come up as to whether or not the board has the right to appoint such an officer. Mr. Stephenson's decision will be read at the meeting on June 8.

DAY OF THE SWEET GIRL GRADUATE DRAWS NIGH

All the City Schools Busy With Commencement Exercises.

High School "Zenith" Is Out—The Junior-Senior Reception.

MARGARET BAUDIN,
President of the Irving High School Graduating Class.

Graduating exercises will be held in the various educational institutions of Duluth as follows:

Central high school commencement, Friday evening, June 4.

Central high school class night, Tuesday, June 1.

Duluth industrial high school commencement, Thursday evening, June 3, in West Duluth.

Duluth normal school commencement, Thursday morning, June 10.

West end eighth grades, Wednesday afternoon, June 2, at Central high school.

Sacred Heart institute commencement, June 8 or June 10.

Sacred Heart cathedral parochial high school, Friday evening, June 18.

Sacred Heart cathedral school, eighth grade, Monday evening June 21.

St. Clement's parochial school, Tuesday evening, June 22.

St. Jean Baptiste parochial school, Thursday, June 17.

St. Anthony of Padua parochial school, Wednesday, June 23.

St. Mary, Star of the Sea, parochial school, Sunday, June 20.

That glad day when the sweet girl graduate and her carefully groomed fellow student of the opposite sex will step down stage and deliver essays and orations calculated to show the world how it should be properly run, is drawing nigh.

And the nigher it draws, the busier the sweet girl graduate, her well groomed fellow students of the opposite sex and their instructors become.

There are the final examinations to be disposed of, the preparation for the commencement exercises and the other functions which go with graduation week and the general winding up of the school year.

In the public schools there are some who have yet to know whether they can "get through" and receive their sheepskins with the rest of the graduates, but next week they will know, for next week is the last week of school. It will be the last of the public schools of Duluth for seniors and for the eighth grade graduates; it will be the beginning of the stretch of summer vacation which is to terminate in their triumphant entrance to the higher institution of learning, the high school.

The normal school graduation exercises will be held a week later and the seniors at the Sacred Heart institute will get their diplomas then, while the parochial school exercises will begin June 17.

Commencement at the Central high school will be Friday evening, June 4, in the spacious school auditorium. There the largest class ever graduated from the institution will receive their diplomas from the hands of Supt. Denfeld and before the eyes of their admiring relatives and friends.

Preparations for the exercises of that last night are progressing rapidly and the complete program will be ready for announcement in the course of a few days.

The several days preceding the commencement exercises will be fraught with those class functions so dear to the high school heart, which are as much a part of the commencement, almost, as the presentation of the diplomas itself.

The Junior-Senior.

The Central high school's junior-senior reception, one of the most important functions of the school year, will be held Thursday evening in the new Masonic temple. This is quite unusual, as it is not the custom of the Masons to allow their building to be used for any purposes but their own, but they have waived precedent in this case, as the local lodges are in a way indebted to the high school pupils for many services rendered in the past. Therefore, they allowed the school to have the use of their halls and reception rooms for the evening.

The Zeniths Are Out.

Tuesday evening, June 1, will be class night at Central high school. This will be a gala occasion. There will be all the usual sallies at the different members of the graduating class, the prophecies and other much-beloved features. The 1909 Zenith, the annual senior class publication, will be distributed on that night. The books came off the presses today, and are attractively gotten up and full of interesting matter for the students and their friends. The book is dedicated to the memory of Charles Alden Smith, principal of the school, whose death occurred last winter. The binding is of soft leather in the class colors.

ROBERT ELY,

The commencement exercises at the Duluth Industrial high school, in West Duluth, Thursday evening, June 3, will mark the graduation of the first class that has ever taken the complete 4-year course at the institution. Until this year it had been necessary for pupils in that district to come up town to the Central school during their senior year.

The West Duluth school is now a full-fledged high school, run on the mechanics' arts and manual training plan.

There will be the usual preceding festivities during the week in West Duluth.

The Normal School.

Members of the graduating class at the state normal school will receive their diplomas Thursday morning, June 10. The principal address on that occasion will be delivered by Prof. David Starr Jordan, president of the Leland Stanford university at Palo Alto, Cal. His subject has not been announced, but his discourse will be suited to the occasion.

Wednesday morning, June 9, the graduating class at the normal will hold its last chapel exercises, to be followed by the class day program. Monday afternoon and Monday and Tuesday evenings, the seniors will give their class play, "Princess Kiku," a Japanese romance. The parts, with the exception of one portrayed by a boy from the fifth grade of the model school, will all be taken by the senior girls.

Rev. J. S. Kirtley, pastor of the First Baptist church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the normal school Sunday afternoon, June 6.

Saturday, June 5, is the date for the normal alumni banquet. It will be held at Washburn hall.

Sacred Heart Institute.

It has not been quite decided yet whether the commencement exercises at the Sacred Heart institute, the school for girls at Third street and Third avenue east, will be held June 8 or June 10. The matter will be settled this evening and arrangements for the occasion will go ahead. There are ten girls in the graduating class this year.

In the parochial school of the cathedral of the Sacred Heart the high school graduation program will be given at the Cathedral auditorium Friday evening, June 18. The high school is in charge of the Brothers. The Sisters have charge of the graded school in the Cathedral parish and their eighth grade exercises will be held in the Cathedral auditorium Monday evening, June 21.

The St. Jean Baptiste parochial school graduation will take place June 17; St. Clement's school, June 22; St. Mary's Star of the Sea, June 20, and St. Anthony of Padua, June 23.

RAILROAD NEWS

IN CHICKEN BUSINESS

Northern Pacific Road Opens Poultry Farm in Washington.

Man With Rubber Stamp Will Watch Hens Lay.

News of the establishment of a monster chicken ranch by the Northern Pacific railroad, in connection with the inauguration of the new summer train service of that line, was received by the local office of the Northern Pacific this morning.

A 52-acre poultry farm has been established at Kent, Wash., seventeen miles east of Seattle. A brood of over 11,000 White Leghorn chickens has been purchased for the corporation ranch. It is believed that an average of 150 dozen eggs per day will be secured from the chickens, and upon each egg will be stamped the date of laying.

When eggs are served in the dining cars of the Northern Pacific, the inquisitive diner, as he breaks his boiled eggs, may learn from the date stamp just when these eggs were layed. If the diner is particular, and his eggs are ordered prepared in a way that will not give him an opportunity to inspect the stamp upon the shells, he can summon a waiter and have him bring him his eggs for inspection before they are placed in the hands of the chef.

In addition to the chicken ranch, the Northern Pacific has opened three large bakeries in Seattle, where all of the bread and pastry for the Northern Pacific system will be made. The butter and cream, according to the information received by the local office, will come from a creamery that has been established in the Yakima valley.

NO SUMMER EXCURSIONS

Railroads Will Not Offer Low Rates to Head of Lakes.

There will be no popular excursions to Duluth from other parts of the state, according to railroad men at the Head of the Lakes. Last year these excursions to the Head of the Lakes from different parts of the state were discontinued because of the placing of the passenger tariffs upon the 2-cent fare basis.

Though the railroads in the various sections of the country have deviated from the resolution not to grant any excursion rates by offering special excursion rates to the Chicago National Republican convention and other conventions throughout the West, railroad men here say there is little likelihood that the railroads of Minnesota will offer cheap rates for excursions to the Head of the Lakes.

There will be heavy travel from Eastern points to the Head of the Lakes this summer, because of the number of people who will go from the East to the West. But it seems unlikely that people from the southern and western portions of the state will be given rates to the Head of the Lakes.

WILL BEGIN WORK AUG. 1

Soo Officials Are Nearly Ready to Begin New Structure.

Only Thirty Feet of the Tunnel to Be Completed.

Construction upon the freight and passenger depot that will be used by the Chicago division of the Soo road, which was formerly the Wisconsin Central, will begin by the first of August, according to the plans of the officials of the Soo.

There is about thirty feet of the tunnel to complete. This does not include the concrete lining of the big tube. The heading of the tunnel is completed, as far as the excavation is concerned, and it is estimated that the tunnel will be completed by the first of August. Then it is planned to begin the construction of the depot.

The revised plans of the depot, that at the present time are in the hands of the officials of the Soo at Minneapolis, call for a modern freight and passenger station, with sheds extending toward Garfield avenue for over 200 feet. The station proper and the offices, which will be located in the Sixth avenue west and Superior structure, will front on all of the three streets, Sixth avenue, Superior and Michigan streets. The building will be constructed of pressed brick and stone, the bricks from the old Metropolitan theater being used for the Michigan street wall of the building.

The plans have been passed upon by the officials and will be submitted to the builders within a few days. It is planned to have the depot completed before the first of the year, when trains of the Chicago division of the Soo will be running into Duluth.

Car Still Lost.

No trace has been received of the gasoline car which the Northern Pacific railroad will operate between Duluth and Fond du Lac. A communication with the officials of the Northern Pacific at the general office at St. Paul this morning, failed to enlighten the local Northern Pacific officials as to the whereabouts of the missing motor car.

When the car is received at the Duluth yards it will be given a reception like unto that received by the prodigal son. Officials here are wondering whether the car has really become lost, or whether the men in charge of the car have become affected with some sleeping illness.

NO PROTEST LIKELY AGAINST THE GUNBOAT.

Montreal, May 27.—Statements that a protest will be made from Ottawa to Washingon against the passage of the gunboat Nashville through Canadian inland waters to take her place on Lake Michigan as a training ship, are believed here to have no foundation. When the Nashville arrived off Montreal, there was some question about her right to pass through the Lachine canal, but the delay lasted less than an hour. Minister of Railways George P. Graham is quoted as saying that no special permission has been granted the Nashville to proceed, is supposed to have confused the matter with an order that was issued within the year and which he may have supposed was for another vessel. The incident is likely to lead to an agreement between the countries under which armed vessels are to keep off inland waters.

Notice to Tax Payers

The time allowed by law for the payment of the first half of the 1908 taxes without penalty, will expire on May 31st. But as May 31st this year falls on a legal holiday, taxes will be received as late as Tuesday, June 1st, without penalty.

SAVE TROUBLE FOR UNCLE SAM

Postmasters Trying to Teach Children to Address Letters.

The postoffice department is making an earnest effort to teach the rising generation how to address letters intended for the United States mails in a way that will insure their safe delivery or return to the writer.

Postmaster G. A. Eaton has sent to the principals of all the Duluth schools samples of a model form of address, with the request that the attention of the pupils be called to it.

The following printed instructions are given:

"Use ink in addressing letters or other mail matter.

"Write plainly the name of the person addressed, street and number, post-office and state.

"Place your name and address in the upper left-hand corner of the envelope.

"Follow the model form and if letter is not delivered it will be returned to you."

Last year there were more than 13,000,000 pieces of mail sent to the dead letter office, largely through faulty addresses and carelessness. The department believes much of this nuisance can be obviated by teaching the public school children to address their letters in proper form.

No Session Decoration Day.

Washington, May 27.—The house today agreed that when it adjourned for the day it shall be until tomorrow, and that adjournment tomorrow shall be until Tuesday night. Mr. Payne, the majority leader, explained that the idea was to avoid a session on Decoration day.

SOME TRACED DRAWINGS.

Efforts Made to Fool Contest Editor By Duluth Children.

It is not the easiest thing in the world to draw a picture of a cow, but hundreds of Duluth boys and girls are making a sincere effort in the Borden contest. Some boys and girls are not quite so sincere and they have endeavored to fool the contest editor with traced drawings. But that is found out every time, so there is nothing to be gained that way, for every drawing that is traced, and they are not hard to tell, goes straight to the waste paper basket. That is an April fool joke that came in May and didn't work.

However, let boys and girls start again. Practice drawing a picture of a cow, a long time if necessary, before you send one in. But hurry!

Yesterday's prizes for the best cows were won by Vivian Hambly of 216 Seventh avenue west, who will receive the prize of $2 and Raymond Demerle of 1705 Piedmont avenue, who will be given the second prize of $1.

The best letters were written by Gladys M. Adams of 119 South Fifty-seventh avenue west, and Paul Sharky of Superior, Wis., who will receive the $2 prizes.

Taft Promotes Winslow.

Washington, May 27.—The president today sent to the senate the nomination of Capt. Herbert Winslow of the navy to be rear admiral, and Commander William Braulersruther to be captain.

A vapor blanket thirty feet thick is found by Prof. Frank H. Bigelow to cover the reservoir at Reno, Nev. Assuming that a like invisible shield protects the Salton sea, it is concluded that this body may lose by evaporation not more than four or five feet yearly, instead of the eight feet hitherto expected.

WAS CAUGHT ON TRESTLE

Miner Jumped Forty Feet to Ground to Escape Train.

Broke Back and Ribs and Wants $50,000 From Railroad.

Joe Provich commenced action in the United States court this afternoon to collect $50,000 from the Greer Contracting company for injuries he alleges he sustained through the negligence of that concern while he was in its employ last October.

Provich lived at the Jennings mine near Buhl and was employed at the Kinney mine, half a mile distant. Between the two places was a network of spurs, over which ore from the mines was carried to the main shipping track of the Great Northern.

The plaintiff alleges that it was customary for people to travel between the Kinney mine and the Jennings postoffice over these tracks and that it was with the defendant's tacit consent and knowledge that they did so.

Last October Provich was going from the Kinney mine to the Jennings mine, and in doing so was compelled to cross a trestle about 100 feet long. While in the center, one of the defendant's ore trains bore down upon him, and to escape what seemed sure death, he jumped to the stripping tracks below, a distance of about forty feet.

Provich's back and ribs were broken and he alleges that he is crippled for life and has suffered continuously since. The plaintiff at the time was a miner working for $2 per day.

A TURKISH TEA PARTY.

No Tea, But Cigarettes, Coffee, Cake and Dancing Girls.

When a Turkish lady gives a "chaiva," or tea party, her husband is perforce excluded from the harem while the strange women are in the house. These guests begin to arrive toward 6, accompanied by their maidservants and negroes, carrying lanterns and bringing their children with them.

Closely muffled, they divest themselves of their burnouses and babouches in an anteroom and put on delicate satin slippers, which they have brought with them in bags. The reception rooms are brilliantly lighted up with pink wax candles and scented with fragrant pastilles.

There is no kissing or handshaking between the hostess and her guests, but each lady as she comes in raises her hand gracefully to her heart, her lips and her brow, which means "I am devoted to you with heart, mouth and mind." This mode of salutation, when smilingly performed, is very pretty.

The greetings being ended, the company seat themselves on chairs, if there be any foreign ladies present; if not, they betake themselves to the divans and carpets, while the children go off all together to be regaled and to romp in some other room.

Cigarettes, coffee and sweetmeats are handed around, says the Travel Magazine, and while these things are being discussed, the ladies are bound to pay one another compliments about their respective dresses, which are sure to be most sumptuous, and indeed are sometimes worth a fortune.

The evening costume of a Turkish woman consists of a long tunic with open sleeves and a wide pair of trousers, and when these articles are of costly stuffs, embroidered, laced and covered with jewels, they produce a rare effect.

After the coffee, dancing girls are introduced, and at this stage of the proceedings the elderly ladies generally settle down to cards and backgammon. In some houses where Christian manners have penetrated, a woman pianist rattles off waltzes and operatic music to amuse the company; but this does not exclude the performances of the native dancing girls, whose gyrations and fantastic music with tambourines and castanets are much appreciated. These almees are seldom older than 14, and in any case no married woman ever joins in a dance.

When the evening has been more or less agreeably spent amid these pastimes and conversation, it is the lady of the house who gives the signal for the guests to retire. This she does by clapping her hands and exclaiming, "Chalva yel!" "Bring in the cake!" At once the maidservants hurry off to fetch the delicacy, and soon a very aromatic, creamy and spongy pudding is produced, the which having been honored as it deserves, silver basins full of rosewater are carried in for the guests to wash their hands withal, and then the party is at an end.

A very quaint form of salutation speeds the parting guests. As each lady comes up to express her thanks for the hospitality she has enjoyed, the hostess answers sweetly, "How happy I am that it is all over!" which ambiguous utterance only means, "How happy I am that no accident has befallen any of us during this delightful evening."

Lippincott's Magazine: A "Young Mother" asks our opinion of "the alleged injurious effects of rocking on babies."

We must frankly say that we consider it a brutal practice. As the father of a great many babies, of all ages, we never rocked on any of them intentionally, and we would probably be arrested if we expressed our full opinion of any woman who would presume to do so.

QUICK WITTED TRUANTS.

Kansas City Star: When two truants meet two attendance officers it's a case of Greek meeting Greek—the quickest wits or the fastest legs win. J. G. Erskine and J. Thomason met two truants on a street corner not far from the city hall yesterday afternoon.

"What's the vacation?" Mr. Thomason asked.

"It ain't a vacation," the smaller boy answered. He was wearing a silk handkerchief to protect his ears from the cold. "See this here bandage? I'm goin' to the city hall to see if I ain't dyin'."

"And you?" Mr. Erskine asked the other boy.

The boy showed a tiny red spot on the side of his neck.

"I've got the smallpox," he said.

The attendance officers decided that it was so late in the afternoon that arrests wouldn't be necessary.

Quick wits had won.

LANGUAGE OF BUSINESS.

Washington Star: "I understand that your wife and daughters have acquired several foreign languages."

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox, "when they're having a good time in society or at the opera they talk French or Italian. But when it comes to telling their troubles they get back to plain English, so that I can take a hand."

In proportion to the population, the little kingdom of Belgium probably can claim the greatest number of organizations advocating woman suffrage. At the last count they numbered 123.

On account of the early closing hours of the high school, state normal and parochial schools of the city, the programs will be carried out at these schools in the forenoon. The students of the cathedral parochial school will gather at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in their assembly room and listen to short talks by W. H. Smallwood, S. F. White, W. B. Phelps and C. E. Holt. There will also be instrumental and vocal music and recitations.

At 10 o'clock the exercises will be held in the high school and at the normal school. At the Central high school the following committee of G. A. R. veterans will be present and address the students: D. G. Cash, W. H. Stultz, E. G. Chapman and W. W. Wood.

Rev. N. F. Upham will make the principal address at the normal school. The exercises there will be at the same hour the regular morning chapel services are held daily. A musical program, in which the students will take leading parts, will be a feature. In addition to Rev. Upham, the following will speak: S. W. Higgins, S. W. Clark, Jacob Laux and M. W. Bates. The exercises will be held in the chapel, which will be appropriately decorated for the occasion.

Church Services.

Memorial day falling on Sunday this year, many of the local ministers have arranged to speak on patriotic themes at their morning services.

Gorman and Culver posts of the G. A. R. have accepted the invitation of Rev. J. C. Farles to attend services at the Glen Avon Presbyterian church in the forenoon. The posts will assemble in their respective halls at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, marching thence to First avenue west and Superior street, where the two posts will join ranks. Special Woodland cars will be provided to carry the veterans from this point to the Glen Avon church.

Immediately following the morning services the veterans will form ranks and march to the Forest Hill cemetery, where the Grand Army services will be held. After the services the ranks will disband and special committees will go to the other cemeteries of the cities, where the graves of the soldier dead will be decorated.

The veterans will assemble in the evening at Ninth avenue east and Superior street and march in a body to the First Baptist church, where they will listen to a special Memorial sermon by Rev. J. S. Kirtley.

The Memorial Day Program.

Arrangements of details for the Memorial day program on Monday have been in the hands of a joint committee of Gorman and Culver posts of the G. A. R. and a special committee of the Citizens' staff.

The parade will form at 8:45 at the Armory and start promptly at 9 o'clock. The line of march follows: From Second avenue east and First street to Superior street, west on Superior street to Fifth avenue west, north on Fifth avenue west to First street, east on First street to Fourth avenue west, north to Second street, east to Third avenue west, north to Third street and thence to the Methodist church.

The parade will disband at the church with the exception of the school boys, who will continue to the high school. The veterans of the G. A. R. will form in front of the city hall to review the parade, falling in line in the rear.

Order of March.

The order of march is as follows:

First division—Police, chief marshal and staff, Third Regiment band, Duluth battalion M. N. G. Companies A, C, and E, under command of Maj. H. V. Eva. Duluth battalion M. N. M., under command of Lieutenant Commander S. S. Williamson.

Second division—Dr. R. W. Bowden in charge. Citizens' staff, speakers in carriages.

Third division—Trinity cadet corps in charge of Capt. Benjamin Taylor, Dr. C. M. Wilson in charge of all the school boys. Boys from the high school, Jefferson, Endion, Washburn, Lakeside and Lester Park schools. Carl J. Ulrich in charge.

Fourth division, F. N. Burrall in charge—Boys from the Franklin, Jackson, Nettleton, Lowell, Emerson, Washington, Whittier and Webster schools.

Fifth division, S. A. Foster and H. G. House in charge—Boys from the West Duluth Industrial high school and all West end schools.

Sixth division, Bishop James McGolrick in charge—Boys attending parochial schools.

Seventh division, M. W. Bates in charge—G. A. R. drum corps, Sons of Veterans, Spanish-American War Veterans, members of Gorman and Culver posts of the G. A. R. posts afoot and in carriages.

The police will form on First street in front of the Armory; the Third Regiment band will form on First street in front of the Armory facing west, followed by the National Guard and the naval militia; the second division will form on the upper side of First street, between First and Second avenues east; the third division will form on the upper side of First street, between Lake and First avenues east; the fourth division will form on the upper side of First street, between Lake and First avenues west; the fifth division will form on the upper side of First street, between First and Second avenues west; the sixth division will form on the upper side of First street, between Third and Second avenues west; the seventh division will form on the upper side of First street, between Fourth and Third avenues west. All not otherwise specified will face east.

The Relief Corps.

The ladies of the Women's Relief corps will meet this afternoon in Rowley hall to make the final arrangements for their part in the general observance of Memorial day.

The exercises will be practically the same as in former years. Early Monday afternoon the ladies will embark in boats furnished by the naval militia and will be taken to the lake basin north of the north pier of the canal. Services will there be conducted, led by Rev. N. J. Upham, chaplain of the post. Following the services the ladies of the corps will strew the waters of the lake with flowers in memory of the sailors who lost their lives in the naval service of the United States during the Civil war. The boats in which the ladies will go to and from the lake exercises will be under convoy of the steam launches of the Gopher.

Monday will be generally observed throughout the city as a holiday. All federal offices, including the government engineers' office at the foot of Lake avenue, will be closed the entire day. Bank and business houses will observe the day as usual. There will be one delivery of mail during the day and the general delivery and stamp window will be open as on Sundays. The stores are also planning on closing.

Chamberlain's Liniment.

This is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflammatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invariably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lame back, lame shoulder and stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the affected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is allayed by this liniment. For sale by all druggists.

SEEKING HIS RELATIVES.

Army Officer Writes About Man's Death in Hawaii Hospital.

Bemidji, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. R. Erickson, local postmaster, has received the following communication from Fort Shafter, Hawaii, relative to one Ernest Cristeon or Christeon, who died in the military hospital at Honolulu on November 23, 1908.

The letter is self-explanatory, and any information concerning this man should be given to the local postoffice authorities:

"Company G, Twentieth infantry, Fort Shafter, Hawaii, May 4, 1909.—To the Postmaster, Bemidji, Minn.—Sir: I have the honor to request an information you may have or may be able to obtain concerning one Ernest Cristeon or Christeon, who is reported to have been proprietor of the Hub saloon in Bemidji from 1896 to 1898. This man was identified by one Cortell, who was with him in Bemidji, and who is now here in Honolulu, as being the same as Earl R. Croxton, who enlisted in the United States army at Fort McDowell, Angel Island, Cal., on March 27, 1908, and who died in the Milltary hospital at Honolulu on November 23, 1908, from injuries received by being run down by an automobile.

"I am anxious to learn of the whereabouts of some of his relatives, that I may inform them of his death.

"Do you know where he came from, or where any of his relatives may be found?

"Very respectfully, C. W. Eaton, captain Twentieth infantry, commanding Company G."

BELTRAMI COUNTY BONDS ARE SOLD AT PREMIUM.

Bemidji, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The $195,000 bonds issued by Beltrami county for the purpose of taking up the outstanding floating indebtedness of this county were sold at a premium of $1,131.75 and accrued interest from date of issue to the Security Trust company of St. Paul, that company having submitted the highest of several bids.

Wagner Held for Trial.

Madison, Wis., May 27.—Frank T. Wagner, the Milwaukee private detective, who testified before the senate investigation committee that he saw packages of money handed to three assemblymen in a room in the Plankinton house, was held for trial on June 15, after a preliminary examination lasting the entire day.

YOUNG WIDOW TAKES HER LIFE WITH CARBOLIC ACID.

Columbus, Ohio, May 27.—Lonely and discouraged, Mrs. Florence Hand, aged 23 years, killed herself today with carbolic acid. A sealed letter was found, addressed to Roseville, Ohio, where her mother, Mrs. Charles Ross, has been keeping Mrs. Hand's little daughter. Mrs. Ross is dying with consumption. Mrs. Hand's husband is dead.

WILL STAND TOGETHER

Northern Minnesota Delegations to Labor Convention to Co-operate.

Duluth Organizations Will Have About Twenty-Five Representatives.

In order to impress their desires in different matters upon the assemblage, delegations from the Northern Minnesota to the convention of the State Federation of Labor have found it advisable to band together, in a sense, and that is probably what will be done this year.

Organized labor in Duluth will be represented at the convention in Red Wing next month by about twenty-five delegates. This delegation is quite a formidable one, but it is likely that the Brainerd delegation and other smaller ones from this section of the state will line up with the Duluth representatives on matters which the Duluthians are desirous of passing in the convention.

To discuss the business that is likely to come before the state convention and to formulate plans for the presentation of the matters in which they are interested, the Duluth delegation will likely hold a meeting in the near future. The time will probably be set at the meeting of the trades and labor assembly in Kalamazoo hall tomorrow evening.

Besides the delegates from the individual unions, the Woman's Label league and so forth, the trades assembly will send five delegates. They were named at the last meeting.

The five assembly delegates and most of the delegates from the various unions will be present at the assembly session Friday, so that a meeting time for the delegation to the state convention can be determined then.

The trades and labor assembly will hold its regular meeting tomorrow evening in Kalamazoo hall. A. R. Macdonald, associate editor of the Labor World will deliver a short address on "Government by Commission."

Mr. MacDonald will take a different view of the subject than that presented to the assembly at the last meeting by Assistant City Attorney E. M. Morgan.

There are no matters of great importance in sight for the assembly to consider tomorrow night and, aside from Mr. MacDonald's address, the business will probably be of a routine nature.

SCHOOL OFFICERS TO MEET FRIDAY

Annual Convention of Red Lake County Instructors on Friday.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school officers of Red Lake county will hold their annual convention here tomorrow. It is expected that at least 300 school officers will be in attendance and a program has been prepared for their entertainment.

The county superintendent will also on that date inaugurate an industrial contest among the rural pupils of the county, the same to continue through the season. This will culminate in the fall at an exhibition of the grains and other crops raised and also of the sewing and cooking of the children.

The program which will be presented is as follows: Music, city band; "Agriculture in Rural Schools," President William Robertson of the Crookston agricultural school; "Truancy and How To Improve Attendance," Supt. J. H. Hay; address, Prof. C. A. Ballard, Moorhead normal school; "Relation of County Superintendent to School Officers," County Superintendent H. F. Anderson; "Construction of School Buildings," County Superintendent L. M. Mithun of Marshall county.

Ex-Congressman J. Adam Bede will deliver the commencement address for the local high school in the evening.

Convicted of Seduction.

Moorhead, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alfred M. Burley, 21 years of age, of this city was found guilty by a jury in the district court of Clay county on Tuesday of the charge of seduction. The complaining witnesses was a young girl, Hannah M. Carlson, also of this city.

BEMIDJI TO CELEBRATE.

Eagle Will Do Some Screaming There on July 4.

Bemidji, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bemidji will celebrate the Fourth of July on Saturday, July 3. The city will also have a first-class local band by that time to furnish high-grade music for the celebration, according to the intentions of the directors of the Bemidji Commercial club.

For the past three years the citizens of Bemidji have held a local celebration on July 4th, when there were races, baseball, and other games, in which everybody who desired was allowed to participate, the prizes offered for winners being just large enough so as not to encourage professionals to participate, but still of such liberal proportions that local and near-by sports would enter.

EDITORS AT BEMIDJI.

Summer Meeting of Editorial Association to Be Held Next Month.

Bemidji, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club aided by Mayor Pogue and citizens generally are laying plans for a splendid reception and entertainment for the Great Northern Editorial association when they meet here June 14, 15, inclusive.

The association was organized a year ago with these officers: President, Rudolph Lee, Long Prairie, publisher Long Prairie Leader; vice president, Clyde J. Pryor, business manager, Bemidji Pioneer; secretary, L. J. Courtright, publisher Bertha Headlight, now starting the Headlight at Staples; directors, F. A. Dare, Walker, publisher Walker Pilot; A. M. Welles, Sauk Center, publisher Sauk Center Herald.

MARK VETERANS' GRAVES.

Headstones Donated By Government Placed at Little Falls.

Little Falls, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nine headstones furnished by the government to mark the graves of as many veterans in local cemeteries were received this week by Harting & Son, and yesterday they were placed in the cemeteries, as follows: Oakland cemetery—William P. Green, Company H, Sixty-fourth New York infantry; William R. Robinson, Company F, Twentieth Michigan infantry; E. G. Hill, Company E, Seventh Minnesota infantry; S. Dingman, Company E, Twenty-second Michigan infantry; K. Tuttle, Company A, Forty-third Wisconsin infantry; Charles Mechau, Company D, One Hundred and Eleventh Pennsylvania infantry. Calvary cemetery—Louis Gravel, Company I, Fifty-fourth Massachusetts infantry. At Royalton—Charles Farrow, Company A, Ninth Minnesota infantry. At Fort Ripley—James S. Alexandria Company C, Ninety-ninth Illinois infantry.

These stones are furnished by the government, free of charge, upon the application from a responsible party, and upon the guarantee that the same will be set over the resting bodies of those for whom they were made.

CANNON FALLS EVENT.

Statue of Col. Colvill to Be Unveiled Next Saturday.

Cannon Falls, Minn., May 27.—The replica of the statute of Col. William Colvill, recently unveiled in the state capitol, will be unveiled here Saturday next, when many survivors of the First Minnesota will be present and honor the memory of their former brave leader at his grave.

The presentation address will be delivered by J. N. Searles of Stillwater, while the statue will be accepted by Governor John A. Johnson.

Maj. Martin Maginnis of Helena, Mont., a survivor of the First Minnesota, who participated under Col. Colvill in the famous charge at Gettysburg, will also deliver an address.

NEGAUNEE P. O. ROBBER SENT TO REFORMATORY.

Marquette, Mich., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Foster Roberts, one of the boys who broke into the Negaunee postoffice some time ago, was sentenced Tuesday to from one to five years at the Ionia penitentiary, with a recommendation that the lad serve one and a half years.

The sentence was imposed after Capt. C. D. Blanchard had obtained a sworn statement from the boy's mother than he was 16 years of age, which prohibits him being sent to the industrial school at Lansing, where his companion in crime, Holget Anderson, will be taken.

Thirteen Turks Hanged.

Constantinople, May 27.—Thirteen men were hanged in public at daybreak in Constantinople today, having previously been found guilty of complicity in the revolutionary outbreak April 13. The bodies were left exposed to view for a short time only.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Each day the women of Duluth are displaying a greater interest in the new building of the Young Women's Christian association. A large number of the bedrooms in the new building will be furnished through the kindness of Duluth women and their organizations. Thus far the only men's organization to show a special interest in this feature of the work is the Northern Railway club, which has assumed the responsibility of furnishing one room. In the furnishing of the parlors and reception rooms individual taste may be used to a large degree. The bedroom furnishings are uniform.

During the last few days the Duluth women who have signified their intention of furnishing a room in the new building are: Mrs. G. G. Hartley, Mrs. W. T. Bailey, Mrs. A. W. Frick, Mrs. G. A. St. Clair, Mrs. Pentecost Mitchell, Mrs. Ward Ames, Mrs. F. E. Potter, Mrs. D. D. McDonald, Mrs. C. H. Munger, Mrs. G. G. Dickerman, Mrs. Stephen H. Jones, Mrs. Alfred Merritt, the Epworth League of the Methodist church and the Ladies' Aid Society of Glen Avon.

Those who have previously subscribed for this feature of the work are: Mesdames W. W. Billson, C. H. Lutes, T. J. Davis, W. A. McDonagle, Z. D. Scott, W. H. Cole, M. H. Alworth, C. A. Duncan, F. S. E. Matter, J. L. Washburn, Robert Smith, Carroll Graff, O. L. Mather, W. J. Olcott, W. C. Winton, the Daughters of Liberty, Greysolon du Lhut chapter of the D. A. R., the Northern Railway club, the Kings Daughters, Ladies' Aid Society of the First Methodist church, St. Paul's Guild and the Park Point Study class.

LECTURE RECITAL.

Miss Carey Presents Loretta O'Gorman in Program.

Miss Josephine Carey presented her pupil, Miss Loretta O'Gorman, in a lecture musical last evening at the Lester Park Methodist church. The recital was the concluding number in the People's course at the church, and the assisting soloist was Mrs. Leo Ball.

Miss Carey gave an informal talk on the so-called classical composers, the piano numbers being chosen from the classical writers from Scarlotti to Beethoven.

The young pianist, who is 15 years old and appeared in her first recital as the single piano soloist, acquitted herself with much credit. The first group of numbers, which included the exquisitely dainty "Pastorale," by Scarlotti, a Bach "Invention of Two Voices," Handel's "Harmonious Blacksmith" and "Allegretto," by Haydn, were charmingly played, with a marked character and delicate appreciation. She also played a Mozart sonata, No. 12, and the three movements were well defined and clearly presented. Considering the age of the young performer, the sonata was finely played and the improvements to be added are those that will come with added experience and greater maturity. A delicate Beethoven minuet completed the period of classical interest, and the program was closed with Weber's ideal "Invitation to the Dance." Mozart's earliest composition was played as an encore.

Mrs. Ball sang Chaminade's "Summer" delightfully, and for an encore sang "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms."

MEMORIAL DAY.

W. R. C. Complete Plans For Its Observation.

At the meeting of the Women's Relief corps, which was held this afternoon at Bowley hall on West First street, the final plans for the Memorial day celebration were made. The members of the corps will serve dinner that day for the members of the J. B. Culver post and their families.

The members of the Relief corps will as usual strew flowers on the water of the lake in memory of the soldier sailors who lost their lives in the war. The chaplain, Rev. Upham, will officiate and the Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele will also be present.

Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Simon of 420 East Fourth street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Irene, to David Schaibel of Virginia. The wedding will take place in July.

Church Wedding.

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock Miss Matilda Metter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Metter of 913½ East Second street, became the bride of Arthur Spearin.

The wedding ceremony was read at the German Lutheran church, Tenth avenue east and Third street.

The bride was gowned in white satin and was attended by Miss Olive Nell and Miss Ruby Cullen. The best men were Allan Spearin and William Schuler.

Mr. and Mrs. Spearin left after the ceremony for a trip to Kansas City. Upon their return they will be at home at 1049 East Sixth street.

The guests of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bruehn of Staverly, Can.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Loeb and daughter, Dorothy, will leave tomorrow for a two months' trip on the Pacific coast. They will go first to Seattle, where they will be the guests of Mr. Loeb's brother.

Miss Blanche B. Smith has returned from a visit at Minneapolis.

Mrs. Annie J. Rees of 1111 East Second street will be at home for the summer at the B. K. Walker cottage on Park point.

Miss Alice Sjoselius will leave next week for a month's visit at Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Mance and children have returned from an outing at French Lick Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Michaels have returned from Winnipeg, where they visited for a few days.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bloedel of Twelfth avenue east left today over the Great Northern for the Pacific coast to visit their son, Quartermaster Sergeant R. C. Bloedel, of the Third Infantry, United States army, stationed at Fort Lawton, Wash., who has been assigned for duty in the Philippines early in August. Mr. and Mrs. Bloedel will visit their son a month and also visit the Yukon exposition and Yellowstone Park on their return. They will be gone until Aug. 1.

The Woman Who Knows

The woman who knows how silk gloves differ looks for "Kayser" in the hem.

And she looks for the guarantee.

For she knows that Kayser are the finest silk gloves in existence, as they have been for 25 years.

She knows that poor gloves cost as much as the Kaysers, and never wear half so long.

She wants the Kayser fabric, fit and finish, and the Kayser double tip.

All women want Kaysers, but some women don't get them because they don't look in the hem.

SUCCESS OF PLAN FOR A SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA DEPENDS ON MAY FESTIVAL

The event of the week, in a social way, and of the entire season musically, will be the opening concert of the May festival of music, which will be presented tomorrow evening at the Lyceum theater by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. A brilliant audience is assured, and a program of excellent worth will be presented. The piece de resistance will be the great Tschaikowsky symphony, and the assisting soloists will be Father May Plumb, contralto; Arthur Middleton, basso; and Richard Czerwonky, violinist.

There has been general work throughout the city in promoting the concerts, for in great part upon the success of this festival depends what future efforts will be made for orchestral concerts in Duluth. The committee, consisting of Messrs T. W. Hugo, Stephen H. Jones and Horace W. Reyner, are most ambitious for the musical progress of Duluth, and the ideal of a symphony orchestra for Duluth is ever before them. By creating in the city the demand for such music, the way will be opened perhaps for frequent visits of the Minneapolis orchestra, and eventually a local symphony orchestra.

The concert will begin tomorrow evening promptly at 8:15 o'clock, and the audience is requested to be seated at that hour, in order that no one may be disturbed by late arrivals. The program for the opening concert is as follows:

Overture—"Le Carneval Romain" ....
Bass solo ....
.... Mr. Middleton
Symphony—Pathetique No. 6 ....
.... Tschaikowsky
(a) Adagio; Allegro non troppo ..

EMIL OBERHOFFER, Leader.

(b) Allegro con grazia ....
(c) Allegro molto Vivace ....
(d) Finale. Adagio Lamentoso...

INTERMISSION.

Contralto Aria—"O Mio Fernando!" (La Favorita) ....Donizetti
Song—"Song of the Rhine Daughters" ....Wagner
(Gotterdammerung and Rheingold).
Violin solo—"Fantasia Appassionato" ....Vieutemps
.... Mr. Czerwonky.
March—Hongroise, From "Damnation of Faust" ....Berlioz

One of the most interesting features of the festival will be the children's matinee, which has been provided for the school children of Duluth. This is bringing music to the people who, perhaps, receive the greatest value. Mr. Reyner made arrangements for the concert and Mrs. A. M. Gow, who has always been enthusiastic in efforts to provide people's concerts, aroused the interest of the children in the schools. Miss Josephine Carey was also greatly interested in the work and the program which will be played for them tomorrow afternoon has been played and explained at several of the schools by Miss Carey. Mrs. Stephen H. Jones provided 100 tickets for the school children's matinee, which have been given to the children who found it difficult to secure even the small admittance fee, and twenty-five of the little ones from St. James' orphanage will be the guests of Mrs. Otto C. Hartman at the matinee.

There will be a few matrons at the theater as chaperones and assistants, but aside from these assistants there will be no grown people allowed. It is entirely a children's matinee.

The theater is to be beautifully decorated for the festival, exquisite decorations suggestive of spring having been chosen by Mrs. Jones, who has assumed the responsibility for this feature, which will add so much to the picturesque beauty of the festival.

Middle Class Disapprove of American Brides.

Again the English newspapers are printing interviews with this and that woman of fashion or of title, deploring American marriages and saying very hard things about American women, writes Vogue. And then, the very next day, they are all denied. Naturally the English fashion magazine goes into the hands of the middle classes, into the country, and the readers are most indignant that earls and dukes and the rest of the nobility will not come awooing the home maiden. Why should they? American women may be spendthrifts, they may not be as domestic as the English variety—I am speaking of a certain class—but they are indeed most ornamental and charming, and I do not know what would become of the London season if it were not for them. At least there are plenty of lordlings to go around, and every year one hears of a score or more of brilliant marriages in English society, where the brides are not Americans. Here is a young English woman who has just captured Lord Brooke, and an excellent prize it is, and Lord Dalmeny, with all his money, has also been annexed. No one seemed to be keen for Granard—a mighty nice fellow he is—until Miss Beatrice Mills took him, and then there was a howl all over middle class England. Half-pay officers' daughters, village ladies, squires' families and the curates' womankind are all indignant, which seems a waste of emotion, as none of these had a ghost of a chance.

London just now is filled with our country women. Two drawing rooms have taken place, and les belles Americaines have made their bows to the British sovereign and his court and have done so most gracefully. There are Mrs. William Rockefeller and Miss Langhorn and Mrs. Chester Wells, and the daughter of Countess Pappenheim, Lady Suffolk, the countess of Granard and Mrs. Lulu Harcourt.

FOR SUNDAY LUNCH.

Most Difficult Meal of Week to Prepare.

If there is one meal of the week difficult to prepare, it is the Sunday evening luncheon. Sometimes it is necessary to have something extra, especially if callers are invited to remain for this meal. While making the tea, coffee or cocoa, spread large square salt crackers with butter, put on the top of each a large tablespoonful of canned kidney beans and pour a teaspoonful of catsup over the beans and heat all in the oven. This is a Mexican dish, says on exchange, and plenty of people will never complain, if it is served nowhere but Mexico.

A tempting dish was quickly prepared in the following manner: Thin veal chops were breaded and fried in butter. Just before the chops were removed from the frying pan a spoonful of the white of an egg was put on the top of each chop and a lid was put over the skillet; a drop of water created intense steam and the white of egg puffed up like a mushroom. A small piece of parsley was slipped under one edge of the egg and the chops were placed on individual dishes.

Thin slices of toast, buttered and set aside, can be served with a tablespoonful of creamed tomatoes. Cook only the tomatoes; mash them to a pulp, add plenty of butter and a cream thickening. Cool until thick and well done. Serve on a warm dish with a hard boiled egg. Have the eggs warm and leave whole, or cut in half and season.

Canned asparagus, left in lengths, mixed with chopped celery and mayonnaise, makes a very good salad.

Cut bread into triangle shapes, lay the pieces in a buttered plate and keep hot over warm water, preparing a meat hash. Chop the meat fine and put a large tablespoonful of butter in the frying pan. Blend in it a teaspoonful of flour and add rich milk or cream to make a white gravy; season highly. Stir in the meat, heat thoroughly and place a large tablespoonful of the hash on each piece of bread.

All of these dishes are inexpensive and quickly prepared. In serving berries, plums or cherries, they can be made even more tempting on a cold winter night by heating them.

Many Fashions.

Subtle changes are noticeable in the latest patterns that come from Paris during the present week. There can be no doubt that the skirts are becoming fuller, although the increase in fullness is but slight. The latest fashion rumor, however, is that early Victorian styles are to be made much of. After the slender lines of the present style the gay colors and ruffles that go with the promised style will seem rather odd. Such gowns will call for a large amount of material, and twenty yards or more will again become the usual length of material required for a gown.

Just at present the shops show foulards is an unusually long range of patterns and colors. Their width, forty-five inches, makes them especially useful for the present style of skirt and princess gown. It is surprising to see the wistaria catawba and mulberry shades back again after the strenuous season which they have just passed. These tones are here in all classes and grades of silk, crepe and cloth, and especially are they noticeable in high-grade fabrics. Silk cashmere, the material so much sought for afternoon costumes, is offered in a host of charming colors. There is a certain rich luster to silk cashmere that is not obtainable in other materials. This accounts for its popularity and no doubt will make it one of the foremost fabrics of the coming season.

The continued vogue of the princess gown materially affects the prominence of the coat and skirt suit in the wardrobe and increases the importance of the separate wrap. In the coat and wrap shapes for separate wear there is an unusually large variety. Such garments range in style all the way from the straightest and flattest of back at half and three-quarter length coats to voluminous mantles which seem to indicate that the present style is soon to change to greater fullness.

Some of the handsomest gowns seen on matrons this year have been brocades as rich as those worn by elegants of the nineteenth century. Brocades are in growing favor and the next autumn season is sure to see them back in all the glory of oldtime prestige. It has been hinted that the weavers of a decade ago are also to be here again. But such a day will have to stand back until the disappearance of supple stuffs which carry everything before them now.

FEEDING THE PHONOGRAPHS.

Constant Search for Novelties for Slot Machines.

New York Sun: "There must be, I suppose," said a man who finds more or less enjoyment in the penny in the slot phonograph parlors; "there must be somebody who decides on what songs and music shall go into the machines, and I should say that the success of a place must depend in considerable measure on him. True, you can tell whether what you've got is taking or not by the returns from the machines; there couldn't very well be any better demonstration than that; but what you want to know is what to put in in place, or a piece that has ceased to draw profitable returns, and you also want to know what will draw better than anything you have got—and you want novelties.

"In one place where I go they have lately equipped a dozen or less of the phonographs, all right along together in a row, with bugle records. Of course they've had bugle records here before, a single one here and there, but here was a regular battery of bugle phonographs.

"This novelty attracted me to the extent of 5 cents. I walked along the line and tried five of these bugle phonographs that I thought I'd like to hear, and as far as my observation went this battery of bugle records thus brought prominently to my attention drew very well.

"Another massed effect here is produced by a string of a dozen or so of phonographs placed all together, all with selections from operas. This was suggested very likely by the opening of the opera season; and, of course, the advent of a popular singer in any line, as on the vaudeville stage, finds a prompt echo here. Let a singer that people talk about come, and straightway you find his songs on the records, paying a royalty to the singer and yielding a revenue to the proprietors of the phonograph parlor.

"And of course any song or music, however or wherever produced, that hits the popular fancy is at once reproduced on the phonographs, but there are here scores of machines for which records and constant changes must be provided, and I should think it would keep a man guessing what to choose. With the most earnest desire in the world to put on records that will draw pennies, this is still a most dificult thing to do. The songs written and sung are innumerable, but the really good songs are very few. Certainly I have paid many a penny to hear things that I never want to hear again, though tastes vary, and things that I might not like at all might hit other people very hard.

"I have an idea myself that we don't find on the records enough good old songs. I would immensely prefer a good old song to a poor new thing. We do, to be sure, always find here some old songs sung or played on musical instruments, but I think we ought to have more of these; a good old song always preserves its appealing melody, just as good architecture always keeps its satisfying beauty.

"In the search for new things that will draw, they put on the records other things than songs and music. On one machine here the other day I found Lincoln's Gettysberg address, and promptly I dropped a cent in the slot to hear again that noble utterance. And it seemed to me, thinking of it in a business way, that here was the germ of an idea; that quite apart from things said in current political campaigns, there might be other great or famous speeches, old, it may be, but still alive with human feeling, that might prove profitable records for the phonograph parlor.

"But perhaps we don't need to tell them this, for they are always seeking for new things, or for things that are new here, and always seeking to invest old things with new attractiveness. For instance, among the many slot machines of many kinds other than the song and music phonographs is the fortune telling machine. Here not long since sitting in a glass case was the life size figure of an old lady attired in old fashioned garments, and you drop a cent through a slot in the base of this machine and the old lady up in the glass case would bend her gaze downward upon an arry of cards spread out upon a table before her and as she scanned the cards she would swing her hand back and forth over them, her lips moving as she made her selection, and then presently she'd stop and sit up straight again, and then out of an opening in the machine below would pop a card for you with your fortune on it.

"And so many people want a fortune! So many people are willing to pay a cent to have their fortune told; and people swarmed around this machine to drop their pennies in the slot; but then—I don't know whether the old lady had ceased to draw or not, or what—but then they took the old lady out and put in her place to tell the fortunes the figure of a young and handsome woman.

"So it's novelty, novelty; they are always seeking, in the phonograph parlor, something new or something old or different, something that will draw; and a man's job, it would seem to be, here as in any other business line, to know and to be able to provide things that the people want to buy."

LIGHT FROM FLASH OF POWDER.

Boston Herald: Judge D. W. Bond of the Middlesex superior criminal court, in charging a jury recently, in speaking of the question as to whether the witness had sufficient light to identify the defendant by, referred to an old case in England at a time when old-fashioned black gunpowder that made considerable light when discharged was used.

A woman who happened to be passing by the prisoner afterward verified identified the man who fired it by the ing saw the shot in question fired and her testimony by his confession.

NEW THEATER.

Minneapolis Man Says It Will Undoubtedly Be Built Here.

There is no doubt that the Orpheum circuit people will establish a fine theater in Duluth, according to Albert Harrington of Minneapolis, who is now at the Spalding. Mr. Harrington, who is a well known grain man and owner of considerable real estate in Duluth, says he is in a position to know for a fact that a playhouse, to cost about $250,000 will be erected here by the Orpheum people.

Mr. Harrington says that all that stands in the way of starting work on the building immediately is that negotiations for a suitable site have not yet been closed.

HE REPLIES TO CRITICS

Jerome Addresses Huge Public Meeting in New York.

Questions Hurled at Him From All Over the Hall.

New York, May 27.—William Travers Jerome, district attorney of New York, took his seat at Cooper Union last night after an evening unique in the political annals of the city, during which he attempted to explain the administration of his office, pursuant to his agreement to "give an account of his stewardship."

Hundreds of questions were literally hurled at him, and after a turbulent meeting the 2,000 or more persons who packed Cooper Union declined to register a vote of confidence. An attempt to bring about such a vote was made, but it was hissed down by Mr. Jerome's opponents.

What effect this will have on Mr. Jerome's political ambitions is problematical. He has been desirous for some time, it is understood, of seeking a renomination for district attorney on an independent ticket.

Nonchalantly chewing gum, Jerome stepped on the platform. Ex-Senator John C. Spooner of Wisconsin was among the late arrivals.

"I always like to see a good fighter," said Spooner, "and that is why I am here."

Jerome was cheered when he appeared.

The district attorney soon took up the recent investigation of his office by a commissioner, which he declared was unfair.

This brought William A. Amory, who has been active in pushing charges against Mr. Jerome, to his feet with a contradiction. A spirited controversy, mingled with heated comments from persons in the audience, followed, but quiet was soon restored. Mr. Jerome declared that J. Talbot Taylor, James R. Keene's son-in-law, furnished Mr. Amory with the money for the Metropolitan Street Railway investigation, and when Mr. Amory was verbally trapped into admitting this, Jerome smiled and the crowd cheered.

The district attorney kept on with his statement, dwelling mainly on the Metropolitan investigation, during which he said that Thomas F. Ryan, who had been charged from time to time with various traction manipulations, never committed a crime.

Referring to the life insurance investigations, he said there was no evidence to warrant the indictment of John A. McCall, former president of the New York Life Insurance company.

"I have found," said Mr. Jerome, "fifty-six indictments against insurance men. In fact, I indicted every important insurance man in New York except four—one dead, one insane and two against whom there was no evidence."

Mr. Jerome next took up the ice trust investigation, the anxiety to probe which, he said, became apparent only after Democratic State Chairman William J. Connors and Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, lost $84,000. "Then," said the district attorney, "'Fingey' Connors started after the ice people, but they couldn't get a grand jury to find any indictment."

Then following a rising vote, the district attorney put aside his carefully prepared memoranda and devoted his entire attention to making reply to questioners who arose in every part of the hall to demand why he had failed to do this or that particular thing.

GOPHER HAS NEW OFFICER

S. S. Williamson Is Now Lieutenant Commander of Naval Reserves.

Some changes in the personnel of the officers of the Minnesota Naval Militia have just been announced.

Lieut. S. S. Williamson has just been promoted to the office of lieutenant commander. He fills the vacancy made by the retirement of Lieutenant Commander George H. Scully from the militia.

My Mr. Williamson's appointment as lieutenant commander, Lieut. Edgar Smith becomes commander of the First division of the militia. An election will be held soon to name an ensign for the First division.

With the taking of his new title, Lieutenant Commander Williamson becomes executive officer of the Gopher, the naval militia's ship.

Plans are being made by the militia for Memorial day. In the afternoon the militia will take the members of the W. R. C. out in the lake to strew flowers on the water in memory of the sailor dead. The Gopher is still in dry dock, so the ship's launch and the small boats will be used.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON NEXT WEEK

Visible to Duluthians—Partial Eclipse of Sun Also Coming.

There will be a total eclipse of the moon, visle from Duluth next Thursday, June 3. The eclipse will be generally visible throughout North America, except in the extreme northwestern portion of the continent. It can also be seen from South America and Europe.

The moon will have entered the eclipse shadow before it rises, as seen from the Head of the Lakes. The total eclipse will begin shortly after 7 o'clock in the evening and will end about one hour later. From Duluth it will appear that the moon leaves the shadow at about 9:30 o'clock.

There will be a central eclipse of the sun June 17, visible as a partial one in the Unite States and Canada. Duluthians will be able to see it between 5:30 and 6 o'clock on that day.

There will be another total eclipse of the moon Nov. 26-27, and a partial eclipse of the sun Dec. 12.

"SHOWED UP" ATTORNEY.

How Miss Marie Nelson Got the Best of a Lawyer.

Miss Marie Nelson, who will be seen as Mary Tudor in "When Knighthood Was in Flower," which is to be the first offering of the Quigley players, had an experience with a lawyer in which the disciple of Blackstone came off second best. One day last summer the little actress, while out for an early morning walk, happened to be a witness to a street car accident, and, of course, when the parents of the little boy who was hurt sued the traction company, Miss Nelson was one of the witnesses.

"Madam," began the lawyer in a most impressive tone, when the actress took the stand, "tell us where you were on the third day of August, 1908."

"I think," began Miss Nelson.

"Madam," interrupted the lawyer, "we don't care what you think. Where were you on that date?"

"I think that it—"

Once more the lawyer interrupted her, and in a testy way told her the court was not interested in her thinks.

"We don't care what you think; we want to know what you know. Can't you say anything without thinking?"

"No," said the actress, flinging back the denial, "I can't say anything without thinking. I am not a lawyer."

Lillian Russell.

Lillian Russell in her new racing comedy, "Wildfire," will be seen at the Lyceum Monday evening. The tour is under the direction of Joseph Brooks, who selected the Broadhurst and Hobart play for Miss Russell's use this season. She has made a great hit in it in New York and comes almost direct from her long engagement at the Liberty theater.

"Wildfire" is in three acts and concerns the efforts of the heroine, a widow, who has a racing stable, left by her late husband. He had conducted it secretly, and the widow continues the game until such time as she can dispose of her holdings to the best advantage. There is an effort to have her mare, Wildfire, pulled in the big race that means the turn of the widow's fortune, and how she fights against the crooks of the course and comes out all right is the impelling motive of the comedy.

NEGRO CHAUFFEURS'

Boasts Abont Familiarity With Employers' Families Caused Dismissal.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 27.—Places of colored chauffeurs who have been driving Pittsburg families are being taken by white men. At a meeting of colored chauffeurs, held some time ago, it is alleged open boasts were made regarding familiarity with the families of employers. This, being noised about, caused women of the families to demand discharges of chauffeurs.

SLAIN FOR THEIR FUR

Were Cats Collected By Mysterious Veiled Woman in Black.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 27.—Mystery surrounding the flitting personality of a veiled woman in black, who was believed to be gathering in cats owned by wealthy residents, who neglected them, for philanthropic treatment in a home, assumed a sensational phase, when owners of valuable cats, which have disappeared, were advised by detectives that the pets had been slain for their fur.

CHIPPED HER HUSBAND

With Butcher Knife, Charge Made Against Ninety-Pound Woman.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 27.—Mrs. John R. Carlisle, who weighs about ninety pounds in her stockings, was committed to jail under $1,000 bail, for assault on her husband, who weighs 300 pounds and is over six feet. It is alleged that the one bit of pleasure Mrs. Carlisle has in life is to chip bits from her husband with a butcher knife. Carlisle showed the magistrate that he had cuts on about 100 different places made by the playful wife.

Whooping Cough.

This is a more dangerous disease than is generally presumed. It will be a surprise to many to learn that more deaths result from it than from scarlet fever. Pneumonia often results from it. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, and always with the best results. Delbert McKeig of Harlan, Iowa, says of it: "My boy took whooping cough when nine months old. He had it in the winter, I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which proved good. I cannot recommend it too highly." For sale by all druggists.

BOTH CLAIM GIRL.

Puzzling Dispute That Confronts East Grand Forks Judge.

East Grand Forks, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Sullivan has a tough problem to decide in the determination of the proceedings before him involving the custody of 14-year-old Sophila Tourop, whom both Philip Tourop and his wife claim by former marriages.

The woman had the man arrested on the charge of kidnaping, alleging he came here from Winnipeg to take the girl.

CONGRESS AND THE TARIFF.

A very curious spectacle is presented at Washington, where a new tariff law is in the making.

Reputed friends of the Reptublican party are working, perhaps unconsciously, for Democratic success.

Reputed friends of the Democratic party are working, perhaps unconsciously, to destroy popular hope in the alternative of turning the people's affairs over to the Democratic party, leaving them, in this juncture, not knowing which way to turn.

Friends of the protective tariff are working, unconsciously or not, for free trade, by making protection so hideous in its abuses that its very name shall shortly become a byword and a reproach.

Surely nothing so stupid—or else so corrupt—has ever been witnessed in all the history of popular government.

It is hard to believe that it is stupidity, for the men who are doing these things are the picked men of their parties and of the nation. To say that they are stupid is to argue that the nation that put them in power is stupid. If they are stupid in this particular, they are, many of them, anything but stupid in other particulars.

To say that it is the product of corruption is to condemn both congress and the people that gave congress its power.

Yet that is the situation that prevails. The Republican national platform recognized a widespread popular demand, and promised tariff revision. It is true that the language of the promise was such as to allow a technical construction that means revision upward instead of downward, but the party cannot safely hide behind that contemptible excuse. The Republican candidate for president and the speakers who urged his cause interpreted the platform promise in accord with the people's needs and desires, so the people placed the party in power, and gave it the presidency and congress. But the Republican organization, in both branches of congress, is working for a kind of revision much worse than the tariff that is being revised, thus working for Democratic success in the next campaigns.

Yet some of the Democratic lawmakers, particularly in the senate, are joining hands with Aldrich to help him carry out his plans of plunder, thus working to make the people doubtful about how much is to be gained by turning to the alternative of throwing out the Republican party and putting in the Democratic party.

And, finally, the friends of protection are making that policy so pregnant with suggestions of plunder and corruption, of oppression of the people for the enrichment of the plutocracy, of prostitution of free government to make the people's lot harder and the plutocracy's rose-strewn pathways more sumptuously luxurious, that it will be small wonder if the very word protection becomes hated.

A COUNTY SANITARIUM.

The anti-tuberculosis forces in Duluth and St. Louis county should have every possible help in their present plan of bringing about the construction of a county sanitarium for consumptives under the law passed at the recent session of the legislature authorizing such enterprises.

St. Louis county is a large county, with a large population, and it contains its share of tuberculosis—most of it, pathetically enough, in the homes of those most poorly equipped to care for it. For the sake of those sufferers, but more especially for the sake of protecting the public from contagion, a county sanitarium should be provided on a wide, wholesome, breeze-swept site, where sick lungs may be made whole and unproductive public charges may be turned into independent and self-supporting citizens.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

"Doc" Bixby in the Lincoln State Journal tells this plain tale which carries its lesson, all the more forceful because it is a story that almost anybody can duplicate at least once out of his own circle of acquaintances:

"Calvin M. Dull is in jail in Fairmont, Minn., because unable or unwilling to give a bond for appearance in district court to answer the charge of having procured whisky for Dan Hale, a blacklisted booze-fighter.

"Thirty years ago Dan Hale was the most prosperous young merchant in Fairmont. People traded at his store because they liked the man. He was a jolly fellow, too jolly for his own good. He was one who could 'drink or let it alone,' and he didn't let it alone."

It is curious, by the way, how usual it is that the fellows who can drink and let it alone fail to let it alone, and keep on failing to let it alone until by and by their boast, if it ever was true, is true no longer. The rest of the story of Dan Hale is an example of this:

"His loss of prestige was gradual but certain. He sacrificed his business on the altar of drink. Friends did everything in their power to persuade him to abandon the road to the devil, but he threw them down."

That is another familiar step in the career of such unfortunates as this. The friends who had unconsciously helped him downward by encouraging him in his habit, by buying him drinks and letting him buy for them, tried when they awakened to his danger to stop him in his course, but it was too late. They and whisky had done their work too well. Good fellowship and the exhiliration of intoxication had led him on until there was no moral fiber left on which to rebuild, and his descent became more rapid every day until he shot into the horrible abyss of complete and final ruin:

"He had a beautiful home. It went with the rest. Then his wife could stand it no longer and obtained a legal separation."

The worst sufferers in a case like this are the members of the drunkard's family, and they are the last to let loose of the sinking man. Nobody can imagine the sufferings of a wife who sees her husband sink deeper every day into the slime of abandonment to a loathsome habit, while poverty and deprivation close around her relentlessly. It is a case where the innocent suffer more severely than the guilty, and that is the shame of it and the pity of it.

"Dan Hale still lives—homeless, friendless, senseless, a tramp and a vagabond with no higher ambition than to satisfy the thirst for strong drink, which is about all there is left of him. And he is one of thousands. Where is society's recompense for the ruin of it all?"

Where, indeed? A story like that lacks novelty; it is all too common. But its lack of novelty makes the lesson it carries the more pointed. He could "drink and let it alone," but, alas, he didn't leave it alone. Now, sans honor, sans health, sans friends, sans family, sans everything that makes life worth living, sans hope, there is nothing left of him but a diseased appetite; nothing ahead of him but a wretched death.

ALAS, ILLINOIS!

Of course the main thing before the people of Illinois was to get rid of Hopkins. Hopkins is a reactionary, a standpatter, a corporation man inside and out, and in the senate he has stood invariably with the hierarchy of big plunder. So it is good that Illinois has retired him to private life.

But Lorimer! For pity's sake, why Lorimer? Has Illinois no really big man to make a United States senator out of? In throwing out Hopkins could it do no better than to put in Lorimer? He is as venal as Hopkins, and his work is much coarser. He is a political boss; that is his business: and he isn't in it for his health, either, thank you. Doubtless he will be quite as amenable to the wishes of Aldrich and the system as Hopkins was, and he isn't so respectable as Hopkins—which isn't saying much for either of them.

Lorimer's election was brought about by a combination of anti-Hopkins Republicans and Democrats, led by the boss-controlled Democrats of Chicago. Lorimer, though a Republican, is one of those bosses who do not scruple to make trades with Democratic bosses. That is how he has kept in congress—by a coalition of Republican and Democratic machine influences. Lorimer is a machine man, pure and simple—he will doubtless be a machine man in Washington. Wherefore Aldrich and his kind will laugh merrily at the plight of those who wished to put Hopkins out because he is a machine man and not a friend of the people.

Alas, Illinois!

TARIFF BOUNTIES ILLEGAL.

Recently The Herald discussed tariff taxation and tariff bounties, quoting a decision of the supreme court of the United States to show that in theory at least the protective tariff is as unlawful as a local tax the proceeds of which are used for the profit of individuals. The idea is not original with this newspaper, of course. It has been broached many times, and never yet has any answer been made to it that is even plausible. The government has a perfect right to raise revenue through import duties, but it has no right whatever to tax the people for the enrichment of individuals. It never has had that right, and it is exerting it in defiance to law, reason and justice. Its exertion has been productive of corruption and profligacy, and no one thing in American politics has done so much to debase the legislative branch of government, to impoverish the people, and to divert the nation's wealth into the control of a few.

The Indianapolis News, discussing this very question, quotes some interesting legal opinions. After quoting a decision of the United States supreme court declaring void a Kansas law allowing cities to issue bonds to provide bounties for manufacturing, the News says: "There are only two possible inferences from this language. The first is that no taxing authority, national, state or local, has the right to lay any tax except for a public purpose. The second is that the establishment of manufactures is not a public purpose within the meaning of the law." The nation levies a tariff tax not only to establish manufactures and other industries, but to give them inordinate profits as well.

Thomas M. Cooley, one of the country's greatest authorities on law, said in his "Principles of Constitutional Law:" "Constitutionally a tax can have no other basis than the raising of revenue for public purposes, and whatever governmental exaction has not this basis is tyrannical and unlawful. A tax on imports, therefore, the purpose of which is not to raise revenue but to discourage and indirectly prohibit some particular import for the benefit of some home manufacture, may well be questioned as being merely colorable, and therefore not warranted by constitutional principles."

The supreme court of Maine has said that "no public exigency can require private spoliation for the private benefit of favored individuals. Taxation by the very meaning of the term implies the raising of money for public uses, and excludes the raising of it for private objects and purposes." The supreme court of Iowa has said: "If there is any proposition about which there is an entire and uniform weight of judicial authority, it is that taxes are to be imposed for the use of the people of the state in the varied and manifold purposes of government, and not for private objects or the special benefit of individuals. While the state is bound to protect all, it ceases to give that just protection when it affords undue advantages, or gives special and exclusive privileges to particular individuals and particular and special industries at the cost and charge of the rest of the community."

Not all these judges were talking about the tariff; but they are all talking about the principles of taxation, and the tariff is a tax. It must be levied for public purposes. It must provide revenue, and when it goes further and taxes the people for the special benefit of any industry or industries, it becomes not only unlawful, but uneconomic and corrupt.

Changing Hopkins for Lorimer in Illinois seems a good deal like changing Aldrich for Cannon in the house.

That Middle West earthquake is nothing to what the Republican party will experience if it betrays the people in the making of the new tariff.

The weather is getting hot in Washington. The rest of the country is getting hotter, too, as the statesmen will find if they continue to follow Aldrich and Cannon.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Work upon the cleaning plant at Coleraine is going on very rapidly, and it is expected that the plant will be ready for operation some time this fall," said James Boyle of Coleraine at the Lenox yesterday. "The old mill is being used at the present time, but this is not large enough for the increased operations that will be carried on at Coleraine this summer. The construction of the new cleaning plant will make Coleraine one of the most important mining towns on the range. "It is estimated that the ore output will be at least 10 per cent in excess of the ore taken from the Coleraine mines a year ago. The opening has been rather slow, but the indications point to a very good season. The officials of the Steel company are inclined to the belief that the operations the present year will run well over those of last season.

"The number of employes at the various mines has been increased. The Steel company is employing additional men, and the total number employed at Coleraine by all the interests there, within the past month, will reach 500. This shows that the outlook is very good, and that the officials are of the opinion that the present season will be a good one. At this time last year men were being let go.

"One of the head officials of the Steel corporation at Coleraine, said to me the other day: 'They talk about hard times, we do not know what hard times mean out in this part of the country. The Steel company has not cut the wakes of a single employe in this section of the country. Down East some of the employes have had their salaries reduced. We have not discharged any men up here, and the employes in this part of the country have no reason to complain of hard times. There has been a depression of business, it is true, but the employe in this section of the iron country have had little reason to complain of the conditions that he has faced."

"The city of New York owes approximately $900,000,000, and the debt of the city is increasing at the rate of over $300,000 a day. Within the past six months the debt of the city has increased over $50,000,000."

This is the statement made by J. K. Bagley at the Spalding last evening. Mr. Bagley stated that the small tenants of the East and West sides of New York, in the past the staunch supporters of Tammany Hall, are showing a resentment against that organization, which may be shown more clearly in the polls next November.

"The small tenement dwellers have had their rents increased, simply because the increased tax burden of the city has compelled property owners to pay higher taxes," said Mr. Bagley. "The owners of the property in turn have been compelled to increase the rents of the tenants of the squalid district of New York.

"The tenement dwellers have come to the belief that Mayor McClellan is the man who is responsible for the increased city taxes. The landlords have lost no time in letting their protesting tenants know that it is through no fault of theirs that the rents have gone up.

"With the belief that McClellan has increased the taxes of the city through the increasing of the city debt, comes the knowledge that McClellan was placed into office by the Tammany interests. The fact that McClellan and Murphy are supposed to be at swords' points at the present time, has had no appreciable effect upon the attitude of the poorer class of tenement dwellers. They are resentful against Tammany, and this resentment may take active issue in the fall campaign.

"The city's debt has increased to that extent that the tenant, going without meat for his dinner, has finally had it beaten into his head that Tammany Hall stan is for all his increased misery. When the East sider is aroused, he does not forget easily. When you take a man's meat from him, you are giving him just cause for complaint. That is what has been done with the poor East sider of New York, and his protest may be heard at the polls."

Tokens of Hope.

Harper's Weekly: What the American business community wants is a fresh infusion of the old doctrine of the sinfulness of sin.—The Providence Journal.

It is getting it, neighbor; it is getting it. It has been brought home to the sugar trust with both feet. Sanguine people even look forward to the time when it will no longer be reputable to lie about the tariff. We can never be even passably clean while the whole business apparatus of the country is riveted to that body of lies and death. But some of the rivets are fetching loose. Old Republican senators have stood up in the senate and told Mr. Aldrich to his face that they cannot tell the necessary high-protection stories any longer. The sinfulness of sin, the iniquity of lies, have come home to them. They won't work any longer, come what may, to feed an insatiable greed by taxation of the working people. They won't even sit silent they speak out!

Why, neighbor, that is wonderful.

THE WEATHER.

Some place the sun is shining; some place the tender little violets shoot forth from the warm earth; some place—but what's the use. It will get warm some time. It always has.

A year ago today it was raining.

The sun rose this morning at 4:19 and will set this afternoon at 7:50, making fifteen hours and thirty-one minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Showery weather prevailed Wednesday or last night in the lake region, Lower Missouri, Upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys, Middle Atlantic and West Gulf states, due to the slow moving but slight barometric depression central over Southern Wisconsin. Showers also fell over the plateau region, Western Montana and North Pacific districts, as a result of a disturbance over Alberta. Temperatures have risen slightly over most of the Rocky mountain region. The barometer is highest in Atlantic coast states. Indications favor generally fair weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Friday."

Kentucky's Bad Case.

Harper's Weekly: Prohibition in Kentucky means ruin; it means destruction; in Louisville, it means the end of all real hopes as a city, and also our aspirations as free men and free women.—Marse Henry.

If the case is so bad as that, colonel, perhaps Kentucky had better just go to pot and have a receiver, and take a fresh start.

We think very small potatoes of prohibition; don't like it; don't believe in it. But if the prosperity of a state is absolutely dependent on the rum business, that state is in a bad case. Perhaps, if Kentucky, through whatever tribulations, can learn to lean less on whisky, can learn to face losses, will be a gainer in life end through consequent progress in the amenities of civilization. While its people are great people, and its human material is unsurpassed, its politics are a disgrace and its society exceptionally charged with disorder and defiance of law.

Isn't the state over-estimated, colonel? If prohibition rages and threatens to overwhelm it, is it not the blind struggle of disease to find a remedy?

If prohibition is to ruin Kentucky, let her bust! For generations she has treated it to her pecuniary profit on the vices—or, say, the indulgences—of mankind. Perhaps it is partly a consequence of that trade that she is so ungovernable. Let her raise more hemp awhile, and less whisky!

Time to Call a Halt.

Savannah News: Up in Maine a woman, newly arrived in the state, advertised in the papers that she was good-looking, attractive, educated, unmarried, an heiress worth $30,000, and wanted to get married. She received lots of replies. Finally along came a native of the name of Fuller. He found that she was neither good-looking, nor attractive, nor educated, but there was something about the heiress suggestion and the $30,000 prospect that was mighty fascinating to Fuller, so he proposed and was accepted. After the marriage Fuller went after the $30,000, and discovered that it did not exist. Then he complained to the grand jury, and that body indicted the woman for making fraudulent use of the mails! The Maine idea just will not tolerate any monkeying with a money proposition, where a native stands to lose.

Those Stage "College Boys."

Beau Broadway in New York Telegraph: The West has recently been flooded, I hear, with "college boy" acts—teams of not overly brilliant young men who wear $15 white flannel hand-me-downs, hats of a style mostly favored by colored gentlemen, sing, last year's ballads very poorly and dance with indifferent success. One disgusted manager, whose booking agent had been sending him an oversupply of the teams, stood in the lobby watching one of the "college boys" talking with a mash he had picked up in the town.

"Say," said the girl, "are you fellows really college boys?"

"Well," answered the other, "I ain't one, but Bill is. Why, Bill," with pride "he graduated from the Barbers' college in Los Angeles."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The twenty-third annual reunion of the First Minnesota Regiment association will be held in Duluth July 18 and 19. The resident members of the association are Col. William Colvill, Capt. Franklin Paine, Capt. T. H. Pressnell, E. R. Jefferson, W. H. Johnson, W. H. Bassett and E. A. Austin. The officers are: President, Col. W. Colvill; vice president, Capt. T. H. Pressnell; secretary, H. C. Whitney; treasurer, Judge William Lochren.

A company has been formed by a number of Pennsylvania railroad capitalists to build a line of twelve steel steamers, the largest on the lakes, to run between Duluth and the Lake Erie connection of the Pennsylvania railroad. The entire fleet will be built at Sandusky, Ohio, and the steamers will cost about $325,000 each. They will be of 326 feet keel, with a capacity of 3,500 tons of freight, and with a speed of seventeen miles an hour. The name of the new fleet will be the "States-Anchor Line."

Dr. R. A. Taylor and wife leave today for a visit to Philadelphia, their former home.

A. J. Angus, proprietor of the Pike Lake hotel, is at the St. Louis.

Ralph N. Marble has been ordered by his physician to seek absolute rest for several months, as he is suffering from overwork.

On account of previous engagements in England, Wallace Ross, the celebrated oarsman, is unable to coach the Duluth Boat club crews this summer, and John Larrigan, the well known English and Irish champion, will take the position.

Walter Turle of the Duluth Boat club has lungs, and he demonstrated the fact when his single shell capsized opposite the old Park Point sawmill. Oarsman Kershaw, who was in the vicinity, said the noise resembled a foghorn. He was rescued none the worse for his wetting.

J. H. Langton, familiarly known as "Johnny" Langton to habitues of the Clarendon hotel at St. Paul, has accepted the position of chief clerk of the Spalding house. In the billiard room, James Shea, formerly of the Ryan hotel, St. Paul, will be in charge.

Judge Martin is authority for the statement that ice a quarter of an inch thick formed on Pike lake two mornings ago.

At the recent Minnesota State Homeopathic institute, Dr. D. Stricker was elected a member of the council and F. C. Bowman vice president. Both are from Duluth.

The Bethel was crowded last night beyond its seating capacity. Willis A. Gorman post attended in a body and there were large delegations from the Woman's Relief corps and Sons of Veterans. The music was very fine, being two solos by Donald McLeod and Mr. Eva, accompanied by Stephen Jones, pianist, and Prof. Hoare, violinist.

Senator Truax will move his family from Hastings to Duluth.

Charles Salter and W. A. Short will open a drug store in the Manufacturers Bank building at West Duluth.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Elk River Star-News: Congressman Miller and ex-Congressman Bede are already skirmishing for that Eighth district seat in congress two years hence. Both being early birds, there is no significance to that thread-bare, time-honored statement about the "early bird catching the worm."

A. M. Greeley in Big Falls Compass: Love is never bought—it is swapped.

Be cheerful, even if the attempt brings tears.

We have a blind guide when we follow our own inclinations.

Selfishness is the basis of every big fortune and of every small sin.

If Adam was driven from Eden during house-cleaning time, he probably did not weep any.

Bemidji, the city by the beautiful twin lakes, is booming a popular convention center, in spite of its unconventional ways.

The worth of a thing is not determined by its cost. If you ever pay a lawyer's bill, you will understand.

Those who speak ill of us to our backs seem to think they can even things by speaking kind things to our faces.

Virginia Enterprise: Senator Knute Nelson makes the allegation that Governor John A. Johnson vetoed the tonnage tax measure in order to further his presidential boomlet for 1912. Whatever the reason, the honest people of Minnesota have cause to be satisfied with his action, whether it meets with the approval of Senator Nelson or not.

Princeton Union: Brave Bob Dunn booming Governor Johnson for a fourth term gives Bro. Albert Ward and other hidebound Republican editors a pain in the lamp.—Fairmont Sentinel.

Bob Dunn is not booming Governor Johnson for a fourth term or for anything else at present. But, judging from the support he has received from Republicans in the last three campaigns, should he be forced into accepting a fourth term nomination, it would be useless to oppose him—might as well make it unanimous.

St. Peter Free Press: Just now the voters at large keep remarkably silent; at the same time they watch with keen interest the discussion of the tariff bill and the attitude of their senators and representatives, whose political future will largely depend upon what position they take in the present controversy. The people have been led to expect an honest revision downward, and they will not be satisfied with anything less.

Moorhead Independent: Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota can get anything he goes after, as far as the people of Minnesota are concerned, notwithstanding the puny efforts of a bunch of soreheads who didn't receive any favors at the hands of the Democratic governor the past three terms.

Waverly Star and Tribune: It is claimed that every time a person buys $1 worth of sugar he pays 64 cents for the sugar and 36 cents for the tariff. Figure the tariff on clothing and all other articles at a similar high rate and you will get some idea of what you, individually, are compelled to pay for "protection."

St. Peter Herald: Revision of the tariff by its friends, the people of this country are beginning to learn, means revision in the wrong direction.

DON'T TAKE THIS SERIOUSLY.

Boston Transcript: Housekeeper—You say they call you Hungry Higgins, but that isn't your name?

Tramp—No, mum; that's what you might call an empty title.

Philadelphia Bulletin: "In these stories of the Middle Ages we always read about the hero's good right arm."

"Well?"

"Was there never a southpaw knight?"

Louisville Courier-Journal: "This boy was born in a log cabin. His favorite pastime is to cut down cherry trees, which he also splits into rails."

"Good enough. Now let him pick out the right college to graduate from and he can't help being president."

Washington Star: "I suppose you will do a little gardening this year?"

"No," answered Sirius Barker. "I tried it once. It made me so sympathetic with people who raise things to eat that I stood for any overcharge the huckster chose to suggest."

Puck: Queen Gertrude — Isn't it terrible! Ophelia raving out here and Hamlet soliloquizing all over the place. What a trial!

King Claudius—Yes, but thank heavens! there won't be any expert testimony in it, or any unwritten law.

London Opinion: Walter (holding out collection plate)—Pardon, mister—for ze band.

Bill Snookes (scooping up the coins)—Thanks, the music was pretty rotten!

Kansas City Journal: "She is wearing her hair some entirely new style. I can't make it out."

"That's the aeroplane tousle."

Cleveland Leader: "I have come, sir, to ask you for your daughters hand."

"I am sorry, young man, but my daughter will have to live in my house for a while yet."

"That's fine! I was afraid we'd have to rent one."

Illustrated Bits: Mistress—Bridget, it always seems to me that the crankiest mistresses get the best cooks.

Cook—Ah, go on wid yer blarney!

New York Press: A man never ought to be so good that even his wife can't conceal that he is a hypocrite about it.

THE

Steinway Piano

Is the only high-grade piano; the building and marketing of which is conducted by those whose name it bears. Steinway name and reputation are too precious to be bandied about by a crowd of financiers, or speculators. The secrets of its construction are closely guarded within the sacred precincts of the Steinway faaily, each succeeding generation of whom are schooled in the high ideals, sentiments and traditions of their fathers. To these facts alone can be attributed the marvelous success of the Steinway in maintaining its patronage in the hearts of real music lovers—the world over—while vulgar commercialism has exhausted itself in trying to equal it.

The superior tone of a Steinway is ever apparent to aesthetic ears.

THE MAYOR WEAKENS

Signs Auction License After He Had Turned It Down.

But Suggests Permanent Remedy for Evil to Council.

The auction license granted by the council to A. Oreckovsky, allowing him to sell a stock of jewelry on the lower side of Superior street, between Lake and First avenues west, will not be vetoed by Mayor Haven, after all.

After his announcement yesterday that he would veto it, friends of Mr. Oreckovsky got busy and called upon most of the signers of the petition asking for the veto, and prevailed upon them to withdraw their opposition, and give their consent to the sale. In view of these circumstances, the mayor thought it best to follow out the wishes of the council, and let the matter go through.

As a result of the controversy, however, he announced this morning that he would have a communication before the council next Monday evening, recommending a change in the system of granting licenses of this sort. He suggests that whenever an application is made, there be a hearing before the council takes action, giving the opposition plenty of chance to be heard. If the council wants to go ahead and grant the license after the hearing, all well and good. Under the present system, no one knows anything about the application until it comes before the council, and if it passes the aldermanic body, all objections have to be made to the mayor. Every auction license that has been granted lately has aroused a storm of protest. Mayor Haven has had to bear the entire burden, and he thinks it would be more fair to everybody concerned to have a hearing before the council takes action.

In this same connection Mayor Haven suggests that hereafter auctions of all kinds be held in the same place, and that an auction market be provided for the purpose. He is strongly opposed to the granting of licenses indiscriminately, as in the past, allowing the sales to be held in all parts of the city, and brands the policy as a very poor one, cheapening the city in the eyes of outsiders. Several other cities have auction markets, and have all sales held there, and the system is understood to have worked out successfully wherever tried.

While it is true that every article in the auction stock now has to be listed with the city clerk before the license can be granted, and that no other articles are supposed to be sold under the license, there is no way of keeping tab on the sales, unless a policeman remains constantly on the premises and checks off the list as the goods are sold. Thus it will be seen that it is an easy matter to get around the license and sell an unlimited stock, for there is no provision whereby a policeman may be instructed to put his entire time in at one of the auction sales.

MARINE

WILL TAKE REFERENDUM

Longshoremen Will Vote on Question of a Strike.

Ore Shipments Heavy in Spite of Labor Troubles.

The belief is current that President O'Conner of the international Longshoremen's union, is deferring a decision on the strike question until such time as the sentiment of the union men, who would be most affected, can be ascertained.

A referendum vote of longshoremen's locals at all of the principal lake ports will probably be taken, and Mr. O'Connor's decision will be based upon the result.

The demand of the longshoremen is that their organization be recognized by the dock managers to the extent that members be given preference in the distribution of work, and that they be not discriminated against as they allege has been the case, under the open shop policy.

The longshoremen state emphatically that no sympathetic strike will be ordered by the organization. They claim their own grievances are sufficient and that they will be satisfied if these grievances can be settled amicably.

Longshoremen at the Head of the Lakes say they will stand by any decision the head officials may make, and that they believe the grain and lumber handlers and coal and ore dock workers in Duluth and Superior will follow their lead.

The daily record of arrivals and departures for the port of Duluth fails to show that the strike of the union seamen, firemen and cooks against the Lake Carriers' association has so far seriously interfered with the operation of association vessels.

Seamen and marine help generally are scarce, the strike having had the effect of driving union as well as non-union workers from the lakes, in search of other employment. The propaganda work of the Lake Seamen's union is in part responsible for this, but vesselmen so far have been able to find crews without much difficulty.

The Pittsburg Steamship company has more than eighty of the largest ore freighters in its fleet now in commission, and claims to be able to man the entire fleet if necessary. The ore shipments for the past few days have been heavy, thirty-four ore cargoes having cleared from Duluth for down lake ports in the past forty-eight hours. It is predicted that the lake ore tonnage will exceed that of last year and fall not far short of the record mark of 46,000,000 tons established in 1907.

Demand for coal cargoes at the Head of the Lakes is somewhat erratic. The coal movements have been heavier this year that at the same time in 1908, but it is believed the activity is temporary and that the demand at this end of the lakes will not be sufficient to warrant any predictions of a heavy season.

MARIGOLD REPAIRED.

New Captain Takes Charge of the Lighthouse Tender.

The repair work on the lighthouse tender Marigold, which has been going on for the past two weeks at the Peter Grignon shipyards, was completed yesterday and the vessel taken to the lower end of the harbor.

The Marigold has been fitted with new decks; the old doors and windows of the pilot house have been replaced with new ones; shower baths have been installed, and the vessel repainted.

The new commander who will take the place of Capt. Cummings has arrived from the Soo and is now in charge of the vessel.

BEGIN STATE SURVEY.

Government Engineers in Minnesota on an Important Mission.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of the water resource branch of the department of the interior who arrived in St. Paul yesterday from Washington, D. C., went to Pipestone and other points in the southeastern part of the state to begin a two-year survey of the entire state of Minnesota to determine all the available water power in the state and all feasible sites for future power transforming plants.

The arrival of the United States engineers is the direct result of the visit of Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, and George Ralph, state drainage engineer, to the hydrographic survey engineers in Washington two weeks ago.

The government engineers have established themselves in the offices of the state engineer in the old capitol.

The work will be pursued in conjunction with the federal engineers by the state engineer with appropriations made for this special purpose at the last session of the legislature.

THREE TO GRADUATE.

Walker High School Commencement to Be Held June 4.

Walker, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Walker school will graduate a class of three this year, the members being Miss Lilia Dally, Verne Dally and Robert Oliver.

Commencement day exercises will be held in the opera house on the evening of June 4. The high school class play is to be given at the opera house tomorrow, the class being so few in number, however, that several people outside the school will assist in the program. This will probably be the last class graduating from the present school house, as the new $30,000 school building will be ready for occupancy some time next fall.

NEW SIDE OF THE LINDBERG CASE

Witnesses Say He Fell 150 Feet From Icy Spot.

The city is introducing evidence in the case brought against it by Gust Lindberg for $4,400 for injuries alleged to have resulted from a fall on West Fifth street one day last winter.

Lindberg claims that the bursting of a water pipe flooded the sidewalk and that he slipped on the ice so formed.

The evidence of the city show that he fell about 150 feet from the place where the ice had formed due to the bursting of the pipe. Several people, who saw Lindberg picked up, testified that it was not upon the icy portion of the sidewalk that he slipped.

The case is being tried before Judge Dibell.

ICE SPORT FOR DANISH CHILDREN.

Pathfinder: In Denmark one of the favorite forms of exercise on the ice is a game wherein the skaters can have their fun and also the tots who prefer to ride upon sleds.

A large pole is fixed upright in the middle of the frozen pond and a cross beam is attached, the whole affair being kept from toppling over by means of a large wagon wheel, through whose hub the upright pole is thrust and which lies flat upon the ice. To the end of the longer section of the transverse beam a string of sleds is attached, and then eight of ten of the large lads and lassies begin to skate in a circle, pushing the beam around with them, while the little fellows climb on the sleds.

Around and around they go, faster and faster, amid shouts of delight, until the string of sleds is flung out across the ice like the lash of a long whip. It often becomes necessary for those who are furnishing the motive power to slacken sped in order to let the coasters get back into a better position, centrifugal force having stretched them out sometimes almost to the banks of the lake.

Non-Interrupting Wireless 'Phone.

A Boston inventor claims to have perfected a wireless telephone system, the waves of which cannot be interrupted by other wireless waves in the same zone. In recent tests of the system, the station at Brant Rock forwarded messages to Washington, while coast stations and government vessels equipped with wireless apparatus made unsuccessful attempts to interfer. MARRIED AND ARRESTED ON A CHARGE OF MURDER

Bay City, Mich., May 27.—Married in the morning to Anna Kaiser, Roland Rich, 23 years old, was in the afternoon arraigned on the charge of murdering his grandmother, Mrs. Christine Coryeon. The young man stood mute in court and was committed to jail to await examination. He has always borne an excellent reputation.

Mrs. Coryeon, who was 70 years old, was found dead in her bedroom early yesterday with her skull fractured, three wounds on her head indicating that she had been beaten with a club. The young bridegroom-prisoner, who was first to report the discovery of his grandmother's plight, said that he found her lying in a pool of blood on the floor with the mattress of her bed and the clothing hanging on the walls in flames. The aged lady was taken to Mercy hospital and the wedding was carried out as planned, the young man being placed under arrest just as the wedding dinner was about to begin. Mrs. Coryeon died at the hospital without recovering consciousness.

In explanation of his presence at his grandmother's room, Rich stated that he had gone there to elude friends, whom he suspected of having designed some practical jokes to mar his wedding day. His wedding clothes, containing $100 in money and a ring, which had been hanging in his grandmother's room, he reported missing and apparently consumed by the fire. He said that he was in the kitchen when he heard someone fall in the bedroom and that he ran to see what had happened and dragged the aged woman from the burning room, not knowing until after he had given an alarm that Mrs. Coryeon was badly injured.

HID GRAFT CASH IN BATHROOMS

San Francisco, Cal., May 27.—Stories of alleged bribe money concealed in the soap dishes of bathrooms comprised an interesting part of the testimony in yesterday's session of the trial of Patrick Calhoun, charged with bribery.

John G. Lawler, an assistant employed by W. J. Burns, head of the prosecutions bureau of special accounts, swore that Luther G. Brown, who had already testified to his own activities in behalf of the president of the United railroads, had employed him to supply information procured in Burns' office and had paid him $250.

Lawler charged that the corporation agent had several times invited him to enter Brown's bathroom in the St. Francis hotel, where Lawler found various sums of money deposited in a soap dish. Lawler admitted he had taken all the money offered in this manner. Assistant District Attorney Heney placed in evidence four envelopes containing gold coins, which the witness said he had marked in the presence of the district attorney and an assistant.

Superior Judge Sewall granted the petition of the district attorney for a modification of the writ prohibiting the opening of the package of documents taken from the safes in the offices of the legal department of the United railroads some weeks ago during a raid by agents of the district attorney.

Judge Sewall decided that the seals on the package, which it was alleged contained reports on jurors in the graft cases stolen from the office of W. J. Burns and sold by one of his employes, may be broken.

GAMES TODAY.
Duluth at Wausau.
Winona at Eau Claire.
Superior at La Crosse.

Wausau, Wis., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The White Sox of Duluth gathered in a close game on the local ground yesterday afternoon. The final score was 2 to 1.

Marion was serving for the visitors and he had a choice collection, which the locals found it difficult to get on intimate terms with. By the end of the ninth, they had harvested but three hits, which gave them a total of one run. This tally was obtained in the eighth.

Duluth got to Dunbar for seven hits. A costly error by Bourgeois permitted the visitors to score in the fifth. They got their other tally in the sixth.

Batteries—Dunbar and Johnson; Marion and Mueller.

Superior Loses Again.

La Crosse, Wis., May 27.—Superior lost another hard luck contest yesterday because Pitcher Olson was given poor support and because his team mates could not hit at the proper times. The Drillers started out well by taking a lead in the first inning on hits by Horne and Holstrom, coupled with a base on balls, but after that three scattered singles was the best they could gather off Romaine. Olson was taken out at the end of the sixth and the locals made two runs from the jump, off Miller. Outfielder Geyer of the La Crosse team has been turned over to Superior. Score: R. H. E.

Chicago, 2; Brooklyn, 0.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 27.—Overall had the Brooklyn hypnotized, shutting them out, 2 to 0, with four scattered hits, and striking out ten men. Only one of the local men reached second base, and he was Bergman, in the first inning, when Evers threw wild trying for a double play. Chicago scored its runs at both extremes of the game by bunching hits and good base running. Score: R. H. E.

(By Bruce.)

The Saturday clash between Battling Nelson and Fighting Dick Hyland is attracting a great deal of speculation as to whether the Battling one has gone back.

There are may who profess to believe that the Dane is not the man he was the day he fought Joe Gans forty-two gruelling rounds under the boiling sun of Goldfield, Nev. Nelson took an awful beating that day, as he has upon many other occasions, and it is beginning to be wondered just how long this iron man can get along, apparently uninjured, by the beating he has taken.

It is rumored that the crippled left arm of the Battler is becoming more stiff. This impaired starboard weapon has never proved any disadvantage to the Battler in his past battles. In fact, he has always claimed that the stiffness of the arm allowed him to hook his opponent in a more artistic manner.

But the fact remains that it is only a question of time until a man, no matter how durable he is, who has taken the number of beatings that the Battler has, must come to the stage where his vitality is seriously impaired, and where his powers of recuperation are not what they once were. Nature will stand so much, then it will balk against inhuman treatment.

The Dane has never won a fight until after he has received a beating that would put a less durable fighter out of commission.

Nelson has never been a clever fighter. He has never been the kind of a fighter who is continually boring in, taking all the guns that the other fellow can send for the sake of getting home a blow. He has proved himself the freak of the ring, but it remains to be shown in the fight that the Battler has arranged for the coast whether he has not gone back, and whether some strong young fellow cannot take his measure.

Duluth fans are much interested in the fight, and the returns by rounds will be posted at the St. Louis buffet.

Wonder what the real reason is for the cancelling of the date for the Gotch-Hackenschmidt world's championship match, which was scheduled for Melbourne? The reports are that Gotch has cancelled the match because of an operation that must be performed upon his nose.

It is hardly probable that the Humboldt farmer would forego the possibility of winning the long end of the greatest purse ever put up for a wrestling match, because there was some slight injury to his nose. Moreover, Gotch must have known that his nose was injured long before the Hackenschmidt match was made. It is an old injury, and the statement that the greatest of all grapplers is cancelling his match with the Russian Lion simply through a desire to have his nose operated upon, does not sound logical. There are probably other reasons that were considered more important in calling off the match.

Over in England they are calling hammered down Sammy Langford the champion of the world. Won't that announcement from perfidious Albion makes the inflamed blight come to the wicks of this Lil' Artful person?

The English people have forgotten the fact that Johnson cancelled his date with the National Sporting club, before which organization he had agreed to meet Langford for the world's heavyweight title. They figure that by refusing to meet the stubby Boston black, Johnson has shown that he does not care to meet him, and has thereby forfeited the title.

This switching of the calcium from the shoulders of the Texas black to the kinky konk of his shorter rival, will be a serious blow to the Johnson person.

There is a strong rumor that trouble is brewing in the management of the New York National baseball team. The rumor has it that McGraw and John T. Brush, the figurehead president of the club, the representative of Andy Freedman, are at outs, and that McGraw's continued absence from the team is one of the causes of the continued losing of the aggregation that was supposed to be the strongest team in the league, before the season opened.

McGraw has been threatened with blood poisoning in his hand. This injury prevented him from being upon the field with the team for some time. However, a rumor says that the trouble between Brush and McGraw is responsible for the continued absence of the little but mighty manager of the Giants, and that there is a probability that this breach may result in the resignation of the little Napoleon of baseball.

If Johnny McGraw left New York he would not be long out of a job. With the possible exception of Frank L. Chance, this McGraw party, scrappy and violent though he is, is the greatest inside man in the game. He has baseball brains of the highest caliber, and he has, moreover, leadership of the kind that brings results. There are many teams in both the major leagues that would grasp with greedy arms the opportunity to secure little McGraw as a manager.

And, pray tell, what seems to be the matter with Cleveland?

Is it that Larry La Joie cannot get the results from this aggregation of stars, or does the fault lie somewhere else? If you will look the situation over, you will find that some of the great stars of the Cleveland team are going back. Bradley, once the greatest third baseman in the business, is not the man that he was two or three years ago. Then little Terry Turner, since he lost the use of his throwing arm, has not been the shortfield player that he was when he hopped into big league company. Elmer Flick, one of the grandest outfielders the game has ever produced, is a sick man. The wonderfully fleet Harry Bay has gone, as has Billy Lush, another great player. It may be the fault of the mighty La Jole; again, it may be that one of the greatest collection of individual stars that was ever gathered together on one salary list is not the grand team that it has been in the past.

The playing of the Cleveland bunch to date, would bear out the belief that the players that have kept Cleveland right up in the pennant hunt are going the way that all ball players are doomed to go, sooner or later.

The Parisians were evidently not satisfied with the way the Jeannette-Ferguson contest was fought. The referee of the contest gave the decision to Jeannette, after twenty rounds had been fought. The cable reports of the fight stated that Ferguson was slow and awkward. Two of his wild swings connected with the anatomy of the Jeannette party at different stages of the contest, putting the tar baby to the resin. If big Sandy had possessed a canthook, there is no doubt but that the Paris population would all agree that they had witnessed one of the best fights ever staged in the gay French capital. Some of the best little impromptu affairs of a belligerent nature, that have happened in the vicinity of the Boston water front, have been staged by this Sardy Ferguson, with his faithful canthook as a trouble starter.

CASS LAKE TO PLAY BEMIDJI NEXT SUNDAY.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city baseball team will play its second game of the season Sunday afternoon next, when the Bemidji team will come here for a game.

The first game was played at Bemidji last Sunday and resulted in a 4 to 1 victory for Bemidji. The boys have been diligently practising all week, and an exciting battle is looked for. It is rumored that the Bemidjites will run a special train to Cass Lake next Sunday in order to give the residents of that place an opportunity to see the game.

SPALDINGS TO BE ACCOMMODATED

Cloquet Manager Goes Local Ball Nine One Better.

Cloquet, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—In answer to Manager Lavall's challenge made a few days ago to the effect that he is willing to arrange a game between the Spaldings of Duluth and the Cloquet team, for a side bet of $50, the local baseball association has raised him one. The local manager is willing to put up the desired $50 and in addition will agree to the winning team taking all the gate receipts. The Spaldings were an easy match for the locals in the game a few weeks ago, and the supporters of the home team have every reason to believe that they can be walloped again.

Sunday afternoon the Cloquet team will meet the Clippers of Superior.

COMPROMISE ON SUNDAY BALL

Elgin Pastors Buy Season Tickets to Support Team.

Chicago, May 27.—All the ministers in Elgin and a large number of church members and residents opposed to Sunday baseball have pledged themselves to buy season tickets from the Elgin basebal club, provided the management agrees to abolish Sunday games and play ball Saturday afternoon instead.

The action was taken at a meeting of Protestant clergymen, lay members of the various denominations and others who are anxious to stop the playing of baseball on Sundays. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions of protest against Sunday games and to confer with the management of the baseball club relative to the proposition of the ministers.

THIRD DAY OF TOURNAMENT

Rain Mars Play in Big Golf Event at Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., May 27.—With more rain promised by the weather forecaster, the third day of the eighth annual tournament of the Southern Golf association started this morning. Match playing, the championship and four minor flights were carded.

The playoffs of the ties in the second, third and fourth flights were put on immediately, because it was impossible to make drawings in these flights until several disputed events were settled.

The veranda golfers were not lured from their cozy seats until the match between Ellis Knowles and Lawrence Eustis was started. On form this was conceded to be the best match of the day, and the gallery enthusiasts were content to wait for it.

SATURDAY IS BASEBALL DAY

White Sox Will Return Friday to Open League Season.

Saturday will be baseball day in Duluth.

The league season will be opened here on that date; with a game between the Duluth and Superior teams, and the fans are anxiously watching the weather.

The usual parade will be held this year, leaving the city hall at 2 o'clock. The city officials in carriages, the members of the two teams, and the Third Regiment band will lead the procession, and following will be local fans in carriages and automobiles and a number of local amateur teams.

John A. Elliott of La Crosse, president of the league, and John Porch of Winona, treasurer, will be present for the opening game.

The White Sox will arrive in the city tomorrow morning and will play the Fitwells tomorrow afternoon.

Cummings will throw the opening league game Saturday afternoon. His work this spring has been gilt-edged, and he has yet to lose a game. It seems a shame to take any more games from Superior, but if the Suburbanites must lose, it might as well be to Duluth.

Packey Wins Match.

Kansas City, Mo., May 27.—Packy McFarland of Chicago last night won a ten-round bout with Harry Trendall of St. Louis before the Empire Athletic club. The bout was devoid of spectacular features, McFarland forcing the fighting most of the time and his opponent covering up. At the end of the contest the Chicago fighter was hardly marked, but Trendall was considerably bruised. Only at infrequent intervals did Trendall attempt to carry the fighting to his adversary.

KILLS WIFE THINKING SHE IS A BURGLAR.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—Mistaking her for a burglar, George W. Thompson shot and killed his wife at his home on East Tenth street. According to Thompson's story he had retired early, leaving his wife downstairs sewing. Later when she entered the room she did not turn on the lights, but carried a lighted match. Thompson said he awoke with a start. He thought the light was from a burglar's bullseye lantern, and acting upon first impulse, pulled his revolver from under his pillow and fired twice at the form which followed the light.

"You have shot me, darling," were the first words that came from his wife's lips, says Thompson. She fell forward into her husband's arms.

Thompson is being held in the police station and is watched closely, as it is feared he will do himself violence.

BRIGHT FOR THE NEGRO

Taft Says Blacks' Future Was Never So Promising.

Addresses the Colored Graduates of Howard University.

Washington, May 27.—Speaking to the colored graduates of Howard university, near this city, yesterday, President Taft declared that never at any time has the future of the negro, as a rule, appeared so hopeful and bright as at the present day.

The president impressed upon his hearers the fact that it is for the negro and themselves to work out their own future. Conditions for the negro in the South, the president, said, he believed are growing better and better. Southern people of the better classes are coming to look more and more upon the negro race as one of their most valuable assets, Mr. Taft declared, and he again urged upon the negro the importance of gaining the respect and the friendship of the white people among whom he is to live.

The task of educating the negro, and especially of educating leaders among the race, the president asserted, was a debt owed by the government—a debt only too difficult of repayment because of the constitutional limits of the government in dealing with the individual.

President Taft personally handed to the more than 100 candidates for degrees their parchment rolls. When the commencement exercises were ended he was escorted to the foundation of the new Carnegie library of the university, where he officiated at the laying of the cornerstone.

The president evidently enjoyed the privilege of being a real mason, for he not only applied the customary first dash of mortar, but worked industriously with the silver trowel until he had covered the entire resting place for the well-proportioned stone. Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, Minister Leger of Hayti and President Thirkield of the university were also called upon to wield the trowel.

"Come on, Ballinger, and help," said the president to the secretary under whose department the control of Howard university comes.

"But, don't put too much on," the president added, "and spoil the job."

Secretary Ballinger made a brief address at the commencement exercises—the fortieth. Announcement was made of the conferring of the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon Former Secretary James R. Garfield. There was a great crush to hear the president, more than 1,000 colored people standing in the rain outside the university chapel while he was speaking.

New Testament Studies

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: MAY 30. James ii., 14-26: Believing and Doing.

By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

FOREWORD.

We are to halt in our pursuit of the achievements of the great apostolic leaders and get a few lessons from some of the letters they wrote about that time.

We have this letter, written by James, "the Lord's brother," who was converted after the death of Jesus and became a great leader for a long time in the church at Jerusalem. It was written probably A. D. 44, and, if so, is the oldest book of the New Testament. He was a Jew of the strictest sort, well cultured, with a very fine literary style. He writes to the scattered Christian Jews, urging them to maintain good works as the fruit of a true faith.

THE LESSON.

I.

Faith As a Dead Theory. 14-20.

"What doth it profit, my brethren, if a man say he hath faith, but have not works? Can that faith save him? If a brother or sister be naked and in lack of daily food, and one of you say unto them, 'Go in peace, be ye warmed and filled,' and yet ye give them not the things needful to the body; what doth it profit? Even so faith, if it have not works, is dead in itself. Yea, a man will say, Thou hast faith, and I have works; show me thy faith apart from thy works, and I, by my works, will show thee my faith. Thou believest that God is one; thou doest well; the demons also believe, and shudder. But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith apart from works is barren?"

1. The Proposition Stated.

James does not say that those Jewish Christians were resting on a lifeless trust in the letter of the law for salvation, but we cannot help inferring that they were carrying the theoretical idea of faith alone to such an extreme as to make it lifeless; or at any rate, they were in danger of doing so, and James is trying to prevent it. Faith without works is a dead faith, and therefore merely a pretense—that is the proposition that is argued and illustrated and enforced in the lesson.

2. The Proposition Argued.

To prove it, he supposes the case of a man "saying" he has faith, while there is no fruit of that faith visible to anybody else. The inference is clear: that kind of faith cannot save him. James does not go so far as to say it is not faith at all; he takes the man's own estimate of it. So far as it is reliance on something, it may be given the term faith. He lets the man's designation of it stand, but says that such faith as that cannot save. He is not responsible for the man's wrong use of the term, but shows him that it is not the real kind. There is a suggestion that it is possible to claim what one has not. Faith that is not too humble to ever allow the tongue to praise it is a brazen pretender. Beware of him who talks of his virtues.

The "works" which he says must go along with faith are not here specified, but they are not the ceremonials of the Jewish law; rather they are, in general, the deeds that grow vitally out of faith, as the fruit is produced by the tree—deeds that correspond to the Christian life.

He uses the term "brethren," as he does twelve times in this epistle, for he was close to them in blood, in religious feelings and in sympathy.

3. The Shameless Fraud.

The illustration of a man who has great sympathy to profess, and none to bestow, illustrates exactly. Sentimental impressions, received from the sight of sufferings, that gush into words, but leave the needy to their own resources, are not real sympathy. That kind of thing may be called sympathy in an accommodating use of terms, but it is dead at the heart, "in itself." There is a little sting in this argument of James. Faith that has not some deeds of faith to show for itself, is not faith at all. It is "rotten at the core." All along we have to bear in mind that Jesus uses the term faith accurately to designate the true, and then somewhat freely, as those to whom he writes seem to use it.

4. The Exposure of the Pretended Faith.

Here James exposes their vulnerable claim by showing how easy it would be for some one to come in and test their barren faith; and he introduces them to an opponent who challenges them to the test. They have made their claims, had their "say"; some one who has the true faith could make a true claim and rout them in the test. He arrays this antagonist against them who shows up their faithless faith. He claims that they can't show it. His proposition is not to show works apart from faith as they claim faith apart from works, but to show it by his works. The works will be a demonstration of something from which they can come, and that something must be faith, like the hidden root of the vine. The true foundation of righteousness and grace in conduct is faith in the soul.

This antagonist, so easily roused up against them, has another refutation of their pretensions and an exposure of the inadequate character of what they call their faith, and in this there is biting irony. He shows that they really have taken a belief in a certain fact to be all that is necessary, namely, the unity of God. Their creeds constantly said: "Hear, O, Israel; the Lord our God is one God." That was good so far; but they did not trust that God, nor do His will. However important the truth, it did not save them. In that particular matter they were no better than the demons, for they are in a position to know that fact. The only effect on them was to make them shudder in view of the judgment awaiting them. Truth gives misery in that case; it may not do any more for them. A creed, however correct, cannot save, unless it stirs some action within. The conclusion from this argument is to the same effect as from the first, that "faith without works is barren."

II.

Faith as a Living Force. 21-26.

"Was not Abraham, our father, justified by works, in that he offered up Isaac, his son, upon the altar? Thou seest that faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect; and the Scripture was fulfilled which saith, And Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned unto him for righteousness; and he was called the friend of God. Ye see that by works a man is justified, and not only by faith. And in like manner was not also Rahab the harlot justified by works, in that she received the messengers, and sent them out another way? For as the body apart from the spirit is dead, even so faith apart from works is dead."

1. The Instance of Abraham.

A historic instance is given to sustain the contention; the most familiar in all their knowledge, interesting alike to writer and readers, since he was no other than their common father Abraham. Paul and James seem to contradict, but seem so only; they beautifully harmonize. Paul argues in Romans, specially in chapter 4, that the way one comes to be justified, or given the right legal standing with God, is by faith alone without the deeds of the law; and if Paul had then and there carried it further he would have said, as he elsewhere taught, that such faith would surely lead to works of faith, which demonstrate and complete faith—not deeds of the law, but "works of faith and labors of love." James is not speaking of deeds of the law, save to condemn those who supinely trust in them, but he speaks of the deeds which faith should lead to, and he tells of one great deed that Abraham did which could not have been done except as a mighty faith strengthened him. It was purely an act of faith, and it was the same faith that he had years before, which was counted to him for righteousness. That faith justified him with God many years before this, and this deed was its vindication, demonstration. Moreover, Abraham's faith was perfected, completed, as the fruit perfects the life and completes the mission of the fruit tree. As some one has put it, we are justified judicially by God, meritoriously by Christ, mediately by faith, and evidentially by the works of faith. In this act the conspicuous thing was not the act itself, but the heroic faith that led to such an act.

2. The Case of Rahab.

It was her fidelity to her word, and that grew out of her confidence in the cause of the spies whom she protected.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

"You plant a rare flower bulb. Nothing comes of it. At last you dig it out of your flower pot and fling it away. You can put your flower pot to better uses than the harboring of a dead bulb. The worth of the bulb is the bloom. If, in due time, no pyramid of blossom push up, array itself with florescence, scatter perfume, you have wasted your money—you have been cheated. A religion which stays in the saying, and will never push on and up into the doing, can have no saving vitality. Beware of profession without practice."—Hoyt.

"Who, familiar with the every-day incidents of a walk in Syria, does not recall the oft-repeated formula by which the beggar's prayer is politely evaded, as he reads, 'Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled?' In ceremonial courtesy even the most barbarous Oriental excels the Western. It is a trite remark that even a Greek brigand, when he cuts your throat, will do it most politely, making a thousand apologies for his rudeness. The beggar never receives a curt refusal. For this there may be a double reason, as the curse of a beggar, supposing he is not an impostor, is much dreaded; the reply to an appeal is worded thus: 'Excuse me, brother; may God's peace be on thee;' 'May Allah be merciful;' 'May Allah spread thy table,' and the like."—Tristram.

1. Is it possible to hold to a truth without surrendering ourselves to it?
2. What is the connection between faith in God and fidelity to God?
3. What is the connection between confidence in God and kindness to man?
4. How are all our great business activities a product and an evidence of faith?
5. Are any new kinds of works yet to be produced by faith?

Six Cents Per Quart For Pure Milk

That means the richest Holstein milk, with all the butter fat, all the solids. It means milk without germs in it—pure, clean and wholesome. And it means a cow in your kitchen. That's what you get in Van Camp's.

If you knew Van Camp's Milk, as others know it, you would not go a day without it.

Let the milk itself convince you.

See what it means to have rich milk and cream always on hand when you want it. See the waste you save.

Learn how it feels to know that your milk has no germs in it.

Compare a dish made with whole, rich milk with a dish made with milkman's milk.

See if we tell the truth.

Think what a find this milk will be if it proves to be what we say.

A Germless Milk

Van Camp's is a germless milk.

Every cow is inspected—so are the men who milk them. No tubercular cows, no diseased milkmen, convey their infections to Van Camp's Milk.

Our dairies are sanitary. Our creameries, where the milk is evaporated, are built without wood. We make a business of cleanliness.

Then the milk is sterilized after the cans are sealed. Not a germ of any kind can remain in it.

This milk is safe, and your milkman's milk isn't. There are myriads of germs in every drop of raw milk.

It is wrong to take such risks.

A Whole, Rich Milk

Van Camp's is simply rich Holstein milk, with two-thirds the water evaporated. Nothing whatever is added. Nothing is subtracted, save water.

Here you get the whole milk.

Your milkman's milk separates. You either get too little solids or too little butter fat.

It separates again when you get it. So the milk used for cooking is rarely more than a half milk.

Compare one milk dish made with Van Camp's with one made with milkman's milk. Note the difference in richness and flavor.

That will be enough to forever convert you to the use of this whole, rich milk.

A Cow in the Kitchen

Then think how convenient.

Rich milk or cream whenever you want it. No waiting for the milkman, no shortage, no waste.

Yet Van Camp's is the cheaper.

It is as thick as thick cream; so thick that you add one part water for coffee. Yet it doesn't cost half your milkman's price for cream.

Add two parts water and you have rich milk. The cost of such milk, when you buy Van Camp's by the case, is about six cents per quart.

Then you have no waste—no milk left over. Sometimes Van Camp's cuts off half on the milk bills.

Think of paying the milkman twice what you pay for such milk as this.

Safe for Children

When you serve Van Camp's to your children you don't serve sickness with it. When you serve raw milk, you don't know.

Van Camp's has a slight almond flavor, due to sterilization. It doesn't taste just like raw milk.

Explain to the child that this flavor—delicious but different—means that the milk is pure.

Raw milk is just as unfit as raw meat. Pasteurized milk is the only safe milk. Before long, our laws will require it.

No Other Such Milk

Don't think of Van Camp's as condensed milk. Condensed milk is half sugar. You can't use it in cooking.

And don't think that other evaporated milks are as good as Van Camp's.

Analysis of Van Camp's shows about 8 per cent of butter fat. That's because we use Holstein milk and take out two-thirds of the water.

A milk with half of that water left in may be called "evaporated." But it won't be as rich as Van Camp's.

We are preparing for you the finest milk in the world. Please be sure that you get it.

Van Camp's Milk comes in 5 and 10-cent cans, at your grocer's. It is put up at our dairies, in five states, by the Van Camp Packing Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

SIX ARE KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Boiler Blows Up In Mill at Dowagiac, Mich.

Dowagiac, Mich., May 27.—Of eight men who were in the Geesey hoop mill here when the mill boiler exploded, five were instantly killed, one died later of his injuries, one was severely hurt and one miraculously escaped without injury, though the entire building tumbled about him like a house of cards.

The dead:

DE FOREST GEESEY, owner of the mill.

FRANK GEESEY, brother of the owner.

OTTO BEHNKE, mill employe.

CHARLES FRITZ, planer.

ESTIL GAMBER, fireman.

MARVIN STEWART, workman, who died later.

The injured: Freeman Geesey, another brother of the owner.

A heavy rain at the time of the explosion prevented the destruction of the ruins by fire and the cremation of the five bodies. Freeman Geesey was knocked down and stunned by the shock of the explosion, but on recovering consciousness was able to drag Marvin Stewart from the ruins.

The explosion threw pieces of wreckage in every direction as far as forty rods. The cause of the disaster has not been determined, but a boiler inspector who examined the ruins found that the boiler was an old one, the plates being fifteen-sixteenths of an inch thick. The average pressure that has been maintained was 115 pounds.

HOUND PUP

Came Between Husband and Wife and Woman Seeks Divorce.

Evansville, Ind., May 27.—A dog was the cause of a divorce suit that has just been filed in the Wayne county circuit court at Fairfield, Ill.

A week before last Christmas Mrs. Rosa Traue told her husband that she would not live with him longer unless he got rid of a hound pup which he brought home with him one day.

She has just entered suit for divorce, alleging that her husband left home with the pup several months ago, saying that he was going to find a home for the dog, and that he had not yet returned.

RARE MALADY

Caused the Sudden Death of Miss Jenckes of Terre Haute, Ind.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 27.—Miss Grace Jenckes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray G. Jenckes, died suddenly of the rare malady, puerperal hemorrhagic fulminanix, which means a lightning-like bursting of blood vessels. As yet medical science has not discovered the cause. There is no premonition of an attack, and when it comes in the form, as in this instance, it is invariably fatal.

Miss Jenckes was a popular member of the best social circles in the city, was prominent as a hostess and was active in St. Stephens Episcopal church.

HEROIC ELEVATOR MAN RUSHES CAR THROUGH FIRE AND SAVES TWENTY LIVES

Chicago, May 27.—It was with difficulty that scores of men and girls escaped from fire which attacked the lard house of Schwarzchild & Sulzberger company, at the stockyards. The blaze started on the ninth floor of the building and spread to the eighth, where the flames were checked.

L. J. Drew, an elevator conductor, made several trips through the smoke-choked elevator shaft with his car and removed twenty men whose escape had been cut off by the stairway. A similar number of frightened passengers in this way escaped from the eighth floor.

Panic followed the sudden cessation of the electric current which supplied the lights of the building. In the darkness many could not find the stairway. A general rush was made for the fire escapes, down which a great many made their way to safety. A dozen girls working on the third floor were left in complete darkness and were shown the way through black corridors to the fire escapes by policemen using matches to light the route.

The loss is estimated at $50,000.

ON THE IRON RANGES

LIGHT RAIN HALTS FIRES

Three Settlers Are Reported Burned Out North of Embarrass.

Lumber at Waldo Owned By Duluth Concern Partly Destroyed.

Light rains fell over the Mesaba and Vermilion ranges yesterday, partially checking the fires in the brush, but unless there is a heavier fall it is feared the fires may again become dangerous. Forest fires were bad yesterday in the vicinity of Embarrass, on the Iron Range road, three settlers being reported as "burned out." Some lumber was destroyed at Waldo station. The fires were bad near the Miller location at Aurora for a time yesterday, 300 feet of walk of the Miller-Mohawk mine being burned, along with a boarding house about eighty rods north of Aurora. Men are watching the flames and unless they are fanned by the wind and there is no more rain, danger is not imminent. Small fires are also reported around Chisholm, while from Grand Rapids, on the Western Mesaba, fire fighters were sent out last evening, near Splithand.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A light rain here yesterday afternoon slightly checked the forest fires in this vicinity, but did not extinguish them. Further up the line practically no rain fell, but many of the fires seem to be dying down and if the wind abates conditions will be much better.

Around Embarrass the smoke has been so thick very little can be seen. The flames are some distance from the track, but the farming settlements in that vicinity are large and extended and many homes were in danger.

Near that station, one new, but luckily unoccupied farmhouse was burned yesterday afternoon and three other houses surrounded by flames and in danger.

Near Wahlstrom station, seven miles north of Embarrass, three settlers are reported burned out.

At Waldo, some lumber owned by Glass Bros., of Duluth was partly destroyed before men from here could extinguish the flames and at Stewart three miles from Waldo, the previous evening the Lake County Lumber company's mill and some settlers' homes were in danger.

OLIVER CLUB HAS ENTERTAINMENT

Many Attend the Second Function; New Hibbing Hotel About Ready.

Hibbing, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Oliver club gave the second of its athletic entertainments last evening. The club was thronged with members and their guests. The program consisted of music furnished by the club's orchestra, boxing and wrestling exhibitions.

The new hotel to be known as the Oliver, which occupies the old Miles hotel site, is rapidly nearing completion and will, it is expected, be ready for occupancy by the 10th of June. John Haley, proprietor of the Hibbing hotel, has secured a ten-year lease on the building.

T. C. Congdon has received his new six-cylinder Thomas Flyer, and from now on record runs between here and the nearby towns will be in order.

The Ladies of the Maccabees of the World gave a dancing party last evening at Closet's hall, an unusually large number being present and a good time was enjoyed by all. La Brosse's orchestra furnished the music.

DROWNS SELF IN LAKE.

George Bossel, Worried Over Injury to Hand, Takes His Life.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of George Bossel was found in Ice lake, north of town, last evening, by some men rowing on the lake. Their boat, when near the shore, struck an object which they thought was a piece of timber but closer examination showed it to be the body. The body was brought to the shore and the coroner summoned. Bossel was a Belgian, who had been in this country for but a short time. He had left a letter with Keo Lereux, stating that he intended to drown himself, also about $60 in money and a watch, with directions to Mr. Lereux to turn it over to his relatives in the old country.

No reason for the suicide is given, except that one of his hands was injured and pained him somewhat, handicapping him in working. He was not a married man.

FOUND OUT.

A Trained Nurse Discovered Its Effect.

No one is in better position to know the value of food and drink than a trained nurse.

Speaking of coffee, a nurse of Wilkesbarre, Pa., writes: "I used to drink strong coffee myself, and suffered greatly from headaches and indigestion.

"While on a visit to my brothers I had a good chance to try Postum, for they drank it altogether in place of ordinary coffee. After using Postum two weeks I found I was much benefited and finally my headaches disappeared and also my indigestion.

"Naturally I have since used Postum among my patients, and have noticed a marked benefit where coffee has been left off and Postum used.

"I observe a curious fact about Postum used among mothers. It greatly helps the flow of milk in cases where coffee is inclined to dry it up, and where it often causes nervousness.

"I find trouble in getting servants to make Postum properly. They must always serve it before it has been boiled long enough. It should be boiled fifteen or twenty minutes after boiling begins and served with cream, then it is certainly a delicious beverage."

W. F. NOBLE MUST SERVE HIS TIME

Justice of Peace Exceeded Authority in Ordering His Release.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John A. Johnson has written to Sheriff E. T. Riley of Itasca county that he must recapture W. F. Noble at once and confine him for the remainder of a 75-day sentence, given for killing a cow moose. The sheriff claims that the release was made at the request of Justice of the Peace Kearney at the end of forty days, but the governor takes the position that the state pardon board and not the justice of the peace is the proper body to commute the sentence.

Carlos Avery, executive agent of the game and fish commission, is pushing the case.

THINGS DOING NEXT SATURDAY

Eveleth Elks and Scandinavian Lodges to Have a Gala Time.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saturday night will be a gala night in lodge circles, with the Elks leading the procession and the Monitor lodge of Scandinavian Aid and Good Fellowship following. The merchants will decorate their stores with bunting, and the local bands as well as some from out of town, will furnish music. The invitations have been sent out. If enough Elks decide to come from Duluth, a special train will be run, and leave after the banquet at night. The Globe hotel is planning something unusually good to serve to the 300 expected guests. Both the banquet room and hotel lobby will be used. In the afternoon the lodge will be instituted, while the first part of the evening will be taken up with the initiation of about thirty new members, making the proposed lodge start with about seventy members. Most of the old members are at present affiliated with the Virginia lodge. After the degree work the banquet will be served.

These officers have been decided on: Exalted ruler, B. O. Greening; leading knight, H. C. Barmo; loyal knight, E. H. Hatch; lecturing knight, George E. McCormick; secretary, W. G. Sutherland; treasurer, W. J. Smith; tyler, George Mulligan; trustees, H. Gleason, Vivian Prince and J. A. Robb.

The Scandinavian society will entertain the supreme president of the order, Oscar Samuelson of Cloquet, Saturday night, and a fine program is being arranged, to take place in Monitor hall, with a banquet to follow. The local lodge is very prosperous and owns the two-story Monitor building. From here Mr. Samuelson will leave, with S. M. Anderson, past president of the local lodge, and Charles Wahlman, for Rhinelander, Wis., to attend the annual convention of the order.

"HOW TO SWEAR OFF."

Salvation Army Adjutant From Duluth Will Give Evelethians Pointers

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Adjt. Charles Stalger, who is at the head of the Salvation Army in Duluth, will hold a meeting here Friday night and will speak on "How to Swear Off." The adjutant is well known here. After the services refreshments will be served.

Civil war veterans and those who have seen service in the Spanish war will attend the Memorial services to be conducted Sunday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church by Rev. R. C. Johnson, an ex-soldier, who saw service in the Philippines with the Thirteenth Minnesota. He will speak on "Our Nation's Fighting Men." Appropriate music is being arranged for the occasion. Company F, the local militia, will attend in a body.

The First Presbyterian church will also have memorial services Sunday evening, and in the morning Rev. P. A. Schwartz will speak on a memorial subject.

Rev. M. Caswell, at St. John's church, will also conduct memorial services in the morning.

CALUMET LOSS HEAVY.

Wednesday Morning's Fire Wiped Out Nearly $50,000 in Property.

Hibbing, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fire that raged at Calumet, the new mining town about twenty miles from here, yesterday morning, did more damage than first reported, the total loss being estimated at about $50,000, only partially insured.

Instead of originating from forest fires, as reported, it started in a clothing store, which was burned, along with three dry goods stores, four saloons and a hotel.

A family residing in the second story of the hotel had a narrow escape from burning, but succeeded in getting out and saving much of their household goods. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained. All the citizens fought the blaze the best they could under the circumstances and succeeded in saving the entire town from burning.

OFFICER WINGS MAN.

Chisholm Bluecoat Plugs One of Party of Fighters.

Chisholm, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Driven from a local saloon where they were creating a disturbance, a gang of men more or less under the influence of liquor, who had been fighting, renewed the trouble on the bridge over Longyear lake. Several officers who gave chance shot at the disturbers, and Officer Case winged one man. The victim is in a local hospital with a bullet hole in his hip, while two others are in the village lockup.

OLIVER IRON MINING CLERKS HAVE MEETING.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the chief clerks of the Oliver Iron Mining company was held in the office of W. J. Davey of the Adams Spruce to discuss mutual matters. Those present were Edward G. Johnson of Mountain Iron, R. D. Lyons of Coleraine, Traveling Auditor F. E. Nightingale, W. M. Trenerry of Hibbing, B. R. Lorimer of Chisholm, W. H. Plummer and W. H. Davey of Eveleth. The party visited the local mines and the Gilbert while here.

EVELETH COURT CASES.

Judge Prince Acts in Several Matters That Were Pending.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry L. Hill, who has been suing M. Feldman for $94 wages which he says were not paid him, had his case settled yesterday by Judge Prince, who gave a judgment against Feldman for $54, the difference between the wages received and which should have been paid. Hill claimed he was hired at $50 per month, while Feldman claims he hired Hill at $30 per month.

Louis Melon, who was arrested for threatening to kill Max Newport, had his case dismissed, as there was no convincing evidence. Newport and Melon own some land together, on which Melon lives. The latter claims that Newport wanted to move on the land and open a blind pig, which Melon wouldn't stand for. Newport then had Melon arrested for threatening his life. The land in question is in McDavitt township, about ten miles from here.

WORK OF INCENDIARY.

Boarding House in Finn Location of Hibbing Destroyed.

Hibbing, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the large dwellings used as a boarding house in the Finn location was destroyed by fire last night. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin. The flames had a good chance to spread before the fire department could reach the burning building. The loss is estimated at about $2,500.

HIBBING PERSONALS.

Hibbing, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. W. Raymond, the Missabe operator here, has returned from a three weeks visit in Minneapolis.

Albert H. Konze is in Duluth on business. Mr. Konze is expected back Saturday.

John Peterson is in Duluth on business.

Mrs. James Burke is visiting with friends in Grand Rapids.

G. F. Peterson went to Duluth on Wednesday to place in a vault the remains of his daughter, who died recently.

Miss Mamie Simpson is being entertained by Duluth friends this week.

Mrs. Thomas Evans of Lincoln street is entertaining Miss Mary Thano of Crookston.

I. Cohen is in Calumet on business.

William Somers is in Calumet, looking after his business interests there.

Miss Etta Whetsteln, who has been visiting Mrs. O. B. Warren for some time past, has returned to her home in Marquette, Mich.

Mrs. John Burns is visiting with her parents at Deer River.

Mrs. Peter Wring has left Hibbing for Seattle, Wash., to spend the summer.

D. V. Case & Co. of Hibbing are to draw the plans for the new village hall at Keewatin. The building is to cost $25,000.

EVELETH FANS RAISING MONEY FOR A CLUB.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fans are after money for a baseball team and a committee composed of Mayor W. J. Smith, James A. Robb, J. P. Tredennick and J. J. Gleason are out selling shares at $10 each. About $1,000 will have to be raised in that manner before a team can be started.

The club has suits from last year and the ball grounds only need a little fixing up before they will be ready for use. The officers of the club think that they will have some games the first of June, as the playing manager, Pat Boyle, is in communication with some fast men to represent Eveleth on the diamond. Several of last year's men are in town and with some other good ones a fast team will be the result.

EVELETH SHOOTERS ACTIVE.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Eveleth Gun club have changed the location of their gun house east of the former site and the new gun house is now completed. Some of the members have already been out getting in practice for the season. There are about twenty members and some very good shots. The club intends to arrange some team shoots against Virginia and Duluth. The first meet will come off some time in June.

Red Men's Anniversary Social.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lately organized Red Men's auxiliary gave a social last night in Red Men's hall. About 200 were present. Refreshments were served.

JURY GRANTS MRS. JETSU DAMAGES

For the Death of Little Daughter, Chisholm Woman Gets $1,000.

In a sealed verdict returned last evening and opened in district court this morning, the jury in the case of Lizzie Jetsu against the Great Northern railway awarded the plaintiff the sum of $1,000 for the death of her little daughter, Susie Terrik.

The child was killed by a Great Northern train at Chisholm last fall, and Mrs. Jetsu claimed that the company was negligent in that it did not fence off its right-of-way or make provisions to prevent such accidents. She sued for $5,000.

CONDITION IS NOT CRITICAL

Chief J. T. Black Is Reported to Be Improving.

Reports from St. Luke's hospital regarding the condition of Chief John T. Black of the fire department are much more favorable this morning. The patient is much stronger than was hoped for this morning, having passed a good night, and the physicians attending him are now very hopeful of his recovery. A great many of his friends have called at the hospital to see him, but he will be unable to receive callers for at least two weeks, the nurses say.

Healthful, delicious and cleanly prepared. "Salada" is absolutely pure. Get a packet from your grocer.

LETTER TO C. B. MILLER

Aitkin Man Replies to Explanation of Vote for Cannon.

People Feel That Congressman Did Not Keep His Pledges.

To the Editor of The Herald:

By urgent request, I send you the enclosed letter. Permit me to say that, personally, I admire and think very highly of Mr. Miller, though differing with him as to what constitutes the proper attitude with reference to the questions involved in his vote for Cannon. It is as a protest against that principle voiced by an indorser of Miller's Cannon vote—"party allegiance takes precedence over any man's individual pledge"—that this letter is made public.

B. W. KELLY.

Aitkin, Minn., May 26.

Aitkin, Minn., May 8, 1909. Hon. C. B. Miller, Washington, D. C.: Dear Sir—As you knew, you were nominated and elected to congress not because of any preference you might be able to win at the hands of those in control of the plum trees at Washington, not that so the district might get from the barrel a larger chunk than the former incumbent could lift—he was close to "the mighty" and in position to secure for this district more "recognition" of that kind than any new member could hope to secure. No, you received the support of most of the voters of this district because Bede was by practice and profession a friend of Cannon and Cannonism, the same being synonymous with cordial support of that entrenched power of money and corporate greed which has made "the small producer" and "the ultimate consumer" things of no account—"a byword and a hissing"—in Washington; because he was a friend and advocate of that tyranny of power which has made "representative" a misnomer and rendered it absolutely impossible for you or any other "representative" to express in your official capacity the wishes of yourself or your district unless you are first able to in private satisfy the speaker that you will not attempt anything which might materially interfere with the designs of money machine, whose incrests and wishes are so well cared for by him. You were elected because we believed that you were "vigorously opposed to that element • • • which has stood solidly against • • • the wishes of the American people." We believed that your candidacy was prompted by a desire "that the voice of the people be heard." We believed you sincere in your declaration that "legislation should be directed to the interests of humanity rather than special prop-erty." When, therefore, "upon the organization of the present house" your vote was cast for a continuation of the old regime, many of us were vastly disappointed. Personaly, my faith in you led me to suspend judgment until time should give opportunity for fuller knowledge of your action and for possible justification. Others, whom I had regarded as more conservative than myself, were more ready to condemn you; I am now obliged, though regretfully, to agree with them.

In your circular letter dated April 4, you say you were "a member of the so-called insurgent band." They why did you not so remain? When you went into the Republican caucus you knew, and the entire country knew, what the action of that caucus would be. Why, then, did you submissively enter and remain to be "bound by rule to submit to the majority will of the caucus?" Your election was in very essence a protest against the old regime which you surely knew was to be indorsed by that caucus. The majority of thinking men who sent you to Washington did so, not that you might obtain membership on this or that committee, but that you might consistently and constantly, first, last and all the time, stand against those things and those methods represented and upheld by Cannon and his supporters. Why, then, did you at the first opportunity to show your attitude, "prove traitor to the cause for which you were elected?" (The expression is that of a worker, who was probably able to, and did do much more than I for your election.) Do you think La Follette would have so changed attitude? Or Folk? Or Hughes? Or Hadley? Remember you were sent as a man to voice a principle—and you failed, placing party before principle. Do you think that was in keeping with your declaration, "I am and always have been, for the people, and if elected to congress will stand by them and their interests to the end?"

For many reasons your action is to be regretted. From the standpoint of party, do you not realize that if you and others are seeming fair, persist in deserting those by whom and for whom you were sent to congress, your party—even the great Republican party—must in the not distant future come to inglorious defeat by reason of you and those with whom you have allied yourself? Can you not know that, though far from awake, this nation is beginning to open its eyes? Can it escape your comprehension that we are beginning to see the fact—and its importance—that, as has been said by the president of one of our great-est universities, "the fundamental division of powers • • • is between voters on the one hand and property owners on the other?" Surely you must know that, the Republican party persists in placing property before manhood, the emancipation must, and surely will, be brought about through other agency; for to a constantly increasing number of thoughtful voters is it becoming apparent that "property, like the Sabbath, was made for man, and not man for property," and that this principle is above and takes precedence over all questions of party allegiance.

At the very time of your election we knew that the majority of the Republican "leaders" were opposed to this principle. And you must surely know that you were elected to oppose the majority of your party on this question. Yet you now say, in effect, that you must vote with the majority of your party, irrespective of the pledges and principles to which you owe your election.

Have Volstead, Davis, Steenerson and Lindbergh had to "explain" and apologize for their attitude at this time? They were true to the cause they espoused. As for you—national observers who were out with spyglasses, looking for "insurgents," have apparently failed to find any inclination on your part to ally yourself with those foredoomed to the vengeance of Cannon.

Of course, we want free lumber and that which we were promised, but evidently are not at this time to obtain—a general lowering of duties on the necessities of life. But above these things we want, we need, honest, broad-seeing, straight-tongued men to conduct national affairs. And I am optimist enough to believe that it will, in a few years, be our good fortune to have many more such than we now have.

Permit me to apologize for the length of this letter. I had intended, in twenty words, to tell you I was dissatisfied with the turning of your coat. But conversation with a number of your warmest supporters has led me to think that you should, if possible, be made to realize how greatly mistaken you have been in thinking that your supporters—that is, those who sent you to congress—will sanction your attitude as a party man, ready to vote as your party shall dictate rather than to follow the wishes of your constituents and the dictates of your own conscience.

Because I am voicing the sentiments of many besides myself, I venture to add another thought. I feel that I am well within the limits of moderation when I say that the majority of us feel that official Washington has grown away from the rest of the country in the matter of financial extravagance, both private and public. Even in the question of armament, we are many of us convinced that great retrenchment could be effected, and that an honest, sincere attempt on the part of this nation could be made to result in a material lightening of the burden now being carried by the common people of all the great nations. That representative will, in this respect, best represent his people, who lives modestly and without ostentation, who will consistently favor reduction of armament, who will discourage such attitude as resulted in the $50,000 inaugural ball—a senseless, derisive taunt to the people crying for a lessening of taxes and for a chance to earn food for their little ones and shoes for the naked feet.

Mr. Miller, I would not burden you with this letter did it represent only my own sentiments. But because it is the result of thoughtful, earnest conversation with many others, to many of whom you in part owe your election, and who have urged me to so write you, I have ventured to do so. Only as they give you their views can you obtain an idea as to the beliefs and wishes of your constituents. I hope you may come to realize that you are, or should be, the representative not merely of the Republicans of the Eighth congressional district of Minnesota, but a staunch and true man, acting in the interest:

First—Of manhood and womanhood; against that greed which would make the home a farce, motherhood a misfortune, childhood a thing of tears and birth a curse.

Second—Of this nation as a whole, as distinguished from the petty sectionalism which would represent congress as a collection of thieves fighting over the division of spoils.

Third—Of Minnesota as a state, an integral part of the nation.

Fourth—Of all the people of this district, "barefoot and shod, naked and clothed."

Fifth—Of the Republican party so far as it truly represents the interests of the foregoing, in the order given.

Recognizing the fact that the very act of thinking makes it certain that we cannot agree on all points, and hoping that there may be given, in future, much reason for a return of the high esteem in which I formerly held you, I am, Very sincerely,

B. W. KELLY.

More Honors for Ladd.

Fargo, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota may lose Pure Food Commissioner Ladd. Letters from Washington state that he is to be offered a prominent federal position in the pure food work, if he cares to accept. Mr. Ladd gained a national reputation as a pure food expert and was president of the national organization. More recently he became internationally prominent through his bleached flour fight.

NORTH DAKOTA DROUTH IS EXPECTED IN JULY.

Fargo, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be an awful drouth in North Dakota during July. The new drug permit law becomes effective on that date. It repeals the existing law and requires a 30-day notice before a new permit can be issued. Druggists cannot start proceedings earlier than the date on which the law starts, which will necessitate the abandonment of the sales. No liquor can be legally sold in North Dakota under the state wide prohibition law, except under drug permits.

DULUTH MINISTER WILL DELIVER FARGO ADDRESS.

Fargo, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Full arrangements for the observance of Memorial Sunday in Fargo have been completed by the committee of John F. Reynolds post, G. A. R., which had the matter in charge.

A large number of the churches of the city will unite in the usual Memorial day service on Sunday morning at 10:30 at the opera house. The speaker of the occasion will be Rev. Alexander Milne of Duluth, Minn., who will be in Moorhead to deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the Moorhead normal and who was secured to deliver the memorial sermon.

ASSIGN CLASS HONORS.

North Dakota University Seniors Prepare for Commencement Week.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the senior class of the North Dakota university last evening, the class honors were divided. The valedictorian, salutatorian and other honors were conferred upon the class members following: Valedictorian, Edgar Wells Grand Forks; salutatorian, Miss Mary Belle Estes, Lakota; class prophet, arry Dickinson, Minnewaukan; class poet, R. B. Montgomery, Edmonton, Can.; class historian, Guy McKay, Grand Forks.

The formal retirement of President Webster Merrifield of the state university will take place on June 17, at the twentieth annual commencement dinner. This dinner, which follows the commencement exercises, will take the nature of a farewell to the man who has been so prominently identified with the university the last quarter of a century.

The commencement week events at the university year, and the dates, follow: Monday, June 17—Contest for superintendent of public instruction's prize; Saturday, May 12—Declamation contest for Main trophy cup; Monday, June 14—Law school class exercises. Senior promenade; Tuesday, June 15—Class day exercises and class play; Wednesday, June 16—Alumni association meeting and receptions by President Merrifield and President-elect McVey; Thursday, June 17—Commencement exercises and commencement dinner.

WORK DAY AND NIGHT.

Ditching Contractors Making Dirt Fly in Aitkin County.

Aitkin, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Foley & Gleason, the ditching contractors, have their steam dredges in operation at the Blind Lake ditch and at the Gun Lake ditch and both machines are being operated under favorable circumstances with night and day crews. The have electric lights on the dredges and carry their own boarding cabin boats.

The contractors say there is no question about the ditches drying out the land and that the results are already seen where the work has been done. The soil is a rich peat and will make great hay land or would probably grow flax better than anything else for a first cultivated crop.

MARRIED WOMEN

Every woman covets a shapely figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this liniment prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend makes the danger of child-birth less, and carries her safely through this critical period. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this remedy. Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

FEARS PLOT; KILLS SELF

A North Dakota Farmer Takes His Life Rather Than Be Arrested.

Ends Career When About to Be Examined as to Sanity.

Minot, N. D., May 27.—Firm in the belief that his removal today to Minot would end in his death, and fearing that his neighbors and officials were plotting to kill him by poison, Anton Christenson, a farmer living about eleven miles south of Sawyer, N. D., killed himself last night in the presence of his 15-year-old son.

Christenson, whose wife is at present in an asylum for the insane at Jamestown, N. D., had been in an insane mood for several days, and Tuesday morning his friends and the county officials, fearing that if his condition became worse he might do some one bodily harm, determined to bring him to Minot and place him in safe keeping.

Christenson objected strongly to being taken from his home, and declared the whole plan was a plot to kill him, and last night, when he was left alone with his son, he ended his own life.

MUSIC FESTIVAL A GREAT SUCCESS

Performances of Grand Forks Oratorio Society Afford Pleasure.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The third annual May music festival of the Grand Forks Oratorio society is a pronounced success. Opening with an artists' recital yesterday afternoon, the "Swan and the Skylark" oratorio last evening, a symphony concert this afternoon, and closing with the oratorio, "Elijah," this evening, the festival is one of the greatest that has ever taken place in the state.

Outside of the fact that it is the most notable musical event of the year in North Dakota, it marks the the opening of the new auditorium of the oratorio society. This auditorium, having a large seating capacity, was erected within the last month, record-breaking work being done in order to finish it in time for the festival. It took every minute of the time to complete the structure the forces of carpenters working up to the noon hour yesterday that the building might be in readiness. They have also worked almost every night during the last month.

The big feature of the festival is the work of the Oratorio chorus, composed of 175 voices, under the direction of Prof. George A. Stout, director of Wesley college, which has come to be regarded as one of the finest organizations of its kind in the country.

The members of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, which takes part in the festival, were made the guests of honor at a reception held last evening by the military band. One of the features of the entertainment was the presentation to Emil Oberhoffer, director of the orchestra, of a large medal. The presentation speech was made by ex-Governor E. Y. Sarles of North Dakota, and proved to be one of the happy features of the evening's entertainment.

The entertainment of the orchestra by the Grand Forks band is an annual affair, one to which the Grand Forks residents and the orchestra members look forward to with great interest and pleasant anticipations.

FINNISH PAPER SUSPENDS.

Calumet Publication Quits Because of Labor Troubles.

Calumet, Mich., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Paivelehti, the well known Finnish daily newspaper, published in Calumet, has decided to suspend publication. This step was taken on receipt of a wire from Attorney O. J. Larson of Duluth, president of the company.

The decision is the result of an agitation among the mechanical staff of the paper, in which union rates of wages and hours were demanded. The company was willing to grant some of the demands, but others were refused. A deadlock ensued and on the matter being taken up with Mr. Larson he wired the management in Calumet to close the plant down, and take an inventory of the machinery and stock with a view to disposing of the same. This is now being done.

ASHLAND TO BENEFIT.

Acquisition of White Power Company Plant Means Much for City.

Ashland, Wis., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The property of the White River Power company has been taken over by the Ashland Light, Power & Street Railway company, the deed of transfer being filed in the office of the register of deeds yesterday. The deed is signed by E. A. Edmunds as president and C. A. Wixson as secretary of the White River power plant, and conveys to the Ashland Light, Power & Street Railway company all the right, interest and title to the holdings of the White River Power company. The transfer includes the flowage rights, dam and power house at White River, transmission lines and poles, sub-station at Ashland and all rights granted the company by the state and others.

The transfer, which involves a consideration of over $150,000 and over 200 acres of land, is a great thing for the city of Ashland and shows energy and thrift by E. A. Appleyard, who engineered the deal through for the Ashland concern.

Mr. Appleyard states that work will begin on the Prentice Park line as soon as a civil engineer arrives, and he is expected any day. This work will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible in order to give the patrons of the line an opportunity to go to the springs, one of the prettiest picnic grounds anywhere.

Eventually the street railway company intends to build a line to Odanah and Washburn, and also extend its lines in the city, probably up Vaughn avenue and east and west on Seventh or Eighth streets.

BIG LOG DRIVES ARE NOW MOVING

Many Streams in Northwestern Minnesota Are Full of Logs.

Bemidji, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The many drives of logs which are to be taken from the district east and south of Red lake to the lower Red lake, and subsequently to be towed across the lake and driven through the Red Lake river, have been started, as has also some big drives in the north Turtle river, out of Rebedew lake, east of Tenstrike.

The drive on Tamarack river has been taken to Red lake and practically all of the men who have been in the drive left the latter part of last week.

The drive on the North Battle river has been finished; South Battle river is filled with logs from Red lake to within about seven miles of Kelliher. The crew of men who have been working on the drive have been discharged.

The North Cormorant river is also full of logs and the conditions are about the same as those at South Battle river.

The big drive in the Blackduck river is under way and there is a large crew of men working on the drive.

There is also a big crew of men getting out a drive on the second Cormorant river, where fully 35,000,000 feet of logs will be driven this spring.

The two steamboats that wintered at the mouth of Blackduck river, are being prepared to tow logs across Red lake to the Red lake river.

All of the above drives, with the exception of the Blake & Hawkins Turtle river drive, are logs which were cut by the J. A. Irvine Lumber company, and are being driven under the direction of that company.

CLOQUET'S NEW DEPOT.

It Will Be Frame Structure and Cost Nearly $20,000.

Cloquet, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the new union depot began yesterday afternoon, when the engineers made the measurements of the building preparatory to the excavating, which will begin at once. The specifications call for a frame structure, to cost $18,000, 24 by 100 feet. The interior will be hardwood and tile flooring. The details will be complete in every respect.

It will be necessary to move the old building back about twenty feet, and take up the present Northern Pacific tracks, in order to make room for the building, which will be placed between the Great Northern and Northern Pacific tracks, and about fifty feet to the east of the present depot, so as to permit trains to clear the crossing when standing at the depot. It is a great disappointment that the depot is to be a frame structure, but the railroad people have been deaf to all protests. Any sort of a structure will be an improvement over the present accommodations, and expressions of satisfaction are numerous.

CITY HAS PROBLEM.

Grand Forks to Pave and Lay Sewers on Same Streets.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council is wrestling with a very knotty proposition, that of paving a portion of De Mers avenue, along which a new sewer is being placed. Contractor P. McDonnell of Duluth holds both the sewer contract and the paving contract, and the question rests on which is the most advisable manner of laying the pavement.

The sewer that is being laid is the largest in Grand Forks. Along the center of De Mers avenue from the river to the Great Northern depot, a distance of about five blocks, the sewer is from twenty to twenty-eight feet below the surface of the street. The proper back filling of the trenches, in order that the paving work may be proceeded with, is one feature of the work that has not yet been solved.

The council now proposes to leave a portion of the street along the route unpaved, filling in with sand until such a time as the ground has thoroughly settled. Just what agreement will be arrived at with Contractor McDonnell is uncertain.

TOAST FRANK McVEY.

Former Head of Minnesota Tax Commission Is Given a Banquet.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Frank L. McVey, for two years chairman of the Minnesota tax commission and the newly elected president of the University of North Dakota, was the guest of honor at a banquet tendered to him and his wife at Donaldson's tea rooms Tuesday night. The affair was in recognition of Dr. McVey's services as president of the board of directors of the Associated Charities for the last eleven years, and those present, although representing the business and professional interests of the city, were mostly persons who are interested in the work of the Associated Charities and other kindred organizations in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Alfred H. Bright, general solicitor for the Soo road, acted as toastmaster, and the long list of speakers who were called upon for toasts all had many nice things to say about Dr. McVey.

WILL SUE CASS LAKE.

Mrs. William Gamache to Ask for Heavy Damages From Village.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Notice has been given that a suit will be brought against the village as a result of an injury sustained in a defective sidewalk. Mrs. Peter Gamache, while returning home from church, stepped on a loose plank. The plank flew up and struck the woman in the face, knocking her down and causing a severe injury to her knee. She was helped to a nearby house, where she fainted several times owing to the severe pain. A physician was summoned and she was found to be injured quite badly. Attorney Smith was engaged soon after by the injured woman and Mr. Smith at once began gathering evidence. Pictures were taken of the sidewalk where the accident occurred and other evidence of a very valuable nature has been secured.

The amount of damage that is asked by the complainant is not yet known, but it is believed it will be $10,000.

CHILD PICKING FLOWERS, ENCOUNTERS HUMAN BONES

Mandan, N. D., May 27.—Human bones were found at the top of the hill south of J. S. Nelson's place, which is located near the Heart river bridge south of the city, by Mr. Nelson's little 9-year-old daughter, Zenobia, while she was out picking flowers.

The little girl thought it was only one skeleton, but upon investigation by Chief of Police Roby and City Justice Thurston it was discovered that there had apparently been two bodies buried there. The grave had been made on the slope of the hill and the bodies had evidently been buried in a shallow box.

The only conclusion is that the bodies were buried there in the early days when the soldiers were located at old Fort Lincoln, and might either be settlers or Indians.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Negaunee—Work has started on the grand stand at the Union park. Additions of thirty-two feet in length are to be placed on each side, giving it twice the seating capacity of the old stand.

Ishpeming—John R. Collins and son, former residents, are here from Iowa, to remain a short time. Mr. Collins owns a 40-acre tract in the mineral district on the Swanzey range, and since the mines have been opened up there he has received several offers for it.

Parrot Handles the Fad - The Up-side-Down Parasol - The New Straw Sunshade with Hand-bag to Match.

THREE most unaccountable things there be, the prophet tells us: "The way of a serpent on a rock; the way of a bird through the air and the way of a man with a maid." But verily the prophet forgot to mention the way of a maid with a parasol.

The manipulation of a sunshade comes as natural to femininity as breathing. If you don't believe it, watch some small girl you know with her first parasol. Watch the score of ways in which she tips it, tilts it, peers under it, and glances back at you with it poised nonchalantly over her shoulder. Nobody ever had to teach a woman how to use a parasol—she knows.

Parasols at Palm Beach.

At the Southern summerland the first parasols bloom out like delectable harbingers of spring long before the Northern dandelions crop up in the grassplots. But while the dandelions are the color of summer sunshine, the parasols at Palm Beach were the color of summer grass this year. Everywhere on the beach and along the shell road in the morning hours were grass green parasols.

For more formal use, however, say the folk returning from Palm Beach, the parasol invariably matches the frock. This rule is unalterable. The one color mandate in costume includes not only hat, gloves and shoes, but also parasols and handbags. The new coaching parasols of silk come in all the new soft colorings which look as though familiar rose, reseda and mauve shades had been delicately faded or veiled with a faint gray mist. But even these aesthetic hues will not altogether displace the cheerful scarlet and green sunshades of former summers, which have a festive suggestion of good times out of doors. A scarlet parasol is positively good for an attack of the blues. There is a lively suggestion in the very buying of it and seeing it in one's wardrobe alongside more dignified belongings.—and of course no woman needs to be reminded how fetchingly becoming is the rosy glow cast by the sun shining through a red silk parasol.

Some of the silk parasols this year have narrow pleated frills at the edge which lend a coquettish fluffiness to the severe coaching lines. Another new trimming on the plain silk parasols is made of heavy cords covered with the silk and twisted into bowknots and scroll patterns in border effect. In one case two rows of cords were sewed to the edge of the silk, which was cut into deep scallops. When closed these parasols, with their deep, corded scallops, look like big, half-opened tulips and the effect is charming.

One Tone Idea Expressed in Handles Also.

The silk parasols have handles to match, made of enameled or lacquered wood, or there are pimento wood handles in their soft, natural colorings. Often a cabachon jewel matching the silk cover is set in the end of the stick and the ribs are tipped with pink quartz, imitation jade or colored enamel.

Bird handles are the fad of the moment and of all the feathered tribe the gay red and green parrot seems to be most popular for parasol handles. Next to the parrot comes the stork and a much-fancied type of handle shows his storkship with bill bent over to touch his legs, making a convenient loop into which the hand may be slipped. The very distinguished sunshades—those ranging up into the two-figure mark—have handles of expensive woods daintily trimmed with sterling silver or pearl inlays.

The Handle at the Wrong End.

Some of the new parasols have handles where the ferrule should be, so that when the parasol is closed one holds it upside down. In the case of ruffled chiffon sunshades this is rather a graceful notion, as the folds of chiffon fall limply about the stick, making the slender line which parasols and umbrellas should have when closed. When the parasol is open it is held midway of the long stick, which is daintily tipped at the end with a silver ferrule.

At the Riviera this spring there has been a fad for tying bunches of flowers to the parasol handle, the clusters of rosebuds, geraniums, violets or other blossoms matching the hat and the long embroidered silk gloves, which are drawn up over the transparent sleeve. These posies on Riviera parasols were almost invariably the imitation sort which matched the corsage flowers so fashionable all winter; and with a bunch of purple violets worn on the hat, the lavender parasol, with another cluster of the purple flowers tied to the handle, is really ideally charming.

The Coquettish Clo Clo San.

After the dainty little heroine in Madame Butterfly is named this new parasol in Japanese style. The Cio Clo San has sixteen ribs and opens in an almost flat disc, like the gay paper sunshades, with their shining black sticks. The silk from which these parasols are made is woven in colorings which suggest the Japanese paper idea, and altogether the Clo Clo San is a captivating summer style.

Other styles that are Japanese in suggestion, without being as conspicuously Oriental as the Clo Clo San, have panels of silk on which are the flat, yet wonderfully shaded embroideries which only the clever Jap people seem able to do. The silk panels for these parasols are sent to Nippon land to be embroidered and made up later on French and American frames.

Figured silk parasols in Japanese style show flights of birds and butterflies, and as these silks are woven especially for parasol use, the patterns are arranged to give a very graceful appearance when the parasol is opened, the birds and butterflies seeming to be flitting lightly across the silk panels.

Persian Square Parasols a New Idea.

A very pretty new notion this year is the parasol made of two squares of Persian silk, one placed over the other so that the four corners of the two squares come at the tips of the eight ribs of the frame. One of these Persian square parasols is shown, in this case an all-over pattern, having been used instead of the bordered squares, which are sometimes employed. A bright girl, who longed for a Persian square sunshade, but who found the prices asked for these novelties in the shops prohibitive, contrived one of the parasols for herself at very little cost. The faded green silk cover was ripped from an old parasol frame in good order, and two squares of Persian silk in a dainty cream and rose pattern were stretched over the ribs, one square over the other with the corners coming at alternate points. When the upper square had been neatly stitched to the lower the under square was cut away inside the seams. A rosette of rose silk matching the tints in the Persian patterns made a neat finish at the ferrule end and ten cents worth of rose colored enamel paint changed the green handle into a stick that matched the rest of the color scheme.

Raffia Sunshades a New Fad.

The last straw now is the straw parasol. Raffia is the up-to-date name by which these freakish new sunshades are known, and they look for all the world like the flexible matting which comes around tea chests, with edges raveled out to form a coquettish fringe as a trimming. The raffia parasols are all in the creamy straw color and there are handbags to match, also made of the supple raffia.

These odd parasols, the makers prophesy, will be the fad with light colored linen and pongee frocks; but somehow or other one cannot look at them without thinking of the straw roof of a round Hottentot domicile under which dark-skinned ladies hide from the scorching suns of Jungleland.

Garden Party Parasols.

When one trails over a piazza floor or about an exquisitely clipped lawn in one's most diaphanous summer array, of course one wants something more elaborate than the trig coaching parasol, which would be quite appropriate with a traveling suit. For these occasions there are all manner of exquisite sunshades of the sort called —before automobiles usurped the privileges of landaus and victorias—"carriage parasols." Of course, one would no more think of holding a parasol across one's shoulder when whisking about the country in a mile-a-minute touring car than one would when beating into the wind in a sailboat. The garden party parasols, as they must be called now, include fluffy affairs of chiffon and of lace mounted over chiffon, with fascinating frills at the edge beneath which one may peep at one's escort.

There are dainty parasols of pompadour silk, too, with blurred rose and violet patterns and Frenchified blue bowknots all woven in a white ground; and there are parasols with delicate colored borders or dashing black and white patterns in "magpie" effects. These parasols for use with elaborate frocks are exquisitely dainty in every detail of finish. The handles are often set with jewels and there are huge silk tassels or bows of velvet ribbon fastened with little rhinestone buckles.

Pongee Parasols in New Styles.

The pongee parasols in natural color and soft new shades are refined and distinctive in style, and some of them are made very graceful by a border of deep silk fringe which matches the pongee in color. Handles are of bamboo or of lacquered wood with jeweled or bird knobs.

The pure white lingerie parasols of embroidered linen will not be as smart this season as the colored parasol matching the hat and silk gloves, but for all-white costumes some very pretty parasols of allover eyelet embroidery are shown and these have bamboo or white enameled sticks. There are some women who love the snow-white parasols and deem them most correct for wear with white linen and pongee suits, and they will never go out of fashion, even though colors are the passing fad of the moment. A dainty notion, which might be adapted by any clever needlewoman is to have a plain white parasol of fine handkerchief linen with no ornamentation except a large monogram embroidered on one of the linen panels.

The New Bathing Parasol.

First we took to donning worsted jackets over bathing suits; now parasols are added to the bath outfit. Who knows but gloves will follow? The bathing parasol is made of silk to match the bathing suit. A shepherd check suit, ordered from a smart maker, must be sent home accompanied by a parasol of the same silk. A dark blue satin suit will have a parasol exactly matching, and so on, the woman who wears a natty black silk or satin bathing suit being permitted to choose any color that she pleases. The bathing parasol is a bit smaller than the ordinary sort for street use, and is perfectly plain in style, with a sharply pointed end, which may be pushed into the sand while one lounges on the beach. Of course, the bathing parasol is only for beach use and is never carried into the water. It is really a practical as well as pretty notion, and will very probably ward off more than a few coats of disfiguring tan and freckles this summer.

Calling Cards and Note Paper.

JUST as there are fashions in clothes and hats and shoes, so are there fashions in calling cards. To be in style in this respect is the mark of the well-bred person.

A water mark instead of the fabric or linen finish is the distinguishing quality of the latest note paper. The sheets are square, of varying sizes and the envelopes just half the size of the sheet, thus necessitating but a single fold.

All calling cards should be square. The name in script is popular, but the Old English, so long in use, is still a favorite. The address should now be in the right-hand corner and, if one lives in a city, only the street and number are necessary. If one lives in the suburbs the name of the suburb is added. If a reception day is desired it should be placed in the left hand corner. For a business card, where the thing most desired is legibility, the old Roman letter is the most serviceable. Cards for an at home or a dinner are usually in script. On all cards for luncheons or dinners "Please Reply" is considered lots better taste than the almost obsolete "R. S. V. P." Of course neither of these should be absolutely necessary, as it is taken for granted that anyone receiving an invitation will have the courtesy to reply to it. As a matter of fact, however, there are many people nowadays so thoughtless that a hostess is often inconvenienced by their failure to send acknowledgments or regrets. Especially is a reply needed when a bridge whist follows a luncheon. The placing of the request, "Please Reply," on a card to luncheon or dinner insures the hostess an easy mind as to just who will come and who will not.

On a man's visiting card no address is ever given. This should be placed on his business card.

Cards for Mr. and Mrs. together are not used now. Where a card from each of them is desired, the husband's card and wife's card are left.

During the first year after a daughter is introduced into society, she should have her name just below and on her mother's card, which she should use at all times. If her sister enters society at the same time the inscription below her mother's name should read: "The Misses Smith or Brown."

If the young ladies have cards of their own it is incorrect to have simply "Miss," as "Miss Smith," but the full name or the first name and middle initial should be given, as "Miss Helen S. Smith" or "Miss Helen Sophia Smith."

DARNING STOCKINGS ON A MACHINE.

What next? Here's a wonderful little device by means of which the busy woman may sit at her sewing machine and turn off the week's darning in no time. A corkscrew arrangement slips over the machine needle and the stocking is spread flat on a little hoop like an embroidery hoop. This is slipped under the machine needle, the treadle is set in motion, and back and forth, back and forth does the hoop under the needle until the yawning hole is neatly and securely hidden by a weaving of even stitches. For darning silk stockings, especially, this machine darner is a splendid help, for the fine stitches, done with ordinary sewing silk, are so like the weave of the stocking that the hole or "runway" is scarcely noticeable.

BAGS and BELTS in SMART STYLES

Dainty Gowns Demand Dainty Hand Bags

AS TO spring handbags, the first advice is be sure to have a new one. Why is it that women never seem to realize the importance of fresh, new leather belongings? It took a decade of patient endeavor to impress upon femininity the fact that down-trodden, overworn shoes were an unpardonable blemish on an otherwise handsome appearance. Now one sees every day a crisp, fresh spring suit, with spic span gloves, shoes and hat—and a shabby, out-of-date handbag.

The handbag is just as much a detail of the gown as is the cut of a sleeve, and the very particular woman takes infinite pains to have her leather belongings in keeping with the rest of her street costume. There will be no trouble matching the gown with a suitable bag, either, for the new bags come in as many colors as Joseph's immemorial coat. "This one-tone costume effect," complained a maker of fine leather goods, "keeps us pretty busy getting onto shades. As fast as Paris brings them out we have to reproduce them somehow or other." And it is true that no sooner do the new colors assert themselves in fabrics than they are repeated in soft-hued calf and other leathers.

Catawba bags are the latest fad. Buffed calf and alligator are colored in the various tones of the grape, and one sees all shades, from the pale, limpid green of the unripe fruit to deep purplish black and wine color. Linings match the soft fruit colorings and frames are of dull-finished metal in the graceful art nouveau designs.

Levant, soft beaver, suede, calf and the always distinguished English morocco leathers are dyed in exquisite shades to match Easter gowns; and some of the mauves, pale greens and rose shades are very beautiful. These dainty bags, completing the one-tone effect of dressy costumes, are considered much smarter now than the gilt and silver mesh bags of a season ago. Of course, lining and finish of these handbags de luxe are in keeping with the outside. Sunken jewels, matching the leather in color, decorate the frames, and inside shirred silk pockets hold gold-trimmed cardcases and liner purses.

Morocco handbags in scarlet, green and navy blue always have a vogue in the summer season, when they are matched by parasols, and make an exceedingly smart color note with dark silk or wool suits or linen frocks. This year there is a fad for the red handbags, which will be matched by scarlet parasols and carried with the new cherry and currant trimmed hats.

The Moyen Age revival in dress has brought into prominence the little money bag, or aumonnier, which hangs at the side from jeweled chains or silk cords. Frocks built in the cassock, tunic and surplice styles of the medieval mode are provided with these pretty little bags made of the dress fabric and embroidered, beaded or braided like the rest of the costume.

With the tailored suit for traveling or shopping wear the smart woman carries a leather handbag, roomy in size and refined yet snappy in style. The enormously large bags used last year have gone their way along with the monstrous hats of the Merry Widow epoch; and this spring handbag shapes, like millinery, are more moderate. Real seal bags in black or dark colors are always in good taste and the most distinguished of these bags have covered frames or mountings of gunmetal or dull silver.

Very snappy in style are the vachette or shiny leather bags with gay scarlet linings. This leather is as brilliantly black as patent colt, but has a ridged effect which makes it much smarter and vastly more fashionable. The vachette bags come in all shapes and are usually trimmed with gilt.

Pigskin bags have always a distinction of their own, due in great measure to their high price. There are no imitations of pigskin and a real pigskin, saddler sewn bag or pocketbook always speaks for itself in value. Many of the pigskin handbags are lined with the favorite scarlet Morocco leather; others have soft calf linings in self-color, and the very handsomest of these bags are fitted with dainty accessories, all of the creamy pigskin with dull gilt mountings. A pigskin handbag is shown in the new deep-flap saddlebag shape with a slender harness strap handle. Beside it is an embossed calf pocketbook bag intended for use with a calling costume. This bag is a pale amethyst shade with mountings of dull silver and the embossed pattern shows clusters of tiny flowers colored in violet and pale rose.

The beltmakers this year are as discouraged as the bracelet makers were a year ago, when long sleeves came into fashion. Many of the new spring and summer skirts fit smoothly up over the waist, with no belt to break the continuity of line, and, of course, the one-piece frock has been a severe blow to the belt manufacturers.

Every wardrobe, however, must include some belts for occasional wear with the shirtwaist and skirt, to which the average woman clings with persistent affection; but these belts will be quiet in style, blending with the fabric of the skirt in color. Three new belt styles are shown—one of ribbon belting, another of embossed silk elastic, which fits so neatly and trimly, and a third in fitted girdle effect. The first two belts have art nouveau clasps and back ornaments in dull metal, and the third belt, or girdle, is laid in pleats on a shaped foundation which extends upward in a high point at the back.

Fruit effects are a fad this season and the newest belt buckles have bunches of grapes in natural color hanging within arabesques of dull gold or silver. Just a notion, of course, but the up-to-date woman will be sure to have a grape clasp on her belt to mark it as this year's style.

Use is made in the South Seas of boxes made of camphor wood or American white cedar, because ants and other insects have an aversion for those woods. The natives use such boxes for trunks.

THIEVES BROKE INTO SALOON

Get Cash, Liquor and Cigars at the Brewery.

Thieves broke into the saloon at Fitger's brewery, Sixth avenue east, Tuesday night, and, after robbing the cash register of the day's receipts, made off with a considerable quantity of cigars and liquor. The fact of the theft was not made public until this morning.

Access was gained by means of a rear window. The thieves took a set of skids off one of the brewery wagons and placed it against the back of the building, which gave them a foothold to reach the window. It is understood that between $20 and $40 cash was taken. Several boxes of select cigars and several quarts of liquor are missing.

Persia's rug industry has suffered materially as a result of the closing of the bazaars at Tabriz and other Persian cities. The difficulties of transportation on the highways of Persia, and the lessened American demand for luxuries have contributed in no small measure to the depressed condition of the Persian rug trade. Prices have fallen off one-half. Labor there now commands only between 5 and 10 cents a day.

WEST END

HAND CAUGHT IN RIP SAW

West End Man Loses Two Fingers in Accident.

Catching his fingers in a rip saw while at his work at the Ouellette & Baxter sash and door factory yesterday afternoon, Gustave Alsterlund was the victim of a painful accident whereby he will lose two fingers of his right hand.

The affair was purely accidental, Alsterlund having thoughtlessly brought his hand too near the saw. He was taken to a doctor's office and his wounds were dressed immediately after the accident.

Alsterlund has been employed at the sash and door factory for the past two years. He lives at 2616 West Thirteenth street.

MORE SYSTEM IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

West Duluth Paster Says a Method Is Lacking.

A more systematic method of conducting Sunday schools was urged last evening by Rev. J. A. Bjorke, pastor of Our Saviour's Norwegian Lutheran church, West Duluth, who was the principal speaker last evening at a meeting of the United Norwegian Lutheran Church Sunday School association of the Head of the Lakes, held at the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Superior street.

The attendance numbered about 100. Rev. N. J. Lokrem, pastor of the Concordia Norwegian Lutheran church of Superior, presided at the session, which is held quarterly. The next meeting of the association will be at the First Norwegian-Danish Evangelical Lutheran church, First avenue east and Third street.

Other speakers last evening were Rev. J. H. Stenberg, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish Evangelical Lutheran church and C. M. Hanson of the Zion church Sunday school.

Solos were sung by Alena Hanson and Signe Feyling and a piano duet was rendered by Harold Hanson and Margaret Hessness. Refreshments were served by the young women of the Sunday school to those attending the meeting.

WILL DECIDE ON PAVEMENT

Meeting of West End Property Owners Is Called.

Property owners on Twenty-ninth avenue west from Third to Superior street, who are interested in the paving of the avenue, will meet tomorrow night at the polling place at Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street and will make a choice as to the kind of paving to be laid on the street.

J. W. Preston, president of the board of public works, and Mayor R. D. Haven will attend the meeting as well as the city engineer, who it is expected will submit estimates as to the relative cost of sand and Telford macadam. It is expected that a preference will be given the tar macadam.

EMERSON "GRADS" HAVE BANQUET

Graduates Are Guests of Honor at Alumni Feast.

More than 100 members gathered last evening at the first annual banquet of the Emerson Alumni association, held at the school. The supper, which was furnished by the young ladies of the association, was excellent.

An after-dinner program followed the feast at which Rev. J. L. McBride, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, acted in the capacity of toastmaster. The address of welcome was given by John McInnis, followed by a tiast to the "Principal" by Frank Page. Miss Thomson, principal of the Emerson school, responded.

Edward Stevens took for his topic "The Girls," and Millie Hinham reciprocated by toasting "The Boys." "The Graduates" was the subject on which E. M. Webb spoke. The response to this toast was made by Simon Berg, president of the graduating class.

The affair was an unqualified success.

Confirmation Class.

The confirmation class of St. Peter's Episcipal church will be examined at the 11 o'clock service on Sunday morning next at the church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. The sacrament of the holy baptism will be administered by Bishop J. D. Morrison in the evening. Special music will be rendered by the choir.

Revival Services.

The union revival meetings of the Swedish M. E. and the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. churches still continue to draw large crowds every evening. The services were led by Rev. C. P. Eklund last evening.

This afternoon Rev. Eklund also spoke at a mass meeting of women only. The meeting was well attended and special music was rendered. On Saturday afternoon there will be a children's meeting. The meetings this week are being held at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

On Sunday afternoon Rev. Eklund will speak to a mass meeting for men only.

May Festival.

The Luther Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will entertain this evening at the annual May festival at the church.

A fine program has been prepared, consisting of selections by the following: Prof. Royal Wilson, baritone; Miss Thomsen, soprano; Miss Pauline Solum, pianist; Rev. W. Sievers, violinist; Miss Esther Haggen, reader.

After the program refreshments will be served in the church parlors and a social hour enjoyed.

Templars Will Meet.

The Good Templars, North Star lodge, will give an entertainment this evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

A good program has been arranged with good music and literary numbers. Rev. Edward Stromberg, pastor of the Swedish M. E. church, will be the principal speaker.

West End Shortrails.

The first annual ball of the employes of the Duluth Street Railway company will be held on Monday evening, June 7, at Lincoln park. Committees have been appointed and are working on the affair.

C. E. Bergman of 2014 West Second street, who was operated upon last week at St. Luke's hospital for appendicitis, is rapidly recovering.

Duluth Observatory, No. 39, North Star Sick Benefit association, will meet next Wednesday evening at Sloan's hall.

S. Olsen left this morning for Minneapolis on a short business trip.

A number of the series of dancing parties to be given by the Adams Athletic association will be held tonight at Lincoln park.

All West end members of the Sons of Norway lodge are requested to attend the open meeting this evening of the order at Kalamazoo hall. A discussion will take place as to what would be appropriate for a gift to Norway when the one hundredth anniversary of her independence will be celebrated in 1914.

The Adams Athletic association met last evening, and among other things, elected William Crump as manager of the second team for this season.

Mrs. M. Olsen and children of 1826 West Michigan street have gone to Ironwood, Mich., to make their future home. Miss Marie Olsen will leave for Ironwood the latter part of the week and join the family.

Emil Barquist is at Moose Lake on a few days' visit with relatives.

The annual election of officers of the Adams Alumni association will be held next Tuesday evening. The past year has been a very successful one for the association.

The French Naturalization club is planning on holding bi-weekly meetings throughout the summer.

Emil Grill is at Tower, Minn., looking after the interests of his property there. He intends to sell a claim which he acquired a number of years ago.

The choir of St. Peter's Episcopal church pleasantly surprised Mrs. F. Erickson Tuesday evening at her home. She was the recipient of many gifts in appreciation of the work in the church chorus.

The Modern Woodmen, Duluth camp, No. 2341, met last evening at Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, and enjoyed a social session and dance.

Miss Myrtle Perry returned today from Virginia. She will visit with her parents here for a short time.

Rev. M. O. Stockland, pastor of the Grace M. E. church at the West end, was called this morning to Brainerd, Minn., where he will officiate at the funeral of an old friend, who died there recently.

READY FOR ENCAMPMENT

Duluth Will Send About 150 Men to Lake City.

The boys of Companies A, C and E of the First battalion of the Third regiment of the National Guard of Minnesota are getting things ready for the annual state encampment which opens at Lake City June 14.

The three companies will leave Duluth on Sunday, June 13, and it is expected that about 150 from this city will be able to take part in the ten days' army maneuvers at Lake City. The battalion band of twenty-eight pieces will accompany the men.

It is expected the attendance at Lake City will be larger this year than ever. In addition to the three Duluth companies, companies from the following cities will be present when the encampment opens: Eveleth, Hibbing, Bemidji, Thief River Falls, Crookston, Princeton, Anoka, Olivia and Zumbrota.

THE LANDLADY'S RECKONING. ..

Youth's Companion: As the stout man whose appetite had excited the envy of the other boarders turned to leave the parlor he looked down at his waistcoat. "I declare, I've lost two buttons off my vest," he said, ruefully.

He was a new boarder, but his landlady saw no reason for further delay in showing her banner, "watchfulness and economy for all." She gave him the benefit of the chill gaze familiar to older boarders.

"I think without doubt you will find them both in the dining room," she announced clearly.

ROUNDING UP MILK DEALERS

State Inspector Here to Issue Licenses to Dairymen.

A. J. Anderson, one of the inspectors connected with the state dairy and food department, is in Duluth rounding up the local dealers in milk and cream who have neglected to take out their state licenses.

The old law applying to the sale of milk was amended by the last legislature to require all who deal in this liquid to procure a license from the department. The law applies to dairies, stores, saloons, restaurants, lunch counters and all places where sweet milk and cream are dispensed, and only those are exempt who furnish milk and cream to factories for the manufacture of cheese and butter.

Mr. Anderson says there are many dealers in Duluth who have failed to procure a license up to the present time. The law provides for a minimum fine of $15 for the failure to have a state license after June 1.

Mr. Anderson has taken a temporary office in the Palladio building.

THE COURTEOUS JAPANESE.

Instructions Issued by the Governor Care for All Foreigners.

pean visitors to Yokohama, Japan, should fare very well if the instructions issued by the governor of the prefecture are lived up to by the natives. The Japan Advertiser quotes these instructions, which are in part as follows: The governor has given the following instructions to be observed by police officials, school pupils, etc.:

"Nobody should hang around foreigners on the streets or when the latter are shopping.

"Merchants should not overcharge when foreigners make purchases.

"Foreigners dogs, when taken on the streets, should not be molested by stone throwing or by challenging to fight with other dogs.

"Foreigners should be very kindly and courteously treated, and when they come to the government offices the suitable sitting accommodations should be allowed them.

"Attention should be paid to the foreign usage in vogue, like that foreigners do not uncover in offices in case of ceremonies and foreign couples walk together hand in hand.

"Foreigners being attentive to the prevention of cruelty of animals, care should be taken not to cruelly treat animals.

"No insulting remarks or jokes should be made against foreigners' costume, manners or conversation.

"When foreign ladies are present in a train, tram car or in waiting rooms, care should be taken not to place luggage, etc., in confused heaps so as to make it impossible for foreigners to sit down.

"Nobody should gaze unnecessarily at foreigners' faces.

"When entering foreign offices, care should be taken not to wear muddy shoes.

"It should be remembered that foreign missionaries, like Japanese priests, are respected by their countrymen.

"Care should be taken not to allow children to throw stones or place any impediments or in any other way obstruct the way where foreigners are riding bicycles or in any other way taking outdoor exercise.

"Foreigners should not be pointed at with the finger.

"No tobacco should be smoked at places where it is morally forbidden or in the presence of foreign ladies.

"When foreign ladies enter a room a seat should be taken after the ladies have sat down.

"Those who are studying foreign languages should not accost foreigners when it is unnecessary merely for the purpose of practice.

"When speaking with foreigners only necessary matters should be talked about and time should be saved.

"Visiting should be made at times convenient to foreigners.

"Foreigners' ages should not be asked except in case of absolute necessity.

"When meeting foreign funerals respect should be paid and derisive remarks or insulting words should be avoided.

"The idea should be eradicated from the mind that foreigners always give money to beggars for the mere asking.

"Fixed prices should be marked on staple products at all places.

"Collars, cuffs, handkerchiefs, shoes, etc., should be kept clean.

"When walking with foreigners footsteps should be taken in uniformity.

"When foreigners look at their watches it should be remembered that they have other pressing business to attend to."

BEET SUGAR IS MENACED

Cummins Thinks Cane Product Will Eventually Kill It.

Senate Declines to Abolish the Dutch Standard Test.

Washington, May 27.—The senate lost little time today in resuming consideration of the sugar schedule, Mr. Cummins, one of the progressive leaders, being the first speaker. He advocated the wiping out of the differential duty in the interest of refined sugar.

Pointing out the danger to beet sugar development in the United States by the contemplated admission of free sugar from Porto Rico and Hawaii and the Philippines, at the pending bill would authorize such admission from the Philippines, Cummins questioned the wisdom of permitting cane sugar to eventually kill the beet sugar industry, as he said it might. He said he did no doubt that Cuba would also, in time, send her sugar here free of duty.

Interrupting, Senator Foster suggested that he would join the senator from Iowa in any effort he might make to keep out free sugar from the Philippines.

Cummins declared that ample ability exists to supply the entire demand for sugar in the United States by the culture of beets, and he believed the time had come to handle this question. He commented at length upon what he characterized as the natural warfare between cane and beet sugar, which, he said, would be shown in the future as the importation of free sugar increases in volume.

Means For Protection.

He commented upon the bounty as means for protecting beet sugar growers, but did not offer an amendment for such bounty. He opposed the incission of the Dutch standard in the pending bill at all and said it was in favor of the same in part and against the use of beet sugar. "I would rather raise the duty on raw sugar than reduce it," he said.

Senator Aldrich suggested that the adoption of the sixteen Dutch standard would allow sugar above that color test to come into the country with about one-half the duty it now pays, and declared it then would come into competition with the beet sugar industry.

Controverting this statement Cummins said that it would not only do away with the "Dutch standard," but would also have no differential on refined sugar, so that the sugar trust would have its profits confined to the actual refining, which would benefit from the free sugar admitted to the country. Then he believed the sugar trust could not dominate the market and the beet sugar industry would have a better chance to prosper. He would put a duty upon all cane sugar imported, according to its saccharine strength alone.

Senator Root read a letter to the senate showing that while the American and national sugar refining companies produced 1,679,286 tons of the refined sugar produced in the United States, other independent companies in Utah produced 83,772 tons or 35.15 per cent of the entire product.

Dutch Standard Remains.

The senate refused, 36 to 37, to strike the "Dutch standard" test out of the sugar schedule as proposed by Senator Bristow of Kansas.

That each senator should address one another in the third as "the senator from so and so," and not descend to personal pronouns and speak in the second person was called to the attention of the senate by Vice President Sherman. A colloquy between Senators Cummins and Smith of Michigan gave rise to this suggestion by the vice president.

"I will be pardoned on account of my inexperience," said Mr Cummins, "but the senator from Michigan is inexcusable."

Senator Bacon interposed to say the suggestion was timely and called attention to the authorities that had said the pronoun "you" can be used only when referring to the senate as a body or when addressing the presiding officer. He hoped that senators would be careful to observe this rule, as he regarded it as a "safeguard against asperities."

OFFERED BIG BONUS FOR LEASE

Orpheum Theater Managers Willing to Pay $15,000 for Paper.

A Superior street merchant, it was learned this morning, turned down an offer from a representative of the company of a bonus of $15,000 for his lease, which has only five years to run.

There has been so much talk from time to time over a new high class vaudeville house for the Zenith City, that the announcement made recently in regard to the building of a new playhouse was generally looked on as only another rumor.

CLAIMED TITLE TO BUTTE STREETS

Duluth Visitor Had Legal Battle With Montana City.

James A. Murray, millionaire mining man and pioneer of Montana, who a number of years ago, came into prominence by reason of litigation with the city of Butte over the ownership of the Smokehouse lode, involving titles to many of the streets and alleys of the Copper camp, is at the Spalding.

Besides being prominent in the mining world of Montana, Mr Murray is the owner of Hunter's Hot Springs, a noted health resort, located near Springdale on the Northern Pacific, eighteen miles east of Livingston, and the Boulder Hot Springs, forty miles north of Butte, on the Montana Central railroad, on both of which he has expended a vast sum of money in the way of improvements. Mr. Murray maintains a magnificent home at Monterey, Cal., where he resides during the winter months, spending the summers at his Montana resorts and in Butte. Mr Murray came into the limelight recently when a swindler, by means of forged deeds, attempted to transfer considerable California and Arizona property, owned by Mr. Murray, but was caught and punished.

PLASTERERS HAVE GOOD TIME

They Hold Their Annual Reunion in Kalamazoo Hall.

The local Operative Plasterers' International association, No. 53, held its annual reunion last night in Kalamazoo hall.

It was the most successful from every standpoint in the history of the union. All the members were present and the entertainment provided was of the best.

President S. Mann made the opening remarks of welcome and the response was made by Vice President Christ Porter. There were a number of musical numbers, some serious speeches, some amusing ones, a quartet and a clog dance by Joe Superlnau. There were also many other features of the entertainment that proved enjoyable.

The annual "get together and have a good time" idea has been a source of great pleasure to the members of this live union, and the event is looked forward to each year.

LONG PROBE FOR CITY FINANCES

Business Men Want to See Better Methods Employed.

A probe into the finances of the city and county will be made by the Douglas County Business Men's association, recently incorporated. The election of officers took place last evening and D. R. Long was elected president; L. F. Waterman, vice president; W. B. Kellogg, secretary; D. E. Dunn, treasurer.

The object of the organization, according to the articles of incorporation, is to carry on a real estate business, but it is known from good authority that the real intent of the promoters is to probe city and county affairs, with the view of ascertaining if better methods cannot be applied and the expenditure of public money lessened.

The services of Attorney W. B. Kellogg were engaged today and he will devote most of his time to research work. The company is capitalized at $2,000 with $1 shares. The capital stock is selling well. The money will go toward defraying the expenses of the legal advisor.

Although it is not expected that scandals will be unearthed by the association, the promoters want better methods.

HOLMES HELD FOR ASSAULT

Alleged Assailant of Jack Buell Held to Circuit Court.

At the conclusion of his preliminary hearing in Judge Parker's court yesterday afternoon, William Holmes, the negro charged with assault with intent to kill on "Jack" Buell, was held to the circuit court. The case will probably come up in a few days. Bail was fixed at $1,000.

The trouble took place in Raetz's saloon on Third street, a week or so ago. Holmes claims that his revolver exploded when he struck Buell with it, and that he did not deliberately fire. He declares he was obliged to strike Buell in self defense.

Buell told his side of the affair at the hearing. He said Holmes entered the saloon and without warning the prosecuting officer hoped that senators would be careful to observe this rule, as he regarded it as a "safeguard against asperities."

WHEAT HAS WEAK TONE

The Two Northwestern Markets Lead in a Decline.

Flax Is Active and Closes at Better Prices Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 27.—It was a selling market for wheat today and values were off about a point in the Northwest and Chicago at the close.

Receipts at Minneapolis were more liberal than they have been and the demand was light. All the domestic markets disclosed a weak tone late in the session.

Liverpool closed unchanged to ½d higher, Paris ¾c to 1¼c higher, Antwerp unchanged, Berlin ⅝c lower and Budapest ⅝c lower.

The May option closed 1c lower in Duluth, ¼c lower in Chicago 1¼c lower in Minneapolis, 1c higher in New York, 2⅛c higher in St. Louis, ⅞c higher in Kansas City and ½c lower in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1c lower in Duluth, ⅞@1c lower in Chicago, 1¼c lower in Minneapolis, ¾c lower in New York, 1c lower in St. Louis, ⅝@⅞c lower in Kansas City and ¼c lower in Winnipeg.

July corn closed 1¼c lower in Chicago and oats 1⅛c lower.

Bromhall cabled from Liverpool: "The wheat market was steady at the start and unchanged to ½d higher, being influenced by the firmness in American cables yesterday and the reported drought in Argentina, a continuance of dry weather in France. During the morning, the market was dull and well supported, while the near months advanced ¼d to ½d while the distant months were under pressure. The forecast of shipments from Argentina together with expectations of liberal shipments from Russia this week caused realizing in the latter trading. At mid-day, the market was dull and unchanged to ½d higher than yesterday.

"Corn was quiet at the start and unchanged. Later July declined ½d in sympathy with lower La Plata offerings and expectations of heavy shipment from Argentina."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 2 against 15 last year, and at Minneapolis 104 against 85 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 106 against 104 last year. Chicago received 2 against 49 last year. Winnipeg received 27 against 50 less year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 116,000 bu last year 319,000 bu. Shipments 402,000 bu, last year 206,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour were 210,000.

Primary receipts of corn were 653,000 bu last year 652,000 bu. Shipments 374,000 bu, last year 284,000 bu. Clearances of corn were 4,000 bu.

Wheat was quiet in Duluth, May wheat was inactive and closed 1c lower at $1.28⅝. July wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.20⅜, advanced to $1.30⅜, declined to $1.29⅜, and closed there, a loss of 1c from yesterday. September wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.12⅜, declined to $1.08⅜ and closed there, a loss of 1⅛c from yesterday.

Durum wheat was ½c lower.

Flax was active and higher. May flax was inactive and closed 2c higher than yesterday at $1.82. July flax opened unchanged at $1.7c declined to $1.79 and closed there, a gain of 1c. September flax opened unchanged at $1.85, advanced to $1.86⅝ and closed at $1.85⅝, a gain of ⅝c over yesterday. October flax opened unchanged at $1.47, went to $1.48 and closed at $1.47½.

Coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Shorts Are Fairly Active Bidders for the May Option.

Chicago, May 27.—Wheat was irregular during early trading today, the May delivery being strong, and the more distant deliveries inclined to be weak. Shorts were again fairly active bidders for the May option, but the deferred futures were under considerable selling pressure owing to generally favorable weather conditions for the new crop in this country. The market, however was dominated to a great extent by the congestion existing in the May delivery. Prices at the opening were ⅝@⅞c lower to ⅝c higher. May touching at $1.32⅝ to $1.32⅞, and July at $1.17⅝ to $1.17¾. Later May advanced to $1.33 but July sold off to $1.17.

The market was heavy nearly all day and prices declined still further. May sold off to $1.31⅝ and July to $1.16¾, after the latter had touched $1.18. The close was dull and weak with May off ⅞c at $1.32 and July down ⅝@⅞c at $1.16⅜@1.16⅝.

Local receipts of corn were again liberal and as a result prices declined materially early in the day. Selling was general and was led by prominent commission houses. Support was poor. May opened unchanged to ⅜c lower at 74⅝c to 75¾c and sold off to 74¾c. July, which opened ⅜@⅝c to ¾@⅞c lower at 70⅜c to 70¾c, declined to 68⅝c.

During the last half of the day the market slumped severely, especially for May, which was affected by a demoralized market for the cash grain, and broke to 72½c. July declined to 68¼c. The close was weak with May off 2¾c at 73c. July was 1¾c lower at 69¼@69⅝c.

Close: Wheat—May, $1.32; July, $1.16⅜; September, $1.08⅝@1.08; December, $1.06⅜. Corn—May, 73c; July 69¼@69⅜c; September, 67½c; December, 57⅞c. Oats—May, 59⅝c; July 53⅜c; September, 44c; December, 44½c. Pork—May, $18.77½; July, $18.77½; September, $18.90. Lard—May, $10.82½; July, $10.80; September $10.52½; October, $10.35. Ribs—May $10.25; July, $10.22½@10.25; September, $10.25; October, $10.12½. Rye—Cash, 85@90c; May, 87c. Barley—Cash, 75@77c. Timothy, September $4.60, Clover—May, $13.50. THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

News All Bearish With Exception of a Few Foreign Reports.

Minneapolis, May 27.—As the session progressed today weakness developed. News was all bearish, with the exception of a few foreign crop reports. The movement in the local market was very favorable, and the decrease in stocks for the week promises to be light comparatively. Stocks decreased 435,000 bushels for five days, as compared with a decrease of 660,000 bushels for the same time last week. Minneapolis today received 104 cars, against 85; Duluth 2 against 15; Winnipeg 27, against 49. September opened $1.12; high, $1.12; low, $1.08⅞; close, $1.10⅛. July opened $1.30⅝; high, $1.30⅝; low, $1.29⅛@1.29⅜; close, $1.29. Cash wheat was in firmly strong demand today. The spot article sold at premiums ½c higher than the stuff to arrive. Both country and local millers were good buyers. Inquiry was best for the choice grades. No. 1 northern sold at 1@1½c above the July option, and No. 2 northern for 2½c above. No. 1 northern spot and to arrive, $1.33⅜; No. 2 northern spot, $1.31⅛@1.31⅜; to arrive, $1.31⅛; No. 2 wheat, $1.29⅛@1.30⅛; No. 2 yellow corn, 71⅜@72⅝c; No. 3 white oats 56⅜@57⅝c; No. 2 rye, 83⅝@85⅝c.

Oats were weak on liberal realizing sales, based on increasing receipts, slow cash demand and favorable weather conditions for the new crop. July was especially weak and sold off to 53⅜@53⅝c, after opening ⅜c to ½c lower at 54c to 54¼c.

Provisions were quiet and steady. Prices at the start were 2½c higher to 5c lower.

Gossip of the Trading Room and the Pit.

B. W. Snow wired today from Hutchinson, Kan:

"I motored fifty miles today in Harvey and Reno counties. Wheat is fully headed out, but the top of the heads do not reach the knee. The stand is thin, heads small and much straw is almost too short to bind. Late planting, lack of winter moisture and a dry windy spring left the plant without vigor. Good rains during the past three days will help filling and stimulate some straw growth, but at best, the wheat seen today won't make a two-thirds crop. Corts are heading out six inches high, with the crop almost worthless. Corn is just starting, very late and small, but good stand and extra heavy acreage."

Millstuffs — Shipments, 1,441 tons. There was no important change in the situation today. Smaller millers reported that the market was inclined to be easier, but the bigger mills say that the damage continues in excess of the supply, and the market is very strong. Bran in bulk, $24.00@24.50.

Flour—Shipments were unusually heavy today. Millers said it was merely due to congestion of the cars. Demand was only fair and orders continued to be mostly for split cars. The steady wheat market made prices firm. Shipments 79,033 barrels. First patents, $6.40@6.60; second patents, $6.30@6.50; first clears, $5.05@5.25; second clears, $3.65@3.85.

Flax—Receipts, 2 cars today against 13; shipments 1. Demand was strong, but the light offerings again made the market inactive. Prices were quoted 1c above the Duluth July option. Close, $1.79¾.

Barley—Receipts, 17 cars today against 12; shipments, 35. Early the market was a little stronger, but later a little weakness was developed and prices were lower. Inquiry was strongest for feeding grades. Closing range, 72½@74c.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

No Demand of Consequence Shown for the Leading Shares.

Metal Stocks Absorbed the Bulk of the Limited Dealings.

New York, May 27.—There were more stocks which sold at unchanged prices from last night at the opening today than those that advanced or declined. The changes were small and mixed. Erie rose ⅝ and the first preferred 1. Great Northern ore certificates declined ⅜. The transactions were very scanty.

Buying orders became more numerous, but there was no demand of consequence for the leading stocks outside of Reading, which rose to 155. Some of the railroad equipment stocks were in demand and a few of the low-priced stocks also showed decided firmness. National Lead preferred advanced 1¾. Delaware & Hudson 1½ and Wabash preferred, Western Maryland and American Car 1. National Railways of Mexico first preferred declined 1¾.

Strength in the Gould group awakened slight response in the general list. St. Louis Southwestern preferred was marked up 1¾. Wabash preferred 1¼, American Car preferred and General Electric 1. St. Louis & San Francisco declined 1. Bonds were firm.

Intense dullness prevailed, but the market maintained the slight gains of the morning. United States Steel touched 61. Third Avenue got up 1¾. Canada Southern receded 1½ and Wheeling and Lake Erie first preferred 1.

Metal stocks absorbed the bulk of the limited dealings. National Lead preferred improved 3½, Bethlehem Steel preferred and Republic Steel preferred 1¾, the common 1 and United States Steel 1⅞ to 61¾, a new record price. Wabash also rose 1, the preferred 2⅝ and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 2¼.

The market closed somewhat irregular. Missouri Pacific followed the movement in the Gould group with a rise of 1. St. Paul preferred rose 3¼ in all. Amalgamated Copper and American Malting 1 and the preferred ¼. Prices generally were shaded a fraction, but hardened again. Lackawanna sold at a decline of 10.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

REMARKS.

Showery weather prevailed in the grain region.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

T Indicates inappreciable rainfall. *For yesterday. 2For the twenty-four hours ending a. m., 75th meridian time. 1Minimum temperature for twelve hours ending 8 a. m., 75th meridian time.

NOTE.—The average maximum and minimum temperatures and the average rainfall are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 27.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 2@8 points in response to better cables than expected and continued rains in the central belt, but soon eased off under realizing to about last night's figures. There seemed to be sufficient demand at this level to absorb offerings, and the market ruled steadier with prices 2 or 3 points up from the lowest. It was estimated that about 2,000 bales additional were tendered on May contracts, which sold off from 11.30 to 11.19 and rallied to 11.22. Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 11.30; middling gulf, 11.65; sales, 5,700 bales. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: May, 11.08; June, 10.99; July, 10.95; August, 10.92; September, 10.88; October, 10.87; November, 10.87; December, 10.87; January, 10.84; March, 10.88.

New York Money.

New York, May 27.—Money on call easy at 1¾@2 per cent; ruling rate, 1¾ per cent; closing bid, 1⅞ per cent; offered at 1⅞ per cent. Time loans very soft and fairly active; 60 days, 2@2½ per cent; 90 days, 2½ per cent; six months, 3@3½ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 3½@4 per cent; sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86.25@4.86.35 for 60-day bills and at $4.87.25 for demand; commercial bills, $4.85⅝@4.86⅛; bar silver, 52½c; Mexican dollars, 44c; government bonds steady; railroad bonds firm.

Treasury Balances.

Washington, May 27.—Today's statement of the treasury balance in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve, shows: Gold coin and bullion; $45,395,762; gold certificates, $29,016,500; available cash balances, $118,172,585.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, May 27.—Cattle—Receipts estimated at $4,500; market steady; beeves, $5.10@7.25; Texas steers, $4.75@6.35; western steers, $4.75@6.35; stockers and feeders, $3.60@5.65; cows and heifers, $2.60@6.40; calves, $5.00@7.50. Hogs—Receipts estimated at 26,000; market steady to strong; light, $6.90@7.37½; mixed, $7.05@7.55; heavy, $7.10@7.37½; rough, $7.10@7.25; good to choice, heavy, $7.25@7.37½; pigs, $5.90@6.40; bulk of sales, $7.20@7.30. Sheep—Receipts estimated at 10,000; market 10c lower; native, $4.00@6.50; western, $4.20@6.65; yearlings, $6.20@7.30; lambs, native, $6.25@8.00; western, $6.50@8.50.

St. Paul Livestock.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—Cattle—Receipts, 400; market steady and unchanged. Hogs—Receipts, 1,800; market 5@10c higher; range, $6.75@7.20; bulk, $7.10@7.15. Sheep—Receipts, 300; market strong at $3.00@7.00; lambs, $4.00@8.00.

SOME OUT OF DATE THEORIES.

Forum: To the lay mind it is very disconcerting to see the kaleidoscopic changes that are continually taking place in all branches of science. We have no sooner accepted the nebular hypothesis as one of the ultimate laws of nature than the geologist on the one hand and the mathematician on the other tell us that it will have to be abandoned.

One generation of naturalists delights us by teaching us to believe that every coral island is built from the bottom of the ocean by the accumulated remains of millions of generations of polyps and the next would have us believe they are merely the caps of oceanic mountains.

For a century the very foundation on which chemistry was built was the doctrine that the mass, the total amount of things in the universe, was unchangeable, but now more chemists doubt it than believe it.

Sixty years ago Adam Smith was thought to have said all but the last word on economics, and his principle of llassez-faire was the holy of holies, but now laissez-faire has been abandoned and only a single one of his laws remains unchallenged.

So it is in all lines, theories of inheritance, of chemical affinity, of disease, of health, of life, of death—all case, of health, of life, of death—all come and go so rapidly that we can scarcely keep pace with the procession. When we look into any specialized phase of a subject the most of ever changing theories simply bewilders any but the extreme specialist.

The most interesting part of it is that the man of science is the very one who is not worried by these shifting sands. He is too busy using the various theories to accomplish things. He seems to think no more of discarding one theory for another than he does of taking up a larger test tube or of adjusting his microscope to a different power.

TO REFOREST MAINE.

A plan for the reforestation of the state of Maine has been submitted to the governor by B. C. Jordon of Alfred. Mr. Jordon offers to give the state $1,000 on condition that once in eighteen years five prizes shall be awarded for the five best lots of young forest growth.

These lots are to consist of not less than ten acres, accurately surveyed and plotted, the majority of the trees to be not less than ten or more than thirty feet high and not less than ten or more than thirty years old when the prizes are awarded. The varieties of trees to be grown are specified and cover a long list from white pine to elm.

Mr. Jordon believes that the incentive afforded by such prizes would do much to bring about better forestry conditions. Maine has many thousand acres of waste land, now almost worthless, but naturally well adapted to timber growth, and which, according to a writer in Suburban Life, by a small expense for care and forest cultivation could be made easily worth in fifty years $100 an acre.

In this way the state, instead of being the poorest in the Union, might be made one of the richest. Forty years is a large part of one person's life, but a very small part of the life of a state. Mr. Jordon himself set out from 10,000 to 15,000 trees the last summer and states that he hopes to set out many thousands every year as long as he lives.

FRED BIG WIND P. M.

Chicago News: Representative Halvor Steenerson of Minnesota recently made a recommendation for the appointment of a postmaster at Twin Lakes, Minn., which caused a laugh to roll from the senate to the lower floor of the postoffice department. Mr. Steenerson proposed that Star Bad Boy, who has been "good" boy ever since he has been a federal postmaster, by succeeded for political reasons by Fred Big Wind.

THURSDAY, MAY 27, 1909.

Something is going on in Calumet & Sonora. There seems to be a reason for the stock dropping in price. The insiders have been steadily buying right along. We have heard from a very reliable source that at the mine things are being opened up big and that large returns are now being received for the Rosin and Zinc ores they are shipping. Buy Calumet & Sonora in the morning for it should advance at least three points tomorrow. This stock is one of the best on the board, therefore do not let them get it away from you. We understand a big offer has already been made for the Rosin-Zinc ore alone.

The Butte-Alex Scott stocks are so good to take on at this low price that it is almost a sin to buy them from those who offer them. We are steadily buying for our people and it now seems that any little noise would wake them up so that they would advance several points. The Scotts are the stocks to buy. Remember this for it is only a question of little time before they have one of the biggest mines on Butte Hill opened up with possibilities of another big mine on the Rainbow lead.

Ballaklava is strong and sold up to $12.25 today. This is one of the best new mines in Butte and we strongly recommend the purchase. You will never see me have to take one step backward on this proposition. We have stood by this mine for over two years and was the first broker to advise the purchase. It is one of the big new successes owned in the Northwest.

Zenith Lead & Zinc was again strong today and closed $2.00 bid for big lots.

Butte & Superior holds strong around $2.50 and Butte is a very heavy buyer. Any new news will drive this stock up very fast.

Copper Queen should do better. It closed $1.75 bid and no stock offered to speak of.

But of all the live issues ever put on St. Mary's stock is the real one. This mine is located in the Red Warrior district and the stock went on at 30 cents. The whole country is buying it and no stock on our board has a bigger market. It is a low priced stock and speculators like to take chances on this kind of an issue. As far as the mine is concerned it has great possibilities. We can look for this property to be opened up fast. A considerable amount of ore has been shipped from pockets, but no big work has yet been done.

Calumet & Sonora closed $12.00 bid. Copper Queen $1.75 bid. Ballaklava $12.25 bid. Zenith Lead & Zinc $2 bid. St. Mary's 33 cents bid. Full paid Scott $8.87 bid, $2 paid Scott, $5.75 bid.

We will give you information on all mining properties for the asking. We are absolutely responsible. Also have the best copper stock wire in the Northwest. Give us your business. We will give you service. This is a real live office for all curb stocks.

M., June 3, 1909, for the erection and completion of a two-story and basement brick school building to be built at Marble, Itasca County, Minn., according to plans and specifications on file at the Duluth Builders' Exchange or at the office of the Architect, J. J. Wangenstein, Duluth, Minnesota.

All bids must be accompanied by a certified check for $500 payable to the order of H. A. Johnson, Treasurer, said check to be forfeited by the successful bidder in case he fails to enter into contract and furnish a satisfactory bond in an amount equal to the contract price agreed upon, within five days after the award.

The said School District reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The sealed proposals must be marked "Bid for erecting brick school building at Marble, Minn.," and addressed to the undersigned at Marble, Minnesota.

By order of School District No. 2, Itasca County, Minn.
H. C. DUDLEY, President.

ROGERS' FAMILY GETS ALL EXCEPT FAIRHAVEN GIFT

Money to Be Used for Primary and Grammar Schools.

Trust Fund of Millions Is Set Aside for Widow.

New York, May 28.—The will of the late Henry H. Rogers was filed for probate here today. The testator leaves all his property to his widow, children and relatives with the exception of $100,000 willed to the town of Fairhaven, Mass., for the use of the primary and grammar schools of that community.

The will gives to the widow the use of the New York city residence and sets aside a trust fund of $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 to provide an annuity for her of $100,000. At her death this trust fund is to be returned to the residuary estate. Mr. Rogers leaves his residence at Fairhaven, Mass., and real estate there to his son, Henry H. Rogers, Jr., various bequests ranging from $10,000 to $200,000 and altogether aggregating $650,000 are created for the benefit of Mr. Rogers' collateral relatives. The income from these trusts is to be paid to these various beneficiaries during their lives and upon their deaths the principal of the trust funds will revert to the residuary estate of the testator.

Mr. Rogers after making these bequests, divided his residuary estate into four trust funds one for the benefit of each of his children. When the children attain the age of 30 they are each to receive one-half of the principal of the trust created for their benefit, the other half is to be held in trust during the life of each child and the children are each given the power to dispose of the principal of the trust by will.

The executors of the will are Henry H. Rogers Jr., a son of the testator; John W. Sterling of New York and Walter E. Whitney of Fairhaven, Mass., and the Farmers Loan & Trust Company of New York.

LINER WITH 600 ABOARD FLOATED AFTER MANY HOURS.

New York, May 28.—The North German Lloyd steamship Prinzess Alice, which ran on the mud and rocks under the battlements of Fort Wadsworth, on the Staten Island side of the Narrows yesterday morning, was floated at 2:30 this morning by the revenue cutter Mohawk, the wrecking tug Rescuer Mohawk, the wrecking tug Rescuer and several other vessels. The Alice with its 600 passengers and baggage was towed to Stapleton, a short distance inside the narrows and there anchored.

HE HEADS THE BOOTH FISHERIES COMPANY

FRANK C. LETTS.

Chicago, May 28.—Frank C. Letts, who has been made president of the Booth Fisheries company, the new corporation that has assumed the business of the defunct concern of A. Booth & Co., has been president of the Western Grocer company for the last ten years. He has been interested in the fish business as a director of the American Pacific Fisheries of Puget Sound. Mr. Letts was born in Magnolia, Ill., in 1861, and began business life as a clerk in a store at Afton, Iowa. After several years in the dry-goods business he entered the wholesale grocery field at Marshalltown, Iowa, and established houses in Iowa, Missouri and Minnesota, which are now branches of the Western Grocer company.

MIND WANDERS IN HIS LETTER

Wife, Reading Incoherent Lines, Fears for Her Husband.

New York, May 28.—A letter bearing the postmark of Seattle has been received by Mrs. Frank S. Curtis from her husband, who disappeared from the Wayne hotel in Detroit April 27, while bound for Mackinaw, Mich.

The letter is so incoherent as to lead his wife, who lives in Cranford, N. J., to fear that his mind has failed him.

Curtis is a railroad engineer. The letter gives no address and the Seattle police have been asked to look for him.

NO WORD FROM JURY

Fear It Will Disagree in "Skinny" Madden's Case Grows.

Twelve Men Out All Night and Make No Sign.

Chicago, May 28.—Fear of a disagreement of the jury considering the fate of Madden, Boyle and Pouchot, the labor leaders charged with "grafting," was enhanced when court opened today and the jury was unprepared to report.

The twelve men retired yesterday afternoon and many friends of the defendants spent the night in the vicinity of the criminal court building to catch any fragment of information which might leak from the jury room.

So rigorously was Judge McSurely's order that no one be allowed in the building over night carried out that the early morning squad of scrub women lost an hour trying to show they were not in contempt of court.

The trial of Madden and his associates in the building trades unions began May 10. More than a week was taken up in securing a jury. The course of the trial has been marked by repeated rumors of attempts to influence the jury, and at one stage Judge

MURDER IS VERDICT

Coroner Says Ketterling's Body Was Placed on Tracks.

Mother and Police Chief Received Black Hand Letters.

Hamilton, Ohio, May 28.—Coroner Burnett, who has been investigating the death of Arthur Ketterling of Cincinnati, a student at the Miami university normal school at Oxford, Ohio, whose mangled body was found recently along the railroad track near Oxford, returned a verdict today that Ketterling had been murdered and the corpse placed on the track. The motive and identity of the murderers are not known, according to the verdict.

Following the tragedy Mrs. Amelia Ketterling, mother of the dead student and Chief of Police Milliken of Cincinnati, and Coroner Burnett received letters threatening death if they did not drop the investigation. The letters were signed "Black Hand."

DULUTH COMPANY MAKES PROTEST

Stone-Ordean-Wells Firm Complains of Rate Charges.

Washington, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Stone-Ordean-Wells company, engaged in the wholesale grocery business in Duluth, today filed with the interstate commerce commission a complaint against the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington and the Baltimore & Ohio railroads, and the Mutual Transit company, alleging unjust and unreasonable rate charges. It appears, according to the complaint, that there were received two carloads of canned tomatoes shipped by a Maryland canner, upon which the consignee claims a rate of 28 cents per 100 should have been assessed, instead of 73½ cents per 100 as collected.

The Duluth complainants demand reparation from the railway and transit companies in the sum of $72 with interest from Feb. 18, 1909, and further ask relief to prevent repetition of the alleged unreasonable rates on future shipments.

EDUCATION DISCUSSED AT RAILROAD Y. M. C. A. MEET.

St. Louis, Mo., May 28.—Three meetings were scheduled for today's session of the thirteenth annual conference of the railroad departments of the Y. M. C. A. The gatherings were held in the Odeon theater and the seating capacity of the hall was taxed. C. R. Gray, vice president of the Frisco system discussed: "Education and Its Relation to Modern Railroading." Others on the program were: Rev. W. Alexander, Charles R. Towson, Rev. Robert Freeman, George B. Hodge. General discussion of religious work among railroad men was opened by Fred B. Smith, New York, a member of the international committee. Tonight W. A. Garrett, president of the Seaboard Air line will speak on the great need for railroad efficiency.

DEATH'S SUMMONS COMES TO CHIEF JOHN T. BLACK OF DULUTH FIRE DEPARTMENT

JOHN T. BLACK.

Fatal Illness Followed Injury Sustained in Run to Fire.

Had Been Head of Local Department for Fifteen Years.

Prominent in Masonry—Had National Reputation as Fire Fighter.

John T. Black, chief of the Duluth fire department for the past fifteen years, died at 10:54 o'clock this morning, at St. Luke's hospital, of septic poisoning, following an operation for appendicitis.

He was 59 years of age, and is survived by a widow, four daughters, two sons, a brother and a sister, all of whom were at his bedside at the time of death, with the exception of the brother and sister.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made but it is expected the services will be held on Monday, and doubtless they will be in charge of the Masons. The deceased was a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason, and was grand captain general in the grand commandery of the Knights Templar. Formerly he was captain of the Shriners patrol, but did not hold that position at the time of his death. He was an active worker in everything pertaining to the order in Duluth.

Mr. Black had a national reputation as a fire chief. He was recognized as one of the most efficient and capable fire department heads in the United States, and has had several opportunities to leave the Duluth department and go elsewhere, at an attractive sal-

DENY THE TRUST CONTROLS THEM

Minnesota and Wisconsin Sugar Companies Enter Protest.

Washington, May 28.—There was a flood of protests by sugar refining companies in the senate today against a charge that they are controlled by the American Sugar Refining company.

Such documents were presented from the American Beet Sugar company by Senator Burkett, from the Carver Sugar company of Chaska, Minn., by Senator Clapp; from the Wisconsin Sugar company of Milwaukee, by LaFollette, from the Union Sugar company, the Pacific Sugar corporation of Los Angeles county, Cal., the Los Alamitor Sugar company of Orange county, Cal., and the Sacramento Valley Sugar company by Senator Flint.

Farmers of Utah and of Michigan also were largely represented in petitions presented by Senators Sutherland and William Alden Smith, praying against any reductions in the sugar duties provided in the pending tariff bill.

FIGHTING FIRES NEAR CASS LAKE

Cass Lake, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires in this vicinity are raging fiercely. There are fires in all directions from here.

All the government men were out all night last night battling the flames. Damage thus far has been slight, but unless rain comes soon considerable loss is feared.

TWO CONDUCTORS DROWNED IN LAKE

Perish in Lake Chanhassen Near Minneapolis By Boat Capsizing.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. G. Conley and George Gibbs of this city, both employed as conductors on the St. Paul road, were drowned in Lake Chanhassen, seventeen miles from Minneapolis, yesterday afternoon by the capsizing of their boat while fishing.

POLICE BELIEVE THEY HAVE TRAIN ROBBERS

Minneapolis Man and Two Others Captured in Omaha.

They Had Nearly Two Hundreds Rounds of Ammunition.

Omaha, Neb., May 28.—Although it was not possible to identify three men who were arrested by the South Omaha police last night as those who held up the Overland Limited on the Union Pacific railroad near the city limits last Saturday night, Chief Briggs and the Omaha police believe they have the right persons.

An inventory of the paraphernalia captured gives evidence of the preparedness of the owners for any emergency. Nearly 200 rounds of ammunition were found in addition to the three revolvers, handkerchiefs and hats. The searchlight found is of approved pattern and is nearly new. The automatic revolvers each had two loaded magazines.

Gordon and Tortinsen were brought to Omaha and the latter pointed out to the police the place he lived at 324 North Fifteenth street.

The prisoners gave the names of J. W. Woods of Minneapolis, James Gordon, of Denver and Fred Tertensen, of South Dakota. They were questioned separately about where they had first met and each had a different story to tell. One declared they had met in Minneapolis, another said they met in Council Bluffs and the third said their first meeting was in Omaha. They admitted they had not been working since they came here.

GIRL OF FOURTEEN WALKS SEVENTY MILES.

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—Ruth Lynch, a 14-year-old girl, ran away from her Saginaw home, spent her last few pennies in riding to Flint on the trolley car and then walked to Detroit, a distance of seventy miles. She went to work in a Monroe avenue house and the police were notified. She will be sent home.

SUICIDE IS SUGGESTED

Man Kills Himself After Seeing Woman End Life.

Helps Care for Body, Goes Home and Expires.

New York, May 28.—A strange mental suggestion is attributed by the coroner as the cause of two sensational suicides. Mrs. Ella Friedmann leaped to her death from the front window of her fourth story apartment in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn, presumed to have been mentally unbalanced by recent illness.

Foreman Thomas J. McCue of fire engine company 140 was passing through the street at the time, and after assisting the police in removing the woman's body to her apartments, he went to his home. Half an hour later she climbed to the roof of an apartment building seven blocks away, jumped off, and was instantly killed. McCue and Mrs. Friedmann did not know each other.

The coroner decided that Mrs. Friedmann perhaps received her inspiration from the suicide of another woman who, four years ago, killed herself by jumping from the same window, and that McCue's inspiration came from witnessing the suicide of Mrs. Friedmann.

INSANITY IS CHARGED AGAINST THE WRITER.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 28.—Charged with sending letters in which he demanded $100,000 from A. Douglass, a millionaire mining man of Bisbee, Ariz., who is living temporarily in Pasadena, Sam Leroe, alias Fred Riviera, was arrested on a ranch near Redondo and brought here. Dr. George Campbell examined Leroe here and later a complaint of insanity was issued against him.

GEORGIA TRAINS START WITH NEGRO FIREMEN

MOB KILLS PRISONER

Texans Fail to Break Jail Doors, Fire Into Cell.

Summary Punishment for Tom Barrett, Convicted of Murder.

Abilene, Tex., May 28.—The Taylor county jail in this city was stormed by a mob at 1 o'clock this morning.

Demand was made for admission and the delivery of Tom Barnett, who was recently convicted of the murder of Alexander Sears in the district court here.

Being refused admission by the jailer, the mob worked unsuccessfully for an hour to open the cell doors.

At that time, having failed to reach the victim, he was shot to death inside his cell by the attacking party.

ROLLING LOGS KILL.

Menominee, Mich., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Night Foreman E. C. McCarthy, employed by the Wisconsin Land & Lumber company was killed Wednesday night at Hermansville, Menominee county, by logs rolling on him.

He was 47 and is survived by a wife and eight children.

Engine and Mail Car Pull Out of Atlanta.

Mail Cars Also Sent From Augusta—No Demonstration.

Atlanta, Ga., May 28.—Carrying a negro fireman, the first train of any sort to run over the Georgia railroad in over five days, an engine and a mail car, left here at 7:30 this morning. The train pulled out through a deep lane of spectators at the station, but there was no demonstration.

The negro fireman on the Atlanta train bore a name distinguished in Georgia, Joseph M. Brown, which is identical with that of the governor-elect, who will take office in a few weeks. The subject of keen scrutiny, the fireman kept his eyes upon his SNAKE HIDES IN "RAT;" BITES CHILD.

Mason Valley, Nev., May 28.—The 7-year-old child of Andrew Ingman is critically ill from the bite of a small rattlesnake, which had concealed itself in a "rat" occasionally worn by an older sister of the child. The snake had entered the house and crawled into the "rat," which was lying on the floor of the closet.

POWER OF THE SENATE

Really Frames Both the Revenue and Appropriation Bills.

Tariff Bill Likely to Reach the President Next Month.

Washington, May 28.—The senate now is in the full flood of tariff debate, and the tariff bill as it will be enacted into law is being whipped into shape. This is one of the curious instances of how to use a homely expression, "the devil may be whipped around the stump." It was the evident purpose of the framers of the Constitution that the house of representatives, as the direct delegates of the people, should have the dominant influence in the collection of revenues and in the expenditure of government moneys. Hence all revenue and appropriation bills must originate in the house. They do originate in the house, and that's about all the house has to do with them, except to acquiesce in the views of the senate.

The latter today really frames both the revenue and the appropriation bills, and it is doubtful if the house will recognize the Payne tariff bill when it goes to conference.

The senate managers are wily adepts at legislation, and they will propose the bill with a view to making such concessions in conference as will leave the completed measure about as they want it.

The best opinion here is that President Taft will have an opportunity to sign the bill in June.

A number of senators, particularly Democrats, must have an opportunity to go on record as to the ruinous iniquity of the whole tariff scheme—it's about all the Democrats can do. They will take time, but there is no disposition, so far as I can see, to unduly prolong the agony, and June should see congress on its way home.

W. E. Stevens, an attorney of Chicago, who has been here on business before the departments, speaking of Japan's intention, said he was satisfied America will never have any trouble with Japan unless America starts it.

"Japan," said Mr. Stevens, "is aflame with two things—education and patriotism. I don't know of any other city in the world that is so full of schools as Tokio, and I may say that this great educational wave was started by the missionaries. What is true of Japan in that respect is true of all other countries.

"We live in the day of open door," continued Mr. Stevens, "the day of opportunity. Our country has just sent a great fleet of warships around the world. I don't know how much it cost, but I know that it was an enormous sum, and I don't know how much good it will do. I do know that we spend $100,000,000 a year for warlike enterprises, and $10,000,000 for missions. If those figures were reversed, think of the immeasurable good that would be done.

"On the way across the Pacific I visited in Hawaii. That little group of islands is not only an object lesson of what missions have done, but is an example of what can yet be done. They call it the strategic key to the Pacific in the event of war, but it is more. It is also the evangelical point of vantage from which all Asia can be conquered in the name of Christianity."

Apropos of the efforts of the temperance women to persuade Mrs. Taft not to serve wine at the official dinners at the White House, the following story concerning the late William M. Evarts is resurrected: It will be remembered that Mr. Evarts was a sort of master of ceremonies in President Hayes' administration, and when Mrs. Hayes was about to give her first dinner to the diplomatic corps, Mr. Evarts pleaded earnestly with her to serve wine, but Mrs. Hayes was immovable.

"I think," she said, the ministers will have to make up their minds to be sociable with water."

Whereupon Mr. Evarts replied: "Mrs. Hayes, I have never known people to be sociable with water—except in a bath."

Whether Mrs. Hayes was shocked or not is not written, but she carried her point, and, according to Mr. Evarts, at that historic dinner "water flowed like champagne."

Postmaster General Hitchcock has been criticised as being hard to find in his office. This is because President Taft, when he has something at the capitol that he takes a special interest in, is pretty apt to get Hitchcock to give it attention. Moreover, he postmaster general has the habit of doing a great deal of work at night. He remains at his office until all sorts of night hours, just as he used to when he was assistant postmaster general.

Representative George Franklin Huff of the Twenty-second Pennsylvania district takes pride in the fact that he was one of the immortal 306 who followed the lead of Roscoe Conkling in 1880 in his memorable effort to nominate Gen. U. S. Grant for the presidency.

Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas has the reputation of writing more personal letters to constituents than any other man in congress. When an inhabitant of the Sunflower state gets to kicking the senator takes his typewriter in hand and writes him a long, heart-to-heart epistle that soothes him and quiets him and makes him think there is nothing the matter with Curtis, no matter what's the matter with Kansas. This letter-writing habit explains in no small degree the pertinacity with which the senator retains his hold on the Kansas public.

As regards Oklahoma politics and the distribution of federal patronage, a new deal has been inaugurated by President Taft, according to John V. Saunders of Guthrie, Okla., who was here the other day. "In the matter of postoffice patronage and other minor appointments," said Mr. Saunders, "affecting a congressional district only, the Republican congressman from that district, if there is one, is given control, and appointments are made solely upon his recommendation.

"In the two Oklahoma districts now represented by Democrats, the Fourth and Fifth National Committeeman Cash Cade and State Chairman Joseph Norris make the recommendations for postoffice and other minor appointments affecting those two districts. In matters of general patronage President Taft will make the appointments upon the joint recommendation of States Chairman Joseph Norris, National Committeeman Cash Cade, Congressmen Bird McGuire, C. E. Creager and Dick T. Morgan."

Washburn Man Convicted.

Washburn, Wis., May 28.—After being out five hours, the jury in the case of the state against Charles H. Flynn, who was charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, returned a verdict of guilty. Flynn stabbed Martin Larson through the neck with a knife, inflicting a dangerous wound. Flynn was one of the best known business men in the balmy days of Washburn. He owned the Washburn brewery, and at one time controlled over half of the saloons in the city.

DULUTH DANES TO CELEBRATE

The fifth day of June is the anniversary of the granting of constitutional government to the people of Denmark, and the Danes all over the world are planning to celebrate the day with appropriate patriotic exercises.

In nearly every city in the United States where there are a large number of Danes, celebrations are held. The local lodges of the Danish Brotherhood have charge of the celebration in Duluth and they will join hands with the Superior Danes in conducting patriotic exercises.

Joint committees have been appointed to make the arrangements for a Danish jubilee, to be held in Maccabee hall, Duluth, on the evening of the fifth of June.

One feature of the observance will be a banquet, at which some of the best known Danes in the Northwest will respond to toasts. During the progress of the spread, Flaaten's orchestra will play Danish patriotic airs.

CONDEMNATION NOT NECESSARY

It is now believed that it will be necessary to carry on condemnation proceedings in securing a right-of-way for an underground conduit across the rear of lots in the East end, along Superior street.

Ross Wheeler of Minneapolis, representing the Northwestern Telephone company, of which the Duluth company is a subsidiary corporation, is in the city to confer with interested property owners, and says he is meeting with satisfactory success in securing permission of East enders to have the conduit cross their lots.

At Mr. Wheeler's suggestion the council postponed the starting of condemnation proceedings for ninety days, and from the results of his work up to the present time it looks as if such proceedings would be unnecessary.

SUICIDE WILL BE THEIR PLEA

The pleas on which the attorneys for William Schreiber will ask a new trial will be that the new evidence discovered tends to show that Frank Massapust committed suicide.

Affidavits by neighbors and friends of both Massapust and Schreiber, will be read to the court. They tell of Massapust and his strange actions just prior to the time his charred body was found after the burning of his little shack.

Canara J. Nash, a homesteader, who lives four miles from where the Massapust cabin stood, says that Massapust was visibly depressed, and had a "strange gleam in his eye' just before his death.

After the fire Nash says that both he and Mrs. O'Toole, who was one of the witnesses for the defense at the former trial, agreed that Massapust had killed himself. George Carter, another of the witnesses at the former trial claims that on the Sunday before the tragedy, he had a long visit with Massapust at his cabin. He told George Lindsay another witness that he had never seen Massapust act so strangely. He talked of death, of the fear of it, and mentioned the fact that he was not afraid to die. Carter suggested that they have a dance at the Massapust cabin. Massapust answered that by that time it would be too late for a dance at his house, or words to that effect.

At the trial Carter testified as to the Sunday in question and made no mention of the facts now stated.

If the motion for a new trial is denied, the funds raised by Rev. J. T. Moody will be used to appeal the case to the supreme court.

ASSESSMENT FOR SIXTH STREET IMPROVEMENT—
Office of the Board of Public Works.
City of Duluth, Minn., May 28, 1909.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Duluth has ordered that Sixth street in said city be graded and otherwise improved from East Cascade street to Fourteenth avenue east and that the Board of Public Works of said city will meet at their office in the City of Duluth, on Friday the Eleventh day of June A. D. 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to make an assessment of the sum of Forty Thousand, Four Hundred Eighty ($40,480) dollars and Forty (40) cents upon the real estate to be benefited by such grading and other improvements for the purpose of raising money to defray in part the cost of such improvement.

All lands situated in said city and to which benefits result from said improvement will be assessed in proportion, as near as may be, to the benefits resulting thereto from said improvement. All persons interested in said proceedings shall have the right to be present and be heard at said time and place in relation to the making of said assessment.

ROADS ACCEPT BICKNELL LAW

Agree on Form for Reports, Which Will Begin July 1.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—Minnesota railroads will observe the Bicknell law, passed by the last legislature, and report every month to the railroad commission of every shipment taken under disputed rates.

At this time compliance with the law requires a report on every shipment of grain, coal, lumber and livestock made between Minnesota points. Agreement as to the form of these reports was reached yesterday at a conference between the railroad commission and accounting officers of the roads. The uniform blank prepared by Thomas Yapp for the commission was accepted by the companies with slight modifications. There will be just two forms, one for the regular report and one for a corrected report.

The law requires reports before the 10th of each month on all shipments made in the preceding month. The railroad men convinced the state officials yesterday that it is impractical to make the report so soon, and the time was extended twenty days.

The first report will be made by the companies July 1, covering all shipments from April 25, when the law took effect, to May 31, inclusive. The report for June will be made Aug. 1 and so on.

Under the terms of the Bicknell law, if any contested rate is upheld in the courts, the railroads must refund the difference on each shipment to the railroad commission, which is to distribute the funds belonging to each shipper. In case the commodity rate law of 1907 is upheld in the federal court, there will be some heavy refunds to make. The law will make an immense amount of work for the railroads and also for the railroad commission, which is turned into a collection agency for excess freight charges.

All the principal roads were represented at the conference except the Iron Range roads and the Illinois Central, which have accepted the commodity rate law. Among the railroad officials present were H. A. Gray, controller, and William Richards, auditor of freight receipts for the Northern Pacific; F. A. Parker, auditor of freight receipts, Great Northern; J. R. Brice, freight auditor, and F. W. Root, counsel for the Milwaukee; J. O. Clifford, Northwestern; L. A. Robinson and J. H. Gordon, Omaha; A. E. Smith, Minneapolis & St. Louis; A. E. Bell, Soo, and C. G. Weaver, Rock Island.

Ten Thousand Dollars Asked From Lumber Company for Man's Death.

Washburn, Wis., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most important cases tried here in some time is on in the circuit court in which Howard West, administrator of the estate of Philip La Ponte is suing the Bayfield Mill Company for $10,000 for La Ponte's death. La Ponte was horribly mangled in a mill of the defendant and negligence is alleged.

Those who were witnesses to the man's death say that it was one of the most horrible accidents that has ever occurred in a sawmill. La Ponte was survived by a wife and two children. Attorneys H. W. Dietrich of Superior and John Jenswold of Duluth represent the plaintiffs in the action while the interests of the Surety company and the Bayfield Mill company are looked after by Attorneys Lamoreaux, Chea & Cate, and R. Sleight of Ashland.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES

The School Children Pay Tributes to Nation's Soldier Dead.

Veterans of Civil War Attend and Address the Pupils.

Duluth school children paid their tributes to the nation's soldier and sailor dead in their Memorial day programs held today.

At the high school the exercises were held this morning, and in the graded schools most of this afternoon was devoted to the observance. In nearly every building members of the Grand Army of the Republic were present to tell of the significance of Memorial day. In some schools members of the Citizens' staff were also present and spoke to the pupils.

The memorial program at Central high school began in the school auditorium this morning at 9 o'clock. Three members of the G. A. R. were present and occupied seats of honor on the platform. Of the trio W. W. Wood spoke, reciting Gordon's poem on "The First Minnesota at Gettysburg."

A delegation from the Citizens' staff was supposed to have been present, but did not put in an appearance.

The exercises opened with the singing of "The Old Brigade" by the high school chorus. Then followed "Taps," a composition by A. F. M. Custance, musical director at the school, with words by a Naval academy student. It was a solo by Miss Frances Burris, with Mr. Custance playing the accompaniment. Charles Helmer played taps on the cornet.

A quartet sang "The Recessional." The exercises concluded with the singing of "America" by the entire school.

The programs in the other schools in the city were carried out according to the synopsis given in The Herald last evening. The two which follow give the reader an excellent idea of what the school children did this afternoon:

Listen To Your Pains.

Aches and Pains Are Nature's Warnings of Trouble Ahead.

Mental and physical sickness are exactly like the breaking down of the loaded coal wagon across the car tracks. The hindered traffic represents the state of mind or body under diseased conditions. Our aches and pains are nature's warning that we have violated the laws of life and health and soon we must pay unless we heed.

Most ills can be traced directly or indirectly to the stomach or digestive tract. Eat right and it's 10 to 1 that you will be right in health, and health means wealth.

Don't load your stomach with heavy foods, such as meats and bread and potatoes in the morning. Try E-6 Corn Flakes or Egg-O-See Wheat Flakes with good milk or cream and perhaps a little fresh or stewed fruit. You'll like it—it's good—so crisp and delicious—easy to digest—ready to serve.

Children grow strong and healthy on it. Invalids find it acceptable and nourishing and busy men and women find they can do a day's work without the hindrance of a sour stomach or an aching head if they eat it. Remember it's the wonderful Egg-O-See process that makes it so good to eat and so easy to digest.

Snow Tunnel Across Business Street.

Following a heavy snow fall in Silver city, Idaho, last winter, the business streets became so filled that not only was traffic impossible, but pedestrians were unable to cross from sidewalk to sidewalk. An enterprising merchant of the town dug a tunnel so that customers could pass from his store ao the opposite side of the street. For emergencies, as well as regular use golden grain belt beer cannot be surpassed. See that your cellar is supplied with a case today. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company.

THUMB SCRATCH CAUSES DEATH

Blood Poisoning Resulted From Cut By Rusty Hoop.

A scratch on the thumb caused the death of Charles Leonard, 50 years of age, at St. Luke's hospital yesterday. The scratch came from a rusty barrel hoop and resulted in blood poisoning, which finally caused death.

The deceased was a saloon keeper at 27 East Superior street, and resided at the same number. He was a single man, and had no relatives in this country. His brother was drowned in the slip off Fifth avenue west about four years ago.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms, and interment will be at Park Hill cemetery. The Red Men's lodge of Superior will have charge of the services.

PRIEST CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Father Corbett Did Not Respond Promptly to Summons.

Rev. Timothy Corbett, pastor of the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart, appeared in Judge Dibell's courtroom late yesterday afternoon to give his reasons for neglecting to obey a subpoena which had been served on him in connection with the damage suit of Gust Lindberg against the City of Duluth.

Emma Benda, a witness, had testified to a pertinent point in the case as having occurred while she was on her way to school Dec. 31, 1908. The plaintiff's attorney did not believe there had been any school on that day, and a subpoena was issued for Father Corbett to appear as a witness and testify on that point.

His failure to appear at the proper time aroused the judicial ire of Judge Dibell, and a bench warrant was issued and placed in the hands of a deputy sheriff for service. Father Corbett appeared during the afternoon.

Father Corbett testified that there had been no school on that day. He was then ordered to remain and answer to a charge of contempt of court. After the Lindberg case had gone to the jury, and other court business was disposed of, the priest was asked why he had refused to come.

"I did not refuse to come," said Father Corbett, "I told the lawyer to get some one else and I did not see the importance of my presence. I was attending to spiritual matters."

"You will see the importance hereafter of such things, do you think?" asked the court.

"I am sure I will," was the priest's reply, and he was let off with a light reprimand and a caution to be more careful in the future.

TOWN MYSTIFIED BY MANY GIFTS

No Clew to Sender or the Reason Is Formed.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 28.—The town of Panora, Iowa, is destined to become one of the most popular places in the United States if the epidemic of mysterious letters containing money for residents of the little city continues. Within the last few months three persons in Panora have received anonymous letters containing an aggregate of $1,000 and in every case the sender of the money is unknown. Neither does any of the three fortunate recipients know to what they are indebted for the windfall.

Dr. Amelia Pigner is the latest beneficiary. Last week a bank draft for $500 came to her in a plain envelope, postmarked Des Moines. There was no writing inside to indicate who the sender might be or for what purpose it was sent. Dr. Pigner is as much puzzled over the affair as the other two.

Farmer First to Profit.

Joseph Roberts, a retired farmer, was the first to benefit from the mysterious distribution of cash. He received a letter from the state of Oregon containing $250 in greenbacks, unaccompanied by a single scrap of writing to identify it. This was about two months ago, but Mr. Roberts knows no more about where the money came from now than he did then.

The second gift was sent from Des Moines. One day Mrs. Viola Lapegitt, a widow, received a letter which she opened and was astonished to find it contained $225 in bills wrapped in a piece of white paper. On the paper was written the two words: "Your friend."

The lucky widow says she has never seen the handwriting before or since, but she is willing to believe the writer a "friend."

Not one of the three persons so strangely enriched has been able to advance a theory for the good fortune.

No Clew to Sender.

If it is conscience money they cannot understand the cause of such troubled consciences. They also point out that if the letters were prompted by a desire to make retribution the sender would have taken more pains to make his identity known. It is generally believed that all three letters were sent by the same person.

The postoffice inspectors in Des Moines have been notified of the strange affair, but are making no effort to unravel the mystery. They say it is no crime to send anonymous letters containing money through the mails, and they will not make an investigation until the statutes of the United States are violated.

Meanwhile everybody in Panora goes to the postoffice as soon as the mails come in.

EX-COUNTY AUDITOR OF BLUE EARTH DEAD.

Mankato, Minn., May 28.—Word has been received of the death at Ventura, Cal., of Amos Dudley Seward, a former county auditor of this county, and one of the best known of the early residents. He was the oldest man in Ventura county, and probably the oldest Mason in California. He was born in Oenida county, N. Y., April 19, 1815, and was a lineal descendant from Dudley, husband of Lady Jane Grey, who was beheaded for aiding his wife in her efforts to gain the English throne.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

NOTED ONES ARE PRESENT

Methodist Sunday School Conference Is Being Held at Fargo.

Delegates From Both Dakotas and From Minnesota on Hand.

Fargo, N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo is entertaining one of the seven big Sunday school conferences of the national Methodist church. These are being held at widely separated points over the United States.

Many prominent officials of the national organization and Sunday school workers of great reputation are in attendance. Rev. Charles A Macnamara, Sunday school superintendent for the Methodist church in this state, has had charge of the local arrangements, and delegates are in attendance from both the Dakotas and Minnesota. There was a mass meeting last evening at which the delegates became acquainted, and the program began this morning. Among the speakers were Rev. Dr. Downey and Rev. Dr. Blake, the corresponding secretary and his assistant of the national organization, and Mrs. Lamcreaux of Chicago.

There will be a reunion and banquet June 8 of the alumni of the North Dakota agricultural college. Many of the graduates have made quite a reputation since their college days and there will be addresses by the more prominent of these.

DAMAGING FIRE VISITS AKELEY

Five Residences and Several Places of Business Are Destroyed.

Akeley, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out in the rear end of the old Schwertz livery and sale stable early yesterday morning and before the firemen could reach the place it was beyond their control, burning nine buildings in all.

The burned buildings were two livery barns, laundry, the old Golden Rule store building, that was occupied by Lee's bowling alley and confectionery store on the first floor and the second floor was used as living rooms, and five residences. The fire gained such rapid headway that the occupants were unable to save hardly any of their furniture. Only a few carried insurance. The horses in the feed stable were burned and also the buggies and harnesses. It looked for a while as if the whole business part of town would go and part of the residences, but Daniels' butcher shop across the street from the livery barn is covered with tin and this gave the firemen the advantage of the flames and stopped it from crossing the street.

Jack Inglebretchen was seriously burned on the face and hands and Oscar Johnson was badly burned. Owing to the scarcity of houses the homeless families will have to be sheltered at the hotels until their own houses can be rebuilt.

The loss will aggregate $50,000.

CUYLER ADAMS HAS SOLD LAND

Property East of Townsite of Deerwood Has Changed Hands.

Deerwood, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cuyler Adams has sold the land on the east of the present townsite of Deerwood, which he contemplated platting, to the Cuyuna Range Townsite company, which will handle all the townsites on the line of the proposed Cuyuna Range railroad.

L. Knudson of Brainerd commenced the work of platting the addition to Deerwood Thursday morning. He expects that the work will take about a week to complete.

The Deerwood Telephone company has a crew of men at work on the line from here to Cuyuna and expects to have it in operation within the next two weeks. The company will have its local exchange in Cuyuna in shape for business by the last of this week or the first of next.

LESS WHEAT ACREAGE.

Twenty-Five Per Cent Short in Ramsey County, N. D., This Year.

Devils Lake, N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A man who has made a careful observation of conditions in Ramsey county and whose judgment is good, estimates that the decrease in the wheat acreage in this county will be at least 25 per cent this year on account of the late spring, which has made it impossible for farmers to get the grain in.

TACKLES A BEEFSTEAK.

Eccentric Minneapolis Millionaire Doing So Well He Eats Meat.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—Smiling and happy, with eyes bright and ambition not one whit curbed by his experience with disease, Levi M. Stewart awoke from a six-hour sleep yesterday morning and ordered a hearty breakfast.

His attendant called Dr. J. P. O'Brien, his physician, who gave his permission, and the dean of Hennepin avenue enjoyed one of the best meals he has had since he adopted the simple life of which it is hinted he was the originator. A juicy steak formed the main portion of the repast.

Mr. Stewart is gaining in strength and there is every hope for a speedy recovery. This is all the more remarkable when it is considered that in the two operations that were necessary over six quarts of fluid were drawn off from the lung cavity. The lungs are now expanding and the more healthy condition looked for appears to have arrived.

WOULD CURB SPECULATION.

Tri-State Grain Growers' Meet at Fargo Plans Important Work.

Fargo, N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A great tri-state mass meeting of grain growers is to be held here June 9 and 10. The purpose of the meeting is to inaugurate a campaign to stop speculation and gambling in grain by keeping the grain away from professional speculators and gamblers.

A movement of this kind is already well under way in the Southern winter wheat growing states. Pooling the sale of grain and terminal elevators and other facilities owned and controlled by the farmers themselves are a part of their plan.

The meeting will be addressed by United States Senators P. J. McCumber and M. N Johnson, President Worst of the North Dakota Agricultural college, Profs. J. G. Aatland and A. G. Arnold of the same college, Prof. M. J. Abbey of Mayville N. D., R. H. Aldrich, secretary Minnesota State union, A. S. of E.; C. O. Drayton, national president of the American Society of Equity; Prof. J. C Coulter of the University of Minnesota; Theodore O. Nelson, president National Grain Growers' association, and others. A grand farmers' parade will also be a part of the program. It is expected that every grain shipping point in Minnesota, North and South Dakota will be well represented.

CRUEL FARMER IS FINED.

Mille Lacs County Man Muleted for Ill Treating Domestic Animals.

Princeton, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—John W. Anderson was arrested at his farm, in the town of Milo, early in the week by Sheriff Shockley upon a warrant charging cruelty to domestic animals. The complaint was signed by Gust Stark, who lives in the same neighborhood as Anderson. M. E. Northway and Nels Anderson also expressed a willingness to attach their names to the complaint, but this was unnecessary.

Anderson was arraigned before Justice Dickey and, after the reading of the complaint to him, pleaded guilty to the charge and promised to treat his animals in a more humane manner hereafter. Justice Dickey imposed a fine of $5 and costs.

NEW GAME LAW BENEFITS.

More Wild Water Fowl Are Nesting in North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new game law, which has stopped spring shooting, is said to be the cause of many thousands of ducks nesting in this state that have not done so before for many years. In all the lakes and ponds in the northern part of the state and in the Mouse river thousands of ducks are nesting this spring, giving promise of great fall shooting.

EX-INDIANA POLITICIAN IS DEAD AT FARGO, N. D.

Fargo N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A stroke of apoplexy proved fatal to E. H. O'Neall, vice president of the North Dakota Metal Culvert company. He was stricken three weeks ago. Prior to coming here, a few weeks ago, the deceased was in business in Indiana and was also a prominent political factor in Hoosierdom for some years.

HANCOCK REPUBLICANS HAVE FORMED A CLUB.

Hancock, Mich., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hancock Republican club has been organized with the following officers: Alex Stevenson, president; W. H. Mason, vice president; Charles P. McAskill, secretary; Webster Dock, treasurer, and four vice presidents, one for each ward, to act in connection with the regular ward committee of the Republican organization. These are: First ward, R. M. Goldsworthy; Second ward, Henry L. Bear; Third ward, Charles F. McAskill, Fourth ward Jay Lanctot.

A committee on constitution and by-laws was appointed, consisting of George C. Bentley, W. Frank James, Webster Dock and Charles O. Olivier. When they have completed their work and are ready to report, another meeting of the club will be called. For the present the meetings of the club will take place in the city hall.

Delaware Mine Postmaster.

Delaware Mine, Mich., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The United States civil service commission will hold an examination at Manlan, Mich., June 19 to fill the position of fourth class postmaster at Delaware Mine, Mich. The compensation of the office last year was $43. Applicants for the office must reside in the territory supplied by the Delaware office.

CLAIRVOYANT CONVICTED.

New Ulm, Minn., May 28.—Josephine Carmody, a clairvoyant, who flimflammed Ida Taylor out of $200 in a fortune telling seance in this city some weeks ago, was today found guilty of grand larceny in the second degree. Cornelius Carmody, her husband, is now being tried for receiving stolen money.

ARRESTED AT PENITENTIARY.

Stillwater, Minn., May 28.—Tadeucz Skwiercz, sentenced from Hennepin county for forgery, finished his term of a year and a month in state's prison yesterday and was arrested at the door for the alleged theft of $900 from the American Butter & Cheese company at Detroit, Mich. All the papers were ready and he will be taken to Detroit at once.

Duluthian's Barns Burn.

Brainerd, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two frame barns on a farm belonfig to the late John H. Nevers, west of this city, but now belonging to A. F. Gross of Duluth, were destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon. One of them was filled with hay belonging to D. A. Robison. The loss on buildings will be about $200 and there is no insurance. The fire is thought to have been the work of boys.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Negaunee—The board of education has started a crew at work clearing the grounds surrounding the high school building. The approaches to the north entrance are being put in and the concrete work in the east and west entrances is being completed.

Ishpeming—William Trebilcock has taken a contract for the erection of a concrete block dwelling for George Wanek, at the corner of Second and Empire streets. The building will be 32 by 29 feet, and will contain basement, eight rooms, bath, fireplace, steam heat and other modern conveniences.

Marquette—Fishermen report that the suckers are now going from the lake into the streams in countless numbers to spawn. Some of the streams near their mouths, are said to be fairly black with them.

Calumet—The decorating of the remodeled pavilion at Electric park is about completed and Manager Mayotte said that the park would be ready in good time for the opening June 6. There will be free dances Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights, excepting when engaged for private parties on Saturday night.

Manistique—The Elks of Manistique propose erecting a temple the coming summer. The plans have been drawn. They show that, architecturally, the building will be an ornament to the town, and that in its appointments and its clubroom features it will furnish the lodge an admirable home.

Calumet—Attorney John Saari of Sparta, Minn., is visiting here. Mr. Saari expects to enter into a law partnership with Attorney O. J. Larson shortly. He is an ex-member of the Minnesota house of representatives.

Hancock—At a meeting of the directors of the First National Bank of Hancock Wednesday a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent was declared, payable June 5 to stockholders of record June 1.

Houghton—State Deputy Game and Forest Warden John Gipp has posted upwards of 100 printed notices throughout the woods of Houghton, Keweenaw and other counties in his territory, calling the attention of hunters, fishermen and others to the requirement of the law that all camp fires must be carefully extinguished.

Calumet—Rev. Anthony Zuvich, pastor of St. John's Croatian church, through his attorneys, Galbraith & McCormick, has started suit for libel, claiming $10,000 damages from Matija Sojat, editor of the Croatian Worker, a local publication, issued in Red Jacket.

Hancock—The Funkey Plumbing & Heating company will complete this week work on Hubbell's new water system. The company has laid three miles of mains for the village, has connected up its artesian wells, and laid a pipe to the reservoir upon the hillside, from which the water is to be fed by gravity, and there remain but a few finishing touches.

Houghton—An effort is to be made by Portage township officials to interest the farmers in road-making, thus removing considerable work from the board and officers as well. This is the outcome of numerous petitions for new roads and an attempt to familiarize the farmers with devices for this purpose will soon be made.

Hancock—B. R. Wright, an old and experienced piano salesman of Duluth, has taken a position with Grinnell Bros. He will make his headquarters with his brother, W. W. Wright, representative of the Singer company at Calumet.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Devils Lake, N. D.—The third annual meeting of the independent telephone companies of this state will be held at Devils Lake on June 9 and 10. The first two annual meetings were held in Fargo.

Fargo, N. D.—Miss Ellen Fristad won the silver medal in the declamation contest at the First Norwegian Lutheran church under the auspices of the Scandinavian W. C. T. U. There were six contestants, as follows: Sophia Anderson, Martha Olson, Oletta Gudin, Freda Aas, Eunda Fossom and Helen Fristad.

Grand Forks, N .D.—At a meeting of the Baptist church board Tuesday John F. Rempfer, East Grand Forks; John Hewetson and R. B. Griffith were elected deacons to fill vacancies. The following delegates were elected to the Northern Baptist conference to be held in Portland, Or., June 25: Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Griffith, Miss Nellie Aldrich and Rev. F. E. E. Miller.

Oakes, N. D.—Robbers made an unsuccessful attempt to enter the First National bank at this place Monday night. The night policeman discovered the attempt to loot the bank and fired two shots at a robber, as he was attempting to escape on a horse. Neither shot took effect.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

St. Cloud—Two hundred and eight students will graduate from the state normal school in St. Cloud at the commencement exercises to be held at the Davidson opera house on Wednesday morning, June 2. The number of graduates is the largest in the history of the school.

Brainerd—Justus Sewell, residing about eight miles south of Brainerd, died Sunday of pneumonia. The funeral was held at the First Baptist church in this city this morning, Rev. Abramson officiating. Interment was at the cemetery near his residence south of the city. The deceased was 57 years of age and leaves a family.

Rochester—August Brehmer of Haverhill, accused of shooting at his housekeeper, Mrs. Alfarata Depew, was bound over by Justice Schacht to await the action of the grand jury.

Isanti—The Big Woods telephone line has been conected with the Isanti exchange of the Northwestern company, giving connection with the following farm residences: Fred Carlson, Jonas Clarin, Eric Ellingson, Eric Lundgren, Charles Lundgren, Rudolph Mickgren, Charles Nordin, Ell Norell, Dan Olson, Ludwigh Olson, Mrs. Oost, Isaac Peterson, Theodora Sullivan.

North Branch—Work was begun this week tearing down part of the M. E. church preparatory to beginning the erection of the new edifice. Rev. Mr. Parish has plans for the new church already drawn up and is confident that the new building will be ready for occupancy by next fall.

St. Cloud—Sixty-three students will graduate from St. John's university at the commencement exercises to be held on Wednesday and Thursday, June 16 and 17.

Stillwater—Ernest Paul Nelson of St. Paul and Miss Olga Josephine Johnson of St. Croix Falls, Wis., secured a marriage license in this city Wednesday afternoon and were united in marriage by Judge A. E. Doe of the probate court.

Crookston—A Farmers' Institute is to be held at Crookston on Thursday, June 17, commencing at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Prof. William Robertson of the Crookston School of Agriculture will be in charge of the Institute, and will be assisted by Mrs. Ida E. Tilson of West Salem, Wis.; O. A. Storvick of the dairy and food department, and Supt. L. P. Harrington of Crookston.

Little Falls—A. E. Streed, who is employed at Duluth, came down Wednesday to attend the wedding of his sister, Esther Marie Streed, to Fred Johnson.

Stillwater—The board of education decided to install its new manual training department for grades of the public schools in the Central building. Equipment will be provided during the summer season. Some classes will be transferred from the Central to the Nelson school on account of having the manual training rooms in the former named building.

Minneapolis—The permit for the erection of the Gaiety theater at Washington and First avenues north, to cost $100,000, was issued by City Building Inspector John G. Houghton Wednesday. Work will now be pushed as fast as possible and the National Amusement company, which owns the theater, expects to have it completed by Sept. 1, or soon after.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Marinette—Upon an indictment of ten counts returned by the grand jury now sitting in Marinette county, ex-Sheriff Thomas Brown was arrested Wednesday morning and arraigned before Judge Hastings in circuit court. He was released on $1,000 bonds.

Item Welcomed By Many Men

This recipe can be filled at home, so that no one need know of another's troubles, as the ingredients can be obtained separately at any well stocked drug store. They are in regular use and many different prescriptions are constantly being filled with them.

This will prove a welcome bit of information for all those who are overworked, gloomy, despondent, nervous and have trembling limbs, heart palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing, and general inability to act naturally and rationally as others do, because the treatment can be prepared secretly at home and taken without any one's knowledge.

Overworked office men and the many victims of society's late hours and dissipation will, it is said find the restorative they are in need of.

If the reader decides to try it, get three ounces of ordinary syrup sarsaparilla compound and one ounce compound fluid balmwort, mix and let stand two hours, then get one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom), mix all together, shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring.

A certain well-known medical expert asserts that thousands of men and many women are sufferers all because of dormant circulation of the blood and a consequential impairment of the nervous force, which begets the most dreadful symptoms and untold misery.

IDAHO MAN WANTS WIFE

Lonesome Western Miner Asks Mayor Haven for Assistance.

Offers "Material Reward" If Executive's Efforts Are Successful.

The fame of Duluth as a matrimonial center has reached the Far West. Mayor Haven this morning received a letter from a miner at Ferrell Idaho, a mining camp, asking his assistance in getting a wife for the Westerner.

"I will see that you are materially rewarded if you find me one," says the youth. Thus it will be seen that the matter is being Mrs. Fergy of the municipal office, and Rev. J. T. Moody of the Bethel, one latter as conductor of a matrimonial agency, for he stands a chance of getting cash payment for his services where the others did not.

The lonesome bachelor describes himself as being 29 years old, with brown eyes and brown hair, and 5 feet 8 inches tall. He says he is considered very well-to-do and can support a wife comfortably and then have a margin of cash left over for a rainy day.

There are few unmarried women at Ferrell, he says and he hasn't either the opportunity or the inclination to court them. Frankly, he doesn't like Western women. He has heard of the beauty and worth of Duluth girls and is very anxious to get a wife from this city. A widow will do in an emergency, but she must be younger than he is.

The miner doesn't say whether he is good looking or not but is willing to exchange photographs, and even offers to return any photographs sent him, after he has had a look provided the owners so desire.

The Westerner writes a very nice letter, in a neat and business-like hand. From his writing one might say that he was a good chance. Evidently he is a person of some education.

"Any girl or woman looking for a good husband, in a live mining camp, had better let me put her in communication with him soon," said Mayor Haven this morning. "I do not think it would be well to publish his name."

Whether withholding the name is due to consideration of the man's feelings a desire to chat with some of the would-be brides, because of the "material reward" the mayor did not say.

GET MARRIED THE FIRST THING

Were Waiting for the Clerk When Courthouse Opened.

Bright and early this morning Louis E. Strom and Agnes Johnson were on hand at the courthouse.

Their mission there was, first of all, to obtain a marriage license and secondly, to get married. They did both as soon as the county clerk's office opened for business, and Judge Middlecoff was summoned from his home in double-quick time to tie the knot.

It was the earliest marriage at the courthouse in many a day. How long the couple waited for the building to open is not known.

The judge asked them out to breakfast, but they were in a hurry and declined, with thanks.

BREWERS AND LABOR MEN END DIFFICULTIES.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 28.—The Milwaukee Brewers' association and representatives of the building trades section of the Federated Trades council came to an understanding today whereby the strike was called off by the signing of a collective agreement.

It is said to be the first instance in the United States that the collective agreement idea brought about. The action taken precludes any possibility of a general strike of 5,000 brewery employes.

Sunday School Work Reviewed.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 28.—The United Presbyterian general assembly today took up the discussion of departmental and committee reports. The review of the republication and Sunday school work was especially comprehensive. A reception followed.

RAILROAD NEWS

ONLY WHAT IT PAID FOR

Railroad Not Entitled to Property Out to Dock Line.

Owns Its 200-Foot Right-of-Way and No More.

Because a railway condemns a right-of-way, and it happens at different points to touch the banks of a river, does not mean that it owns 1200 feet out to the dock line, according to a decision handed down today by Judge Cant in the Torrens proceedings brought by the Northern Pacific Railroad company agai nsthe La Rue Investment company.

The land in dispute lies on the St. Louis river and touches on the right-of-way of the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

The land was originally the property of the old Lake Superior & Mississippi railroad and was deeded to the Northern Pacific.

At different points along the river the right-of-way of the company comes to the edge of the water, and the company claimed that where this was the case it was entitled to the land out to the dock line, which would be in places, 1,200 feet. Judge Cant held that the company was entitled to the 200 feet bought or condemned and no more.

The decision is interesting because the frontage on the river is becoming more and more valuable. All other dock property about the bay front is now held at a stiff figure and river frontage is much in demand.

Stop at Moose Lake.

Northern Pacific officials announce that, beginning yesterday, the Northern Pacific train that leaves Duluth daily at 1:55 p. m. will stop at Moose Lake. Many requests have been made in the past to have this train make the stop at Moose Lake. The officials of the road could not see where they could get the extra time to allow of the stop. The placing in service of the Atlantic type of engines, which are the fastest engines in use on the Northern Pacific system, has made it possible to make the stop at Moose Lake.

Offices to Close.

City ticket offices of all lines will be closed Monday at 1 o'clock. City freight offices of all lines will be closed all day Monday for outgoing freight, but perishable freight will be delivered in the morning.

The closing of the railroad ticket offices is in observation of Memorial day.

Mrs. Teasdale Dies.

Word was received here today of the death in St. Paul this morning of Mrs. Thomas Teasdale, wife of Thomas Teasdale, general passenger agent of the Omaha railroad. Mr. Teasdale is known to many of the business men of this city, as well as the railroad men, through her many trips to the Head of the Lakes. Mrs Teasdale had been ill some time with heart trouble.

ON A CHARGE OF BURGLARY

Police Arrest Lawrence Labuda, Believing Him Brewery Thief.

Lawrence Labuda of 604 East Tenth street was arrested this morning upon suspicion of having had something to do with the burglary at Fitger's brewery Tuesday night.

Thieves gained access to the brewery saloon through a rear window, and besides $94 in cash, made their escape with several bottles of choice liquor and several boxes of cigars. In the money was a $5 check, which had been cashed by Patrick Duffy during the day at the bar.

It is claimed that Labuda cashed this check in a Bowery second-hand store Wednesday, indicating, the police believe, that he had something to do with the burglary.

Labuda was an employe of the brewery up to two weeks ago.

TO ARGUE THE TELEPHONE CASE

The case of the Tri-State Telephone & Telegraph company against the Zenith City Telephone company to force the latter company to hold another annual election of officers, so that the present officers may be ousted, will be on at the special term of district court to be held Saturday.

Both sides have agreed to waive a jury trial and have the technical points thrashed out in a court proceeding.

The Zenith company some time ago held their annual meeting and elected the old officers for the coming year. The Tri-state people who own considerable stock in the Zenith concern claim that the meeting was not legal. This point they hope to prove and force the company to hold another election.

CONGRATULATES COUNSEL WHO GOT INDICTMENTS.

Washington, May 28.—Attorney General Wickersham today sent a telegram of congratulation to United States Attorney Gregg and Special Assistant Lush at Tulsa, Okla., upon their success "under adverse conditions" in securing indictments against Governor Haskell and others charged with fraud in the Muskogee town lot cases.

The attorney general said that the government's counsel was deserving of great credit for the ability with which they have handled a very trying situation.

STEEL WORKERS GET WELL FILLED PAY ENVELOPES.

BABY'S TERRIBLE WATERY ECZEMA

Itching Humor Broke Out on Tiny Mite's Cheeks—Would Tear His Face Till Blood Streamed Down Unless Hands were Bandaged—Spent $50 on Useless Treatments.

CURED BY CUTICURA AT COST OF BUT $1.50

"When my little boy was two and a half months old he broke out on both cheeks with eczema. It was the itchy, watery kind and we had to keep his little hands wrapped up all the time, and if he would happen to get them uncovered he would claw his face till the blood streamed down on his clothing. We called in a physician at once, but he gave an ointment which was so severe that my babe would scream when it was put on. We changed doctors and medicines until we had spent fifty dollars or more and baby was getting worse. I was so worn out watching and caring for him night and day that I almost felt sure the disease was incurable. But finally reading of the good results of the Cuticura Remedies, I determined to try them. I can truthfully say I was more than surprised, for I bought only a dollar and a half's worth of the Cuticura Remedies (Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills), and they did more good than all my doctors' medicines I had tried, and in fact entirely cured him. I will send you a photograph taken when he was fifteen months old and you can see his face is perfectly clear of the least spot or scar of anything. If I ever have this trouble again, I will never think of doctoring but will send for the Cuticura Remedies at once. As it is, I would never think of using any other than Cuticura Soap for my babe. You are at liberty to publish this, it may help some distressed mother as I was helped. Mrs. W. M. Comerer, Burnt Cabins, Pa. Sept. 15, 1908."

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), Resolvent (50c.), and Chocolate Coated Pills (25c.), are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27, Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5, Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; South Africa, Lennon, Ltd., Cape Town, Natal, etc.; Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Ave., Boston.

SALOONS NOT FORCED TO CLOSE

Memorial Day Will Be "Wet" in Duluth This Year.

While the law provides that saloons shall be closed on Memorial day, they will not have to close next Monday, which will be generally observed as Memorial day, because May 30, on which the observance of the day falls, is Sunday.

The law calling for the saloons to close Memorial day specifies May 30 as that day. Postponing the observance of the day to May 31 does not postpone the day itself, and therefore there is nothing in the law which could compel the grog shops to close next Monday.

Mayor Haven will call upon the saloons of the city, however, as a matter of courtesy, to close their front doors during the parade, and it is believed they will comply with this request.

CREDIT GIVEN

To Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a Thorough Cure in a Stubborn Case of Sciatica.

A really remarkable cure of sciatica by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is that of Mr. William H. Shine, of No. 2111 22nd avenue, South, Minneapolis, Minn. Mr. Shine is employed by the Flour City Ornamental Iron Works and is a member and Chief Forester of Camp 4784, Modern Woodmen of America. During the Sioux campaign in which Sitting Bull was killed, Mr. Shine was a member of Troop K, Sixth U. S. Cavalry. Mr. Shine has lived in Minneapolis for twenty-five years. In telling recently of his cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, he says:

"About five years ago I was engaged in work which required heavy lifting and I think this may possibly have been the cause of the sciatica in my case. For three months I was confined to bed and was sick altogether for about two years and a half. I was on crutches for about seven months. There were sharp, cutting pains from my back down to my heel. It was very painful for me to get up after I had been sitting down for a while. The cords of my foot and heel seemed to draw together. The muscles of my legs had to be rubbed before I could sleep. My feet were swollen so that I had to wear shoes much too large for me and I could hardly hobble along.

"I was treated by two doctors and each pronounced my case sciatica. Neither doctor helped me much. The last doctor gave me electric treatments three times a week for at least three months. After finding that this did not help me to any extent, I took vapor baths for about the same length of time. I followed this with sulphur baths for five weeks but nothing seemed to help me. I then began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as a friend said they had helped him. When I began taking the pills I was unable to work and was walking with a cane. After a fair treatment I began to feel results from the pills. I continued using the pills until they effected a complete cure. I wish by this statement to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills credit for my cure."

Sciatica is neuralgia of the sciatic nerve and this remedy has cured stubborn cases of neuralgia in many forms.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

BUSINESS STIMULUS

Given By the Reports From Steel and Coal Regions.

Very Few Coke Ovens Are Now Left in Idleness.

New York, May 28.—The two dominant factors in the increase of the week's business were the fine reports of better business in the steel, iron, coke and coal regions and the run of good news from our crops.

All other branches of business responded well to the stimulus of these two important classes of the country's work.

Telegrams from Connellsville, Pa., report another 1,000 coke ovens lighted and in full operation, leaving but very few ovens of the 20,000 under control of the H. C. Frick Coke company that were not in operation.

This information was accompanied by the most encouraging statements as to the amount of orders for material of all kinds which were pouring into the mills, furnaces, shops and factories engaged in supplying the railways, mines and the machinery men with their output.

The quickening and broadening in the demand extended to nearly every class of iron and steel products.

In Great Demand.

Finished steel, structural iron and steel, rails, bars, rods, wire, all were wanted for present and future use, and for the first time in two years there arose discussions as to the time of delivery in some articles. The railways are placing good-sized orders for rails; for instance, the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie took 10,000 tons, the Northern Pacific ordered 5,000 tons, while the Chicago & Alton is soon to be in the market for 10,000 tons, and the Gould roads are said to be figuring upon an order for 50,000 tons.

While these railway orders have been stringing along in moderately sized lots for nearly a year now, those familiar with the railway needs recognize that large tonnages will be necessary in a very short time, and it is absolutely impossible for the railways to keep up efficiency and good service without them. Instead of 10,000 and 20,000-ton lots, it will not be six months before orders for 50,000 and 100,000 tons of rails will be placed by systems which have practiced economy to a frazzle, and now know it will be true economy to make their purchases and keep up their roads to high points of efficiency.

Aids the Companies.

The success in bond issues places the companies in financial shape once more to do this. The growing traffic at one and the same time is an incentive to do it, and compels the inauguration and completion of the work.

Not only the railways are sure to be large customers for all manner of material, but the shipbuilding interests of the Atlantic coast have every prospect of great contracts in the immediate future, as they are said to be now figuring upon the building of more than ten large steamers for various companies.

The electrical establishments report vastly increased demands for their class of work, owing to the great number of new enterprises actually commencing to construct, and it is fully apparent that the financial ease in all of the money centers is inducing promotion of water sewer prospects, street and suburban railways, new power and lighting companies, nearly all of which have to purchase electric machinery, material and supplies. This insures more demand for copper, greater demand for iron and steel and employment of thousands of additional men all along the line, from the mines where the ores and coal are outputted to the finished plants of the water power companies, and to the lines of railways in operation.

Turn of The Tide.

This week I made a run out to a manufacturing district, in an industrial city, which has felt the force of the depression to a very great degree.

I was told that merchants were able now to perceive the town in the tide of business. The first heavy pay days only enabled them to collect some of the money due them on back accounts; there was but little for their customers to spend in new purchases from the earlier pay days, after resumption of work in the mills.

Since the first of April, I was told, purchases were increasing and at the same time indebtedness was still being reduced.

This was most encouraging to the retail merchants, and they were unanimously of the opinion that trade this year would be better than ever before. They reasoned that the forced economy of the past two years had left many households in need of supplies, and when the steady stream of cash for labor was once more going into the homes of the masses of the workingmen then the households would be replenished from the local stores.

Emptied Many Houses.

Real estate men in the city informed me that in the latter part of 1907 thousands of foreign laborers left the city and the district and their departure emptied many dwellings.

They said there were no vacant places now, the population was up again to the old high-water mark, the foreigners had returned and others were coming to be employed in the resumption which was in full swing.

I take it from what I learned that this city that I speak of and the manufacturing district it is in are typical of the conditions in the manufacturing districts of the United States.

Nearly every person I met was elated over the prospects for the fall and the coming years, and the majority of them expressed the opinion, if the country has but good crops this year, it will be years of profitable business all over the United States.

No Strikes in Sight.

Throughout this district I found it well understood that manufacturers would still pay wage scales that prevailed up well with those prior to the panic, and there was a very satisfactory understanding between labor and employers.

During the month of April, 116,754 immigrants were admitted to the United States, which number was about three times the number of arrivals in April, 1908.

It would seem from this report that the immigration will soon reach the great numbers of 1906 and early 1907.

The prospects of our affairs, from those of agriculture to those requiring the highest type of skilled labor, are so very bright that our laboring people do not fear the influx at this time.

With our railway construction once in full work, our crops requiring to be gathered and our manufacturing districts in full operation, 1,000,000 more persons can readily find employment without any competition, for there will be no unemployed here next August.

Swift Selling of..... Girl's Coats!

The demand this season for children's coats is greater than in former years. The reason for this enlarged desire is on account of the reduced prices on cloth of all kinds—thereby enabling the manufacturer to sell his product much cheaper, hence you pay less money for a girl's coat than you would if you made it up yourself; and by the way, the ready-made coats fit and look a great deal better than the "home-made" garments.

Children's coats of wool cheviot, navy, brown and red —ages 3 to 6 ..... $1.98

Broadcloth coats, in all the wanted colors—ages 3 to 6— special at $2.48

DULUTH WILL GIVE ITS SHARE

Norwegians Here to Contribute Toward $1,000,000 Fund.

The Norwegian people of the United States are planning to raise a fund of $1,000,000 as a gift to Norway on the occasion of the one hundredth anniversary of the independence of that country, which will be celebrated on May 17, 1914.

That Duluth will raise its share of this fund was determined at an open meeting held last evening in Kalamazoo hall, to which all interested in the project were invited. There were several short speeches during the evening and many suggestions were advanced as to how best to use the fund for the benefit of the Norwegian common people.

There will be a national convention of the Sons of Norway held in Minneapolis during the second week in June, at which the disposition of the money raised in the United States will be decided upon. John J. Moe was elected a delegate to this convention. He will be instructed to vote in favor of leaving the disposition of the fund to the Norwegian parliament, provided that it be used for the benefit of the common people.

It was suggested last night that the money might be used for the conservation of Norwegian resources, scientific help for the farming industries and the development of the fisheries.

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md. — "For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. FORD, 1938 Lansdowne St., Baltimore, Md.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.

If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has guided thousands to health, free of charge.

CAROL SINGERS' POPULARITY IN ENGLAND.

London Standard: What is believed to be a world's record in Christmas carol collections has been made by the Grimsby Wellow Waits, who, since their formation, some twenty years ago, have handed considerably over 2,100 guineas to the Grimsby and District hospital. £267 being collected this Christmas as the result of three nights carol singing. The waits owe their existence to the happy inspiration of the late John Wintringham, a prominent solicitor who while dining with some friends on Christmas eve, twenty years ago, suggested that the party ere dispersing should visit the houses of some of his friends and having entertained them with carols, should make collection for the hospital, of which institution he was at that time chairman. Entering into the spirit of the proposal, the guests made a tour, and £9 16s 5d was the result. Each year the collection has increased, until these last two years records have been established which will take some beating. From the small house party the waits have grown to a choir of nearly 100 trained voices, recruited from the choirs of all the local places of worship.

MONEY FOR ASSESSOR

Alderman Shartel Replies to Criticism of the Council's Action.

Opinion of City Attorney and Statement By the Comptroller.

To the Editor of The Herald:

An editorial in the News Tribune of this date, entitled "In the Hands of the Council," is manifestly so unfair and so exactly opposite to the truth that it seems to me to call for a reply from some member of the council. The editorial in question claims, in short, that the council could provide $4,000 additional for the assessor's department if it desired to do so. The council has thoroughly investigated this question, and, while they were not a unit as to the necessity of this revaluation (which, by the way, is made in 1910 instead of this year, as stated by the editorial in question), referred the matter to the city attorney. His report, together with a statement from the city comptroller, is inclosed herewith, which I trust you will print in full as a complete refutation of the statement of the editor of the News Tribune. And we trust that we may be pardoned if we see fit to follow the legal advice of our city attorney, in whom we have the utmost confidence, rather than that of the editor of the News Tribune, who, from the report below, and the statement furnished by the comptroller, evidently is totally unacquainted with the provisions of our charter. Very respectfully,

JOSEPH SHARTEL,
Alderman, Fourth Ward.

Duluth, May 27.

City Attorney's Opinion.

To the Common Council of the City of Duluth—Gentlemen: Referring to your resolution requesting the city attorney to report to the council as to its power to provide additional permanent employes for the assessor's department; as to its power to cause the salaries of such employes to be paid from any other than the salary fund; and as to its power to transfer from other funds to the salary fund; I beg to call your attention, first, to the sixteenth subdivision of section 284 of the city charter. This sub-division provides that certain amounts of money may be transferred from the general fund to the salary fund for salaries of city officers and clerk hire, but the amount which may be transferred is determined at the time the tax estimate is made up.

Section 306 of the city charter forbids the borrowing or diverting for the use of any fund, money belonging to any other separate fund, except that in case there is a surplus of cash to the credit of any separate fund, three-fourths of the members of the council may by resolution authorize the said surplus cash to be invested temporarily in the purchase of the certificates of any other fund.

With the exceptions above indicated, the common council has no authority to divert or transfer money from one fund to another.

As to the power to provide for additional employes for the assessor's department, section 138 of the city charter authorizes the assessor to appoint such deputies and clerks as may be required to enable him properly to do his work. Therefore, provided that sufficient money is furnished the assessor, he needs no authority from the council to enable him to appoint deputies and clerks; and if there is sufficient money available in the salary fund, the common council has power to authorize its use for payment of subordinates in the assessor's office.

In my opinion the salary fund is the only fund from which payment for clerk hire in the assessor's office can be made. I do not believe that it could be made from the general fund under the heading "Other Disbursements Authorized by Law;" inasmuch as the tenth sub-division of section 284 specifically provides that the salary fund shall pay for clerk hire. Respectfully yours,

C. W. WILSON,
City Attorney.

Statement of Comptroller.

Hon. Joseph Shartel, Member Common Council, Duluth, Minn.—Dear Sir: In reply to your request for opinion as to whether council can grant additional appropriation recently asked for by the assessor's department.

Under our charter each department must keep within its annual appropriation. An appropriation once made cannot be legally increased by council, nor can certificates of indebtedness be issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes on a levy for the maintenance of a department for a succeeding year. The increase desired by the assessor's department must be provided for in the manner prescribed by charter, or, in other words, by the conference committee during the month of September, when it determines the amount of money necessary, in its opinion, to maintain the department during the succeeding year. The present appropriation for the assessor's department was made by council during the month of October, 1908. In accordance with estimate submitted by the conference committee in September, as follows:

Supplies	$ 300
Expense postage, car fares, etc..	60
Salary of assessor	1,500
Salaries of employes (regular)...	3,420
Salaries of employes (special)...	2,100
Total	$7,680

This appropriation includes an item of $600 for special clerk hire not provided for in estimate of expenses as originally submitted to the comptroller by the assessor's department. It was explained to the conference committee that service of special employe was very much needed, and the committee provided funds for such purpose.

Council exceeded its authority by making an additional appropriation of $1,000 for the department during the month of December, 1908. Appropriation was, however, allowed to stand as a part of the work of special employee, under the appropriation, was the checking of buildings and seeing that none escape taxation. Yours very truly,

W. M. McCORMICK,
Comptroller.

WOULD CURB THE COCAINE CURSE

Congress Urged to Protect American Homes By High Duty.

New York, May 28.—Calling upon congress for a form of tariff protection that will guard all American homes from the ravages of the cocaine habit, thousands of medical men, philanthropic workers and the principal drug houses in this city are today supporting the recommendation of the American Health league for the federal control of the deadly drug. Only by placing a prohibitory duty upon the foreign cocaine with which the illegal distributors are now supplied in defiance of all state laws can the growth of drug dives throughout the country be checked, the leaders of the movement declare. From every section of the land reports have been received today showing that the people are ready to demand of their representatives in Washington this relief from the vice and crime that is spreading unchecked with the free supply of cocaine from abroad.

Only 50 per cent of all the cocaine consumed in the United States last year was devoted to legitimate uses, experts are prepared to show congress, while the other half of the total sales of this drug was covertly supplied to the dens of the "dope fiend," which are rapidly increasing. While the American manufacturers and wholesalers are refusing to pander to the increasing demands of the illicit cocaine distributors and can be held accountable by state and local authorities for their sales, absolutely no hold can be taken on the underground supply of the drug from abroad, it is shown. Coca leaves from which the drug victims may extract a form of cocaine with which to meet their craving are now free of duty and easily available, it is also pointed out.

Backed by philanthropic organizations and individuals throughout the country, the leaders of this movement have already presented to the finance committee of the senate at Washington the people's claims for protection against the inroads of the cocaine curse. A prohibitory tariff of $1.50 an ounce on the foreign supply of the drug is being urged as well as a duty of 5 cents a pound on coca leaves, which will give Uncle Sam a hold upon their distribution. It is also proposed to place an internal revenue tax upon this drug and to require its manufacturers to be bonded and licensed by the government. The placing of a special revenue stamp on every package of cocaine, with the record required to be kept of its quantity and purchaser, the authorities declare, will result in the speedy restriction of the illegal traffic in the drug.

That the senate leaders have up to this time refused to consider their claims, on the ground that they were "not concerned with the nation's morals" was asserted today by leaders of this crusade against the cocaine evil. When the people of every part of the country are alive to this chance to check the spreading drug plague, however, every one of their representatives at Washington will be urged to its immediate consideration, it is believed.

BUTTER AND CHEESE OFF

Dairy Products Go a Little Lower in Produce Market.

The Rest of the List Shows But Few Changes.

An easier tone in butter and cheese is perhaps the thing of greatest note in the produce market this week. There have not been many fluctuations in prices, but the commission houses report a steady demand for both staples and specialties.

The demand for green stuff is looking up, although the weather has not warmed up to any great extent, and a real rush for the crisp, emerald lettuce, the ruddy radish, and the ripe tomato, will not come until the warm days arrive.

Butter is about the last article on the produce list to come down off the winter high level, and butter is doing it very grudgingly, to say the least. Eggs tumbled and other things went down at the time the snow melted, but butter remained uncompromisingly firm. For weeks it has remained stationary at 30 cents a pound, wholesale. The quotations are 29 cents, with a weaker tendency.

Other grades have shown weaker tendencies during the past two weeks, but tubs are still quoted at 28 cents, and renovated butter is 24 cents.

Cheese is on a lower level as well. Full cream twins have declined from 17 and 18 cents to 15 and 16 cents a pound. Wisconsin flats underwent a similar experience and are quoted at the same figures. Primost is 8 cents.

Pineapples are up from 50 cents to 75 cents this week, due to light receipts. They are selling now at $3.25 to $3.75 a crate.

Strawberries have advanced 25 cents, being $3.50 per crate of twenty-four quarts in the market today.

Orange prices remain unchanged. Receipts are still good, and the demand is holding firm. Bananas are steady and unchanged at 4 cents.

Apples are $7 to $7.50 a barrel, unchanged from a week ago.

Lemons and limes are unchanged.

In the fresh vegetable market things are still a little quiet, although receipts are increasing. A warm spell would be a great boon to this line.

Tomatoes are a little higher. Last week they were selling at $2.75, and this week they are $3.50.

Lettuce is on an easier basis. Receipts have swelled during the past few days, and it is to be had at 90 cents a bushel.

Cucumbers are now quite plentiful in the fresh vegetable mart. They are offered today at 75 cents to 90 cents a dozen.

Radishes and pie plant are unchanged from a week ago.

Potatoes furnished some interest last week, the old stocks declining after a bull raid. However, they have done nothing to merit particular attention this week, the market for them remaining the same as it was.

Cabbages are $3.25 per hundredweight.

Sweet potatoes are becoming a little scarce, but they may still be had at $2 a bushel.

Parsley is 40 cents per dozen bunches.

New carrots are $1 a bushel and beets are selling at the same price.

In the poultry market prices remain unchanged. Ducks are just about out of the market at the present time, but the rest of the poultry list is in stock, at the same prices.

A decline in fresh lake trout is the feature of the fish market. The season is now fully under way. The trout may be had in the wholesale district for 8 cents a pound, a decline of about two points from last week.

Pike are firm at 10 cents straight, which is a shade higher than last week. Other fish prices are unchanged.

The meat market continues very firm, although there have been no decided advances during the last few days. Lamb and mutton are very scarce and beef is holding very strong.

AMERICAN TEAM LOST

In the Indoor Rifle Match Against the British and Australians.

Strenuous Efforts Will Be Made to Win Next Year.

Washington, May 28.—Every one interested in indoor rifle shooting is disappointed at the showing made by the American team against the British and Australians in the three-cornered international indoor match with .22-calibre rifles. The match was shot with fifty men on a side, and the British beat the Americans with a score of 14,583 against the American score of 14,179. The average per man on the American team was 283 and on the English team was 291. The Australian scores have not yet been received, but it is very improbable that they defeated the English team. It was a clean victory for the Englishmen because the National Rifle association took great pains to select the best available shots in this country. The American team, however, was hurriedly got together and in most instances the men shot without any considerable systematic preliminary practice. They also used a style of target with which many of them were unfamiliar.

The match goes to show that at present, at least, England shows a greater development than America in holding, aiming and pulling for which the .22-calibre rifle is very valuable as a means of instruction and practice. The defeat of the American team will undoubtedly tend to stimulate further the general interest in this important feature of rifle practice, as the match will be shot again next year and strenuous efforts will be made to carry off the prize. The continental countries will be invited to take part in the match next year, and it is believed the list of entries will be considerably larger. The Americans will begin work in the autumn and a team of 75 or 100 will be selected to practice until shortly before the match is shot, and from this number a team of fifty will be finally chosen. The committee which verified the scores made by the Americans consisted of Lieut. Col. R. K. Evans, U. S. A., executive officer of the national matches for 1907, 1908 and 1909; Maj. James E. Bell, I. S. A. P., D. C. N. G., and Lieut. A. S. Jones, secretary of the National Rifle association.

The American Team.

The members of the American team and their scores were as follows: W. E. Reynolds, New York city, 298; Theodore A. Gabriel, Newark, N. J., 296; George W. Chesley, New Haven, 296; A. F. Loudensack, New Haven, 295; William A. Tewes, Jersey City, 295; William A. Baker, Jersey City, 295; Patrick J. O'Hare, Newark, 294; Owen Smith, Hoboken, N. J., 293; J. W. Landon, New Haven, Conn., 293; C. B. Chisholm, Cleveland, Ohio, 292; G. T. Ross, New York city, 292; M. Dorrier, Jersey City, 292; W. J. Gram, Rochester, N. Y., 292; R. Bitter, Newark, 291; Louis C. Buss, Brooklyn, N. Y., 290; L. H. Page, New Haven, 290; Edward W. Bird, Fairmont, Minn., 289; W. D. Kittler, New Haven, 289; J. F. Barton, Boston, 289; H. B. Williams, New Haven, 288; Paul B. Mann, New York city, 287; Dr. Walter G. Hudson, New York city, 287; William B. Martin, Elizabeth, N. J., 286; Dr. A. A. Stillman, Syracuse, N. Y., 286; George F. Snellen, Newark, 286; M. B. Atkinson, Washington, D. C., 285; Arthur Hubalek, Broklyn, N. Y., 285; George Sweezy, New York city, 284; G. L. Apgar, Elizabeth, N. J., 282; George Schlicht, Guttenburg, N. J., 281; Harry M. Pope, Jersey City, 280; August Larsen, Rochester, N. Y., 280; J. W. Dearborn, New Haven, 280; J. Ehrlich, New York city, 280; J. Ralph Fehr, Washington, D. C., 279; Theodore Carlson, Boston, 277; L. P. Ittel, Allegheny, Pa., 276; J. H. Morgan, New York city, 275; C. A. Niemeyer, New York city, 275; James R. Dabb, Elizabeth, N. J., 275; Arthur A. Leach, Jr., Brooklyn, N. Y., 275; James H. Keough, Wakefield, Mass., 274; J. H. Byrnes, New York city, 274; W. D. Huddleson, Boston, 273; William H. French, Newark, 273; Frank H. Keene, Boston, 270; Herbert W. McBride, Indianapolis, Ind., 269; Arthur Smith, Denver, 267; C. C. Clark, Burlington, Kan., 266; Thomas McCarthy, Woburn, Mass., 263. Total, 14,179. All the contestants used the prone position with the exception of Ittel, Niemeyer, Reynolds, Leach, Schlicht, Hubalek and Buss, who used the standing position with the elbow rest.

FRANCE FEELS VERY GRATEFUL

For Transfer of L'Enfant's Remains to the National Cemetery.

Washington, May 28.—The French journals just received here comment in glowing terms upon the ceremonies attending the recent transfer of l'Enfant's remains to the national cemetery at Arlington at which President Taft, Ambassador Jusserand and other dignitaries were present. They look upon that graceful act of the American nation as a great mark of friendship for France and an added tie between the two countries.

La Construction Moderne, the leading architectural journal of that country, says editorially:

"L'Enfant played a most important role in the establishment of Washington as the young nation's capital. To him is due its beautiful plan and the eighty locations of its early important buildings. But later on, there as elsewhere, the artistic and harmonious scheme was abandoned and the state buildings were located at haphazard, as best suited the needs of the moment or private interests or greed. Then in 1896 Architect Fitzpatrick of that city inaugurated a vigorous campaign to persuade the nation that it was time to revive the artistic spirit and to revert to the original plan of l'Enfant. The idea was well received and, as we noted at the time, the president appointed an art commission to care for the systematic grouping of buildings and the control of parks and improvements. There has been a decided Renaissance not only in that city, but in the entire country in the direction of the city beautiful.

"In France few of us remember that l'Enfant had rendered such signal artistic services to the young republic after having fought its battles beside our Lafayette under the orders of Washington. the great general and president, who has been the model of all succeeding presidents in every republic. The Americans, it would appear, know better than we how to preserve and honor the souvenirs of the past. They possess in a high degree those practical qualities so absolutely indispensable for national progress but, we note, they possess equally the highest idealism and sentiment that make them grateful to all who have helped them in their adolescence, a beautiful quality. Since it is France and a Frenchman that were honored in this recent touching ceremony it is but meet and just that we do not let the occasion pass without showing our appreciation and extending to them the hand of fellowship and good will."

GIRL PLEADS TO BE NEGRESS

Court Refuses the Request and Her Marriage Is Foiled.

New Iberia, La., May 28.—With tears streaming down her face, a beautiful young white woman, about 20 years old, pleaded with Judge Simon in the district court here to be declared a negro that she might be allowed to marry William Harris, a negro residing at Galveston, Tex.

The girl does not know her name, according to her story, related in court. Naunie Lee is a name she assumed several years ago. She says she was deserted by her parents when 3 years old. It seems they were Assyrians, a nomadic couple, who resided near New Iberia a few months. They brought the child here with them, but when they got ready to depart left it in the cabin they had occupied.

Amanda Johnson, a negress, was passing the house one day and heard the wailings of the infant. Entering the house she found the child lying on the floor, crying, weak and helpless for want of food and water. She took the child home with her and reared it with her own children, and it was not until the girl became engaged to marry Harris that she knew her own history.

The people of New Iberia gave her no attention until it was known that she was to marry a negro, when the court was appealed to to prevent a white girl marrying a negro. Judge Simon, after hearing the girl's story and listening to her pleading to be declared a negress, held that she was a Caucasian, and inhibits her marriage with any but a man of Caucasian blood.

She vows she will marry the man of her choice, even though Louisiana laws will not permit. She says she will go to Galveston to see Harris, and if she cannot marry him in that state they will go to Missouri or Kansas, where they can be married.

Harris is well educated and thrifty. He has built a home for his bride to be at Galveston, where he has lived for some time.

GOVERNMENT OWNS ROAD.

Last of Important Swiss Lines the Property of Confederation.

Geneva, May 28.—The last of the principal Swiss lines, the St. Gothard railway, has become the property of the Swiss Confederation. The scheme of piercing the St. Gothard was drawn up in 1851. The construction of the Brunner and Mont Cenis lines on the east and west frontiers of Switzerland forced the Swiss government, under the penalty of serious economic loss, to build a railway across the Alps. It was at this time that the projects of boring the St. Gothard, the Simplon and the Splugen received serious attention.

In 1863 the Gothard Union, which represented fifteen cantons, and the Central and Northeast Railway companies, was formed and fought its way to success. Germany and Italy, which were both politically and economically interested in being directly connected by an international line passing through a neutral state, were won over, and in September of the same year a meeting was held at Berne, at which Prussia, Wurtemburg, Baden, Italy and Switzerland were represented, to consider the scheme. An agreement was arrived at, and in 1871 the St. Gothard company was founded. Its capital consisted of state subventions amounting to $17,000,000, subscriptions of shareholders amounting to $6,800,000 and a loan of $13,600,000—a total of $37,400,000.

A Swiss engineer, M. Louis Favre, was entrusted with the construction of the St. Gothard tunnel, which he undertook to complete within eight years at a cost of $10,000,000. On Oct. 1, 1872, the first mine in the rocks was exploded at Goschenen, but the great mountains presented many unanticipated difficulties.

In 1877 the capital had to be increased by $8,000,000, of which $5,720,000 was supplied by Germany, Italy and Switzerland as a supplementary subvention. On this occasion the Swiss government adopted the compromise, proposed by M. Week-Rennold, which assured the Simplon and the Eastern Alpine lines public subsidies.

The engineer, M. Favre, never saw the completion of his great work. He died in the tunnel in July, 1879, from a stroke of apoplexy. The tunnel was pierced Feb. 29, 1880, and the first train passed through it from Goschenen to Airolo on Jan. 1, 1882, and three months later the new Alpine highway was opened to the world.

ROYAL CHILD PEACEMAKER.

England and Germany Show Gratifying Sympathy With Holland.

The Hague, May 28.—The only newspaper that has considered the birth of the royal child from an international point of view so far is the Nieuwe Courant. In discussing the various leading articles in the English, German and French press, it says that the first two show a uniform and gratifying sympathy with Holland. It states there has been a striking prevalence of Orange worship, and emphasizes the attachment of Dutchmen to monarchism, which, it remarks, would have led them, if necessary, to accept even a German prince, although they are convinced that it is for them permanently to beware of he influence of foreign governments and dynasties.

After mentioning leading articles in English newspapers, it says that Germany's and England's pride of kindred with the Netherlands, though partly caused by rivalry, with which the Dutch are not concerned, is a reason for gratification, because by it the permanent independence of the Netherlands receives one more guarantee.

Finally, in a reply to an article in the Paris Temps, which called for "a decision" in Dutch foreign politics, the Nieuwe Courant says:

"Strict neutrality in peace and war towards all neighboring grent powers must be our most constant principle. This remains the best guarantee of our independence. In this policy there is nothing unfriendly to the French republic, as was shown a short time ago by our government, when their willingness to join the North sea agreement was made conditional on the adhesion of France."

ATHENS TO BE MADE OVER.

German Architect to Regenerate Ancient City's Architecture.

Berlin, May 28.—Athens, historic capital of grace and beauty, is to be remade in Germany. Herr Ludwig Hoffmann, architect of the city of Berlin, has been commissioned to map out a scheme for the architectural regeneration of the ancient Greek metropolis. He has just returned from a visit of inspection to Athens. The local authorities, with whom he conferred there, appear to desire to remodel their city upon modern lines, with a system of parks, boulevards, public buildings, which will combine to make it more attractive as a tourist center. This Herr Hoffmann hopes to accomplish, while still retaining the best examples of ancient classic architecture, of which Athens contains a multitude.

One of the projects upon which the Berlin builder frowned was what he described as a "bizarre, fantastic creation designed to perpetuate Greek heroism"—a design for a monumental statue submitted by an Italian sculptor. Although the design has already received first prize from the Athens municipal council, Herr Hoffmann hopes to induce them to abandon the idea of erecting it.

TEACHES TABLE MANNERS.

Enterprising Budapest Woman Has Pupils of All Ages.

Budapest, May 28.—An enterprising woman named Holker has started a school here where pupils of all ages are given practical demonstrations in ordinary table manners, but the chief aim of the establishment is to teach the ignorant how to deal successfully with such dishes as they have never even heard of.

"Who does not recollect in his expertence moments of unspeakable anguish," asks Frau Holker, "when at a dinner party he finds that he is using his knife and fork for a dish that only requires a spoon, or vice versa? It is to save men and women from these little tragedies that I have opened my school."

Examinations are to be held at the end of each term, when the students will be requested to attack an array of unknown delicacies.

President Taft Cannot Travel Much on Salary of $75,000.

Kansas Man May Succeed Secretary Wilson in the Cabinet.

Washington, May 28.—To the ordinary every-day American it would seem that the president of the United States should be able to worry along on $75,000 a year and pay his own car fare, but there are two sides to that question. On $50,000 a year few presidents were able to put aside anything for a rainy day, and with the increasing expenses of living, the greater charges for entertaining and the greater style in which of recent years it has been deemed necessary for the chief executive to keep up it is doubtful if Mr. Taft will have much left of his $75,000 salary when his bills are all paid, even if he stays pretty close to home.

Hence the probability is that congress will set aside $25,000 for traveling expenses.

The president when traveling cannot follow the example of the private citizen, who simply packs his gripsack, buys his ticket, takes his seat and goes. He must have his secretaries, stenographers and telegraph operators with him, for there is a great deal of government business he cannot escape. He must have a private car, otherwise he could not work at all, and there are other expenses which run up the bills when his excellency, the president of the United States, goes swinging around the circle.

Another factor which will influence congress is that the people like to see the president once in a while, and it is easier and cheaper for him to go to them than for them to come to him.

Kansas ought to be represented in the cabinet, according to Hayes L. Phillips of Parsons, Kan., who was here the other day.

"Kansas wants a member of the cabinet," continued Mr. Phillips, "and she believes she has a chance to get one in Representative Charles F. Scott when the secretary of agriculture retires.

"The wise ones who are responsible for all this gossip are not sure just when Secretary Wilson will resign, but they feel that that it will be some time this year," added Mr. Phillips.

Mr. Wilson wanted to break the record of cabinet officers. By staying a few months under the Taft administration he will have served longer than any other man in the cabinet. President Taft was willing to let him make that record. But as soon as it is made Mr. Wilson will probably fix a time for his own retirement."

State Senator George L. Morton of Wilmington, N. C., recently said that even though President Taft was popular in North Carolina, he would never succeed in swinging the state from the Democratic column.

"North Carolina is as safely Democratic today as it ever was," continued Mr. Morton. "It is too early to express an opinion on the success or failure of the prohibition law in our state, it only having gone into effect a short time ago. One thing seems to be certain, and that is, the revenue of the state has almost entirely disappeared, while the consumption of liquor has increased, if anything. New measures of taxation will have to be provided for."

"The West and the country at large need have no fear as to President Taft's attitude toward the conservation movement," said Joseph N. Teal of Portland, Or., who represents the Northwest on the joint committee on conservation.

Mr. Teal, who is chairman of the Oregon conservation commission, came to Washington to see Mr. Taft with regard to rumors in the West that the present administration is not in accord with the policy of conservation.

"Vigorous support of conservation is so vital to the West," said Mr. Teal, "that I regarded the word of the president himself as necessary to allay these rumors.

"After talking with the president I make the statement without reserve that the West and the country generally need have no concern as to President Taft's attitude toward conservation. For somewhere a attempt has been made to create an impression to the contrary, but it is absolutely without foundation. The president not only recognizes the vital importance of the movement, and is not only in sympathy with its purpose, but he will give it his active aid and hearty support. This can be depended on."

Senator Scott of West Virginia, now one of the senate's millionaires, used to be a glassblower. When the glass schedule was reached in the tariff bill he told the senate more about the glass business than it had heard for many a day, and described in detail the process of manufacture.

Gen. Garcia-Velez, who succeeds Mr. Quesada as minister from Cuba, is the son of Gen. Callxto Garcia, one of the heroes of the Spanish-American war, in which his son also gained renown. The new minister is a comparatively young man, being barely 40, and he is almost as much an American as he is a Cuban, for from the time he was 3 years old he was educated in this country, his mother, exiled by the Spanish authorities for the part her husband was taking in the revolution, having sought refuge in New York, where her children were placed in the public schools. Gen. Garcia-Velez was still a student when his father was captured by the Spaniards and imprisoned in Spain, whither his family followed him, establishing their residence in Madrid, where the father joined them, and where he lived quite free and unmolested under the parole.

Young Garcia-Velez matriculated at the University of Madrid, but when the war of 1895 broke out in Cuba, he accompanied his father home, and from that time to its end took an active part in the struggle that resulted in Cuba Libre, winning honors and rapid promotions.

In the campaign of Santiago, Gen. Garcia-Velez was a division commander, and one of the most valued advisers to Generals Shafter, Lawton, Wheeler and Ludlow, frequently taking his father's place in the conferences with these officers, and after the fall of the city he co-operated with Gen. Wood in adjusting the relations between the Cuban and American troops, between whom there had been some friction.

Madame Garcia-Velez was born Miss Amalia M. Ybor, and is a daughter of the late Vicente M. Ybor, one of the pioneer manufacturers of cigars in New York and Tampa, near which latter city he founded a town known as Ybor City, the chief industry of which is the making of cigars and cigarettes, and which is a growing and thriving town.

Osborn E. Willis of Kansas City, in discussing prohibition in Kansas, said that the strict enforcement of the prohibition law during the past two years is cutting down revenues of the Federal government in Kansas. Most of the joints have been run out of business. Internal revenue receipts lately have come from druggists and bootleggers. After June 1, when the new law goes into effect, the druggists will quit taking out government liquor stamps. The bootleggers then will be the only source of revenue to the government from the liquor business in Kansas.

"When joints were allowed to run openly," continued Mr. Willis, "their owners promptly paid the government tax. But when Kansas made the possession of a government liquor stamp prima facie evidence that the holder was violating the law, many joint keepers quit taking out stamps until they were forced to do so. Now that they have been driven out of business, Kansas revenues in that line will come from druggists and bootleggers. We will soon lose the druggists, then we will have nothing but bootleggers. And they are a tough lot to round up."

PAINTING RECOVERED.

Hospital Custodian Stole Giambellino's Madonna and Child.

Rome, May 28.—The famous painting by Giambellino, the Madonna and Child, which was stolen from the church of Madonna dell'Orto, in Venice, during passion week, has been recovered.

Some days after the robbery Emilio Sfrisco, a custodian of the Hospital Humbert I, informed the usher of the permanent exposition of modern art that he possessed a valuable painting which he wished to sell, and asked him to recommend him to some rich foreigner. The usher, recollecting the lost masterpiece, immediately informed the police, who laid a trap for the custodian.

They installed in the Hotel Danielli a well-known antiquarian, whose fluent English helped along the desired impression that he was a wealthy Englishman on the lookout for a masterpiece. His first visit was to the Hospital Humbert I, accompanied by plain clothes men from headquarters.

There he was shown the painting, which he bought for $10,000, and took with him. It was identified as the original and the custodian and two accomplices were arrested.

TWO-YEAR-OLD BABY

Summons Aid to Mother Who Had Attempted Suicide.

South Bend, Ind., May 28.—In a fit of despondency, brought on in part by physical ailments, due to the birth of her child two years ago, and by an unhappy marriage, from which she is now trying to free herself through Grand Rapids, Mich, courts, Mrs. R. E. Durham attempted suicide at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens, by drinking chloroform. That she is now alive and recovering is due to help summoned by her 2-year-old baby.

THE PUBLIC AND THE NEWS.

Rev. D. Charles Seadding, Episcopal bishop of Oregon, said the other day in Spokane, in the course of a discussion of the secular press: "Newspaper men should be treated as allies instead of spies and impertinent meddlers in things which do not concern them. We can take them into comradeship in the work we are doing and, by treating them as friends instead of enemies, secure their confidence, good will and co-operation."

The only fault to be found with this remark is that it seems to be predicated upon a supposition that many people treat newspaper men as "spies and impertinent meddlers in things which do not concern them." We do not believe that the average newspaper man will say that that is anything like his experience. Whatever concerns the public concerns the newspaper man, since it is his duty to make the public acquainted with everything of a public nature. If at times he goes beyond proper bounds in this respect, and treats as public that which is essentially private, it is due to over-enthusiasm in the pursuit of his duty, and not to anything worse than that. But as a rule the line which divides public affairs from private affairs is rigidly drawn, and while there are newspapers of the yellowest stripe that have no regard for privacy whatever, and that do not scruple at any infringement of decency in the search for sensation, it is as unfair to judge the newspaper field as a whole by these exceptions as it would be to judge the ministry by its black sheep or the church by its hypocrites.

Still, there is matter in the bishop's remark worth consideration by many people, in the church and out of it. If newspaper men act like spies, and do meddle impertinently in things that do not concern them, they should and doubtless will be treated accordingly. On the other hand, those who attempt to treat public affairs as private and to withhold from the public that which it has a right to know are doing something as wrong as the impertinent reporter's intrusion into private affairs, and just as worthy of reprobation and punishment.

Newspaper men, we believe, will be found as ready to co-operate in matters looking to the common good as any other class of citizens. Indeed, it is not too much to say that most good public works would fail without newspaper publicity and support, and that it is a great deal commoner to find newspapers initiating and leading public enterprises than it is to find them holding back or opposing them. Publicity is a vital element of all public enterprises, and it is to the advantage not only of the public and the enterprise itself but of the newspaper that the newspaper should have its share to do and should do it.

The newspaper is an established institution, and it must be recognized as such. The spirit in which it should be regarded—and is regarded, in the great majority of cases—is that in which Bishop Seadding addressed his Spokane audience.

SHOWING GOOD SENSE.

In accepting the Bicknell law instead of fighting it in the courts as was proposed at first, the railroads of Minnesota are showing very good sense. It is well not only for the shippers of the state, but for the railroads themselves, that this wise conclusion has been reached. The principle involved in the law is so obviously based on common sense and justice that it could only have worked harm to the railroads to fight it. Much of the misunderstanding that has grown up between the railroads and the people in recent years has been due to the blind, almost stupid, policy of fighting all regulatory measures, no matter how sound and just.

The new law provides that where rates are fixed by law or by the railroad commission's order, and the railroads contest them in the court, a record shall be kept of all disputed rates during the pendency of the suit. If the railroad finally loses its case, and the state-fixed rate becomes effective, the railroads must pay over to the railroad commission, for the benefit of shippers, the difference between the rate established by the railroad and the rate fixed by the state. In other words, the reduction becomes effective upon the issuance of the order, not years later when the courts affirm that order.

A PLEA THAT DIDN'T WIN.

Senator Hale's recent statement that it isn't the tariff that raises prices, but the greedy retailer, has been received with gleeful hilarity all over the country, and from its reception one might have imagined it to be intended as a joke, though it was a standpat argument uttered in all seriousness.

It is just as sensible, however, as most of the other arguments that are being put forth for the protective tariff. That institution was devised to enable infant industries to stand on their own feet, and it is pretty hard to devise sensible arguments for its continuance when, to quote Congressman Ollie James of Kentucky, these industries are standing on everybody else's feet.

It is surely as sensible as the old argument that the consumer does not pay the tax, but that the foreign shipper pays it. That argument isn't being used so much as it was, though here and there you will find some stodgy old standpatter ponderously giving it forth with all the air of a final authority. It doesn't harmonize very well, however, with the fact that there is a big tax under prohibitive schedules that shut out practically all imports. The foreigner doesn't pay that tax, because he doesn't import anything. The government doesn't get it, because there is no revenue from such a tariff schedule. The consumer pays it and the trust gets it; and that is the case, in a greater or less degree, with very item in the Dingley law and with every item in the Aldrich bill.

Senator Hale says, however, that "the householder is paying nothing to a protective tariff that builds up American industry. It is the retailer who is the guilty wretch, the son of iniquity, who makes high prices and practices exortion upon the consumer."

Strange no consumer had ever thought of that. Maybe it is because he had failed to find many plutocrats among the retailers. The inordinately rich are mostly beneficiaries of the tariff, the trusts and stockjobbing enterprises. Many retail merchants get wealthy, but it is because they do business on a big scale, with large sales and small profits as their motto. Even among the greatest merchant princes there are few "swollen fortunes." Some of the biggest have to keep their capital tied up all the time, taking out of it only enough for a comfortable living. Very few are able to splurge luxuriously. The sons and daughters of the rich who scandalize professional denizens of the Great White Way by their extravagant expenditures and their costly dissipations are not of the merchant families.

But it isn't worth while arguing against an argument so absurd as Senator Hale's. One needs only to look about him, to locate the places where wealth is congested and trace the sources from which it came. An investigation of that character will not cover many retail merchants. A very large percentage of retail ventures result in failure. There is no failure whatever where plutocracy controls the tariff-making functions and makes the government give it the right to tax the people's necessities through the tariff.

THE MAY MUSIC FESTIVAL.

We are perfectly aware that the task of trying to induce people to patronize an institution like the May festival of music on the ground that it is their duty to do so is utterly hopeless. Nevertheless, it can do no harm to state that Duluth as a community has something at stake in this matter. Its reputation depends not alone upon its growth, its industrial enterprise and its material prosperiy, but upon its appreciation of the finer things that make for progress in other lines. If Duluth didn't appreciate good music, and insure having a constant supply of it by encouraging such enterprises as the May festival, it would seem rather a clear case that the city was abandoned utterly to the pursuit of the material things which are necessary as a foundation, but which do not make a complete community.

Besides, a program of the character proposed for tonight, tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night gives an assurance of solid enjoyment which is enough in itself to draw the patronage necessary to make the enterprise successful—which means that it shall come reasonably near paying expenses. If duty does not appeal with sufficient force, there is yet plenty of reason to attend the concerts in the fact that they are abundantly worth attending.

One of the pleasantest things about the festival is the concert which is being given this afternoon to the school children of Duluth. This is bringing good music home to the people, and it is inspiring in the children that appreciation of good music which should make it easier, in later years, successfully to present such enterprises as the May festival of music.

THE PRICE OF PROTECTION.

Let us see about this tariff business. The Republican theory of protection, as expressed in platform utterances, is that the tariff should equalize the difference between the cost of protection at home and abroad, so that American labor may be protected from competition by "pauper foreign labor." Lately there has been added to this the phrase "together with a reasonable profit to the manufacturer." Let us leave aside altogether the policy of taxing all of the people to insure profits for a part of the people, and let us ignore the obvious inquiry why the government should guarantee a profitable business to the manufacturer any more than it should guarantee a living wage to the laborer. Concede for the sake of argument that the tariff should cover the difference in cost of production, and even that it is a proper exertion of the functions of government to make it provide a reasonable profit for the manufacturer.

How do these professions square with the performances of the Republican tariff-makers?

What effort has been made to ascertain the difference in cost of production at home and abroad? None worthy the name. What would such an investigation, if it were conducted honestly, develop? It is true that European wages, as a rule, are lower than American wages. But "pauper labor," if there is such labor, is as a rule worth no more than the price it brings. American labor, though paid the highest, is the cheapest in the world because it is the most productive. The wage scale is not the real test; the test is the labor cost of production. We have skilled and intelligent labor equipped with labor-saving machinery, and nobody has yet shown that the labor cost of production in this country is any greater than the labor cost of production abroad. In many cases it is known to be much lower. For instance, the labor cost per yard of producing cotton goods is less in this country than it is in Europe—yet Aldrich is going to give the rich New England cotton mill owners the right to tax the American people through a "protective" tariff on cotton goods.

But assuming that there is a difference that is not in our favor, and that a tariff is necessary to overcome that difference. What proportion of the value of the commodities do you suppose it is? It is pure guess work, of course, because nobody has been permitted to make an honest investigation; if there were such an investigation, the whole protective tariff system would fall to the ground, its last prop removed. But it surely can't be 50 per cent, and 50 per cent duties are numerous. It surely can't be 100 per cent, and 100 per cent duties are very numerous, too.

And then the cost of it to the American consumer. Here are a few figures covering only a small part of the big list of things that American manufacturers sell cheaper abroad than they do at home. Augnr bits sell for $1.80 here, and $1.30 abroad. Saws sell for $17.48 per dozen here, and $13.74 per dozen abroad. Screws sell for 7.3 cents per gross here, and 3.4 cents per gross abroad. Vises sell for $4 here, and $1.80 abroad. Then Elgin watches sell for $10.23 here, and $7.98 abroad. Lamp chimneys sell for 68 cents a dozen here and 40 cents abroad. The list might be continued through a thousand things in common use. The difference is the price the American consumers pay for the support of the protective system.

And the Aldrich tariff revision, instead of making it better, is going to make it worse.

Is that the best Illinois could do?

HOTEL GOSSIP.

J. A. Smathers of Fort Frances, who was at the Metropolitan hotel yesterday, gives his modest opinion that within two years at the most Fort Frances, Ranier and International Falls will be the most promising cities for business venture and commercial investment in the Northwest.

In giving his opinion Mr. Smathers states that the development of Fort Frances since the construction of the Canadian Northern railroad to that point has been greater than it was during the past fifty years. Since the founding of Fort Frances by some traders of the early Hudson Bay trading days the progress of the little town, according to Mr. Smathers, has never been rapid. It has gone along in a sort of trance, in an old English sort of way, and its growth has been of a very slow nature.

But since the coming of the Canadian Northern, Mr. Smathers says, the town has taken on new life, has begun to grow, has developed industries, has gained modern ideas of progress and enterprise and today is one of the most rapidly growing and most prosperous towns in the dominion.

Mr. Smathers points out that the completion of the Backus-Brooks power plant at International Falls will result in a great commercial stimulus to that entire section of the country. There will be a pulp wood mill upon the Canadian side of the Rainy river, while the big lumber mills of the Brooks company will be situated upon the American side of the river.

In the opinion of the Fort Frances man, Fort Frances, as well as Ranier and International Falls, will receive the benefit of the lumber manufacturing at International Falls, and also of the pulpwood industry that will be established upon the Canadian side of the river. He believes that the three growing towns will be the center of a lumber manufacturing district, and that in the near future other mills will be established at this point for the manufacture of lumber, both from the American and Canadian sides of the international boundary line.

Fort Frances and International Falls, on the boundary line of two nations that are being constantly drawn closer together in a business way, cannot help but receive the benefits of the commerce that will pass between the two countries, points out Mr. Smathers. He states that since the completion of the two links of the Canadian Northern railroad—the one from Winnipeg to Fort Frances and the other from Virginia to Fort Frances—the commercial prosperity of Fort Frances, as well as that of International Falls and Ranier, has more than doubled.

Mr. Smathers is of the opinion that no three villages have a more promising future, a greater attraction for the investor, than the three rapidly developing commercial centers at the International boundary, the Triple Cities of the North.

"You will hardly believe it, but the prohibition sentiment has invaded Milwaukee," said Adolph Schroeder of Milwaukee, at the Spalding yesterday. "Not that I or any other of the German-Americans are of the opinion that the prohibition sentiment will make much headway. Milwaukee is too German in its tastes for that. But, nevertheless, we have had a touch of the onward march of prohibition, just as many other parts of the country have.

"The dry movement over Wisconsin is responsible for the sentiment in favor of prohibition that has caused some slight stir in Milwaukee. The movement was started, but met with no support or approval from the citizens of the city. Not that Germans, you understand, are not in favor of reform; that is not the meaning. You will find among German drinkers that there is a very small percentage of intoxication, and that, with the German, drink is a beverage, not a means of being hilarious and disgraceful. The German takes his family with him when he drinks. At many of the palm gardens of Milwaukee you will see family gatherings, a thing that you will not see in many cities where there is not a German population.

"The German does not believe in prohibition, but he believes in moderation. This is why Milwaukee is a city where there is a small percentage of drunkenness. You can look up the police records upon this subject, and you will find that I am correct in my statement. One of the reasons for this condition is that where the family is present you will see no drunkenness or disorderly conduct. Nothing of this sort is tolerated in the beer gardens of Milwaukee, which is the reason why prohibition is not wanted in Milwaukee. When conditions become like they are in some American cities, I am inclined to be of the opinion that the people of Milwaukee will not oppose prohibition."

William E. Tracy of Two Harbors, at the St. Louis, says that business there has improved since the opening of the ore season and that with a further increase in the shipments of ore the prosperity of the town is expected to increase correspondingly. Business has shown a steady increase within the past two months, according to Mr. Tracy.

THE WEATHER

That chesty gentleman seen walking down Superior street today, with an expectant smile, and a Panama hat, was the weather man. His friends were busy taking back all the hard things they ever said of him. He is a rather genial, wholesouled sort of fellow, in spite of the fact that he predicts rain for tonight.

A year ago it was warm and clear.

The sun rose this morning at 4:19 and set this afternoon at 7:51, making fifteen hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the past twenty-four hours showers fell over the gulf streams and in most districts east of the Mississippi river, as a result of the low pressure area now central over Eastern Ontario. Showers also fell over North Dakota, Montana, Utah Nevada, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, British Columbia aid Alberta, attending a disturbance central over the latter province. Temperatures have risen somewhat in districts lying between the Mississippi river and Rocky mountains. The barometer is highest over Georgia and Alabama. Indications favor a return to unsettled weather conditions at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Saturday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Department of Agriculture. Weather Bureau, Duluth, May 28.—Forecast for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday: Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges—Probably showers tonight or Saturday; slight changes in temperature; moderate northeasterly winds.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

Chicago, May 28.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and probably Saturday; warmer in south portion tonight.

Wisconsin—Fair and warmer to; night; Saturday warmer and fair, followed by increasing cloudiness.

Minnesota — Partly cloudy, with probably showers in north portion late tonight or Saturday; warmer in south and west portions tonight.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy, with probably showers tonight or Saturday.

An Indifferent People.

New York World: Speaker Cannon says that "of all the letters on the tariff that I receive—and I get a good many—not one in fifty makes any objection to the tariff bill as passed by the house or to the amendments proposed by the senate."

The World does not doubt the truth of Mr. Cannon's statement. Public indifference to great questions of taxation has become chronic in a country that won its independence through a revolution that originated in taxation.

Congress is considering a tariff bill that will easily raise $300,000,000 a year in revenue, and during its lifetime will probably take no less than $2,000,000,000 in public revenue from the pockets of the people. The indirect taxation for the profit of protected industries will amount to more than the public treasury receives. It is safe to say that this bill means not less than $10,000,000,000 of taxation in one form or another, and yet, as Speaker Cannon says, not one letter in fifty makes any objection to it. Practically the only organized protest on the part of consumers was made by the club women who objected to the duties on gloves and stockings. The average American seems content to let the newspapers fight the battle for the protection of his pocket.

There is no more common American delusion than that somebody else really pays the taxes and hence there is no occasion to worry about the cost of government. It is never true that somebody else pays the taxes, and there is no more demoralizing waste of money than governmental waste. Even at its best, every dollar that the government throws away is a dollar taken from productive industry. It means a dollar's less work for labor, a dollar that can no longer contribute toward the general economic progress of the nation.

Lift the Bench Out of Politics.

Minneapolis Journal: The latest judicial bulletin has it that Justice Jaggard will resign from the supreme bench to run for governor, and that Governor Johnson will appoint in his stead Judge David Simpson of the Hennepin bench. It is further averred that the arrangement involves an effort to secure indorsement of Judge Simpson for election by the state Democratic convention, and the correlative indorsement of Thomas D. O'Brien of St. Paul, who is to be named as successor of Justice Elliott when that judge is appointed to the Philippines, by the Republican state convention.

We do not know how the truth may be as to this undertaking, but we do know that any well-devised movement of having for its object the lifting of judicial ermine out of the mire of politics will be more than welcome. Since by the Constitution of the state, judges must be elected by popular vote, some such arrangement between the parties is necessary if the supreme bench is to be immune to the political blight. Minnesota never had a supreme court of higher quality or one whose opinions commanded greater respect the country over, than in the days when the parties amicably agreed to nominate but one judicial ticket, and to place thereon the names of men of the highest grade. Unfortunately, political greed and personal ambition were permitted to interfere with the bi-partizan plan, and the day came when the two parties could not agree.

If the opportunity is now at hand for Governor Johnson to place on the supreme bench two jurists of tried and approved quality and of oposite political faith, the two party conventions must surely follow his lead, and nominate the pair thus named for election by the people when they shall have filled out the partial terms for which they are appointed. It is to be hoped that no petty political considerations will be permitted to stand in the way of carrying out so admirable a plan.

Cynic's Art of Love.

The Tatler: The great art of love is to write little and burn all. Half the scandals of life would be averted if people only followed this admirable counsel.

Theft.

Ruskin: Whether we force the man's property from him by pinching his stomach, or pinching his fingers, makes some difference anatomically; morally, none whatever.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

•••The Waterbury, Conn., American of May 24 gives an account of the wedding of Miss Jennie G. Starkweather of that city and Benjamin F. Myers of Duluth, which took place the previous evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Wade, the latter being a sister of the bride. The bride wore an empire gown of faille Francaise, cut en train and decollete, trimmed, as well as the veil, with white hyacinths and maidenhair fern. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and wore a diamond pendant. Before Mr. and Mrs. Myers started on their drive to Meriden, amid the convention shower of rice, a bridal quadrille was danced, including two other brides, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Chase and Mr. and Mrs. Irving H. Chase. The fourth couple included the maid of honor, Miss Wade, and her cousin, Edward H. Mason, of Chicago.

•••Articles of incorporation of the Lakeside Light & Water company were filed last night. The incorporators are D. G. Cash, Edgar Brown, John J. Fuller, Walter Van Brunt, J. E. Marvin, W. E. Perry and Edward Sherwood. The capital stock is $50,000.

•••It is said that John Miller of Bell & Miller has the affidavits affirming that he caught 527 brook trout in Brule river this week.

•••The Paine sawmill at Northern Pacific Junction was burned last night, the fire being started by sparks from the mill stack.

•••It is probable that the crew of the four-oared event at Minnetonka will be selected from the following members of the Duluth Boat club: D. A. Burke, H. S. Mahon, Duncan McLeod, H. D. Pearson, Fred Lewis, W. B. Silvey, R. C. Crombie, George McKenzie, W. E. Perry and Thomas Moore.

•••Ferryman Charles Winters fell into the canal last night, and would have been drowned but for the timely assistance of friends.

•••At a meeting of the trustees of the village of Lakeside last night, A. H. Crassweller was appointed village attorney.

•••H. E. Alexander of the Paragrapher and Dr. Horace S. Davis have gone on a fishing trip to Iron River.

•••The postoffice department has finally decided to establish a postoffice at West Duluth, and George J. Mallory of the firm of Mallory & Boyd will be appointed postmaster.

•••Frank A. Law of the law firm of Curtis & Burdet, Washington, D. C., is a guest of Capt. T. H. Pressnell.

•••The committee on invitations for the opening of the Spalding hotel is composed of Messrs. Spalding, Sutphin, Chapman, Ensign, Nils Hall, Markell, Shannon, A. M. Miller, Peyton, McLachlan, Billson, Bell, D. A. Duncan and D. G. Cash.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Princeton Union: If our third term governor is a little god in St. Louis county, it is well to remember that that county is but a very small part of the great state of Minnesota.—Anoka Union.

That is quite an admission to make—that St. Louis county is part and parcel of the great state of Minnesota. We had almost reached the conclusion that St. Louis county was a foreign colony. But St. Louis county is a big part of the state when the question of revenue for the support of the state government is taken into consideration—it contributes almost one-fourth of the direct state taxes, and almost one-third of the direct and indirect state taxes, and this does not include the immense sums received by the state from the sale of lands and timber and royalties on iron ore.

Warroad Plaindealer: Wouldn't it be fun to see what congress would really do in the tariff-tinkering matter if every member was unhampered and untampered with? Wouldn't it jar some fellows if our representatives would all dare to do just what they knew they ought to do? Wouldn't it make the "common herd" rejoice? Oh, yes! But what's the use?

St. Cloud Times: Now that Governor Johnson has emphatically announced that nothing can again induce him to be a candidate for governor, the Minneapolis Journal says there is now an opportunity to elect a Republican governor. Strange statement in a state which gave Taft 85,000 majority.

Pine River Sentinel: A very strong instance where "the tail wags the dog" is apparent just at this time in the way Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island is practically controlling the destiny of the whole United States in his manipulation of the tariff revision at Washington. The state of Rhode Island is a little spot on the map less than half the size of Cass county, but the fact that the illustrious senator is a son-in-law of old John D. Rockefeller may have something to do with this peculiar situation.

Walker Pilot: Ex-Congressman Bede is going to see what he can do toward shifting a couple of letters of his political title over onto Congressman Miller when the next campaign comes 'round.

Wahasha Herald: How long, Oh my! how long will we allow the wool of high protection to be drawn over our eyes by the interests and their tools, the politicians, who would have us believe they are laboring in our interests?

Walker Pilot: If the tariff bill in its present form becomes a law we can look for a general upheaval of the downtrodden at the next presidential election.

Chisholm Herald: The lumbering industry is practically over in the greater part of Northeastern Minnesota. The mining industry occupies relatively but a small area. The coming industry of Northeastern Minnesota is that of agriculture. It is this industry that will give employment to the greatest number of people, and the source from which will come the greatest wealth. The development of agriculture in Northeastern Minnesota is yet to be made. Not one-tenth of the entire area is in the hands of actual farmers. Not one-tenth of that under cultivation. The task is an enormous one, the clearing of the land, the building of roads and the drainage of its great swamp areas. But back of this is the assurance of repayment. In the first foot of soil is a greater wealth than in all the mines. When under the plow and wisely husbanded the agricultural lands of Northeastern Minnesota now unoccupied will provide homes and well-paid employment for over 100,000 families.

The White Flower.

Lakeland, Fla., News: He never knew her. His coming into the world was the signal for her going forth. A few brief days she clasped him to her heart—the heart whose last beats were most for him; then, ere the baby eyes had learned to look with recognition upon her, she kissed them closed—and closed her own forever.

Vaguely through life he missed her. Times, as a boy, when the night wind moaned outside, and within fantastic figures and shapes of fear formed in the darkness, he cowered beneath the covers of his cot and wept passionately for something that he wanted but could not name—though afterward he knew that the thing he craved was sheltering mother love. His playmates had even a source of unfailing love and sympathy, from which he saw them copiously and continuously draw; and he felt that the Fates had left something out of the scheme of his life, and in the midst of the buoyancy of youth his eyes would grow wistful and his heart be sad.

Then a man—and sometimes, after the struggle of the day, when came the quiet hour—musing o'er flood and field, or gazing far out into the sad and solemn sea—he would dream of the land beyond the setting sun—of the mystic glories which eye hath not seen—and of her who loved him first! Aye, others came and crept into his heart, and filled it with a love that was almost pain; but in its innermost holy of holies he kept ever a chamber inviolate for the mother he never knew.

And it pleased him to believe that, though he saw her not, she walked through life beside him, and many times made her presence felt in sweet suggestion or kindly need, in silent stirrings of the heart that turned him from temptation's way. And whatever of good, or gentleness, or generous impulse ever blossomed in his life, to her he gave the credit.

Therefore, on Mother's day, when thousands have the blessed privilege of laying the votive offering of their love at living mothers' feet, and other thousands live over tender memories of days when mothers walked by their side—he wears the white flower for her—for her to whom he believes his nature owes its best.

So, in the dusk of this dear day, while the flower is fading, though its fragrance lingers still, he writes these lines for the sake of those who, like to him, knew mother only in the land of dreams.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Puck: Man is an animal such that it is hard to credit him with big motives when little motives will come anywhere near to accounting for his conduct.

The Spinx: Mother—And when he proposed, did you you tell him to see me?

Daughter — Yes, mamma; and he said he'd seen you several times, but he wanted to marry me just the same.

Houston Post: "The ancients believed the world was flat."

"I am actually beginning to believe it myself."

"Actually?"

"Actually! I haven't had a proposal for a month."

Punch: Adjutant (at inspection, discovering second button of soldier's tunic unfastened) — Dash it all, sergeant-major! Here's a fellow half-naked! Make him a prize'nar!

New York Herald: Artist—Have you noticed that long hair makes a man look intellectual?

"Well, I've seen wives pick them off their husbands' coats when it made them look foolish."

Boston Transcript: Doctor—So your insomnia is not quite so bad, eh?

Patient—Not quite, sir; sometimes my foot goes to sleep now.

New York Sun: First Chauffeur—It's an outrage.

Second Chauffeur—Yes, there ought to be some way to prevent the owner taking the car out without our knowledge.

Somerville Journal: Hicks—Bjenkyns tells me that in his poetic work he runs mostly to sanatrains.

Wicker—Yes, he writes those advertising things for the street car cards.

Life: Mrs. Camptown—Tell your captain I'd like the pleasure of his company to a dance next Friday evening.

Corporal Ginnis—O! will, ma'am, but Ol'm afraid some of 'em can't danco.

Chicago Daily News: Browning—What do you know about this poultry business, Greening? Is there any money in the hens?

Greening—You bet there is. I put all of $50 in mine last winter.

Illustrated Bits: "Even a policeman can't arrest the flight of time," said the funny man.

"Oh, I don't know," rejoined the matter-of-fact person. "Only this morning I saw a policeman enter a side door and stop a few minutes."

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: You can't afford to bank on a man unless he has plenty of sand.

A close friend is all right—until he declines to lend you money.

Every man is more or less brave until his bluff has been called.

Most people will do as you wish—if it is in accord with their wishes.

Even if a man's good deeds live after him he isn't in a position to care.

Most men are philosophers—at least, they seldom practice what they preach. And a man's idea of his own importance decreases as the gray in his hair increases.

Occassionally a girl is both pretty and intelligent—just to prove the exception to the rule.

It is only during her first engagement that a girl ties up her love letters with baby blue ribbon.

He is a mean man who will let a woman marry him for his money, then show her that he hasn't got a dollar.

Many a man who thinks he is honest because he pays back borrowed money wouldn't think of returning a borrowed umbrella.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A man could hardly ever be crazy to go to church unless his wife didn't want him to.

The thing that makes it so easy for a girl to fall in love is she expects it of herself.

What makes a girl proudest of the man she's engaged to is for his necktie to match her complexion.

A man could make a great fortune inventing a mirror that would make a woman over 40 look 23.

If a man can't find any other reason for knowing he has brains, it will be because his watch keeps good time.

The World at Its Best.

Oh, it's good to get up in the morning when the wind blows through blossoming trees,
And a fragrance, delightful and subtle,
is wafted along on the breeze;
When the emerald hills in the distance seem nearer than ever before,
And the wavelets make music as softly
they ripple upon the wide shore.

How fair is the world when the dewdrops begem the wide meadows
in May,
And how gladly we praise the Good
Giver when roses besprinkle the way;
But the world's at its best, and its drearest, dark stretches are splendid to see
When the check in the letter is larger than you dared to expect it would be.

MOVEMENT INITIATED

At Chicago to Retain More Insurance Money in West.

East's Present Mastery of the Situation Is Pointed Out.

Chicago, May 28.—Serious check upon development of the West is foreseen by the big business of Chicago in the amount of the insurance funds which already have been absorbed by the East.

James J. Hill's prediction that when tariff tinkering ceased the tide of prosperity would set in with a rush, is confirmed by manufacturing and commercial interests, but bankers and other financial men have pointed out that of the great insurance funds the East already has absorbed a large part. To forestall the time when the need becomes acute for funds for development purposes—new railways, new projects of other kinds—the movement is now well under way to organize and maintain Western insurance companies for the investment of Western funds in Western enterprises will receive a great impetus.

"Team up the dollars so that we may keep them in the West permanently and the development of the manufacturing, mining and milling industries and the railway and interurban lines in the Middle West will be permanent and sustained." This is the declaration of Robert B. Armstrong, an Iowan and former secretary of the treasury. In commenting upon the situation in the Bankers' Monthly of this city, Mr. Armstrong speaks as an insurance man and also as a financier and Westerner, as a result of statements made in a report to the Association of Commerce by Chairman E. S Conway. The report showed that, if the heart of America is to be developed as rapidly as its possibilities justify, there are required more permanent investing companies—fire, life and casualty companies, banks and trust companies being but transient holders of these great funds. Such companies in the West are declared not only desirable, but very necessary.

Surprising Facts.

The Association of Commerce's report from Chairman Conway, one of the representative men of the West, declared:

"You will remember that the great deficiency existing in this city of insurance companies of various kinds, capable of meeting the demands of the business interests of Chicago, was commented upon at considerable length, and facts were brought out that created some surprise. It was shown that Chicago, and the region immediately tributary to it, expended annually something like $400,000,000 in insurance premiums, of which less than 1 per cent was retained at home, the remainder being sent to cities foreign and domestic.

"The result of this negligence, in not assuming our risks of various kinds and reaping the profits resultant from that lucrative business, is that other commercial centers, which we permit to do that business for us, have more than three-fourths of the insurance money of the country on deposit in the banks east of the Alleghanies, with less than 1 per cent remaining in Chicago.

"While it is clear that this association, as an organization cannot act in this matter, I am fully convinced that Chicago will never become the financial center its population and commercial supremacy entitles her to be, until we have established institutions of the highest character, which will attract to her the money that now goes through such channels to foreign countries, and to that portion of our own country that lies east of the Alleghanies. We have no great investing institutions that compare at all favorably with those of neighboring cities of one-quarter of our own population, or one-tenth of our wealth. We need and must have, secondary and popular money reserves from which loans can be made on long time at fair rates of interest to the people, and these we would have if Chicago retained her insurance premiums at home.

An Absurd Condition.

"It is manifestly absurd when we of the Middle West desire to take out fire, life or casualty insurance to find it obligatory to transmit the premiums therefor to some foreign or domestic financial center because we are unable to transact that business within our own borders.

"More than $400,000,000 is expended in this manner annually by the West, while only about 1 per cent remains at home, when we should have at least one-half of it on deposit here to meet the requirements not only of our people, but of our banks, thus creating a fund that can be legitimately used for long time loans for development purposes.

"Chicago is the second American city in population, and probably the first in the volume of its trade and domestic commerce, and no good or valid reason can be offered why we should not do a very large proportion of our insuring as well as that of the entire area tributary to us. I believe our city can never become an investing center commensurate with its importance until this vast insurance reserve is retained by our local institutions. I commend this subject, not merely to the attention, but also to the activity of the business men of Chicago, and especially to those of our association, whom I believe have the best interests of our city at heart."

Although necessarily addressed to the Chicago organization, the recommendations were intended also for commercial bodies generally throughout the West.

Companies' Own Figures.

The big Eastern companies of the "insurance combine" recognizing the importance of the charges, have taken up the gauntlet in the attempt to disprove the facts contained in the association report. Figures issued ostensibly by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents show an apparently heavy investment of insurance funds in the West, but analysis of these figures discloses the fact that big Wall street investments in railroad bonds are used to swell the total, which actually is close to the figures given out by the Association of Commerce. The companies' own statistics have thus become one of the strongest weapons in the hands of the advocates of larger investments in the West. Even taking the statistics at their face value and including railroad bonds, the investments in the Atlantic states of life companies only are shown to be $1,080,000,000, of considerably larger than the total in all the rest of the states of the country. These figures cover the funds of fourteen of the largest life companies, with home offices in seven states, and having more than two-thirds of the entire assets of all the life insurance companies in the United States.

Are You Fat?

You know you can not stay fat, don't you? That is, you can not be fat and be in style. The day when a fat woman was tolerated is passed. Nowadays all women must be in proportion or be ridiculous. This does not mean you should become skinny, however. You should not get below the hard flesh line. All you ought to lose is the bulky fat. That done you will find yourself to be a well formed and therefore handsome woman.

Now, how can this be done? By exercising and dieting? Yes, and no. These two means will bring some results, but not easily nor soon. One is very hard work; the other is torture. Besides, neither can be depended on to cause a uniform reduction. They may take off a fleshy shoulder, for example, and leave the double chin untouched. What you need, you see, is something pleasant to take that without injury to your health will take the fat off uniformly and quickly, say at the rate of a pound a day or so, until it is all gone where you want it to go.

For this purpose nothing is less expensive, safer or simpler than Marmola Prescription Tablets. Inexpensive because one large case, costing 75 cents only, will produce results; safe because they cause no wrinkles or stomach trouble, but rather improve the health and complexion, if anything; and simple, because they do all the work without asking thought or effort on the part of the taker. In short, they are the ANSWER if you are fat and wish to be thinner. If your druggist is of the better kind he will have them. If not, write the licensees, The Marmola Company, Department 491, Detroit, Mich.

WOMEN AID ZULU CHIEF

Colenso Sisters In Natal Spend Fortune Fighting His Cause.

Trial Is Evidently Farce to Get Rid of Him.

London, May 28.—Two women in Natal are at present engaged in fighting the whole force of the British government. The battle is waged by the Misses Colenso—two sisters. Embarked on a quixotic attempt to rescue the native chief, Dinizulu, from the coils of British diplomacy, they have spent almost every cent they had in the world. For the last five years the eldest sister, Harriet, has been the guide, philosopher and friend of the native chief, even going to St. Helena and staying there near him, while he waited in prison until her efforts got him out; only to be tried and reconvicted on another count. The devotion of the Colenso sisters to the cause of the black chief has won the respect of even their inveterate enemies, the English foreign office wire-pullers, who wish to turn the land of Dinizulu over to white explorers.

In many quarters of the globe the fight waged by the Colenso sisters has evoked the sympathy of thousands of people who have not even stopped to consider the actual merits of Dinizulu's cause. Many influential English people, including Sir Charles Dilke, Lord Northbourne and Lady Schwann, have recently taken up the cudgels on behalf of the two brave women; and in London an organization has been formed to raise funds to restore to them some of the actual money they have spent in defending Dinizulu at his recent trial. As a matter of fact, the only charge of which the black chief has been found guilty is harboring a few natives fleeing from British rifles in a faked-up rebellion, deliberately planned for the purpose of breaking down the influence of Dinizulu among the natives.

Daughters of a Bishop.

No white people in the whole of South Africa have greater knowledge and experience of the Natal natives than the two sisters. They are the daughters of the famous Bishop Colenso, first and last bishop of Natal, who devoted his life to studying the needs and ministering to the spiritual wants of the black men.

The British colonists have always been jealous of his power and influence of Dinizulu, and have adopted every subterfuge to rid themselves of the chief and destroy his power. He has been twice tried for high treason; the first time when but a mere youth; and, lastly, for sheltering refugees during the so-called Zulu rebellion. In the earlier prosecution, the British magistrates had things all their own way. Dinizulu was, for a long time, unrepresented; and, after his first conviction, was sent into exile in Saint Helena. It was then that Harriet Colenso began to take an active interest in his case. She went into the papers and convinced herself that all Dinnizulu's so-called crimes were trumped up charges for the express purpose of getting him out of Natal, where the natives look up to him as their great chief and the direct descendant of the famous Cetewayo.

Dinizulu's influence in the country has always been a stumbling block to British land-grabbing; and it has been essential to remove him from the scene of his activities. After his liberation from Saint Helena, Miss Colenso undertook his defense against the numerous other charges brought against him. Her able cross-examination on many occasions put to rout the emissaries of the government, who had come prepared to swear away the life of the native leader.

Spent All She Had.

Finding it necessary to have Dinizulu properly represented by counsel, Miss Colenso obtained from England some of the ablest lawyers and paid their expenses out to Natal. In order to give the black chief the proper status before the white tribunal. In this effort, she spent practically all she had in the world—the sum of $15,000; but successfully demonstrated that the long list of alleged heinous crimes, with which the chief was charged, narrowed down to one of simply giving shelter and food for a few days to the wife and children of Bambata, a disaffected native chief. It was proved in Dinizulu's favor, that he took no part whatever in any armed rebellion against the British, and that he did not even countenance the action of other native chiefs who wished to rid themselves of British oppression. And yet, on the mere charge of sheltering the women of a chief, he has been convicted of high treason against the English king; and condemned to four years of penal servitude, and one-half years of penal servitude, with the loss of his official position in Natal among his own people.

The president of the court, Sir William Smith, in condemning Dinizulu for high treason, said, among other things:

"It can be said for you, with regard to the one offense (that is, giving food and shelter to refugees), that you gave no direct encouragement to the men—Mangatl and Bambata—in continuing their rebellion, and, in my opinion, at no time did you attempt to take part in the rebellion; but people must understand that they cannot touch pitch without being defiled, and that they cannot offer resistance to the king's enemies and claim to be loyal."

Formation of Party.

The vigorous protests of the Misses Colenso; and their activities have brought fruit in the formation of a strong anti-government party in London, headed by some of the most influential British persons, who have resolved to see that justce is done to Dinizulu, and to bring home to its perpetrators the conspiracy which has been deliberately fomented against native freedom in Zululand.

Lady Schwann, who has charge of the fund which is being raised to place the Misses Colenso on their feet again, recently said:

"Though we have only been collecting money for the Misses Colenso a few weeks, the fund already reaches more than $5,000. We are receiving subscriptions from many parts of the globe, the money coming in in sums ranging from $1 to $500. Hundreds of letters reach me daily testifying to the honor and great admiration in which the Misses Colenso are held. While we recognize that it would be impossible to replace even a modest part of the income which these women have expended, we hope to raise about $15,000, which will provide them with an annuity. It has been through the magnificent efforts of these two sisters that, of all the charges brought against Dinizulu, every one has fallen through, except the so-called crime of giving shelter to refugees flying from their pursuers under circumstances which—such as the case of the wife of Bambata—entitled Dinizulu to give to them every protection under the dictates of common humanity."

PRESBYTERIANS RESOLVE AGAINST USE OF TOBACCO

Denver, Colo., May 28.—Clergymen and laymen should not use tobacco, but it is not contrary to the principles of the church for Presbyterian judges to grant saloon licenses, was decided by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church yesterday.

Rev. Ellsworth Rich of Watsonville, Cal., introduced a resolution that ministers should not use tobacco. A layman arose and declared Mr. Rich should include laymen. This was done and the resolution was adopted, amid cheering. A commissioner then urged the adoption of a resolution whereby Presbyterian judges should refuse to grant licenses for saloons, even though it be their duty under the law. Several speakers at once opposed this, with the argument that a judge should not be criticised for his actions under the law, but the first speaker demanded that judges, when confronted with such a situation, resign the bench rather than grant the license. Commissioners from Pennsylvania said it was the legal duty of their district judges to issue such licenses, and opposed the resolution.

"God grant that our judges do not resign upon such an occasion," said one commissioner, "for it will only pave the way for worse ones." The resolution was defeated.

WETS GET ONE AND DRYS TWO IN INDIANA.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—La Porte and Floyd counties voted wet and Harrison county voted dry in local option elections yesterday. The victory of the wets in La Porte county, where the contest was bitter, was overwhelming. Returns indicate that the wet majority is about 4395. Floyd county voted wet by a majority of about 2,000. The dry majority in Harrison county is 165.

INCOME TAX DEBATE POSTPONED TO JUNE 10.

Washington, May 28.—By the decisive vote of 50 to 33, the senate decided yesterday to postpone until June 10 further consideration of the income tax question in connection with the tariff.

Knowledge is Power

There is one kind of knowledge that is power and prestige in the hands of a woman. It is the knowledge of her own nature, her own physical make-up and the home-treatment of diseases peculiar to her sex. There is a great home medical book that teaches all this. It is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book of 1008 pages and over 700 wood-cuts and colored plates. Over 2,300,000 American homes contain copies of this work. It used to cost $1.50; now it is free. For a paper covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.; French cloth binding, 31 stamps. A new, revised up-to-date Edition, now ready.

This great book tells all about a medicine that is a cure for all weakness and disease of the delicate organs distinctly feminine. That medicine is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. During the past 40 years many thousands of women have used it with marvelous results.

It imparts health, vigor, virility, strength and elasticity to the organs that bear the burdens of maternity. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Taken during the period of gestation, it makes the coming of baby easy and almost painless. It completely banishes the pain and misery that are the result of a woman's neglecting her womanly health.

An honest medicine dealer will give you what you ask for, and not try to persuade you to take some inferior-secret-nostrum substitute for the little added profit he may make thereon.

"Favorite Prescription" is so perfect and so good in its make-up that its makers feel warranted to print its every ingredient on its bottle-wrappers. Is that not a significant fact? As will be seen from its list of ingredients, it contains neither alcohol nor habit-forming drugs.

SMALLEST FRENCH CONSCRIPT.

London Telegraph: There are, as everybody knows who has seen a French line regiment, some extremely small soldiers in the French army. Beyond doubt, however, the most diminutive conscript who ever drew an unlucky number from the urn is Julien Touchard, a young man born at Manves, in the department of Orne, on July 19, 1888.

This conscript, who is in his twenty-first year, has only attained a height of 3 feet 2 inches, and weighs exactly forty pounds. On April 1 when, along with his fellow conscripts, he appeared before the council of revision for his district, Julien appeared clad in the short stockings and belted overalls of an infant, of which he presented the physical aspect.

Thought the military authorities are to enroll every available man, it is hardly likely that Julien Touchard will be required to shoulder a rifle. The youngest of a family of five children Julien developed normally until he was vaccinated at the age of 7, after which his growth entirely ceased. The rest of the family present no abnormality, and his brother has already passed his period of service with the colors in the One Hundred and Third infantry.

Liquor selling was prohibited in England as early as the reign of the Saxon King Edgar, who closed hundreds of alehouses.

Increased Train Service

Effective May 23, 1909, the Northern Pacific Railway augmented its passenger train service by the establishment of new trains, not alone between eastern and western terminals, but locally on main lines and branches in the several states which it serves.

¶ It has thus placed in closer touch than ever the different sections, the various cities and towns, the thriving communities, which for twenty-six years the Northern Pacific has aided and fostered in growth and progress.

¶ This increased efficiency of service means much to the territory tributary to the Northern Pacific Railway.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

¶ Additional lines projected or actually under construction will still further increase the scope of Northern Pacific co-operation in the development of the Northwest in the course of the next year or two.

¶ The present through service comprises

REAL BASKETBALL.

New York Sun: Up in a vacant lot along Riverside Drive there is in existence a game of genuine basketball. To be sure most folks believe that real basketball exists in gymnasiums and occasionally out of doors in the mild weather.

But the reason this is a genuine game is that the goal, instead of being an affair of iron braces and cord netting, is a peach basket. That was the origin of the game. When Dr. Naismith invented it, he had peach baskets on poles as receptacles for the ball.

SENSATIONAL

We call this sale sensational because of the unparalleled values given. Others can copy our ads but not the values we offer. We are slaughtering a stock of 3,000 high grade Suits and Overcoats at prices never before attempted in Duluth's history. These garments are not the cleaning of any Eastern wholesale house after a season's business, but were bought for the spring and summer of 1909—and right up to the minute in style, workmanship and quality. Every garment in the house goes on sale, including our Blue and Black Worsteds and Serges. These goods are right and at prices that should appeal to your hard-earned money.

A CLOSE SHAVE

Many of Them Happening Every Day But Soon Forgotten.

Close shaves would be of more frequent occurrence but for the tender faces of many men, which will not permit of shaving often. Heretofore, nothing has been said in these columns about poslam, a new skin discovery, in connection with its use after shaving. Its publicity and sales have been confined almost exclusively to its remarkable properties as an eczema cure; it stops the itching at once and cures the worst cases in a few days. While the application of poslam after shaving is one of its minor uses, such as for pimples, the complexion, etc., shavers will find it a revelation, as it does for abrasions, roughness, and severe scrapings what it does for all manner of skin difficulties—heals and cures in a few hours. It is the only article possessing real antiseptic and curative value that has been exploited for this purpose, and will soothe and tone up the skin as no toilet preparation could possibly do.

Poslam can be had for fifty cents at any reliable druggist's, particularly the Lyceum pharmacy and W. A. Abbe's in Duluth and Holmberg's in Superior, who make a specialty of it. Or the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West 25th Street, New York City, will send a trial supply free by mail to any one who will write for it. This is sufficient to show results in 24 hours.

MARINE NEWS

DASTARDLY ATTEMPT

Dynamite in Heffelfinger Would Have Killed Entire Crew.

Details of Outrage at Buffalo Received in Duluth.

The first complete account received in Duluth of the attempt to blow up the steamer Frank T. Heffleflnger at Buffalo Wednesday, was brought today by R. M. Mulford, a Buffalo insurance man. Mr. Mulford was at one time in the ship chandlery business in the East and is always much interested in marine matters. He was in Buffalo when the dynamite was discovered, and obtained the full account from Capt. John Towner, master of the Heffelfinger and a resident of Duluth.

The Heffelfinger arrived with a big cargo of grain Tuesday night and went to the Electric elevator to discharge. About 2 o'clock Wednesday the vessel was shifted to the Erie coal docks to load a cargo of coal for Duluth. It was about four hours later that the dynamite was discovered.

Between 6 and 7 in the morning the wheelsman discovered four sticks of dynamite stuffed into the discharge pipe of the ballast pump, which runs from the side of the vessel in a horizontal direction for a short distance and then descends vertically to the bottom of the boat. These sticks were fused and capped and fastened together with wire so arranged that they could not slide down the pipe.

The fuse had been attached and lighted, but the weight of the heavy dynamite had stretched the wire so tightly across the fuse that the spark had not passed the wire. It was extinguished by the merest accident within two inches of the explosive.

Nine men were asleep within a few feet of the deadly dynamite when it was found. The wheelsman immediately awoke the crew and notified Capt. Tower. The latter removed the dynamite and, in turn, notified the dock guards and city police.

If the explosion had occurred as planned the Heffleflnger would have been blown to pieces and probably the entire crew killed.

The explosives were directly under the place where the men were sleeping. There were two oilers, the engineers, three cooks and others. Mr. Mulford says the police will make a thorough investigation, although he says they have not much to go on.

Said Mr. Mulford: "I noticed in looking at the Heffelfinger Wednesday when she was at the dock in Buffalo, that the discharge pipe was but a few feet above the level of the dock. It would have been comparatively easy for any one to slip the dynamite into the pipe without attracting attention, and I am inclined to believe that this is what happened.

"One of the engineers told me that he was certain the dynamite had been placed on the vessel when she was at the Erie coal docks and after her cargo was discharged at the Electric elevator, for the reason that the discharge pipe had been in use and was unobstructed before the shift was made.

The Heffleflnger is owned by the Peavey Steamship company of Duluth. She is now en route to this port with a cargo of coal. Since the marine strike began the vessel has been manned with a non-union crew, and it is generally believed in marine circles that it was a deliberate attempt to blow up the boat. It would have been almost impossible to establish the exact cause of the explosion if it had occurred, according to Mr. Mulford, and it would likely have been charged to defective boilers.

It is a circumstance of note that the James H. Hoyt, which blew up off Fairport, two weeks ago, is equipped with the same kind of water tube boilers as the Heffleflnger.

CONFERENCE MAY SETTLE STRIKE

President Low of Civic Association Will Get Parties Together.

Columbus, Ohio, May 28.—Secretary J. Bishop of the Ohio state board of arbitration received a telegram today from President John Lundrigan of the New York state board, stating that President Seth Low of the National Civic association has arranged for a conference between leading vessel owners and representatives of the arbitration boards of the states affected by the strike of seamen of the Great Lakes. The conference will be held at Cleveland June 12.

NEW STEAMER IS VERY FAST

Hamonic Will Be One of Speediest Boats on Lakes.

The new passenger and freight steamer Hamonic, built at Collingwood, Ont., for the Northern Navigation company, has been given her first trial trip in Georgian bay waters. With a party of 500 invited guests aboard, the big vessel was taken from her mooring for a run of six hours. When the Hamonic goes into commission the first of the month it is believed that she will prove to be one of the fastest vessels on the Great Lakes. She will run during the summer between Duluth and Sarnia. On her first trip to this port she will bring as passengers members of the Canadian Press association, which will hold its annual convention in Montreal in June.

BUILDING CARS TO FIGHT FIRES

Six Being Constructed at N. P. Shops for Use at Terminals.

Brainerd, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.—The Northern Pacific shops are building six fire cars for the protection of their terminals from fire. Each car is provided with a large tank and a powerful steam pump driven from steam by a switch engine.

The larger part of the crew of the tie treating plant of the Northern Pacific Railway company has returned from Paradise, Mont., and the plant here will be started in about a week.

The district court was the lightest this term in the history of the county for many years. Only one indictment was returned, that being against P. M. Johnson, charged with interfering with a public officer.

FOLLOWING WESTON

Denver, Colo., May 28.—Edward Payson Weston left Denver at midnight on his westward journey, and if he finds the roads good, may keep on today to Greeley, fifty-one miles north of Denver, with a possibility of reaching Cheyenna, Wyo., tomorrow night. From Cheyenne west, Weston will follow the Union Pacific tracks to Ogden.

RICH FARMER IN STEERAGE.

E. L. Lande of Mayville, N. D., to Tour Scandinavia in Auto.

New York, May 28.—E. L. Lande, a farmer of Mayville, N. D., accompanied by his wife, was a passenger in the steerage of the White Star steamship Adriatic yesterday, bound for an automobile trip in Norway and Sweden. Mr. Lande's car had been shipped ahead. He told reporters that he had come to this country in the steerage several years ago when he was poor, and that he thought it a good enough way to go back. It was comfortable and there was no use wasting money on extravagance.

HAVANA GROWS VERY BAD, AGAIN

Immoral Theater Shows Increase Since American Rule Ceased.

Havana, May 28.—There has been a marked increase in immoral performances at the theaters of Havana, accompanied by a general spread of vice and an outbreak of gambling since the Amerlcn occupation came to an end.

In order to counteract these vicious tendencies a meeting was held last night in the home of Bishop Estrada. Many prominent citizens were present and a society for the prevention of vice was formed.

The meeting was adjourned until June 3, when arrangements for the inauguration of a vigorous campaign will be completed.

H. KANDELIN WINS CASE

The Village of Ely Must Pay Him $4,000 Damages.

Jury Says Fall on Sidewalk Was Range Town's Fault.

Hermann Kandelin will receive $4,000 for injuries received from a fall on a broken sidewalk in Ely.

The case has been on for the past three days before Judge Martin Hughes and the jury this morning brought in a verdict for the above mentioned amount.

Kandelin brought suit against the city of Ely for $25,000 and $600 additional as special damages to cover expenses which he claimed the injuries had cost him.

Pieces of broken sidewalk were exhibited during the trial and much of the evidence hinged on just how a man would fall when stepping on a broken board and what efforts he would make to save himself. His fall, the defense claimed, was a natural one, and not the fault of the sidewalk. The plaintiff claimed it was an unnatural fall caused by the giving way of the walk beneath him. Attorney Hollister for the plaintiff illustrated in his summing up before the jury the manner of a natural and unnatural fall.

An interesting fact brought out in the testimony was the testimony given by several doctors, when they said that a greater hurt might give way before the lesser. The smaller injury might seem at the time of the accident the more serious. At the time of the happening Kandelin complained only of a sprained ankle, but later he found that he had been injured in other parts of his body and the ankle was forgotten. He claimed nothing for the accident to the ankle, but sued for internal injuries which, it is said, will trouble him through life.

JAMES SHARP CASE GOES TO THE JURORS.

Kansas City, Mo., May 28.—James Sharp ("Adam God"), who has been on trial in the criminal court for nearly a fortnight, heard the closing arguments in his case today. Sharp's trial came as a result of a bloody religious riot that took place here between his band of traveling street evangelists and a number of police officers Dec. 8, within a block of the city hall. In the fight five persons lost their lives and three others were wounded.

Mrs. Sharp is yet to be tried for her part of the affair.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Little has been done during the winter of more vital importance in the bettering of living conditions in Duluth than the May festival of music, which began this afternoon with a children's matinee, that was placed within the reach of any child in the city. The men who have made great efforts, in the face of repeated discouragements, to bring this splendid impulse for good to the lives of Duluth's citizens, are worthy of the gratitude of the people. It takes a clear vision of the value of such things as fine music, to try, time after time, in the face of repeated discouragement to cheerfully and enthusiastically make great efforts for such concerts. Messrs. T. W. Hugo, Stephen H. Jones and Horace W. Reyner have the vision clearly, and if eventually Duluth is able to support a symphony orchestra of its own, the insistent and pioneer work done by these devoted men, and those associated with them, should and will be remembered.

It is some satisfaction to feel that the present series of concerts will be a brilliant success, a satisfaction to those who have worked faithfully, and to those who receive the benefits of the music, such as the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra can provide.

Nothing more valuable can be given the children of the day.

A MUSIC LOVER.

Duluth, May 27.

SCHOOL YARDS

Chicago's progressive board of education, under the leadership of the board's architect, Dwight H. Perkins, has planned for the expenditure this year of $150,000 for the adornment of school yards, says the current issue of The Survey. Fifty schools have been selected, each of them having in its yard not less than thirty square feet of play space for each pupil. The idea is to put flowers and shrubs around the borders and against the building, where they will lead to interfere with the playground; but the work is all to be done under expert guidance, so that the result will be a very distinct contribution to the attractiveness of the school setting. The extent of this year's appropriation is in recognition that this sort of work has ceased to be an experiment in Chicago. It has been in practice there for some years, and is exceedingly popular with the children themselves, a rivalry in beauty of grounds growing up among the schools that have been thus improved. It is pointed out by an advocate of the plan that not only are the plants of study value, and not only do they educate the children, all unconsciously, to appreciate beauty; but that by such transformation the school becomes a pleasure to the residents of its neighborhood, and its possibilities as a social center are correspondingly enhanced. Such are the ramifications of civic aesthetics!

The conditions of labor among the women of the state will be investigated and especially efforts made toward inquiries into child labor conditions throughout Minnesota.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS

In Connection With the May Festival.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Reyner will entertain at luncheon tomorrow at the Commercial club in compliment to Emil Oberhoffer, director of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. Covers will be laid for twelve.

Mr. Oberhoffer will entertain the men of his orchestra at a dinner in the evening, following the concert at the Lyceum. The orchestra finishes its season tomorrow evening, and within a few days the musicians will be scattered on their summer vacations. Many will spend the summer in Europe, and Mr. Oberhoffer's party this evening will be a farewell social after a most satisfying season.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Watt Celebrate Their Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Watt were the guests of honor at a delightful surprise party last evening at their home at Lester park, the affair being in honor of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Watt wore her wedding gown, the quaint style appearing in interesting contrast to the styles of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Watt were married at Albert Lea, Minn., but many years of their married life have been spent at Lester park, and the guests passed a pleasant evening in reminiscences. A gift of silver spoons was presented the guests of honor.

In Honor of Bride.

Miss Myra Peterson entertained last evening in honor of Miss Alice Swenson, whose wedding to Carl W. Reed of Cresco, Iowa will take place in June. A number of pretty gifts were presented the guest of honor. The guests were:

Mesdames—
W. D. Dryer, A. Monaghan,
Misses—
Claire Wheeler, Emily Landmark,
Mary McMahon, Frances Carley,
Ella Shields, Kruschke.
J. Smith.

To Wed at St. Paul.

A wedding of much interest in local Jewish circles will take place at St. Paul Tuesday of next week when Miss Alice Ferguson of that city will become the bride of Edward Helperin, who is well known in Duluth, where he formerly lived.

Among the Duluthians who will attend the ceremony will be Mr. and Mrs. William Goldstein, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Helperin, Miss Elizabeth Helperin, Miss Sadie Rocklin, Alex Rocklin, Charles D. Oreckovsky, and Lewis Helperin.

Mr. Helperin and his bride will come to Duluth in June to attend the wedding of Mr. Helperin's sister, Miss Elizabeth Helperin to Charles Oreckovsky.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Barnum arrived in New York yesterday on the steamer Deutschland from a trip around the world. They will return to Duluth Sunday.

PARIS IN JUNE

Is Pleasure Gowned For Summer Visitors.

In June Paris turns into a sort of pleasure ground—a great country fair, you would call it—for the restless throng of summer visitors who "do" the churches and picture galleries conscientiously and then give themselves over to a frank enjoyment of the shops and restaurants, writes Edouard La Fontaine in the June Delineator. I overheard a fragment of a conversation between two of your countrywomen, both of them young and very pretty, who had separated early in the afternoon, one of them to visit the Louvre and the other Notre Dame, and who suddenly came face to face an hour later in the busy and fascinating shopping district of the Rue de la Paix.

"But I thought—" they both began, and then from the younger and prettier of the two, "Yes, I know, the Louvre is awfully worth while, but so hard on your feet," and then two or three people pushed in between us and I lost sight of them in the crowded avenue.

Paris is for the Parisians until the fifteenth of June, when the Grand Prix and the Malsons-Laffite keep the habitues of the races chained fast to the city. But after that the Paris season is over, and smart society takes itself across the channel to the English Derby and Ascot races. Meanwhile the shops make marvelous preparations for the spendthrift tourists, who come ready to give up their gold in return for French lingerie and hand-made blouses.

For the traveler always succumbs to the fascination of the French lingerie waist. When one is touring, the smart two-piece tailored suit of dark colored linen or pongee, worn with separate blouses, is practically the only answer to the old problem, how to be clean, comfortable and good-looking for three months in continental hotels and railway coaches. The crepon waist, although not particularly new, that can be washed out in one's room at bedtime and be worn fresh and immaculate at breakfast, will prove a good friend this summer to the woman who has to live more or less in a suit case on the short side trips and expeditions when her boxes and heavier luggage are an uncertain commodity.

Most of the washable waists are built on very simple lines. A great many of them have a single deep tuck on the shoulder at the front and back that just covers the armhole seam. A model of this kind has the advantage of leaving the entire front of the blouse for an effective display of handwork. Huge chrysanthemums, conventionalized daisies and other free, open designs are left for the hand embroidery, which is oftener than not done in colors, especially in dull-blue and close-pink. Over here most of the waists are made with the low open necks, but the shops show a great many with the high collars as a distinct concession to the American element in Paris.

Millinery Offering

All hats on sale in the Annex tomorrow, Saturday; some worth as high as $15.00, all go at $5.00.

MISS FITZPATRICK,
502-504 East Fourth Street.
Has just returned from the East with a complete line of Midsummer millinery.

NEW HATS.

How to Make Them Out of Old Ones.

Even though the shape is one that may be worn another season, the hat will probably have lost much of its freshness while packed away, and, of course, newness must be restored before it is worn, says the New York Telegraph in telling how to do the impossible—make an old hat look like a new one.

In renovating black chip hats they should be thoroughly brushed to remove all dust, and then, if they are rubbed with a rag slightly moistened with sweet oil, the gray appearance will disappear.

A dingy-looking black straw hat may be freshened by rubbing with a cloth wrung out of hot water and ammonia. When dry, it must be wiped with a solution of one part alcohol and one part shellac. This process will be effective for colored straw hats if they are only dull and not faded in streaks.

Faded straw hats will look like new if painted with oil paint in the desired shade. The same color or black should be used on the old color, but cream or white straw may be died any tint by this process.

Artificial flowers may be touched with the paint and gasoline solution, and so may ostrich feathers. Pretty effects may be obtained by making the paint in different shades and then tinting flowers or feathers as fancy dictates.

Good net or lace may always be renovated. It may be washed in weak tea by squeezing in the hands and then passing through warm water in which a little gum arabic has been dissolved.

The proportions are one-half ounce of the latter to ten ounces of the former. The net should be placed between two cloths and slapped with the hands to absorb the water, afterward laying between two dry cloths for ironing. Of course, this method is only intended for the average millinery laces, not expensive kinds.

Black quills may be brightened by rubbing with a rag dipped in alcohol, and colored wings or quills that have faded may be touched with the oil paint and gasoline method with very good results.

Good quality ribbons will dye, but those of a poor grade will not be a success. In dyeing ribbons it should be remembered that those of different colors put into the same dye pot will not come out the same tint unless the pot contains black dye, of course. But supposing a pink and a blue ribbon are dyed red, the two will differ in shade when dry. There is a kind of bleach that can be bought for discharging the colors.

Velvet must be steamed, not crushed. For this process one or the irons with removable handles should be heated, then placed face upward and a wet cloth laid on it. The back of the velvet is held over the steam that arises. Then give a slight brushing and the nap rises.

The Season's Styles.

Paris is wearied of the net yoke and sleeves for simple gowns, and has returned to sleeves of the fabric. Women who are making new gowns should take notice. Not only is this true of special foulard, but it is true of almost every high-priced model that smart women have ordered from Paris. Those who dress individually have been taking out net sleeves and replacing them with fabric ones for some weeks, but it is only now that the idea will become popular. The sleeves are slightly full, puffed out quite a little at the elbow, then tightened into a cuff of net, foulard, and soutache, which is buttoned over the wrist and flares over the hand.

As the season wears on it is noticed that many of the smartest gowns are of the jumper class, with blouses of net dyed to match the material, the net usually more or less outached in self tone. The blouses are lined with China silk, usually in white or a light color, with the effect of lightening the costume. Folded girdles in their normal place at the natural waistline are used in these frocks. Can sleeves trimmed with embroidery or slashed at the back and laced across in lattice effect, are another feature of the blouses.

It is reported that at Palm Beach every other woman wears a flowered chiffon scarf, or one of the Syrian metal affairs draped over her shoulders. The favorite drapery is in hood effect, the folds of the scarf hanging loosely down the back. The shop windows are now full of the brilliant Syrian scarfs, some with gold and others with silver tinsel sewed to the mesh. These scarfs are supposed to be washable and even the simplest pattern requires a month of patient work. This summer the scarfs will be much worn with thin frocks and will be thrown, Highland lad fashion, over one shoulder like a plaidie.

All the last year's frocks are having their collars and high stocks ripped ruthlessly off now, for never was there a season when bare throats were to be so entirely in order for street as well as house wear and for young and middle-aged alike. Coats matching these collarless frocks are also without collars, some of them opening in a deep square to show how the frock is cut away at the throat. The collarless effects are not confined to the light fabrics, dark silks and even mohair and wool fabrics opening at the throat without any finish save, perhaps, a fold of tulle or a round silk cord.

It Is a Pleasure to Choose Wedding Gifts Here

This might well be termed "The Wedding Gift Store of Duluth," so replete is every department with appropriate gifts of the unusual character, typical of this store.

Instead of the selecting of the wedding gift being a task—it is here a pleasure, because here you find so many new and individual things you had never before thought of.

And there is an enjoyment—a satisfaction in giving a Bagley gift—for you know it will be appreciated by the one who receives it—you know it will prove its worthiness in the service it will give—and you know it will always truly represent the sentiment that prompted its giving.

What gift could more truly reflect your sentiments and prove more useful in the new home than some pieces of Bagley's Solid Silver, of the English standard of fineness, 925-1000—or some useful piece of exquisite cut glass—or some article of rock crystal or engraved glass—or a handsome set of china, or an artistic piece of Tiffany ware—or, if it be for a member of the family, some gift of gem-set jewelry.

There is so much here that is givable and away from the ordinary, one can hardly do justice to the problem of gift selection without, at least, visiting this store.

Many of the washable waists are built on very simple lines. A great many of them have a single deep tuck on the shoulder at the front and back that just covers the armhole seam. A model of this kind has the advantage of leaving the entire front of the blouse for an effective display of handwork. Huge chrysanthemums, conventionalized grasses and other free open designs are worked out cleverly in soutache or ratine braid, while the smaller daintier motifs are left for the hand embroidery, which is often more than not done in colors, especially in dull-blue and old-pink. Over here most of the waists are made with the low open necks, but the shops show a great many with the high collars as a distinct concession to the American element in Paris.

Millinery Offering

All hats on sale in the Annex tomorrow, Saturday; some worth as high as $15.00, all go at $5.00.

MISS FITZPATRICK,
502-504 East Fourth Street.
Has just returned from the East with a complete line of Midsummer millinery.

NEW HATS.

How to Make Them Out of Old Ones.

Even though the shape is one that may be worn another season, the hat will probably have lost much of its freshness while packed away, and, of course, newness must be restored before it is worn, says the New York Telegraph in telling how to do the impossible—make an old hat look like a new one.

In renovating black chip hats they should be thoroughly brushed to remove all dust, and then, if they are rubbed with a rag slightly moistened with sweet oil, the gray appearance will disappear.

A dingy-looking black straw hat may be freshened by rubbing with a cloth wrung out of hot water and ammonia. When dry, it must be wiped with a solution of one part alcohol and one part shellac. This process will be effective for colored straw hats if they are only dull and not faded in streaks.

Faded straw hats will look like new if painted with oil paint in the desired shade. The same color or black should be used as the old color, but cream or white straw may be died any tint by this process.

Artificial flowers may be touched with the ammonia and gasoline solution, and so may ostrich feathers. Pretty effects may be obtained by making the paint in different shades and then tinting flowers or feathers as fancy dictates.

Good net or lace may always be renovated. It may be washed in weak tea by squeezing in the hands and then passing through warm water in which a little gum arabic has been dissolved.

The proportions are one-half ounce of the latter to ten ounces of the former. The net should be placed between two cloths and shapped with the hands to absorb the water, afterward laying between two dry cloths for ironing, of course, this method is only intended for the average millinery laces, not expensive kinds.

Black quills may be brightened by rubbing with a rag dipped in alcohol, and colored wings or quills that have faded may be touched with the oil paint and gasoline method with very good results.

Good quality ribbons will dye, but those of a poor grade will not be a success. In dyeing ribbons it should be remembered that those of different colors put into the same dye pot will not come out the same tint unless the pot contains black dye, of course. But supposing a pink and a blue ribbon are dyed red, the two will differ in shade when dry. There is a kind of bleach that can be bought for discharging the colors.

Velvet must be steamed, not crushed. For this process one or the irons with removable handles should be heated, then placed face upward and a wet cloth laid on it. The back of the velvet is held over the steam that rises. Then give a slight brushing and the nap rises.

The Season's Styles.

Paris is worried of the net yoke and sleeves for simple gowns, and has returned to sleeves of the fabric. Women who are making new gowns should take notice. Not only is this true of special foulard, but it is true of almost every high-priced model that smart women have ordered from Paris. Those who dress individually have been taking out net sleeves and replacing them with fabric ones for some weeks, but it is only now that the idea will become popular. The sleeves are slightly full, puffed out quite a little at the elbow, then tightened into a cuff of net, foulard, and soutache, which is buttoned over the wrist and flares over the hand.

As the season wears on it is noticed that many of the smartest gowns are of the jumper class, with blouses of net dyed to match the material, the net usually more or less outlined in self tone. The blouses are lined with China silk, usually in white or a light color, with the effect of lightening the costume. Folded girdles in their normal place at the natural waistline are used in these frocks. Cap sleeves trimmed with an broidery or slashed at the back and laced across in lattice effect, are another feature of the blouses.

It is reported that at Palm Beach every other woman wears a flowered chiffon scarf, or one of the Syrian meshes, about the head over her shoulders. The favorite drapery is in hood effect, the folds of the scarf hanging loosely down the back. The shop windows are now full of the brilliant Syrian scarfs, some with gold and others with silver tinsel sewed to the mesh. These scarfs are supposed to be washable and even the simplest pattern requires a month of patient work. This summer the scarfs will be much worn with thin frocks and will be thrown, Highland lad fashion, over one shoulder like a plaidie.

All the last years frocks are having their collars and high stocks ripped ruthlessly off now, for never was there a season when bare throats were to be so entirely in order for street as well as house wear and for young and middle-aged alike. Coats matching these collarless frocks are also without collar, some of them opening in a deep square to show how the frock is cut away at the throat. The collarless effects are not confined to the light fabrics, dark silks and even models and wool fabrics opening at the throat without any finish save, perhaps, a fold of tulle or a round silk cord.

Miss Morse to Wed Frenchman.

Paris, May 28.—Josephine Morse, daughter of the late Samuel E. Morse of Indianapolis, Ind., consul general at Paris under the Cleveland administration, will be married in this city next Tuesday to Robert Louzen, a Frenchman, whom she met in Japan, while traveling around the world with her mother.

JUNKIN'S DEFENSE IS HE IS IRRESPONSIBLE.

Centerville, Iowa, May 28.—The defense in the case of John Junkin on trial for the murder of Charles Joseph, recalled Undertaker Roscoe today to give testimony tending to impress the jury that the defendant is irresponsible. Mrs. Anna Johnson, Mrs. Anna Mathers and Charles Mathers told of seeing Duluth leaving the scene of the crime.

It Is a Pleasure to Choose Wedding Gifts Here

This might well be termed "The Wedding Gift Store of Duluth," so replete is every department with appropriate gifts of the unusual character, typical of this store.

Instead of the selecting of the wedding gift being a task—it is here a pleasure, because here you find so many new and individual things you had never before thought of.

And there is an enjoyment—a satisfaction in giving a Bagley gift—for you know it will be appreciated by the one who receives it—you know it will prove its worthiness in the service it will give—and you know it will always truly represent the sentiment that prompted its giving.

What gift could more truly reflect your sentiments and prove more useful in the new home than some pieces of Bagley's Solid Silver, of the English standard of fineness, 925-1000—or some useful piece of exquisite cut glass—or some article of rock crystal or engraved glass—or a handsome set of china, or an artistic piece of Tiffany ware—or, if it be for a member of the family, some gift of gem-set jewelry.

There is so much here that is givable and away from the ordinary, one can hardly do justice to the problem of gift selection without, at least, visiting this store.

THE MAY FESTIVAL

Editor Herald:

Little more than during the week of the festival will the attractions in the beautiful Lyceum be open to the public. Has the May festival of music been a success? Has it been worth the money it has cost? Has it been the pleasure that the Victor or Edison has in getting new perfect records that have not been danced and worn to repeatedly being loaned and used records in the grocer's store. Every record you buy here is perfect, new, full toned and will last longer and give you perfect results. Hear the records here, notice the difference in tone and richness. They cost no more than records that are not new.

SCHOOL YARDS

Editor Herald:

Duluth's progressive board of education under the leadership of the present architect, Dwight H. Perkins, has planned for the expenditure this year of $150,000 for the betterment of school yards says the current issue of The Survey. Fifty schools have been selected, each of them needing the equivalent of more than thirty acres of play space for each pupil. The idea is to put flowers and shrubs in the barren and unused portions of the yards. It is proposed to begin the work first with the playground beautification. It is intended that this shall be done under expert guidance, so that the result will be a very distinct contribution to the attractiveness of the school setting. The cooperation in this work of the women's clubs is solicited, it appreciate beauty, but that is several transformation the school becomes a pleasure to the residents of the neighborhood and its possibilities for good extend far correspondingly. A matter well worth the ramifications of civic aesthetics!

SOCIALISTS FIGHTING IT

Co-partnership Is Advocated By Biggest Employers in England.

Plan Is Offered as Solution of the Labor Problem.

London, May 28.—Co-partnership, or profit-sharing, as a solution of the labor problem is at present the subject of the hour in England and arrangements are now being made for a national convention of great employers to devise a plan for its universal introduction.

Co-partnership in the business world here is really no new thing. There are firms in England that for fifty years have shared their profits in one form or another with their employes, but the movement is now being taken up widely as a remedy for the great disturbances of industry caused by strikes and as a check to the growth of Socialism. So far the movement has assumed two forms, one is a mere sharing of profits, the payment to the workmen of a bonus calculated on their earnings in profitable years. The other and truer form of co-partnership takes the form of assigning to the employes stock in the company, on which regular dividends are paid when earned just as on the stock of the regular shareholders.

The first system has been in operation for a good many years in a number of large gas companies. It was introduced by the late Sir George Livesey at the South Metropolitan gasworks, London, with the object of inducing the workmen to economize in their own time and the company's materials, and it worked so successfully that the company was able not only to pay substantial bonuses to the workers and large dividends to its shareholders, but also repeatedly to reduce the price of gas to the public. There has never been a strike of this company's employes since the system was introduced.

Actual Shareholders.

The more modern method of making the employes actual shareholders owes its vogue to the work of the great captains of industry. Sir Christopher Furness, the great shipbuilder, and shipowner, and W. H. Lever, M. P., the log soapmaker, whose works are at Port Sunlight, near Liverpool, the famous Sunlight soap works. The ball was set all over the world by Sir Christopher Furness early this year after a series of disastrous strikes which nearly ruined the shipbuilding industry in the north of England. Sir Christopher made two propositions to his employes. One was to sell two shipyards at the low terms at a figure to be fixed by an arbitrator, and to allow them a long period to pay for them. The other was that the employes should acquire the shipyards themselves. The latter scheme was agreed to, and is now in operation. Under it the men consented to have 5 per cent of their wages set aside for the purchase of shares in the company. These shares are guaranteed to pay 5 per cent and after that they share in the common stock dividend. If a man leaves or is discharged he must surrender his shares to the company—at their market value, but his security of employment is guaranteed by the establishment of a works council consisting of an equal number of members of the employes and the administrative staff, to which every man shall have the right to appeal. This council will also deal with all disputes about wages or anything else arising between the men and the company.

A similar scheme, differing only in slight details, has been adopted by Lever Bros. and affects about 2,000 employes. This scheme involves the creation of $2,500,000 in co-partnership certificates, and they will be allotted yearly to the employes in accordance with the length of service and the wages earns. Thus a man whose earnings are less than $500 a year will be allowed to acquire a maximum of $1,000 in co-partnership shares, while a man earning $5,750 a year or more may acquire $15,000 worth of shares. This rule is based on the theory that if a man has not risen into a higher position before accumulating $1,000 in co-partnership shares, he would be more than that as a partner to the concern.

Every One a Capitalist.

The scheme has also been adopted by jam-makers, shoe manufacturers, and a host of other firms, the method being varied to suit the particular company, but in the broad lines all agree in making the worker an actual shareholder in the company which employs him. "Every worker a capitalist" is the catch word of the new movement.

It is suggested that at the national conference which Sir Christopher Furness is working to call into being, all the existing schemes should be submitted and carefully analyzed and discussed by experts and that, if possible, some standard scheme should be adopted which would be suitable, with modifications for every class of business. Employers all over the country have hailed the suggestion with pleasure and signified their willingness to attend and to all in their power to further the growth of the movement.

The truth is that the great captains of industry in England are becoming frightened by the growth of Socialism and they see in Sir Christopher's scheme the most potent weapon to check that growth. They believe that when every workman has an actual tangible cash interest in the company which employs him, he will hesitate a long time before going in for a political movement whose aim it is to destroy the value of the cash interest.

In addition to that there is, of course, the fact that a prosperous share in the profits will have a powerful influence in inducing the workman to do his best to increase those profits. A little extra effort in turning out work and a little extra care in the use of material often means the difference in a large concern between a substantial dividend and a loss.

The Weak Point.

So far the weak point seems to be that no provision is made for the lower grades of unskilled labor. The employment of this class of labor is so casual and the population engaged in it so shifting that it is hard to devise any scheme which will include it.

"I regard the extension of the co-partnership system as the most important industrial or commercial question today," said Sir Christopher Furness, "it is quite as epoch-making as the introduction of the limited company. The latter created a host of small capitalists and enabled the man of small means to become a partner in the great business concerns of the country. Co-partnership will enable the workman to become in reality his own employer and will make his interests identical with those of the other shareholders, from the managing director down."

The leading socialists of the country are alarmed at the growth of the movement and are doing all in their power to clog it.

"It is all humbug," said Harry Quelch, editor of Justice, the organ of the Social Democratic Federation. "The root of all these co-partnership schemes is to induce the worker to do a lot more work for a little extra money. It is called profit-sharing but it has been found in practice that the capitalist employers' profits increase a great deal, while the worker receives only a very little more. All the trades unions are at heart opposed to this scheme, but some of them have had to submit to it as the only alternative to a fight for which they were not prepared."

Farmer Is Killed.

Marquette, Mich., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Driving a team, Louis Brown, aged 26, the son of a farmer living at Wetmore, Alger county, was instantly killed when the horses ran away and dashed down a hill at top speed. Striking a stump, the wagon was overturned and the young man was crushed to death under the heavy load of baled hay that he had been transporting.

BAILEY IN HOT FIGHT

Texas Senator Attacks Newspaper Writer at the Capitol.

Seized By Senator Clapp and Further Trouble Stopped.

Washington, May 28. — Senator Bailey of Texas, and W. S. Manning, representative of the New York Times, in the senate press gallery, exchanged blows just as the senate adjourned yesterday, as a result of a conversation they had in reference to an article printed by the New York newspaper questioning the sincerity of the senator in his course on the income tax.

Neither of the participants was injured as they were separated by Senator Clapp, Porto Rican Commissioner Larrinaga, a number of senate employes and several newspaper correspondents. The versions of Mr. Bailey and Mr. Manning are in substantial agreement as to the cause of the trouble and differ only as to the number of blows struck by each.

A bitter attack upon the author of an article in the New York Times, charging that Senator Bailey had played into the hands of Senator Aldrich by his course in demanding an immediate vote on the income tax amendment and had thus caused a split of the forces supporting such an amendment, was made by Senator Bailey on the floor of the senate yesterday. Mr. Manning accosted Mr. Bailey after the adjournment of the session to inform him that he was inaccurate in suggesting Republican senators as a possible source of inspiration for the article. According to both men, Manning and Senator Bailey, the former disclaimed authorship of the story, and at the same time stated that the inspiration for it had been Mr. Bailey's demands for an immediate vote and his "hazing" of the Republican senators, who favored the income tax proposition, but who did not support him in his demands for a vote at the present time.

Bailey asked who did write the article and at the same time declared, it is said, that the man who had written it was a "liar." According to both men, the senator's language was emphatic, and Mr. Manning responded that he "had not had the honor to write the story."

Bailey says the word "honor" was emphasized in a manner intended to be offensive. The conversation was begun in front of the main door of the senate chamber and was continued through the corridor leading to the senate committee on finance. The two men were directly in front of the door leading to the finance committee chamber and also in front of one of the doors of the private elevators. Several persons heard the word "liar" proclaimed in a loud voice and then saw Mr. Bailey and Mr. Manning clinch. The latter claims Mr. Bailey hit him first. In the mix-up Mr. Manning struck the senator with his umbrella, knocking off the senator's hat, and the senator grasped Mr. Manning by the throat.

Just at that moment the elevator stopped at the senate floor and Senator Clapp and Mr. Larrinaga stepped from the car. Without waiting to learn the cause of the disturbance, Mr. Clapp threw his arms about Senator Bailey, who at that time seemed to be in a position to do serious injury to the newspaper correspondent, a young man of slight build.

The Texas senator struggled desperately to break from this restraint, but Senator Clapp tightened his hold and the newspaper correspondents led Mr. Manning away and insisted upon his leaving the corridor.

The speech by Mr. Bailey in regard to the newspaper article was one of the most scathing arraignments of a newspaper correspondent that has ever taken place in the senate. The senator not only asserted that the writer of the article was "an infamous liar," but that he was a "miserable creature, unfit to associate with honest men." In this vein he talked for, considerable time. Mr. Manning, also is a Southerner, being born on South Carolina grounds.

HUMAN SKELETONS ARE FOUND AT WATERSMEET.

Iron River, Mich., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A report from Watersmeet says that the skeletons of a man and a woman have been found in the debris of an old hotel at State Line, a village in Gogebic county, Mich., closed to the Wisconsin boundary. It is believed that the couple whose remains the bones are have not been dead more than two or three years. It is suspected that murder was done, and the authorities are conducting an investigation.

HASKELL IS INDICTED AGAIN; TESTIMONY IS UNFAIR, HE ASSERTS

Tulsa, Okla., May 28.—Indictments charging fraud in the Muskogee town lot cases were returned by the United States grand jury yesterday against Governor Charles H. Haskell, E. B. Cowart, W. T. Hutchins, C. W. Turner, Sayers, W. T. Hutchins, C. W. Turner, A. S. English and W. R. Eaton. Governor Haskell, in discussing the indictments, said:

"As a result of four government attorneys and an army of secret service men surrounding the grand jury and limiting the testimony to just what suited them, indictments have been secured against me. I am thoroughly satisfied that when the whole facts are made known in the open, the government at Washington will not approve of these cases, which practically all the people of this locality know have no merit, and that there has not been an violation of law in any particular. The after disclosures in this case will speak for themselves and show plainly the origin and intent connected with them. The only embarrassment to me in the trial is that many witnesses must be brought from a great distance and will result in much other expense which unfortunately I have not the means to bear. However, my numerous friends in Oklahoma, including many Republicans, have generously shared the expense up to date, a kindness I have sincerely appreciated, and I have only regret the expense of further proceedings on that account."

The accused men are charged with obtaining titles from the government to town lots in Muskogee by illegal methods. Bond in each case was fixed at $5,000 and was promptly furnished. Arrangements for the trials have not been made, but it is thought the cases will be heard at an early date.

This is the second indictment of Governor Haskell in the Tulsa case, the first bill being dismissed on a technicality. The federal authorities at once began preparing new evidence along lines indicated by the court's ruling.

The fight before the grand jury had many sensational features. Numerous witnesses from Ohio, where Haskell formerly lived, testified.

Games Today.

Open dates for all teams in the Minnesota-Wisconsin league.

Wausau, Wis., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wausau, by way of farewell to the Duluth White Sox, who are on their way home today, fell upon two pitchers they introduced in yesterday's game, forcing them to flee, and making it necessary for the management to interpolate a third twirler. Final score 4 to 2, in favor of Wausau.

Murray had charge of the box for Duluth at the beginning, but when the home team galloped in with two tallies in the first inning Mr. Murray left, and he did not come back. Mr. Thorsen appeared in his stead. In the third Wausau got two more runs, and it became necessary for Duluth to insert Dauss in Thorsen's place. There were no more runs for Wausau after that.

Duluth got two runs altogether, and they were captured in the wilds of the first inning when Wausau made two errors, which helped the visitors some. Lakoff pitched a great game for Wausau, striking out ten men. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Wausau	2	6	0
Duluth	2	4	2

Batteries—Lakoff and Johnson, Murray, Thorsen, Dauss and Mueller.

Murray! Superior Wins.

La Crosse, Wis., May 28.—Superior closed its road series here yesterday with a victory over the La Crosse team by a score of 7 to 4, the first game it has won since the opening game at Wausau, May 12. La Crosse tried out a new pitcher, Richardson, and the drillers had a splendid opportunity to batten their batting averages.

The features of the game were the batting of J. Olson of Superior and the sensational fielding of Kraker of La Crosse. Superior tried out two new men, Crooker at first and O'Hearne at second, and both showed up well.

The Superior team left at 6 o'clock last night for home. Score:

Double-header Divided.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 28.—Milwaukee and Minneapolis split even in a double-header here yesterday afternoon, the visitors winning the first by a score of 2 to 0 and the home club capturing the second, 5 to 1. In the first game both Patterson and Pape pitched beautiful ball, the former holding the home to two hits, both of them secured by Moran. A pass to Oyler, Downs' two-bagger and a scratch single by Gill gave the visitors the game in the eighth inning. In the second game the home club bunched hits off Cates while Schmeiberg pitched invincible ball, Randall's work in center field was the feature of the second game. Scores:

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

When the blood becomes infected with the virus of Contagious Blood Poison, the symptoms are soon manifested. The mouth and throat ulcerate, copper-colored spots appear, a red rash breaks out, the hair begins to come out, and usually sores and ulcers show themselves on different parts of the body. At the first sign of the disease S. S. S. should be taken, for the trouble is too powerful and dangerous to trifle with. If allowed to run on the tendency is to work down and attack the bones and nerves, and sometimes it makes a complete physical wreck of the sufferer. The disease can make no such headway if S. S. S. is commenced and used according to directions; its progress can be stopped, the poison removed, and health preserved. S. S. S. goes into the blood and removes the insidious virus, cleanses the circulation and makes a complete and permanent cure by driving out the cause. S. S. S. quickly takes effect on the blood, and gradually the symptoms disappear, the health is improved, the skin cleared of all spots, sores and blemishes, and when S. S. S. has thoroughly purified the circulation no trace of the disease is left. S. S. S., a purely vegetable remedy, cures Contagious Blood Poison because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, tested and proven for more than forty years. LICENSE FEE FOR FISHING

Non-Residents Must Pay to Angle in Wisconsin Waters.

New Law Is of Particular Interest to Duluthians.

Duluth fishermen who angle in Northern Wisconsin waters, will hereafter be expected to pay the sister state a license fee of $1, and if this is not done, the offender will be liable to a fine or imprisonment.

This is of general interest on this side of the bay, for there are a great many Duluthians who make it a practice to fish in Wisconsin waters. A new game and fish law bill passed the Wisconsin state senate at Madison yesterday, and in it is a provision stating that non-residents over 16 years of age will be required to pay a license fee of $1 for fishing with hook and line. The hunting license for non-residents remains the same as formerly.

The new fish license law may result in some interesting complications along the St. Louis river. If Wisconsin wardens wish to insist upon a strict observance of the measure. Part of the river is in Minnesota and part in Wisconsin and under the law any Duluth fisherman found angling on the Wisconsin side of the stream, unless they have a license, can be arrested. The mouth of the Nokegama river opposite West Duluth, a spot largely frequented by West Duluth anglers. These waters are in Wisconsin, and in future will, under the law, be closed to Duluthians unless they have a license.

Certain Northern Wisconsin lakes and streams are also well patronized by Duluthians. Hereafter these sportsmen will be put to the inconvenience of taking out a license, or else will stand in danger of being arrested.

Licenses can be secured only through the Douglas county clerk, in the courthouse, which is located in the East end of Superior. This is the same place where the hunting licenses are secured.

(By Bruce.)

If you are troubled with some throat weakness, kindly take some candy cough drops, or some other equally good remedy for your thorax —we need all the sons that you can possibly make at tomorrow's game.

Bring a horn with you, or some other instrument, that, even if it is not musical, will make a heap of noise. It is necessary that all of the thirty-third degree fans of the city be on deck, at the opening clash on the home grounds.

Of late the Duluth team has begun to play good baseball. Even if they hadn't played any good baseball during the entire season, the pennant chase is too young for the fans to show any resentment against the team. Everybody who loves baseball because it is the great national game of this country, and the cleanest and best game ever played, should be on hand tomorrow to welcome the members of the team to the city.

The grounds should be packed to their capacity tomorrow. The parade is going to be one of the features of the opening of the season at home. Plans have been made to make the parade greater than any baseball parade ever held in Duluth. The parade will be one of the important parts of the home-coming reception, but it is of still greater importance to have a good crowd in the stands when the umps gives the getaway signal.

The chances are that if the team gets off to a good start, it will win a lot of games of the present home series. The assistance of every rooter in Duluth is needed at the game tomorrow. The first game at home is one that plays a large influence in the players' opinions of the city. If everything turns out at the home games of the present series, and the team then continues to lose, it will not be the fault of the rooters.

However, the attendance does have a very large effect upon the playing of any team, but all the teams in the league cannot head the percentage column.

The effects of Henrietta Crossman, the actress, were sold in little old New York recently. You never can guess who was the purchaser of a Russian brass jardiniere, two antique brass candle holders, and a clock. Honestly, Tom Sharkey. Tom, he of the cauliflower ear, yeggman expression, mingled with the society folk and actually outbid some of the Fifth avenue bunch. When Tom was in Europe he made an effort to purchase the statue of Venus de Milo. He wanted to place it in his Fourteenth street saloon. When Tom learned the price of the object of art, he reeled and asked the guide foolish questions. The statue is still in Rome.

Last evening the junior eight had a hole about the size of a pumpkin knocked in the bow of their boat by running into the dike about a mile and a half from the clubhouse. This is not the first time this year that the boats have been troubled with this same dike. Several fins have been bent by colliding with the hidden obstruction, and it has only been by the narrowest of margins that accidents similar to the one that occurred last night have been averted. The officials of the boat club will find it cheaper in the end to place a buoy at the danger point. The members of the junior eight had to swim and wade to the shore with their floundering boat.

There are many rumors afloat of trouble in the Tiger camp. Without exception this is the hardest bunch of players to handle in the Ban Johnson league. Before Hughey Jennings took the Tigers into his capable hands there were jealousies, knocking, lack of discipline and even personal encounters among the members of the team. There were cliques, and the members of these cliques knocked each other, and tried to make small of the others' efforts upon the ball field. The result of this discord was that Detroit finished well down the pennant ladder.

The steady losing of Detroit of late is said to be due to the outcropping of the old antagonism of certain members of the team. One of the results of this indifferent playing is the asking of waivers upon Claude Rossman, until the present year considered one of the most consistent first basemen in the American league. Detroit can ill afford to lose games at the pace Connie Mack's Athletics are traveling.

Perhaps fighters don't like to fight before the National Sporting Club of England. Do you know what happened to Sam Langford, after he had put the rollers under Ian Hague? Lord Lonsdale, the proudest peer in all merry old England, monocled and in immaculate evening clothes, jumped into the arena and cordially, not to say enthusiastically grasped the grinning black by his ponderous mitt. Perhaps that won't be some tradition to preserve in the Langford family album! Mr. Langford is now assured of a commanding position in the black society circles of Boston.

The White Sox and the Fitwells will clash this afternoon. After the first meeting of the teams this season Mr. Darby O'Brien ventured the statement that the Sox could play horse with the Fitwells upon any occasion that they saw fit, and that at the first clash of the teams upon an open date the Sox would make what Darwin said our ancestors were of the members of the Fitwell bunch.

After all, the members of the senior eight may conclude to maintain the crew. Just what the crew will decide upon will be known tomorrow evening. It is to be sincerely hoped that the crew will not disband.

FITWELLS VS. THE WHITE SOX

Clothing House Team Is Trying to Get Away With Leaguers.

This afternoon at Athletic park the Fitwells will line up against Al Kuehnow's White Sox.

The men who are chasing the pennant in the Wisconsin-Minnesota league had no snap the last time the two teams met, but they claim they are much stronger now, and will give the Fitwells a trouncing that will keep them away from the lot the rest of the season.

The clothing house players, while not doing much talking, have a quiet think that all the leaguers will do won't hurt their reputation any.

It is a long time since the team has been seen on the local pasture, and the fans are anxious to get a look. There will be a number of new faces in the lineup, and to see what they have will interest the local enthusiasts.

Marion will probably be on the embankment for the Sox, and Earl Cummings will perform for Jacobs' crew.

There is a lot of interest in the game, for it will probably be the last one played between the two teams this year.

OLD GRADS MEET IN CINCINNATI

Harvard Men Will Discuss the Athletic Situation.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 28.—The crimson will predominate in Cincinnati today and tomorrow in honor of the meeting here on those days of the Associated Harvard clubs, bringing together, as it will, Harvard graduates from all parts of the country, and including some of the country's most prominent men. The meeting was formally opened in the Sinton hotel at 10 o'clock this morning by Robert J. Cary, president of the associated clubs. All of the thirty-six constituent clubs which form the association, it is believed, will be present at the gathering, which is the thirteenth annual session of the association.

The program for today includes a discussion of Harvard's future policy by Former President Eliot and President Lowell, and a smoker in the evening at the Sinton hotel, where the athletic situation of Harvard will be discussed.

BIG GAIN IN BUILDING

Permits for First Five Months Show Big Increase.

Total Is $300,000 Ahead of Same Period Last Year.

It is expected that building operations in the city of Duluth for the first five months of the year, as represented by permits issued by the building inspector's department, will eclipse the record of the first five months of 1908 by more than $300,000.

If the total this month amounts to $350,000, as is altogether likely, the total for the first five months will be $1,702,786, as compared with $1,060,546 for the same period a year ago. The first four months of 1908 showed a total of $1,052,039, only $8,000 less than the total of $1,060,546 for the first five months of 1908.

So far this year every month has shown a greater total than the same month the preceding year. Last May the total was $592,050, and if that figure is reached this month, the increase for the first five months will be correspondingly large.

The increase comes in all classes of buildings. More private residences, more flats, more apartment houses and more business blocks are being built than was the case a year ago. There is still a fine showing in moderate-priced dwellings, most of them to be occupied by the owners, showing that the common laborer and office employee are imbued with the home-making spirit, and are providing houses for their own use. It is always considered a very encouraging sign for any city when this stage is reached, for it means a steady and permanent growth.

The need for more houses for rental purposes is still felt, and several companies are building to satisfy this need. There is a feeling that rents are rather high in certain portions of the city, where homes for the lower-salaried people are concerned, and a disposition is being shown to build enough dwellings of comparatively small size to get around this difficulty.

Building Inspector Kielley will be in a position to handle next month's business from his new quarters, on the second floor of the city hall. Moving operations were begun yesterday. The building inspector will occupy the room formerly dedicated to the use of the health department, which now has its headquarters in the basement of the city hall, in rooms formerly devoted to the use of the municipal court.

GIRL IS HURT BY LEAP FROM AUTO; MAN TRYING TO CARRY HER AWAY

Chicago, May 28.—A leap from a swiftly moving automobile to escape from a man who was taking her away from home, brought serious injuries to Miss Mary Kirschner of South Chicago.

Miss Kirschner, who is 22 year's old, was found in an unconscious condition near the roadside at East Chicago, Ind., shortly after she had left that town with a man in a touring car. The driver of the car was arrested after a chase in which many citizens of the little town joined the police. He refused to give his name and was locked up.

The girl, upon reviving, said that she had a slight acquaintance with her captor. She had met him at a dance two years ago, she said. Last night as she was walking home he drove up in his machine and offered to carry her. She accepted, but when the place was reached where she wanted to get out, she told the police, the man put on more speed and made for the open country.

She says she insisted on getting out and the car went faster as a result.

Just outside of the town, after the car had passed several groups of men who heard the girl scream, Miss Kirschner tried to jump out. The man tried to hold her, she said, but only succeeded in tripping her so that she fell on her face in the road.

The driver is said to have put on his highest speed and left the girl. Several men who had seen the struggle jumped into wagons and buggies and followed the machine. The car became stranded in a sand road in a few minutes and the driver was captured. The police who came up had trouble in guarding the man from injury.

Miss Kirschner said she could not remember his name.

ON THE IRON RANGES

GRANT AVENUE IS BEING IMPROVED

Main Thoroughfare of Eveleth Witnessing Some Changes.

Eveleth, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grant avenue the main street, presents a lively scene as several of the buildings are bing remodeled. There will be some moving done on that street shortly.

The Campbell block on the corner of Jones street and Grant avenue is being remodeled. On two sides brick walls are being put up and both store fronts on the first floor have been removed. The building, formerly occupied by the Fair store, is also being fixed over. It is understood that the Virginia Brewing company has a lease on the place. Shandelin Bros. at the corner of Grant and Monroe are having their store front changed from a one window to a two window exterior. Several bad places in the cement sidewalks are being fixed over. The Oakman building at the end of Grant is now remodeled and has an almost new second story of brick.

M. Feldman is preparing to move his two-story building, three blocks to Hayes street. Mulligan's cigar factory, which formerly occupied the site, has been moved to Douglas avenue. A new brick building, one-story high, will be built where the Feldman store now is, and will be used as a department store by Greenblatt of Hibbing. Men are already excavating for a cellar the whole length of the building. Solomon Nay is digging a cellar under several of his buildings on the main street and something in the building line is going on all over town at the present time.

SURROUND MINE BY BARBED WIRE

Fayal Property at Eveleth Being Fenced to Keep Trespassers Out.

Eveleth, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fayal mine property, which lies along the Fayal road and on the east side of the Iron Range forest, is being fenced to keep cattle and trespassers off the ground.

A four-foot barbed wire fence is being put up, and every one having anything on the ground that doesn't belong there has been notified to remove it. One party has thirty cords of wood piled on the Fayal property that he has to move away and others are in the same fix. Those living on the other side of the Fayal road have been making use of the Fayal property for storage purposes, and that is probably the reason the ground is being fenced in. Another reason is that there are many holes on the land, which make it dangerous.

ACCUSED MAN IS PROBABLY INSANE

Hibbing Switchman Is Alleged to Have Abused Young Boy.

Hibbing, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with taking liberties with a 10-year-old boy Jesse McCoy, a switchman at the Mitchell yards, has been arrested and will be given a hearing.

His companions are of the opinion the accused is insane and if this develops he will probably be committed to an asylum.

E. L. Heimer, chief engineer of the Oliver Iron Mining company for the Hibbing district, has been promoted to the position of chief engineer in the operating department of the Oliver Iron Mining company with headquarters in the general offices at Duluth. Mr Heimer will leave for Duluth to assume his new duties next Tuesday.

The opening of a series of five games of baseball with the Keystones of Minneapolis, has been postponed to next Saturday afternoon. The local team is being strengthened and expects to make a good showing against the crack Minneapolis aggregation.

PAUL ANTILLA DEAD.

Prominent Finnish Resident of Eveleth Victim of Pneumonia.

Eveleth, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Paul Antilla, a prominent Finn, died late last night at the Mine hospital after a short illness from pneumonia. The deceased has been suffering also from a broken leg. He was 49 years old and unmarried. The funeral will be held Sunday from the Finnish Lutheran church.

VIRGINIA COMMENCEMENT.

It Will Be Held in Roosevelt Auditorium Wednesday, June 16.

Virginia, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The commencement exercises of the Virginia high school will be held in the Roosevelt auditorium on the evening of Wednesday, June 16. Subjects have been assigned to the seventeen seniors and there will also be a number of musical numbers on the program.

The class play, "Saratoga," will be given on the evening of June 4, and on the same evening the annual exhibit of school work will open in the auditorium, to continue until the close of school, June 18.

The manual training and domestic science departments will have large and comprehensive exhibits of the year's work and each student of the schools will have a display of his work in all subjects.

In addition, one of the Horace K. Turner art exhibits has been received and it will occupy a place on the stage of the auditorium.

IMPERSONATED OFFICER.

Mountain Iron Man Has Been Held to the Grand Jury.

Virginia, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lawrence Lafferty was bound over to the July grand jury of the range district court by Justice Rowe at Mountain Iron yesterday afternoon on a charge of robbery in the third degree.

Lafferty was accused of having impersonated an officer for the purpose of enticing Phil Conklin in the rear of a saloon at Mountain Iron. It is said he then relieved Conklin of $22 in money. He pleaded not guilty, but at the preliminary hearing sufficient evidence was developed to warrant holding him to the grand jury.

HIBBING VS. VIRGINIA.

Respective High School Ball Nines Play at Virginia Saturday.

Virginia, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia and Hibbing high school baseball teams will meet at Roosevelt park tomorrow.

Hibbing has won one game from Virginia this year, but the Virginia boys are out to win back the honors. The game will be the first on the open field, into which the baseball park has been converted by the destruction of the fence and stands. The fence and stands were removed this week by order of the school board and the new high school building will be erected on the lot on which the best ball team the range has ever seen played last year.

RELATIVES AT ESCANABA.

Lawrence Coran Dies at Nashwauk From Attack of Pneumonia.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lawrence Coran died Thursday afternoon of asthma. The deceased was about 42 years of age. His identification was established by letters found in his possession. Mr. Coran had an uncle at Escanaba, Mich. The body was taken to Tweadt's undertaking parlors to await further instructions from his relatives.

CALUMET FIRE LOSS.

Estimated That About $30,500 in Property Was Destroyed.

Calumet, Mich., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A revised estimate of the loss by Tuesday's fire is $30,500. The fire started in the interior of the building occupied by Flenberg & Rose as a clothing store and the strong wind blowing at the time, with no means at hand to fight the flames, left the entire street at the mercy of the fire fiend. The total insurance carried on the destroyed buildings household goods and merchandise was $11,500.

The buildings and contents burned follow:

Max Crowl, saloon and residence; loss, $5,000 insurance, $1,500.

Flenberg & Rose, clothing; loss, $2,000; no insurance.

Halvor Aas, saloon and residence; loss, $8,000; insurance, $2,000.

Gibb & McGuire, saloon and residence; loss, $4,000; insurance, $2,000.

Oscar Peterson, saloon; loss, $2,500; insurance, $750.

Lottie Pfeuf, building; loss, $2,000; insurance unknown; occupied by Lieberman & Seigel clothing; loss, $2,000; no insurance.

Olsen & Zoman two-story building just completed and stocked with clothing; loss, $10,000; insurance, $7,250.

EVELETH ELKS BUSY.

Working to Make Saturday's Big Event Success.

Eveleth, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Elks have secured the Monitor hall for their lodge institution initiations tomorrow.

The Scandinavian lodge, who own the hall and who expect their national president, Charles Samuelson of Cloquet, Saturday night had planned to use the hall, but they have consented to allow the Elks to use the hall and they will use the Vail hall, as their entertainment will be social and will have no lodge exercises.

The Elks are very busy making the final arrangements for the institution tomorrow night and District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler William Regan of Minneapolis is expected today to help the local Elks have things ready for the institution. Reports are coming in today as to the number of Elks to be present so that they can be attended to at the banquet in the evening at the Globe hotel. The merchants have begun today to decorate their places of business with bunting and United States flags. Everyone is getting ready to take care of a large crowd.

WILL EXAMINE ROAD.

County Commissioners to Drive From Eveleth to Duluth.

Eveleth, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county commissioners will meet here Saturday evening, June 5, and the next day will drive over the Miller Trunk road to Duluth, about seventy-five miles. The party will leave Eveleth early Sunday morning and expects to be in Duluth by 11 o'clock Sunday night, if the road is good.

NASHWAUK BRIEFS.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ladies gave a pie social in the new Tarro building on Main street Thursday evening. The proceeds went toward the new Methodist church, which is now under construction.

The Royal Neighbors and Modern Woodmen lodges gave a dance at the village hall Wednesday evening. Shurman's orchestra furnished music for the occasion. A large crowd enjoyed the evening.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE DONE AROUND NASHWAUK.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires are destroying forests and brush in this vicinity. Owing to a violent east wind, which blew steadily yesterday, the fire spread in all directions. The firemen were called out Monday noon. They ran a line of hose to the further end of Third street to the wood yards owned by John Ericson, which were endangered for a time. The Wisconsin Steel company suffered the loss of a dry house, valued at $700. Other small wooden structures on the outskirts of the village were destroyed.

While a family was making preparations to move into a residence at the La Rue location yesterday a spark from a bonfire that had been made to burn some rubbish caught the building on fire, and by the time men could arrive had attained such headway that it was impossible to save the building.

PRETTY AURORA WEDDING.

Frank Tillmans and Miss Mae Revoir Married Thursday Afternoon.

Aurora, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Catholic manse at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The contracting parties were Miss Lillian Mae Revoir, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Revoir of Chippewa Falls, Wis., and Frank Tillmans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tillmans of Aurora. Rev. Father Piernat officiated.

The wedding was witnessed only by the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride wore green messline silk trimmed with real lace. Miss Georgia Revoir, sister of the bride, and Miss Rose Tillmans, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids and wore pongee silk dresses.

The young couple left on the afternoon train for Minneapolis and other points, and will be at home to their many friends after July 1 on Second avenue east.

The bride is a young woman of many graces and very popular.

The groom belongs to one of the best families, and by those who know him in this village he is considered one of the village's substantial young men.

GEORGIA TRAINS START

work and smiled good naturedly. A few comments were overheard from the crowd that he was running a risk.

The engineers on all the trains today were the regular men who stopped work last Saturday. They returned to work with the assurance from Assistant Chief Burgess of the Order of Locomotive Engineers, that they would be protected. The mail car was a combination, half mail and half baggage, but the baggage compartment was heaped with mail sacks.

The train made only a little over seven miles in its first hour's run, owing to a stop at Decatur, the first town east of Atlanta, where newspaper men who had started to make the trip in the baggage car were put off. There was a long conference with officials of the road over their presence and it was finally decided they were passengers and that the road had no right to carry passengers.

Train Leaves Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., May 28.—With a regular crew, including a negro fireman, the first train over the Georgia railroad since Saturday last left Augusta at 7:45 this morning. The train consisted of mail cars only, manned by negro mail clerks. No demonstration marked the departure.

Reports from Harlem, Booneville and Thomson say the train passed through these places without incident.

NO WORD FROM JURY

McSurely directed that no more visitors be allowed to approach Madden in the courtroom. Grand jury investigation of the activities of several men while the jury was being selected has been promised by the state's attorney.

The labor men were indicted for thirteen separate offenses. The proceedings against them started after a tie-up at the New Chicago & Northwestern station. Contractors complained that the strike, like many previous, was merely an attempt to extort money. The trial centered around a strike which was called at the plant of the Joseph Klicka company, picture frame manufacturers, last September. The strike, the state charged, was not settled until George S. Andres, an engineer, who had charge of the construction work at the plant, paid Madden $1,000 in a downtown saloon. Andres testified that he got the money from Klicka.

For more than thirteen years Madden has been president of the Associated Building Trades, an organization composed of 200 unions. The stamp fitters' union elected him president for life. At one time Madden was in control of the Chicago Federation of Labor, but he was put down and his union was expelled from membership after a series of rough meetings, in one of which Mike Donnolly, former president of the butcher workmen, was slugged so severely that he never has recovered.

The Madden jury was composed of two union and ten non-union men.

The state's attorney, in closing for the state yesterday, called attention to the importance of the case, declaring that he was fighting not against organized labor, but for it, to cut out a cancer in the form of corrupt practices by trusted leaders.

"Thousands of respectable union men in this country are behind me in this fight," he declared. "The wives and children who have felt the bitter pangs of hunger because of Madden's grafting strikes are with the prosecution."

The conviction of the defendants, he declared, would be a great lesson to all "grafters" hiding under the protection and respectability of trades unionism.

The labor leaders showed little interest in what was being said against them. Madden pillowed his head on a newspaper laid over the back of his chair and closed his eyes for long periods during the address, opening the lids when the orator's voice rose to an unusual pitch of vehemence.

Attorney Brady, for the defense, preceded Mr. Wayman. Mr. Brady said that the evidence showed conclusively that Emil Klicka, president of the Joseph Klicka company, had undoubtedly paid $1,000 to George S. Andres to settle the strike on the Klicka plant, but that the money never reached Madden.

Andres, when on the witness stand, testified that he dropped the money on a desk in a private room, in which he and Madden were alone. The next day, he said, the strike was called off.

Defense witnesses stated that Andres had called upon Madden, but that no money changed hands, and that Madden did not even enter the office in which Andres said the $1,000 was handed over.

DEATH'S SUMMONS COMES TO CHIEF JOHN T. BLACK

ary, but elected to remain in this city, where he has made his home for over fifteen years.

Death Sudden.

The death of the chief came rather suddenly. He was at his office at headquarters last Sunday, but along towards evening complained of feeling ill, and Sunday night was very sick. It is believed that he sustained a rupture of the appendix about a year ago, when, in making a run to a fire, his horse collided with a team and he was thrown from the buggy. This is the third attack of appendicitis since the accident.

Monday morning the health of the chief seemed greatly improved, but along towards night he was again worse and was removed to St. Luke's hospital, where he was operated upon Tuesday. It is understood that he was an hour on the operating table. The fact of his being fleshy made the operation the more difficult.

The appendix was removed, and it was believed that the chief would recover his health and be able to leave the hospital within a short time. He rested easily through Tuesday night, but Wednesday did not show the expected improvement. Septic poisoning set in and Wednesday night there was a turn for the worse. Yesterday the patient was very ill, but his condition was hardly regarded as critical. It was still believed he would recover. Last night, however, there was another turn for the worse, and early this morning it was announced that there was no chance of the chief living. Dr. Braden was the attending physician.

A telegram was last evening sent to Mrs. George Knowles of Milwaukee, sister of Mr. Black, apprising her of his condition, and, with her husband, she boarded the next train for Duluth, arriving here at 11:15 o'clock this morning, twenty minutes after her brother's death. A telegram was also sent to his brother, Abe Black of Buffalo, and the latter is now on his way to Duluth. He will arrive in time for the funeral.

All other immediate relatives of the deceased were present at his bedside at the time of death. They were: Mrs James G. Vivian, Mrs. W. A. Abbett, Mrs. T. P. Bradley and Miss Sadie Black, all daughters, who reside in Duluth; Mrs. Black, Isaac Black, a son, residing in Bemidji, Minn., and the second son, John T. Black, Jr., a resident of Duluth. All the children are grown. The chief's mother died last year and his father died two years ago.

Was Chief at St. Paul.

Chief Black had been a fireman for the past thirty-three years. He was born in Montreal fifty-nine years ago, and shortly after he was of age his parents moved to Milwaukee, Wis. Mr. Black began his career as fireman at the age of 26 years. Beginning as common fireman, faithful and intelligent work soon won him promotion, and when he quit the Milwaukee department he held the position of assistant chief. He went from Milwaukee to St. Paul as assistant chief in the latter department, at an increased salary, and his record in the Saintly City was a brilliant one. From assistant he was promoted to the position of chief.

He left the St. Paul department to come to Duluth as chief, and took up the duties of the latter office on Oct. 15, 1894. He has filled the position ever since then, and his record here has been an excellent one. Mr. Black was frequently mentioned in journals dealing with fire departments, always in the most complimentary terms, and was generally regarded as one of the most efficient and capable chiefs in the United States.

He knew fire fighting from A to Z. A natural leader, he kept the local fire department thoroughly systematized, with results seldom equalled in other cities of the country. He was strict as to discipline, believing that was the only method of getting out the best there was in his men, but he was generally liked and respected by the men under him. He never asked them to enter a dangerous place which he himself would not enter, and was always brave and courageous in fighting fire, but at the same time cool and constantly on the alert to protect his men, and at the same time put up the most effective fight possible against the flames.

Flags At Half Mast.

Mayor Haven, immediately upon the news of Chief Black's death, ordered the flags on the fire halls of the city, and on the city hall, placed at half-mast. The flag at hall No. 3 was purchased only a few days ago. At the time it was bought, Chief Black advised the purchasers to get a "good strong one, that will not tray out in the breeze." It is rather a curious fact that the first time the flag is raised it should be to place it at half-mast, marking the death of the chief, who gave this advice concerning its purchase.

Many Narrow Escapes.

In his long fire-fighting experience, the chief had several narrow escapes from death. One story is told of such an escape in St. Paul. There was a big fire in an office building, and the chief, as usual, was in the thick of the smoke, directing the fight being waged against the flames.

While on the third floor, plunging about through the smoke and directing operations, he suddenly stepped into the elevator shaft, the guard of which had burned away, and fell three stories, to the ground floor.

His men rushed down the stairs, expecting to pick up their chief's dead body at the bottom of the shaft, but were filled with surprise at seeing him sitting on top of the elevator. The wire netting across the top had in a measure broken the force of his fall. He was ruefully rubbing his shoulder.

"By George, boys, that jarred my back," he said, with a smile, and climbed down to again assume command of the fire-fighting brigade.

Papermaker Kills Self.

Chicago, May 28.—Edward P. Taylor, a papermaker of Wausau, Wis., shot and killed himself in a vacant lot here yesterday. Taylor was 45 years old and came here several days ago. His failure to obtain employment is said to have led to his act.

Senator Burton Offers Amendment to the Tariff Bill.

Payne Measure Provides Duty of One Cent Per Pound.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU

[illegible] Kaperaotey

Washington, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Burton of Ohio, today introduced an amendment to the tariff bill which provides for the placing of zinc ore and calamine on the free list. The Payne bill provides a duty of 1 cent per pound on zinc ore and calamine and in that conception and calamine, and in that conception of the duty to be levied on these products the Aldrich committee agreed.

That the outrages of the night riders in Kentucky and Tennessee resulted from the oppression of the American Tobacco company and that unless the internal revenue tax on leaf tobacco in the hand is repealed these outrages will occur again, was the declaration of Senator Bradley of Kentucky today in urging the adoption of his amendment to the senate bill.

This amendment proposes to restore in the tariff bill the house provision for the free sale of leaf tobacco by the farmer, which was stricken out by the finance committee of the senate. After reviewing the growth of the American Tobacco company, Mr. Bradley said that, not content, with destroying all competition in the United States, this concern drove the Imperial Tobacco company of Great Britain, its chief competitor, to a compromise and obtained an agreement by which the Imperial yielded up all competition in the United States.

"France, Austria, Italy, Portugal and other countries each meanwhile decreed that the government would buy and import tobacco as a business, the profit going into the coffers of the government, under what is known as the Regie system," said Mr. Bradley. "The American Tobacco company, seeing the danger in this direction, entered into a conspiracy with the Regie agents, by which the territory should be and was, divided, all agreeing to pay the same fixed price, and alloting the territory into well defined districts, so that there would be no conflict of interests.'

Thus the producers found themselves powerless and hemmed in on every side, continued Bradley, and after appealing to congress without effect, as a last resort, organized the pooling societies, which resulted in a saturnalia of crime in Kentucky and Tennessee. While denouncing the night riders' outrages, Bradley declared that the tobacco leaf growers were so sorely pressed that they were forced to combine to protect themselves, and that the crimes which resulted were due to the trust's oppression.

NAVY SCANDAL IS INCREASING

Defective Plates on the French Submarines Endangered Lives.

Paris, May 28.—As investigations continued, scandals in the matter of naval supplies and construction appear more and more serious. Additional instances of defective material furnished by contractors have been discovered, and it has been learned that under the administrations of M. Pelletan and M. Thomson bribes were offered inspectors. Defective plates on submarines endangered the lives of the crews on these vessels.

The Delmass commission has asked the prosecution of M. Thomson, former minister of marine, and M. Dupont, Thomson's private secretary.

It is charged that Thomson and Dupont, when they left the ministry, withdrew official reports concerning cases of bribery.

CHURCH VS. THE STATE

Presbyterians Criticise Tennessee Courts in Unsparing Terms.

Action in Setting Aside Religious Merger Is Condemned.

Denver, Colo., May 28.—The church when the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in effect condemned the action of the state courts of Tennessee in setting aside the opinion of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America with the Cumberland Presbyterian church.

The assembly's criticism of the courts, which was unsparing, was pressed on a report of the committee on church cooperation. The report was written by William Henry Roberts, D.D. LL. D. the stated clerk of the assembly, chairman of the committee, and for more than twenty-five years regarded as the law giver of the assembly.

Prefer Calvinistic View.

It sets out in effect that of the three established doctrines with respect to the relation of church and state, they being the Roman Catholic, whereby the report said, the church is superior to state the theory recognized in England and some parts of the United States that the state is superior to the church; and the Calvinistic, wherein church and state possess distinct jurisdictions, the latter is the preferable view, and will be held to by the Presbyterians. The report rebukes the Tennessee courts for presuming to pass judgment upon matters of church doctrine. It recognizes the right of courts to pass upon disputes concerning property, but where a religious belief is concerned the report contended that this shall be adjudicated in the church councils. The assembly also reaffirmed the recommendations of the assembly of 1906 at which the union of churches was effected. The report of the committee was based on legal action begun by anti-consolidation members of the Cumberland church wherein they were supported by the Tennessee courts and given possession of a number of valuable churches which otherwise would have become the property of the United church. It was the contention in these suits that the union forced members of the Cumberland church to recognize doctrine different from the one which they had originally subscribed.

Rescinds Former Action.

The assembly today rescinded the action of the last assembly making it imperative that the retiring moderator be ex-officio chairman of the committee on bills and overtures. He will be chairman only of the executive committee.

A resolution was also adopted making it illegal for a commissioner to serve on both judicial and executive branches of the assembly at the same time.

The assembly heard short addresses by Bishop H. W. Warren of Colorado, and Bishop M. C. McDowell of Chicago, of the Methodist Episcopal church.

PREPARE TO COMBAT STREET CAR STRIKERS.

Evansville, Ind., May 28.—Preparations are being made with all possible haste by the Evansville & Southern Indiana Traction company to combat the strike of street car men which now seems inevitable, tomorrow morning.

On all cars today double shifts of strikebreakers are riding to become acquainted with the streets and crossings.

IS SLAIN OVER PRICE OF DRINKS

"He Has Got Me," Says Victim, Stabbed Eleven Times.

Oakland, Cal., May 28.—In a drunken fury, Dominick Cirmella, an Italian boothblack, stabbed J. C. Burlisson, an English carpenter, eleven times with a pocketknife. Inflicting wounds which resulted in the death of the victim. The cause of the fight, which occurred in a saloon, was a dispute over the payment of drinks.

Cirmella repeatedly plunged the weapon into the body of his opponent, finally stabbing him in the heart.

"Well, he has got me," said the wounded man as he sank into a chair. He died on the way to a hospital. Cirmella was arrested. Burlisson's home was in Shipperton, Eng.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

CLUB WILL OPEN MEMORIAL DAY

Main House Will Accommodate Members on the Holiday.

The main house of the boat club will be open on Memorial day.

Both the branch houses are torn up while repairs and additions are being made by carpenters, and they will not be open until about a week later.

Memorial day the cafe at the main house will start the summer's business. Charles Broberg, the Chicago chef, who will this year have charge of the kitchen, has arrived and is busy getting things ready.

The Spirit Lake branch will open next week with the serving of meals, as has been the custom for the two seasons past.

NELSON SEEMS TO BE THE FAVORITE

Both He and Hyland Finish Training for Big Battle.

San Francisco, Cal., May 28.—"Battling" Nelson of Illinois and Dick Hyland of San Francisco, who will fight for the world's lightweight championship at Coffroth's arena tomorrow afternoon, have ended their training, and both claim to be in splendid condition for the scheduled 45-round battle. The men will weigh in at the ringside, and have agreed to make 133 pounds. The champion is favorite in the betting at odds of 10 to 4. Hyland's followers are supporting him freely. Nelson is reported to have placed several large bets that he will dispose of the Californian before the gong ends the twenty-fifth round. Hyland has let $1,250 at the prevailing prices that he will defeat the champion.

Ed Smith of Oakland will referee, and the contest will begin at 3 p. m.

TOURNAMENT BEING RESUMED

Bowlers Are Breaking Records in New York Meet.

New York, May 28.—With five of the five-men teams having exceeded the 2,800-pin mark and a new national championship record of 2,898 made by the Corinthian teams of this city, the National Bowling tournament was resumed in Madison Square Garden early today.

The first squad of two-men teams was on the alleys this morning. The individual events were to follow. Two squads of five-men teams from Buffalo, Rochester, Ottawa, Ont.; Newark and New York will bowl tonight.

Up to the present New York leads in the five-men team and individual events and Plainfield, N. J., holds premier position in the two-men contest. There will be a special match meeting between five-men teams representing the Knights of Columbus of Buffalo and New York tonight.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS MEET

Will Take Part in the Memorial Day Services.

At a meeting of Camp John G. McEwen, No. 6, United Spanish-American War Veterans, last evening, final arrangements were made for Memorial day observance by the camp. A committee will be sent to the various cemeteries Sunday to place flags on the graves of all soldiers. The Memorial day cemetery service will take place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Oneota cemetery.

The camp will form for parade and be attached to the Seventh division Monday morning at 8 o'clock, assembling under the command of T. P. Simon on West First street, between Third and Fourth avenues. The camp will continue in the parade to the First M. E. church, where it will open ranks for the passage of the G. A. R. Immediately after they will join with the Ladies' auxiliary and proceed to Asbury M. E. church in West Duluth, where the following program will be rendered:

Invocation.....
Vocal solo—"The Sword of Bunker Hill".....
Comrade Charles O. Applehagen.
Recitation—"Lincoln's Gettysburg Address".....
Master William Grason.
Vocal solo—"My Own United States"
Miss Maude Matteson.
Saxophone solo—Selected.....
H. E. Baker.
Oration.....
Rev. Thomas Grice.
Piano solo—Selected.....
Miss Gladys Broadbridge.
Vocal solo—Selected.....
Miss Florence Hyland.
Benediction.

In the afternoon the camp will go to Forest Hill cemetery, where, at 3 o'clock, the services of the United Spanish-American War Veterans' association will take place, conducted by Past Commander J. B. Gibson, assisted by the officers of the camp. The graves will be decorated by the ladies of the auxiliary, salutes being fired by members of the camp.

REFUSE TO FURTHER DISCUSS TAXATION.

Berlin, May 28.—The Liberals and Radicals, as well as the Socialists, have refused to participate further in the finance committee of the reichstag on the matter of new taxation, and today they walked out of the committee room, when the Conservatives joined with the Center party, and the Poles in order to pass an increase in the indirect taxation of tea and coffee. The breach between the parties hitherto forming the majority in the reichstag thus has been widened.

New Summer Draperies Are Here

In making the home beautiful, attractive and in good taste, much is necessary in the correct use of drapery hangings and small household accessories, made of fabrics.

We want you to see the new Colonial Casement Cloth Drapery Fabrics—strikingly unique and very artistic and handsome—also the Antique Linen Crash—the new Silkolines, etc. The finest showing of brand new goods in the city.

COLONIAL CASEMENT CLOTH

This fabric is especially appropriate for carrying out color schemes—Colonial design, it accords with most of the modern ideas of simplicity in design.

Hangs softly and drapes beautifully, does not fade, may be used at windows or where the sun strikes it—it is washable too. The designs are strikingly handsome—it is the ideal drapery material: not expensive, either.

TAFT WILL ATTEND YALE CLUBS' MEETING.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 28.—The fifth annual convention of the Associated Western Yale clubs began today. The convention will be attended tomorrow by President Taft and Secretary of State Knox.

The guests, with the entire convention body, will board a special train for Sewickley, a fashionable suburb, from which point they will be taken in automobiles to the Allegheny Country club. A buffet luncheon, golf, tennis, baseball and other sports will be indulged in. In the evening the party will return to the city for the annual banquet of the Associated Western Yale clubs at the Fort Pitt hotel.

JESTS ON MOTHER-IN-LAW BARRED FROM THE STAGE

Boston, Mass., May 28.—The ancient jest hitting off the mother-in-law, which has done service for innumerable comedians, monologists, and which seems to raise just as many guffaws as it ever did, is doomed on the Keith circuit. Slurs on love and marriage and the home have also been sealed with the emphatic displeasure of B. F. Keith, himself, who has given instructions to the managers of all his theaters throughout the country.

A letter which Mr. Keith received a day or two ago from Rev. Herbert D. Ward of Newton Center, well known author and husband of Elizabeth Phelps, the prominent in the literary world, led directly to the official order barring the use of such jokes on the stages of all the Keith houses.

LOCAL BANKER NOW PRESIDENT

W. J. Hegardt Heads the Eighth District Group at Cloquet Meeting.

Cloquet, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second annual meeting of the Eighth district group, Minnesota Bankers' association was in session in this city yesterday.

The election of officers resulted as follows: W. J. Hegardt, cashier of the American Exchange National Bank of Duluth, president; G. A. Whitman, president of the First National Bank of Eveleth, vice president; J. H. McGilvra, Milaca State bank, secretary and treasurer. Two members were named to the executive committee as follows: Frank L. Cowan, Ely, and C. L. Dixon, Cloquet.

Brief addresses were made by Joseph Chapman, Jr., president Minnesota Bankers' association; L. A. Barnes, Duluth; H. von der Weyer, St. Paul; H. S. McGregor, Duluth; George Welsh, commissioner of immigration; G. A. Whitman, Eveleth, and Charles R. Frost, secretary, Minnesota Bankers' association.

It was decided to appoint a committee to look into the possibility of further developing the Eighth congressional district along agricultural lines.

CLAIMS WALK WAS DEFECTIVE

Duluth Woman Wants $4,800 From City for Injuries.

Claiming that the sidewalk on which she fell in January of this year was old and rotten, Edith Jones wants $4,800 from the city for the injuries alleged to have been sustained. The accident happened on Second avenue east between First and Second street.

She says that the hole in the walk was covered with loose snow, giving it the appearance of being safe. Her ankle, she claims, was sprained and her body badly bruised. Doctors claim that an operation will be necessary as the result of internal injuries.

The case began yesterday afternoon before Judge Dibell.

FARMER SHOOTS SELF GOING TO A CHARIVARI.

Menominee, Mich., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Michael Revilinski, a Little Suamico farmer, was seriously injured last night by the accidental discharge of his shotgun in the woods near his home. Part of the charge blew away one side of his head. He is in a local hospital. He was on his way to a charivari when the accident occurred.

Jail Must be Rebuilt.

Bloomington, Ill., May 28.—It has been discovered that the earthquake of Wednesday so badly damaged the McLean county jail building here that it will have to be rebuilt. An official examination shows cracks in the brick walls into which a man's hand can be inserted.

WEST END

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO MEET

West End Organization Will Discuss the Branch Postoffice.

The petition for the establishment of a carrier branch postoffice in the West end, circulated by a special committee of the West End Commercial club, has been generally signed and will be submitted this evening to the club. The signatures will then be forwarded to the postoffice department to await the final action of the postal authorities.

Besides the matter of establishing a branch postoffice at the West end, several other things of more than passing interest will come up this evening at the meeting. The committee headed by J. W. Preston, appointed at the last meeting to look up a favorable spot for children's playgrounds, will recommend a location tonight.

The Garfield avenue paving matter is resting for the present, as the property owners along the street are taking up the proposition of a sanitary sewer. The matter will be taken up at a future meeting.

The clnb will meet at the office of George M. Jensen, the secretary, at 2031 West First street.

FORMER PASTOR WILL TALK.

Rev. F. O. Kling of Minneapolis Will Be Heard at West End.

A program of musical and literary numbers will be given Monday night at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, under the auspices of the Parthonae society of the church.

Rev. F. O. Kling, former pastor of the church, but now of Minneapolis, will be present, and will be the principal speaker of the evening. A number of patriotic songs and recitations will be rendered in observance of Memorial day.

GIVES MAY FESTIVAL.

Luther Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran Church Has Entertainment.

The Luther Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran church, entertained many of its friends last evening at its annual May festival at the church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street.

Among those who appeared on the program were: Royal Wilson, baritone; Miss Thompson, soprano; Miss Pauline Solum, pianist; Rev. W. Stevers, violinist, and Miss Esther Haggem, reader.

After the program, a supper was served by the young ladies of the guild.

WILL TALK OF PAVING.

Property Owners on Twenty-Ninth Avenue Will Meet.

The question of paving Twenty-ninth avenue west, between Third and Superior streets will be the subject of discussion tonight at the meeting of property owners at the polling place at Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street.

Mayor R. D. Haven and J. W. Preston, president of the board of public works, will be there, as well as the city engineer. Estimates will be submitted and the owners will express their sentiments in regard as to what kind of paving is desired. It is probable that a majority will favor tar macadam.

CLEANED RUGS IN STREET.

Neighbors Protest to Health Authorities Against West End Company.

The health authorities have been called upon to take a hand in a neighborhood dispute between a carpet cleaning company at 1928 Michigan street, and a number of indignant people residing in the immediate vicinity of Twentieth avenue west and Michigan street.

The cause of the trouble is that the rug cleaning company, it is claimed, not having room for all of its apparatus inside of its new quarters to which it recently moved, has done part of the work in the street.

The result was, according to the complaint registered with the health authorities, that dust was blown in everybody's eyes who happened to be in the vicinity. The authorities are looking up the matter today.

GOOD TEMPLARS MEET.

A Good Musical and Literary Program Is Rendered.

A musical and literary program was given last evening in connection with the joint meeting of the Nordstjerna and Morgonstjerna lodges, Independent Order of Good Templars, last evening at Sloan's hall.

The principal speaker for the occasion was Rev. Edward Stromberg, pastor of the First Swedish M. E. church. He told about the good work that could be accomplished by carrying out the plans outlined by the order.

Young People as Hosts.

The Young People's Society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church will entertain this evening at a social held at the church parlors. A program has been arranged and will be held in connection with the event.

Rev. J. A. Stenberg and John Skadberg will speak, and Miss Hauksrud will give a reading. Instrumental and vocal numbers will be given by Signe Fayling, Sidney Morterud, George Johnson and H. Hanson.

Addition to Plant.

As an addition to the plant of Ouellette & Baxter, sash and door manufacturers at Seventeenth avenue west, a large shed is being erected to cost about $2,000. It will be finished next week.

Hero of Kidnaping Home.

Gordon Clayton, the 10-year-old West end boy, who broke into the limelight a few days ago by escaping from a would-be kidnaper at Ashland, has returned with his mother from Ashland. They are at their home, 2011 West First street.

Tuberculosis Victim.

Carrie Pedro, aged 12 years, daughter of Nick Pedro of 133 Eleventh avenue west, died late yesterday of tuberculosis. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from the family residence with interment at Calvary cemetery.

West End Shortrails.

E. Youngquist has returned from a business trip on the range.

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Gafvert are the parents of a baby son, born yesterday.

Gust Trafft has left for Mille Lacs, where he will take a position as boat engineer for the summer.

The interior work in the new Eckman building is well under way, and the structure will be ready for occupancy in about two weeks.

The Beneficent degree of Beta Council No. 2, Modern Samaritans, will entertain Monday evening with a dancing party at Samaritan hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald of 1728 West Second street.

The "Hypnotist" cast of the Second Presbyterian church met last evening for rehearsal. The play promises to be well presented by the young people.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Pedje have returned from their trip to California. Mr. Pedje is much improved in health.

A boy was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Pomeroy of 1918 West Michigan street.

Alfred Martinson of 3821 West Fifth street was convicted, late yesterday, on a statutory charge, before Judge J. D. Ensign, in district court. The court orders him to pay over $377 to Faith Campbell of 3831 West Fifth street, or serve a ninety-day sentence in jail.

THE CARE OF THE TEA KETTLE.

Some people think that because the tea-kettle never contains anything but clean water it need seldom be washed.

Every housewife who lives where water is hard, however, knows how the lime and other "salts" form a coating on the inside. This may be largely prevented, and the outside of the tea-kettle kept free from "soot" and grease, by washing, inside and outside, each morning, with hot water and Gold Dust.

The hard lime and other salts are dissolved by the Gold Dust and the inside of kettle will be kept smooth much longer, if thus cared for. Be sure to rinse thoroughly with hot or warm water to remove all soapy water, then re-fill with cold water for heating.

LARGE DAMAGES ASKED.

Iowa Farmer Sues for Alienation of Wife's Affections.

Marshalltown, Iowa, May 28.—James Grant, a wealthy retired farmer of this city, has filed suit against Robert Baker, former auditor of Appanoose county, charging alienation of his wife's affections, and asking damages in the sum of $25,000.

The action is a sequel to a long-drawn-out divorce case, in which Mrs. Grant sought alimony from her husband. The case was decided Wednesday, when Mrs. Grant's petition was denied.

Mrs. Grant was formerly Miss Fannie Daily of Centerville, and is 35 years old. Her husband is 60. Baker has a family.

Mrs. Patten Secures Divorce.

Philadelphia, May 28. — Incompatibility of temper, caused by differences upon social questions affecting the home, prompted Mrs. Charlotte Kimball Patten to secure a divorce from Dr. Simon Nelson Patten, professor of political economy at the University of Pennsylvania and a noted writer and authority upon sociology. A decree of absolute divorce was granted to Mrs. Patten in Denver, two weeks ago, but the knowledge of it did not become public until yesterday.

LIGHTHOUSE IS NEARLY FINISHED

W. F. Byers, the construction engineer of Detroit, who has charge of the lighthouse construction work at Rock of Ages, was at the Spalding today. Mr. Byers states that all the work at Rock of Ages will be completed within a month.

As soon as the work at Rock of Ages is completed Mr. Byers will take charge of the construction work that is being done at Split Rock. This work will not be completed until some time next year. The fog horn may be completed some time this fall, according to the statement of Mr. Byers, but the construction will run well into next year.

Mr. Byers says the construction of the lighthouse at Split Rock will be much appreciated by captains, as Split Rock has always been a dangerous place in a fog or stormy weather.

STAR WITNESS DISAPPEARS

The case of the state against Mike Doshion, against whom an indictment was returned by the May grand jury charging him with obtaining money in a fraudulent manner, was called this morning before Judge Ensign, but the complaining witness was not to be found.

There were two deputies out looking for him all morning, but the best they could do was to bring back word that he had gone to Montana in search of a job.

Doshion with his pal is accused of working the pocketbook game. One would drop the book and the other would encourage the finder to keep it when the owner would appear and claim it. Upon payment of a certain sum he would agree to keep quiet and not swear out a warrant for the finder's arrest.

Doshion was brought back from St. Paul to answer to the charge and the state has been to considerable expense in framing up the case.

HERMIT NOT DANGEROUS

John Brooks, whose name has spread terror through the district about Hornby station on the Iron Range road, and who was credited with being an armed and desperate wanderer in the trackless pine woods, has turned out to be a harmless and inoffensive settler.

Brooks, in looking over some old newspapers, was surprised to learn that he was demented and wandering about the woods with a gun looking for human game. He went to the sheriff's office and told his story.

"I was out in my garden planting potatoes all the time. If the sheriff or any one else had wanted me they could have found me very easily. Am I crazy? Of course not. The men that I pointed the gun at on that Sunday had stolen my pack sack and I wanted to get it back, that's all. I may have been crazy drunk, but it was the fault of the men that wanted to steal my goods. I never aimed to do any harm to any one or even frighten people. I am attending to my claim—nothing more."

Brooks is a hunter and trapper, and has lived in the vicinity of Hornby for years. It was said that he had acted queerly of late. The sheriff's office was notified and a deputy sent to Hornby. The settlers were in such terror that they refused to show the deputy the way to the cottage and he returned to Duluth.

MARTIN OF MINNEAPOLIS ELECTED BY SWITCHMEN.

Peoria, Ill., May 28.—The biennial convention of the switchmen's union ended today. The work of the last session consisted in electing two members for the grand board of directors, the other three having been chosen yesterday. The board was elected as follows: R. J. Martin, Minneapolis; H. D. Nolan, Cincinnati; M. J. Boyle, Chicago; H. W. Daly, Buffalo, and W. A. Titus, Cleveland.

Following a heated contest in the election of editor of the official organ, the Switchmen's Journal, W. A. Thomson of St. Louis was elected to the office, defeating E. D. Jackson.

TO HAVE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Preliminaries Arranged at Banquet of Ely School Graduates.

Steps were taken last evening, at the annual banquet of the Ely school graduation class and class day exercises, toward the organization of an alumni association. On account of the long program the election of officers was postponed until the first of next week.

The banquet last evening was a huge success. Harry Clark, president of the senior class, was toastmaster, and the toasts were responded to as follows: "The Girls," Hamilton Morgan; "The Boys," Doris Phelps; "Success," Earl Braden; "The Class of 1909," Clayton Burnside; "A Higher Education," Miss M. Jackson.

On the class day program Miss McVeigh gave the class history. The class prophecy was made by Irene McCabe, and the class will by Charles Gundy. Myra Willeson and Jennie Nelson gave readings. Those who furnished the music were Clemans Krantz, Margaret Clark, Zelma Moyer, Elfva Smith and Minnie Abrahamson.

L. A. Barnes, school commissioner, was present and made a few appropriate remarks.

A VIOLATION OF THE GAME LAWS

The trial of Andrew Sieverson of West Duluth, charged with violating the game laws, is on in municipal court today. The taking of testimony was not completed when the noon recess was taken.

It is claimed that Mr. Sieverson shot a sharp-tailed grouse May 5, at Dibell Station. The arrest was caused by Dr. John McKay of Duluth, who says he saw the shooting.

There were three men in the party which killed the bird, and Sieverson's attorney this morning was trying to prove that it was one of the other men who fired the fatal shot. Each man is said to have shot several times.

A DISCUSSION OF GOOD ROADS

A discussion of good roads may be entered into this evening at the regular meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club, now that the Grassy Point bridge matter is practically a closed interest, so far as the influence of the West Duluth business men is concerned.

The bridge matter has been left with Congressman C. B. Miller, who is at Washington ascertaining if any recourse can be taken by which the war department will reconsider its approval of the submitted plans of the bridge.

The urgent need of a better street for heavy traffic between West Duluth and Duluth proper may be taken up. Grand avenue, now used considerably, is in poor shape to accommodate the daily traffic that passes over it, and needs paving, say the property owners.

REMODEL HOTEL.

Old Chicago House Will Again Be Open for Business.

Negotiations were today closed whereby the old Chicago hotel, Fifty-second avenue west and Roosevelt street, will again be reopened under a new management, after being idle for some time past.

The J. J. Frey real estate agency of West Duluth is remodeling the place and equipping it for a good rooming house. Peter Santerre has leased the property and will open the place as soon as the remodeling work is completed.

The Chicago hotel is a three-story structure.

A BIG SUCCESS.

Entertainment at Great Eastern Hall Largely Attended.

The literary entertainment and concert given last evening by the ladies of the Westminster Presbyterian church, at Great Eastern hall, North Central avenue, was attended by a large number and was successful in every detail.

The feature of the program was the college play, "Lucia's Lover," which scored a pronounced hit. The program in full follows:

MAY POLE DANCE.

Novel Feature Introduced at the Memorial Day Exercises.

A May pole dance, prettily done by the children of the lower grades, featured the Memorial day program held this afternoon at the Oneota school. The exercises were held out on the school campus and a splendid program was carried out.

The May pole dance is something new and novel for the West Duluth school children and it met with considerable approval. The children were trained by Miss Mabel Delley of the Oneota faculty. The G. A. R. veterans who spoke this afternoon to the children at the Oneota school were B. N. Smith and M. M. Clarke.

MEN SADDENED.

Firemen Receive With Sorrow News of Chief's Death.

Following the death of Fire Chief John T. Black at St. Luke's hospital this morning, a feeling of gloom was prevalent among the members of West Duluth fire hall No. 8, who were devoted admirers of the head of Duluth's fire department.

The news of his death was received as a surprise to the West Duluth department men, who thought that he would survive the operation.

THE FIRST TRIP.

The Zenith Will Begin Regular Trips Up the River Sunday.

The Zenith, owned and operated by Capt. J. A. Curo, made its initial trip up the river this afternoon, and Capt. Curo says that he will open the season Sunday by excursions to the boat club.

The dock has been repaired this year and a new boathouse has been built. The Zenith has a new 30-horse power Doman engine and makes good time.

ANNUAL BANQUET.

Irving School Alumni Now Have Everything in Readiness.

The annual banquet of the Irving School Alumni association will take place this evening at the school, and none but members and their invited guests of honor, the graduating class of the school, will be present.

E. J. Kenney, assistant city attorney, is a member of the association, and will address the alumni. Miss Maud Wallace is the toastmistress. Rev. A. J. Hoag will give the invocation. The program follows:

President's address of welcome, Thomas J. Doyle; "Graduating Class," Mrs. L. R. Downs; solo, Frank A. George; "The Alumni," Roy G. Drake; piano solo, Miss Ellen Ketchum; "The Boys," Miss Eva L. Ketchum; "The Girls," Edward Holland; baritone solo, Ray W. Abbo; remarks, Principal F. A. Foster; selections, "The Peerless Trio," Messrs. Doyle, Carey and Lauermann.

Trestle Repairs.

Repairs are being made to the trestle on Grand avenue, west of the ore docks, in the vicinity of Thirty-seventh avenue west. The old wooden frame work is being taken out and a gang of men is at work filling in and leveling off the road. Last year a cement culvert was laid under the road at this place.

Longfellow Banquet.

The Longfellow Alumni association will hold a banquet this evening at the school, and a program has been prepared which, it is expected, will be unsurpassed in local school circles this year.

Curtis Silger will be toastmaster. Those who will take part in the musical program are Ragnar Larson and the Misses Pauline Solum Mabel and Florence Melin.

The speakers will be: Miss Adeline Buckley, "A Stronger Alumni"; Julia Carlson, "To the Graduates"; Laura Govett, "The Rules in the School of Life." Clarence Fleischer will also speak, and a response to one of the toasts will be made by a member chosen from the graduating class.

West Duluth Briefs.

H. R. Patterson of Barnum, formerly in business at West Duluth, was here this morning on a business trip.

Watch repairing. Hurst, W. Duluth.

The Oriental Tea company is moving today from its old stand at 305 Central avenue to 5701 Grand avenue.

F. H. Wade returned this afternoon from Solon Springs, Wis., where he has been on a short business trip.

William Ehr, formerly of West Duluth, was here this morning on a few days' visit with friends. Mr. Ehr resides in Ackley, Minn.

Peter De Coster of Green Bay, Wis., was a West Duluth visitor this morning.

Mrs. Charles Anderson will entertain the Girls' Sewing Circle of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church at her home, 110 North Sixty-seventh avenue west, tomorrow afternoon.

For sale—Lots near car line, $200; easy terms. Hewitt, 518 North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

A class of fifteen pupils will be confirmed Sunday morning at the Swedish Elim Lutheran church.

The esquires of the Holy Grail, Merritt Memorial M. E. church, will meet this afternoon at the church in business session. The young men of the church will meet Saturday evening.

Arthur Jacoby and a party of friends, including Henry Gifford of St. Paul and others, took a trip up the river this morning in the "Gee Whiz."

L. A. Barnes returned last evening from Cloquet, where he attended the second annual meting of the Eighth district of the Minnesota Bankers' association, in session there yesterday. Mr. Barnes appeared on the program of speakers. He is vice president of the Western State bank.

The annual banquet of the Fairmount School Alumni association will be held at the school on June 5. A program is being prepared.

The members of the Duluth Industrial high school at West Duluth will have their banquet on Monday evening. Miss Margaret Baudin is president of the class.

INJURIES IMAGINARY

District Court Case Suddenly Ended by Doctor's Testimony.

When asked for an honest opinion of the nature of the injuries of Mrs. Edith Jones, who was suing the city for $4,800 as the result of a fall on a broken sidewalk, Dr. C. W. Taylor this afternoon testified that he thought they were largely imaginary and that he did not believe they were at all serious.

Dr. Taylor was called by Attorney Andrew Nelson, appearing for the plaintiff. Dr. Taylor made his statement on redirect examination, and Attorney Nelson promptly moved for dismissal.

SUPERIOR NEWS

ARRESTED IN COURT ROOM

Officers Released Prisoner and Held One of Witnesses.

Arrested on the charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, while sitting in the courtroom in municipal court yesterday listening to the preliminary hearing given his brother on the same charge, Clyde Brand, aged 17, was yesterday remanded to the county jail in default of $1,000 bail.

The younger brother, Ray, aged 16, was released, as it appeared in the trial that the officers had the wrong Brand in custody. The complainant in the action is Arthur Levanson, who was struck over the head with a club a few weeks ago and whose mind appears now to be a blank.

Witnesses testified that Brand, the elder brother, was seen in the act of striking Levanson.

JOINT EXERCISES.

Blaine and Nelson Dewey Schools Will Graduate Big Class.

The joint graduating exercises of the Blaine and Nelson Dewey high schools this year will be held at the Pilgrim Congregational church on June 17. There are seventy-nine graduates in all. The president of the school board, Louis Hanitch, will present the diplomas.

The baccalaureate sermon to the class will be delivered Sunday, June 13, at the Hammond Avenue Presbyterian church by Rev. L. K. Grimes. The order of events at commencement at the East end school are: June 11, dance at music hall; June 12, class play at music hall; June 15, class day exercises at the school.

The Blaine students will present their class play on June 4 at the Sacred Heart auditorium; June 14, class day exercises at the school; June 11, President Lynch will entertain the class at the Country club.

Negro Club Closed.

The notorious "negro club" at 1412 Third street has been closed again by Sheriff Carlson. The place was conducted by William Bates and was the rendezvous of the negro colony around lower Hammond avenue and Third street.

William Neuman was fatally shot in the club about two years ago by a negro. It is understood that the club had been running for some time before the sheriff closed it up.

Fined for Assault.

Paul Molish of Gordon was fined $25 yesterday in municipal court, having been found guilty of assault. Martin Joke, the complainant, charged Molish with having beaten him.

FIRST MEETING EARLY NEXT WEEK.

A meeting of the newly appointed public affairs committee will be called for the first of next week. At that time the names of members of the committee will be made public. The appointments to the committee are in the hands of the recretary of the club at the present time, but until acceptances have been received from all the appointees, or other appointments can be made to fill in those vacancies caused by the non acceptance of the appointment, the names of the members of the committee will not be made public.

At the meeting called for the first of the week the organization of the committee will be effected and the work before the committee taken up.

There are several important matters pending before the committees on municipal affairs and agriculture. The powder demonstration to be given in Duluth and the St. Louis county exhibit at the Minnesota state fair are two of the matters that will come before the attention of he committee on agriculture.

Long Wait to Get Papers.

After a wait of nearly two years, Walter Barkowsky, a Russian homesteader living on his claim thirty miles north of Tower, was today granted his final citizenship papers in the United States court.

Since September, 1907, he has appeared regularly at the clerk's office in the federal building to explain that he was unable to get the two necessary witnesses. A saloon keeper in Superior was the only man who knew Barkowsky, aside from his neighbors, and he refused to testify for less than $10.

Barkowsky appeared this morning with a broad smile of satisfaction and announced that he had finally secured two witnesses. The papers were issued accordingly.

MARKET IS IRREGULAR

Wheat Is Easier in the Duluth and Minneapolis Markets.

Flax Has a Quiet Session and Prices Decline Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 28.—Wheat was somewhat irregular during a quiet session of the wheat market today. Closing prices here and in Minneapolis were fractionally lower, but Chicago July was firm, at a shade over yesterday. New York was firm and the Southwest and Winnipeg easier.

Lower cables had a weakening effect on the domestic markets and there was considerable selling early. Toward the close, the market gained some strength, but it lasped at the end of the session here.

The Modern Miller this week says:

"Winter wheat conditions are maintained, though the average is considerably lower than a year ago. Contradictory reports come from Kansas but prospects for that state and Nebraska are for yields equal to last year. Cutting has begun in Texas and is expected to start in Tennessee next week."

Argentine shipments of wheat were 1,776,000 bu, against 1,360,000 bu, last week and 2,224,000 bu, a year ago.

Liverpool closed ¼d to 1d lower, Antwerp 1¼c lower, Berlin 1c lower, and Budapest 1c lower.

The May option closed ⅜c lower in Duluth, 1c higher in Chicago, 1⅛c lower in Minneapolis, 1⅜c higher in New York, unchanged in St. Louis and Kansas City, and ¼c lower in Winnipeg. The July option closed ⅜c lower in Duluth and Minneapolis, a shade higher in Chicago, ⅛c higher in New York, ⅛c lower in St. Louis, Kansas City and Winnipeg.

July corn closed ⅜c higher in Chicago and oats ⅛@¼c lower.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The wheat market was easy at the start and values were ⅝d lower. Pressure was the result of the heavy shipments from India this week and expectations of continued liberal shipments from Russia. Further rains were reported in Germany, Hungary and Italy, where needed and European crop advices generally showed an improvement. During the morning, the nearby months advanced under covering by shorts. May and July showing an advance of ⅝@½d, while the distant months responded in a listless way. May shorts were nervous and covered freely and offerings in July were light. At midday the market was irregular and ⅜@¾d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was quiet at the start and ¼d lower, later July advanced ½d on the disappointing Argentine shipments and shorts covered."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 2 against 38 last year, and at Minneapolis 202 against 120 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 204, against 158 last year. Chicago received 20, against 28 last year. Winnipeg received 41, against 54 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 277,000 bu; last year, 374,000 bu. Shipments, 155,000 bu; last year, 236,000. Clearances of wheat and flour were 262,000 bu.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Bullish Enthusiasm Is Now Decidedly on the Wane.

Chicago, May 28.—Bullish enthusiasm in the wheat market was decidedly on the wane during early trading today, and were inclined to sag on selling inspired by more favorable conditions for the new crop both in this country and Europe. Trade during the first part of the session was dull and indications pointed to a quiet termination of the celebrated "deal" in May wheat. News of the day favored the bears, cables being weak, local receipts larger than expected and crop reports from the Southwest more optimistic.

The market opened with prices unchanged to ⅝ higher. May being at $1.32 and July at $1.16¼@1.16½. Later July sold a pto $1.16½@1.16⅝, but weakened again to $1.16⅛, while May sold off to $1.31⅞.

The market rallied toward midday on fresh reports of damage to the Kansas crop, July advancing to $1.17½. At the same time May sold up to $1.33¾. There was a considerable reaction on profit taking, and the market closed about steady, with July a shade higher at $1.16⅝. May was 1c higher at $1.33.

Corn was moderately weak early in the day on scattered sales by commission houses. The selling was based on favorable weather for the new crop. Demand was slack and came mainly from shorts. Local receipts were nearly 100 cars in excess of what had been estimated, and this liberal movement helped to depress the market. May opened ¼c lower at 72⅜c, and sold off to 72 7-8c. July, which opened a shade to ¼c lower at 69@69⅜c to 69¼c, sold at 68⅝c.

The market became stronger later in the day, owing to an improved demand for the cash grain. May advanced to 74⅛c and July to 69¾c. The close was strong, with May up ⅝c to 73⅝c, and July ⅝c higher at 69⅝@69⅜c.

Oats broke sharply at the start on renewed profit-taking, but soon rallied again on covering by shorts. Country traders were credited with numerous sales as a result of additional rains. Prices at the opening were ⅛@⅜c lower, May being at 53c and July at 52½c@53c. Later May advanced to 60c. July for a time held within the opening range.

Provisions were easy at the opening because of the fresh slump in coarse grain, but became firmer on buying by shorts. Prices at the start were a shade to 5c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Bullish Reports of Snow on Kansas Crop Cause Buying.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—The opening was nearly 1c lower than yesterday on bearish domestic and foreign news. The session was very nervous. Bullish reports of snow on the Kansas crop caused some buying and the market advanced. The close of July was ½c higher than the opening and ⅜c lower than yesterday's close. Minneapolis today received 202 cars against 120; Duluth 2 against 38; Winnipeg 41 against 54. September opened $1.09⅜; high, $1.10½; low, $1.09¾; close, $1.09⅝@1.09⅝. July opened $1.29⅝; high, $1.29⅞; low, $1.28⅝; close, $1.29. Cash wheat was inclined to be easier today on account of the heavy local receipts. Millers were the principal buyers and demand was fair. No. 1 northern sold for 1½c to 3c above the July option and No. 2 northern for 1½@2c above. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.32¾@1.32¾; to arrive, $1.32¾@1.33¾. No. 2 northern, $1.30¾@1.31; to arrive, $1.30¾@1.31; No. 3 wheat, $1.28¾@1.29¾. No. 3 yellow corn, 70½@70¾c; No. 3 white oats, 56⅜@56⅝c; No. 3 rye, 83¾@85¾c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,343 tons. There were some contradictory reports today regarding the market. The big local millers report strong demand and far in excess of the supply. Shipments were light and prices steady. Bran in bulk, 24.00@24.50.

Flour was in fair demand again today. There was no new feature to the situation. Orders continued to mostly for split cars and foreign inquiry was light. Shipments were normal and prices held steady. Shipments, 45,588 barrels. First patents, $6.40@6.60; second patents, $6.30@6.50; first clears, $5.05@5.25, second clears, $3.60@3.85.

Flax—Receipts, 4 cars today, against 22; shipments, none. Light offerings made the market inactive. Demand was fair. Prices were quoted 1c above the Duluth July option. Closing price, $1.77¾.

Barley—Receipts, 34 cars, against 26; shipments, 19. The market today sympathized with the weakness in oats. Offerings were heavy and demand was slow. Prices were 1½ to 2¼c lower. Closing range, 70@72c.

NEW RECORD PRICE MADE

Spurt in United States Steel Was Feature of Market.

Stocks Opened With Lively Demand and Closed Quite Active.

New York, May 28.—The stock market opened with a lively demand in force, and large gains resulted here and there with the whole market a fraction higher than last night. Of United States Steel 6,800 shares were sold at the opening at 61⅝ and 61¾, compared with 61¼ last night. The price subsequently rose to 62. Western Maryland advanced 1½, Reading and Interborough-Metropolitan 1, and Brooklyn Rapid Transit and American Malting preferred large fractions.

Very little reflection of the strength displayed by the iron and steel specialities was shown in the railroad list. United States Steel's jump of 1⅛ to 62¾ galvanized the rest of the group into action, and there was widespread demand for stocks of this class, Republic Steel preferred and Virginia Iron rose 5 points, Westinghouse Electric 1¾ and Rock Island, Utah Copper, Bethlehem Steel, Colorado Fuel, United States Pipe preferred and American Beet Sugar.

Prices receded slightly, but the aggressive strength of United States Steel was a sustaining influence. That stock rose to 63¼, a gain of 2. Republic Steel preferred advanced 3¾, American Telephone 2¼, and Corn Products 1. United States Rubber declined 1. Dealings in United States Steel made up most of the market. Bonds were firm.

Business quieted down and there was no feature in the trading. Northwestern and Great Northern ore certificates advanced 1. Union bag preferred lost 1, and National Lead preferred 1½.

The market closed irregular and active. Another spurt in United States Steel carried it to 63⅜, an overnight addition of 3⅛ to its previous record price. The general market continued singularly unresponsive. Northwestern rose 1¼. International preferred 2½, Great Northern ore certificates 2 and Ontario & Western, Erie first preferred, Amalgamated Copper, Railway Steel Spring, International Pump, American Steel foundaries, Peoples Gas and International Paper 1. Wabash preferred declined 1. Kanawha & Michigan certificates sold at a decline of 6 points.

102-103 MANHATTAN BLDG.

Our own wires to the Copper country. Also connections to Eastern Markets.

Ballaklava sold up to $12.25. This stock is very strong around this level.

Zenith Lead & Zinc was a heavy trader at $2.00 today. We look for a good, stiff advance in this issue in a short time.

Carman holds around $1.62 to $1.75.

Copper Queen traded at $1.75 and closed $1.62 bid. Full paid hangs around $8.75 to $9.00. It is the best stock for a permanent investment that we know of. The market on this one will be real swift whenever it starts to move.

We also advise the purchase of the $2.00 paid. It is certainly selling low enough.

If the Scotts are not worth several times what they are selling for, what are some of the others worth?

It takes a real mine to compare with the Butte-Alex Scott.

St. Marys trading strong around 33c to 36c all day. This stock is well taken all over the country and should easily advance to 75c to 80c in a short time.

We have the best curb wire in the country. Our Eastern connections could not be better. We are, therefore, in a position to give you service on all stocks, both listed and unlisted.

LATEST NEWS—Transactions are light, with offerings more free and buyers more scarce. Duluth-Moctezuma is extremely well taken, and looks like the real candy within record time. Shattuck-Arizona reports phenomenally high-grade ore as returns from last shipment, and there is practically no shares offered for sale at any price. Present dullness will be only temporary, and conservative purchases of either Butte-Alex Scott, Calumet & Sonora, Duluth-Moctezuma, Lake Superior & Sonora, Live Oak, San Antonio, Shattuck-Arizona or Zenith when offered at snappy prices will, in our opinion, prove most profitable, with less chance of further decline.
